60.17 “Ānanda, any sons of a good family or daughters of a good family who want to respect, revere, honor, and worship me directly now with flowers, or incense, or garlands, or perfumes, or creams, or powders, or robes, or parasols, or flags, or banners, should all take up this deep perfection of wisdom, bear it in mind, read it aloud, and master it, and having taken it up, borne it in mind, read it aloud, and mastered it, they should respect, should revere, should honor, and should worship this deep perfection of wisdom with flowers, incense, garlands, perfumes, creams, powders, robes, parasols, flags, and banners. Those who respect, revere, honor, and worship the perfection of wisdom also worship me as well, and they worship the past, future, and present lord buddhas too. Ānanda, any sons of a good family or daughters of a good family who foster feelings of veneration, liking, and faith when this deep perfection of wisdom is being explained foster feelings of veneration, liking, faith, and adoration [F.268.b] for past, future, and present lord buddhas too.

60.18 “Ānanda, if you love me, if I am dear to you and you have not given up on me, then, Ānanda, love this deep perfection of wisdom, make it dear and do not give up on it. One way or the other you must not let even just a single line of this deep perfection of wisdom go to waste.

60.19 “Ānanda, I have said much to you concerning the complete instructions for this deep perfection of wisdom, but in short, just as I am your teacher so too is this deep perfection of wisdom your teacher. Therefore, Ānanda, I deliver over to you this perfection of wisdom in an immeasurable delivery. Therefore, Ānanda, I declare to the world with its gods, humans, and asuras that those who have not given up the Buddha, who have not given up the Dharma, who have not given up the Saṅgha, and who have not given up the awakening of the past, future, and present lord buddhas should not give up this deep perfection of wisdom. This is my instruction.

60.20 “Ānanda, any son of a good family or daughter of a good family who takes up this deep perfection of wisdom, bears it in mind, reads it aloud, masters it, and pays proper attention to it; who perfectly reveals it to others in detail with one of many explanations; and who expounds, explains, gives an exposition on, makes known, advances, gives a commentary on, sorts out, and makes clear this deep perfection of wisdom, Ānanda, that son of a good family or daughter of a good family will quickly and fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening and be near the knowledge of all aspects. [F.269.a] And why? Ānanda, it is because the unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening of the lord buddhas has come about from the perfection of wisdom. Ānanda, the unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening of those lord buddhas who were tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas in times gone by has come about from this perfection of wisdom; Ānanda, the unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening of those lord buddhas who will be tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas in times yet to come will come about from this perfection of wisdom; and, Ānanda, the unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening of those lord buddhas who are tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas presently standing in the eastern direction, in the south, west, and north, below and above, and the intermediate directions too, Ānanda, comes about from this perfection of wisdom as well.

60.21 “Therefore, Ānanda, bodhisattva great beings who want to awaken fully to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening should train in these six perfections. And why? Ānanda, it is because these—namely, the six perfections—give birth to bodhisattva great beings.

60.22 “Ānanda, all those bodhisattva great beings who are training in the six perfections will go forth to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Therefore, Ānanda, I deliver over these six perfections in a detailed description. And why? Ānanda, it is because this—namely, [F.269.b] the perfections treasure house—is the treasure house of the Dharma of the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas. It is an inexhaustible treasure house. Ānanda, those lord buddhas teaching the Dharma who are tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas dwelling and maintaining themselves in world systems in the east, south, west, and north, below and above, and in the intermediate directions, they too, Ānanda, teach the Dharma from just this treasure house of the perfections. Ānanda, those lord buddhas who were tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas in times gone by, they too, having trained in just these six perfections, fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening; Ānanda, those lord buddhas who will be tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas in times yet to come, they too will train in just these six perfections, fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and teach the Dharma. And, Ānanda, those śrāvakas of past, future, and present lord buddhas, as many as there are, they too, having trained in just this perfection of wisdom, have entered complete nirvāṇa, will enter complete nirvāṇa, and are entering complete nirvāṇa.

60.23 “Ānanda, were you to teach the Dharma that has to do with the śrāvaka level to persons in the Śrāvaka Vehicle, and were all the beings in a great billionfold world system to actualize the state of a worthy one through that teaching of the Dharma, Ānanda, you still would not have done the work to be done by my śrāvakas. But, [F.270.a] Ānanda, were you for bodhisattva great beings to throw light on just one line of Dharma associated with the perfection of wisdom, that would make you a śrāvaka pleasing to me, and you would have done the work to be done by a śrāvaka.

60.24 “Ānanda, what do you think, were all the beings, as many as there are, in a great billionfold world system to have simultaneously obtained human bodies and to have actualized the state of a worthy one through that earlier teaching of the Dharma, in regard to those bases of meritorious action arisen from giving, those bases of meritorious action arisen from morality, and those bases of meritorious action arisen from meditation of those worthy ones—would there be a lot of those bases of meritorious action?”

“A lot, Lord; a lot, Sugata,” he said.

60.25 “Ānanda,” he continued, “were anyone in the Śrāvaka Vehicle to teach the Dharma associated with the perfection of wisdom to a bodhisattva great being for even just one single day, they would create even more merit than that. Ānanda, let alone they would create more than that in one day, Ānanda, were anyone in the Śrāvaka Vehicle to teach the Dharma associated with the perfection of wisdom to a bodhisattva great being for even half a day; or let alone half a day, Ānanda, for even just a morning; or let alone just a morning, Ānanda, for down to even less than half an hour, or down to half a minute, or a few seconds, or just the time it takes to blink, they still would create even more merit than that, and surpass the wholesome root of all those in the Śrāvaka Vehicle and Pratyekabuddha Vehicle. [F.270.b]

60.26 “Ānanda, were bodhisattva great beings to teach the Dharma associated with the perfection of wisdom to persons in the Bodhisattva Vehicle for even just one single day, or half a day, or a morning, or down to less than half an hour, or down to half a minute, or a few seconds, or just the time it takes to blink, Ānanda, those bodhisattva great beings would surpass the wholesome roots of all those persons in the Śrāvaka Vehicle and Pratyekabuddha Vehicle. And why? It is because of wanting personally to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and to inspire and teach others to take it up, to motivate them, and to cause them to enter into, and establish them in, unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.

60.27 “Thus, Ānanda, because bodhisattva great beings practicing the six perfections, practicing the applications of mindfulness, practicing..., up to the knowledge of path aspects grow from those wholesome roots, it is impossible and there is no chance they will be lacking in what is necessary for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. It is impossible.”

60.28 When this exposition of the perfection of wisdom was being given, the Lord enacted such an enactment of miraculous power in front of the four retinues, gods, humans, nāgas, yakṣas, gandharvas, asuras, garuḍas, kinnaras, and mahoragas that those retinues, because of such an enactment of miraculous power, all beheld the tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha Akṣobhya teaching the Dharma to bodhisattva great beings, with a retinue like a great sea without a ripple, surrounded by a community of monks, at the head of a community of monks, [F.271.a] all worthy ones with outflows dried up, without afflictions, fully controlled, quite freed in their hearts, well freed and wise, thoroughbreds, great bull elephants, with their work done, their task accomplished, with their burden laid down, with their own goal accomplished, with the fetters that bound them to existence broken, and with their hearts well freed by right understanding, in perfect control of their whole mind.

60.29 Then the Lord drew back that miraculous power, and having drawn back that miraculous power, all the four retinues, the persons in the Śrāvaka Vehicle, the persons in the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle, and so on no longer saw the tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha Akṣobhya, and no longer saw the tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha

Akṣobhya's buddhafiield. The buddha and so on, and those communities of monks, no longer appeared within the range of their eye sense-power. And why? The Tathāgata had drawn back the enactment of miraculous power. That is why they no longer saw.

60.30 Then the Lord said to venerable Ānanda, "Ānanda, do you see that buddhafiield of the tathāgata Akṣobhya, that tathāgata Akṣobhya himself, that community of monks, and that community of bodhisattvas?"

60.31 "Lord," he replied, "the buddhafiield of the tathāgata Akṣobhya, that tathāgata Akṣobhya himself, that community of monks, and that community of bodhisattvas are not within the field of vision." [F.271.b]

60.32 "Similarly, Ānanda," he replied, "all dharmas are not within the field of vision. A dharma does not appear to a dharma. A dharma does not see a dharma. Just as the tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha Akṣobhya, those śrāvakas, those persons in the Bodhisattva Vehicle, and that buddhafiield are not within the field of vision, similarly, Ānanda, all dharmas are not within the field of vision either. A dharma does not see a dharma. A dharma does not know all dharmas, because all dharmas are without knowing, without seeing, and incapable of doing anything. And why? Ānanda, it is because all dharmas are without movement and ungraspable based on the fact that they have no essential nature; being without movement and ungraspable,<sup>622</sup> Ānanda, all dharmas are inconceivable, and, Ānanda, like a person conjured up by magic, all dharmas are without experience.

60.33 "Ānanda, bodhisattva great beings practicing like that are practicing the perfection of wisdom and do not settle down on any dharma at all. Ānanda, bodhisattva great beings training like that train in the perfection of wisdom, and, Ānanda, bodhisattva great beings who want to reach all the perfections should train in the perfection of wisdom too. Such a training is most excellent, foremost, best, superb, sublime, unsurpassed, and unrivaled, for the benefit of the whole world, for the happiness of the whole world, a protector of beings without a protector, endorsed by the buddhas and extolled by the buddhas. While remaining in it, even were the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly [F.272.a] complete buddhas to raise up this great billionfold world system with their right hand and place it down again it would not occur to those beings that this great billionfold world system had been raised up or placed down. And why? Ānanda, it is because, having trained in this perfection of wisdom, an insight has arisen in the lord buddhas into knowledge free from attachment to past, future, and present dharmas. Ānanda, of all trainings that exist, as many as there are, this perfection of wisdom training is the highest, most excellent, foremost, best, superb, sublime, unsurpassed, and unrivaled.

60.34 “Ānanda, to think that you can get the measure or limit of the perfection of wisdom is simply to think that you can get the measure or limit of space. And why? Ānanda, it is because the perfection of wisdom is immeasurable. Ānanda, I do not speak about the measure of the perfection of wisdom. You can get the measure of a collection of letters, a collection of stems, and a collection of inflected words, but you cannot get the measure of the perfection of wisdom.”

60.35 The Lord having said this, venerable Ānanda asked him, “Why is it that the perfection of wisdom is without measure and cannot be given a size?”

60.36 “Ānanda,” replied the Lord, “the perfection of wisdom is immeasurable because it is inexhaustible. Ānanda, the perfection of wisdom is immeasurable because it is isolated. Ānanda, those tathāgatas, [F.272.b] worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas who appeared in times gone by were generated from just this perfection of wisdom, but the perfection of wisdom is still not exhausted. Ānanda, those tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas who will come about in times yet to come will be generated from just this perfection of wisdom, but the perfection of wisdom will still not be exhausted. And those present tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas presently dwelling and maintaining themselves in world systems in the ten directions—those lord buddhas too are generated from just this perfection of wisdom, but the perfection of wisdom still has not been exhausted, will not be exhausted, and is not exhausted. And why? Ānanda, it is because accepting that the perfection of wisdom can be exhausted is simply to accept that space can be exhausted, but the perfection of wisdom has not been exhausted, will not be exhausted, and is not exhausted. Connect this in the same way with the perfection of concentration, up to the perfection of giving has not been exhausted, will not be exhausted, and is not exhausted, and connect this in the same way with each, up to the knowledge of all aspects has not been exhausted, will not be exhausted, and is not exhausted, because those dharmas have no production, and dharmas that have no production have never come to an end.”

60.37 Thereupon the Lord extended his tongue and, having covered the entire circle of his face with his tongue, said to venerable Ānanda, “Ānanda, what do you think, would one with such a tongue speak untruthfully, speak falsely?”

“No, Lord; no, [F.273.a] Sugata,” said Ānanda.

60.38 “So then, Ānanda,” continued the Lord, “reveal this perfection of wisdom to the four retinues in detail. Teach it, establish it, settle it, sort it out, make it clear, and illuminate it. Ānanda, all the dharmas in which persons in the Śrāvaka Vehicle, in the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle, and in the Bodhisattva

Vehicle should train are revealed in detail in just this deep perfection of wisdom, and if they train in them as they have been taught they will each stand at their own level. Ānanda, this deep perfection of wisdom is the entrance into all letters, and the entrance into all for which there are no letters. Ānanda, this deep perfection of wisdom is the gateway to all the dhāraṇīs—the dhāraṇī gateways in which bodhisattva great beings should train. Bodhisattva great beings who take up those dhāraṇīs obtain all the types of confidence giving a readiness to speak, and the detailed and thorough knowledges.

60.39      “Ānanda, I have taught that this deep perfection of wisdom is the inexhaustible treasure house of the good Dharma of the past, future, and present lord buddhas. Therefore, Ānanda, you should believe and know that whoever will take up, bear in mind, read aloud, and master this deep perfection of wisdom will have taken up the awakening of the past, future, and present lord buddhas. Ānanda, I have taught that this deep perfection of wisdom is the dhāraṇī. If you take up this perfection of wisdom dhāraṇī you will take possession of all dharmas.”

60.40      This was the sixtieth chapter, “Entrusting,” [F.273.b] of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.” [B43]

61.

CHAPTER 61: INEXHAUSTIBLE

- 61.1 Then it occurred to venerable Subhūti to think, “Ah! This awakening of the tathāgatas is deep, so without a doubt I am going to have to question the Tathāgata.” Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, is this perfection of wisdom not exhausted?”<sup>623</sup>
- 61.2 “Subhūti,” he replied, “because space is inexhaustible<sup>624</sup> the perfection of wisdom is not exhausted.”
- 61.3 “Lord, how are bodhisattva great beings to accomplish the perfection of wisdom?”<sup>625</sup> he asked.
- 61.4 “Subhūti,” he replied, “because form is inexhaustible they will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Subhūti, because feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are inexhaustible they will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Subhūti, because the perfection of giving is inexhaustible they will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Connect this in the same way with each, up to Subhūti, because the knowledge of all aspects is inexhaustible they will accomplish the perfection of wisdom.
- 61.5 “Through form and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through feeling and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through perception and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through volitional factors and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish [F.274.a] the perfection of wisdom. Through consciousness and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through the aggregates and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Connect this in the same way with through the constituents and space being inexhaustible, and through the sense fields and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom.

61.6 “Through dependent origination and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through ignorance and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through volitional factors and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through consciousness and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through name and form and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through the six sense fields and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through contact and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through feeling and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva [F.274.b] great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through craving and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through appropriation and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through existence and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through birth and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom. Through old age, death, pain, lamentation, suffering, depression, and grief and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings will accomplish the perfection of wisdom.

61.7 “Subhūti, this is how bodhisattva great beings should accomplish the perfection of wisdom, and this, Subhūti, is the bodhisattva great beings’ insight into dependent origination and insight into avoiding a beginning and an end. Such insight into dependent origination is the distinctive attribute of bodhisattva great beings seated at the site of awakening, and with such insight into dependent origination they will reach the knowledge of all aspects. Subhūti, any bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom by way of this space-like inexhaustible accomplishment have insight into dependent origination and will not stand on the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level. They will stand [F.275.a] in unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. When any son of a good family or daughter of a good family in the Bodhisattva Vehicle turns back, they turn back on account of not having resorted to paying attention to the perfection of wisdom. Subhūti, they do not understand how bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom by way of this space-like inexhaustible accomplishment get insight into dependent origination and accomplishment. Subhūti, those persons in the Bodhisattva Vehicle who will turn back from unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening will turn back on account of not having resorted to this skill in means. Subhūti, those bodhisattva great beings who are irreversible from unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening are irreversible from unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening thanks to this perfection of wisdom because of skillful means. Therefore, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should get insight into dependent origination and accomplishment through the space-like inexhaustible accomplishment.

61.8 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings with such insight into dependent origination do not see any causeless phenomenon being produced at all, do not view any ceasing permanent phenomenon at all, do not view any phenomenon as a self at all, and do not view any phenomenon at all as a being, a living being, a creature, one born of Manu, a child of Manu, one who lives, a person, one who does, one who makes someone else do, a motivator, one who motivates, one who feels, one who makes someone else feel, one who knows, one who sees, or as permanent, impermanent, suffering, [F.275.b] happiness, self, selfless, calm, or not calm. Subhūti, that is how bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should have insight into dependent origination. Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom they do not view form as permanent or impermanent, as happiness or suffering, as self or no self, or as calm or not calm. Connect this in the same way with each, up to they do not view the knowledge of all aspects as permanent or impermanent, as happiness or suffering, as self or no self, or as calm or not calm.

61.9 “Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, by practicing the perfection of wisdom they do not at that time see the perfection of wisdom, and they do not see a phenomenon with which they would see the perfection of wisdom, and so too with the perfection of concentration, up to the perfection of giving. Connect this in the same way with each, up to they do not see awakening, and they do not see a phenomenon with which they would see awakening. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should thus practice the perfection of wisdom without apprehending any phenomena.

61.10 “Subhūti, when a bodhisattva great being practices the perfection of wisdom like this without apprehending any phenomena, at that time, Subhūti, Māra the wicked one gets a sharp stab of pain. [F.276.a] For example, Subhūti, just as a human being whose mother and father die gets a sharp stab of pain, gets a huge sharp stab of pain, so too, Subhūti, Māra the wicked one gets a sharp stab of pain when a bodhisattva great being practices the perfection of wisdom without apprehending all phenomena.”

- 61.11 The Lord having said this, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, will one single wicked Māra get a sharp stab of pain when a bodhisattva great being practices the perfection of wisdom without apprehending all dharmas, or will all the wicked Māras standing in a great billionfold world system get a sharp stab of pain and not sit easily on their own seats?”
- 61.12 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “when a bodhisattva great being is inseparable from the dwelling that is the perfection of wisdom, all the wicked Māras standing in a great billionfold world system will get an excruciatingly sharp stab of pain and not sit easily on their own seats. The world with its gods, humans, and asuras will not find any opportunity to get hold of and hurt a bodhisattva great being in a life like that.
- 61.13 “Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening should dwell in the dwelling that is this perfection of wisdom. When bodhisattva great beings are dwelling in this dwelling that is this perfection of wisdom, the cultivation of the perfection of giving reaches completion. Connect this in the same way with each, up to the cultivation of the perfection of concentration reaches completion. [F.276.b] When bodhisattva great beings are practicing this perfection of wisdom, the cultivation of all the perfections reaches completion.”
- 61.14 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, how does the cultivation of the perfection of giving reach completion in bodhisattva great beings practicing this perfection of wisdom? How does the cultivation of the perfection of morality reach completion..., and so too, up to how does the cultivation of the perfection of wisdom reach completion?”
- 61.15 Venerable Subhūti having inquired about this, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings giving a gift give the gift while dedicating it to the knowledge of all aspects. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings’ cultivation of the perfection of giving reaches completion.
- 61.16 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings guarding morality guard morality while dedicating it to the knowledge of all aspects. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings’ cultivation of the perfection of morality reaches completion.
- 61.17 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings making a practice of patience cultivate patience while dedicating it to the knowledge of all aspects. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings’ cultivation of the perfection of patience reaches completion.
- 61.18 “Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings make an effort at perseverance, how does the cultivation of the perfection of perseverance reach completion? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings making an effort [F.277.a] at perseverance do so while dedicating it to the knowledge of all aspects. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings' cultivation of the perfection of perseverance reaches completion.

61.19 "Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings becoming absorbed in concentration become absorbed in concentration while dedicating it to the knowledge of all aspects. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings' cultivation of those perfections of concentration reaches completion.

61.20 "Subhūti, how does the bodhisattva great beings' cultivation of the perfection of wisdom reach completion? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings cultivating the perfection of wisdom cultivate wisdom while dedicating those perfections of wisdom to the knowledge of all aspects. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings' cultivation of the perfection of wisdom reaches completion."

61.21 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, "Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving incorporate the perfection of morality?"<sup>626</sup>

61.22 "Subhūti," replied the Lord, "here bodhisattva great beings giving a gift and dedicating it to the knowledge of all aspects attend on all beings with kindly physical action, attend on all beings with kindly verbal action, and with kindly mental action. When they do so, the bodhisattva great beings incorporate the perfection of morality." [F.277.b]

61.23 "Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving incorporate the perfection of patience?" asked Subhūti.

61.24 "Subhūti," replied the Lord, "here, when bodhisattva great beings give a gift, even if the recipients criticize or humiliate or refuse to associate with and swear at them, they do not bear them any malice. In that case, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving incorporate the perfection of patience."

61.25 "Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving incorporate the perfection of perseverance?" he asked.

61.26 "Subhūti," he replied, "when bodhisattva great beings give a gift and those recipients criticize or humiliate or refuse to associate with and swear at them, if, even while being criticized or humiliated or sworn at they keep on being generous, keep on giving things away, willing themselves to persevere physically and mentally with the thought, 'Mine is simply the giving of gifts, mine is not the withholding of them,' in that case, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving incorporate the perfection of perseverance."

61.27 "Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving incorporate the perfection of concentration?" he asked.

- 61.28      “Subhūti,” he replied, “here bodhisattva great beings giving a gift, when giving that gift away dedicate it to the knowledge of all aspects. They do not dedicate it in their minds to the śrāvaka level [F.278.a] or the pratyekabuddha level, but rather focus their thought only on the knowledge of all aspects. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving incorporate the perfection of concentration.”
- 61.29      “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving incorporate the perfection of wisdom?” asked Subhūti.
- 61.30      “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “here while bodhisattva great being are giving a gift, giving that gift away and dedicating it to the knowledge of all aspects, they continually bring to mind the fact that the giving is like an illusion and they do not see that giving as helping or harming any being at all. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving incorporate the perfection of wisdom.”
- 61.31      This was the sixty-first chapter, “Inexhaustible,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

62. CHAPTER 62: LEAPING ABOVE ABSORPTION

62.1 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality incorporate the perfection of giving?”

62.2 Venerable Subhūti having asked this, the Lord replied to him, “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality do not grasp the śrāvaka level or pratyekabuddha level as absolute on account of any rule, be it a rule to do with body or speech or mind.<sup>627</sup> Standing in the perfection of morality they do not kill beings. They do not steal, do not engage in illicit sex because of lust, do not lie, [F.278.b] do not insult, do not engage in backbiting, do not babble nonsense, do not covet, do not bear malice, and do not have a wrong view. Standing in that perfection of morality, whatever the gift they give, be it food to those who are begging for food, something to drink to those who want something to drink, incense to those who want incense,<sup>628</sup> transport to those who want transport, clothes to those who want clothes, flower garlands to those who want flower garlands, creams to those who want creams, beds to those who want beds, seats to those who want seats, a lamp to those who want a lamp, prerequisites for those who need the prerequisites,<sup>629</sup> up to whatever human requirements are appropriate,<sup>630</sup> they make that gift into something shared in common by all beings and dedicate it to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. They make a dedication in such a way that it is not a dedication to the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of morality incorporate the perfection of giving.”

62.3 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality incorporate the perfection of patience?”

62.4 “Subhūti, here if every being were to chop and carry off every major or minor part of the body of bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality, it would not disturb even a single production of their thought of

- awakening. They would not nurse pent-up anger and would not bear malice. Rather, it would occur to them to think, 'I have found every being chopping and carrying off the major or minor parts of my body [F.279.a] like that as something very useful.' In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality incorporate the perfection of patience."
- 62.5 "Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality incorporate the perfection of perseverance?"
- 62.6 "Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings thinking, 'I will free every being from saṃsāra and establish them in the realm of immortality,' do not slacken off from physical and mental perseverance. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality incorporate the perfection of perseverance."
- 62.7 "Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality incorporate the perfection of concentration?"
- 62.8 "Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings, having become absorbed in and abiding in the first concentration, and having become absorbed in and abiding in the second, third, and fourth concentration, do not hold the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level as a support, but rather think, 'Absorbed in this perfection of meditative stabilization I will free every being from saṃsāra.' In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality incorporate the perfection of concentration."
- 62.9 "Lord, how do bodhisattva great being standing in the perfection of morality incorporate the perfection of wisdom?" [F.279.b]
- 62.10 "Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality do not see any phenomenon other than all those that do not pass beyond suchness. They do not see any phenomenon as compounded, nor do they see it as uncompounded. They do not see an existent thing as compounded, nor do they see a nonexistent thing as uncompounded, nor do they see a causal sign that is compounded, nor do they see the absence of a causal sign that is uncompounded, nor do they see any phenomenon as there or not there. With that perfection of wisdom and skillful means they do not fall to the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality incorporate the perfection of wisdom."
- 62.11 "Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience incorporate the perfection of giving?" asked Subhūti.
- 62.12 "Subhūti, here, starting from their first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, were all beings to criticize, humiliate, and chop off the major or minor parts of the body of bodhisattva great beings, it would occur to those bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience to think, 'Mine is simply the giving of gifts, mine is not the withholding of them.’ They give food to those who want food, something to drink to those who want something to drink, and similarly, up to they give whatever human requirements are appropriate, and they make that gift into something shared in common by all beings and dedicate it to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. One way or the other they make the dedication in such a way that the dedication operates without the threefold intellectual apprehension of [F.280.a] someone who is dedicating, something being dedicated, or something to which the dedication is made. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience incorporate the perfection of giving.”

62.13 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience incorporate the perfection of morality?” asked Subhūti.

62.14 “Subhūti, here, starting from their first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, bodhisattva great beings do not deprive any being of its life. They do not steal, and similarly, up to they do not have a wrong view. Also, their minds are not occupied with the śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha level. They make those wholesome roots into something shared in common by all beings and dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and one way or the other they make the dedication in such a way that the dedication operates without the threefold intellectual apprehension..., up to of something to which the dedication is made. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience incorporate the perfection of morality.”

62.15 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience incorporate the perfection of perseverance?”

62.16 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience will themselves to persevere, thinking, ‘I would go a single yojana, go a hundred yojanas, go a thousand yojanas, go to a single world system, or go to a hundred thousand one hundred million world systems [F.280.b] if I could make even just one single being train in the points of training, if I could establish them in the result of stream enterer, up to the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, or if I could establish them in unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.’ They make those wholesome roots into something shared in common by all beings and dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience incorporate the perfection of perseverance.”

62.17 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience incorporate the perfection of concentration?”

- 62.18 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience are detached from sense objects and detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas. Connect this in the same way with each, up to they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the fourth concentration.<sup>631</sup> They dedicate whatever mind and mental factor dharmas furnished with the wholesome that they have produced to the knowledge of all aspects, and at that time they make the dedication in such a way that they do not apprehend the concentrations or the branches of the concentrations. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience incorporate the perfection of concentration.”
- 62.19 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience incorporate the perfection of wisdom?”
- 62.20 “Subhūti, here when bodhisattva great beings are standing in the perfection of patience [F.281.a] they dwell as those who view the dharmas in their isolated aspect, or calm aspect, or extinct aspect, but they do not actualize that true nature of dharmas up until they are seated at the site of awakening. Having sat down there they reach the knowledge of all aspects, and arising from there they turn the wheel of the Dharma. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of patience incorporate the perfection of wisdom, but incorporate it in such a way that they do not take up and do not reject anything at all.”
- 62.21 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance incorporate the perfection of giving?”
- 62.22 “Subhūti, here, bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance do not slacken off from physical and mental perseverance. They think, ‘Mine is the full awakening to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, mine is not not fully awakening to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening,’ and they go one yojana, or a hundred yojanas, or a thousand yojanas, or to a single world system, or to one hundred million world systems, or to a hundred thousand one hundred million world systems for the sake of beings, keeping on in the perfection of perseverance even if it is just to establish one single being in awakening. If they do not find a bodhisattva-vehicle person, still they establish a śrāvaka-vehicle person in the state of a śrāvaka and they establish a pratyekabuddha-vehicle person in the state of a pratyekabuddha. At the very least they establish just one being [F.281.b] in the path of the ten wholesome actions. They satisfy beings with the gift of Dharma and material gifts, but they do not dedicate those wholesome roots to the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level. Rather they make those gifts into something shared in common by all beings and dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance incorporate the perfection of giving.”

62.23 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance incorporate the perfection of morality?”

62.24 “Subhūti, here, starting from their first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance personally stop killing, inspire others to stop killing, speak in praise of stopping killing, and speak in praise of others stopping killing as well, welcoming it. Connect this is in the same way with each, up to they personally stop wrong view, inspire others to stop wrong view, speak in praise of stopping wrong view, and speak in praise of others stopping wrong view as well, welcoming it.<sup>632</sup> With that morality they do not yearn for the desire realm and they do not yearn for the form realm or the formless realm. They do not yearn for the śrāvaka level and they do not yearn for the pratyekabuddha level. Rather, they make those wholesome roots into something shared in common by all beings and dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, [F.282.a] and one way or the other they make the dedication in such a way that the dedication occurs without the threefold intellectual apprehension of someone who is dedicating, something being dedicated, and something to which the dedication is made. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance incorporate the perfection of morality.”

62.25 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance incorporate the perfection of patience?”

62.26 “Subhūti, here, starting from their first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, if those in human form, up to<sup>633</sup> in nonhuman form have disturbed the minds of bodhisattva great beings, or have chopped and carried off the major or minor parts of their bodies, still it does not occur to those bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance to think, ‘They are chopping something off me, or cutting me into pieces, or depriving me of something.’ Rather, it occurs to them to think, ‘Those who have come here and chopped and carried off the major or minor parts of my body are exactly those for whose sake I have taken care of my body, so I have found something very useful here.’ They have paid attention excellently to the basic nature of the true nature of dharmas. They do not dedicate those wholesome roots to the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level, but rather, having made them into something shared in common by all beings, they dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance incorporate the perfection of patience.”

62.27 “Lord, how do bodhisattva [F.282.b] great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance incorporate the perfection of concentration?”

62.28 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings detached from sense objects, detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas, perfectly accomplish and dwell in the first concentration that has applied thought and has sustained thought and joy and happiness born of detachment; up to perfectly accomplish and dwell in the fourth concentration, in love, up to equanimity, up to in the station of neither perception nor nonperception absorption. But they do not appropriate the maturation of those concentrations, immeasurables, and formless absorptions; rather, they are born in them to work for the welfare of all beings, and with the six perfections—the perfection of giving, perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom—they bring those beings to maturity, passing on from buddhafiield to buddhafiield in order to attend on the lord buddhas and plant wholesome roots. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance incorporate the perfection of concentration.”

62.29 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance incorporate the perfection of wisdom?”

62.30 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance [F.283.a] do not view the perfection of giving as a material reality, as a real thing, or as a causal sign, up to they do not view the perfection of concentration as a material reality, as a real thing, or as a causal sign. Connect this is in the same way with each, up to they do not view the applications of mindfulness, up to the knowledge of all aspects as a material reality, as a real thing, or as a causal sign. They do not view all dharmas as a material reality, and they do not view them as a real thing, or as a causal sign. They do not make their home in any dharma. They live up to their words. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of perseverance incorporate the perfection of wisdom.”

62.31 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration incorporate the perfection of giving?”

62.32 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings detached from sense objects, detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas, perfectly accomplish and dwell in the first concentration.<sup>634</sup> Connect this is in the same way with each, up to they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the station of neither perception nor nonperception absorption. Standing in the perfection of concentration they give the gift of material possessions and the gift of Dharma to those beings, without mental distraction. They personally<sup>635</sup> give the gift of material possessions and the gift of Dharma. They inspire others to give the gift of material possessions and the gift of Dharma, speak in praise of giving the gift of material possessions and the gift of Dharma, [F.283.b] and speak in praise of others giving the gift of material possessions and the gift of Dharma as well, welcoming it. They do not dedicate those wholesome roots to the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level. Rather, having made them into something shared in common by all beings, they dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration incorporate the perfection of giving.”

62.33 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration incorporate the perfection of morality?”

62.34 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration do not produce a thought associated with greed, do not produce a thought associated with hatred or one associated with confusion, and do not produce a thought associated with violence. Rather, they dwell with attention connected to the knowledge of all aspects. They do not dedicate those wholesome roots to the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level. Rather, having made them into something shared in common by all beings, they dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration incorporate the perfection of morality.”

62.35 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration incorporate the perfection of patience?”

62.36 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration [F.284.a] analytically understand form to be like a mass of foam, understand feeling to be like a water bubble, understand perception to be like a mirage, understand volitional factors to be like a plantain tree, and analytically understand consciousness to be like something conjured up by magic. When they analytically understand the five aggregates to be like that, the perception that they are worthless becomes available. With such an analytical understanding, even when a major or minor part of their body is chopped off it occurs to them to think, ‘Who is chopping this off? Whose feeling is it? Whose perception is it? Whose volitional factors are they? Whose consciousness is it?’ With such an analytical understanding it also occurs to them to think, when abusive things have been done, ‘In whom does malice arise when abused and humiliated, and who is abusing and humiliating here?’ In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration incorporate the perfection of patience.”

62.37 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration incorporate the perfection of perseverance?”

62.38 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings detached from sense objects, detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas, perfectly accomplish and dwell in the first concentration. Connect this is in the same way with each, up to perfectly accomplish and dwell in the fourth concentration. Without apprehending the concentrations or the branches of the concentrations and with a mind in meditative equipoise like that, they experience the performance of miraculous power in its various aspects (supply the details here);<sup>636</sup> hear human and divine sounds with the divine ear constituent; with their minds know the thought processes of other beings, other persons ... ; connect this is in the same way with each, up to know an unsurpassed thought for what it is, [F.284.b] an unsurpassed thought; recollect past lives in their various aspects (also supply the details here); up to and see with their purified divine eyes that transcend the human how beings fare according to the karma they have accumulated. Standing in those five clairvoyances they pass on from buddhafield to buddhafield in order to attend on the lord buddhas, and in order to plant wholesome roots, bring beings to maturity, and purify a buddhafield. They do not dedicate those wholesome roots to the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level. Rather, having made them into something shared in common by all beings, they dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration incorporate the perfection of perseverance.”

62.39 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration incorporate the perfection of wisdom?”

62.40 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration do not apprehend form; do not apprehend feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness; do not apprehend the perfection of giving, do not apprehend the perfection of morality, do not apprehend the perfection of patience, do not apprehend the perfection of perseverance, do not apprehend the perfection of concentration, and do not apprehend the perfection of wisdom; do not apprehend the applications of mindfulness, do not apprehend the right efforts, connect this in the same way with each, up to [F.285.a] and do not apprehend the knowledge of all aspects. They do not apprehend the compounded element and do not apprehend the un-compounded element. Since they do not apprehend anything, they do not occasion anything, and since they do not occasion anything, they do not make anything arise and do not make anything stop. And why? Subhūti, it is because whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise, this true dharmic nature of dharmas simply remains, this establishment of dharmas simply remains, this dharma-constituent simply remains, so with regard to it there is no arising and no stopping. They stand with undistracted minds inseparable from attention connected with the knowledge of all aspects. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of concentration incorporate the perfection of wisdom.”

62.41 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom incorporate the perfection of giving?”

62.42 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom view all phenomena as empty.”

62.43 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings view all phenomena as empty?”

“Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not apprehend inner emptiness as ‘inner emptiness,’ do not apprehend outer emptiness as ‘outer emptiness,’ do not apprehend inner and outer emptiness as ‘inner and outer emptiness,’ connect this in the same way with do not apprehend the emptiness of emptiness..., up to the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature as [F.285.b] ‘the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature.’ Having stood in those fourteen emptinesses, bodhisattva great beings do not apprehend ‘form is empty’ or ‘is not empty,’ do not apprehend ‘feeling...,’ ‘perception...,’ ‘volitional factors...,’ or ‘consciousness is empty’ or ‘is not empty’; do not apprehend ‘the applications of mindfulness..., the right efforts...,’ connect this in the same way with each, up to ‘awakening is empty’ or ‘is not empty’; do not apprehend ‘the compounded element...’ or ‘the un compounded element is empty’ or ‘is not empty.’ Those bodhisattva great beings practicing this perfection of wisdom give away gifts. They give the gifts of food, drink, clothes, transport, beds, seats, up to whatever human requirements are appropriate, but they view those gifts as empty, and view the giver and the ones to whom the gifts are given as empty as well, so there is no opportunity for a miserly thought or a stingy thought. And why? Because starting from their first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, those bodhisattva great beings practicing this perfection of wisdom do not have all those thought constructions. Just as a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha who has fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening does not have a miserly thought or a stingy thought, similarly bodhisattva great beings practicing this perfection of wisdom do not have a miserly thought or a stingy thought either, so just this—namely, the perfection of wisdom— [F.286.a] is the teacher of bodhisattva great beings. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom incorporate the perfection of giving.”

62.44 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom incorporate the perfection of morality?”

62.45 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom do not provide an opportunity for śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha thoughts. And why? Because they do not even apprehend a śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha level, and do not apprehend the thought that dedicates to the śrāvaka level or pratyekabuddha level.

62.46 “Starting from their first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, they generate the intention to stop the taking of life. They personally stop killing, speak in praise of stopping killing, inspire others to stop killing, and speak in praise of others stopping killing as well, welcoming it. They generate the intention that they personally will stop..., up to wrong view. They stop wrong view, inspire others to stop wrong view, speak in praise of stopping wrong view, and speak in praise of others stopping wrong view as well, welcoming it. They do not grasp any dharma as an absolute, even the state of a worthy one, the state of a pratyekabuddha, or the state of a buddha, let alone anything other than those. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom incorporate [F.286.b] the perfection of morality.”

62.47 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom incorporate the perfection of patience?”

62.48 “Subhūti, here patience arises in bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom in a natural order. It occurs to them to think, ‘Here no dharma at all is produced or ceases, or is born or dies, or is abused, or humiliated, or chopped, or cut, or struck, or obstructed.’ From the first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, even if all beings were to come up to them and abuse or humiliate, or strike, chop, or pierce them with a stone, a stick, a weapon, or a tool used as a weapon, still it would occur to them to think, ‘Ah! No dharma at all that is being abused, or humiliated, or chopped, or cut to pieces, or struck is apprehended in the true dharmic nature of dharmas.’ In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom incorporate the perfection of patience.”

62.49 “Lord, how do a bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom incorporate the perfection of perseverance?”

62.50 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom with skillful means stand on the legs of miraculous powers and work at physical and mental perseverance. They go to one world system, go to a hundred world systems, go to a hundred thousand one hundred million billion world systems and teach the Dharma to beings. They establish them in the perfection of giving; [F.287.a] connect this in the same way with each, up to

they establish them in the perfection of wisdom; they establish them in the dharmas on the side of awakening; they establish them in the result of stream enterer; connect this in the same way with each, up to they establish them in a pratyekabuddha's awakening; and they establish them in unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. They establish them such that one way or the other they do not establish them in the compounded element and do not establish them in the un-compounded element. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom incorporate the perfection of perseverance."

62.51 "Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom incorporate the perfection of concentration?"

62.52 "Subhūti, with the exception of the meditative stabilization of a tathāgata, here bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom become absorbed in and emerge from all the śrāvaka meditative stabilizations or pratyekabuddha meditative stabilizations or any other meditative stabilizations, as many as there may be. Standing in those meditative stabilizations they become absorbed in and emerge from the eight deliverances in conforming order and nonconforming order. What are the eight? With form they see form. This is the first deliverance. With the perception of no form inside they see form outside. This is the second deliverance. Having directly experienced the pleasant deliverance with the body,<sup>637</sup> they perfectly accomplish and dwell in it. This is the third deliverance. Totally transcending perceptions of form, setting to rest perceptions of obstruction, not paying attention [F.287.b] to perceptions of difference, in endless space they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the station of endless space. This is the fourth deliverance. Totally transcending the station of endless space, in endless consciousness they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the station of endless consciousness. This is the fifth deliverance. Totally transcending the station of endless consciousness, in nothing-at-all they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the station of nothing-at-all. This is the sixth deliverance. Totally transcending the station of nothing-at-all, in neither perception nor nonperception they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the station of neither perception nor nonperception. This is the seventh deliverance. Totally transcending the station of neither perception nor nonperception, they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the cessation of perception and feeling. This is the eighth deliverance. They become absorbed in and emerge from these eight deliverances in conforming order and nonconforming order.

62.53 "They also become absorbed in and emerge from the nine serial absorptions in conforming order and nonconforming order. What are the nine?<sup>638</sup> Detached from sense objects, detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas, they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the first concentration that has applied thought and has sustained thought and joy and happiness born of detachment. Connect this in the same way with each, up to they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the fourth concentration, and totally transcending the station of neither perception nor nonperception, they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the cessation of perception and feeling. They become absorbed in and emerge from those nine serial absorptions [F.288.a] in conforming order and nonconforming order.

62.54 “Having thus made a classification of those eight deliverances and nine attainments of successive stations, they become absorbed in the siṃhavijṛmbhita<sup>639</sup> meditative stabilization. And what, Subhūti, is the bodhisattva great beings’ siṃhavijṛmbhita meditative stabilization? Here, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings detached from sense pleasures, detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas, perfectly accomplish and dwell in the first concentration that has applied thought and has sustained thought and joy and happiness born of detachment, up to perfectly accomplish and dwell in the cessation of feeling and perception. Having emerged from the cessation absorption, they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the station of neither perception nor nonperception. Having emerged from the station of neither perception nor nonperception, they perfectly accomplish and dwell in..., up to the first concentration.<sup>640</sup>

62.55 “Having thus given a breakdown of the siṃhavijṛmbhita meditative stabilization, they become absorbed in the viṣkandaka meditative stabilization.<sup>641</sup> And what is the bodhisattva great beings’ viṣkandaka meditative stabilization? Here, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings detached from sense pleasures, detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas, perfectly accomplish and dwell in the first concentration that has applied thought and has sustained thought and joy and happiness born of detachment; and, having emerged from the first concentration..., connect this in the same way with each, up to they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the station of neither perception nor nonperception. Having emerged from the station of neither perception nor nonperception, they become absorbed in the cessation of feelings and discriminations. Having emerged from the cessation absorption, [F.288.b] they become absorbed in the second concentration. Having emerged from the second concentration, they become absorbed in the cessation absorption. Having emerged from the cessation absorption, they become absorbed in the third concentration. Having emerged from the third concentration, they become absorbed in the cessation absorption. Having emerged from the cessation absorption, they become absorbed in the fourth concentration. Having emerged from the fourth concentration, they become absorbed in the cessation absorption.

Having emerged from the cessation absorption, they become absorbed in the station of endless space absorption. Having emerged from the station of endless space absorption, they become absorbed in the cessation absorption. Having emerged from the cessation absorption, they become absorbed in the station of endless consciousness absorption. Having emerged from the station of endless consciousness absorption, they become absorbed in the cessation absorption. Having emerged from the cessation absorption, they become absorbed in the station of nothing-at-all absorption. Having emerged from the station of nothing-at-all absorption, they become absorbed in the cessation absorption. Having emerged from the cessation absorption, they become absorbed in the station of neither perception nor nonperception absorption. Having emerged from the station of neither perception nor nonperception absorption, they become absorbed in the cessation absorption. Having emerged from that, they fall into an uncollected state of mind, [F.289.a] and from that uncollected state of mind, they become absorbed in the cessation absorption. Having emerged from the cessation absorption, they abide in an uncollected state of mind. From that uncollected state of mind, they become absorbed in the station of neither perception nor nonperception absorption. Having emerged from the station of neither perception nor nonperception absorption, they abide in an uncollected state of mind. From that uncollected state of mind, they become absorbed in the station of nothing-at-all absorption. Having emerged from the station of nothing-at-all absorption, they abide in an uncollected state of mind. From that uncollected state of mind, they become absorbed in the station of endless consciousness absorption. Having emerged from the station of endless consciousness absorption, they fall into an uncollected state of mind. From that uncollected state of mind, they become absorbed in the station of endless space absorption. Having emerged from the station of endless space absorption, they fall into an uncollected state of mind. From that uncollected state of mind, they become absorbed in the fourth concentration. Having emerged from the fourth concentration, they abide in an uncollected state of mind. From that uncollected state of mind, they become absorbed in the third concentration. Having emerged from the third concentration, they abide in an uncollected state of mind. From that uncollected state of mind, they become absorbed in the second concentration. Having emerged from the second concentration, they abide in an uncollected state of mind. From that uncollected state of mind, they become absorbed in the first concentration. [F.289.b] Having emerged from the first concentration, they abide in an uncollected state of mind.

62.56      “Having stood in this viṣkandaka meditative stabilization, they reach the sameness of all dharmas. In that way, Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom incorporate the perfection of concentration.”

62.57      This was the sixty-second chapter, “Leaping Above Absorption,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.” [B44]

separated from the perfection of wisdom, they get the name perfection. Were the five perfections to become separated from the perfection of wisdom, they would not get the name perfection.

63.9 “To illustrate further, Subhūti, were a wheel-turning emperor to be separated from the seven precious stones, he would not get the name wheel-turning emperor. Similarly, Subhūti, were the five perfections to become separated from the perfection of wisdom, they would not get the name perfection.

63.10 “To illustrate further, Subhūti, it is easy for scoundrels [F.290.b] to violate women who have no husbands. Similarly, Subhūti, it is easy for Māra and the Māra class of gods to overpower the five perfections when they are separated from the perfection of wisdom. When the five perfections are not separated from the perfection of wisdom, Māra and the Māra class of gods do not overpower them, but when the five perfections are separated from the perfection of wisdom, Māra and the Māra class of gods try to do so.

63.11 “To illustrate further, Subhūti, it is hard for a hostile king, or an opponent, or an enemy to overpower in the thick of battle a person who heads into battle having buckled on a complete set of armor. Similarly, Subhūti, it is hard for Māra, or the Māra class of gods, or persons with a pride in being superior, up to vulgar bodhisattvas<sup>642</sup> to overpower the five perfections when they are not separated from the perfection of wisdom.

63.12 “To illustrate further, Subhūti, local rulers harmonize with a wheel-turning emperor and every morning and evening go in order to attend on him. Similarly, Subhūti, when the five perfections are assisted by the perfection of wisdom, they proceed in harmony specifically to the knowledge of all aspects.

63.13 “To illustrate further, Subhūti, streams, as many as there are, flow down specifically into the Gaṅgā River and together they flow down to the ocean. Similarly, Subhūti, when the five perfections are assisted by the perfection of wisdom, they proceed in harmony specifically to the knowledge of all aspects.

63.14 “To illustrate further, Subhūti, a person’s right hand does all the work. [F.291.a] Subhūti, view the perfection of wisdom like that, and view the five perfections as being like the left hand.

63.15 “To illustrate further, Subhūti, once the water in streams and the water in rivers have flowed into the ocean, they become of one taste. Similarly, Subhūti, once the five perfections assisted by the perfection of wisdom have entered in harmony specifically into the knowledge of all aspects, they get the name perfection.

- 63.16        “To illustrate further, Subhūti, the precious wheel of a wheel-turning emperor goes in front of the mass of four-unit forces and is positioned there. Wherever a wheel-turning emperor stops for food, the wheel-turning emperor’s mass of four-unit forces is refreshed but still the precious wheel does not move from its place. Similarly, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is also the leader of these five perfections, going specifically to the knowledge of all aspects and remaining there. Once positioned there it does not pass beyond it.
- 63.17        “To illustrate further, Subhūti, the precious wheel of a wheel-turning emperor, the precious minister, the precious chamberlain, the precious queen, the precious jewel, the precious elephant, and the precious horse go in front of the mass of four-unit forces. Similarly, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom also goes in front of these five perfections. Having gone in front of them, it remains specifically at the knowledge of all aspects, but it does not occur to the perfection of wisdom to think, ‘The perfection of giving should follow me, and the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, [F.291.b] and perfection of concentration should follow me.’ It also does not occur to the perfection of giving to think, ‘I should follow the perfection of wisdom.’ Similarly, it also does not occur to the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, or perfection of concentration to think, ‘I should follow the perfection of wisdom.’ And why? Because in their intrinsic nature they are impotent, empty of an intrinsic nature, in vain, and the same as a mirage.”
- 63.18        Then venerable Subhūti inquired of the Lord, “Lord, if all phenomena are empty of an intrinsic nature, how will bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving, the perfection of morality, the perfection of patience, the perfection of perseverance, the perfection of concentration, and the perfection of wisdom fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”
- 63.19        “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “here it occurs to bodhisattva great beings practicing the six perfections to think, ‘Ah! This ordinary state of being is a distorted state of mind. It is incapable of release from saṃsāra without skillful means, so, for the sake of those beings, I must practice the perfection of giving, the perfection of morality, the perfection of patience, the perfection of perseverance, the perfection of concentration, and the perfection of wisdom.’
- 63.20        “They give away inner and outer things [F.292.a] for the sake of those beings. When they are giving them away it occurs to them to think, ‘I have not given anything away.’<sup>643</sup> Why? Because these things are empty of an intrinsic nature.’ Bodhisattva great beings reflecting deeply like that, Subhūti, complete the perfection of giving.

- 63.21 “They provide no opportunity for immorality, for the sake of those beings. Why? Because they think, ‘Insofar as I have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening I should not kill, up to have a wrong view, or yearn for the śrāvaka level or pratyekabuddha level.’ Bodhisattva great beings reflecting deeply like that, Subhūti, practice the perfection of morality.
- 63.22 “For the sake of those beings they do not let any mental disturbance at all arise. Bodhisattva great beings reflecting deeply like that, Subhūti, practice the perfection of patience.
- 63.23 “During the period up to when they have fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, for the sake of those beings they do not have a lazy thought. Bodhisattva great beings reflecting deeply like that, Subhūti, practice the perfection of perseverance.
- 63.24 “During the period up to when they have fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, for the sake of those beings they do not have a scattered thought. Bodhisattva great beings reflecting deeply like that, Subhūti, practice the perfection of concentration.
- 63.25 “During the period up to when they have fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, [F.292.b] for the sake of those beings they are never separated from wisdom. And why? Because it occurs to them to think, ‘Except for those who have entered into the perfection of wisdom, the others are incapable of bringing beings to maturity.’ Bodhisattva great beings reflecting deeply like that, Subhūti, practice the perfection of wisdom.”
- 63.26 The Lord having said this, venerable Subhūti then asked him, “Lord, if the perfections are not different, why is the perfection of wisdom said to be the highest, and is said to be the most excellent, foremost, best, superb, sublime, unsurpassed, unrivaled, and equal to the unequaled when it comes to the five perfections?”
- 63.27 Venerable Subhūti having asked this, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! The perfections are not different in the slightest. Were there to be no perfection of wisdom these five perfections would not get the name perfection, so it is thanks to the perfection of wisdom, Subhūti, that these five perfections get the name perfection.
- 63.28 “To illustrate, Subhūti, when various sorts of physical beings have come into the presence of Sumeru, the king of mountains, those physical beings become a single color. Similarly, Subhūti, thanks to the perfection of wisdom these five perfections get the name perfection and, having entered into the knowledge of all aspects, they become a single color, which is to say there is no specific feature—‘This is the perfection of giving,’ connect this in the same way with each, up to ‘This is the perfection of wisdom’—at all. [F.293.a] And why? Because there they have no intrinsic nature. For that reason, there is no specific feature.”

- 63.29 “Lord, given that there is no specific feature or variation in any phenomenon for someone who has entered into reality, why is the perfection of wisdom said to be the highest, and is said to be the most excellent, foremost, best, superb, sublime, unsurpassed, unrivaled, and equal to the unequaled, when it comes to the five perfections?”
- 63.30 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! There is no specific feature or variation in any phenomenon for someone who has entered into reality, but still, in order to release beings from saṃsāra, because of the ordinary convention and conventional term there is the designation perfection of giving, and there are the designations perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom.
- 63.31 “Furthermore, in regard to those beings, they are not born, they do not die, they do not leave, and they do not come forth. They do not exist. You should know that, since beings do not exist, all phenomena do not exist. Therefore, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is said to be the highest, and is said to be the most excellent, foremost, best, superb, sublime, unsurpassed, unrivaled, and equal to the unequaled when it comes to the five perfections.
- 63.32 “To illustrate, Subhūti, just as the precious lady is said to be the foremost, up to equal to the unequaled when it comes to the women in the world, as many as there are, similarly, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom [F.293.b] is said to be the highest, up to equal to the unequaled when it comes to the five perfections.”
- 63.33 “Lord, what do you intend by saying the perfection of wisdom is the highest, up to equal to the unequaled?”
- 63.34 “Subhūti, it is because this perfection of wisdom will take hold of all wholesome dharmas and stand specifically in the knowledge of all aspects, by way of not taking a stand.”
- 63.35 “Lord, does the perfection of wisdom take hold of or release any dharma?”
 “No it does not, Subhūti; Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom does not take hold of or release any dharma. And why? Subhūti, it is because all dharmas are not grasped and are not released.”
- 63.36 “Lord, what are all the dharmas the perfection of wisdom does not take hold of or release?”
- 63.37 “Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom does not grasp or release form, connect this in the same way with each, up to and does not grasp or release awakening.”
- 63.38 “Lord, how is form, up to awakening not taken hold of and not released?”
 “Subhūti, those who do not pay attention to form, up to do not pay attention to awakening do not take hold of form.”
- 63.39 “Lord, if there is no attention being paid to form, up to there is no attention being paid to the knowledge of all aspects, how, Lord, without attention to form, up to without attention to the knowledge of all aspects will the wholesome roots flourish? And if the wholesome roots do not flourish, [F.294.a] how will the perfections be completed? And if the perfections are not completed, how will the knowledge of all aspects be reached?"

63.40 "Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings do not pay attention to form, connect this in the same way with each, up to do not pay attention to awakening, then those bodhisattva great beings' wholesome roots flourish and..., up to the knowledge of all aspects is reached. And why? Because when no attention has been paid to form, up to no attention has been paid to awakening there will be full awakening."

63.41 "Lord, why, when they thus do not pay attention to form, up to do not pay attention to awakening do they reach the knowledge of all aspects?"

63.42 "Subhūti, by paying attention they cling to the desire realm, or to the form realm, or to the formless realm; and when they have not paid attention they do not cling to anything. Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should not cling to any dharma."

63.43 "Lord, where will bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom stand?"

"Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing like that will not stand in form, up to will not stand in the knowledge of all aspects."

63.44 "Lord, how will they not stand in form, up to not stand in the knowledge of all aspects?"

"Subhūti, they do not stand anywhere because of not settling down. And why? [F.294.b] It is because they do not see any dharma on which they might 'settle down' or 'stand.' In that way, Subhūti, by way of not settling down, bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom.

63.45 "Subhūti, were it to occur to bodhisattva great beings to think, 'Meditating like that and practicing like that is meditating on the perfection of wisdom. That is the meditation on the perfection of wisdom, so I too will practice the perfection of wisdom, I too will meditate on the perfection of wisdom'—were they to form such a notion they would be distant from the perfection of wisdom. Those who become distant from the perfection of wisdom become distant from the perfection of giving, connect this in the same way with each, up to and become distant from the knowledge of all aspects. And why? Because the perfection of wisdom does not settle down on any dharma and there is no settling down on the perfection of wisdom at all. And why? Because the intrinsic nature of anything on which there might be 'settling down' does not exist.<sup>644</sup>

63.46 "If bodhisattva great beings form a notion of the perfection of wisdom, those bodhisattva great beings fall back from the perfection of wisdom, and those who have fallen back from the perfection of wisdom have fallen back from all dharmas. Bodhisattva great beings have fallen back from the

- perfection of wisdom if it occurs to them to think, 'The perfection of wisdom incorporates the five perfections, incorporates..., up to [F.295.a] the knowledge of all aspects.' They are separated from the perfection of wisdom and not able to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.
- 63.47 "Bodhisattva great beings have fallen back from the perfection of wisdom if it occurs to them to think, 'There will be a prophecy of the unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening of someone who has stood in this perfection of wisdom.' They have fallen back from this perfection of wisdom, and having fallen back from this perfection of wisdom there will not be a prophecy of their unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.
- 63.48 "Bodhisattva great beings have fallen back from this perfection of wisdom if it occurs to them to think, 'I will stand in this perfection of wisdom and accomplish the perfection of giving, up to accomplish great compassion.' And why? Because those who have fallen back from the perfection of wisdom will not be able to accomplish the perfection of giving, up to will not be able to accomplish great compassion either.
- 63.49 "Furthermore, those bodhisattva great beings have fallen back from the perfection of wisdom if it occurs to them to think, 'The Tathāgata, not having taken hold of all dharmas, fully awakened, and having fully awakened, personally taught, explained, and clarified.' And why? Because tathāgatas have not fully awakened to any dharma. And why? Because they do not apprehend even this very life,<sup>645</sup> so what need is there to say more about fully awakening to some dharma? It is impossible."
- 63.50 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, [F.295.b] "Lord, how will these faults of bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom not occur?"
- 63.51 "Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom think thus: 'All phenomena are without attachment<sup>646</sup> and have not been taken hold of. There is no phenomenon that will fully awaken to a phenomenon that is free from attachment and has not been taken hold of.' If they practice like that, they practice the perfection of wisdom. But if bodhisattva great beings settle down on a phenomenon that has not been taken hold of, they are separated from the perfection of wisdom. And why? Because the perfection of wisdom cannot be spoken of as 'settling down.' "
- 63.52 "Lord, is the perfection of wisdom not separated from the perfection of wisdom, up to the perfection of giving is not separated from the perfection of giving, up to the knowledge of all aspects is not separated from..., up to the knowledge of all aspects? Lord, if the perfection of wisdom is not separated from the perfection of wisdom, up to the knowledge of all aspects is not separated from the knowledge of all aspects, how, then, is the perfection of wisdom to be accomplished? How is the perfection of giving..., up to the knowledge of all aspects to be accomplished?"

63.53 "Subhūti," replied the Lord, "here bodhisattva great beings [F.296.a] practicing the perfection of wisdom do not settle down on form, nor do they settle down on 'this is form, this is its form.' Connect this in the same way with each, up to all dharmas. They do not settle down on form as 'permanent' or 'impermanent,' 'happiness,' or 'suffering,' 'self' or 'selfless,' pleasant' or 'unpleasant,' 'calm' or 'not calm,' 'empty' or 'not empty,' 'isolated' or 'not isolated.' Connect this in the same way with each, up to the knowledge of all aspects. And why? Because they cannot accomplish 'permanence' or 'impermanence,' 'happiness,' or 'suffering,' 'self' or 'selfless,' pleasant' or 'unpleasant,' 'calm' or 'not calm,' 'empty' or 'not empty,' 'isolated' or 'not isolated' in a dharma that has no intrinsic nature, because they cannot accomplish 'an intrinsic nature that is empty of its intrinsic nature.' Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom..., connect this in the same way with each, up to and the perfection of giving like that will stand in the knowledge of all aspects.

63.54 "Take as an illustration, Subhūti, the mass of four-unit forces of a wheel-turning emperor. Wherever the wheel-turning emperor goes, the mass of four-unit forces of a wheel-turning emperor goes there too. Similarly, with those five perfections, wherever the perfection of wisdom goes those five perfections go there too, and will stand specifically in the knowledge of all aspects.

63.55 "To illustrate further, Subhūti, a driver [F.296.b] mounts on a chariot with four horses and goes smoothly on his way. Similarly, the perfection of wisdom is the driver of those five perfections and goes smoothly on its way specifically to the knowledge of all aspects."

63.56 "Lord, what is the path of bodhisattva great beings, and what is not the path?"

"Subhūti, the śrāvaka path is not the path of bodhisattva great beings, and the pratyekabuddha path is not the path of bodhisattva great beings. The path of the knowledge of all aspects is the path. Subhūti, that is the path of bodhisattva great beings. That is not the path."<sup>647</sup>

63.57 "Lord, the perfection of wisdom teaching, 'this is the path; this is not the path,' has been made available because it is of great value to<sup>648</sup> bodhisattva great beings."

63.58 "Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!" replied the Lord. "The perfection of wisdom teaching, 'this is the path and not the path,' has been made available because it is of great value to bodhisattva great beings—it has been made available because it is of great value to countless beings—but, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom does not teach anything at all. It does not incorporate form. It does not incorporate feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness. It has not been set up in order to incorporate the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level. This perfection of wisdom [F.297.a] is the bodhisattva great beings' guide to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. It is not the guide to the śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha level. It causes attainment of the knowledge of all aspects.

63.59 "Thus, this perfection of wisdom, having taken the establishment of dharmas as authority, does not produce any phenomenon and does not stop any phenomenon."

63.60 "Lord, if the perfection of wisdom does not produce and does not stop any phenomenon, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom give gifts, how do they guard morality, how do they cultivate patience, how do they make an effort at perseverance, how do they become absorbed in concentration, and how do they cultivate wisdom?"

63.61 "Subhūti, having turned the knowledge of all aspects into an objective support they should give gifts, having turned the knowledge of all aspects into an objective support they should guard morality, having turned the knowledge of all aspects into an objective support they should cultivate patience, having turned the knowledge of all aspects into an objective support they should make an effort at perseverance, having turned the knowledge of all aspects into an objective support they should become absorbed in concentration, having made the knowledge of all aspects into an objective support they should cultivate wisdom, and having made those wholesome roots into something shared in common by all beings they should dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. When they have dedicated those wholesome roots to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening like that, the cultivation [F.297.b] of the six perfections becomes complete, up to the bodhisattva great beings' cultivation of love becomes complete, up to cultivation of the knowledge of all aspects becomes complete. Any bodhisattva great being inseparable from the six perfections is inseparable from the knowledge of all aspects.

63.62 "Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening should train in the six perfections; they should practice the six perfections. Bodhisattva great beings practicing the six perfections complete all the wholesome roots and, having done so, gain the knowledge of all aspects.

63.63 "Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should make an effort at the six perfections."

63.64 "Lord, how should bodhisattva great beings make an effort at the six perfections?"

“Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings should understand analytically like this, that form is not conjoined and not disjoined; feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are not conjoined and not disjoined; and similarly, up to the knowledge of all aspects is not conjoined and not disjoined. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should make an effort at the six perfections like that.

63.65 “Furthermore, Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings should not work with the idea, ‘I will stand in form’; up to should not work with the idea, [F.298.a] ‘I will stand in consciousness’; up to and should not work with the idea, ‘I will stand in the knowledge of all aspects.’ And why? Because form is not situated anywhere, up to the knowledge of all aspects is not situated anywhere. That is the way bodhisattva great beings should fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, by way of not standing.

63.66 “To illustrate, Subhūti, a man might want to eat the fruit of a mango tree or the fruit of a jackfruit tree.<sup>649</sup> He would have to plant a mango or a jackfruit. Having planted it he would have to water it and have to weed it from time to time until, gradually growing branches and ripening, having found all the necessary conditions, mangos or jackfruit become complete in all their richness. Then he will eat the mangos or jackfruit. Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, should train in the six perfections, look after beings with giving, look after beings with morality, patience, perseverance, concentration, and wisdom, and liberate beings from saṃsāra.

63.67 “Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who want to reach the state where they do not have to place trust in others, want to purify a buddhafiield, want to be seated at the site of awakening, and want to turn the wheel of the Dharma should train in the six perfections.” [F.298.b]

63.68 “Lord, are you saying<sup>650</sup> they have to train in the perfection of wisdom with the perfection of wisdom?”

63.69 “Subhūti, I am saying they have to train in the perfection of wisdom with the perfection of wisdom. I am saying they have to train in the perfection of wisdom if they want to accomplish the development of control over all dharmas. And why? Because this perfection of wisdom causes the accomplishment of the state where all dharmas have become fully controlled. This perfection of wisdom is the gateway of all dharmas.

63.70 “To illustrate, Subhūti, the ocean is the gateway of all rivers<sup>651</sup> and when all the river waters flow into the ocean they become of one taste. Similarly, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is the gateway to all dharmas, and all dharmas, when they have been categorized, turn into the perfection of wisdom.<sup>652</sup>

- 63.71 “Therefore, Subhūti, persons in the Śrāvaka Vehicle and in the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle as well as persons in the Bodhisattva Vehicle should train in just this perfection of wisdom. Therefore, bodhisattva great beings should train in the perfection of giving, and should train in the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom, up to and should train in the knowledge of all aspects.
- 63.72 “To illustrate, Subhūti, opponents or enemies are hard pressed to overpower a master archer shooting with a customized bow. Similarly, Subhūti, Māra and the Māra class of gods are hard pressed to overpower [F.299.a] a bodhisattva great being practicing the perfection of wisdom. Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening should train in the perfection of wisdom.
- 63.73 “Past, future, and present lord buddhas watch over those practicing the perfection of wisdom.”
- 63.74 The Lord having said this, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, how do the lord buddhas watch over those practicing the perfection of giving? How do they watch over those practicing the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom?”
- 63.75 Venerable Subhūti having asked this, the Lord replied to him, “Subhūti, here the lord buddhas watch over the bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, but they do not apprehend giving, morality, patience, perseverance, concentration, or wisdom at all. Thus, without apprehending anything they watch over the bodhisattva great beings. Similarly, connect this in full with each, up to the knowledge of all aspects.
- 63.76 “Furthermore, Subhūti, the lord buddhas do not watch over bodhisattva great beings [F.299.b] as form, up to do not watch over them as the knowledge of all aspects.”
- 63.77 “Lord, bodhisattva great beings who want to train in many places should not train anywhere.”
- 63.78 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who want to train in many places should not train anywhere. And why? Because those dharmas in which bodhisattva great beings have to train cannot be apprehended.”
- 63.79 Then venerable Subhūti said to the Lord, “Lord, given that the Tathāgata has taught the dharmas briefly and in detail, there bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening should master these six perfections until they can recite them perfectly by

- heart. Having perfectly recited them by heart they should mentally reflect on them, but reflect on them in such a way that the mind and mental factor dharmas are not set in motion at all.”
- 63.80 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings training in those six perfections taught briefly and in detail will come to know all dharmas in brief and in detail.”
- 63.81 “Lord, how will bodhisattva great beings come to know all dharmas in brief and in detail?” [F.300.a]
- 63.82 “Subhūti, when they know the suchness of form, or feeling, or perception, or volitional factors, or consciousness, up to know the suchness of the knowledge of all aspects, they will come to know all dharmas in brief and in detail.”
- 63.83 “Lord, what is the suchness of form?”
 “Subhūti, the suchness of form is that in which there is no production, there is no stopping, there is no lasting, and there is no changing into something else. Bodhisattva great beings should train in that.
- 63.84 “When they know the very limit of reality, they will come to know all dharmas in brief and in detail.”
- 63.85 “Lord, what is the very limit of reality?”
 He said, “Subhūti, the very limit of reality is the limitless. Bodhisattva great beings training at that limit will come to know all dharmas in brief and in detail.
- 63.86 “When bodhisattva great beings know the dharma-constituent, they will come to know all dharmas in brief and in detail.”
- 63.87 “Lord, what is the dharma-constituent?”
 “Subhūti, the dharma-constituent is constituentless and there is no severance or limitation of that dharma-constituent. Bodhisattva great beings who know the dharma-constituent like that will come to know all dharmas in brief and in detail.”
- 63.88 “Lord, how should all dharmas be known in brief and in detail?”
 “Subhūti, all dharmas should be known as not conjoined and not disjoined.” [F.300.b]
- 63.89 “Lord, what are the dharmas that are not conjoined and are not disjoined?”
 “Subhūti, form is not conjoined and is not disjoined; feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are not conjoined and is not disjoined; connect this in the same way with each, up to the compounded element and the un-compounded element are not conjoined and are not disjoined. And why? Because that which might become conjoined or disjoined has no intrinsic nature, and that which has no intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing,<sup>653</sup> and a nonexistent thing is not conjoined with and is not disjoined from a nonexistent thing.

63.90 “Subhūti, this is the summation for the bodhisattva great beings. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings beginning the work should train in this perfection summation, and those on the tenth level should train in just this summation too. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings training in this summation will come to know all dharmas in brief and in detail.”

“Lord, this is the entrance for bodhisattva great beings with keen faculties.”

63.91 “Subhūti, this is the entrance for bodhisattva great beings with dull faculties as well. This is also the entrance for those with middling faculties, and for those with faculties not yet stabilized in meditation. For any bodhisattva great beings who want to train it is not not an entrance. But it is not the entrance for the lazy, it is not the entrance [F.301.a] for those deficient in perseverance, robbed of mindfulness, and mentally distracted. It is the entrance for those who are energetic, not lazy, and with applied mindfulness. It is the entrance for those who want to train on the irreversible level and who want to reach the knowledge of all aspects.

63.92 “If they train in the perfection of wisdom as it has been taught, having trained in the perfection of giving, perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, and perfection of concentration, they will reach the knowledge of all aspects. Subhūti, for bodhisattva great beings who go on practicing the perfection of wisdom, the works of Māra, whatever they are, are eliminated the moment they happen. Therefore, bodhisattva great beings who want to fully grasp skillful means should train in the perfection of wisdom.

63.93 “Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom, cultivate the perfection of wisdom, and make an effort at the perfection of wisdom, the lord buddhas dwelling and maintaining themselves in countless world systems, those lord buddhas also watch over those bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom. And why? Because those past, future, and present lord buddhas have issued forth from this, namely these six perfections. Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom [F.301.b] should also be optimistic and think like this: ‘I too will gain the dharmas those past, future, and present lord buddhas gained.’

63.94 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should make such an effort. Bodhisattva great beings making such an effort will quickly and fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.

Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should not become separated from attention to the knowledge of all aspects.

63.95 “Subhūti, if, when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, they cultivate the perfection of wisdom even for as long as a finger snap, those bodhisattva great beings will create a lot more merit. Those who have satisfied beings included in a great billionfold world system with gifts; have established them in morality; have established them in meditative stabilization, wisdom, freedom, and the knowledge and seeing of liberation; have established them in the result of stream enterer, up to in the state of a worthy one; and have established them in a pratyekabuddha’s awakening do not do so. When they have cultivated this deep perfection of wisdom for as long as a finger snap, just that creates a lot more merit. And why? Because giving, morality, meditative stabilization, wisdom, freedom, and the knowledge and seeing of liberation, the result of stream enterer, up to a pratyekabuddha’s awakening have been born from her. The lord buddhas dwelling and maintaining themselves in world systems in the ten directions [F.302.a] have also issued forth from just this perfection of wisdom, and those categories of past, future, and present lord buddhas are because of just this perfection of wisdom as well.

63.96 “Furthermore, Subhūti, if someone cultivates this deep perfection of wisdom with attention connected to the knowledge of all aspects just for the time it takes to blink, or for one day or a hundred days, or a year or a hundred years, or an eon or more than an eon, up to an asamkhyeya of eons, just that will create a lot more merit. Establishing beings included in world systems as many as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in giving, up to establishing them in a pratyekabuddha’s awakening will not do so. And why? Because those lord buddhas who have designated this as the basis of meritorious action arisen from giving, designated..., up to a pratyekabuddha’s awakening have also issued forth from just her.

63.97 “You should know that bodhisattva great beings thus standing in this perfection of wisdom as it has been taught are the bodhisattva great beings who will not turn back. You should know that those bodhisattva great beings are looked out<sup>654</sup> for by the tathāgatas. You should know that bodhisattva great beings who are endowed with these skillful means are those who have attended on many hundred thousand one hundred million billion buddhas. You should know that those bodhisattva great beings have planted wholesome roots; you should know that those bodhisattva great beings have been assisted by spiritual friends; [F.302.b] you should know that those bodhisattva great beings have practiced the practice of the six perfections; and you should know that those bodhisattva great beings have meditated on and thought about the fourteen emptinesses. Connect this in the same way with each, up to you should know that those bodhisattva great beings have meditated on the four detailed and thorough knowledges. You should know that those bodhisattva great beings have the six clairvoyances; that those bodhisattva great beings have become the heirs apparent; and that those bodhisattva great beings have fulfilled all their ambitions. You should know that those bodhisattva great beings are not separated from the buddhas, are not separated from wholesome roots, are not separated from a buddhfield, and have obtained an unbroken confidence giving a readiness to speak, and the dhāraṇīs. You should know that those bodhisattva great beings have perfected bodies. You should know that those bodhisattva great beings are in possession of a prophecy. You should know that those bodhisattva great beings are born in a suffering existence at will. You should know that those bodhisattva great beings are skilled in entering into aspects<sup>655</sup> and are skilled in the conventional. You should know that those bodhisattva great beings are skilled in entering into what does not have letters and are skilled in entering into the unconventional.<sup>656</sup> You should know that those bodhisattva great beings are skilled in singular words, skilled in plural words, skilled in feminine words, and skilled in masculine words; are skilled in form, up to and skilled in consciousness; [F.303.a] connect this in the same way with each, up to are skilled in nirvāṇa, and skilled in the dharma-constituent; are skilled in marks, skilled in the marks of compounded things, and skilled in things without a mark; are skilled in being, skilled in nonbeing, skilled in intrinsic existence, and skilled in dependent existence;<sup>657</sup> are skilled in conjunction, skilled in disjunction, skilled in the accompanied, skilled in the unaccompanied, and skilled in the neither accompanied nor unaccompanied; are skilled in suchness, skilled in unmistakable suchness, skilled in unaltered suchness, skilled in the dharma-constituent, skilled in the establishment of dharmas, and skilled in the certification of dharmas; are skilled in what has causes and conditions, skilled in the unconditioned, skilled in the aggregates, skilled in the constituents, skilled in the sense fields, skilled in the truths, and skilled in dependent origination; are skilled in the concentrations, skilled in the immeasurables, and skilled in the formless absorptions; are skilled in the perfections, skilled in the four applications of mindfulness, up to and skilled in the knowledge of all aspects; are skilled in the compounded element, skilled in the un compounded element, skilled in elements, and skilled in non-elements; skilled in attention to form, up to and skilled in attention to consciousness; connect this in the same way with each, up to and skilled in attention to the knowledge of all aspects; are skilled in 'form is empty of form,' up to skilled in 'consciousness is empty of consciousness,' connect this in the same way with each, up to skilled in 'awakening is empty of awakening';

[F.303.b] are skilled in the path with pliancy, and skilled in the path without pliancy; are skilled in production, stopping, and lasting and changing into something else; are skilled in greed, skilled in hatred, skilled in confusion, skilled in being without greed, skilled in being without hatred, skilled in being without confusion, skilled in the view and skilled in not the view, skilled in wrong view and not wrong view, connect this in the same way with each, up to and skilled in all forms of views; are skilled in name, skilled in name and form, skilled in objective supports, and skilled in dominant conditions; are skilled in aspects and skilled in marks; are skilled in suffering, skilled in origination, skilled in cessation, and skilled in the path; are skilled in hells, skilled in the animal world, skilled in the world of Yama, skilled in the path to the world of Yama, skilled in the path to the hells, skilled in the path to the animal world, skilled in the human's path, skilled in the gods, and skilled in the path to the gods; are skilled in the result of stream enterer, skilled in the path to the result of stream enterer, skilled in the result of once-returner, skilled in the path to the result of once-returner, skilled in the result of non-returner, skilled in the path to the result of non-returner, skilled in the result that is the state of a worthy one, skilled in the path to the result that is the state of a worthy one, skilled in the result that is a pratyekabuddha's awakening, and skilled in the path to the result that is a pratyekabuddha's awakening; are skilled in the knowledge of path aspects, [F.304.a] skilled in the knowledge of all aspects, and skilled in the path to the knowledge of all aspects; are skilled in faculties and skilled in completed faculties; are skilled in quick wisdom, skilled in keen wisdom, skilled in speedy wisdom, skilled in penetrating wisdom, skilled in expansive wisdom, and skilled in unequaled wisdom; are skilled in times gone by, skilled in times yet to come, and skilled in the present time; and are skilled in skillful means, skilled in the aspirations of beings, skilled in surpassing aspiration, skilled in meanings, skilled in letters, and skilled in the presentation of the three vehicles.

63.98      “Subhūti, you should know that those are the benefits when bodhisattva great beings have practiced the perfection of wisdom, have accomplished the perfection of wisdom, and have meditated on the perfection of wisdom.”

63.99      ye dharmā hetu-prabhavā hetun teṣāṃ tathāgato hy avadat. teṣāṃ ca yo nirodha evaṃ vādī mahāśramaṇa.

ye dharmā hetu-prabhavā hetuṃ teṣāṃ tathāgato hy avadat. teṣāṃ ca yo nirodha evaṃ vādī mahāśramaṇa.

ye dharmā hetu-prabhavā hetuṃ teṣāṃ tathāgato hy avadat. teṣāṃ ca yo nirodha evaṃ vādī mahāśramaṇa.<sup>658</sup> [V31] [F.1.b] [B45]

- 63.100 “Lord, how should bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom, accomplish the perfection of wisdom, and meditate on the perfection of wisdom?”
- 63.101 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “they should practice the perfection of wisdom through the calmness of form, through the fraudulence of form, through the vanity of form, and through the pointlessness of form. They should practice the perfection of wisdom through the calmness of feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., and consciousness, through the fraudulence of consciousness, through the vanity of consciousness, and through the pointlessness of consciousness.
- 63.102 “You ask, ‘How should they accomplish the perfection of wisdom?’ They should accomplish the perfection of wisdom [F.2.a] by accomplishing a space-like emptiness.
- 63.103 “You ask, ‘How should they meditate on the perfection of wisdom?’ They should meditate on the perfection of wisdom by meditating on a space-like emptiness.”
- 63.104 “Lord, for bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, how long is the practice of the perfection of wisdom?”
- 63.105 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “starting from the first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, they should practice the perfection of wisdom, and similarly accomplish it, and similarly meditate on it.”
- 63.106 “Lord, should they practice with an unbroken, unseparated stream of thoughts connected one after the other?”
- 63.107 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “they should practice the perfection of wisdom without providing an opportunity for other attention. They should practice the perfection of wisdom, should accomplish the perfection of wisdom, and should meditate on the perfection of wisdom without relaxing attention to the knowledge of all aspects. They should practice, and similarly should accomplish, and similarly should meditate on the perfection of wisdom in such a way that mind and mental factor dharmas are not set in motion at all.”
- 63.108 “Lord, will bodhisattva great beings who have practiced the perfection of wisdom, accomplished the perfection of wisdom, and meditated on the perfection of wisdom [F.2.b] reach the knowledge of all aspects?”
“No, Subhūti.”
- 63.109 “Well then, Lord, will they without having meditated?”
“No, Subhūti.”
- 63.110 “Well then, Lord, will they having meditated when they meditated, and without having mediated when they did not meditate?”
“No, Subhūti.”

- 63.111 “Well then, Lord, will they without having meditated and without having not meditated?”
“No, Subhūti.”
- 63.112 “Well then, Lord, how will they reach the knowledge of all aspects?”
“Just as suchness will, Subhūti.”
- 63.113 “Lord, how will suchness?”
“Just as the very limit of reality will, Subhūti.”
- 63.114 “Lord, how will the very limit of reality?”
“Just as the dharma-constituent will, Subhūti.”
- 63.115 “Lord, how will the dharma-constituent?”
“Just as the self element, the being element, the living being element, and the person element will, Subhūti.”
- 63.116 “Lord, how will the self element, up to the person element?”
“What do you think, Subhūti, can you apprehend a self and a being?”
“No, Lord.”
- 63.117 “Subhūti, how will those who cannot apprehend a self or a being label a being element? Thus, Subhūti, those who do not label a being, do not label the perfection of wisdom, and do not label all dharmas will reach the knowledge of all aspects.”
- 63.118 “Lord, is the perfection of wisdom something that cannot be labeled? [F.3.a] Are the perfection of concentration, perfection of perseverance, perfection of patience, perfection of morality, and perfection of giving something that cannot be labeled?”
- 63.119 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “the perfection of wisdom cannot be labeled. Compounded or uncompounded, śrāvaka dharmas or pratyekabuddha dharmas, up to all dharmas cannot be labeled.”
- 63.120 “Lord, if all dharmas cannot be labeled, why, Lord, does hell have a label, the animal world have a label, the world of Yama have a label, humans and gods have labels, stream enterers up to worthy ones have labels, and why does unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening have a label?”
- 63.121 “Subhūti,” asked the Lord in return, “what do you think, can a being that is a label be apprehended?”
“No, Lord.”
- 63.122 “Subhūti, how, given that you cannot apprehend a being, will you label hell, the animal world, the world of Yama, humans and gods, stream enterers up to worthy ones, and unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening? Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should thus train in phenomena that cannot be labeled.”
- 63.123 “Well then, Lord, do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom train in form; do they train in feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; [F.3.b] up to do they train in the knowledge of all

- aspects?”
- 63.124 “Subhūti, they should train in form without taking anything away and without adding anything, up to they should train in the knowledge of all aspects without taking anything away and without adding anything.”
- 63.125 “Lord, how will they train in..., up to the knowledge of all aspects without taking anything away and without adding anything?”
 “Subhūti, they should train in those as not produced and not stopping.”
- 63.126 “Lord, how should they train in form as not produced and not stopping, up to how should they train in the knowledge of all aspects as not produced and not stopping?”
 “Subhūti, they should train without occasioning anything, without meditating on and without investigating volitional factors.”
- 63.127 “Lord, how should they train without occasioning anything?”
 “Subhūti, they should train without occasioning anything by seeing that all dharmas are empty of their own marks.”
- 63.128 “Lord, how should they train in all dharmas empty of their own marks?”
 “Subhūti, they should view form as empty of form, they should view feeling as empty of feeling, they should view perception as empty of perception, they should view volitional factors as empty of volitional factors, and they should view consciousness as empty of consciousness. They should view the eyes as empty of the eyes, up to they should view thinking mind as empty of thinking mind. They should view inner emptiness as empty of inner emptiness, up to they should view the emptiness of its own mark as empty of the emptiness of its own mark. They should view the concentrations as empty of the concentrations, up to they should view cessation absorption as empty of cessation absorption. [F.4.a] They should view the applications of mindfulness as empty of the applications of mindfulness, up to they should view awakening as empty of awakening. Subhūti, that is how bodhisattva great beings should train in all dharmas empty of their own marks.”
- 63.129 “Lord, if form is empty of form, up to even awakening is empty of awakening, well then, Lord, how will bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom?”
 “Subhūti, not practicing is the bodhisattvas’ practice of the perfection of wisdom.”
- 63.130 “Lord, why is not practicing the practice of the perfection of wisdom?”
 “Subhūti, it is because a perfection of wisdom cannot be apprehended, a bodhisattva cannot be apprehended, a practice cannot be apprehended, and something being practiced, some way of practicing, and some place for practice cannot be apprehended. The bodhisattva great beings' practice of the perfection of wisdom is there, Subhūti, where all those thought constructions are not apprehended."

63.131 "Lord, if not practicing is the practice of the perfection of wisdom, how then will bodhisattva great beings who are beginning the work practice the perfection of wisdom?"

63.132 "Subhūti, here, starting from the first production of the thought, thus<sup>659</sup> bodhisattva great beings beginning the work train in all phenomena as providing no basis for apprehension.<sup>660</sup> When they give a gift they should give the gift by way of not apprehending anything; when they guard morality, they should guard morality by way of not apprehending anything; when they make a practice of patience, they should make a practice of being patient by way of not apprehending anything; when they make a vigorous effort, they should make a vigorous effort [F.4.b] by way of not apprehending anything; when they become absorbed in meditative stabilization, they should become absorbed in meditative stabilization by way of not apprehending anything; and when they cultivate wisdom, they should cultivate wisdom by way of not apprehending anything, and similarly, up to the knowledge of all aspects."

63.133 "Lord, to what extent does not apprehending come about, and to what extent does apprehending come about?"

63.134 "Subhūti, to the extent that there is duality, to that extent there is apprehending; nonduality is the absence of apprehending."

63.135 "Lord, what is duality?"

"Subhūti, to the extent that there are eyes and a form, up to a thinking mind and a dharma, and up to awakening and a buddha, Subhūti, that is duality."

63.136 "Lord, what is nonduality?"

"Subhūti, to the extent that there are no eyes and form, up to no thinking mind and dharma, and up to no awakening and a buddha, Subhūti, that is nonduality."

63.137 "Does the unfindable provide a basis for not apprehending or does the findable provide a basis for not apprehending?"<sup>661</sup>

63.138 "Subhūti, neither does the findable provide a basis for not apprehending nor does the unfindable provide a basis for not apprehending, but still, Subhūti, the sameness of the findable and the unfindable is the unfindable.<sup>662</sup> Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should thus train in the sameness of what does and does not provide a basis for apprehending. Training like that, bodhisattva great beings will not apprehend anything in the perfection of wisdom."

- 63.139 “Lord, if bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom are not attached to apprehending and are not attached to not apprehending, how, Lord, will bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom complete [F.5.a] level after level, and how, having completed level after level, will they reach the knowledge of all aspects?”
- 63.140 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom standing on a basis for apprehending will not complete level after level. Bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom will not, having stood on a basis for apprehending, be able to complete level after level. And why? Subhūti, it is because a perfection of wisdom cannot be apprehended, awakening cannot be apprehended, and someone practicing the perfection of wisdom cannot be apprehended either. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should train in the perfection of wisdom like that.”
- 63.141 “Lord, if a perfection of wisdom cannot be apprehended, awakening cannot be apprehended, and someone practicing the perfection of wisdom cannot be apprehended either, well then, how will bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom make an investigation—‘this is form, this is feeling, this is perception, these are volitional factors, this is consciousness,’ up to ‘this is awakening’—into all these dharmas that are without an intrinsic nature?”
- 63.142 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom who do it in such a way that they apprehend form, up to apprehend consciousness, up to apprehend awakening do not make an investigation into dharmas.”
- 63.143 “Lord, if bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not apprehend form, up to do not apprehend consciousness, up to do not apprehend awakening, well then, how will they complete the perfection of giving; enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva; [F.5.b] having entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva, purify a buddhafiield; having purified a buddhafiield, bring beings to maturity; having brought beings to maturity, gain the knowledge of all aspects; having gained the knowledge of all aspects, turn the wheel of the Dharma; having turned the wheel of the Dharma, do the work of a buddha; and having done the work of a buddha free all beings from saṃsāra?”
- 63.144 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings do not practice the perfection of wisdom for the sake of form, up to they do not practice the perfection of wisdom for the sake of awakening.”
- 63.145 “Well then, Lord, for the sake of what do bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom?”

- 63.146 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings do not practice the perfection of wisdom for the sake of anything. And why? Subhūti, it is because all dharmas are unmade, all dharmas are unchanging; the perfection of wisdom is unmade and unchanging, awakening too is unmade and unchanging, and bodhisattvas are unmade and unchanging as well. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice the perfection of wisdom like that in an unmade and unchanging way.”
- 63.147 “Lord, if all dharmas are unmade and are unchanging, well then, Lord, how is there an arrangement of three vehicles—the Śrāvaka Vehicle, Pratyekabuddha Vehicle, and Buddha Vehicle?”
- 63.148 “Subhūti, no arrangement [F.6.a] at all can be apprehended in dharmas that are unmade and unchanging. An arrangement can be apprehended in dharmas that occasion something and have collected together. And why? Because simple, unlettered, ordinary folk settle down on the five aggregates. They settle down on a form aggregate, up to settle down on a consciousness aggregate, up to settle down on a knowledge of all aspects. They falsely project form, falsely consider form a fact, up to and they falsely project awakening, up to falsely consider awakening a fact. It occurs to them to think, ‘I will fully awaken to awakening. I will free beings from saṃsāra.’ And why? Subhūti, it is because even though that form, up to that awakening are not apprehended by the buddhas’ five eyes, still those ignorant persons speak ill of the buddha and want to free beings from saṃsāra.”
- 63.149 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti then asked him, “Lord, if a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha were not to apprehend with the five eyes those beings they free from saṃsāra, how then would the Lord, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, have prophesied beings in the three groups as those destined for the perfect state, those destined to be wrong, and those not necessarily destined?”
- 63.150 “Subhūti, I, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, have not apprehended any being at all destined for the perfect state, destined to be wrong, or not necessarily destined. Nevertheless, Subhūti, as an ordinary convention, but not ultimately, I keep these beings without a material reality [F.6.b] who perceive a material reality away from seizing on the unreal.”
- 63.151 “But Lord, the tathāgatas stood in the ultimate and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”
“No, Subhūti.”
- 63.152 “Well then, Lord, the tathāgatas stood in a succession of miraculous powers and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”
“No, Subhūti.”

- 63.153 “Lord, if they neither stood in the ultimate and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening nor stood in a succession of miraculous powers and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, well then, Lord, it surely would not be the case that the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas did not fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, would it?”
- 63.154 “Subhūti, it is not that the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas have not fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Subhūti, the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas have indeed fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening but do not stand in the compounded element or the un-compounded element.
- 63.155 “To illustrate, Subhūti, a tathāgata’s magical creation does not stand in the compounded element or the un-compounded element but still that tathāgata’s magical creation goes and comes, stands and sits. Were it to practice the perfection of giving; practice the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, [F.7.a] perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and the perfection of wisdom; have accomplished and dwell in the four concentrations; cultivate the four immeasurables, four formless absorptions, five clairvoyances, four applications of mindfulness, up to the eightfold noble path; cultivate the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, and wishlessness meditative stabilization; cultivate inner emptiness, up to emptiness of its own mark; cultivate the eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and great compassion; and have turned the wheel of the Dharma—and were that magical creation also to have magically created and made a prophecy about infinite beings in the three groups—what do you think, Subhūti, would that magical creation have made a prophecy about any being in the three groups?”
- “No, Lord.”
- 63.156 “Similarly, Subhūti, the tathāgatas understand that all phenomena are like magical creations, and, having understood that they are like magical creations, have not led any being at all. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should cultivate the perfection of wisdom like that, as it really is, like a tathāgata’s magical creation.”
- 63.157 “Lord, if all dharmas are like magical creations, then what distinction and what differentiation, Lord, is there between a tathāgata and a magical creation? What is your intention?”

- 63.158 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, there is no distinction at all between a tathāgata and a tathāgata’s magical creation; no differentiation at all can be apprehended. Subhūti, a tathāgata and a tathāgata’s magical creation [F.7.b] are without distinguishing features. And why? Because the magical creation does whatever the work a tathāgata does.”
- 63.159 “Lord, when there is no Tathāgata, does the Tathāgata’s magical creation do the work?”
 “It does, Subhūti.”
- 63.160 “Lord, when there is no tathāgata, how does the Tathāgata’s magical creation do the work?”
- 63.161 “To illustrate, people know, ‘The tathāgata Śāntamati, finding no bodhisattva, magically created a magical creation and passed into nirvāṇa. That magical creation did the work of a buddha for more than an eon. Later on, it prophesied the awakening of a bodhisattva and passed into nirvāṇa.’ Nevertheless, that magical creation was not born and did not pass into complete nirvāṇa. Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings believing all dharmas to be like magical creations should practice the perfection of wisdom.”
- 63.162 “Lord, if there is no distinction at all between a magical creation and a tathāgata, how will there be a pure gift? Lord, the merit from the gifts beings set before the Tathāgata never finishes until they have passed into complete nirvāṇa in the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind. Similarly, Lord, does the merit from the gifts beings have set before a magical creation never finish until they have passed into complete nirvāṇa in the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind as well?”
- 63.163 “Subhūti, the true nature of dharmas on account of which the Tathāgata has become worthy of the offerings of the world with its celestial beings is just that true nature of dharmas on account of which the magical creation has become worthy [F.8.a] of the offerings of the world with its celestial beings.
- 63.164 “Let alone a gift presented to a tathāgata, Subhūti, and let alone a gift presented to a tathāgata’s magical creation, if some benevolent sons of a good family or daughters of a good family pay attention to the Tathāgata, that wholesome root will not come to an end and they will all reach the end of suffering. Subhūti, let alone benevolent attention to the Tathāgata, if some sons of a good family or daughters of a good family throw a flower in salutation into the sky while paying attention to the Tathāgata, that wholesome root will not come to an end and they will all reach the end of suffering. Subhūti, let alone benevolent attention to the Tathāgata, and let alone throwing a flower in salutation into the sky, Subhūti, if some sons of a good family or daughters of a good family bow down to the buddha, they will all gradually reach the end of suffering. Subhūti, a gift presented to a tathāgata is so powerful and as greatly beneficial as that.

63.165 “Through this one of many explanations, Subhūti, you should take the mark that makes a dharma a dharma as your measure and know that there is not even the slightest distinction between a tathāgata and a tathāgata’s magical creation. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice the perfection of wisdom like that.

63.166 “Having entered into that true dharmic nature of dharmas they should not complicate the true nature of dharmas with the idea, ‘This is the perfection of wisdom, this is the true dharmic nature of the perfection of wisdom.’ Similarly, connect this with each, up to all dharmas.”

63.167 “Lord, the true dharmic nature of all dharmas should not be made complicated, but has the Lord not complicated the true dharmic nature of all dharmas on account of the Tathāgata saying ‘this is form,’ up to ‘this is consciousness,’ [F.8.b] and similarly with inner and outer dharmas, and similarly with wholesome and unwholesome dharmas, and dharmas with outflows and without outflows, ordinary and extraordinary, shared in common and not shared in common, and compounded and uncompounded?”

63.168 “No, Subhūti, I have simply taught the true dharmic nature of dharmas and explained dharmas with words and signs motivated by the thought, ‘How will others comprehend?’ So, the true dharmic nature of all dharmas has not been made complicated.”

63.169 “Lord, if the Lord has taught the true dharmic nature of dharmas and explained dharmas with words and signs in order that others will comprehend, why, Lord, have you given an explanation in words and signs of dharmas that have no names and have no signs?”

63.170 “Subhūti, conventional language is not to do with settling down on names and signs; otherwise, Subhūti, conventional language would be simply just suffering. There is no settling down to do with names and signs. Subhūti, a tathāgata and a tathāgata’s śrāvakas do not settle down on names and signs. Subhūti, were a name to settle down on a name, or were a sign to settle down on a sign, then emptiness would settle down on emptiness, signlessness would settle down on signlessness, wishlessness would settle down on wishlessness, and suchness too would settle down on suchness; the very limit of reality would settle down on the very limit of reality, the dharma-constituent would settle down on the dharma-constituent, and the uncompounded would settle down [F.9.a] on the uncompounded. Subhūti, all dharmas are thus simply mere names; they do not persist as mere names. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should thus practice the perfection of wisdom standing<sup>663</sup> in a mere name and sign, without settling down on it.”

- 63.171 “Lord, if all dharmas finish as a mere name and sign, well then, for what do bodhisattva great beings produce the thought to be awakened, and having produced the thought experience the many various forms of volitional factors, pursue the bodhisattva way of life, give a gift, guard morality, make a practice of being patient, make a vigorous effort, become absorbed in meditative stabilization, cultivate wisdom, cultivate emptiness, keep on with the concentrations, immeasurables, and formless absorptions, keep on with the applications of mindfulness, keep on with the right efforts, keep on with the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation, keep on with the ten tathāgata powers, and complete..., up to great compassion?”
- 63.172 “Subhūti, you have asked, ‘If all dharmas finish as a mere name and sign, well then, for what do bodhisattva great beings pursue the bodhisattva way of life?’ Subhūti, it is because all these volitional factors are simply mere names and signs, and those names and signs are empty of names and signs. That is why bodhisattva great beings pursue the bodhisattva way of life and gain the knowledge of all aspects, and having gained the knowledge of all aspects turn the wheel of the Dharma, [F.9.b] and having turned the wheel of the Dharma cause beings to pass into complete nirvāṇa in the three vehicles. The production, stopping, lasting, and changing of those names and signs into something else does not exist and cannot be apprehended.”
- 63.173 “Lord, you say ‘knowledge of all aspects’ again and again.”
 “Subhūti, I do say ‘knowledge of all aspects’ again and again.”
- 63.174 “Lord, the Tathāgata has also said ‘all-knowledge,’ the Tathāgata has also said ‘knowledge of path aspects’ in the sutra,<sup>664</sup> and the Tathāgata has also said ‘knowledge of all aspects.’ What distinction and what differentiation, Lord, is there between these three types of omniscience?”<sup>665</sup>
- 63.175 “Subhūti, all-knowledge belongs to śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas; the knowledge of path aspects, Subhūti, to bodhisattva great beings; and the knowledge of all aspects, Subhūti, to the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas.”
- 63.176 “Lord, why does the knowledge of all aspects belong to tathāgatas, why the knowledge of path aspects to bodhisattva great beings, and why all-knowledge to śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas?”
- 63.177 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “it is because śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas know all those inner and outer dharmas, as many as there are, but not all paths and all aspects.
- 63.178 “Subhūti, you have asked, ‘Lord, why [F.10.a] does the knowledge of path aspects belong to bodhisattva great beings?’ Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings have to produce all paths, have to understand all paths, and they have to fully complete all paths—the śrāvaka paths, pratyekabuddha paths, and bodhisattva paths. On those paths they do the path work to be done but do not actualize the very limit of reality.”

63.179 “Lord, will bodhisattva great beings not complete the buddha path and will they also not actualize the very limit of reality?”

“Subhūti, those bodhisattva great beings do not actualize the very limit of reality until they have purified a buddhafield and brought beings to maturity.”

63.180 “Lord, do bodhisattva great beings actualize the very limit of reality having stood on the path?”

“No, Subhūti.”

63.181 “Well then, Lord, do bodhisattva great beings actualize the very limit of reality having stood on what is not the path?”

“No, Subhūti.”

63.182 “Well then, Lord, do bodhisattva great beings actualize the very limit of reality having stood on both the path and what is not the path?”

“No, Subhūti.”

63.183 “Well then, Lord, do bodhisattva great beings actualize the very limit of reality having stood on neither the path nor on what is not the path?”

“No, Subhūti.”

63.184 “Well then, Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings actualize the very limit of reality?”

“What do you think, Subhūti, have you stood on the path and stopped appropriating anything and become freed in your heart from outflows?”
[F.10.b]

“No, Lord,” replied Subhūti.

63.185 “Well then, Subhūti, have you from having stood on what is not the path?” he asked.

“No, Lord.”

63.186 “Well then, Subhūti, have you from having stood on both the path and what is not the path?”

“No, Lord.”

63.187 “Well then, Subhūti, have you stood on neither the path nor what is not the path and stopped appropriating anything and become freed in your heart from outflows?”

63.188 “No, Lord,” replied Subhūti. “Lord, I have not become freed in my heart from outflows having stood anywhere, but Lord, my heart, because I have not stood anywhere, is a heart that is freed.”

63.189 “Similarly, Subhūti,” said the Lord, “bodhisattva great beings actualize the very limit of reality without having stood anywhere.”

- 63.190 “Subhūti, that one aspect on account of which the ‘knowledge of all aspects’ spoken of again and again is called ‘knowledge of all aspects’ is thus the calm aspect. Subhūti, also those aspects, tokens, and signs on account of which phenomena are described as ‘empty’—those aspects, tokens, and signs are understood by the Tathāgata as well. Therefore, it is called the ‘knowledge of all aspects.’ ”
- 63.191 “Lord,” he asked further, “from among the three types of omniscience— all-knowledge, knowledge of path aspects, and knowledge of all aspects—is there a difference in the abandonment of affliction such that it is said, ‘with its abandonment there is something left over,’ but ‘with its abandonment there is nothing left over?’”
- 63.192 “Subhūti, there is no difference in the abandonment of affliction, but still the Tathāgata has an abandonment of all residual impression connections. [F.11.a] Śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas do not have the abandonment of all residual impression connections.”
- 63.193 “Lord, before reaching the knowledge of all aspects is there an uncompounded abandonment of afflictions?”
- “Indeed there is, Subhūti.”
- 63.194 “Lord, are differences apprehended in the uncompounded?”
- “No, Subhūti,” said the Lord. “Differences are not apprehended in the uncompounded.”
- 63.195 “Lord, if differences are not apprehended in the uncompounded, why does the Lord say, ‘This is an abandonment of residual impression connections. This is not an abandonment of residual impression connections?’”
- 63.196 “Subhūti, a residual impression connection is not an affliction. Śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas have a separation from greed, hatred, and confusion, but they still do odd things with their bodies. These are not even bad in ordinary persons, and not in śrāvakas either, but they do not happen with a tathāgata.”
- 63.197 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if the path is not an existent thing and nirvāṇa is not an existent thing, why is it taught that ‘this is a stream enterer; this is a once-returner; this is a non-returner; this is a worthy one; and this is a pratyekabuddha?’”
- 63.198 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “stream enterer, up to tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha—all of these are categories of the uncompounded.”
- 63.199 “Lord, does something uncompounded make the categories ‘this is a stream enterer,’ up to ‘this is a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly [F.11.b] complete buddha?’”

- 63.200 “Subhūti, the un compounded does not make categories, but still, having taken ordinary convention as the authority, they are simply spoken about, even though ultimately there cannot be categories. And why? Subhūti, it is because there is no opportunity for speech designation there.”
- 63.201 “Lord, how will a later limit be designated?”
 “Subhūti, having taken ordinary convention as the authority, those for whom an end is demarcated are designated as having a later limit, but not ultimately.”
- 63.202 “Lord, if in all phenomena empty of their own marks a prior limit is not apprehended, what need is there to say more about a later limit?”
- 63.203 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! Given that a prior limit of all phenomena empty of their own marks is not apprehended, what need is there to say more about a later limit? It is impossible. But still, Subhūti, there is simply an explanation that ‘this is the prior limit, this is the later limit’ for those beings who do not understand that all phenomena are empty of their own marks, even though, Subhūti, a prior limit and later limit of phenomena empty of their own marks cannot be apprehended. So, bodhisattva great beings, Subhūti, should thus practice the perfection of wisdom with<sup>666</sup> all phenomena empty of their own marks. Practicing with all phenomena empty of their own marks, they do not settle down anywhere—on inner or outer, or compounded or un compounded, or śrāvaka dharmas or pratyekabuddha dharmas.”
- 63.204 The Lord having said this, venerable Subhūti said to him, “Lord, you say ‘perfection of wisdom’ again and again. Why,<sup>667</sup> Lord, [F.12.a] is it called ‘perfection of wisdom’?”
- 63.205 “Subhūti,” he replied, “this perfection of wisdom is, of all dharmas, perfect,<sup>668</sup> therefore, it is called perfection of wisdom.”
- 63.206 “Also, Subhūti, with this perfection of wisdom all śrāvakas, pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattva great beings, and tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas have reached the other side of all dharmas; therefore, it is called perfection of wisdom.”
- 63.207 “Also, Subhūti, with this perfection of wisdom the Tathāgata has fully awakened to the fact that all dharmas are not ultimately different; therefore, it is called perfection of wisdom.”
- 63.208 “Also, Subhūti, gone into this perfection of wisdom is suchness, gone into it is the very limit of reality, and gone into it is the true nature of dharmas; therefore, it is called perfection of wisdom.”
- 63.209 “Also, Subhūti, this perfection of wisdom is neither conjoined with nor disjoined from any dharma; it neither shows nor does not show itself, and is neither obstructed nor not obstructed. And why? Because this perfection of wisdom is formless, does not show itself, is not obstructed, and has only one mark—that is, no mark.

63.210 “Also, Subhūti, this perfection of wisdom causes the practice of all dharmas, bestows all confidences and all insights, and is something that Māra and the Māra class of gods, and persons in the Śrāvaka and Pratyekabuddha Vehicles, cannot stop, up to and that other tīrthika opponents cannot stop. And why? Subhūti, [F.12.b] it is because all those who do the stopping, those who will stop, and the stopping—none of those can be apprehended in the perfection of wisdom. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice this perfection of wisdom like that.

63.211 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice the reality<sup>669</sup> of the perfection of wisdom—namely, they should practice the reality of impermanence, they should practice the reality of suffering, they should practice the reality of selfless, and they should practice the good of the knowledge of suffering, the good of the knowledge of origination, the good of the knowledge of cessation, the good of the knowledge of the path, the good of the knowledge of extinction, the good of the knowledge of nonproduction, the good of the knowledge of dharma,<sup>670</sup> the good of the knowledge of subsequent realization, the good of the knowledge of the conventional, the good of the knowledge of mastery, the good of the knowledge in accord with sound, and the good of the knowledge of things as they really are. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice the reality of the perfection of wisdom like that according to the reality and the mode.”

63.212 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if good and bad<sup>671</sup> are not found in this deep perfection of wisdom, how can bodhisattva great beings practice this deep perfection of wisdom’s reality?”

63.213 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing this deep perfection of wisdom’s reality should practice like this—namely, they should not practice with the idea ‘greed is good for me’ or ‘is bad for me’; they should not practice with the idea ‘hatred is good for me’ or ‘is bad for me’; they should not practice with the idea ‘confusion is good for me’ or ‘is bad for me’; they should not practice with the idea ‘greed, hatred, [F.13.a] and confusion are good for me’ or ‘are bad for me’; they should not practice with the idea ‘wrong view is good for me’ or ‘is bad for me’; up to they should not practice with the idea ‘all forms of view are good for me’ or ‘are bad for me.’ And why? Because the suchness of greed, hatred, and confusion does not do good to anything and does not do bad to anything, up to the suchness of the various views does not do good to anything and does not do bad to anything.

- 63.214 “They should not practice with the idea ‘form is good for me’ or ‘form is bad for me’; up to ‘consciousness is good for me’ or ‘consciousness is bad for me’; similarly, connect this with each, up to they should not practice with the idea ‘awakening is good for me’ or ‘awakening is bad for me.’ And why? Subhūti, it is because the Tathāgata, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, does not apprehend anything that is good or bad.
- 63.215 “Furthermore, Subhūti, whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise, the true dharmic nature of dharmas, the establishment of dharmas, the certification of dharmas, and the dharmic constituent remain. They do not do anything good or bad to anything. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should thus shun good and bad, and practice the perfection of wisdom.”
- 63.216 The Lord having said this, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, why does the perfection of wisdom not do good and not do bad?”
- 63.217 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “it is because the perfection of wisdom does not cause any compounded or un-compounded dharma at all. It is because of that, Subhūti, [F.13.b] that the perfection of wisdom does not do good or bad to anything.”
- 63.218 “But Lord, the un-compounded is good for all noble buddhas and a buddha’s śrāvakas, is it not?”
- 63.219 “Subhūti, the un-compounded is indeed good for all noble buddhas and a buddha’s śrāvakas, but still, it is not there to be good or bad for anything.
- 63.220 “To illustrate, Subhūti, the suchness of space is not there to be good or bad for anything. Similarly, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom of bodhisattva great beings is not there to be good or bad for anything.”
- 63.221 “Lord, having trained in the un-compounded perfection of wisdom, do bodhisattva great beings not reach the knowledge of all aspects?”
- 63.222 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!” replied the Lord. “Having trained in the un-compounded perfection of wisdom, bodhisattva great beings gain the knowledge of all aspects, but not in a dualistic way.”
- 63.223 “Lord, does a dual dharma reach a dual dharma?”
“No, Subhūti.”
- 63.224 “Lord, does a nondual dharma reach a nondual dharma?”
“No, Subhūti.”
- 63.225 “Well then, Lord, does a dual dharma reach a nondual dharma?”
“No, Subhūti.”
- 63.226 “Well then, Lord, does a nondual dharma reach a dual dharma?”<sup>672</sup>
“No, Subhūti.”
- 63.227 “Well then Lord, how is it reached?”

“Subhūti, because neither a dual dharma nor a nondual dharma [F.14.a] can be apprehended, the knowledge of all aspects is thus reached by way of not apprehending anything at all.”

63.228 This was the sixty-third chapter, “Many Inquiries About the Two Dharmas,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.” [B46]

64.

CHAPTER 64: PERFECTLY DISPLAYED

64.1 The Lord having said this, venerable Subhūti said to him, “Deep, Lord, is the perfection of wisdom. Those who do what is difficult, Lord, are those bodhisattva great beings who have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. They have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening for the sake of beings even though a being is not apprehended and the designation of a being is not apprehended.

64.2 “To illustrate, a person who wants to grow a cutting in space, where there is no firm ground—like that, Lord, is a bodhisattva great being who wants to reach the knowledge of all aspects for the sake of beings.”

64.3 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!” replied the Lord. “Those who do what is difficult are those bodhisattvas who set out for the knowledge of all aspects for the sake of beings and, having awakened to that knowledge of all aspects, liberate all beings from attachment. To illustrate, Subhūti, a person who wants to grow a cutting, without knowing its root, bud, leaf, and flower, still would grow a trunk from that cutting and, having grown it, tend and water it from time to time. Gradually there would be an abundance of branches from that trunk, there would be an abundance of leaves, there would be an abundance of flowers, [F.14.b] there would be an abundance of fruit, and they would make use of the leaves and so on. Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening for the sake of all beings practice the six perfections, gain the knowledge of all aspects, and as leaves, flowers, and fruit, as it were, provide sustenance to all beings. Subhūti, there, having resorted to the bodhisattva leaf, as it were, beings are liberated from the three terrible forms of life; and, having resorted to the bodhisattva flower, as it were, beings take birth in great sāla tree-like royal families, great sāla tree-like brahmin families, great sāla tree-like business families, and among the Cāturmahārājika gods, up to and take birth among the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana gods. Similarly, bodhisattva great beings gain the knowledge of all aspects and establish those beings in the result of stream enterer, establish them in the result of once-returner, establish them in the result of non-returner, establish them in the state of a worthy one, and establish them in a pratyekabuddha's awakening. They resort to those bodhisattva great beings, gain the knowledge of all aspects, and, having gained the knowledge of all aspects, as leaves, flowers, and fruit, as it were, also provide sustenance to all beings.

64.4 "All those who give gifts for religious services performed to them will gradually pass into complete nirvāṇa in the three vehicles, namely the Śrāvaka Vehicle, or the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle, or the Great Vehicle, and fully awaken to unsurpassed, [F.15.a] perfect, complete awakening, and even though a being is not apprehended and the designation of a being does not exist there, they liberate those beings from self-grasping.

64.5 "Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should train in the perfection of wisdom like that, thinking, 'Here the beings or the designation of beings for the sake of whom I will gain the knowledge of all aspects cannot be apprehended at all.' "

64.6 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti said to him, "Lord, bodhisattva great beings should indeed be known as tathāgatas. And why? Because thanks to bodhisattva great beings the continuums of all the hells are cut, of all the birthplaces of the animal world are cut, of all the worlds of Yama are cut, of all the places that preclude a perfect human birth are cut, the continuum of all destitution is cut, the continuums of all forms of life that are wanting are cut, the continuum of all the desire realm is cut, the continuum of all the form realm is cut, and the continuum of all the formless realm is cut."

64.7 "Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!" replied the Lord. "Bodhisattva great beings should indeed be known as tathāgatas realized ones. And why? Subhūti, it is because if bodhisattva great beings were not to set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, past, future, and present lord buddhas would not fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, pratyekabuddhas would not appear in the world, worthy ones would not appear in the world, [F.15.b] up to stream enterers would not appear in the world, up to the continuum of hells would not be cut, up to the continuums of the desire realm, the form realm, and the formless realm would not be cut.

64.8 "Again, Subhūti, what you have said, that 'bodhisattva great beings should indeed be known as tathāgatas,' is exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! Bodhisattva great beings should indeed be known as tathāgatas. And why? Subhūti, it is because that suchness, on account of which tathāgatas are labeled, is just the suchness on account of which pratyekabuddhas are labeled, is just the suchness on account of which all noble beings are labeled, is just the suchness on account of which form is labeled, up to is just the suchness on account of which consciousness is labeled, up to is just the suchness on account of which the compounded element and the un-compounded element are labeled, and is just the suchness on account of which the suchness of all beings and the suchness of the tathāgatas is labeled.

64.9 “Why, Subhūti, is suchness called suchness? Standing in this suchness, bodhisattva great beings gain the knowledge of all aspects, therefore it is called suchness. In this way, Subhūti, having taken suchness as their authority, bodhisattva great beings should indeed be known as tathāgatas. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should train like that in suchness, the perfection of wisdom.

64.10 “Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings have trained thus in suchness, the perfection of the wisdom, they become skilled in the faculties of all beings and gain skill in the completion of the faculties. They understand that the work of all beings is their own responsibility. When they understand that the work of all beings is their own [F.16.a] responsibility, they complete knowledge from prayer.<sup>673</sup> When they complete knowledge from prayer, they purify the knowledge of the three time periods; when they have cleansed the knowledge of the three time periods, they undertake the bodhisattva practices and work for the welfare of beings; when they work for the welfare of beings they purify a buddhafiield; when they have purified a buddhafiield, they gain the knowledge of all aspects; when they have gained the knowledge of all aspects, they turn the wheel of the Dharma; when they have turned the wheel of the Dharma, they establish beings in the three vehicles, and having established beings in the three vehicles, they will pass into complete nirvāṇa in the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind.

64.11 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings seeing all the good qualities and benefits like that should produce the thought of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and should inspire others to produce the thought of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening as well.”

64.12 Then venerable Subhūti said to the Lord, “Lord, the world with its gods, humans, and asuras should bow down to those bodhisattva great beings practicing this deep perfection of wisdom as it has been taught.”

64.13 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! It is exactly as you say!” replied the Lord. “Subhūti, the world with its gods, humans, and asuras should bow down to those bodhisattva great beings practicing this deep perfection of wisdom as it has been taught.”

- 64.14 “Lord, how much merit do bodhisattva great beings create, who have produced the first thought, and who want to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening [F.16.b] for the sake of all beings?”
- 64.15 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord asked him in return, “Subhūti, were all the beings, as many as there are in a thousandfold world system, to be located on the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level, would those beings create a lot of merit?”
- 64.16 “A lot, Lord; a lot, Sugata,” he replied. “It would be infinite, Lord; beyond measure, Sugata.”
- 64.17 “Subhūti,” he continued, “of the two—the bases of meritorious action of beings, as many as there are included in a thousandfold world system, in the Śrāvaka Vehicle or in the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle, and the bases of meritorious action of one bodhisattva great being who has produced the first thought—the bases of meritorious action of those in the Śrāvaka Vehicle or in the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle in a thousandfold world system does not approach the bases of meritorious action of one bodhisattva great being who has produced the first thought by a hundredth part, up to a hundred thousand one hundred millionth part. And why? Because those in the Śrāvaka and Pratyekabuddha Vehicles are born from bodhisattva great beings, but bodhisattva great beings are not born from śrāvakas or pratyekabuddhas. Similarly, connect this with each, up to all those beings in the Śrāvaka Vehicle or in the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle in a great billionfold world system do not approach even..., up to a hundred thousand one hundred millionth part of the merit of bodhisattva great beings who have produced the first thought.
- 64.18 “Subhūti, let alone beings in a great billionfold world system in the Śrāvaka Vehicle or in the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle, Subhūti, even if all the beings who are in the great billionfold world system were standing on the Śuklavipaśyanā level, their merit [F.17.a] would not approach even..., up to a hundred thousand one hundred millionth part of the merit of one bodhisattva great being who has produced the first thought. Subhūti, let alone those standing on the Śuklavipaśyanā level, Subhūti, even if all the beings included in the great billionfold world system were standing on the Gotra level, their merit would not approach even..., up to a hundred thousand one hundred millionth part of the merit of one bodhisattva great being who has produced the first thought. Similarly, connect this with each, up to the merit of those who have entered onto the Aṣṭamaka level, the Darśana level, the Tanū level, the Vītarāga level, the Kṛtāvin level, up to or the Pratyekabuddha level would not approach even..., up to a hundred thousand one hundred millionth part of the merit of one bodhisattva great being who has produced the first thought.

- 64.19 “Subhūti, even if all the beings included in the great billionfold world system were to have entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva, their merit would not approach even..., up to a hundred thousand one hundred millionth part of the merit of bodhisattva great beings who are candidates for awakening.<sup>674</sup> Subhūti, even if all the beings who are in the great billionfold world system were to be candidates for awakening, their merit would not approach even..., up to a hundred thousand one hundred millionth part of the merit of a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha.”
- 64.20 “Lord, what should bodhisattva great beings who have produced the first thought pay attention to?” he asked.
- 64.21 “Subhūti,” he replied, “bodhisattva great beings who have produced the first thought should pay attention to the knowledge of all aspects.”
- 64.22 “Lord, [F.17.b] what sort of thing is the knowledge of all aspects—what is the objective support, what is the dominant factor, what is the aspect, and what is the defining mark?”
- 64.23 “Subhūti,” he replied, “the knowledge of all aspects is a nonexistent thing that is without a defining mark, without a causal sign, without effort, unproduced, and not appearing. As for what you asked, Subhūti—‘What is the objective support of the knowledge of all aspects, what is the dominant factor, what is the aspect, and what is the defining mark?’—Subhūti, the objective support of the knowledge of all aspects is a nonexistent thing; the dominant factor is mindfulness; the aspect is calmness; and the defining mark is the absence of a defining mark. Subhūti, that is the objective support of the knowledge of all aspects, that is the dominant factor, that is the aspect, and that is the defining mark.”
- 64.24 He then inquired further, “Lord, is only the knowledge of all aspects a nonexistent thing, or is form also a nonexistent thing? Are feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness also nonexistent things? Similarly, are inner and outer dharmas also nonexistent things? And are the four concentrations, four immeasurables, four formless absorptions, four applications of mindfulness, four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path; the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, and wishlessness meditative stabilization; the eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha; great love, great compassion, great joy, [F.18.a] and great equanimity; the first clairvoyance, and the second, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth clairvoyance; and the compounded element and un-compounded element also nonexistent things?”

64.25 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “the knowledge of all aspects is a nonexistent thing; form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are also nonexistent things; up to the compounded element and un-compounded element are also nonexistent things. And why? Subhūti, that knowledge of all aspects has no intrinsic nature.”

64.26 “Lord, why does the knowledge of all aspects have no intrinsic nature?” he asked.

“Subhūti,” he replied, “something that has arisen from a union has no intrinsic nature, and anything arisen from a union with no intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing. Subhūti, in this way all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. Subhūti, all phenomena also have emptiness for their intrinsic nature, and all phenomena have signlessness and wishlessness for their intrinsic nature. Subhūti, all phenomena also have suchness for their intrinsic nature, all phenomena have the very limit of reality for their intrinsic nature, and all phenomena have the dharma-constituent for their intrinsic nature. Subhūti, also from just this explanation, you should know that all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature.”

64.27 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti then inquired further of him, “Lord, if all dharmas are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, with what skillful means do bodhisattva great beings who have produced the first thought of awakening practice the perfection of giving, purify a buddhafiield, and bring beings to maturity? How do they practice the perfection of morality, perfection [F.18.b] of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom, from the first concentration, up to the fourth concentration; from love, up to equanimity; from absorption in the station of endless space, up to the station of neither perception nor nonperception; from inner emptiness, up to the emptiness of its own mark; and from the applications of mindfulness, up to the eightfold noble path, emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, and wishlessness meditative stabilization, eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, great love, great compassion, and knowledge of all aspects, and purify a buddhafiield and bring beings to maturity?”

64.28 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “you should know that the skillful means of bodhisattva great beings is mastering all phenomena that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, purifying a buddhafiield, and bringing beings to maturity, all the while knowing that the buddhafiield as well as those beings are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. Practicing the perfection of giving, those bodhisattva great beings master the awakening path; practicing the perfection of morality they master the awakening path; practicing the perfection of patience they master the awakening path; practicing the perfection of perseverance they master the awakening path; [F.19.a] practicing the perfection of concentration they master the awakening path; and practicing the perfection of wisdom they master the awakening path; similarly, connect this with each, up to and practicing the knowledge of all aspects they master the awakening path. But they should understand that the awakening path is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature too.

64.29 “Subhūti, those bodhisattva great beings practicing the six perfections keep on mastering<sup>675</sup> that awakening path for as long as they are not fully endowed with the ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, great love, great compassion, and the knowledge of a knower of all aspects. Subhūti, these are the awakening path. They complete the perfections with these awakening paths, and having completed the perfections gain the knowledge of all aspects through the wisdom of the single unique instant.<sup>676</sup> At that time they eliminate all residual impressions, connections, and afflictions through an elimination in which states of existence are not produced. As they look down with the buddha eye they do not even apprehend the great billionfold world system as a nonexistent thing, let alone as an existent thing. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice the perfection of wisdom like that, where all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. Subhūti, that too is the skillful means of bodhisattva great beings—that they do not apprehend something that exists, never mind something that does not exist.

64.30 “Subhūti, those bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom give gifts. When they give a gift, they do not think about it in a certain way, making it into a causal sign, and they do not pay attention to it as an existent thing or as a nonexistent thing. [F.19.b] They do not think about recipients in a certain way and make them into a causal sign, and do not pay attention to them as an existent thing or as a nonexistent thing. They do not think about givers in a certain way and make them into a causal sign, and do not pay attention to them as an existent thing or as a nonexistent thing. They also do not apprehend that thought of awakening, do not make it into a causal sign, do not make it into an objective support, and do not see it. They do not think about..., up to the perfection of wisdom in a certain way as an existent thing or as a nonexistent thing and do not make it into a causal sign. They do not pay attention to..., up to the knowledge of all aspects as an existent thing or as a nonexistent thing, do not think about it in a certain way, and do not pay attention to it.<sup>677</sup> They do not make..., up to<sup>678</sup> unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening into an objective support, and do not make it into a causal sign. They also do not perceive one who becomes fully awakened, or something by means of which one becomes fully awakened as an existent thing or as a nonexistent thing. And why? Because all phenomena thus are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, and that nonexistence has not been made by buddhas, śrāvakas, or pratyekabuddhas. All phenomena are unchanging and are separated from a maker.”

64.31 “Lord, are phenomena separated from the phenomena themselves?” he asked.

“Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!” replied the Lord. “The phenomena are separated from the phenomena themselves.”

64.32 “Lord,” he asked further, “if the phenomena themselves are separated from the phenomena, how is it appropriate that a separated phenomenon knows a separated phenomenon as an existent thing or a nonexistent thing? It is not appropriate that a nonexistent phenomenon knows an existent phenomenon; it is not appropriate that an existent phenomenon knows a nonexistent phenomenon; it is not appropriate that a nonexistent phenomenon knows a nonexistent phenomenon; and it is not appropriate that an existent phenomenon [F.20.a] knows an existent phenomenon. So, in regard to all phenomena that are thus unknown, however could bodhisattva great beings be teaching that they are ‘nonexistent things’ or ‘existent things’?”

64.33 “Bodhisattva great beings teach that they are ‘a nonexistent thing’ or ‘an existent thing’ based on ordinary convention, but not ultimately.”

64.34 “Lord, is ordinary convention one thing and the ultimate another?” he asked.

“Subhūti,” he replied, “ordinary convention is not one thing and the ultimate another. Just that suchness of ordinary convention is the suchness of the ultimate. These beings do not know and see that suchness, which is why ‘an existent thing’ or ‘a nonexistent thing’ are taught as the bodhisattvas’ ordinary convention.

64.35 “Furthermore, Subhūti, these beings have the notion that these five aggregates are existent things. They are unaware that they are nonexistent things. So, thinking, ‘What can I do so they will realize they are nonexistent things?’, bodhisattva great beings teach like that for their sake, based on a division of dharmas. Subhūti, they should practice the perfection of wisdom like that.”

64.36 This was the sixty-fourth chapter, “Perfectly Displayed,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

65.           CHAPTER 65: WORSHIPING, SERVING, AND ATTENDING ON SPIRITUAL FRIENDS AS SKILLFUL MEANS

65.1       The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti then asked him, “Lord, you say ‘bodhisattva’s practice’ again and again. Lord, what are the words bodhisattva’s practice for?”

65.2       “Subhūti, a ‘bodhisattva’s practice’ is a practice practiced for bodhi, therefore it is called a bodhisattva’s practice.”

65.3       “Lord, where is that practice—that bodhisattva great beings’ practice practiced for awakening?” [F.20.b]

65.4       “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “they practice ‘form is empty,’ but pursue the practice without dividing awakening into two. They practice ‘feeling...,’ ‘perception...,’ ‘volitional factors...,’ and ‘consciousness is empty’; and similarly, they practice ‘the constituents...,’ ‘the sense fields...,’ and ‘inner and outer dharmas are empty’; they practice ‘the perfection of giving...,’ ‘the perfection of morality...,’ ‘the perfection of patience...,’ ‘the perfection of perseverance...,’ ‘the perfection of concentration...,’ and ‘the perfection of wisdom is empty’; they practice ‘inner emptiness is empty’; they practice ‘outer emptiness...,’ ‘inner and outer emptiness is empty,’ and similarly, connect this with each, up to they practice ‘the emptiness of its own mark is empty’; they practice ‘the first, second, third, and fourth concentration...,’ ‘love...,’ ‘compassion...,’ ‘joy...,’ and ‘equanimity is empty’; they practice ‘the station of endless space...,’ ‘the station of endless consciousness...,’ ‘the station of nothing-at-all...,’ and ‘the station of neither perception nor nonperception is empty’; they practice ‘the four applications of mindfulness are empty,’ they practice ‘the four right efforts are empty,’ they practice ‘the four legs of miraculous power are empty,’ they practice ‘the five faculties are empty,’ they practice ‘the five powers are empty,’ they practice ‘the seven limbs of awakening are empty,’ and they practice ‘the eightfold noble path is empty’; they practice ‘the emptiness, signless, and wishless gateways to liberation...,' 'the absorptions...,' 'the ten tathāgata powers...,' 'the four fearlessnesses...,' 'the four detailed and thorough knowledges...,' 'the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha...,' and 'the purification of a buddhafield is empty'; they practice 'bringing beings to maturity is empty'; they practice 'the confidences<sup>679</sup> are empty'; they practice 'accomplishing the letters [F.21.a] is empty'; they practice 'entrance into all letters is empty'; they practice 'entrance into all for which there are no letters is empty'; they practice 'the compounded element is empty'; and they practice 'the un compounded element is empty,' but pursue the practice without dividing awakening into two. Subhūti, when practicing the perfection of wisdom like that bodhisattva great beings' lives are lived for awakening."

65.5 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti then asked him, "Lord, you say 'buddha' again and again. Lord, what is the word buddha for?"

65.6 "Subhūti, true reality<sup>680</sup> is called buddha. Also, Subhūti, there are those who have fully awakened to the true Dharma, therefore they are called buddha. Also, Subhūti, there are those who have a penetrating realization of true reality, therefore they are called buddha. Also, Subhūti, there are those who have fully awakened to all dharmas as they really are, therefore they are called buddha."

65.7 "Lord, you say 'awakening' again and again. Lord, what is the word awakening for?"

"Subhūti, awakening is a word for emptiness, it is a word for suchness, it is a word for perfect, it is a word for the very limit of reality, and it is a word for dharma-constituent. Also, Subhūti, awakening is a word for mere designation. Also, Subhūti, awakening means true reality.<sup>681</sup> Also, Subhūti, awakening is suchness, unmistakable suchness, unaltered suchness, and unaltered nature, therefore it is called awakening. Also, Subhūti, that awakening is a realization that all dharmas are a mere designation and causal sign, therefore it is called awakening. Also, [F.21.b] Subhūti, that awakening is the awakening of the lord buddhas, therefore it is called awakening. Also, Subhūti, the lord buddhas have fully awakened to it, therefore it is called awakening."

65.8 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti then asked him, "Lord, if bodhisattva great beings who practice for this awakening practice the six perfections, up to practice the knowledge of all aspects, what wholesome root of theirs will be accumulated or diminished, decreased or increased, produced or stopped, or defiled or purified?"

65.9 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who practice for this awakening, practice the six perfections, up to and practice the knowledge of all aspects do not practice to accumulate or to diminish, to decrease or to increase, to produce or to stop, or to defile or purify any dharma at all. And why? Because the awakening of bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom is not available in the manner of an objective support that has to be accumulated or diminished, has to be decreased or increased, has to be produced or stopped, or has to be defiled or purified.”

65.10 “Lord, if the awakening of bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom is not available as any dharma in the manner of an objective support, how will bodhisattva great beings [F.22.a] practicing the perfection of wisdom fully grasp the perfection of giving, and similarly, up to and fully grasp the perfection of wisdom; how will they practice inner emptiness, up to the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature; how will they practice the concentrations, immeasurables, and formless absorptions; how will they practice the four applications of mindfulness, up to the eightfold noble path; how will they practice the emptiness, signless, and wishless gateways to liberation; up to how will they practice the ten tathāgata powers; up to practice great compassion; and how will they practice the ten bodhisattva levels, transcend the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels, and enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva?”

65.11 Venerable Subhūti having thus inquired, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings undertake the bodhisattva practices they do not practice the perfection of giving in a dualistic way, and similarly, connect this with each, up to they do not practice the perfection of wisdom in a dualistic way, up to and they do not practice the knowledge of all aspects in a dualistic way. In that way, Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom, they fully grasp the perfection of giving, up to they fully grasp the perfection of wisdom, up to and they gain the knowledge of all aspects.”

65.12 “Lord, if they do not practice the perfection of giving in a dualistic way, and similarly, up to do not practice the knowledge of all aspects in a dualistic way, how will the bodhisattva great beings, starting from the production of the first thought, [F.22.b] grow and flourish on wholesome roots, and how will they grow and flourish on wholesome roots up to the production of the last thought?”

65.13 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, those who practice dualistically do not grow and flourish on wholesome roots. And why? Subhūti, those who resort to dualism are all foolish ordinary people. They do not grow and flourish on wholesome roots. The bodhisattva great beings who do not practice dualistically, starting from the production of the first thought, grow and flourish on account of the wholesome dharmas, and up to the last thought they grow and flourish on account of the wholesome dharmas. The world with its gods, humans, and asuras cannot suppress those wholesome roots of theirs. Were those unwholesome roots to suppress them they would fall to the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level, and they would be captured by other unwholesome roots as well. Captured by those, even while practicing the perfection of giving they would not grow and flourish on wholesome roots, up to while practicing the knowledge of all aspects they would not grow and flourish on wholesome roots. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice the perfection of wisdom like that.”

65.14 “Lord, do bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom for the sake of wholesome roots?” he asked.

65.15 “Subhūti, they do not. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings do not practice the perfection of wisdom for the sake of wholesome roots, and of course they do not practice the perfection of wisdom for the sake of unwholesome roots, but still bodhisattva great beings who have not attended on the lord buddhas, or have not brought the wholesome roots to completion, [F.23.a] or have not been assisted by spiritual friends cannot gain the knowledge of all aspects.”

65.16 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings who have attended on the lord buddhas, have brought the wholesome roots to completion, and have been assisted by spiritual friends gain the knowledge of all aspects?”

65.17 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “here, starting from the production of the first thought, bodhisattva great beings attend on the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas, fully grasp whatever teachings there are of those lord buddhas—the discourses, melodious narrations, predictions, verses, summaries, introductions, tales, accounts, birth stories, expanded texts, marvels, and expositions—and, having taken them up, thoroughly mastered the words, investigated them with their thinking minds, and penetrated them with insight, acquire the dhāraṇī. Having acquired the dhāraṇī, they engender detailed and thorough knowledge. Having produced detailed and thorough knowledge, even after departing that life, up until gaining the knowledge of all aspects, they do not ever let those doctrines get lost. There they plant wholesome roots in relation to those tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas, and, protected by those wholesome roots, never<sup>682</sup> take birth in the terrible forms of life or in places that preclude a perfect human birth. With those wholesome roots they protect the purity of aspiration, an aspiration that causes purification of a buddhfield and causes beings to be brought to maturity. [F.23.b] Protected by those wholesome roots, they are never separated from those spiritual friends, lord buddhas, bodhisattva great beings, and śrāvakas who sing the praises of the Buddha Vehicle. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that should thus attend on the lord buddhas, look after the wholesome roots, and rely on spiritual friends.”

65.18 This was the sixty-fifth chapter, "Worshiping, Serving, and Attending on Spiritual Friends as Skillful Means," of "The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines."

66.

CHAPTER 66: A DEMONSTRATION OF SKILLFUL MEANS

66.1 Then venerable Subhūti inquired of the Lord, “Lord, bodhisattva great beings who do not attend on the lord buddhas, do not plant wholesome roots, and are not looked after by spiritual friends—those bodhisattva great beings would not gain the knowledge of all aspects, would they?”

66.2 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “bodhisattva great beings who have not attended on the lord buddhas, have not planted wholesome roots, and have not been looked after by spiritual friends would not gain the knowledge of all aspects. And why? Even bodhisattva great beings who have attended on the lord buddhas, have planted wholesome roots, and have been looked after by spiritual friends will not be able to gain the knowledge of all aspects, never mind bodhisattva great beings who have not attended on the lord buddhas, have not planted wholesome roots, and have not been looked after by spiritual friends. It is impossible that they will gain the knowledge of all aspects. Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings [F.24.a] should attend on the lord buddhas, plant wholesome roots, and rely on spiritual friends.”

66.3 “Lord, why would even bodhisattva great beings who attend on the lord buddhas, plant wholesome roots, and rely on spiritual friends not gain the knowledge of all aspects?”

66.4 “It is because of being separated from skillful means. It is because they have not heard that method from those lord buddhas and have not planted wholesome roots and not relied on those spiritual friends who are the spiritual friends that would teach them that method.”

66.5 “Lord, what are those skillful means, in possession of which bodhisattva great beings gain the knowledge of all aspects?”

66.6 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here, starting from the production of the first thought, when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of giving they give gifts to the lord buddhas, the pratyekabuddhas and śrāvakas, and to those in human form and nonhuman form, with attention connected to the knowledge of all aspects. But, endowed with attention connected to the knowledge of all aspects, they do not entertain the notion that giving is giving, do not entertain the notion that the recipient is a recipient, and do not entertain the notion that the giver is a giver. And why? Because they see all dharmas as empty of their own mark, as not thoroughly established, and as not having come into being. They enter into the mark that marks all dharmas as dharmas, entering into all dharmas marked as being without the capacity to function and not occasioning anything. [F.24.b] Endowed with those skillful means they grow and flourish on wholesome roots; growing and flourishing on wholesome roots, they practice the perfection of giving; and practicing the perfection of giving they bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhafiield, but without hoping for a result from giving—a result from giving that they would enjoy in saṃsāra. On the contrary, they practice the perfection of giving in order to protect beings and in order to liberate beings.”

66.7 This was the sixty-sixth chapter, “A Demonstration of Skillful Means,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

67.

CHAPTER 67: MORALITY

67.1 “Furthermore, Subhūti, starting from the production of the first thought, bodhisattva great being practicing the perfection of morality with attention connected with the knowledge of all aspects guard morality. They do not obscure it with a greedy thought, or hate, or confusion, or a bad proclivity, or an obsession, or any unwholesome dharma at all that obstructs awakening—namely, with miserliness, immorality, an emotionally upsetting thought, a lazy thought, deficient thought, thought that veers off, an intellectually confused thought, pride, conceit, pride in being superior, egotism, or a śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha thought. And why? Because they understand that all dharmas are empty of their own mark; they see all dharmas as not arisen, not thoroughly established, and as not having come into being; and they enter into the mark that marks all dharmas as dharmas, entering into all dharmas marked as being without the capacity to function and not occasioning anything. Endowed with those skillful means they grow and flourish on wholesome roots. Growing and flourishing [F.25.a] on wholesome roots, they practice the perfection of morality. Practicing the perfection of morality, they bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhafiield, but without hoping for a result from morality—a result from morality that they would enjoy in saṃsāra. On the contrary, they practice the perfection of morality because they want to look after beings, to avoid hurting beings, and to benefit beings.”

67.2 This was the sixty-seventh chapter, “Morality,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

68.           CHAPTER 68: GROWING AND FLOURISHING

68.1       Similarly, connect this with the perfection of patience, the perfection of perseverance, and the perfection of concentration as well.

68.2       “Furthermore, Subhūti, starting from the production of the first thought, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with attention connected with the knowledge of all aspects cultivate wisdom. They do not obscure it with a greedy thought, up to a śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha thought. And why? Subhūti, it is because they understand all dharmas are empty of their own mark; they see all dharmas as not arisen, as not thoroughly established, and as not having come into being; and they enter into the mark that marks all dharmas as dharmas, entering into all dharmas marked as being without the capacity to function and not occasioning anything. Endowed with those skillful means, they grow and flourish on wholesome roots. Growing and flourishing on wholesome roots, they practice the perfection of wisdom. Practicing the perfection of wisdom, they bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhafiield, but without hoping for a result from wisdom—a result from wisdom that they would enjoy in saṃsāra. On the contrary, they practice [F.25.b] the perfection of giving in order to protect beings and in order to liberate beings.”

68.3       This was the sixty-eighth chapter, “Growing and Flourishing,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

69.

CHAPTER 69: AN EXPLANATION OF MEDITATION ON THE PATH

- 69.1 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings become absorbed in the first concentration, up to become absorbed in the fourth concentration, become absorbed in the immeasurables, up to and become absorbed in the formless absorptions, but they do not get saddled with their maturation. And why? Because they are endowed with skillful means, those skillful means endowed with which they understand that the concentrations, immeasurables, and formless absorptions are empty of their own mark, up to understand that they do not occasion anything.
- 69.2 “Furthermore, Subhūti, even though, starting from the production of the first thought, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom endowed with skillful means travel the path to eliminate what seeing and meditation eliminate, it does not cause them to reach the result of stream enterer, and it does not cause them to reach the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, or the state of a worthy one. And why? Because, even while practicing the dharmas on the side of awakening, they understand that all dharmas are empty of their own mark and pass beyond the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha level. Subhūti, this is the bodhisattva great beings’ forbearance for the nonproduction of dharmas.
- 69.3 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom become absorbed in the eight deliverances, and become absorbed in the nine serial absorptions, but do not reach the result of stream enterer, up to do not reach the state of a worthy one. And why? Because they understand all dharmas [F.26.a] are empty of their own mark, up to and they understand that all dharmas do not occasion anything.
- 69.4 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings master the ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and great compassion, but still they do not reach the knowledge of all aspects until they have purified a buddhafield and brought beings to maturity. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice the perfection of wisdom like that.” [B47]

69.5 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti said to him, “Lord, bodhisattva great beings who practice the deep dharmas like that but do not get saddled with their maturation are endowed with the finest awareness.”

69.6 Venerable Subhūti having said that, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who practice the deep dharmas like that but do not get saddled with their maturation are endowed with the finest awareness. And why? Subhūti, it is because the bodhisattva great beings do not move from their intrinsic nature.”<sup>683</sup>

69.7 “Lord, from which intrinsic nature do they not move?”

“Subhūti, they do not move from a nonexistent thing.<sup>684</sup> In regard to what you have said, Subhūti—‘From which intrinsic nature do they not move?’—they do not move from the intrinsic nature of form; they do not move from the intrinsic nature of feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; they do not move from the intrinsic nature of the perfection of giving, perfection of morality, perfection of patience, [F.26.b] perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom; they do not move from the intrinsic nature of the concentrations, immeasurables, and formless absorptions; they do not move from the intrinsic nature of the applications of mindfulness, up to the eightfold noble path; up to and they do not move from the intrinsic nature of the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, and wishlessness meditative stabilization, and great compassion. And why? Subhūti, it is because the intrinsic nature of these dharmas is a nonexistent thing. Subhūti, a nonexistent thing cannot fully awaken to a nonexistent thing.”

69.8 “Lord, can a nonexistent thing fully awaken to an existent thing?”

“No, Subhūti.”

69.9 “Lord, can an existent thing<sup>685</sup> fully awaken to a nonexistent thing?”

“No, Subhūti.”

69.10 “Lord, can a nonexistent thing fully awaken to a nonexistent thing?”

“No, Subhūti.”

69.11 “Lord, can an existent thing fully awaken to an existent thing?”

“No, Subhūti.”

69.12 “Lord, if a nonexistent thing does not fully awaken to an existent thing, an existent thing does not fully awaken to a nonexistent thing, a nonexistent thing does not fully awaken to a nonexistent thing, and an existent thing does not fully awaken to an existent thing, well then, wouldn’t there be no attainment and no full awakening?”

69.13 “Subhūti, there is indeed a clear realization, but it is not through this set of four productions.” [F.27.a]

“So then, Lord, what sort of thing is clear realization?”

69.14 “Seeing sameness, not like an existent thing and not like a nonexistent thing either, is clear realization because it is without thought construction; it is free from thought construction. Clear realization is that sort of thing, where those thought constructions do not exist.”<sup>686</sup>

69.15 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, what is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction?”

69.16 “Subhūti, ‘form is permanent’ and ‘impermanent’ is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction; ‘feeling...,’ ‘perception...,’ ‘volitional factors...,’ and ‘consciousness is permanent’ and ‘impermanent’ is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction. ‘Form is happiness’ and ‘suffering’ is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction; ‘feeling...,’ ‘perception...,’ ‘volitional factors...,’ and ‘consciousness is happiness’ and ‘suffering’ is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction. ‘Form has a self’ and ‘is selfless’ is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction; ‘feeling...,’ ‘perception...,’ ‘volitional factors...,’ and ‘consciousness has a self’ and ‘is selfless’ is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction. ‘Form is calm’ and ‘not calm’ is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction; ‘feeling...,’ ‘perception...,’ ‘volitional factors...,’ and ‘consciousness is calm’ and ‘not calm’ is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction. ‘Form has to be comprehended’ and ‘does not have to be comprehended’ is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction; ‘feeling...,’ ‘perception...,’ ‘volitional factors...,’ and ‘consciousness has to be comprehended’ and ‘does not have to be comprehended’ is the bodhisattva great beings’ thought construction. ‘The noble truth of suffering has to be comprehended’ is thought construction; ‘origination has to be abandoned’ is thought construction; ‘cessation has to be actualized’ [F.27.b] is thought construction; ‘the path has to be cultivated’ is thought construction; ‘the four concentrations have to be cultivated’ is thought construction; ‘the four immeasurables have to be cultivated’ is thought construction; ‘the four formless absorptions have to be cultivated’ is thought construction; ‘the four applications of mindfulness, four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path have to be cultivated’ is thought construction; ‘the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation have to be cultivated’ is thought construction; ‘the eight deliverances and nine serial absorptions have to be cultivated’ is thought construction; ‘I must pass beyond the result of stream enterer, the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, the state of a worthy one, and a pratyekabuddha’s awakening’ is thought construction; 'I must complete the ten bodhisattva levels' is thought construction; 'I must enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva' is thought construction; 'I must purify a buddhafield' is thought construction; 'I must bring beings to maturity' is thought construction; 'I must generate the ten tathāgata powers' is thought construction; 'I must complete the four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha' is thought construction; 'I must gain the knowledge of all aspects' is thought construction; and 'I must eliminate all residual impression connections' is thought construction.

69.17 "Therefore, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not construct in thought what should not be constructed in thought. They do not construct in thought 'form is permanent or impermanent' that should not be constructed in thought; they do not construct in thought 'feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness is permanent or impermanent' [F.28.a] that should not be constructed in thought; they do not construct in thought..., up to 'I must gain the knowledge of all aspects' that should not be constructed in thought. And why? Because something real does not concoct something unreal and something unreal does not concoct something real,<sup>687</sup> and you cannot apprehend, apart from something real and unreal, something doing the concocting, something being concocted, someone who does the concocting, and somewhere the concocting happens.

69.18 "Therefore, Subhūti, form, up to the knowledge of all aspects is without thought construction, up to awakening is without thought construction. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should thus practice the perfection of wisdom without thought construction."

69.19 "Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom see all dharmas without thought construction?"<sup>688</sup>

69.20 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Subhūti, there is no intrinsic nature of form, up to consciousness, up to there is no intrinsic nature of the knowledge of all aspects. That which has no intrinsic nature is without thought construction. For that reason, Subhūti, form..., up to consciousness is without thought construction. Similarly, connect this with each, up to the knowledge of all aspects is without thought construction. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva."

69.21 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, "Lord, if no phenomenon at all can be apprehended as having an intrinsic nature, on what path do bodhisattva great beings enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva—on the śrāvaka path, or the pratyekabuddha path, or the buddha path?"

69.22 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, [F.28.b] “Indeed, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings do not enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva on the śrāvaka path, or the pratyekabuddha path, or the buddha path, but still, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva having trained on all paths. To illustrate, Subhūti, worthy ones do indeed enter into the flawlessness that is a perfect state, having trained on all the paths,<sup>689</sup> but still, until they have produced the path’s result they will not reach the result of a worthy one in a single instant of the path. Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings also do indeed enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva having produced all the paths, but still, until they have reached the vajropama meditative stabilization they will not reach the knowledge of all aspects, because they gain the knowledge of all aspects through the wisdom of the unique single instant.”

69.23 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti inquired of him, “Lord, if bodhisattva great beings enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva having completed all paths, in that case, Lord, given that the Aṣṭamaka path is different, the stream enterer path is different, the path of the candidate for once-returner is different, the once-returner path is different, the path of the candidate for non-returner is different, the non-returner path is different, the path of the candidate for worthy one is different, the worthy one path is different, the pratyekabuddha path is different, and the path of the tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete Buddha is different, well then, Lord, if all those paths are different from each other, how will bodhisattva great beings enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva [F.29.a] having completed all paths? Lord, if bodhisattva great beings have to complete all paths to enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva, would they not, having produced all paths, be an Aṣṭamaka; would they not, having produced the path of seeing, be a stream enterer; would they not, having produced the path of meditation, be a candidate for once-returner and a once returner; up to would they not be a worthy one; and would they not, having produced the pratyekabuddha path, be a pratyekabuddha? Lord, there is no chance, it is impossible that bodhisattva great beings, having produced the Aṣṭamaka path, are an Aṣṭamaka, or, having become an Aṣṭamaka enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva; it is impossible for bodhisattva great beings to enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva and reach the knowledge of all aspects. Similarly, it is impossible that bodhisattva great beings, having reached the result of stream enterer, up to having reached the state of a worthy one or a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva; it is impossible for bodhisattva great beings to enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva and reach the knowledge of all aspects. Given that it would be impossible for bodhisattva great beings to enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva and reach the knowledge of all aspects, how, Lord, are we to understand bodhisattva great beings entering into the secure state of a bodhisattva having completed all paths, and having entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva reaching the knowledge of all aspects and eliminating all residual impression connections?”

69.24 Venerable Subhūti having thus inquired, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! Subhūti, it is impossible for bodhisattva great beings to become an Aṣṭamaka, [F.29.b] to reach the result of stream enterer, and having produced all paths, ‘enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva.’ There is no chance of it happening, it is impossible. It is impossible that ‘bodhisattva great beings enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva and gain the knowledge of all aspects.’ But still, Subhūti, starting from the production of the first thought, bodhisattva great beings practicing the six perfections, having beheld all eight levels, pass beyond them with knowledge and seeing. What are the eight levels? The exposition of the levels is this: namely, the Śuklavipaśyanā level, the Gotra level, the Aṣṭamaka level, the Darśana level, the Tanū level, the Vītarāga level, the Kṛtāvin level, and the Pratyekabuddha level. Having passed beyond those eight levels with knowledge and seeing, they enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva. Having entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva with the knowledge of a knower of all aspects, they eliminate all afflictions, residual impressions, and connections.

69.25 “There, Subhūti, the knowledge of an Aṣṭamaka is a bodhisattva’s forbearance;<sup>690</sup> the knowledge and abandonment of a stream enterer is a bodhisattva’s forbearance; the knowledge and abandonment of a once-returner is a bodhisattva’s forbearance; the knowledge and abandonment of a non-returner is a bodhisattva’s forbearance; the knowledge and abandonment of a worthy one is a bodhisattva’s forbearance; and the knowledge and abandonment of a pratyekabuddha is a bodhisattva’s forbearance. Having completed all those paths of all śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattvas enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva with the knowledge of a knower of path aspects, and having entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva, eliminate all afflictions, residual impressions, [F.30.a] and connections with the knowledge of a knower of all aspects. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings having completed all the paths should fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, should be like fruit for all beings to live on.”

69.26 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, which of these paths—the śrāvaka path, the pratyekabuddha path, and the buddha path—that the Lord has spoken about is this path of a knower of path aspects?”

69.27

“Subhūti,” he replied, “on that bodhisattva great beings should produce a completely pure knowledge of path aspects. Subhūti, there a completely pure knowledge of path aspects is this: Whatever the attributes, whatever the reasons, and whatever the signs through which the knowledge of path aspects becomes completely pure, bodhisattva great beings should fully awaken to those attributes, those tokens, and those signs. And, having fully awakened to them, in order to tame others they should also explain, expound, explicate, and make them known to others, and should establish others in them so that, one way or the other, others will understand. On that bodhisattva great beings should accomplish vocalizations, conventional terms, and sounds with a pronunciation that makes them understood in the great billionfold world system, and they should accomplish those vocalizations, conventional terms, and sounds in order to make an echo-like understanding. So, Subhūti, in this one of many ways, bodhisattva great beings should complete the knowledge of path aspects. Having completed the knowledge of path aspects they should know the aspirations of beings. They should also know the path of beings in hell, [F.30.b] and they should know the cause and should know the result as well. They should cause them to turn back from the path to the hells, and they should cause them to turn back from the cause and should cause them to turn back from the result as well. Similarly, they should also know the path of the kinnaras, mahoragas, nāgas, yakṣas, and humans, and they should know the cause and should know the result as well. They should also know the path of the gods, and they should know the cause and should know the result as well. They should also know the path of Brahmā, and they should know the cause and should know the result as well. They should also know the path of the Ābhāsvara, Śubhakarṣna, Bṛhatphala, Aśaṃjñin, Avṛha, Atapa, and Akaniṣṭha gods, and they should know the cause and should know the result as well. They should also know the path of the Ākāśānāntyāyatana gods, and they should know the cause and should know the result as well, up to they should also know the path of the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana gods, and they should know the cause and should know the result as well. They should know the four applications of mindfulness, should know the four right efforts, should know the four legs of miraculous power, should know the five faculties, should know the five powers, should know the seven limbs of awakening, and they should know the eightfold noble path. They should know the emptiness gateway to liberation, should know the signlessness gateway to liberation, and should know the wishlessness gateway to liberation. They should know the ten tathāgata powers, should know the four fearlessnesses, should know the four detailed and thorough knowledges, should know the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, and should know great compassion. They establish by way of those paths the beings who should be established in the result of stream enterer [F.31.a] in the result of stream enterer, up to establish those who should be established in the state of a worthy one in the state of a worthy one, and establish those who should be established in a pratyekabuddha's awakening in a pratyekabuddha's awakening. They establish those who should be established in awakening in awakening. This, Subhūti, is the bodhisattva great beings' knowledge of path aspects.

69.28 "Having trained in this, bodhisattva great beings can become involved in the aspirations of beings. Having become involved in their aspirations, they can teach the doctrine in such a way that one way or the other their doctrine-teachings do not get lost and are not in vain. And why? It is because they have a perfectly proportionate, perfect comprehension that knows the higher and lower faculties of others, and they know the goings and comings and deaths and rebirths of beings as they actually are.

69.29 "Subhūti, those dharmas on the side of awakening in which bodhisattva great beings should train, and the paths in which the śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas should train, are all included within this perfection of wisdom, so bodhisattva great beings should train in the perfection of wisdom."

69.30 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, "Lord, if those dharmas—the dharmas on the side of awakening and the awakening—are not conjoined and not disjoined, are formless, cannot be pointed out, do not obstruct, and have only one mark—namely, no mark—how, Lord, will the dharmas on the side of awakening be those that bring about awakening? Lord, dharmas that are not conjoined and not disjoined, are formless, cannot be pointed out, do not obstruct, and have only one mark—namely, no mark—do not bring about or take away any dharma [F.31.b] at all. To illustrate, Lord, space does not bring about and does not take away any dharma. Similarly, Lord, all dharmas are empty of their own marks and do not bring about and do not take away any dharma at all."

69.31 "Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!" he replied. "Subhūti, dharmas empty of their own marks do not bring about or take away any dharma at all. Subhūti, the teaching that 'the dharmas on the side of awakening bring about awakening' is for those beings who do not know that dharmas are empty of their own marks.

69.32 "Furthermore, Subhūti, form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; the perfection of giving, up to the perfection of wisdom; inner emptiness, outer emptiness, up to the emptiness of its own mark; the first concentration, up to the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana absorption; the applications of mindfulness, up to the eightfold noble path; the three gateways to liberation, the eight deliverances, the nine serial absorptions, up to the ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha; great compassion; up to the knowledge of all aspects—all those dharmas in the noble Dharma and Vinaya—are not conjoined and not disjoined, are formless, cannot be pointed out, do not obstruct, and have only one mark—namely, no mark. The Tathāgata, in order to take care of all beings, [F.32.a] uses them as labeled by ordinary convention: conventionally, but not ultimately. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should train in them all by knowing and seeing them. Having trained in them as they really are by knowing and seeing them, they should realize some and not realize others.”

69.33 “Lord, what are the dharmas bodhisattva great beings should realize, having trained in them by knowing and seeing, and what are the dharmas they should not realize?”

69.34 “Subhūti, they are not those that śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas have to realize by knowing and seeing. They are all dharmas that have to be fully realized with the knowledge of a knower of all aspects. It is thus, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings should train in this noble Dharma and Vinaya perfection of wisdom.”

69.35 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, you say ‘noble Dharma and Vinaya’ again and again. Lord, what is the noble Dharma and Vinaya? Lord, to what extent does one say something is ‘the noble Dharma and Vinaya’?”

69.36 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here śrāvakas, pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattvas, and tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from greed, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from hatred, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from confusion, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from the view of the perishable collection, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from doubt, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from grasping rules and rituals as absolute, [F.32.b] are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from attachment to sense objects, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from malice, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from attachment to forms, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from attachment to formless states, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from ignorance, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from gross mental excitement, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from the first concentration, up to are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from the fourth concentration, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from love, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from compassion, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from joy, are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from equanimity, up to and are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from the station of neither perception nor nonperception. They are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from the compounded element or the un-compounded element.

69.37 “And why? Because all those dharmas are formless, cannot be pointed out, do not obstruct, and have only one mark—namely, no mark. Those that are formless are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from the formless. Those that cannot be pointed out are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from ones that cannot be pointed out. Those that do not obstruct are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from ones that do not obstruct. Those that have only one mark are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from ones that have only one mark; and those that have no mark are not conjoined with and are not disjoined from ones that have no mark. Subhūti, thus this perfection of wisdom of the bodhisattva great beings in which bodhisattva great beings have to train has only one mark—namely, no mark. [F.33.a] It is formless, cannot be pointed out, and does not obstruct, and while training in it they do not apprehend a mark of<sup>691</sup> any dharma at all.”

69.38 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, they should not train in the mark of form, and they should not train in the mark of feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness; they should not train in the mark of the eyes, and they should not train in the mark of the ears, nose, tongue, body, or thinking mind; they should not train in the mark of a form, and they should not train in the mark of a sound, a smell, a taste, a feeling, or dharmas; they should not train in the mark of the earth element, and they should not train in the mark of the water element, fire element, wind element, space element, or consciousness element; they should not train in the mark of the perfection of giving, and they should not train in the mark of the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, or perfection of wisdom; they should not train in the mark of inner emptiness, up to and they should not train in the mark of the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature; they should not train in the mark of the first concentration, up to and they should not train in the mark of the fourth concentration; they should not train in the mark of love, and they should not train in the mark of compassion, joy, or equanimity; they should not train in the mark of the station of endless space, up to and they should not train in the mark of the station of neither perception nor nonperception; they should not train in the mark of the four applications of mindfulness, up to and they should not train in the mark of the eightfold noble path; they should not train in the mark of the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, or wishlessness meditative stabilization; they should not train in the mark of the absorptions [F.33.b] in the gateways to liberation; they should not train in the mark of the ten tathāgata powers, they should not train in the mark of the four fearlessnesses, they should not train in the mark of the four detailed and thorough knowledges, they should not train in the mark of the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, and they should not train in the mark of great compassion; they should not train in the mark of the truth of suffering, and they should not train in the mark of the truth of origination, cessation, or noble path; they should not train in the mark of dependent origination in the order in which it unfolds and in the order in which it does not unfold; they should not train in the mark of the compounded element, and they should not train in the mark of the un-compounded element? Lord, if they should not train in the marks of those dharmas, and should not train in the mark of the compounded, how, Lord, without having trained in the mark of dharmas and the mark of volitional factors will a bodhisattva great being transcend the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels? How, even without having transcended the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels, will they enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva? How, even without having entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva, will they gain the knowledge of all aspects? How, even without having gained the knowledge of all aspects, will they turn the wheel of the Dharma? And how, even without having turned the wheel of the Dharma, will they release beings in the Śrāvaka Vehicle, or in the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle, or in the Great Vehicle from saṃsāra?"

69.39 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Subhūti, were there to be a mark of any dharma, bodhisattva great beings would have to train in that mark. But, Subhūti, because all dharmas have no mark, are formless, [F.34.a] cannot be pointed out, and do not obstruct, and thus have only one mark—namely, no mark—therefore bodhisattva great beings should not train in those marks; they should not even train in the unmarked. And why? Subhūti, it is not because those earlier with marks later become unmarked. It is because, even earlier, Subhūti, they were unmarked and now, too, they are unmarked, so bodhisattva great beings should therefore not train in marks, and should not train in the unmarked either. And why? Subhūti, it is because whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise, the element of marks simply remains."<sup>692</sup>

69.40 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti further inquired of him, "Lord, if all dharmas are unmarked, do not have various marks, and do not have even one mark, how, Lord, will bodhisattva great beings meditate on the perfection of wisdom? Lord, without meditating on the perfection of wisdom bodhisattva great beings will not be able to transcend the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels. Without having transcended the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels, bodhisattva great beings also will not be able to enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva, and without having entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva great being, also will not be able to produce forbearance for the nonproduction of dharmas. Without having produced forbearance for the nonproduction of dharmas, they will not be able to produce clairvoyance, and without having produced clairvoyance, bodhisattva great beings will not be able to purify a buddhafiield and bring beings to maturity. [F.34.b] Without having purified a buddhafiield and brought beings to maturity, bodhisattva great beings will not be able to gain the knowledge of all aspects, and without having gained the knowledge of all aspects, they will not be able to turn the wheel of the Dharma. Without having turned the wheel of the Dharma, they will not be able to establish beings in the result of stream enterer, will not be able to establish beings in the result of once-returner, will not be able to establish beings in the state of a worthy one, will not be able to establish beings in a pratyekabuddha's awakening, and will not be able to establish beings in unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. They will not be able to establish beings in the bases of meritorious action arisen from giving, will not be able to establish beings in the bases of meritorious action arisen from morality, and will not be able to establish beings in the bases of meritorious action arisen from meditation."

69.41 Venerable Subhūti having said that, the Lord said to him, "Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! Subhūti, all dharmas are unmarked, do not have various marks, and do not have even one mark, so, Subhūti, meditation on the unmarked is meditation on the bodhisattva great beings' perfection of wisdom."

69.42 "Lord, in what way is meditation on the unmarked, meditation on the perfection of wisdom?"

"Subhūti, the disintegration of meditation on all dharmas is meditation on the perfection of wisdom."

69.43 "Lord, how is the disintegration of meditation on all dharmas, meditation on the perfection of wisdom?"

69.44 "The disintegration of meditation on form is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation [F.35.a] on feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the eyes is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on the ears, nose, tongue, body, and thinking mind is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on a form is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on a sound, a smell, a taste, a feeling, and dharmas is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on something accepted is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on something rejected is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the first concentration is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on the second, third, and fourth concentration is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on love is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on compassion, joy, and equanimity is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the station of endless space is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on the station of endless consciousness is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on the station of nothing-at-all is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on the station of neither perception nor nonperception is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on mindfulness of the Buddha is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on mindfulness of the Dharma, mindfulness of the Saṅgha, mindfulness of morality, mindfulness of giving away, mindfulness of the gods, mindfulness of disgust, mindfulness of breathing in and out, mindfulness of death, and mindfulness of what is included in the body [F.35.b] is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the idea of impermanence, the idea of suffering, and the idea of selflessness is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on dependent origination is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the idea of self is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on the idea of a being, the idea of a living being, the idea of a creature, the idea of one born of Manu, the idea of a child of Manu, the idea of one who lives, the idea of person, the idea of one who does, and the idea of one who makes someone else do is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the idea of permanence, the idea of beauty, the idea of happiness, and the idea of self is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the applications of mindfulness is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on the right efforts, legs of miraculous power, faculties, powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the emptiness meditative stabilization is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on the signlessness meditative stabilization is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on the wishlessness meditative stabilization is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the eight deliverances is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the nine serial absorptions is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the meditative stabilization [F.36.a] with applied and sustained thought, and the meditative stabilization without either applied or sustained thought is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the noble truth of suffering is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on the noble truth of origination, cessation, and the path is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on knowledge of suffering is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on knowledge of origination is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on knowledge of cessation is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on knowledge of the path is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on knowledge of extinction is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on knowledge of nonproduction is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on knowledge of dharma is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on knowledge of subsequent realization is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on conventional knowledge is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on knowledge of mastery is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on knowledge in accord with sound is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the perfection of giving is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on inner emptiness, outer emptiness, inner and outer emptiness, the emptiness of emptiness, great emptiness, the emptiness of ultimate reality, [F.36.b] and similarly, connect this with each, up to the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the ten tathāgata powers is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on the four fearlessnesses is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on the four detailed and thorough knowledges is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on great compassion is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the result of stream enterer is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, the disintegration of meditation on the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, and the state of a worthy one is meditation on the perfection of wisdom, and the disintegration of meditation on a pratyekabuddha's awakening is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; the disintegration of meditation on the knowledge of all aspects is meditation on the perfection of wisdom; and the disintegration of meditation on the abandonment of all residual impression connections is meditation on the perfection of wisdom."

69.45 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, "Lord, how is the disintegration of meditation on form, meditation on the perfection of wisdom; and similarly, up to how is the disintegration of meditation on the abandonment of all residual impression connections, meditation on the perfection of wisdom?"

69.46 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not meditate on 'form is an existent thing,' and do not meditate on 'feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness [F.37.a] is an existent thing.' And why? Subhūti, it is because someone with the notion of an existent thing is not meditating on the perfection of wisdom. Similarly, connect this with each, up to it is because someone with the notion that the knowledge of all aspects is an existent thing is not meditating on the perfection of wisdom.

69.47 "They do not meditate on 'greed, hatred, or confusion is an existent thing.' They do not meditate on 'a bad proclivity or a snare is an existent thing.' And why? Subhūti, it is because for someone with the notion of an existent thing there is no meditation on the perfection of giving, and no meditation on the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, or perfection of wisdom. And why? Subhūti, it is because they are attached to an existent thing. But they do not get attached to giving, morality, patience, perseverance, concentration, or wisdom. There is no liberation for someone attached to the two extremes, thinking 'this is me,' in reference to an existent thing. Subhūti, someone with the notion of an existent thing is not meditating on the applications of mindfulness; is not meditating on the right efforts, legs of miraculous power, faculties, powers, limbs of awakening, or path; is not meditating on emptiness; and is not meditating on signlessness or wishlessness. Similarly, connect this with each, up to is not meditating on the knowledge of all aspects. And why? Subhūti, it is because they are attached to an existent thing."

69.48 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, "Lord, what is an existent thing? What is a nonexistent thing?"

69.49       “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “an existent thing is duality; a nonexistent thing is nonduality.”

69.50       “Lord, what is duality?”

“Subhūti, the perception of form is a duality, the perception [F.37.b] of feeling, perception, and volitional factors is a duality, and the perception of consciousness is a duality; the perception of the eyes, up to the perception of thinking mind is a duality; the perception of a form, up to the perception of dharmas is a duality; and similarly, connect this with each, up to the perception of buddha, the perception of awakening, the perception of a compounded element, the perception of an uncompounded element, and all perceptions, as many as there are, and nonperceptions, as many as there are, they are all duality. To the extent there is duality, to that extent there is an existent thing. To the extent there is an existent thing, to that extent there are volitional factors. To the extent there are volitional factors, to that extent beings are not free from birth, old age, sickness, death, pain, lamentation, suffering, mental anguish, and grief. In this way, Subhūti, you should know that for someone with dualistic perception there is no giving, there is no morality, there is no patience, there is no perseverance, there is no concentration, there is no wisdom, there is no path, and there is no clear realization. Given that there is not even the patience that arises in a natural order,<sup>693</sup> how could there ever be the comprehension of form, up to the comprehension of consciousness, and similarly, also connect this with each, up to the knowledge of all aspects. How could there be, for someone for whom there is no meditation on the path, the result of stream enterer, up to the state of a worthy one, a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, and the abandonment of all residual impression connections?”

69.51       This was the sixty-ninth chapter, “An Explanation of Meditation on the Path,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

70.           CHAPTER 70: AN EXPLANATION OF SERIAL ACTION, TRAINING, AND PRACTICE

70.1       The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if there is not even the patience that arises in a natural order for someone with the perception of an existing thing, how could there be attainment, and how could there be clear realization?”

70.2       “Given that there is not, [F.38.a] is there the patience that arises in a natural order for someone with the perception of a nonexistent thing? Is there the Śuklavipaśyanā level, Gotra level, Aṣṭamaka level, Darśana level, Tanū level, Vītarāga level, Kṛtāvin level, Pratyekabuddha level, Bodhisattva level, and cultivation of the path? And, thanks to the cultivation of the path, are the afflictions connected with śrāvakas and the afflictions connected with pratyekabuddhas eliminated? When obstructed by those afflictions, there is no entry into the secure state of a bodhisattva. Unless they have entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva, there is no gaining the knowledge of all aspects, and if they have not gained the knowledge of all aspects, there is no elimination of all residual impressions, connections, and afflictions.

70.3       “Lord, standing and production do not exist on account of any dharma at all; they will have no ability to reach the knowledge of all aspects through those unproduced dharmas.”

70.4       Venerable Subhūti having said that, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! There is no patience that arises in a natural order for someone with the notion of a nonexistent thing. Similarly, connect this with each, up to there is no elimination of all residual impression connections.”

70.5       “Lord, do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom have the perception of an existing thing or the perception of a nonexistent thing; or the perception of form, up to the perception of consciousness; up to or the perception of the knowledge of all aspects; or the perception of greed or the perception of the abandonment of greed, the perception of hatred or the perception of the abandonment of hatred, or the perception of confusion or the perception of the abandonment of confusion; or the perception of ignorance or the perception of the abandonment of ignorance, the perception of volitional factors [F.38.b] or the perception of the abandonment of volitional factors, the perception of consciousness or the perception of the abandonment of consciousness, the perception of name and form or the perception of the abandonment of name and form, the perception of the six sense fields or the perception of the abandonment of the six sense fields, the perception of contact or the perception of the abandonment of contact, the perception of feeling or the perception of the abandonment of feeling, the perception of craving or the perception of the abandonment of craving, the perception of appropriation or the perception of the abandonment of appropriation, the perception of existence or the perception of the abandonment of an existence, the perception of birth or the perception of the abandonment of birth, the perception of old age and death or the perception of the abandonment of old age and death, or the perception of pain, lamentation, suffering, mental anguish, and grief or the perception of the abandonment of pain, lamentation, suffering, mental anguish, and grief; or the perception of suffering or the perception of the abandonment of suffering, the perception of origination or the perception of the abandonment of origination, the perception of cessation or the perception of the realization of cessation, or the perception of the path or the perception of cultivation of the path; and similarly, or the perception of..., up to the knowledge of all aspects or the perception of the elimination of all residual impression connections?"

70.6 "Subhūti, they do not," replied the Lord. "Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not have the perception of any phenomenon at all as an existing thing or the perception of it as a nonexistent thing.

70.7 "Subhūti, where there is no perception of anything as an existing thing or perception of it as a nonexistent thing, that is the bodhisattva great beings' patience that arises in a natural order; where there is no perception of anything as an existing thing or perception of it as a nonexistent thing, that is their meditation on the path; and where there is no perception of anything as an existing thing [F.39.a] or perception of it as a nonexistent thing, that is their result.

70.8 "Subhūti, the bodhisattva great beings' path is a nonexistent thing. Clear realization is a nonexistent thing. In this way, Subhūti, you should thus know that all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature." [B48]

70.9 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, how did the Tathāgata fully awaken to all the phenomena that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, and, having fully awakened to them, gain control over the range of all phenomena?”

70.10 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here, earlier when I was practicing the bodhisattva’s practice of the six perfections, detached from sense objects, detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas, up to perfectly accomplishing and dwelling in the fourth concentration, even while apprehending a causal sign of the concentrations and the branches of the concentrations I did not falsely project those concentrations and those branches of the concentrations, did not relish the experience of the concentrations, and did not falsely consider the concentrations a fact. I made my mind incline toward becoming absorbed in those concentrations in their purified forms to make the performance of miraculous power manifest. I made my mind incline toward making divine ear knowledge manifest, toward making knowledge of the ways of thinking manifest, toward making knowledge that recollects previous states of existence manifest, and to making divine eye knowledge manifest. Even though I apprehended a causal sign of those clairvoyances to be made manifest, I did not falsely project them, did not relish their experience, and did not falsely consider them a fact. [F.39.b] I became absorbed in those clairvoyances seeing them like space. Subhūti, with the wisdom of the unique single instant, having fully awakened to the unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening that correctly knows,<sup>694</sup> ‘This is suffering, this is the origination of suffering, this is the cessation of suffering, and this is the path leading to the cessation of suffering,’ endowed with the ten tathāgata powers, and endowed with the four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, I prophesied the three masses of beings.”<sup>695</sup>

70.11 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, how has a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha produced the four concentrations that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature? How have they produced the clairvoyances that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature? And how, given that beings do not exist, have they still prophesied the three masses of beings?”

70.12 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, were an intrinsic nature of sense objects or of wrong unwholesome dharmas to exist, or their intrinsic existence, or their dependent existence to exist, then, Subhūti, earlier when I was practicing the bodhisattva’s practice I would not have realized sense objects that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, and wrong unwholesome dharmas that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, and perfectly accomplished and dwelled in the first concentration. Subhūti, because sense objects and wrong unwholesome dharmas are not existent things, or nonexistent things, or intrinsically existent things, or dependently existent things, but quite the opposite—they are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature—therefore earlier when I was practicing the bodhisattva’s practice, detached from sense objects, detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas, I perfectly accomplished and dwelled in the first concentration that has applied thought and has sustained thought and joy [F.40.a] and happiness born of detachment, and similarly, connect this with each, up to the fourth concentration.

70.13 “Subhūti, were clairvoyant knowledges existing things, intrinsically existent things, or dependently existent things, then, Subhūti, I would not have realized that all clairvoyant knowledges are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Subhūti, because in all clairvoyant knowledges there is no existing thing, there is no intrinsically existent thing, or dependently existent thing, but quite the opposite—they are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature—therefore the tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete Buddha comprehended all the clairvoyant knowledges that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”

70.14 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if, even while all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, bodhisattva great beings will fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening through the four concentrations and five clairvoyances, well then, Lord, how, even while all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, will there be serial action, serial training, and serial practice—the serial action, serial training, and serial practice through which they will fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”<sup>696</sup>

70.15 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings from the very outset have heard from the lord buddhas, from the bodhisattvas attending on many buddhas, and from the worthy ones, non-returners, once-returners, and the stream enterers [F.40.b] that an intrinsic nature of the lord buddhas is nonexistent, an intrinsic nature of pratyekabuddhas is nonexistent, an intrinsic nature of worthy ones is nonexistent, an intrinsic nature of non-returners is nonexistent, an intrinsic nature of once-returners is nonexistent, an intrinsic nature of stream enterers is nonexistent, an intrinsic nature of all noble beings is nonexistent, and that all compounded phenomena do not have an intrinsic nature even as tiny as the part occupying the tip of a strand of hair. Even though the bodhisattva

great beings have heard that, still it occurs to them to think, 'Given that an intrinsic nature of the lord buddhas, up to of stream enterers is nonexistent, whether I will fully awaken or whether I will not fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, the intrinsic nature of all dharmas is just nonexistent. When I fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening I will, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, establish all beings dwelling in the perception of existing things in the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature.'

70.16 "Subhūti, those bodhisattva great beings set out for perfect, complete awakening so that all beings will pass into complete nirvāṇa. They undertake the serial action, serial training, and serial practice in which earlier bodhisattva great beings trained and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. They first of all train in the six perfections, training in the perfection of giving, perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom. [F.41.a]

70.17 "Training in the perfection of giving they personally give gifts, establish others in giving, speak in praise of giving, and speak in praise of others giving gifts as well, welcoming it. Through that familiarization with giving they will gain a huge heap of enjoyments. Free from miserly thoughts they give gifts—they give food to those begging for food, drinks to those who want drink, transport to those who want transport, clothes to those who want clothes, incense to those who want incense, flower garlands to those who want flower garlands, creams to those who want creams, beds to those who want beds, pillows to those who want pillows,<sup>697</sup> homes to those who want a home, and lamps to those who want lamps—they give whatever human requirements are appropriate.

70.18 "They, with just that giving, guard the aggregate of morality, and with just that giving, and morality, meditative stabilization, wisdom, liberation, and knowledge and seeing of liberation they transcend the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels. Having transcended the śrāvaka level and pratyekabuddha level, they enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva; having entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva, they purify a buddhafiield, bring beings to maturity, then gain the knowledge of all aspects and turn the wheel of the Dharma. Having turned the wheel of the Dharma, they establish beings in the three vehicles and free them from saṃsāra. Therefore, Subhūti, through the bodhisattva great beings' giving there is serial action, and this action, in its entirety, cannot be apprehended. And why? Because it has no intrinsic nature.

70.19 “Furthermore, Subhūti, starting from the first production of the thought, bodhisattva great beings personally practice the perfection of morality, and also establish others in the perfection of morality, [F.41.b] and similarly, connect this with each, up to welcoming it. With that morality they also attain the preeminent state of a god and the preeminent state of a human and give wealth to destitute beings. Having given it they establish beings in morality, and establish them in meditative stabilization, wisdom, liberation, and the knowledge and seeing of liberation. With that aggregate of morality, aggregate of meditative stabilization, aggregate of wisdom, aggregate of liberation, and aggregate of knowledge and seeing of liberation they transcend the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels. Having transcended them, with just that aggregate of morality, up to aggregate of knowledge and seeing of liberation they enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva, and similarly, connect this with each, up to free beings from saṃsāra. Therefore, Subhūti, through the bodhisattva great beings’ morality there is serial action, and this action, in its entirety, cannot be apprehended. And why? Because it has no intrinsic nature.

70.20 “Furthermore, Subhūti, starting from the first production of the thought, bodhisattva great beings personally practice the perfection of patience, and also establish others in the perfection of patience, and similarly, connect this with each, up to welcoming it. While practicing that perfection of patience they satisfy beings by giving, establish them in morality, establish them in meditative stabilization, up to and establish them in the knowledge and seeing of liberation. With that aggregate of morality, aggregate of meditative stabilization, aggregate of wisdom, aggregate of liberation, and aggregate of knowledge and seeing of liberation they transcend the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels. Having transcended the śrāvaka level and pratyekabuddha levels..., similarly, connect this with each, up to gain awakening.

70.21 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings personally persevere at all wholesome dharmas, [F.42.a] and also establishes others in perseverance, and similarly, connect this with each, up to welcoming it. Similarly, connect this with each, up to it has no intrinsic nature.

70.22 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings personally become absorbed in the concentrations, become absorbed in the immeasurables and formless absorptions, and also establish others in..., up to the formless absorptions, and similarly, connect this with each, up to speak in praise of the concentrations, immeasurables, and formless absorptions, and speak in praise of those who are becoming absorbed in the concentrations, immeasurables, and formless absorptions as well, welcoming it. Abiding in those concentrations, and in those immeasurables and formless absorptions, they satisfy beings by giving, establish them in morality, establish them in patience, establish them in perseverance, establish them in meditative stabilization, establish them in wisdom, establish them in liberation, and establish them in the knowledge and seeing of liberation. Endowed with that knowledge and seeing of liberation they transcend the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels. Having transcended them, with that knowledge and seeing of liberation they enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva. Similarly, connect this with each, from gain the knowledge of all aspects, up to it has no intrinsic nature.

70.23 “Furthermore, Subhūti, starting from the first production of the thought, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom satisfy beings by giving, establish them in morality, establish them in patience, establish them in perseverance, establish them in meditative stabilization, establish them in wisdom, establish them in liberation, and establish them in the knowledge and seeing of liberation. [F.42.b]

70.24 “While practicing the perfection of wisdom they personally give gifts, guard morality, make a practice of being patient, make a vigorous effort, become absorbed in meditative stabilization, and cultivate wisdom. They also establish others in giving, establish them in morality, establish them in patience, establish them in perseverance, establish them in meditative stabilization, and establish them in wisdom, connect this with each, up to welcoming it. Endowed with the perfection of giving, perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, perfection of wisdom, and with skillful means, they transcend the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels, will enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva, and will fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Connect this with each, up to it has no intrinsic nature.

70.25 “Therefore, Subhūti, there is the bodhisattva great beings’ serial action, and serial training, and serial practice as well.

70.26 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings training in serial action, serial training, and serial practice, starting from the first production of the thought, with attention connected to the knowledge of all aspects, believe that all phenomena are without an intrinsic nature and cultivate mindfulness of the Buddha, mindfulness of the Dharma, mindfulness of the Saṅgha, mindfulness of morality, mindfulness of giving away, and mindfulness of the gods.

70.27 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings cultivate mindfulness of the Buddha? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings do not pay attention to tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas as form, and do not pay attention to them as feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness. And why? Because form has no intrinsic nature [F.43.a] and anything without an intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing, and because feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness have no intrinsic nature and anything without an intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing. Mindfulness of the Buddha, therefore, is not being mindful and not paying attention.

70.28 “Furthermore, Subhūti, you should not pay attention to a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha as the thirty-two major marks of a great person, you should not pay attention to the body golden in color, you should not pay attention to the halo extending the length of the outstretched arms, and you should not pay attention to how it has eighty minor signs. And why? Because that body has no intrinsic nature and anything without an intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing. Mindfulness of the Buddha, therefore, is not being mindful and not paying attention.

70.29 “Furthermore, Subhūti, you should not pay attention to a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha as the aggregate of morality, you should not pay attention to the aggregate of meditative stabilization, you should not pay attention to aggregate of wisdom, you should not pay attention to the aggregate of liberation, and you should not pay attention to the aggregate of knowledge and seeing of liberation. And why? Because they have no intrinsic nature and anything without an intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing. Mindfulness of the Buddha, therefore, is not being mindful and not paying attention.

70.30 “Furthermore, Subhūti, you should not pay attention to a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha as the ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, great love, great compassion, or eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha. And why? Because they have no intrinsic nature and anything without an intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing. Mindfulness of the Buddha, therefore, is not being mindful and not paying attention.

70.31 “Furthermore, Subhūti, you should not pay attention to a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha as a dependent origination. And why? Because it has no intrinsic nature [F.43.b] and anything without an intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing. Mindfulness of the Buddha, therefore, is not being mindful and not paying attention.

70.32 “Subhūti, that is how bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should pay attention to the Buddha.

70.33 “Therefore, Subhūti, there is the bodhisattva great beings’ serial action, and serial training, and serial practice as well. When they are training in this serial action, and training in serial training and serial practice, they complete the four applications of mindfulness; complete the four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path; complete the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, and wishlessness meditative stabilization; up to and complete the knowledge of all aspects by way of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. They fully awaken to all phenomena as just the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, but they do not have the perception of intrinsic nature or the perception of nonexistence.

70.34 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings cultivate mindfulness of the Dharma? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should not pay attention to wholesome dharmas, should not pay attention to unwholesome dharmas, and should not pay attention to dharmas that are an object of moral inquiry and are not an object of moral inquiry, or are ordinary and extraordinary, noble and not noble, with outflows and without outflows, belonging to the desire realm, belonging to the form realm, or belonging to and not belonging to the formless realm, or to compounded dharmas and uncompounded dharmas. And why? Because those dharmas have no intrinsic nature and anything [F.44.a] without an intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing. Mindfulness of the Dharma, therefore, is not being mindful and not paying attention. When they have trained in this dharma-constituent<sup>698</sup> by way of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, they gain..., up to the knowledge of all aspects. They fully awaken to all dharmas as the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. They do not have the perception of intrinsic nature or the perception of nonexistence. Subhūti, that is how bodhisattva great beings should cultivate a mindfulness of the Dharma. There is not even an atom of a mindfulness dharma there, so what further need is there to say that there is no absence of mindfulness?

70.35 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings cultivate mindfulness of the Saṅgha? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should be mindful that the lord’s śrāvaka saṅgha—those four pairs of persons and eight individual persons<sup>699</sup>—have no intrinsic nature. Connect this with those four pairs of persons and eight individual persons are categories of the absence of an intrinsic nature, of a nonexistent thing. Having paid attention to this as just a nonexistent thing, having gained the knowledge of all aspects..., up to mindfulness of the Saṅgha is not being mindful and not paying attention. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should cultivate mindfulness of the Saṅgha like that. There is not even an atom of a mindfulness dharma there.<sup>700</sup> stabilization, pay attention to that morality as the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, paying attention in such a way that there is not even an atom of the action of mindfulness. [F.44.b] Connect this with each, up to they will gain the knowledge of all aspects but have no perception of an existing thing or perception of a nonexistent thing.

70.36 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings cultivate mindfulness of morality? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, starting from the first production of the thought, grounded in an unpunctured, unflagging, unadulterated, untarnished, autonomous, well-completed morality praised by the wise and conducive to meditative

70.37 “Subhūti, how should bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom pay attention to being mindful of giving away? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, starting from the first production of the thought, should be mindful to give away material possessions and to give the doctrine, by way of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, without producing the thoughts on account of their giving away, that ‘I am giving’ or ‘I am not giving,’ or ‘I am giving away’ or ‘I am not giving away.’ They should not produce those thoughts even if giving away a major or minor part of the body. And why? Because it has no intrinsic nature. They practice mindfulness of giving away like that. Practicing like that they gradually gain ... up to the knowledge of all aspects. It is thus, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should pay attention to giving away.

70.38 “Subhūti, how should bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom pay attention to mindfulness of the gods? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should pay attention to those stream enterers who have taken birth among the Cāturmahārājika gods, up to those who have taken birth among the Paranirmitavaśavartin gods, by way of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. And why? Because they have no intrinsic nature and anything without an intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing. Therefore, they should pay attention to those gods by way of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. There is not even an atom of the action of mindfulness there. Paying attention like that they gradually pay attention..., up to the knowledge of all aspects and gain..., up to the knowledge of all aspects.

70.39 “Furthermore, Subhūti, they should pay attention to those non-returners living in the form realm and living in the formless realm by way of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. And why? [F.45.a] Because they have no intrinsic nature and anything without an intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing. Therefore, they should pay attention to those gods by way of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. Similarly, connect this with each, up to they will gain the knowledge of all aspects.

70.40 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should pay attention to all those six mindfulnesses like that.

- 70.41 “Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings paying attention to all those six mindfulnesses have serial action, and have serial training, and serial practice.
- 70.42 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who want to complete the serial action, serial training, and serial practice should train in inner emptiness, up to should train in the emptiness of its own mark; should train in the four applications of mindfulness; and similarly, connect this with each, up to should train in great compassion, by way of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. When they train in the awakening path like that, they fully awaken to all phenomena that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. There is not even an atom of the action of mindfulness there, so what further need is there to say that there is no form, up to however could there be the knowledge of a knower of all aspects? It is impossible.
- 70.43 “Therefore, Subhūti, there is serial action of bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, there is serial training and serial practice, but thought activity action, thought activity training, and the path of thought activity do not exist there.”
- 70.44 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti said to him, “Lord, if all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, well then, there is no form, up to there is no consciousness; there are no aggregates, there are no constituents, and there are no sense fields; there are no applications of mindfulness, [F.45.b] and similarly, up to there is no knowledge of all aspects; there is no Buddha, there is no Dharma, and there is no Saṅgha; there is no path, there is no result, there is no defilement, there is no purification, there is no attainment, and there is no clear realization; and similarly, up to there are no phenomena, any of them.”
- 70.45 Venerable Subhūti having said that, the Lord asked him, “Subhūti, do you think you can apprehend a ‘there-is’ or a ‘there-is-not’ in all phenomena that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature?”
- 70.46 “No, Lord,” he replied. “You cannot apprehend a ‘there-is’ or a ‘there-is-not’ in any phenomena that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature.”
- 70.47 “Subhūti,” he asked further, “if all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, how, on that account, could there be no form, up to how could there be no consciousness, and similarly, connect this with each, up to how could there be no attainment, and how could there be no clear realization? How could that be?”
- 70.48 The Lord having asked that, venerable Subhūti answered him, “Lord, even though I am not of two minds and do not entertain any doubt about these dharmas, still, at a time yet to come, householder beings, those who have gone forth to homelessness, are in the Śrāvaka Vehicle, are in the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle, and are in the Bodhisattva Vehicle, will say, ‘Were all phenomena to be the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, then, since all phenomena would be the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, who would become defiled or purified?’ Without an understanding of defilement and purification they will ruin morality, ruin view, and ruin conduct. Those whose morality has been ruined, view has been ruined, and conduct has been ruined [F.46.a] can expect to die in one or other of the three terrible forms of life—life in the hells, or life in the animal world, or life in the world of Yama. Lord, seeing the danger of this happening in the future I have questioned the tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete Buddha on just this matter. Lord, I am not of two minds about these dharmas and do not entertain any doubt about them.”

70.49       “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!” said the Lord. “It is exactly as you say!”

70.50       This was the seventieth chapter, “An Explanation of Serial Action, Training, and Practice,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

71.                    CHAPTER 71: THE TRUE NATURE OF DHARMAS THAT CANNOT BE APPREHENDED

- 71.1        The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, Lord, what reality do bodhisattva great beings who have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening for the welfare of beings see?”
- 71.2        “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “just as all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, in exactly the same way bodhisattva great beings set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. And why? Subhūti, an apprehended object is severely limiting. Someone who perceives an apprehended object has no attainment, has no clear realization, and has no unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”
- 71.3        “Lord, without an apprehended object is there attainment, is there clear realization, and is there unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”
- 71.4        “Subhūti, just the absence of an apprehended object is attainment, the attainment of just the absence of an apprehended object is clear realization, and just the absence of an apprehended object is unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, because it does not complicate the dharma-constituent. To want an attainment, [F.46.b] or clear realization, or unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, which is just the absence of an apprehended object, is simply to want to complicate the dharma-constituent.”
- 71.5        “Lord, if in the absence of an apprehended object there is no attainment, there is no clear realization, and there is no unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening,<sup>701</sup> if just the absence of an apprehended object is attainment, just the absence of an apprehended object is clear realization, and just the absence of an apprehended object is unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, in that case, Lord, how will there be the bodhisattva great beings’ first level, how a second level, up to how a tenth level; how will there be forbearance for the nonproduction of dharmas? How will there be the five clairvoyances arisen from maturation,<sup>702</sup> how will there be giving arisen from maturation, how will there be morality arisen from maturation, how will there be patience arisen from maturation, how will there be perseverance arisen from maturation, how will there be concentration arisen from maturation, and how will there be wisdom arisen from maturation? How will there be those maturation dharmas of these bodhisattvas that are in an unbroken stream, and situated in which they bring beings to maturity, purify a buddhafiield, and attend on the lord buddhas with food, drink, clothes, transportation, incense, garlands, beds, seats, lamps, and things that make human life enjoyable—food and so on that does not finish even though the maturation is for the worship of the physical remains of the buddhas after complete nirvāṇa, for as long as they remain, and for the śrāvakas?”

71.6 Venerable Subhūti having thus inquired, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, it is just because of that absence of an apprehended object that there is a first level, [F.47.a] up to a tenth level; and it is just because of it that there are the clairvoyances arisen from maturation, that there are those wholesome roots on account of which they work for the welfare of beings, up to and even after having passed into complete nirvāṇa there are still the acts of worship. It is just because of it that giving arisen from maturation exists, as well as morality, patience, perseverance, concentration, and wisdom arisen from maturation. It is just because of it that wholesome roots arisen from maturation exist.”

71.7 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked, “Lord, what distinction and what differentiation is there between the absence of an apprehended object, and giving, morality, patience, perseverance, concentration, wisdom, and the clairvoyances?”

71.8 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, there is no differentiation at all between giving, up to the clairvoyances in the absence of an apprehended object. Subhūti, an exposition is made differentiating between unsullied giving, morality, patience, perseverance, concentration, wisdom, and the clairvoyances.”

71.9 “Lord, how is an exposition made that differentiates between unapprehended giving, morality, patience, perseverance, concentration, wisdom, and the clairvoyances?”

71.10 “Subhūti, here when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom they give a gift without apprehending something to be given, without apprehending a recipient, without apprehending a giver, and without apprehending giving; they guard morality without apprehending morality as an object, cause patience to arise without apprehending patience as an object, make an effort at perseverance without apprehending perseverance as an object, become absorbed in concentration without apprehending concentration as an object, cultivate wisdom without apprehending wisdom as an object, and practice [F.47.b] the clairvoyances without apprehending the clairvoyant knowledges as an object; they cultivate the applications of mindfulness without apprehending the applications of mindfulness as an object, up to cultivate the eightfold noble path without apprehending the eightfold noble path as an object; they cultivate the three meditative stabilizations without apprehending the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, up to or wishlessness meditative stabilization as an object; they bring beings to maturity without apprehending beings as an object; they purify a buddhafield without apprehending a buddhafield as an object; and they fully awaken to awakening without apprehending the buddhadharmas as an object. Subhūti, in that way bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom without apprehending anything. Subhūti, Māra and the Māra class of gods are hard pressed to overpower bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom in that way.”

71.11 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, how do they incorporate the six perfections in a single thought; how do they incorporate the four concentrations, four immeasurables, four formless absorptions, four applications of mindfulness, four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path; and how do they incorporate the three gateways to liberation, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, great compassion, eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, and the thirty-two major marks and eighty minor signs of a great person?”

71.12 “Subhūti, here when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, [F.48.a] whatever gift they give, their giving is informed by nothing other than the perfection of wisdom. Whatever morality they guard, whatever patience they cultivate, whatever perseverance they make an effort at, and whatever concentration they become absorbed in, they are informed by nothing other than the perfection of wisdom. Whatever concentrations they become absorbed in, they too are informed by nothing other than the perfection of wisdom; whatever immeasurables they become absorbed in, they too are informed by nothing other than the perfection of wisdom; and whatever formless absorptions they become absorbed in, they too are informed by nothing other than the perfection of wisdom. Whatever applications of mindfulness they cultivate, and similarly, connect this with each, up to the eighty minor signs of a great person, they are informed by nothing other than the perfection of wisdom.”

- 71.13 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked, “Lord, how, informed by the perfection of wisdom, do bodhisattva great beings incorporate the six perfections in a single thought, and similarly, up to how do they incorporate the eighty minor signs?”
- 71.14 “Subhūti, here when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, whatever gift they give, it is informed by nothing other than the perfection of wisdom and they do not have a dualistic notion about it. Whatever morality they guard, they do not have a dualistic notion about it; whatever patience they cultivate, they do not have a dualistic notion about it; whatever perseverance they make an effort at, they do not have a dualistic notion about it; whatever concentration they become absorbed in, they do not have a dualistic notion about it, and similarly, connect this with each, up to ... the eighty minor signs they accomplish, they do not have a dualistic notion about them.” [F.48.b]
- 71.15 “Lord, when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, how do they not, when giving a gift, have a dualistic notion about it, and similarly, up to when they accomplish the eighty minor signs, how do they not have a dualistic notion about them?”
- 71.16 “Subhūti, here when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, they complete the perfection of giving. Having included all six perfections within their perfection of giving, they give gifts. Similarly, they complete all the dharmas on the side of awakening, up to and having included all six perfections within the path, they cultivate the path.
- 71.17 “Subhūti, here when the time is right for bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom to give a gift, they give the gift while remaining in a thought without outflows. Remaining in a thought without outflows, they do not see causal signs of ‘someone to whom I am giving,’ ‘something I am giving,’ or ‘someone who is giving.’ They give the gift with a thought free from causal signs, with a thought without outflows, without craving, and without ignorance. They do not even see the thought, do not even see the giving, up to and do not see all dharmas.
- 71.18 “Furthermore, Subhūti, here when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, they guard morality with a thought free from causal signs. They do not even see the morality, up to do not see all dharmas. They cultivate patience with a thought free from causal signs. They do not even see the patience, up to do not see all dharmas. They do not see those buddhadharmas. [F.49.a] They make an effort at perseverance with a thought free from causal signs. They do not even see the perseverance, up to do not see all dharmas. They become absorbed in concentration with a thought free from causal signs. They do not even see the concentration. They complete..., up to all the buddhadharmas but they do not see them all. They cultivate wisdom with a thought free from causal signs, and similarly, connect this with each, up to all the buddhadharmas. They cultivate the four applications of mindfulness with a thought free from causal signs, and similarly, connect this with each, up to accomplish the eighty minor signs.”

71.19 “Lord, given that all dharmas are without causal signs and do not occasion anything, how is the perfection of giving completed; how are the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom completed; how are the four applications of mindfulness, four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path completed; how are the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness meditative stabilizations completed; and how are the ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha completed?”

71.20 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, they give gifts with a thought free from causal signs; [F.49.b] they give food to those begging for food, up to whatever human requirements are appropriate,<sup>703</sup> and, having made a gift of it,<sup>704</sup> they give the inner (major and minor parts of the body) or outer (wife, son, daughter, the kingdom) to beggars.

71.21 “If someone comes up to those bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom and says to them, ‘This sort of gift you have given is worthless, so what use will it be?’ it occurs to them to think, ‘These beings are criticizing me, saying, “This piffling gift you have given is useless,” but still, this is a gift that I should give, not a gift I should not give.’ They make that gift into something shared in common by all beings and dedicate it to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and one way or the other they make the dedication in such a way that they still do not see a causal sign; they do not see ‘something I am giving,’ ‘someone to whom I am giving,’ or ‘someone who is giving,’ or see something the dedication is for, a dedication, something being dedicated, someone who is dedicating, or a place when the giving has been done where one dedicates it to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. And why? It is because of inner emptiness, outer emptiness, inner and outer emptiness, the emptiness of emptiness, and similarly, connect this with each, up to the emptiness of its own mark. They thus see what the dedication is for, what will be dedicated, and who will dedicate. When they have dedicated it like that, they have done the dedication well. They bring beings to maturity and take possession of a buddhafield. They complete the perfection of giving, and complete the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, [F.50.a] perfection of concentration, perfection of wisdom, the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness meditative stabilizations, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, but still without grasping at the result.

71.22 “To illustrate, Subhūti, the Paranirmitavaśavartin gods bring all their goods into being just by thinking about them. Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings complete all their goods just by thinking about them too. With that richness of goods, they attend on the buddhas, satisfy the world with its gods, humans, and asuras, and by giving them to beings attract them and establish them in the three vehicles. Bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom thus complete the perfection of giving.

71.23 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom complete the perfection of morality? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom complete the perfection of morality. They gain a noble morality without outflows, incorporated into the path, gained through the true nature of dharmas. That personal morality, furthermore, is unflagging, unpunctured, unadulterated, unfragmented, autonomous, untarnished, well-completed morality praised by the wise. On account of that morality they do not grasp any dharmas as absolute—they do not grasp form as absolute; or feeling, or perception, or volitional factors, or consciousness; or the thirty-two major marks of a great person; or a great sāla tree-like royal family, or a great sāla tree-like brahmin family, or a great sāla tree-like business family; [F.50.b] or the Cāturmahārājika gods; or the Trāyastriṃśa, or Yāma, or Tuṣita, or Nirmāṇarati, or Paranirmitavaśavartin, or Brahmakāyika, or Brahmapurohita, or Brahmapārṣadya, or Parītābha, or Apramāṇābha, or Ābhāsvara, or Parītaśubha, or Apramāṇaśubha, or Śubhakṛtsna, or Bṛhatphala, or Asaṃjñisattva, or Avṛha, or Atapa, or Sudṛśa, or Sudarśana, or Akaniṣṭha, or Ākāśānāntyāyatana, or Vijñānānāntyāyatana, or Ākiṃcityāyatana, or Naivasamjñānāśamjñāyatana; or the result of stream enterer, or the result of once-returner, or the result of non-returner, or the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha’s awakening; or the empire of a wheel-turning emperor, or sovereignty over an empire. On the contrary, they make it into something shared in common by all beings and dedicate it by way of signlessness, nonapprehending, and nonduality to the knowledge of all aspects by way of ordinary convention, but not ultimately. Through that completion of the perfection of morality and skillful means they generate the four concentrations without relishing them. They accomplish those divine eyes arisen from maturation that see the lord buddhas dwelling and maintaining themselves in the eastern direction, a seeing of those bodhisattvas not lost until full awakening to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. The divine eyes see the lord buddhas dwelling and maintaining themselves in world systems in the south, west, north, and the intermediate directions, a seeing of those bodhisattvas not lost until full awakening [F.51.a] to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. With superhuman, purified divine hearing, a hearing that is not lost until their own and others' needs have been taken care of, they hear the voices of the lord buddhas. With knowledge of the ways of thinking they know with their minds the thoughts of those lord buddhas and with that knowledge of the ways of thinking take care of the needs of beings. With knowledge that recollects previous states of existence, they give an exposition of earlier action, action that will not be lost once it has been done. With knowledge that outflows are extinguished, they establish beings in the result of stream enterer, up to establish them in the state of a worthy one, establish them in a pratyekabuddha's awakening, and establish them in unsurpassed awakening. They establish beings in whatever wholesome dharmas they are capable of. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings thus complete the perfection of morality with a thought free from causal signs. [B49]

71.24 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom complete the perfection of patience when dharmas are without causal signs, without effort, not apprehended, and do not occasion anything? Starting from the first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, those bodhisattva great beings should not provide an opportunity for even a single feeling of emotional upset to arise even if all beings come and deal blows with sticks, clubs, and swords.

71.25 “There bodhisattva great beings should cultivate two sorts of patience. What are the two? They are being patient in the face of all beings criticizing and humiliating them, as well as dealing blows with sticks, clubs, and swords, and having forbearance for dharmas that are not produced.

71.26 “There, when being humiliated [F.51.b] and reproached, or dealt blows with sticks, clubs, and swords, bodhisattva great beings should analyze like this: ‘Who is humiliating and reproaching me, or dealing me blows with sticks, clubs, and swords?’ They should analyze the intrinsic nature of dharmas. When they analyze their intrinsic nature and do not even apprehend just the dharmas themselves, how could they ever apprehend an intrinsic nature of dharmas? When they analyze the intrinsic nature of dharmas like that, it occurs to them to think, ‘Who is cutting or stabbing me?’ When they analyze the intrinsic nature of dharmas like that, they gain the forbearance for dharmas that are not produced.

71.27 “What is forbearance for dharmas that are not produced? It is the state in which affliction is not produced and the state in which knowledge does not leave anything out.

71.28 “Persisting with these two types of patience they complete the four concentrations; they complete the four immeasurables, four formless absorptions, four applications of mindfulness, up to eightfold noble path; and they complete the three gateways to liberation, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha. Standing in those noble dharmas without outflows, extraordinary dharmas not shared in common with śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas, they complete the noble clairvoyant knowledges, and having completed those clairvoyances they persist with those clairvoyances, seeing with the purified divine eye the lord buddhas in the eastern direction, and, seeing them, also obtain mindfulness of the Buddha. Their mindfulness of the Buddha is unbroken until full awakening to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Similarly, as well, up to the intermediate directions.

71.29 “With the divine ear constituent, they take up all that is said by those lord buddhas, and, having taken it up, practice for suchness and teach to beings [F.52.a] the doctrine for suchness. They know with their minds the thoughts of those lord buddhas. With the knowledge of the ways of thinking, they also know with their minds the thoughts of all beings. Knowing the thoughts of all beings, they teach them the doctrine for suchness. With knowledge that recollects previous states of existence, they know the wholesome roots of those beings and through those wholesome roots get them excited and activate them. With knowledge that outflows are extinguished, they cause beings to enter the three vehicles and establish them there. Subhūti, those bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means bring beings to maturity, purify a buddhafield, practice the knowledge of all aspects, and, having completed the knowledge of all aspects and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, turn the wheel of the Dharma. In that way, Subhūti, the perfection of patience of bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom is completed.

71.30 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings complete the perfection of perseverance when dharmas are without causal signs, without effort, not apprehended, and do not occasion anything? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom in full possession of physical effort and in full possession of mental effort become absorbed in the first concentration and stay there, up to become absorbed in the fourth concentration and stay there. Absorbed in the four concentrations they experience various performances of miraculous power: They stroke both the sun and moon with their hands. In full possession of that physical effort they approach those lord buddhas standing [F.52.b] in the many hundred thousand world systems in the eastern direction and wait on those lord buddhas with robes, alms, beds and seats, medicines for sicknesses, and requirements. Those robes and alms of theirs, furthermore, do not run out until they fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. And, having fully awakened, the world with its gods, humans, and asuras feels joy from the robes and alms. So, when they have entered into complete nirvāṇa their physical remains are worshiped too.

71.31 “Through just that enactment of miraculous power they approach and listen to the doctrine from those lord buddhas, and until they fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, nothing at all that they have heard is lost. Practicing the knowledge of all aspects, they bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhafiield. In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings in full possession of physical effort practicing the perfection of wisdom complete the perfection of perseverance.

71.32 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings in full possession of the noble mental effort without outflows incorporated into the path and as a branch of the path<sup>705</sup> complete the perfection of perseverance? Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings in full possession of mental<sup>706</sup> effort practicing the perfection of wisdom provide no opportunity for unwholesome physical action and provide no opportunity for unwholesome verbal action. They do not grasp as absolute either ‘permanent’ or ‘impermanent’; or ‘happiness’ or ‘suffering’; or ‘self’ or ‘selfless’; or ‘compounded’ or ‘uncompounded’; [F.53.a] or ‘desire realm’ or ‘form realm’ or ‘formless realm’; or ‘realm with outflows’ or ‘realm without outflows’; or ‘first concentration’ up to or ‘fourth concentration’; or ‘love’ or ‘compassion’ or ‘joy’ or ‘equanimity’; or ‘the station of endless space’ up to or ‘the station of neither perception nor nonperception’; or ‘applications of mindfulness’ or ‘right efforts’ or ‘legs of miraculous power’ or ‘faculties’ or ‘powers’ or ‘limbs of awakening’ or ‘eightfold noble path’; or ‘emptiness’ or ‘signlessness’ or ‘wishlessness.’ They do not grasp..., up to ‘the buddhadharmas are permanent’ or ‘impermanent,’ or ‘happiness’ or ‘suffering,’ or ‘self’ or ‘selfless’ as absolute. They do not grasp ‘the result of stream enterer,’ or ‘the result of once-returner,’ or ‘the result of non-returner,’ or ‘the state of a worthy one,’ or ‘a pratyekabuddha’s awakening’ as absolute. Similarly, connect this with each, up to they do not grasp ‘stream enterer,’ up to or ‘pratyekabuddha,’ or ‘bodhisattva’ as absolute. They do not grasp as absolute ‘these beings are in the Darśana category,’ or ‘these beings are in the Tanū category,’ up to ‘these beings are in the associated with the lower realms category,’ ‘these are in the associated with the upper realms category,’ ‘these are in the pratyekabuddha category,’ or even ‘these are in the knowledge of path aspects category.’ And why? [F.53.b] Because the intrinsic nature on account of which they would be categorized as having that intrinsic nature does not exist.

- 71.33 “Even on the verge of death, in full possession of mental effort they work for the welfare of beings but without apprehending beings; complete the perfection of perseverance but also without apprehending that perseverance; complete..., up to the buddhadharmas but without apprehending those buddhadharmas; and purify a buddhafiield but without apprehending a buddhafiield. In full possession of that physical and mental effort they appropriate all wholesome dharmas but without being attached to them, and, unattached, pass on from buddhafiield to buddhafiield, and pass on from world system to world system working for the welfare of beings. Whatever miracle of miraculous power they want to magically create, they magically create those miracles of miraculous power, be it with a rain of flowers, with a burst of fragrance, with a clap of thunder, with the sound of music, or with an earthquake; be it by revealing the earth made up of the seven precious stones, by emitting light from themselves for the sake of beings in darkness, by emitting a perfumed smell, or by making a sacrifice without killing anything; or be it by stopping killing, up to stopping wrong view. Whatever means are appropriate for working for the welfare of beings, those means they utilize to work for the welfare of beings: looking after some with giving, looking after others with morality, for the sake of some giving away a major or minor part of their body, for the sake of others giving away a son and wife, for the sake of some giving away a kingdom, and for the sake of others [F.54.a] giving away themselves.
- 71.34 “In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings in full possession of mental effort practicing the perfection of wisdom, standing in dharmas without a name and without a causal sign, complete the perfection of perseverance.
- 71.35 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, standing in dharmas without a name and without a causal sign, complete the perfection of meditative stabilization? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom complete all meditative stabilizations except a tathāgata’s meditative stabilization.
- 71.36 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings detached from sense objects, detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas, perfectly accomplish and dwell in the first concentration that has applied thought and has sustained thought and joy and happiness born of detachment. They perfectly accomplish and dwell in..., up to the fourth concentration; perfectly accomplish and dwell pervading all the world with a mind endowed with love, up to with a mind endowed with equanimity; and perfectly accomplish and dwell in the station of neither perception nor nonperception. From the perfection of meditative stabilization they become absorbed in and emerge from the eight deliverances in a conforming and nonconforming order; they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the nine serial absorptions and the emptiness meditative stabilization; they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the signlessness meditative stabilization and wishlessness meditative stabilization; they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the uninterrupted meditative stabilization; and they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the elevated meditative stabilization, the perfect meditative stabilization, and the vajropama meditative stabilization. Dwelling in this perfection of meditative stabilization they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening. Dwelling in this perfection of meditative stabilization, with the knowledge of a knower of path aspects, [F.54.b] they incorporate the collection of meditative stabilizations into the knowledge of path aspects, and, having passed beyond the Śuklavipaśyanā level, Gotra level, Aṣṭamaka level, Darśana level, Tanū level, Vītarāga level, Kṛtāvin level, and Pratyekabuddha level, they enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva and complete the Buddha level. But even though they practice those they do not, in the interim, acquire the results. Standing in this perfection of meditative stabilization, they pass on from buddhafiield to buddhafiield and attend on the lord buddhas. Through their attendance on those lord buddhas, they generate wholesome roots from those lord buddhas and purify a buddhafiield. They pass on from world system to world system working for the welfare of beings, looking after some with giving, and looking after others with morality, others with meditative stabilization, others with wisdom, others with liberation, and others with the knowledge and seeing of liberation. They establish some in the result of stream enterer, and similarly, connect this with each, up to establish some in the state of a worthy one, and establish some in a pratyekabuddha's awakening. They connect beings with whatever wholesome dharmas are to be imparted to them. Standing in this perfection of meditative stabilization, they accomplish all the dhāraṇī gateways, acquire the four detailed and thorough knowledges, and acquire the clairvoyances arisen from maturation. They are never again born in a mother's womb and never again indulge in sense gratification. There is no birth they do not take and yet they are still unsullied by the disadvantages of those births. And why? Because they see well that all dharmas are like an illusion. Having realized the fact that all compounded phenomena are like an illusion, they work for the welfare of all beings even though beings [F.55.a] and even the designation of a being cannot be apprehended there. Without personally apprehending anything, they cause all beings to remain free from apprehending anything based on ordinary convention, but not ultimately. Standing in this perfection of meditative stabilization, they practice all the concentrations, deliverances, and absorptions, and until fully awakening to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening are never separated from the perfection of meditative stabilization. Standing in this perfection of meditative stabilization they find and produce within themselves the knowledge of all aspects. Standing there they eliminate all residual impressions and connections, and, having eliminated all residual impressions and connections, they work for their own and others' welfare. As they are working for their own and others' welfare, they become worthy of the offerings of the world with its gods, humans, and asuras.

71.37 "In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom complete the signless perfection of meditative stabilization.

71.38 "Subhūti, how, when all dharmas are without a causal sign, do bodhisattva great beings complete the perfection of wisdom? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not see any dharma as truly existent or thoroughly established. They do not see form as truly existent or thoroughly established, up to and do not see consciousness as truly existent or thoroughly established; they do not see the production of form, up to and do not see the production of consciousness; and because they do not see the production of form, up to do not see the production of consciousness, they do not see an opening [F.55.b] for the production of form and do not see..., up to an opening for the production of consciousness, and therefore they do not see the amassing of form, do not see..., up to the amassing of consciousness; and similarly, up to they do not see an opening for the production of all dharmas<sup>707</sup> with outflows and without outflows, because they see that they are in vain, ring hollow, and are pointless. When they contemplate like that, they do not apprehend an intrinsic nature of form; similarly, connect this with each, up to they do not apprehend an intrinsic nature of all dharmas with outflows and without outflows, because those practicing the perfection of wisdom believe about all dharmas that they are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. On account of believing like that and practicing inner emptiness, up to practicing the emptiness of its own mark, they do not settle down on any dharma; they do not settle down on form, or feeling, or perception, or volitional factors, or consciousness; and similarly, connect this with or on any dharma, up to awakening.

71.39 "Practicing the perfection of wisdom that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, they complete the awakening path—namely, they complete the six perfections, up to the dharmas on the side of awakening, the ten tathāgata powers, the four fearlessnesses, the four detailed and thorough knowledges, the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, and the eighty minor signs. Standing on the bodhisattva's path that is those maturation dharmas,<sup>708</sup> when they complete the six perfections and the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening and complete the clairvoyances arisen from maturation, they gather into a retinue with giving those beings who can be gathered with giving; those who can be gathered with morality, who can be gathered with meditative stabilization, who can be gathered with wisdom, and who can be gathered with liberation; [F.56.a] and they gather into a retinue with the knowledge and seeing of liberation those beings who can be gathered with the knowledge and seeing of liberation. They establish in the result of stream enterer those beings who can be established in the result of stream enterer; those who can be established in the result of once-returned, who can be established in the result of non-returned, who can be established in the state of a worthy one, and who can be established in a pratyekabuddha's awakening; and they establish in awakening those beings who can be established in awakening. Connect this to them all in the same way.

71.40 “Performing various miraculous powers, they go to as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River, and in those world systems they magically produce those jewels—the sorts of jewels they want there, when and as they want them, completely fulfilling the desires of those beings—passing on from world system to world system. Having seen those world systems, they take possession of a buddhafiield with all the possessions and enjoyments there of the sort the Paranirmitavaśavartin gods have, and the possessions and enjoyments that come about in other buddhafiields, the type that they do not even need to seek for.

71.41 “Practicing the knowledge of path aspects, through the perfection of giving, the perfection of morality, up to the perfection of wisdom arisen from maturation, through the clairvoyances arisen from maturation, and the awakening path arisen from maturation, they perfect all the perfections and gain the knowledge of all aspects.

71.42 “To the extent that they have not held onto form, up to consciousness, up to have not held onto all dharmas—have not held onto the wholesome or unwholesome, ordinary or extraordinary, with outflows [F.56.b] or without outflows, compounded or uncompounded—then even when they have fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, the possessions and enjoyments in their buddhafiield will not be held on to either. And why? Because all dharmas have not been held on to because nothing can be apprehended.

71.43 “In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom complete the perfection of wisdom by way of signlessness.”

71.44 This was the seventy-first chapter, “The True Nature of Dharmas That Cannot Be Apprehended,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

72.                    CHAPTER 72: TEACHING THE ABSENCE OF MARKS

72.1            Then venerable Subhūti inquired of the Lord,<sup>709</sup> “Lord, given that dharmas are without causal signs, without effort, unadulterated, and empty of their own mark, how is it that bodhisattvas complete the cultivation of the six perfections—the perfection of giving, perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom? How are these dharmas without outflows labeled as different? How is there a variation between them? How is the perfection of giving included within the perfection of wisdom, and how are the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, and perfection of concentration included within the perfection of wisdom? Lord, how can such unmarked dharmas, dharmas that have but one mark—no mark—be different?”

72.2            Venerable Subhūti having thus inquired, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here bodhisattva [F.57.a] great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, standing in the five aggregates that are like a dream, give gifts, guard morality, cultivate patience, make a vigorous effort, become absorbed in meditative stabilization, and cultivate wisdom.<sup>710</sup> Standing in the five appropriating aggregates that are like an echo, they give gifts, guard morality, cultivate patience, make a vigorous effort, become absorbed in meditative stabilization, and cultivate wisdom. Standing in the five appropriating aggregates that are like an apparition, like a mirage, like an illusion, and like a magical creation, they give gifts, guard morality, cultivate patience, make a vigorous effort, become absorbed in meditative stabilization, and cultivate wisdom. Those five aggregates are like a dream—that is, are without marks; they are like an echo, like an apparition, like a mirage, like an illusion, and like a magical creation—that is, are without marks. And why? Because a dream has no intrinsic nature at all; an echo, an apparition, a mirage, an illusion, and a magical creation have no intrinsic nature at all, and whatever has no intrinsic nature has no mark, and that which has no mark is, thus, as no mark, one mark. Therefore, Subhūti, you should thus know from this one of many explanations that the gift has no mark, the giver has no mark, and the recipient has no mark.

72.3 “Those who give a gift with such an understanding complete the perfection of giving. Completing the perfection of giving, they do not turn back from the perfection of morality, and do not turn back from the perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, or perfection of wisdom. Standing in those six perfections, [F.57.b] they complete the four concentrations, complete the four immeasurables, complete the four formless absorptions, complete the four applications of mindfulness, complete the four right efforts, and complete the four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, eightfold noble path, inner emptiness, and similarly, connect this with each, up to the emptiness of its own mark. They complete the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, and wishlessness meditative stabilization; they complete the eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, and five clairvoyances; they complete the five hundred dhāraṇī gateways; and they complete the ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha.

72.4 “Standing in those noble dharmas without outflows arisen from maturation, they go through miraculous power to world systems in the eastern direction and wait on the lord buddhas. They attend to the needs of those lord buddhas, and work for the welfare of beings there with their possessions. They gather into a retinue with giving those beings there who can be gathered with giving; they gather into a retinue by being moral those beings there who can be gathered with morality; they gather into a retinue by being patient those beings there who can be gathered by patience; they gather into a retinue by persevering those beings there who can be gathered with perseverance; they gather into a retinue by meditative stabilization those beings there who can be gathered with meditative stabilization; they gather into a retinue by wisdom those beings there who can be gathered with wisdom, up to and they gather into a retinue by all wholesome dharmas those beings there [F.58.a] who can be gathered with all wholesome dharmas. Endowed with those wholesome dharmas they even appropriate a life in saṃsāra, but they are not affected by the sufferings that exist in saṃsāra. They appropriate the things that make the life of humans and gods enjoyable for the sake of beings, and help those beings with those things that make life enjoyable.

72.5 “They know all dharmas have no mark. They know the result of stream enterer but do not remain standing there; they know the result of once-returned but do not remain standing there; they know the result of non-returned but do not remain standing there; they know the state of a worthy one but do not remain standing there; and they know a pratyekabuddha’s awakening but do not remain standing there. And why? It is because they, knowing all dharmas have no mark, have to reach the knowledge of all aspects not shared in common with śrāvakas or pratyekabuddhas. Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings, knowing all dharmas have no mark, know the six perfections have no mark, up to know all the buddhadharmas have no mark either.

72.6 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, standing in the five appropriating aggregates that are like a dream, complete the perfection of morality; standing in the five appropriating aggregates that are like an echo, like an apparition, like an illusion, like a mirage, and like a magical creation, they complete the perfection of morality. Understanding that the five appropriating aggregates are like a dream, and understanding that the five appropriating aggregates are like an echo, like an apparition, like a mirage, like an illusion, and like a magical creation, they complete the unflagging, unpunctured, unadulterated, unfragmented, untarnished, [F.58.b] autonomous, well-completed perfection of morality praised by the wise and belonging to the noble path without outflows. Standing there, they guard morality that comes from ordination vows, morality gained through the true nature of dharmas, restraint morality, proclaimed morality, and morality that comes through force of habit.<sup>711</sup> But even though they are endowed with such morality as that, they do not grasp it as absolute, thinking, ‘On account of this may I be born sharing the good fortune of a great sāla tree-like royal family, or may I be born sharing the good fortune of a great sāla tree-like brahmin family, or a great sāla tree-like business family; or may I become a wheel-turning emperor, or a local ruler; or may I be born sharing the good fortune of the Cāturmahārājika gods, or may I be born sharing the good fortune of the Trāyastriṃśa gods, or may I be born sharing the good fortune of the Yāma, or Tuṣita, or Nirmāṇarati, or Paranirmitavaśavartin gods; or may I reach the result of stream enterer, or the result of once-returned, or the result of non-returned, or the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha’s awakening.’ And why? Subhūti, it is because all dharmas are marked by the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, so they have only one mark—that is, no mark—and a dharma that has no mark does not reach a dharma that has no mark. A dharma that has a different mark does not reach a dharma that has a different mark. And dharmas that have no marks or have different marks do not reach dharmas that have no marks or have different marks.

72.7 “In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom complete the perfection of morality that has no mark. Having completed the perfection of morality that has no mark, [F.59.a] they enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva, and having entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva and gained the forbearance for dharmas that are not produced, they practice the knowledge of path aspects and acquire the clairvoyances arisen from maturation. Stationed in the five hundred dhāraṇī gateways, they acquire the four detailed and thorough knowledges, pass on from buddhafiield to buddhafiield, attend on the lord buddhas, bring beings to maturity, and take possession of a buddhafiield.

72.8 “They stream through the five forms of life in the stream of cyclic existence but are not affected by the maturation of actions done when living in saṃsāra.

72.9 “To illustrate, a magical creation stands up, sits down, and lies down, but going, coming, remaining standing, sitting, and lying down are absent from it. It also works for the welfare of beings, even though it has no apprehension of beings or even the designation of a being. To illustrate further, a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, has turned the wheel of the Dharma and has led infinite beings into complete nirvāṇa in the two vehicles. But still, not seeing any bodhisattva at all whose unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening has been prophesied, that tathāgata throws off the volitional factor that is life, magically produces a magical creation, and passes into complete nirvāṇa in the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind. Subhūti, after many eons have gone by that magical creation, after having prophesied the unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening of a bodhisattva, also passes into complete nirvāṇa. But no real form, or feeling, or perception, or volitional factors, or consciousness of that magical creation can be apprehended at all as a basis. Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings too have no apprehension of beings or even the designation of a being [F.59.b] but still work for the welfare of beings.

72.10 “In that way, Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom complete the perfection of morality, all dharmas are included within that completion.

72.11 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, standing in the five appropriating aggregates that are like a dream—in the five appropriating aggregates that are like an echo, like an apparition, like an illusion, like a mirage, and like a magical creation—complete the perfection of patience that has no mark.

72.12 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the five appropriating aggregates without marks complete the perfection of patience? Here, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings complete the perfection of patience with two sorts of patience. What are the two? Starting from the first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, during that period, whether all beings come and snub, or humiliate, or refuse to associate with, or swear at them, or whether they deal them blows with sticks, clubs, and swords, bodhisattva great beings who want to complete the perfection of patience should not let even a single feeling of emotional upset arise: ‘Who is snubbing, or humiliating, or refusing to associate with, or swearing at me, or dealing me blows with sticks, clubs, and swords?’ And why? Because if they have forbearance for all dharmas without a mark, how could it occur to them to think, ‘Who is snubbing, or humiliating, or refusing to associate with, or swearing at me, or dealing me blows with sticks, clubs, and swords?’ [F.60.a] When they examine like that, they complete the perfection of patience, and, by having completed the perfection of patience, they gain forbearance for dharmas that have not been produced.”

72.13 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, what is forbearance for dharmas that are not produced? How do you gauge it?<sup>712</sup> What is knowledge?”

72.14 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, a dharma, even the tiniest one, is not produced.<sup>713</sup> That is called the subject that is not produced. The forbearance for that is called knowledge. Through that knowledge, forbearance for dharmas that are not produced is gained.”

72.15 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti then asked him, “Lord, what is the difference between these two types of patience: the forbearance for dharmas that are not produced of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas, and the forbearance for dharmas of bodhisattva great beings?”

72.16 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, the knowledge and the abandonment of a stream enterer—that is a bodhisattva’s forbearance; the knowledge and the abandonment of a once-returned, the knowledge and the abandonment of a non-returned, and the knowledge and the abandonment of a worthy one—that is a bodhisattva great being’s forbearance; and the knowledge and the abandonment of a pratyekabuddha—that is a bodhisattva great being’s forbearance. That, Subhūti, is the difference between the forbearance of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas and the forbearance of bodhisattva great beings.

- 72.17 “Subhūti, [F.60.b] the bodhisattva great beings who have such forbearance surpass all śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas. Remaining in the forbearance for dharmas that are not produced arisen from maturation, they pursue the bodhisattva’s path and complete the knowledge of path aspects. When they complete it, they are not separated from the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening and the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness meditative stabilizations. They are not separated from the five clairvoyances. Unseparated from the five clairvoyances, they bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhfield, and having brought beings to maturity and purified a buddhfield, with the wisdom of the unique single instant gain the knowledge of all aspects.
- 72.18 “In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings complete the perfection of patience that has no mark.
- 72.19 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, standing in the five appropriating aggregates that are like a dream, up to standing in the five appropriating aggregates that are like a magical creation, make a vigorous attempt at physical effort and mental effort that have no marks. With physical effort, having accomplished miraculous power, they go to world systems in the ten directions and wait on the lord buddhas and work for the welfare of beings. With that physical effort they bring beings to maturity and establish them in the three vehicles. In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom complete the perfection of perseverance that has no mark.
- 72.20 “With mental effort without outflows, incorporated<sup>714</sup> into the path, they complete the perfection of perseverance [F.61.a] included in which are these—namely, the four applications of mindfulness, four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path, as well as the three gateways to liberation, four concentrations, four immeasurables, four formless absorptions, eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha—all wholesome dharmas. Practicing all these, bodhisattva great beings should complete the knowledge of all aspects. When they have completed it, all connections with residual impressions are eliminated. When those have been eliminated, they complete the perfect development that has no mark,<sup>715</sup> and, having accomplished the power of meditative absorption, turn the wheel of the Dharma three times, a turning that has twelve aspects. On account of that turning the great billionfold world system in six ways shakes, shakes greatly, and shakes violently; quakes, quakes greatly, and quakes violently; resounds, resounds greatly, and resounds violently, pervading all the great billionfold world system with an illumination. That tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha emits a sound, a sound that causes listening, and the beings staying in the great billionfold world system hear that sound and they all become definite in the three vehicles.

72.21 “Subhūti, the perfection of perseverance of bodhisattva great beings is thus treated as very important. Standing in this perfection of perseverance, [F.61.b] bodhisattva great beings complete all the buddhadharmas and gain the knowledge of all aspects. [B50]

72.22 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, standing in the five appropriating aggregates that are like a dream, complete the perfection of meditative stabilization, up to standing in the five appropriating aggregates that are like a magical creation, complete the perfection of meditative stabilization.

72.23 “And how, Subhūti, do bodhisattva great beings standing in the five appropriating aggregates that are like a dream, up to like a magical creation complete the perfection of meditative stabilization?

72.24 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom accomplish and dwell in the first concentration, up to accomplish and dwell in the fourth concentration, and accomplish and dwell in love, compassion, joy, equanimity, from in the station of endless space, up to the station of neither perception nor nonperception. They cultivate the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness meditative stabilizations, and except for a tathāgata’s meditative stabilization, and the meditative stabilization like a flash of lightning, the perfect meditative stabilization, and the vajropama meditative stabilization, having pervaded them with their bodies<sup>716</sup> they accomplish and dwell in any śrāvaka meditative stabilization or pratyekabuddha meditative stabilization as appropriate, or any other of the host of meditative stabilizations as appropriate, but without relishing the meditative stabilization’s result. And why? Because those bodhisattva great beings perceive that the mark of a meditative stabilization is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. Just as a phenomenon that has no mark does not experience the taste of a phenomenon that has no mark, and just as a phenomenon that is a nonexistent thing does not experience the taste of a phenomenon that is a nonexistent thing, [F.62.a] since they do not experience anything, governed by which meditative stabilization will they take birth in the desire realm, or the form realm, or the formless realm? And why? Because they do not apprehend those realms and also do not apprehend someone who might become absorbed or that through which absorption might come about. Because they do not apprehend those, they complete the perfection of meditative stabilization that has no mark, and on account of that perfection of meditative stabilization pass beyond the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels.”

72.25 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings, having completed the perfection of meditative stabilization that has no mark, pass beyond the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels?”

72.26 “Subhūti, it is because bodhisattva great beings have trained well in inner emptiness, up to have trained well in the emptiness of its own mark and do not apprehend in these emptinesses any dharma that they would stand on for the result of stream enterer, or the result of once-returner, or the result of non-returner, or the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, up to or the knowledge of all aspects. That emptiness too is empty, so by those emptinesses they pass beyond the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels and enter into the flawlessness of a bodhisattva.”<sup>717</sup>

72.27 “Lord, what is a bodhisattva’s flaw and what is a bodhisattva’s flawlessness?”

“Subhūti, all apprehending is the bodhisattva great beings’ flaw; all not apprehending is flawlessness.”

72.28 “Lord, what is apprehending, and what is not apprehending?”

“Bodhisattva great beings apprehend form; [F.62.b] bodhisattva great beings apprehend feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; they apprehend the eyes and form, and ears and sound, and nose and smell, and tongue and taste, and body and feeling, and the thinking mind and dharmas. Similarly, connect this with each, up to apprehend the knowledge of all aspects.

72.29 “Subhūti, all not apprehending, from form up to the knowledge of all aspects, even as something that can be talked about, is flawlessness. Why? Subhūti, it is because the intrinsic nature of form cannot be apprehended. The intrinsic nature of form is a nonexistent thing and cannot be talked about, up to the intrinsic nature of the knowledge of all aspects is a nonexistent thing and cannot be talked about. This, Subhūti, is the flawlessness of bodhisattva great beings. Those bodhisattva great beings, having entered into flawlessness, complete all the meditative stabilizations, but their birth is not dictated even by the completed absorption, so what need is there to say that their birth is not on account of greed, hatred, and confusion? It is impossible that they would occasion any action while under their influence, any action that would occasion birth from any of the four concentrations. On the contrary, standing in dharmas that are like an illusion, they work for the welfare of beings, without apprehending beings and without apprehending the illusion. Without apprehending anything they bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhafiield. In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings, having completed the perfection of meditative stabilization, go on until they turn the wheel of the Dharma—that is, the wheel that cannot be apprehended.

72.30 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom [F.63.a] comprehend that all phenomena are like a dream, like an echo, like an apparition, like an illusion, like a mirage, and like a magical creation.”

72.31 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom comprehend that all phenomena are like a dream, and how do they comprehend that all phenomena are like an echo, like an apparition, like an illusion, like a mirage, and like a magical creation?”

72.32 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom are not the dreaming of a dream and are not the dreamers of a dream, are not the hearing of an echo and are not the hearers of an echo, are not the seeing of an apparition and are not those who see an apparition, are not the seeing of a mirage and are not those who see a mirage, and are not the seeing of a magical creation and are not those who see a magical creation. And why? Because a dream, echo, apparition, illusion, mirage, and magical creation are all error; they are all the error of ordinary people. A worthy one is not the dreaming of a dream and is not the dreamer of a dream, up to is not the seeing of a magical creation and is not the one who sees a magical creation. Similarly, connect this with each, up to a pratyekabuddha, and a bodhisattva, and even a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha is not the dreaming of a dream and is not the dreamer of a dream, up to is not the seeing of a magical creation and is not the one who sees a magical creation. And why? Because all phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, are not produced, and are not existent. In regard to things that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, that are not thoroughly established, how could bodhisattva [F.63.b] great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom become those with the notion that they are existent things, or those with the notion that they are thoroughly established? It is impossible. And why? Because it would not be the perfection of wisdom if any phenomena were to have an intrinsic nature, be thoroughly established, or exist.

72.33 “In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom are not attached to form, up to are not attached to consciousness; are not attached to the desire realm, are not attached to the form realm, and are not attached to the formless realm; are not attached to the concentrations, deliverances, or absorptions; are not attached to the four applications of mindfulness, up to the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening; are not attached to the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, or wishlessness meditative stabilization; are not attached to the perfection of giving, and similarly, connect this with<sup>718</sup> are not attached to the perfection of morality, patience, perseverance, concentration, or wisdom. While practicing the perfection of wisdom they complete the first level, but they do not generate an attachment that wants to be there. And why? Because if they cannot apprehend that level, how could they generate an attachment that wants to be there? Similarly, up to they complete the tenth level, but they do not generate an attachment that wants to be there. And why? Because if they cannot apprehend that level, how could they generate an attachment that wants to be there? Even while practicing the perfection of wisdom they do not apprehend that perfection of wisdom. While practicing that nonapprehended perfection of wisdom, they see that all dharmas are included within that perfection of wisdom, but they do not apprehend those dharmas either. And why? Because those dharmas [F.64.a] and that perfection of wisdom are not two and are not divided. And why? Because there is no difference at all in those dharmas. According to the way the dharma-constituent is taught, suchness is taught, and the very limit of reality is taught, all dharmas are not broken apart.”

72.34 “Lord, if all dharmas are unadulterated, how are wholesome and unwholesome dharmas taught, how are dharmas with outflows and without outflows taught, and how are compounded and un-compounded dharmas taught?”

72.35 “Subhūti, what do you think, in the true dharmic nature of dharmas, is there anything at all, be it compounded or un-compounded, or be it the result of stream enterer, or the result of once-returner, or the result of non-returner, or the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, or a buddhadharma that can be talked about?”

“No, there is not, Lord.”

72.36 “Subhūti, you should therefore know from this one of many explanations that all dharmas are thus unadulterated and that all dharmas have no marks, are not produced, and do not stop.

72.37 “Subhūti, earlier when I was practicing the bodhisattva’s practice I did not apprehend an intrinsic nature of any dharma at all, be it ‘form,’ or ‘feeling,’ or ‘perception,’ or ‘volitional factors,’ or ‘consciousness’; or..., up to ‘the compounded,’ or ‘the un-compounded’; or ‘the result of stream enterer’; or..., up to ‘awakening.’

72.38 “In that way, Subhūti, starting from the first production of the thought up until fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, [F.64.b] bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should be skilled in the intrinsic nature of all phenomena by way of not apprehending anything at all. Bodhisattva great beings skilled in the intrinsic nature of phenomena complete the awakening path, bring beings to maturity, and purify a buddhafiield. Stationed there, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, having led beings, one way or the other they lead them such that they do not suffer in the three suffering existences.

72.39     “In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should train in the perfection of wisdom by way of the absence of marks.”

72.40     This was the seventy-second chapter, “Teaching the Absence of Marks,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

73.                   CHAPTER 73: EXPOSITION OF THE MAJOR MARKS AND MINOR SIGNS AND THE COMPLETION OF LETTERS

73.1           The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti then inquired of him, “Lord, how, when all dharmas are like a dream, have no basis, are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, and are empty of their own marks, can you present these as wholesome and these as unwholesome, these as ordinary and these as extraordinary, these as with outflows and these as without outflows, these as compounded and these as uncompounded, as well as these for making manifest the result of stream enterer, these for making manifest the result of once-returner, these for making manifest the result of non-returner, these for making manifest the state of a worthy one, these for making manifest a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, and these for making manifest unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening? And similarly, up to how, when all dharmas are like an echo, like an apparition, like an illusion, like a mirage, and like [F.65.a] a magical creation; are nonexistent things; are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature; and are empty of their own marks, can you present these for making manifest unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”

73.2           Venerable Subhūti having thus inquired, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here ordinary, unlettered simple folk apprehend a dream, apprehend a dreamer of a dream, up to apprehend a magical creation, and apprehend one who sees a magical creation. On account of apprehending a dream and apprehending a dreamer of a dream, up to on account of apprehending a magical creation and apprehending one who sees a magical creation, body, speech, and mind cause unwholesome volitional factors to come into being; body, speech, and mind cause wholesome volitional factors to come into being; and body, speech, and mind also cause good, bad, and immovable<sup>719</sup> volitional factors to come into being.

73.3 “Therefore, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom standing in these two emptinesses—the emptiness of what transcends limits and the emptiness of no beginning and no end—teach beings that these three realms are empty. ‘Here there is no form, or feeling, or perception, or volitional factors, or consciousness, or aggregates, or constituents, or sense fields. They are a dream; they are an echo; they are an apparition; they are an illusion; they are a mirage; and they are a magical creation. Here there are no aggregates, or constituents, or sense fields. Here there is no dream and no dreamer of a dream, no echo and no hearer of an echo, no apparition and no one who sees an apparition, no mirage and no one who sees a mirage, and no magical creation and no one who sees a magical creation. [F.65.b] All these dharmas are nonexistent things and are only the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. But still, even though there are no aggregates there is the perception of aggregates, even though there are no constituents there is the perception of constituents, and even though there are no sense fields there is the perception of sense fields. All these dharmas are dependent origination, are arisen on account of error, and are appropriated because of the maturation of karma, so why do you persist with the perception of an existent thing even though dharmas are nonexistent things?’

73.4 “Therefore, with skillful means bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom stop those beings who are stingy from being stingy and connect them with the perfection of giving. That charitable impulse of theirs makes them more and more wealthy. Having caused them to advance beyond<sup>720</sup> that, they establish them in morality, and that morality of theirs that they have properly taken up leads them to be born in the heavens.<sup>721</sup> Having caused them to advance even beyond that, they connect them with meditative stabilization and that meditative stabilization of theirs leads them to take birth in the Brahmaloaka. Similarly, from the first concentration they connect them with the second concentration, from the second concentration with the third concentration, from the third concentration with the fourth concentration, and from the fourth concentration with the absorption in the station of endless space, with the absorption in the station of endless consciousness, with the absorption in the station of nothing-at-all, and with the absorption in the station of neither perception nor nonperception. In many ways they make them advance beyond giving and the result of giving and make them calm down and enter into the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind, establishing them in it. They also make them advance beyond morality and the result of morality and in many ways make them calm down and enter into the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind, [F.66.a] establishing them in it. They also make them advance beyond absorption and the result of absorption and in many ways make them calm down and enter into the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind, establishing them in it. Similarly, they make them calm down and enter into the four applications of mindfulness, four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path, as well as the three gateways to liberation, eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, establishing them in them. With the dharmas without outflows that are formless, cannot be pointed out, and do not obstruct, they establish those yearning for the result of stream enterer in the result of stream enterer, establish those yearning for the result of once-returner in the result of once-returner, establish those yearning for the result of non-returner in the result of non-returner, establish those yearning for the state of a worthy one in the state of a worthy one, establish those yearning for a pratyekabuddha's awakening in a pratyekabuddha's awakening, and explain to, teach, motivate, excite, and establish those yearning for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening on the awakening path."

73.5 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti said to him, "Lord, that bodhisattva great beings practicing this deep perfection of wisdom [F.66.b] should present dharmas as dharmas that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, dharmas that are an emptiness of what transcends limits and an emptiness of no beginning and no end in such detail—"These are wholesome dharmas and these are unwholesome dharmas, these are dharmas with outflows and these are dharmas without outflows, up to these are compounded dharmas and these are uncompounded dharmas"—is amazing, marvelous."

73.6 Venerable Subhūti having said that, the Lord said to him, "Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! This presentation of dharmas by bodhisattva great beings practicing this deep perfection of wisdom is an amazing, marvelous dharma. Subhūti, when you understand how amazing and marvelous this dharma of bodhisattva great beings is, there is no case for it being easy for any śrāvakas or pratyekabuddhas to pay back the bodhisattva great beings in kind for such help. Even all of you together would be incapable of surpassing those bodhisattva great beings with all the dharmas they have."

73.7 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, "Lord, what is that amazing, marvelous dharma of bodhisattva great beings that śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas do not have?"

73.8 "Well then, Subhūti, listen well and pay attention and I will explain," said the Lord. "Here bodhisattva great beings practicing this deep perfection of wisdom, standing in the six perfections arisen from maturation, standing in the five clairvoyances, thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, dhāraṇī gateways, and four detailed and thorough knowledges, having gone to world systems in the ten directions, help with giving those beings there who can be helped [F.67.a] by giving; help those who can be helped by morality, those who can be helped by patience, those who can be helped by perseverance, and those who can be helped by meditative stabilization; help with wisdom those who can be helped by wisdom; help those who can be helped by the first concentration, those who can be helped by the second concentration, those who can be helped by the third concentration, those who can be helped by the fourth concentration, those who can be helped by the absorption in the station of endless space, up to help with absorption in the station of neither perception nor nonperception those who can be helped by the absorption in the station of neither perception nor nonperception; help those who can be helped by love, those who can be helped by compassion, those who can be helped by joy, and those who can be helped by equanimity; help those who can be helped by the four applications of mindfulness, those who can be helped by the four right efforts, those who can be helped by the four legs of miraculous power, those who can be helped by the five faculties, those who can be helped by the five powers, those who can be helped by the seven limbs of awakening, those who can be helped by the eightfold noble path, those who can be helped by the emptiness meditative stabilization, those who can be helped by the signlessness meditative stabilization, and help with the wishlessness meditative stabilization those who can be helped by the wishlessness meditative stabilization.”

73.9 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing [F.67.b] this perfection of wisdom help beings who can be helped by giving with giving?”

73.10 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing this perfection of wisdom give gifts. They give food to those begging for food, and drinks to those who want drink; they give transport, flower garlands, creams, incense, clothes, beds, pillows, up to whatever human requirements are appropriate. Just as they give to the tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete Buddha, they also give in the same way to pratyekabuddhas, worthy ones, non-returners, once-returners, stream enterers, and similarly to those who have gone perfectly, and those who have set out perfectly, and similarly to those in human form, and similarly to those in the animal world—to all without any differentiation they give gifts. And why? Because they realize all dharmas are not different, so they give gifts that are not different, and by giving gifts that are not different they come to obtain a dharma that is not different, namely, the knowledge of all aspects.

- 73.11 “Subhūti, if a bodhisattva great being sees a creature in the animal world and thinks, ‘The perfect, complete buddha is worthy of gifts, not a being born in the animal world,’ that is not a bodhisattva’s dharma. And why? Because, having produced a thought for awakening and thus set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, it never occurs to bodhisattva great beings that ‘these beings I should help with giving, these I should not help.’ Those the giving has helped take birth in great sāla tree-like royal families, and take birth in great sāla tree-like brahmin families, and great sāla tree-like business families. [F.68.a] Through just that, those helped by giving pass gradually, in the three vehicles, into complete nirvāṇa in the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind.
- 73.12 “Even if bodhisattva great beings are asked by many beings to kill themselves, they should definitely make that gift to those many beings, with a mind that is undisturbed, and should not produce any other state of mind, thinking, ‘Should I give or not give?’ And why? Because they have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening for the sake of those many living beings. Were they to be indecisive like that they would be open to the censure of the lord buddhas, the bodhisattvas, the pratyekabuddhas, the worthy ones, the trainees, and the world with its gods, humans, and asuras as well, saying, ‘Who are you that you would not rise up<sup>722</sup> as a refuge, resting place, protector, and final ally of all beings?’
- 73.13 “Furthermore, Subhūti, when those in the form of humans or in the form of nonhumans ask bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom for a major or minor part of their bodies, they should not produce either one or the other of the thoughts ‘I should give’ or ‘I should not give.’ And why? Because bodhisattva great beings have intentionally appropriated a body for the sake of beings, thinking, ‘With this body I must work for the welfare of beings,’ and because they must produce the thought, ‘Those for the welfare of whom I have taken up this body should feel free to make off with it even without having asked.’ Subhūti, that is how bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should train.
- 73.14 “Furthermore, Subhūti, when seeing a beggar, bodhisattva great beings should think like this: ‘An intrinsic nature of all dharmas cannot be apprehended, so who is giving a gift, who is it being given to, and what is being given?’ And why? [F.68.b] Because those dharmas are absolutely empty, and emptiness does not give to anyone and also does not receive.
- 73.15 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should train like that—that is, in inner emptiness, outer emptiness, inner and outer emptiness, and similarly, connect this with each, up to the emptiness of its own mark. Having stood in those emptinesses they give a gift that constantly and always becomes a complete perfection of giving, and because they have completed the perfection of giving, even while inside and outside dharmas are being chopped and cut into pieces, it does not occur to them to think, 'Who is chopping and cutting me into pieces?'

73.16 "Subhūti, here, looking down with my buddha eye on as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in the eastern direction I have seen bodhisattva great beings who have gone into the great hells and, having calmed those sufferings of hell, taught the doctrine to those beings in the hells by way of the three miracles—the miracle of miraculous powers, the miracle of foretelling, and the miracle of instruction. Having calmed the sufferings of hell with the miracle of miraculous powers, they teach the doctrine with the miracle of foretelling and the miracle of instruction. Those bodhisattvas have taught the doctrine with great love, great compassion, great joy, and great equanimity, so those beings in the hells have faith in those bodhisattvas, will be freed from those hells, and from those hells, in the three vehicles, gradually put an end to suffering. Similarly, connect this with on as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in the south, west, north, below and above, and in the intermediate directions.

73.17 "Subhūti, here, looking down with my buddha eye [F.69.a] on the world, on as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in the eastern direction I have seen bodhisattva great beings waiting on the lord buddhas. Those bodhisattva great beings are waiting on the lord buddhas with intense faith, not without devotion but with devotion, not without pleasure but with pleasure, not without reverence but with reverence. Those bodhisattva great beings take up those doctrines the lord buddhas have taught them, and, having taken them up, they bear them in mind and until they fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, make sure they do not get lost. Similarly, connect this with on world systems in the south, west, north, below and above, and in the intermediate directions.

73.18 "Subhūti, here, looking down with my buddha eye on as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in the eastern direction I have also seen bodhisattva great beings sacrificing themselves for the sake of beings in the animal world. There, those bodhisattva great beings chop off the major or minor parts of their bodies and strew them around in the main and intermediate directions. Those beings in the animal world eat the flesh of those bodhisattvas and come to feel love for those bodhisattvas. Feeling love for them they are freed from the animal world, and having been freed they serve the lord buddhas. While serving those lord buddhas they listen to the doctrine of those lord buddhas and, having listened to those doctrines, they practice them for suchness. They pass gradually in the three vehicles—the Śrāvaka Vehicle or Pratyekabuddha Vehicle [F.69.b] or Buddha Vehicle—into complete nirvāṇa in the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind. Thus, Subhūti, they are indeed a boon, these bodhisattva great beings who produce the thought to become unsurpassedly, perfectly, completely awakened, and, having produced it, also practice for suchness, and in the same way pass into complete nirvāṇa in the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind.

73.19 “Furthermore, Subhūti, here looking down with my buddha eye on as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River I have seen bodhisattva great beings alleviating the sufferings of the ghosts in the regions of ghosts. To stop miserliness they teach the doctrine, and that causes them to generate a feeling of love for those bodhisattva great beings. They are freed from the regions of ghosts because of that wholesome root. Having been freed they are never separated from the lord buddhas until they pass into complete nirvāṇa in the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind. Thus, Subhūti, dwelling in compassion, bodhisattva great beings remain available for the welfare of all beings, that is, for their complete nirvāṇa.

73.20 “Furthermore, Subhūti, here looking down with my buddha eye I have seen bodhisattva great beings teaching the doctrine to the Cāturmahārājika gods, and teaching the doctrine to the Trāyastriṃśa, Yāma, Tuṣita, Nirmāṇarati, and Paranirmitavaśavartin gods. Those gods, having heard the doctrine from those bodhisattva great beings, have passed into nirvāṇa, are passing into nirvāṇa, and will pass into complete nirvāṇa gradually in the three vehicles. Subhūti, [F.70.a] having caused the celestial mansions of those gods thrilled by the expanse of the five sorts of sense objects to burst into flames, they teach them the doctrine: ‘Friends, all compounded phenomena are impermanent, so who would have confidence in them?’

73.21 “Furthermore, Subhūti, here looking down with my buddha eye on as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River I have seen bodhisattva great beings dissuading those who are attached to the view of Brahma from that view: ‘Hey, friends, all phenomena are empty, so how do you formulate a view? All phenomena ring hollow, so how do you formulate a view?’ Thus, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings dwelling in compassion teach the doctrine to beings. Subhūti, this is the amazing and marvelous dharma of bodhisattva great beings.

73.22 “Subhūti, here, looking down with my buddha eye on as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in the eastern direction I have seen bodhisattva great beings gathering humans with the four ways of gathering a retinue. What are the four? The ways of gathering are by giving gifts, kind words, beneficial actions, and consistency between words and deeds.

73.23 “How, Subhūti, do bodhisattva great beings gather a retinue of beings by giving? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings gather a retinue of beings by a twofold way of giving material gifts and the gift of Dharma.

73.24 “How, Subhūti, do bodhisattva great beings gather a retinue with gifts? They give gold, or silver, or jewels, or pearls, or beryl, or conch shells, or crystals, or corals, or food, or drink, or clothes, or transport, or beds, or seats, or perfume, or flowers, or garlands, or lamps, or a man [F.70.b] or a woman,<sup>723</sup> or a horse, or a bull, or an elephant, or their own flesh, shouting out the words, ‘Hey humans! Come here! You must take and go with what you want without hesitation, with a feeling of benevolence, as if it is your own.’

73.25 “Having given those gifts, they cause those beings to go for refuge to the Buddha, to go for refuge to the Dharma, and to go for refuge to the Saṅgha. Some they cause to take up the five-point training; some they cause to take up the eight-branched confession and restoration; some they establish in the ten wholesome actions; some they cause to take up the first concentration, up to the absorption in the station of neither perception nor nonperception; some they cause to take up love, compassion, joy, and equanimity; in some they enjoin mindfulness of the Buddha, mindfulness of the Dharma, mindfulness of the Saṅgha, mindfulness of morality, mindfulness of giving away, mindfulness of the gods, and in some the perception of uncleanness and so on in the examination of the body.<sup>724</sup> Some they cause to be joined to the pure; some to the four applications of mindfulness, some to the four right efforts, some to the four legs of miraculous power, some to the five faculties, some to the five powers, some to the seven limbs of awakening, and some to the eightfold noble path; some to the emptiness gateway to liberation, signlessness gateway to liberation, and wishlessness gateway to liberation; some to the eight deliverances, some to the nine serial absorptions, and some to the ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, and the four detailed and thorough knowledges; some to great love, and some to great compassion; some to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, some to the thirty-two major marks of a great person, and some to the eighty minor signs; [F.71.a] and some to the result of stream enterer, some to the result of once-returner, some to the result of non-returner, some to the state of a worthy one, some to a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, and some to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.

73.26 “Subhūti, that is how bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom endowed with skillful means give material gifts and establish others in vast accomplishment and security. Subhūti, this is the amazing and marvelous dharma of bodhisattva great beings.

73.27 “How, Subhūti, do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom help beings by the gift of Dharma?

“Subhūti, the gift of Dharma is these two: the ordinary and extraordinary.

73.28 “What, Subhūti, is the ordinary gift of Dharma? It is the explanation, teaching, and explication of the ordinary doctrines, namely, any of the ordinary doctrines that occur in the Uncleanliness Chapter,<sup>725</sup> up to the four concentrations, the four practices of spiritual practitioners, the formless absorptions, and those shared in common with ordinary persons. This is called the ordinary gift of Dharma.

73.29 “Subhūti, having given this gift of ordinary Dharma, those bodhisattva great beings move them away from taking to that as perfect in many ways,<sup>726</sup> and having moved them away, establish them with skillful means in the noble dharmas and the results of the noble dharmas.

73.30 “What are the noble dharmas and the results of the noble dharmas? Subhūti, the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening and the three gateways to liberation are called the noble dharmas. The result of stream enterer, up to the state of a worthy one are the results [F.71.b] of the noble dharmas.

73.31 “Also, Subhūti, the knowledge of the result of stream enterer, up to the knowledge of the state of a worthy one, up to the knowledge of the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, up to the knowledge of the ten tathāgata powers, up to the knowledge of great love, knowledge of great compassion, knowledge of great joy, and knowledge of great equanimity, as well as—setting aside the knowledge of a knower of all aspects—those ordinary and extraordinary dharmas, with outflows and without outflows, and that are compounded and un-compounded—these are called a bodhisattva great being’s noble dharmas.

73.32 “What are the results of a bodhisattva great being’s noble dharmas? This abandonment of all residual impression connections is called the result of a bodhisattva great being’s noble dharmas.”

73.33 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, do bodhisattva great beings gain the knowledge of all aspects?”

73.34 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!” replied the Lord. “Bodhisattva great beings gain the knowledge of all aspects.”

73.35 “Well then, Lord, is there a distinction to be made between a bodhisattva great being and a tathāgata?” he asked.

73.36 “A distinction is to be made,” he replied. “And what distinction is to be made? A bodhisattva great being gains the knowledge of all aspects, but a tathāgata is called one who has gained the knowledge.<sup>727</sup> And why? Because having stood where a bodhisattva great being’s mind, and a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly and completely awakened one, [F.72.a] cannot be apprehended as different, they have gained the nondifferentiation<sup>728</sup> of all dharmas.

73.37 “Subhūti, this is the bodhisattva great beings’ ordinary gift of Dharma. Contingent on this there is the extraordinary gift of Dharma. Thus, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings, having guided all beings in the ordinary gift of Dharma, establish them with skillful means in the knowledge of all aspects.

73.38 “Subhūti, what is the extraordinary gift of Dharma of bodhisattva great beings shared in common with foolish ordinary people? It is this: the four applications of mindfulness, four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path; the three gateways to liberation, eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, ten stations of complete immersion, eight stations of mastery, conflict-free meditative stabilization, knowledge from prayer, six clairvoyances, four total purities, ten controls, and ten tathāgata powers; the four fearlessnesses, the four detailed and thorough knowledges, the three a tathāgata does not have to guard against, the three<sup>729</sup> applications of mindfulness, the natural state not robbed of mindfulness, and the elimination of obscuration from residual impressions; great compassion; and the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, the knowledge of all aspects, the thirty-two major marks and eighty minor signs of a great person, the five dhāraṇī gateways, and the meditative stabilization gateways. These are not ordinary; they are called the extraordinary gift of Dharma.

73.39 “Subhūti, what are the four applications of mindfulness? They are these:<sup>730</sup> Enthusiastic, introspective, and mindful, having cleared away ordinary covetousness and depression, they dwell viewing in a body the inner body; [F.72.b] enthusiastic, introspective, and mindful, having cleared away ordinary covetousness and depression, they dwell viewing in a body the outer body; enthusiastic, introspective, and mindful, having cleared away ordinary covetousness and depression, they dwell viewing in a body the inner and outer body; they dwell in a body viewing arising; they dwell in a body viewing passing away; they dwell in a body viewing origination and passing away; and dwelling in a body without a fixed abode they do not appropriate anything in the world. Similarly, connect this with feelings, mind, and dharmas as well.

73.40 “Subhūti, what are the right efforts? They are the generation of the desire not to produce wrong unwholesome dharmas that have not been produced; generation of the desire to abandon wrong unwholesome dharmas that have been produced; generation of the desire to produce wholesome dharmas that have not been produced; and generation of the desire that wholesome dharmas that have been produced will increase, not degenerate, and be completed.

73.41 “Subhūti, what are the four legs of miraculous power? They are the leg of miraculous power endowed with meditative stabilization and the volitional effort caused by yearning, and the limbs of miraculous power endowed with meditative stabilization and the volitional effort caused by perseverance, concentrated mind, and examination.

73.42 “Subhūti, what are the five faculties? They are the faith faculty, perseverance faculty, mindfulness faculty, meditative stabilization faculty, and wisdom faculty. These are called the five faculties.

73.43 “Subhūti, what are the five powers? They are the faith power, perseverance power, mindfulness power, meditative stabilization power, and wisdom power. These are called the five powers.

73.44 “Subhūti, what are the seven limbs of awakening? They are the right mindfulness limb of awakening, right examination of dharmas limb of awakening, right perseverance limb of awakening, right joy limb of awakening, [F.73.a] right pliability limb of awakening, right meditative stabilization limb of awakening, and right equanimity limb of awakening. These are called the seven limbs of awakening.

73.45 “Subhūti, what is the eightfold noble path? It is right view, right idea, right speech, right conduct, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness, and right meditative stabilization. This is called the eightfold noble path.

73.46 “Subhūti, what are the three meditative stabilizations?<sup>731</sup> They are the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, and wishlessness meditative stabilization.

73.47 “What is the emptiness meditative stabilization? That one-pointedness of mind as an empty appearance and as an isolated appearance is called the emptiness meditative stabilization.

73.48 “What is the signlessness meditative stabilization? That one-pointedness of mind as a calm appearance and as an appearance without causal signs is called the signless meditative stabilization.

73.49 “What is the wishlessness meditative concentration? That one-pointedness of mind as an appearance of impermanence and as an appearance of suffering is called the wishless meditative stabilization.

73.50 “Subhūti, what are the eight deliverances? With form they see form. This is the first deliverance. With the perception of form inside they see form outside. This is the second deliverance. Having directly experienced the pleasant deliverance with the body,<sup>732</sup> they perfectly accomplish and dwell in it. This is the third deliverance. Totally transcending perceptions of form, setting to rest perceptions of obstruction, not paying attention to perceptions of difference, thinking ‘it is endless space,’ this perfect accomplishment and dwelling in the station of endless space, up to this perfect accomplishment and dwelling in the station of neither perception nor nonperception are the fourth to seventh deliverances, [F.73.b] and having totally transcended the station of neither perception nor nonperception, having focused on the cessation of perception and feeling with the body, this perfect accomplishment and dwelling is the eighth. These are called the eight deliverances.

73.51 “Subhūti, what are the nine serial absorptions? There someone detached from sense objects, detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas, perfectly accomplishes and dwells in the first concentration that has applied thought and has sustained thought and joy and happiness born of detachment, and similarly, perfectly accomplishes and dwells in..., up to the second concentration, third concentration, and fourth concentration, up to perfectly accomplishes and dwells in the station of neither perception nor nonperception, and, having totally transcended the station of neither perception nor nonperception, perfectly accomplishes and dwells in the cessation of perception and feeling. They are called the nine serial absorptions.

73.52 “What are the ten stations of complete immersion? Immersion into earth, immersion into water, immersion into fire, and immersion into wind; immersion into blue, immersion into yellow, immersion into red, and immersion into white; immersion into space and immersion into consciousness—these are called the ten stations of complete immersion.

73.53 “What are the eight stations of mastery? Those with a perception of form inside see small, beautiful, and ugly forms outside. They master and know, and master and see those forms. They become those with such a perception. This is the first station of mastery.

73.54 “Those without a perception of form inside see big, beautiful, and ugly forms outside. They master and know, and master and see those forms. They become those with such a perception. This is the second station of mastery.

73.55 “Those without a perception of form inside see blue shapes, blue in color, that look blue, and shine out blue<sup>733</sup>—for example, flax flowers [F.74.a] and fine cloth from the Vārāṇasī region that are blue in shape, blue in color, look blue, and shine out blue. Similarly, without a perception of form inside, this seeing of blue shapes, blue in color, that look blue, and shine out blue is the third station of mastery.

73.56 “Those without a perception of form inside see yellow shapes, yellow in color, that look yellow, and shine out yellow—for example, bayur tree flowers and fine cloth from the Vārāṇasī region that are yellow in shape,

- yellow in color, look yellow, and shine out yellow. Similarly, without a perception of form inside, this seeing of yellow shapes, yellow in color, that look yellow, and shine out yellow is the fourth station of mastery.
- 73.57 “Those without a perception of form inside see red shapes, red in color, that look red, and shine out red—for example, bandhujīvaka flowers<sup>734</sup> and fine cloth from the Vārāṇasī region that are red in shape, red in color, look red, and shine out red. Similarly, without a perception of form inside, this seeing of red shapes, red in color, that look red, and shine out red is the fifth station of mastery.
- 73.58 “Those without a perception of form inside see white<sup>735</sup> shapes, white in color, that look white, and shine out white—for example, the color of the planet Venus and fine cloth from the Vārāṇasī region that are white in shape, white in color, look white, and shine out white. Similarly, without a perception of form inside, this seeing of white shapes, white in color, that look white, and shine out white is the sixth station of mastery.
- 73.59 “Totally transcending perceptions of form, setting to rest perceptions of obstruction, [F.74.b] not paying attention to perceptions of difference, thinking ‘it is endless space,’ this perfect accomplishment and dwelling in the station of endless space is the seventh station of mastery.
- 73.60 “Totally transcending perceptions of form, setting to rest perceptions of obstruction, not paying attention to perceptions of difference, thinking ‘it is endless consciousness,’ this perfect accomplishment and dwelling in the station of endless consciousness is the eighth station of mastery.
- “These are called the eight stations of mastery. [B51]
- 73.61 “What is conflict-free meditative stabilization? Based on concentration, the meditative stabilization that accomplishes the practice of bodhisattva great beings on account of which afflictions are not produced in other beings and other persons is called conflict-free.
- 73.62 “What is knowledge from prayer? Having resorted to concentration, thinking, ‘I want to know,’ bodhisattvas want to know whatever knowledge or knowable thing there is in the three time periods. Having set their minds on it, arising from the concentration that prayer is fully answered. That knowledge of that knowable thing is called knowledge from prayer.
- 73.63 “What are the six clairvoyances? The clairvoyant knowledge of miraculous power, divine eye clairvoyance, divine hearing clairvoyance, clairvoyant knowledge of the thought activity of beings, clairvoyant knowledge that recollects previous existences, and clairvoyant knowledge of the extinction of outflows—these are the six.
- 73.64 “What are the four total purities? The thoroughly purified basis, thoroughly purified objective support, thoroughly purified mind, and thoroughly purified knowledge—these are the four.

- 73.65 “What are the ten controls? Control over lifespan, control over mind, control over necessities, control over action, control over birth, control over belief, control over prayer, control over magical powers, control over knowledge, and control over the Dharma—these are the ten.
- 73.66 “Subhūti, what are the ten tathāgata powers? [F.75.a] “They accurately know the possible as possible, and accurately know the impossible as impossible.<sup>736</sup>
- 73.67 “They accurately know from the perspective of place and from the perspective of cause, the results of past, present, and future actions and the undertaking of actions.
- 73.68 “They accurately know the world with its various constituents and multiplicity of constituents.
- 73.69 “They accurately know the multiplicity of active desires and various beliefs of other beings and other persons.
- 73.70 “They accurately know the knowledge of higher and lower faculties of other beings and other persons.
- 73.71 “They accurately know the path wherever it goes.
“They accurately know the defilement and purification of all concentrations, deliverances, meditative stabilizations, and absorptions, and the emergence from them.
- 73.72 “They recollect many prior states of existence—they recollect just one lifetime, up to recollect many states of existence together with their appearance and their location.
- 73.73 “With their purified divine eye that far surpasses the human, they see beings who are dying and being born, and they see those beings who have bad physical, verbal, and mental behavior, who hold wrong views and speak ill of noble beings, and who, on the breakup of their bodies after death, tumble into and take birth in terrible catastrophic forms of life because of those causes and those conditions. And they see those beings who have good physical, verbal, and mental behavior, who hold right views and do not speak ill of noble beings, and who, on the breakup of their bodies, take birth among the gods in good forms of life in the heavenly worlds because of those causes and those conditions. So, with their purified divine eye that far surpasses the human they accurately know, exactly in accord with the action,<sup>737</sup> their deaths and rebirths, ugly [F.75.b] and beautiful bodies, and terrible forms and good forms of life.
- 73.74 “They accurately know the extinction of outflows, the nonexistence of outflows, a mind that is freed, and a wisdom that is freed. These are called the ten tathāgata powers.
- 73.75 “Subhūti, what are the tathāgatas’ four fearlessnesses?

“When I claim, ‘I am perfectly completely enlightened,’ ah! I see no causal sign that would make me think anyone in this world of beings together with the gods, Māra, Brahmā, those leading a secluded religious life, and brahmins could in truth argue with me there that ‘these dharmas have not become perfectly completely awakened.’ Because I do not see any causal sign, I, who have found happiness, found fearlessness, and found a ground for self-confidence, claim the exalted status of the dominant bull. I roar the lion’s perfect roar in the assembly. I, Brahmā-like, turn the wheel that a god or Māra or Brahmā or one leading a secluded religious life or a brahmin—no one in this world—can in truth turn.

73.76      Similarly, connect this with: “When I claim, ‘I have put an end to outflows,’ no one could in truth argue with me there that ‘you have not put an end to those outflows.’

73.77      “About those dharmas I have explained to be hindrances, no one could in truth argue with me that ‘even having resorted to them, those dharmas do not hinder.’

73.78      “And about the noble paths that I have said perfectly put an end to suffering and cause escape, I see no causal sign that would make me think that anyone in this world of beings together with the gods, Māra, Brahmā, those leading a secluded religious life, and brahmins could in truth argue with me that ‘even if they have been resorted to, they do not put an end to outflows.’ Because I do not see any causal sign here, I have found happiness, found fearlessness, [F.76.a] found a ground for self-confidence, and claim as my state the exalted state of the dominant bull. I roar the lion’s perfect roar in the assembly. I, Brahmā-like, turn the wheel that a god or Māra or Brahmā or one leading a secluded religious life or a brahmin—no one in this world—can in truth turn.

“These are called the four fearlessnesses.

73.79      “Subhūti, what are the four detailed and thorough knowledges of the tathāgatas?<sup>738</sup> They are detailed and thorough knowledge of meanings, detailed and thorough knowledge of dharmas, detailed and thorough knowledge of creative explanations, and detailed and thorough knowledge of confidence giving a readiness to speak. Again, what are they? They have meanings as objective support, dharmas as objective support, creative explanations as objective support, and confidence giving a readiness to speak as objective support.

73.80      “Subhūti, what are the three things the tathāgatas do not have to guard against? The tathāgatas’ physical behavior is completely pure. They do not have to be concerned about impure physical behavior, so the tathāgatas do not conceal it, thinking, ‘I hope nobody else finds out.’ This is the first thing they do not have to guard against. The tathāgatas’ verbal behavior is completely pure. They do not have to be concerned about impure verbal behavior, so the tathāgatas do not conceal it, thinking, ‘I hope nobody else finds out.’ This is the second thing they do not have to guard against. The tathāgatas’ mental behavior is completely pure. They do not have to be concerned about impure mental behavior, so the tathāgatas do not conceal it, thinking, ‘I hope nobody else finds out.’ This is the third thing they do not have to guard against. These are the three things they do not have to guard against.

73.81 “What are the tathāgatas’ three applications of mindfulness? When a tathāgata teaches, some listen respectfully and attentively with a mind disposed to the words, and practice Dharma in full conformity with the Dharma. Still, a tathāgata does not take delight in that, does not feel mental happiness, [F.76.b] their spirits are not boosted. This is the first application of mindfulness.

73.82 “When a tathāgata teaches, others do not listen respectfully, are inattentive and without a mind disposed to the words, and do not practice Dharma in full conformity with the Dharma. Still, a tathāgata is not deeply offended, is not impatient, and is not distrustful. This is the second application of mindfulness.

73.83 “When a tathāgata teaches, some listen respectfully and attentively with a mind disposed to the word, and practice Dharma in full conformity with the Dharma, while others do not listen respectfully, are inattentive and without a mind disposed to the words, and do not practice Dharma in full conformity with the Dharma. Still, a tathāgata both does not take delight in and is not deeply offended by that. They remain dispassionate to all, mindful and introspective. This is the third application of mindfulness.

73.84 “What is the tathāgatas’ natural state not robbed of mindfulness? That on account of which the lord buddhas do not miss an opportunity to work for the welfare of beings, based on their teaching a meaningful doctrine, is called the natural state not robbed of mindfulness.

73.85 “What is the tathāgatas’ elimination of obscuration from residual impressions? Even though all śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas have eliminated afflictions, they still have odd physical mannerisms. Even those do not happen with the tathāgatas. That is called the elimination of obscuration from residual impressions.

73.86 “What is the tathāgatas’ great compassion? Based on the conventional term for the world, that compassion of the tathāgatas, endowed with which they think about the world at all times (three times in the day and three times at night) in order to find out about the wholesome roots—that compassion of the lord buddhas that is always operating, watching to bring limitless beings to maturity, is called great compassion.

73.87 “Subhūti, what are the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha? From when they have fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, up to<sup>739</sup> up until, in that interim, the tathāgatas do not trip up, [F.77.a] do not shout out, are not robbed of mindfulness, do not discriminate differences, do not have uncollected thoughts, are not inconsiderately dispassionate, are not deficient in yearning, are not deficient in perseverance, are not deficient in recollection, are not deficient in meditative stabilization, are not deficient in wisdom, and are not deficient in liberation. All physical actions are preceded by knowledge and informed by knowledge, all verbal actions are preceded by knowledge and informed by knowledge, all mental actions are preceded by knowledge and informed by knowledge; they see past time with knowledge free from attachment and free from obstruction, they see future time with knowledge free from attachment and free from obstruction, and they see the present time with knowledge free from attachment and free from obstruction. These are called the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha.

73.88 “Subhūti, what is the tathāgatas’ knowledge of all aspects? It has a nonexistent thing as its objective support, mindfulness as its dominant factor, calmness as its aspect, and the absence of a mark as its mark—that is called the knowledge of all aspects.<sup>740</sup>

73.89 “Subhūti, what are a tathāgata’s thirty-two major marks? They (1)<sup>741</sup> have wheel marks on the surfaces of their hands and feet, (2) feet that are well placed, (3) hands and feet with connecting webbing, and (4) delicate and soft feet and hands. (5) Their body stands out prominently in seven ways; (6) they have long toes and fingers, (7) stretched-out heels, (8) a big and straight body, (9) lower legs from the feet up that are not knobby, (10) body hair that points upward, (11) calves like the aiṇeya antelope, (12) and tubular and long arms; (13) their private parts are hidden in a sheath; (14) they have a color like gold, (15) and extremely fine skin; and (16) each strand of body hair grows curling to the right. (17) An ūṛṇā marks their face, (18) their upper body is like a lion’s, (19) their shoulders are well rounded, (20) the part between the collarbones is filled in, (21) they know tastes as tasty, (22) they have a build [F.77.b] like an Indian fig tree, (23) and they have an uṣṇīṣa on the top of their head, (24) a long thin tongue, (25) a voice like Brahmā, (26) lion-like jaws, (27) very white teeth, (28) even teeth, (29) teeth without gaps, (30) forty teeth, and (31) dark blue eyes (32) with eyelashes like a cow’s.

73.90 “The tathāgatas have, on the palms and soles of their feet and hands, wheels with a thousand spokes, with rims and hubs complete in every respect, for example, like shapes carved in bone or ivory, so they (1) have wheel marks on the surfaces of their hands and feet. They place the soles of their feet evenly on the ground, without arching, so (2) their feet are well placed. Webbing connects the fingers and toes on their hands and feet, like the royal swan, so (3) they have hands and feet with connecting webbing. Their hands and feet are delicate like a wisp of cotton thread, and soft like those of a young prince, so (4) they have delicate and soft feet and hands. The backs of their hands and upper parts of their feet, shoulders, neck, and head declare their prominence, so (5) their body stands out prominently in seven ways. Their toes and fingers stretch out, so they (6) have long toes and fingers. Their heels are big, so they (7) have stretched-out heels.<sup>742</sup> At seven hasta they are elevated in height and are not crooked, so (8) they have a big and straight body. Their ankles and knees do not appear at all, so (9) their lower legs from the feet up are not knobby. Their body hairs rise up curling to the right in rings, so (10) their body hair points upward. They have spherical calves like the calves of the black antelope and calves of the arrowseed antelope,<sup>743</sup> so (11) they have calves like the aiṇeya antelope. Without bending they can touch their knees with the palms of their hands, so (12) they have tubular and long arms. Their magnificent organ for excreting is hidden in a sheath, as in the case of a thoroughbred horse or a bull elephant, so (13) their private parts are hidden in a sheath. They have a color like that of highly refined gold, so (14) they have a color like gold. Their skin, like highly burnished silver and gold, is smooth without dirt particles sticking to it, so (15) they have extremely fine skin. [F.78.a] Each of their perfectly spaced body hairs grows by itself without a second, so (16) each strand of body hair grows curling to the right. Between their eyebrows, white in color like a kuṇḍa moon, cow's milk, and frost, brighter than even the light of a hundred suns and moons, is an ūrṇā ornament, so (17) an ūrṇā marks their face. Their chest is filled out, so (18) their upper body is like a lion's. Their neck is thick and set attractively<sup>744</sup> so (19) their shoulders are well rounded. Like a highly polished golden door panel they have a very broad chest, so (20) the part between the collarbones is filled in. Their tongue is unaffected by wind, bile, and phlegm, they are a connoisseur of different tastes, and their consciousness mirrors that, so (21) they know tastes as tasty. Their height is the same as the distance between their out-stretched arms, so (22) they have a build like an Indian fig tree. There is a spherical, heaped-up<sup>745</sup> topknot going around to the right, well placed and beautiful to behold on the top of their head, so (23) they have an uṣṇīṣa on the top of their head. Being the color of the petal of the red lotus and lengthy, (24) they have a long thin tongue. They have the voice of Hiraṇyagarbha and the call of the kalaviṅka bird, so (25) they have the voice of Brahmā. They have jaws like a circular mirror, well established, spherical, elongated, beautiful, and compact,<sup>746</sup> so (26) they have lion-like jaws. They have teeth that are extremely white like the jasmine flower, the moon, and a broken, shining piece of conch-shell, so

(27) they have very white teeth; teeth that are not too long or too short, so (28) they have even teeth; no spaces between their teeth, so (29) they have teeth without gaps; and no extra or missing upper or lower teeth, so (30) they have forty teeth. The dark and white sides are not mixed, are extremely clear and unflecked with red, so (31) they have dark blue eyes. The upper and lower eyelashes incline but are not entangled, so (32) the Tathāgata's eyelashes are like those of a cow.

73.91 “There, (1) they have wheel marks on the surfaces of their hands and feet because they have welcomed and accompanied<sup>747</sup> gurus, [F.78.b] listened to the doctrine, offered flower garlands, visited temples, reliquaries, and so on, and have made the gift of being in the circle of servants. It is a sign presaging an extremely large circle of servants. (2) Their feet are well placed because their commitment is firm. It is a sign presaging that they cannot be swayed. (3) They have hands and feet with connecting webbing because of their assiduous practice of the four ways of gathering a retinue by giving gifts, kind words, beneficial actions, and consistency between words and deeds. It is a sign presaging the speedy gathering of a retinue.<sup>748</sup> (4–5) Their hands and feet are tender and soft, and their body declares its prominence in seven ways because they have offered perfectly prepared hard and soft food and drink.<sup>749</sup> Both these are signs that presage obtaining perfectly prepared hard and soft food and drink. (6–8) They have long toes and fingers, stretched-out heels, and a big and straight body because they have freed convicts condemned to death, have sustained life by giving food and drink and so on, and assiduously practiced abstaining from killing. These are signs presaging long life. (9–10) They have lower legs from the feet up that are not knobby, and their body hair points upward because they have undertaken wholesome dharmas and cause those they have taken up to flourish and never decline. Both these are signs that presage the Dharma will not degenerate. (11) They have calves like the aiṇeya antelope because, having shown respect, they have made crafts and branches of knowledge available and caused them to be taken up. It is a sign presaging a speedy grasp of things. (12) They have tubular and long arms because they never said no; when asked for their own existent wealth, they gave it. It is a sign presaging control over giving and disciplining.<sup>750</sup> (13) Their private parts are hidden in a sheath because they did not separate from each other those friends, close relatives, and kinsmen who were united together, they reconciled those who had fallen out, they undertook to live in chastity, and they guarded the secret mantras. It is a sign presaging [F.79.a] a great many sons.<sup>751</sup> (14–15) They have a color like gold and extremely fine skin because they have given away fine mattresses, clothes, and coats, and mansions, palaces, and dwelling places. Both these are signs that presage the acquisition of such fine mattresses, clothes, and coats, and mansions, palaces, and dwelling places. (16–17) Each strand of body hair grows curling to the right, and an ūṛṇā marks their face because they have avoided society, and because, having accorded an appropriate status to their spiritual superiors—their preceptors, teachers, parents, brothers and sisters, and so on—they have served them, given them gifts, and pleased them. Both these are signs that presage being without an equal. (18–19) Their upper body is like a lion's and their shoulders are well rounded because they do not talk nonsense,<sup>752</sup> do not belittle others, speak kind words, are eloquent and not jarring, and their speech is the same as the roar of a lion. Both these are signs that presage they cannot be bested. (20–21) The part between the collarbones is filled in and they know tastes as tasty because they have given the sick medicine, been their attendant, given food in accord with the diagnosis, and nursed them. Both these are signs that presage not being harmed. (22–23) They have a build like an Indian fig tree and an uṣṇīṣa on the top of their head because of giving to others in a surpassing way, first doing the work and conveying their enthusiasm to others for parks, assembly halls, places for others to get away from the heat, wells, makeshift bridges for places hard to reach, food, flower garlands, monasteries, hostels, and so on. Both these are signs that presage holding the highest office. (24–25) They have a long thin tongue and the voice of Brahmā because for a long time they have spoken with a smooth, kindly, and agreeable voice. Both these are signs that presage the acquisition of a melodious sound endowed with the five branches that make it suitable for discourse. The five branches that make a melodious sound suitable for discourse are these: understandable and recognizable, [F.79.b] worth listening to and not discordant, deep and reverberating, not grating and easy on the ear, and non-upsetting and clear. (26) They have lion-like jaws because for a long time they have refrained from babbling nonsense and spoken in a timely manner. It is a sign presaging speech worth listening to. (27–28) They have very white teeth and even teeth because they attended to the needs of others, did not look down on them, and their livelihood was pure. Both these are signs that presage a retinue that has already been assembled. (29–30) They have teeth without gaps and have all forty teeth because for a long time they made it a habit to tell the truth and not speak behind anybody's back. Both these are signs that presage an undivided retinue. (31–32) They have dark blue eyes and a cow's eyelashes because their eyes were without greed and hatred and free from confusion, so even while being embraced and belittled they saw exactly what was going on. Both these are signs that presage polite speech.

73.92 “Subhūti, those are a tathāgata’s thirty-two major marks of a great person. They shine<sup>753</sup> with their natural light pervading a great billionfold world system, even an infinite number of world systems if they want that. Out of compassion the tathāgatas make a halo extending the length of their outstretched arms appear to beings.<sup>754</sup> Were the lords not to have made a halo extending the length of their outstretched arms appear, even the light of the sun and the moon, eclipsed by the natural light, would not appear and there would be no months, fortnights, days, or years. The natural melodious sound resounds in a great billionfold world system. Two, three, and as many as four are pervaded with an illumination if they want that, and the melodious sound resounds in that many too.

73.93 “Subhūti, what are a tathāgata’s eighty minor signs? Lord buddhas have minds free from attachment to all compounded phenomena so (1) they have nails [F.80.a] with a color like copper. Lord buddhas have minds intent on the happiness and welfare of all beings, whom they love as if they were close relatives, so (2) they have nails that are glossy. Lord buddhas have been born in the line of a high-status family so (3) they have nails that are high, not sunken. There is no basic immorality in the conduct of the lord buddhas so (4) their toes and fingers are rounded.<sup>755</sup> Lord buddhas have accumulated vast wholesome roots so (5) their toes and fingers are large.<sup>756</sup> Lord buddhas have gradually achieved success with wholesome roots so (6) their toes and fingers are tapering.<sup>757</sup> The physical, verbal, and mental occupation and livelihood of lord buddhas are hidden so (7) the veins [on their hands] do not show.<sup>758</sup> Lord buddhas have unraveled the knots of the afflictions so (8) their veins are without knots. The intentions of the lord buddhas’ doctrine are hidden so (9) their anklebones do not show. Lord buddhas cause freedom from all difficulties so (10) their feet are not the same.<sup>759</sup> Lord buddhas are lions among humans so (11) they go with the stride of lions. Lord buddhas are elephants among humans so (12) they go with the gait of elephants. Lord buddhas are like royal swans going into the sky so (13) they go from place to place like swans. Lord buddhas are like head bulls among persons so (14) they go with the gait of a head bull. Lord buddhas have an advantageous path so (15) they walk keeping things worthy of respect to the right.<sup>760</sup> Lord buddhas look handsome so (16) they have a beautiful walk.<sup>761</sup> Lord buddhas have minds that are never crooked so (17) they do not zigzag. Lord buddhas proclaim the good qualities of purified behavior so (18) they have an attractive body.<sup>762</sup> [F.80.b] Lord buddhas have cleansed away all wrong, so (19) they have a polished body.<sup>763</sup> Lord buddhas teach the Dharma gradually, so (20) the body that conveys them is gradual.<sup>764</sup> Lord buddhas are endowed with cleanliness of body, voice, and mind so (21) the body that conveys them is clean. Lord buddhas are naturally gentle souls so (22) they have a body that is soft. Lord buddhas have naturally pure minds so (23) they have a body that is pure. Lord buddhas have a completely developed Dharma and Vinaya so (24) they have fully developed sex organs. Lord buddhas have proclaimed big, beautiful qualities so (25) their whole body is big and beautiful. Lord buddhas have the same thought about all beings so (26) they walk at an even pace.<sup>765</sup> Lord buddhas teach an extremely gentle Dharma so (27) they have a body with a very youthful color.<sup>766</sup> Lord buddhas have minds that are never dejected so (28) they carry themselves without slouching.<sup>767</sup> Lord buddhas have pulled up unwholesome roots so (29) they have a body that has spread out.<sup>768</sup> Lord buddhas are not linked up with further existences, they have finished with them, so (30) their body is compacted together.<sup>769</sup> Lord buddhas have taught well the main and subsidiary branches of dependent origination so (31) all their limbs are well proportioned. Lord buddhas have extremely clear vision so (32) their sight is undistorted and clear. Lord buddhas have students who are well behaved so (33) they have fully rounded abdomens.<sup>770</sup> Lord buddhas have cleaned away the faults of saṃsāra so (34) they have thin waists.<sup>771</sup> Lord buddhas have conquered the summits of pride so (35) their bellies are not stretched. Lord buddhas have prevented the Dharma from running out so (36) their bellies are not emaciated.<sup>772</sup> [F.81.a] Lord buddhas are aware of the extremely deep dharmas so (37) they have deep navels. Lord buddhas have students who are candidates for taking up what is advantageous so (38) they have navels that swirl to the right.<sup>773</sup> Lord buddhas have a community of students who are very attractive so (39) they are very attractive. Lord buddhas have extremely pure minds so (40) their habitual activities are pure. Lord buddhas teach a Dharma and Vinaya free from dark instructions so (41) their bodies are free from freckles.<sup>774</sup> Lord buddhas teach a Dharma for gaining a body light like a wisp of cotton so (42) their hands are extremely soft like a wisp of cotton.<sup>775</sup> Lord buddhas love close relatives and common people equally and have attained the state of a mahāśramaṇa so (43) the lines on their hands are vivid.<sup>776</sup> Lord buddhas remain in an extremely deep and constant state so (44) the lines on their hands are deep. Lord buddhas have proclaimed a doctrine of wide-ranging tolerance so (45) the lines on their hands are long.<sup>777</sup> Lord buddhas have promulgated a code of moral training that is not too long, so (46) their mouths are not too wide.<sup>778</sup> Lord buddhas have taught that all worlds are like a reflection in a mirror so (47) the reflections of shapes appear in their faces.<sup>779</sup> Lord buddhas are first easy on people when they lead them so (48) their tongues are pliable.<sup>780</sup> Lord buddhas are endowed with an abundance of subtle good qualities so (49) their tongues are thin.<sup>781</sup> With the Dharma that is hard to fathom, lord buddhas discipline simple folk with their attachments so (50) their tongues are red.<sup>782</sup> Lord buddhas were not scared by things like the trumpeting of elephants and rumble of thunder so (51) they trumpet like elephants and rumble like thunder. Lord buddhas [F.81.b] have students whose conversations have a melodious, pleasing, gentle sound so (52) they have a voice that is melodious, pleasing, and gentle. Lord buddhas have turned back from the fetters to suffering existence so (53) their eyeteeth are tubular.<sup>783</sup> Lord buddhas are skilled in disciplining people who have a keen intellect so (54) their eyeteeth are sharp.<sup>784</sup> Lord buddhas have a Dharma and Vinaya that is extremely pure so (55) their eyeteeth are very white.<sup>785</sup> Lord buddhas are located at an equal level so (56) their eyeteeth are even.<sup>786</sup> Lord buddhas have demonstrated the clear realizations in a series so (57) their eyeteeth taper.<sup>787</sup> Lord buddhas stand on the prominent mountain of wisdom so (58) they have a prominent nose. Lord buddhas have people whose Vinaya is clean so (59) they have a nose that is unsullied.<sup>788</sup> Lord buddhas have clear vision so (60) they have completely cleansed eyes.<sup>789</sup> Lord buddhas are endowed with the extremely wide range of buddhadharmas so (61) they have eyes that are wide.<sup>790</sup> Lord buddhas have hosts of beings packed around them so (62) their eyelashes are thick.<sup>791</sup> Lord buddhas are delighted by the finest among the young gods, asuras, and humans, the black and whites of whose eyes are striking, like delightful lotus petals with black and white sections, so (63) they have delightful eyes like lotus petals with black and white sections. Lord buddhas always teach the vast so (64) their eyebrows extend a long way.<sup>792</sup> Lord buddhas, by being gentle, are skilled in the Vinaya so (65) they have smooth eyebrows. Lord buddhas have knowledge of all faults from every side so (66) their eyebrows have hairs of equal length.<sup>793</sup> Lord buddhas have disciplined beings whose mindstreams have been moistened by the moisture of wholesome roots so (67) their eyebrows are glossy.<sup>794</sup> Lord buddhas teach the supremely extensive Dharma so (68) their ear-lobes are full and long.<sup>795</sup> [F.82.a] Lord buddhas have won the battles over afflictions so (69) their ears are equal in size.<sup>796</sup> Lord buddhas discipline beings with unimpaired<sup>797</sup> mindstreams so (70) they have an unimpaired faculty of hearing. Lord buddhas have eliminated everything made into a wrong view so (71) their foreheads are perfectly developed.<sup>798</sup> Lord buddhas have crushed the brahmins, those following a secluded religious life, and those advancing the arguments of the opposing side so (72) they have a war elephant's broad forehead. Lord buddhas have fully carried out their highest vow so (73) their heads are very large.<sup>799</sup> Lord buddhas have turned away from objects of the senses that attract ordinary people like bees who delight in one flower after the other so (74) the hair on their heads is like black bees. Lord buddhas have caused the residual impressions eliminated by seeing and meditation to diminish so (75) their hair is thick.<sup>800</sup> Lord buddhas have a gentle heart to know the essentials of the doctrine so (76) their hair is soft.<sup>801</sup> Lord buddhas have minds that are never disturbed so (77) their hair is not tousled.<sup>802</sup> Lord buddhas never speak harshly so (78) their hair is not bristly.<sup>803</sup> Lord buddhas accomplish what is advantageous to people with the fragrance of the flowers of the limbs of awakening so (79) their hair has a fragrant smell. And (80) lord buddhas have palms of the hands and soles of the feet adorned with the śrīvatsa, svastika, and nandyāvarta symbols. Subhūti, those are the eighty minor signs on a tathāgata's body.

73.94 "It is thus, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings gather beings by the twofold way of giving material gifts and the gift of Dharma. Subhūti, this is the amazing and marvelous dharma of bodhisattva great beings.

73.95 "Subhūti, how do [F.82.b] bodhisattva great beings gather beings by kind words? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings gather beings with the six perfections—the perfection of giving, perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom. Bodhisattva great beings gather being with those six perfections, by kind words. And why? Because all wholesome dharmas are included in these six perfections.

73.96 "Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings gather beings by beneficial actions?

"They have gathered beings for a long time with those same six perfections, which is to say, by giving gifts, kind words, beneficial actions, and consistency between words and deeds.

73.97 "Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom give this advice and instruction to bodhisattva great beings: 'Hey, sons of a good family! Come here! Become skilled at syllable accomplishment.<sup>804</sup> Become skilled at one syllable, become skilled at two syllables, up to become skilled at forty-five syllables.<sup>805</sup> Know through one syllable that all have a decline.<sup>806</sup> Know through two that all have a decline. Know through three that all have a decline. Know through..., up to forty-five syllables that all have a decline. Meditate on forty-five syllables being included in one syllable. Meditate on one syllable being included in forty-five syllables.' They give that advice. [F.83.a] Those bodhisattva great beings, Subhūti, are skilled at one syllable; are skilled at..., up to forty-five syllables; are skilled at meditation on forty-five syllables being included in one syllable; are skilled at one syllable being included in forty-five syllables; and, having made themselves skilled in syllable accomplishment, they are skilled in the accomplishment of that for which there are no syllables. To illustrate, Subhūti, it is just like tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas. They are skilled in dharmas and skilled in syllables, and, being skilled in dharmas and skilled in syllables, teach the Dharma. Through letters they teach the Dharma for which there are no syllables. That Dharma, Subhūti, being the appearance of that for which there are no letters, is a magical creation.”

73.98 Then venerable Subhūti inquired of the Lord, “Lord, if, because of the emptinesses of what transcends limits and no beginning and no end, a being absolutely cannot be apprehended, a dharma also cannot be apprehended, and a dharma’s intrinsic nature cannot be apprehended, well then, Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom arisen from maturation, practicing the perfection of meditative stabilization, practicing the perfection of perseverance, practicing the perfection of patience, practicing the perfection of morality, practicing the perfection of giving, practicing the four concentrations, practicing the four immeasurables, practicing the four formless absorptions, practicing the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, practicing the fourteen emptinesses, practicing the signless, practicing the wishless, practicing the meditative stabilizations, practicing the eight deliverances, practicing the nine [F.83.b] successive absorption stations, practicing the ten tathāgata powers, practicing the four fearlessnesses, practicing the four detailed and thorough knowledges, practicing the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, practicing the thirty-two major marks and eighty minor signs of a great person, and practicing the six clairvoyances arisen from maturation teach the Dharma to beings? There a being and a designation of a being cannot be apprehended, and because a being cannot be apprehended, form also cannot be apprehended, up to consciousness cannot be apprehended, the six perfections cannot be apprehended, and similarly, up to the eighty minor signs cannot be apprehended, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha cannot be apprehended. Form is not apprehended in that being and designation of a being that do not exist, and similarly, up to the eighty minor signs are not apprehended. If the eighty minor signs are not apprehended, Lord, how then do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom teach the Dharma to beings?

73.99 “Lord, those bodhisattva great beings would be inspiring beings to take up dharmas that do not exist and would be connecting them with error, would they not? And why? Lord, it is because bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving do not apprehend even a bodhisattva, never mind the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening.”<sup>807</sup>

73.100 Venerable Subhūti having thus inquired, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! It is exactly as you say! Subhūti, a being, because it cannot be apprehended, should be known [F.84.a] as inner emptiness, should be known as outer emptiness, should be known as inner and outer emptiness, and similarly, connect this with each, up to should be known as the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. The aggregates should be known as emptiness, the constituents should be known as emptiness, the sense fields should be known as emptiness, and dependent origination should be known as emptiness. The emptiness of a self, emptiness of a being, emptiness of a living being, emptiness of a creature, emptiness of one born of Manu, emptiness of a person, and the emptiness of one who lives, and of one who does, one who makes someone else do, a motivator, one who motivates, one who feels, one who makes someone else feel, one who knows, and one who sees should be known as emptiness. Similarly, connect this with the concentrations should be known as emptiness, and the immeasurables, formless absorptions, and applications of mindfulness should be known as emptiness, up to the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening should be known as emptiness, emptiness should be known as emptiness, and signlessness and wishlessness should be known as emptiness. Similarly, connect this with the emptiness of the eight deliverances, emptiness of the nine serial absorptions, emptiness of the ten tathāgata powers, emptiness of the four fearlessnesses, emptiness of the four detailed and thorough knowledges, and that of the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha should be known as emptiness. The result of stream enterer, the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, the state of a worthy one, and a pratyekabuddha's awakening should be known as emptiness. The level of a bodhisattva should be known as emptiness. A buddhafiield should be known as emptiness. Awakening should be known as emptiness. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings, having thus seen that all those dharmas are empty, teach the doctrine to beings who have gone wrong. [F.84.b] They teach the doctrine so that in those emptinesses, one way or the other, they do not turn back. They see that all dharmas are without obscurations, do not make any dharma complicated, do not make a division, and teach the doctrine as it really is.

73.101 "To illustrate, a tathāgata's magical creation magically creates many hundred million magical creations. It establishes one in giving; establishes another in morality; and establishes another in patience, another in perseverance, another in meditative stabilization, another in wisdom, another in the concentrations, another in the immeasurables, another in the formless absorptions, another in the applications of mindfulness, up to another in the eightfold noble path, up to and another in the knowledge of all aspects. It establishes one in the result of stream enterer, up to and establishes another in awakening. Subhūti, what do you think, on account of that magical creation has there been an increase in any dharma?"

"No, Lord," he replied.

- 73.102 “Subhūti,” continued the Lord, “through this one of many explanations, you should know just how bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom teach the doctrine to beings, releasing them from errors by way of their not being bound and not being freed, and establishing them in things as they really are. And why? Subhūti, it is because form is not bound and is not freed; and feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are not bound and is not freed. Form’s state of not being bound and not being freed is not form; feeling’s..., perception’s..., volitional factors’..., and consciousness’s state of not being bound and not being freed is not consciousness, up to compounded and un-compounded dharmas’ state of not being bound and not being freed is not compounded and un-compounded dharmas. [F.85.a] And why? Subhūti, it is because form..., up to consciousness..., up to compounded and un-compounded dharmas are absolutely pure.
- 73.103 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom teach the doctrine to beings but do not apprehend them as beings. Furthermore, standing in a way that does not apprehend dharmas, bodhisattva great beings stand by way of not apprehending ‘form is empty,’ up to by way of not apprehending ‘consciousness is empty,’ up to by way of not apprehending ‘compounded and un-compounded dharmas are empty.’
- 73.104 “Compounded and un-compounded dharmas are not located anywhere. And why? It is because they have no intrinsic nature where they might be located, so something nonexistent is not located in something nonexistent; something’s own existence is not located in something nonexistent; and something else’s existence is not located in something nonexistent or in something’s own existence.<sup>808</sup> And why? Subhūti, it is because they all cannot be apprehended and what cannot be apprehended is not located anywhere. Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom meditate on all those dharmas as empty. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that have not done anything wrong to the lord buddhas, the bodhisattvas, the pratyekabuddhas, the worthy ones, or any noble beings. And why? Subhūti, it is because the lord buddhas, the bodhisattvas, the pratyekabuddhas, the worthy ones, and all the noble beings understand just that true dharmic nature of dharmas, and having understood it teach the doctrine to beings [F.85.b] without going beyond that true dharmic nature of dharmas, because the dharma-constituent does not go beyond anything, and suchness and the very limit of reality do not go beyond anything either. Why? Because they have no intrinsic nature that goes beyond anything.” [B52]

- 73.105 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if, in the dharma-constituent, there is no going beyond, and in suchness and at the very limit of reality there is no going beyond, well then, Lord, is form one thing and the dharma-constituent another, suchness another, and the very limit of reality another? Is consciousness one thing and compounded and un-compounded dharmas, dharmas that are ordinary and extraordinary, and those with outflows and without outflows another?”
- 73.106 “No, Subhūti,” he replied. “Form is not one thing and the dharma-constituent is not another. Suchness is not one thing and the very limit of reality is not another. Consciousness is not one thing, up to and all dharmas are not another. The dharma-constituent is not one thing and suchness and the very limit of reality are not another.”
- 73.107 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked further, “Lord, if form is not one thing and the dharma-constituent is not another, up to consciousness is not one thing, up to all compounded and un-compounded dharmas are not one thing, and similarly, up to and the dharma-constituent is not another, well then, Lord, how can you make a detailed presentation of the bad results of wicked dharmas as ‘the hells, the animal world, and the world of Yama,’ [F.86.a] the good results of bright dharmas as ‘the gods and human beings,’ the wicked and bright results of wicked and bright dharmas as ‘a mixture of happiness and suffering,’ and the bright, not wicked, results of bright, not wicked, dharmas as ‘the result of stream enterer, result of once-returned, result of non-returned, state of a worthy one, pratyekabuddha’s awakening, and unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening’?”
- 73.108 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, an exposition of a detailed presentation of results is simply based on conventional truth. An exposition of a detailed presentation of results is impossible as ultimate truth. And why? Because name and form are not produced and do not stop, are not defiled and not purified; those dharmas are undifferentiated, not something that can be talked about—that is, they are an emptiness of what transcends limits and an emptiness of no beginning and no end.”
- 73.109 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if the detailed presentation of results is based on conventional truth and does not exist ultimately, well then, Lord, would not simple, ordinary folk come to be in the result of stream enterer, or the result of once-returned, the result of non-returned, the state of a worthy one, a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, and in unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”
- 73.110 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, were simple, ordinary folk to know the conventional truth or the ultimate truth, [F.86.b] well then, for them there would also be a detailed presentation of the result of stream enterer, the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, the state of a worthy one, a pratyekabuddha's awakening, and unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. If they were to know 'the conventional truth' or 'the ultimate truth' they would not be counted as simple, ordinary folk, but they do not have such comprehension, so for them there is no detailed presentation of the result of stream enterer, the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, the state of a worthy one, a pratyekabuddha's awakening, and unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Therefore, Subhūti, for simple, ordinary folk there is no path and there is no presentation of the path. Simple, ordinary folk do not cultivate the path so how could there be a presentation of the results? For noble persons there is a path and there is a presentation of the path. They cultivate the path so there is a presentation of the results as well."

73.111 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, "Lord, when they have become habituated to the path, does the result appear and do they attain the result?"

73.112 "No, Subhūti. The result does not appear, and they do not attain the result from having become habituated to the path; nor, Subhūti, do they attain the result from having not become habituated to the path. They do not attain the result with the path and not with what is not the path, and not without standing on the path. It is thus, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom present the results in detail to beings but do not make a presentation of the results in a way that curbs<sup>809</sup> the dharma-constituent."

73.113 "Lord, if the results [F.87.a] have not been presented in detail by curbing the compounded element and the un-compounded element, given that you, Lord, have said,<sup>810</sup> 'This is the result of stream enterer because three fetters have been eliminated; this is the result of once-returner because of a weakening of attachment to sense objects and malice; this is the result of non-returner because the fetters that are associated with living in the desire realm have been eliminated; this is the state of a worthy one because the five fetters that are associated with the upper realms have been eliminated; a pratyekabuddha's awakening is to "every dharma qualified by origination, all of them, are subject to cessation"; and the elimination of all residual impression connections is perfect, complete awakening,' then, Lord, how am I to understand what you have said, Lord, that 'the results have not been presented in detail by curbing the compounded and un-compounded dharmas'?"

73.114 "Subhūti," asked the Lord in return, "is the result of stream enterer, or the result of once-returner, or the result of non-returner, or the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha's awakening, or unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening compounded or are they un-compounded?"

- “They are uncompounded, Lord; they are uncompounded, Sugata,” he replied.
- 73.115 “Subhūti, is there a curb on an uncompounded dharma?” asked the Lord.
“No, Lord.”
- 73.116 “Subhūti, when a son of a good family or daughter of a good family realizes that compounded or uncompounded dharmas have only one mark—that is, no mark—at that time do they curb any compounded or uncompounded dharma?”
“No, Lord.” [F.87.b]
- 73.117 “In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom teach the doctrine to beings based on not curbing anything—that is, by way of inner emptiness, up to the emptiness of its own mark. They personally do not settle down on, and they do not cause others to settle down on, any dharma at all, be it the perfection of giving, or the perfection of morality, or the perfection of patience, or the perfection of perseverance, or the perfection of concentration, or the perfection of wisdom, or the first concentration, or..., up to the fourth concentration, or love, or compassion, or joy, or equanimity, or..., up to the station of neither perception nor nonperception, or the applications of mindfulness, or..., up to the eightfold noble path, or..., up to the knowledge of all aspects. And because they do not settle down, they are not attached to anything.
- 73.118 “This is like a tathāgata’s magical creation. It also gives gifts, and also is not attached to any result except for the welfare of all beings—their passing into nirvāṇa—and also will not experience the result of giving. It does not stand in any dharma at all, up to the six perfections, up to in dharmas that are with outflows and without outflows, ordinary and extraordinary, and compounded and uncompounded. Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom also practice all dharmas but do not stand in and are not attached to any dharma. And why? Because they have understood well what marks the dharmas as the dharmas.”
- 73.119 This was the seventy-third chapter, “Exposition of the Major Marks and Minor Signs and the Completion of Letters,” of [F.88.a] “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

74.           CHAPTER 74: EXPOSITION OF THE SAMENESS
                  OF DHARMAS

74.1       Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, how have bodhisattva great beings realized well what marks dharmas as dharmas?”

74.2       “Subhūti, to illustrate, a magical creation has nothing to do with greed, hatred, and confusion; it has nothing to do with form, up to it has nothing to do with consciousness; and similarly, it has nothing to do with inner and outer dharmas, has nothing to do with bad proclivities and obsessions, has nothing to do with dharmas with outflows and without outflows, and has nothing to do with ordinary and extraordinary dharmas, those shared in common and not shared in common, or those that are compounded and un-compounded; and it has nothing to do with the path and has nothing to do with the results. To have realized well what marks the dharmas as being dharmas is like that.”

74.3       “Lord, how do they meditate on the path of a magical creation?”

“Subhūti, it is based on meditating on the path on account of which they are not defiled, are not purified, and do not appear in any of the five forms of life in saṃsāra.”

74.4       “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings realize all dharmas that are nonexistent things?”

“Subhūti,” asked the Lord in return, “is there any existent thing apprehended in a tathāgata’s magical creation, thanks to which it is defiled and is purified?”

74.5       “No, Lord. Lord, there is no existent thing apprehended in a tathāgata’s magical creation thanks to which it is defiled and is purified; there is no existent thing in the five forms of life in saṃsāra.” [F.88.b]

74.6       “Subhūti, to have realized well what marks the dharmas as being dharmas is like that,” said the Lord.

- 74.7 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, is all form like a tathāgata’s magical creation? Are all feeling, all perception, all volitional factors, and all consciousness like a tathāgata’s magical creation?”
- 74.8 “Subhūti, all form is like a tathāgata’s magical creation. All feeling, all perception, all volitional factors, and all consciousness are like a tathāgata’s magical creation.”
- 74.9 “Lord, if all are like a tathāgata’s magical creation, and if a magical creation has no form, has no feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness, and has no defilement or purification, and if the five forms of life in saṃsāra from which beings will be liberated do not exist, how is there going to be a bodhisattva great being’s personal heroic power?”
- 74.10 “What do you think, Subhūti,” asked the Lord, “earlier when bodhisattva great beings practiced the bodhisattva’s practice, did they apprehend any being to be liberated from hell, or the animal world, or the world of Yama, or from being a human or a god?”
- “No, Lord.”
- 74.11 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! Bodhisattva great beings do not apprehend any being to be liberated from the three realms. And why? Because they know, see, and are aware that all phenomena are [F.89.a] like an illusion and are like a magical creation.”
- 74.12 “Lord, if bodhisattva great beings know, see, and are aware that all phenomena are like an illusion and are like a magical creation, then for whose sake do they practice the six perfections, four concentrations, four immeasurables, four formless absorptions, thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, and path to awakening; purify a buddhafiield; and bring beings to maturity?”
- 74.13 Venerable Subhūti having asked this, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, if, just on their own, beings knew that all dharmas are like a dream and are like a magical creation, then bodhisattva great beings would not practice the bodhisattva’s practice for the sake of beings for incalculable eons either. But, Subhūti, beings do not know that all dharmas are like an illusion and are like a magical creation just on their own, so bodhisattva great beings, practicing the six perfections, bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhafiield.”
- 74.14 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if all phenomena are like a dream, like an apparition, like an illusion, like a mirage, and like a magical creation, where are beings such that by practicing the perfection of wisdom bodhisattva great beings cause them to advance beyond that location?”
- 74.15 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “beings are located in unreal names and causal signs, so, practicing the perfection of wisdom, bodhisattva great beings cause them to advance beyond names and causal signs.” [F.89.b]

74.16 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, what is a name, and what is a causal sign?”

The Lord said, “Subhūti, these—namely, name and causal sign—are names plucked out of thin air. And these—namely, name or causal sign, or form, or..., up to consciousness, or woman, or man, or boy, or girl, or hell, or animal world, or world of Yama, or god, or human, or compounded dharma, or uncompounded dharma, or result of stream enterer, or result of once-returner, or result of non-returner, or state of a worthy one, or pratyekabuddha’s awakening, or unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening—are made-up name designations. Subhūti, the basic nature of all dharmas is name because they point somewhere.<sup>811</sup> All compounded phenomena are just mere names. Simple, ordinary folk are attached to them, so bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom dissuade them with skillful means, saying, ‘You should not get attached to this word that has arisen when there is false imagination of the unreal, on account of false imagination, and which is empty of an intrinsic nature and without any real basis. The learned do not settle down on empty dharmas.’ Subhūti, that is how bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means teach the Dharma to beings.

74.17 “What, Subhūti, is a causal sign? Subhūti, that to which simple, ordinary folk become attached is a causal sign. There are two. Which two? They are the causal sign of form [F.90.a] and the causal sign of the formless.

74.18 “Subhūti, what is the causal sign of form? Subhūti, here, given that all these dharmas are momentary, when there is grasping of any gross or subtle or exemplary or vile form at all through false imagination, that is said to be the causal sign of form.

74.19 “Subhūti, what is the causal sign of the formless? Subhūti, when affliction is generated through false imagination on account of having grasped any formless dharma at all as a casual sign, that is said to be the causal sign of the formless.

74.20 “Simple, ordinary folk become attached to them, so bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom detach them from those causal signs with skillful means and cause them to enter into the signlessness entity, establishing them there. One way or the other they cause them to enter into it and establish them in it in such a way that they do not fall into the duality of ‘this is a causal sign, and this is the absence of a causal sign.’ It is thus, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom detach them from causal signs with skillful means and cause them to enter into, and establish them in, the element of no signs.”

74.21 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if all dharmas end up as simply that—end up as simply the absence of a causal sign like that—then, Lord, how will bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom become personally special on account of wholesome dharmas, and establish others as special on account of wholesome dharmas, complete level after level, and also cause beings to make a practice of them?"

74.22 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Subhūti, if a causal sign were to be an existent thing, not a nonexistent thing, [F.90.b] then bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom would not become special on account of wholesome dharmas and would not establish others as special on account of wholesome dharmas. But, Subhūti, a causal sign is not an existent thing like that, it is a nonexistent thing. Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom by way of signlessness bring the perfection of concentration to completion, by way of signlessness bring the perfection of perseverance to completion, and similarly, connect this with by way of signlessness bring the perfection of patience to completion, bring the perfection of morality to completion, and bring the perfection of giving to completion; bring the immeasurables, formless absorptions, and applications of mindfulness to completion; up to bring the eightfold noble path to completion; bring inner emptiness to completion, bring outer emptiness to completion, bring inner and outer emptiness to completion, and similarly, connect this with each, up to by way of signlessness bring the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature to completion; bring the deliverances to completion, bring the successive absorption stations to completion, and similarly, connect this with each, up to by way of signlessness bring the ten tathāgata powers to completion, up to bring the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha to completion. Having brought those wholesome dharmas to completion, they connect others with those wholesome dharmas as well, by way of signlessness.

74.23 "Subhūti, if any causal sign, even just posited as a part of the tip of a strand of hair, were to exist, and bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom [F.91.a] were not to awaken fully to dharmas through the absence of a sign, the absence of mindfulness, and the absence of attention, they also would not establish beings in suchness just as it is, in all dharmas without outflows. Subhūti, it is because all dharmas are without outflows, without signs, without mindfulness, and without attention, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom work for the welfare of all beings through dharmas without outflows."

74.24 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, "Lord, if all dharmas are without signs, without mindfulness, and without attention, well then, Lord, how do you enumerate 'these are dharmas with outflows, these are dharmas without

- outflows; these are dharmas shared in common and these are dharmas not shared in common; these are śrāvaka dharmas, these are pratyekabuddha dharmas, these are bodhisattva dharmas, and these are buddhadharmas’?”
- 74.25 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord asked him in return, “What do you think, Subhūti, is signlessness one thing and śrāvaka dharmas another?”
- “No, Lord.”
- 74.26 “What do you think, Subhūti, is signlessness one thing and pratyekabuddha dharmas another, is signlessness one thing and bodhisattva dharmas another, or is signlessness one thing and the buddhadharmas another?”
- “No, Lord.” [F.91.b]
- 74.27 “Well then, Subhūti, is signlessness itself the result of stream enterer, the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, the state of a worthy one, the pratyekabuddha dharmas, the bodhisattva dharmas, and a buddha?”
- “That is so, Lord.”
- 74.28 “By the same token, Subhūti, you should know that all dharmas are signless, so bodhisattva great beings training in all those signless dharmas grow on account of all wholesome dharmas—namely, grow on account of the six perfections, four concentrations, four immeasurables, four formless absorptions, four applications of mindfulness, four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha.
- 74.29 “And why? Because there is nothing bodhisattva great beings should train in other than training in dharmas that are emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness.
- 74.30 “And why? Subhūti, it is because all wholesome dharmas are included within these three gateways to liberation. Thus, the emptiness of its own mark is the emptiness gateway to liberation; the absence of a causal sign is the signlessness gateway to liberation; and the absence of occasioning anything is the wishlessness gateway to liberation. The bodhisattva great beings training in those three gateways to liberation train in the five aggregates, train in the twelve sense fields, train in the eighteen constituents, train in the four formless absorptions, [F.92.a] train in the four noble truths, train in the twelve links of dependent origination, train in inner emptiness, train in outer emptiness, train in inner and outer emptiness, up to train in the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, train in the four applications of mindfulness, up to train in the eightfold noble path, train in the ten tathāgata powers, and train in the four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha.”

- 74.31 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom train in the five appropriating aggregates?”
- 74.32 “Subhūti,” he replied, “here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom are aware of form, which is to say, they are aware of how form arises, how form ceases, and of the suchness of form.
- 74.33 “How are they aware of form? They are aware that just as, for example, a mass of foam is without a core, similarly form also is full of holes, a conduit for waste water<sup>812</sup> without any core at all.
- 74.34 “How are they aware of the arising of form? Form does not come from anywhere and does not go anywhere, so they are aware that the arising of form is like that, coming from nowhere and going nowhere. Subhūti, they are aware that the arising and passing away of form is like that, coming from nowhere and going nowhere.
- 74.35 “How are they aware of the suchness of form? They are aware that there is no production, no cessation, no coming, no going, no defilement, no purification, no increase, [F.92.b] and no decrease in suchness. That is how they are aware of suchness. Furthermore, Subhūti, the way things are does not deviate from the way things are, that is why it is called suchness. In it there is no falsehood. That is also why it is called suchness. They are aware that the suchness of form is like that.
- 74.36 “How are they aware of feeling? How are they aware of the arising of feeling? How are they aware of the passing away of feeling? How are they aware of the suchness of feeling? To illustrate, the arising and passing away of a water bubble is hollow. They are aware that feeling is like that. It does not come from anywhere and does not go anywhere. They are aware that the arising and passing away of feeling is like that. How are they aware of the suchness of feeling? Suchness does not deviate from the way things are. They are aware that the suchness of feeling is like that.
- 74.37 “How are they aware of perception? To illustrate, you absolutely cannot apprehend any water in a mirage.<sup>813</sup> They are aware that a perception is like that. It does not come from anywhere and does not go anywhere. They are aware that the arising and passing away of a perception is like that. How are they aware of the suchness of perception? They are aware that the suchness of perception is just like the suchness of feeling.
- 74.38 “How are they aware of volitional factors? To illustrate, if you peel away each of the layers of bark of a plantain tree, you cannot apprehend a core. They are aware that volitional factors are like that. How are they aware of the arising and passing away of volitional factors? They do not come from anywhere and do not go anywhere. They are aware that the arising and passing away of volitional factors is like that. How are they aware of the suchness of volitional factors? They are aware that the suchness of volitional factors is just like the suchness of feeling.

74.39 “How are they aware of consciousness? They are aware that consciousness is just like a mass of four-unit forces conjured up by a magician. It does not come [F.93.a] from anywhere and does not go anywhere. They are aware that the arising and passing away of consciousness is like that. How are they aware of the suchness of consciousness? They are aware that the suchness of consciousness is just like the suchness of feeling. Therefore, they are aware of the suchness of consciousness.

74.40 “How do they know the constituents?

“As for the eye constituent, it is empty of an eye constituent’s intrinsic nature. They are aware that the eye constituent is like that. How do they know the form constituent? The form constituent is empty of a form constituent’s intrinsic nature. They are aware that the form constituent is like that. How do they know the eye consciousness constituent? The eye consciousness constituent is empty of an eye consciousness constituent’s intrinsic nature. They are aware that the eye consciousness constituent is like that.

74.41 “How are they aware of the ear constituent, sound constituent, and ear consciousness constituent ... ; the nose constituent, smell constituent, and nose consciousness constituent ... ; the tongue constituent, taste constituent, and tongue consciousness constituent ... ; the body constituent, feeling constituent, and body consciousness constituent ... ; and the thinking-mind constituent? The thinking-mind constituent is empty of a thinking-mind constituent’s intrinsic nature. They are aware that the thinking-mind constituent is like that. How do they know the dharma constituent? The dharma constituent is empty of a dharma constituent’s intrinsic nature. They are aware that the dharma constituent is like that. How do they know the thinking-mind consciousness constituent? The thinking-mind consciousness constituent is empty of a thinking-mind consciousness constituent’s intrinsic nature. They are aware that the thinking-mind consciousness constituent is like that. Therefore, they are aware of the eighteen constituents.

74.42 “How are they aware of the sense fields? The inner sense fields are empty of the inner sense fields’ intrinsic nature, and the outer sense fields are empty of the outer sense fields’ intrinsic nature. They are aware that the sense fields are like that. [F.93.b]

74.43 “How are they aware of the noble truths? They are aware of the noble truth of suffering, and they are aware of the noble truths of origination, cessation, and the path. How are they aware of the noble truth of suffering?

They are aware of it as suffering, aware of it as a truth, and aware that ‘it is truth for noble beings.’ They are aware that, freed from bifurcation and nondual, it is truth for noble beings. So too origination, so too cessation, and so too the path leading to the cessation of suffering as well—they are aware that these are truths for noble beings.

74.44 “How are they aware of the suchness of suffering? The suchness of suffering is exactly like that.<sup>814</sup> That is how they are aware of the suchness of suffering. So too are they aware of the suchness of origination, cessation, and the path.

74.45 “How are they aware of dependent origination? They are aware that a dependent origination is unproduced. Similarly, they are aware that a dependent origination does not cease, is not annihilated, is not eternal, is not one and is not many, does not come and does not go, and is without thought construction and at peace.”

74.46 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom are aware in that way of those dharmas that are different from each other, well then, Lord, does that not complicate the dharma-constituent?”

74.47 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “it would be complicated if any other dharma not included in the dharma-constituent were to be apprehended, but, Subhūti, no other dharma not included [F.94.a] in the dharma-constituent is found, so no other dharma that might complicate the dharma-constituent can be apprehended. And why? Subhūti, it is because no other dharma not included in the dharma-constituent—none at all—is found by either a tathāgata or a tathāgata’s śrāvakas, so, since they have not apprehended it, they do not say, ‘There is some other dharma not included in the dharma-constituent that can be apprehended.’ Subhūti, that is how bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should train in the dharma-constituent.”

74.48 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, in what are bodhisattva great beings training in the dharma-constituent trained?”

74.49 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings training in the dharma-constituent are trained in all dharmas. And why? Subhūti, it is because all dharmas are the dharma-constituent.”

74.50 “Lord, why are all dharmas the dharma-constituent?”

“Subhūti, it is because whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise, this dharma-constituent of dharmas remains in an undifferentiated way. Subhūti, these—namely, all wholesome and unwholesome, and compounded and un-compounded dharmas—are the dharma-constituent. Therefore, Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom have trained in the dharma-constituent, they have trained in all dharmas.”

74.51 The Lord having said that, [F.94.b] venerable Subhūti further inquired of him, “Lord, if all dharmas are the dharma-constituent, well then, Lord, how should bodhisattva great beings train in the perfection of wisdom? Similarly, how should they train in the perfection of concentration, how should they train in the perfection of perseverance, how should they train in the perfection of patience, how should they train in the perfection of morality, and how should they train in the perfection of giving; and similarly, how should bodhisattva great beings train in the first concentration, and how should they train in the second concentration, third concentration, and fourth concentration; and similarly, how should they train in love, and how should they train in compassion, joy, and equanimity; and similarly, how should they train in the station of endless space, up to in the station of neither perception nor nonperception; and similarly, how should they train in the applications of mindfulness, and similarly, how should they train in the right efforts, legs of miraculous power, faculties, powers, limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path; how should they train in emptiness, and how should they train in signlessness and wishlessness; how should they train in the eight deliverances, and how should they train in the absorptions; and similarly, how should they train in the ten tathāgata powers, and how should they train in the four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, great compassion, and the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha; how [F.95.a] should they train in order to accomplish the clairvoyances and the thirty-two major marks of a great person; how should they train in order to accomplish the eighty minor signs; how should they train in order to be born in great sāla tree-like royal families, how should they train in order to be born in great sāla tree-like brahmin families, and how should they train in order to be born in great sāla tree-like business families; how should they train in order to be born among the Cāturmahārājika gods, how should they train in order to be born among the Trāyastriṃśa gods, and how should they train in order to be born among the Yāma, Tuṣita, Nirmāṇarati, and Paranirmitavaśavartin gods, and among the Brahmakāyika gods, and among the Brahmapurohita, Brahmapārśadya, Parittābha, Apramāṇābha, Ābhāsvara, Parittaśubha, Apramāṇaśubha, Śubhakṛtsna, Bṛhatphala, and Asaṃjñisattva gods;<sup>815</sup> how should they train in order not to be born among them; how should they train in order to be born among the Śuddhāvāsa—the Avṛha, Atapa, Sudṛśa, Sudarśana, and Akaniṣṭha gods; how should they train in order to be born in the Ākāśānantyāyatana, up to in the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana; how should they train in the production of the first thought, and how should they train in the production of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth, and tenth thought; and how should they train at the śrāvaka level, how should they train at the pratyekabuddha level, [F.95.b] how should they train at the bodhisattva level, how should they train at bringing beings to maturity, how should they train at purifying a buddhafield, how should they train at the dhāraṇī gateways, how should they train in all the meditative stabilizations, and how should they train in the awakening path by training in which they will know all dharmas in all their aspects? Lord, these conceptualizations do not exist in the dharma-constituent, so would bodhisattva great beings not be practicing in error or else be engaging in thought construction where there is no thought construction? And why? Lord, because in the dharma-constituent those conceptualizations do not exist. Form is not the dharma-constituent, and feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are not the dharma-constituent; the dharma-constituent is not other than form, and the dharma-constituent is not other than feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness. Just form is the dharma-constituent and just the dharma-constituent is form, up to just consciousness is the dharma-constituent and just the dharma-constituent is consciousness. Similarly, like the repetitive section for the inner dharmas, connect this with all dharmas.”

74.52 Venerable Subhūti having inquired about that, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! It is exactly as you say! Subhūti, just form is the dharma-constituent, and just feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are the dharma-constituent; and just the dharma-constituent is form, and just the dharma-constituent is feeling, perception, [F.96.a] volitional factors, and consciousness. Subhūti, if bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom were to see some other dharma not included in the dharma-constituent, they would not rest in unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. So, because all dharmas are the dharma-constituent, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom therefore are aware of all dharmas as they really are, the dharma-constituent. But even though bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom are aware of all dharmas as they really are, the dharma-constituent, still they teach the nameless dharmas with names and conventional terms: ‘this is form, this is feeling, this is perception, these are volitional factors, this is consciousness’; similarly, connect this with each, up to ‘this is awakening.’

74.53 “To illustrate, Subhūti, a clever, well-trained magician or magician’s apprentice, having done some conjuring over a suitable material prop, might make various things appear—namely, a woman’s body, or a man’s body, or an elephant’s body, or a horse’s body, or a bull’s body, or a garden, or a delightful park, or a delightful river, or a delightful lotus pond. Having displayed various coverings, mats and carpets,<sup>816</sup> there, they make flowers, flower garlands,<sup>817</sup> and soft and hard food appear, and delight people with singing and music. They give gifts, or guard morality, or make a practice of being patient, or make a vigorous effort, or play [F.96.b] in the meditative stabilizations, or cultivate wisdom, or they exhibit there, in those sorts of ways, great sāla tree–like royal families, great sāla tree–like brahmin families, or great sāla tree–like business families; or they show the Cāturmahārājika gods, or show the axial mountain Sumeru, or show the Trāyastriṃśa gods, or show the Yāma, or Tuṣita, or Nirmāṇarati, or Paranirmitavaśavartin gods; or show..., up to the formless<sup>818</sup> Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana gods; or show those who are stream enterers, or once-returners, or non-returners, or worthy ones, or pratyekabuddhas; or show bodhisattvas—starting from those who have first produced the thought, are practicing the perfection of giving, and are practicing the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom; those who are practicing on the first level, up to are practicing on the tenth level; those who are practicing in the secure state of a bodhisattva, and are accomplishing the clairvoyances and playing with them, bringing beings to maturity, purifying a buddhafiield, and playing in the concentrations, deliverances, meditative stabilizations, and absorptions; those who are giving away the major or minor parts of their bodies, undertaking the difficult practices, illuminating world systems, and accomplishing the ten tathāgata powers, and accomplishing the fearlessnesses, detailed and thorough knowledges, great love, and great compassion—or show a buddha’s body with all the major and minor limbs completed. When they do so, those beings with a naturally childish disposition [F.97.a] think about this and understand as follows: ‘Ah! This man has made such a display of these various bodies, and similarly, connect this with each, up to the buddha’s body that these people accept it as real. He is really well trained to somehow or other make it all beautiful and delightful.’ Those with a naturally intelligent disposition who are there, who are brilliant, wise, and endowed with the ability to investigate and reflect on those bodies, think about this and understand that, ‘Here there is nothing at all that can be apprehended, so this man is delighting those groups of beings with things that are not real. Thus they think what an amazing, marvelous Dharma that an understanding arises that these people are perceiving a materially existence in regard to these things where nothing materially exists at all.’<sup>819</sup>

74.54      “Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not see any other dharma not included in the dharma-constituent, and it is true that while practicing the perfection of wisdom, they do not apprehend a being or the designation of a being, but still, endowed with skillful means they personally give gifts, establish others in giving, speak in praise of giving, and speak in praise of others giving gifts as well, welcoming it. They personally guard morality..., they personally make a practice of being patient..., they personally make a vigorous effort..., they personally also become absorbed in concentration..., and they personally also cultivate wisdom, establish others in wisdom, speak in praise of wisdom, and speak in praise of others cultivating wisdom as well, welcoming it. Similarly, connect this with: They personally take up the ten wholesome actions and they cause others to take up the ten wholesome actions, welcoming it. They personally take up [F.97.b] the five-point training, up to welcoming it; they personally observe the eight-branched confession and restoration, up to welcoming it; they personally accomplish and dwell in the first concentration, up to the fourth concentration, love, compassion, joy, and equanimity, and the station of endless space, up to the station of neither perception nor nonperception, up to welcoming it; they personally cultivate the applications of mindfulness, up to the eightfold noble path, up to the three gateways to liberation, eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, and thirty-two major marks and eighty minor signs of a great person, up to welcoming it.

74.55      “Subhūti, if the dharma-constituent were not exactly the same later as it was before, and if it were not like that in between as well, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom would not with skillful means speak about the dharma-constituent, bring beings to maturity, and purify a buddhfield. But, Subhūti, it is because the dharma-constituent is exactly the same later as it was before, and is like that in between as well—it is because of that, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means pursue the bodhisattva’s way of life for the sake of beings.”

74.56      This was the seventy-fourth chapter, “Exposition of the Sameness of Dharmas,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

75.

CHAPTER 75: EXPOSITION OF NONCOMPLICATION

75.1 Then venerable Subhūti [F.98.a] asked the Lord, “Lord, if a being is absolutely not apprehended and even the designation of a being does not exist, for whose sake do bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom?”

75.2 Venerable Subhūti having asked this, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, having taken the very limit of reality as the measure,<sup>820</sup> bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom. Subhūti, if the very limit of reality were to be one thing and the limit of beings another, bodhisattva great beings would not practice the perfection of wisdom. But, Subhūti, the very limit of reality is not one thing and the limit of beings another, therefore bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom for the sake of beings. Subhūti, by not complicating the very limit of reality, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom establish beings at the very limit of reality.”

75.3 The Lord having said this, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if the very limit of reality is also the limit of beings, well then, how is a very limit of reality going to rest at the very limit of reality? Lord, if a very limit of reality rests at the very limit of reality, then in that case an intrinsic nature will rest in intrinsic nature. Lord, given that an intrinsic nature does not rest in intrinsic nature, how, Lord, are bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom going to establish the limit of beings at the very limit of reality?” [F.98.b]

75.4 Venerable Subhūti having asked this, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, it is true that a very limit of reality does not rest at the very limit of reality and an intrinsic nature does not rest in intrinsic nature, but still, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means establish the limit of beings at the very limit of reality without complicating the very limit of reality. Therefore, Subhūti, the very limit of reality is not one thing and the limit of beings is not another. The very limit of reality and the limit of beings are not two, are not divided, are not broken apart, and are not cut apart.”

75.5 The Lord having said this, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, what are the skillful means in possession of which bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means establish beings at the very limit of reality without complicating the very limit of reality?”

75.6 Venerable Subhūti having asked this, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here, starting from the first production of the thought, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom establish beings in the perfection of giving. Having established them in the perfection of giving, while teaching the prior limit and later limit and midpoint of that giving, they teach, ‘Just as this giving’s prior limit and later limit are empty, and its midpoint is empty, so too this gift is empty, the giving’s result is empty, the benefactor is empty, and the recipient is empty. Son of a good family, since this is the case, do not suppose all those things exist at the very limit of reality; do not suppose the giving is one thing and the result of the gift another; [F.99.a] do not suppose the benefactor is one thing and the recipient another. Do not suppose, son of a good family, when you are giving that it is one thing and the result of the giving another, do not suppose the benefactor is one thing and the recipient another, and then, son of a good family, this giving of yours will be the elixir of immortality for both,<sup>821</sup> your giving will have the elixir of immortality as its result and will end up as the elixir of immortality. But you should not, on account of this giving, hold onto form, you should not hold onto feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness. And why? Because this giving of yours is empty of an intrinsic nature of giving, its result is empty of an intrinsic nature of a gift, the benefactor is empty of an intrinsic nature of a benefactor, and the recipient is empty of an intrinsic nature of a recipient, so in emptiness giving cannot be apprehended, and neither can the result of giving, the benefactor, or the recipient. And why? Because those dharmas are utterly empty of an intrinsic nature.’

75.7 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means establish beings in the perfection of morality, saying, ‘Come here, son of a good family. You must stop killing and must turn back from killing. Similarly, connect this with each, up to You must stop wrong view and must turn back from wrong view. That sort of intrinsic nature you have looked for in all those dharmas does not exist at all, so, son of a good family, reflect deeply on what those phenomena—the living being who is being killed and that with which the living being is being killed—are. Similarly, connect this with each, up to wrong view.’ Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom in possession of such skillful

means bring beings to maturity and teach them the result of giving and morality [F.99.b] —teaching them that the result of giving and morality is empty of an intrinsic nature, whereby those sons of a good family come to know that the result of giving and morality is empty of an intrinsic nature and do not settle down on it. In a state in which they do not settle down, they generate a state without distraction and generate wisdom; with that wisdom they cut off all bad proclivities and obsessions and pass into complete nirvāṇa in the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind, but as an ordinary convention, not ultimately. And why? Because in emptiness no phenomenon can be apprehended that is passing into complete nirvāṇa or that has passed into complete nirvāṇa, and yet this—namely, the emptiness of what transcends limits—is still their complete nirvāṇa. [B53]

75.8 “Furthermore, Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom see other beings and other persons who are emotionally upset and bearing malice toward each other, they give advice and instruction, saying, ‘Come here, son of a good family. All those dharmas on account of which you are bearing malice are empty of a basic nature. You both should have patience. You should get used to being patient. You should become the tolerant type. Hey! Reflect deeply on the fact that the object of malice, someone bearing malice, and that on account of which someone bears malice are all empty of a basic nature, and what is empty of a basic nature is never not empty. It is not made by tathāgatas, nor is it made by pratyekabuddhas, śrāvakas, bodhisattvas, gods, nāgas, yakṣas, gandharvas, kinnaras, mahoragas, Cāturmahārājika gods, up to Paranirmitavaśavartin gods, Brahmās, up to Śubhakarṣna, up to or those in the Śuddhāvāsa and Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana. Son of a good family, reflect deeply on the fact that the object of malice, someone [F.100.a] who is bearing malice, and that on account of which someone bears malice are all empty of an intrinsic nature. Emptiness does not bear malice to anyone at all.’ Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom in possession of such skillful means connect beings to the emptiness of a basic nature, they connect them to cause and effect as well. When they are connecting them to the emptiness of a basic nature, they excite and inspire them to take up and enter into it, and establish them in it, but as an ordinary convention, not ultimately. And why? Because in the emptiness of a basic nature something to be attained, someone who attains, and something on account of which someone attains—none of those phenomena can be apprehended.

75.9 “Subhūti, this very limit of reality where bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom for the sake of beings is the emptiness of a basic nature. A being is not apprehended there, nor is the designation of a being apprehended there. And why? Because all phenomena are isolated from beings.<sup>822</sup>

75.10 “Furthermore, Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom see beings deficient in perseverance, they inspire them with skillful means to persevere physically and mentally, saying, ‘Son of a good family, in the emptiness of a basic nature there is nothing at all to get depressed about, no one who gets depressed, and nothing that causes depression. None of those phenomena [F.100.b] pass beyond the emptiness of a basic nature. Generate physical and mental effort and stop being lazy. Persevere at wholesome dharmas, namely, at giving or morality or patience or perseverance or concentration or wisdom; or at the concentrations or deliverances or meditative stabilizations or absorptions; or at the applications of mindfulness, up to the eightfold noble path; or at emptiness or signlessness or wishlessness, up to or at all the buddhadharmas. Observe, son of a good family, that these dharmas, as emptiness, do not present any problem. When dharmas do not present a problem, there is no depression at all.’

75.11 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means thus inspire beings to take up the emptiness of a basic nature, cause them to enter into it and establish them in it. One way or the other they thus establish them in nonduality. And why? Because the emptiness of a basic nature is not two and is not divided, and in nonduality there is no depression at all.

75.12 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom give advice and instruction to beings, saying, ‘Come here, son of a good family. Persevere at giving or morality or patience or perseverance or concentration or wisdom; or at the applications of mindfulness, up to the eightfold noble path; or at the concentrations or deliverances or meditative stabilizations or absorptions; up to or the ten tathāgata powers or four [F.101.a] fearlessnesses or four detailed and thorough knowledges or great compassion; or the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha. Do not pay attention to those dharmas as dual and also do not pay attention to them as nondual. And why? Because all those dharmas are empty of a basic nature, and, given that they are empty of a basic nature, they cannot be paid attention to as dual and not dual.’

75.13 “Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that with skillful means have practiced the practice, they bring beings to maturity. Having brought them to maturity, they gradually establish them in the result of stream enterer, establish them in the result of once-returner and in the result of non-returner, establish them in the state of a worthy one, establish them in a pratyekabuddha's awakening, and establish them in unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.

75.14 "Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means working for the welfare of beings cause them to enter into the cultivation of meditative stabilization, saying, 'Come here, son of a good family. You should cultivate meditative stabilization without entertaining the notion of distraction and without entertaining the notion of meditative stabilization. And why? Because all those dharmas are empty of a basic nature, and in the emptiness of a basic nature a dharma that is a distraction or that becomes one-pointed cannot be apprehended at all. When, having stood in this meditative stabilization, you practice the emptiness of a basic nature, whatever wholesome dharma you do with your body or speech or mind, regardless of what it is—if you give gifts, or guard morality, or make a practice of being patient, or make a vigorous effort, or become absorbed in meditative stabilization, or cultivate [F.101.b] wisdom; or practice the applications of mindfulness, up to or meditate on the eightfold noble path; or meditate on the gateways to liberation, or meditative stabilizations, or absorptions, or ten tathāgata powers, or four fearlessnesses, or four detailed and thorough knowledges, or great love, or great compassion, or the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, or the thirty-two major marks of a great person, or the eighty minor signs, or the śrāvaka path, or the pratyekabuddha path, or the bodhisattva path, or the buddha path, or the result of stream enterer, or the result of once-returner, or the result of non-returner, or the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha's awakening, or the knowledge of all aspects; or if you bring beings to maturity, or purify a buddhafiield—whatever you do, you will accomplish those wholesome dharmas with little difficulty.'

75.15 "In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means work for the welfare of beings. Starting from the first production of the thought, they work for the welfare of beings by never doing what should not be done. They seek for the good, constantly and always passing on from buddhafiield to buddhafiield in order to attend on the lord buddhas, and until they fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, they do not lose any of the doctrine they have heard from those lord buddhas, even after they have changed lives. They will have always acquired the dhāraṇīs, and their faculties—whether the body faculty or speech faculty or mind faculty—never become dull. [F.102.a] And why? Because they have constantly and always cultivated the knowledge of all aspects well, and by having cultivated the knowledge of all aspects well, they have cultivated all paths well, that is, they have cultivated the śrāvaka

path, or pratyekabuddha path, or bodhisattva path, or buddha path well. The bodhisattva great beings have also cultivated the clairvoyances that help them not lose what they have heard. Remaining in those clairvoyances arisen from maturation, streaming through the five forms of life in the stream of cyclic existence but without degenerating, they work for the welfare of beings. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that stand in the emptiness of a basic nature and work for the welfare of beings.

75.16 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, having stood in the emptiness of a basic nature, work with skillful means for the welfare of beings. Having cultivated the perfection of wisdom well they give advice and instruction to beings, saying, ‘Come here, son of a good family. Whatever acts you do physically or verbally or mentally, regardless of what they are, understand analytically that they are all empty of a basic nature so that those acts of yours will be the elixir of immortality, will have the elixir of immortality as their result, and will end up as the elixir of immortality.’<sup>823</sup> In the emptiness of a basic nature, a phenomenon that settles down or degenerates cannot be apprehended. And why? Because the emptiness of a basic nature does not degenerate and there is no phenomenon that degenerates from the emptiness of a basic nature. [F.102.b] And why? Because the emptiness of a basic nature is not a thing that really exists and not a thing that does not really exist either. Given that phenomena are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, what will degenerate?’

75.17 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom give advice and instruction to beings like that, inspiring them to take up the emptiness of a basic nature, and while giving such advice and such instruction and causing them to enter into the emptiness of a basic nature, never do what should not be done. They personally are constantly and always inspired to take up the ten wholesome actions and they inspire others to take up the ten wholesome actions as well. Similarly, they personally pursue..., up to the five-point training and the eight-branched confession and restoration and inspire others to take up them up as well; they personally become absorbed in the first concentration and they inspire others to become absorbed in the first concentration as well; they personally become absorbed in..., up to the fourth concentration and they inspire others to become absorbed in..., up to the fourth concentration as well; they personally constantly and always abide in loving-kindness and they inspire others to take up the meditation on loving-kindness as well, up to they personally meditate on equanimity and they inspire others to take up the meditation on equanimity as well; they personally complete..., up to the station of neither perception nor nonperception absorption and they inspire others to take up completion of the station of neither perception nor nonperception absorption as well; they personally meditate on the four applications of mindfulness and they inspire others [F.103.a] to take up meditation on the four applications of mindfulness as well, leading them to, causing them to enter, and establishing them in them; they personally meditate on..., up to the eightfold noble path and they inspire others to take up meditation on..., up to the eightfold noble path; they personally train in the ten tathāgata powers and they inspire others to take up training in the ten tathāgata powers as well, leading them to, causing them to enter, and establishing them in them; they personally train in accomplishing..., up to the eighty minor signs and they inspire others to train in accomplishing..., up to the eighty minor signs as well, leading them to, causing them to enter, and establishing them in them; they personally generate an understanding of the result of stream enterer but without themselves remaining there, and they establish others in an understanding of the result of stream enterer; they personally generate an understanding of..., up to the state of a worthy one but without themselves remaining there, and they establish others in an understanding of the state of a worthy one; they personally generate an understanding of a pratyekabuddha’s awakening but without themselves remaining there, and they lead and cause others to enter into an understanding of a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, establishing them in it; and they personally generate the path of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening and give advice and instruction about that path to others, leading them to, causing them to enter, and establishing them in it. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that with skillful means never do what should not be done.”

75.18 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if all phenomena are empty of a basic nature, and if in the emptiness of a basic nature a being is not apprehended, nor are a dharma and a path apprehended, Lord, [F.103.b] how will bodhisattva great beings stand in the knowledge of all aspects?”

75.19 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! It is exactly as you say! All phenomena are empty of a basic nature, and in the emptiness of a basic nature a being is not apprehended, nor are a dharma or a path apprehended. Subhūti, were all phenomena not empty of a basic nature, bodhisattva great beings would not stand in the emptiness of a basic nature and, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, teach the emptiness of a basic nature doctrine. But, Subhūti, form is empty of a basic nature. Subhūti, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are empty of a basic nature, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha are empty of a basic nature, and the eighty minor signs are empty of a basic nature. Similarly, connect this with each, up to the knowledge of all aspects and abandonment of all residual impression connections are empty of a basic nature. Subhūti, given that all phenomena are empty of a basic nature, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom therefore teach the doctrine that ‘the five aggregates are empty of a basic nature’; teach the doctrine that ‘the twelve sense fields and eighteen constituents are empty of a basic nature’; and teach the doctrine that ‘the four concentrations, four immeasurables, four formless absorptions, and four applications of mindfulness are empty of a basic nature.’ Similarly, connect this with each, up to teach the doctrine that ‘the eightfold noble path is empty of a basic nature’; teach the doctrine that ‘the three gateways to liberation, [F.104.a] eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, great love, great compassion, eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, up to and the eighty minor signs are empty of a basic nature’; teach the doctrine that ‘the result of stream enterer, the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, the state of a worthy one, a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, and the knowledge of all aspects and abandonment of all residual impression connections are empty of a basic nature.’

75.20 “Subhūti, if inner emptiness were not empty of a basic nature, then bodhisattva great beings would not teach the doctrine that ‘all dharmas are empty of a basic nature’; similarly, if outer emptiness, inner and outer emptiness, up to the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature were not empty of a basic nature, bodhisattva great beings would not teach the doctrine that ‘all dharmas are empty of a basic nature.’ Therefore, the emptiness of a basic nature would have been destroyed.

75.21 “But the emptiness of a basic nature does not perish, is not immovable, and is not nonrecurring. And why? Because it does not occupy a location, does not stand in a place, does not come from anywhere, and does not go anywhere. It is the establishment of dharmas. In it no dharma can be apprehended that increases or decreases, is accumulated or passes away, has been produced or ceased, is defiled or purified. It is the basic nature of dharmas. Having stood there, bodhisattva [F.104.b] great beings stand in unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, but do not see any dharma at all as being destroyed.<sup>824</sup> In regard to all dharmas, there is no establishment and there is no destruction. That is the establishment of dharmas as dharmas. Therefore, by seeing all dharmas as empty of a basic nature, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not turn back from unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. And why? Because they do not see any dharma at all as obstructing. They see all dharmas as not obstructing.

They thus do not apprehend in that emptiness of a basic nature a self, nor do they apprehend a designation of a self; nor do they apprehend a being..., a living being..., a creature..., one born of Manu..., a child of Manu..., one who lives..., a person..., one who does..., one who makes someone else do..., a motivator..., one who motivates..., one who feels..., one who knows..., or one who sees, nor do they apprehend a designation of one who sees; nor do they apprehend form..., feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., or consciousness, nor do they apprehend a designation of consciousness; similarly, they do not apprehend inner and outer dharmas, up to they do not apprehend the eighty minor signs, nor do they apprehend a designation of the eighty minor signs, so how could they ever harbor doubt about unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?

75.22 “To illustrate, Subhūti, were a tathāgata’s magical creation to have continuously taught the Dharma to a magically created monk or nun or layman or laywoman for as many as a hundred million eons, what do you think, Subhūti, would those magical creations [F.105.a] have the good fortune to reach the result of stream enterer, or to reach the result of once-returned or the result of non-returned, the state of a worthy one, a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, or unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”

“No, Lord. And why? Because they have no real basis.”

75.23 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! When all phenomena have no real basis, what being will bodhisattva great beings cause to take up the result of stream enterer, or the result of once-returned or result of non-returned, or the state of a worthy one or a pratyekabuddha’s awakening or unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening? On the contrary, they cause creatures snared in error to enter into the absence of error and establish them there. Just that error is itself not error because of having<sup>825</sup> thought construction as cause. The absence of thought construction is the absence of error. Where there is an absence of error there is no self, up to there is no one who knows and no one who sees. There, there is no form, there is no feeling, there is no perception, there are no volitional factors, and there is no consciousness, and similarly, connect this with each, up to, there is no awakening. And that in which there is no self, up to no one who knows and no one who sees; no form, no feeling, no perception, no volitional factors, and no consciousness; up to no awakening—that is the emptiness of a basic nature. Standing there bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom free beings subject to error from the perception of a being, free them from [F.105.b] the perception of form, up to the perception of the formless; similarly, connect this with each, up to, and free them from dharmas with outflows and without outflows. Those dharmas without outflows, furthermore, are these, namely, the four applications of mindfulness, four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path, and the four formless absorptions, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha. They, furthermore, are not exactly like the ultimate there. Thus, the uncompounded, unproduced, nonexistent, and nonappearing—that is the emptiness of a basic nature; that is the awakening of the lord buddhas. There, there is no self, up to no one who knows and no one who sees; no form, no feeling, no perception, no volitional factors, and no consciousness; and similarly, connect this with each, up to no eighty minor signs.

75.24 “Except that the comprehension of the emptiness of a basic nature functions as a path, bodhisattva great beings have not set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. That emptiness of a basic nature, furthermore, is the emptiness of a basic nature at the prior limit, and the emptiness of a basic nature at the later limit, and is the emptiness of a basic nature at the midpoint too. It is never not an emptiness of a basic nature. Therefore, bodhisattva great beings, having stood in the perfection that is the emptiness of a basic nature, practice the knowledge of path aspects in order to free beings from the perception of a being and from all perceptions. [F.106.a] When they practice the knowledge of path aspects, they practice all paths—namely, the śrāvaka path, pratyekabuddha path, and bodhisattva path. Subhūti, those bodhisattva great beings, having completed all paths, brought beings to maturity, purified a buddhfield, and employed sustaining power over the volitional factor that is life, fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and, even having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, do not make a break in the guiding principle of the buddhas—namely, the emptiness of a basic nature. Just this, namely, the emptiness of a basic nature, is the guiding principle of the buddhas—of the lord buddhas who will appear at a future time, and the lord buddhas presently dwelling and maintaining themselves in world systems in the ten directions, those lord buddhas teaching the Dharma. As for this emptiness of a basic nature, apart from appearing from the lord buddhas, it does not appear in the world from anything else, so bodhisattva great beings have to practice the perfections that are the emptiness of a basic nature, practicing in such a way that there is no decline from the knowledge of all aspects.”

75.25 Subhūti said, “Lord, it is amazing how bodhisattva great beings practice without complicating the emptiness of a basic nature so that form [F.106.b] is not one thing and the emptiness of a basic nature another; or feeling one thing, perception one thing, volitional factors one thing, or consciousness one thing and the emptiness of a basic nature another; and similarly, up to all the buddhadharmas and awakening one thing and the emptiness of a basic nature another. Form itself is the emptiness of a basic nature and the emptiness of a basic nature is form, up to awakening itself is the emptiness of a basic nature and the emptiness of a basic nature is awakening.”

75.26 Venerable Subhūti having said that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, if form were one thing and the emptiness of a basic nature another; feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness one thing and the emptiness of a basic nature another; and similarly, up to awakening one thing and the emptiness of a basic nature another, then, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings would not fully awaken to form as a knower of all aspects; would not fully awaken to feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness as a knower of all aspects; and similarly, up to not fully awaken to awakening as a knower of all aspects. But, Subhūti, it is because form itself is the emptiness of a basic nature and the emptiness of a basic nature is form; because feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., and consciousness itself is the emptiness of a basic nature and the emptiness of a basic nature is consciousness; [F.107.a] and similarly, up to awakening itself is the emptiness of a basic nature and the emptiness of a basic nature is awakening—because of that, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings, having become aware that form is empty of a basic nature, fully awaken to form itself as the knowledge of all aspects, up to having become aware that awakening is empty of a basic nature, fully awaken to awakening itself as the knowledge of all aspects.

75.27 “And why? Because no dharma at all has been destroyed or has remained unmoved, or will enter into anything. On the contrary, the world together with the gods, together with Māra, together with Brahmā, together with those leading a secluded religious life and the population of brahmins, do not know form as it really is; they do not know feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness as it really is. On account of not knowing, ordinary foolish people settle down on form, and they settle down on feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness. Settling down on form, and settling down on feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness, they live grasping at ‘I’ and grasping at ‘mine.’ Having settled down on grasping at ‘I’ and grasping at ‘mine,’ they settle down on all inner and outer things. Having settled down, because the sense fields come with rebirth, they appropriate form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness and are not released from birth, old age, sickness, death, pain, lamentation, suffering, mental anguish, and grief; they are not liberated from the five [F.107.b] forms of life in the stream of cycles of existence.

75.28 “Therefore, having stood in the perfection that is the emptiness of a basic nature, bodhisattva great beings do not complicate form with ‘it is empty,’ or ‘it is not empty’; they do not complicate feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness with 'it is empty,' or 'it is not empty'; and similarly, connect this with each, up to they do not complicate awakening with 'it is empty,' or 'it is not empty.'

75.29 "And why? Because the emptiness of form does not make it complicated with 'this is form,' and 'this is emptiness,' up to 'this is consciousness,' and 'this is the emptiness of consciousness'; similarly, connect this with each, up to does not make it complicated with 'this is awakening,' and 'this is the emptiness of a basic nature.'

75.30 "To illustrate, Subhūti, space does not complicate space; inner space does not complicate outer space; and outer space does not complicate inner space. Similarly, Subhūti, the emptiness of a basic nature does not complicate form, and form does not complicate emptiness. Emptiness also does not complicate feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., or consciousness, and consciousness does not complicate emptiness, up to emptiness does not complicate awakening, up to awakening does not complicate emptiness.

75.31 "And why? Because the 'this is form,' and 'this is emptiness,' up to 'this is feeling...,' 'perception...,' 'volitional factors...,' and 'consciousness,' and 'this is emptiness'; similarly, connect this with each, up to [F.108.a] 'this is awakening,' and 'this is emptiness' that might make that sort of complication have no intrinsic existence."

75.32 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti then asked him, "Lord, if all phenomena are not different things, well then, Lord, for what will bodhisattva great beings, thinking, 'I will full awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening,' set out? Lord, awakening is not divided, and anyone who takes it as being within a duality cannot fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening."

75.33 "Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!" replied the Lord. "Subhūti, awakening is not practiced within a duality. Subhūti, awakening is not two and is not divided. Subhūti, a bodhisattva great being's awakening is not practiced within a division being made in awakening into 'this is the bodhisattva' and 'this is the bodhisattva's awakening.' A bodhisattva great being's awakening is not a practice of form; is not a practice of feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness; up to is not a practice of awakening.

75.34 "And why? Because in awakening the word 'I' does not exist, so words for 'I am practicing form,' 'I am practicing feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness,' and 'I am practicing awakening' do not exist, because a bodhisattva great being's awakening is not a practice of taking anything up and not a practice of not taking anything up."

75.35 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, "Lord, if a bodhisattva [F.108.b] great being's awakening is not a practice of taking anything up and is not a practice of not taking anything up, well then, of what is a bodhisattva great being's awakening the practice?"

75.36 The Lord asked in return, "What do you think, Subhūti, is the awakening of a tathāgata's magical creation the practice of taking something up or of not taking something up?"

"No, Lord," he replied.

75.37 "What do you think, Subhūti," asked the Lord, "does the dream awareness of a worthy one practice taking something up or not taking something up?"

75.38 "No, Lord," he replied. "Given that worthy ones absolutely do not dream, however could their dream awareness practice taking something up or not taking something up?"

75.39 "Similarly, Subhūti," said the Lord, "a bodhisattva great being's awakening does not practice taking anything up or not taking anything up."

75.40 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, "Lord, if a bodhisattva great being's awakening is not a practice of taking anything up or not taking anything up, is not a practice of form, up to and is not a practice of the knowledge of all aspects, well then, Lord, having practiced the six perfections, having accomplished the ten levels, the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, the fourteen emptinesses, the three gateways to liberation, the concentrations, the deliverances, the absorptions, up to the ten tathāgata powers, and eighty minor signs, and having stood in the clairvoyances, completed the ten levels, entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva, [F.109.a] purified a buddhafiield, and brought beings to maturity, how will bodhisattva great beings fully awaken to the knowledge of all aspects? Lord, without having practiced the six perfections, without having stood on the ten levels, up to without having stood in the clairvoyances, without having entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva, without having purified a buddhafiield, and without having brought beings to maturity, they will not be able to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening."

75.41 "Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! It is exactly as you say!" said the Lord. "Subhūti, without having stood on the ten levels, up to without having completed the six perfections and all the wholesome dharmas, they will not be able to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, but, Subhūti, when they have completed the ten levels, and they have completed the six perfections, the four concentrations, the four immeasurables, the four formless absorptions, the four applications of mindfulness, up to the eightfold noble path, the three—emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness—gateways to liberation, up to the eighty minor signs, and the natural state not robbed of mindfulness, and the constant staying in a state of equanimity, they will be able to reach the knowledge of all aspects.

- 75.42 “Moreover, Subhūti, when they stand in the basic nature of form; stand in the basic nature of feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; up to stand in the basic nature of awakening, they will be able to reach the knowledge of all aspects. Subhūti, that basic nature is calmed, and it does not bring about the accumulation or diminishing, production [F.109.b] or ceasing, defilement or purification, attainment or clear realization of any dharma at all.
- 75.43 “Moreover, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening simply based on the true nature of dharmas labeled by way of ordinary convention. In it there is ultimately no form or..., up to awakening, and no one who is practicing awakening. All those dharmas are simply labeled by ordinary convention, but not ultimately.
- 75.44 “Subhūti, starting from the first production of the thought, bodhisattva great beings do not, while practicing for awakening, apprehend that thought, beings, awakening, or a bodhisattva. What do you think, Subhūti, when you, Subhūti, in order to eliminate the view of the perishable collection, attained the faculties, or attained the uninterrupted meditative stabilization or the result of stream enterer, or attained the result of once-returner or the result of non-returner, or attained the state of a worthy one, did you apprehend a dream or a thought or a path or a result?
“No, Lord.”
- 75.45 “Well then, Subhūti, why was there a pronouncement about your understanding, ‘Subhūti has reached the state of a worthy one’?”
“Lord, the pronouncement about my understanding was based on ordinary convention.”
- 75.46 “Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings are designated by ordinary convention; form is designated by ordinary convention; feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are designated by ordinary convention; up to the knowledge of all aspects [F.110.a] is designated by ordinary convention, so, based on the emptiness of a basic nature of dharmas, bodhisattva great beings do not apprehend any dharma in awakening that accumulates or diminishes or helps or harms any dharma.
- 75.47 “So, given that even the basic nature of dharmas has not been apprehended, why mention that a first production of the thought will not be apprehended; that the six perfections, up to the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening will not be apprehended; or that the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, and wishlessness meditative stabilization, up to the buddhadharmas will not be apprehended. It is impossible.

75.48      “Thus, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who have practiced unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening work for the welfare of beings.”

75.49      This was the seventy-fifth chapter, “Exposition of Noncomplication,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

76.           CHAPTER 76: THE ARMOR FOR BRINGING BEINGS TO MATURITY

- 76.1       Then venerable Subhūti inquired of the Lord, “Lord, if bodhisattva great beings practicing the six perfections, the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, the ten tathāgata powers, the four fearlessnesses, the four detailed and thorough knowledges, and the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha still do not, having completed the fourteen emptinesses and the awakening path, have the good fortune to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, well then, Lord, how will bodhisattva great beings fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?” [F.110.b]
- 76.2       “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom with skillful means, they practice the perfection of giving without apprehending giving, without apprehending a benefactor and recipient, and without practicing any dharmas other than those. It is then that the bodhisattva great beings embark upon the awakening path. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means like that will fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Similarly, connect this with all the five perfections, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha.”
- 76.3       Then venerable Śāriputra asked the Lord, “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom make an effort at the awakening path?”
- 76.4       Venerable Śāriputra having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Śāriputra, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means do not engage with and do not disengage from form. And why? Śāriputra, it is because there is no intrinsic nature of form to engage with or become disengaged from; up to they do not engage with and do not become disengaged from consciousness. And why? Because there is no intrinsic nature of consciousness to engage with or become disengaged from. They do not engage with and do not become disengaged from the perfection of giving. And why? Because it has no intrinsic nature to engage with or become disengaged from. Similarly, connect this with each, up to the perfection of wisdom and the eighteen [F.111.a] distinct attributes of a buddha."

76.5 "Lord, if there is no intrinsic nature of a dharma to engage with or become disengaged from, well then, how will the perfection of wisdom in which bodhisattva great beings are supposed to train be accomplished? Without having trained in the perfection of wisdom, bodhisattva great beings will not be able to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening."

76.6 "Exactly so, Śāriputra, exactly so! It is exactly as you say! Without having trained in the perfection of wisdom, bodhisattva great beings will not be able to awaken fully to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, Furthermore, it is done with skillful means, not without skillful means.

76.7 "Śāriputra, if bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom were to apprehend an intrinsic nature of any dharma, they would grasp them. But they do not apprehend them, so there is no chance they will grasp at 'this is the perfection of wisdom, this is the perfection of concentration, this is the perfection of perseverance, this is the perfection of patience, this is the perfection of morality, this is the perfection of giving, this is form,' up to 'this is consciousness,' up to 'these are the buddhadharmas.' If they do not apprehend..., up to 'this is awakening,' what will they grasp? Śāriputra, the perfection of wisdom cannot be grasped, up to the buddhadharmas cannot be grasped. Śāriputra, this perfection is a perfection of the absence of grasping, so it is a perfection of wisdom. [F.111.b] Bodhisattva great beings should train in it. Given that bodhisattva great beings training in it do not apprehend even the training, what need is there to mention awakening, what need is there to mention the perfection of wisdom, what need is there to mention the bodhisattva dharmas, what need is there to mention the buddha dharmas, and what need is there to mention the śrāvaka dharmas, pratyekabuddha dharmas, or the dharmas of ordinary people? And why? Śāriputra, it is because whatever the dharma, its intrinsic nature does not exist, so, where all dharmas have no intrinsic nature, what dharmas of ordinary people are there, what stream enterer, once-returner, non-returner, worthy one, and pratyekabuddha dharmas; and what state of a worthy one, pratyekabuddha's awakening, bodhisattva, or unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening? If those persons cannot be apprehended—those dharmas on account of which they say, 'This is an ordinary person,' up to 'this is a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha'—however could those dharmas appear?"

- 76.8 “Lord, given that all dharmas are without any real basis, what will be the origin and existence of ‘this is an ordinary person,’ up to ‘this is a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha?’”
- 76.9 Venerable Śāriputra having asked that, the Lord asked him in return, “Śāriputra, has there been or will there be a real basis of form in the way a foolish ordinary person has settled down on it?”
- 76.10 “Lord, ‘form’ does not exist at all except that an ordinary person with a distorted mind has settled down on it.”
- 76.11 “Śāriputra, [F.112.a] has there been or will there be a real basis of feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness in the way a foolish ordinary person has settled down on them? Similarly, connect this with Śāriputra, what do you think about this, has there been or will there be a real basis of..., up to all the buddhadharmas in the way a foolish ordinary person has settled down on them?”
- 76.12 “Lord, up to ‘consciousness,’ and, up to ‘all the buddhadharmas’ do not exist at all except that an ordinary person with a distorted mind has mentally constructed them as a real basis.”
- 76.13 “Exactly so, Śāriputra, exactly so!” said the Lord. “An ordinary person with a distorted mind has mentally constructed all dharmas, which have no real basis, with a mind that has no real basis, as real bases. Therefore, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means, having seen that all those dharmas are without a real basis, have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”
- 76.14 The Lord having said that, venerable Śāriputra asked him, “Lord, what are those skillful means of bodhisattva great beings who see all dharmas without a real basis, those skillful means with which bodhisattva great beings have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”
- 76.15 Venerable Śāriputra having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Śāriputra, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not see any dharma’s real basis, a real basis on account of which they might get angry; while angry get depressed; while depressed become despondent; [F.112.b] and while despondent become lazy. Therefore, Śāriputra, except for ‘aggregates,’ or ‘constituents,’ or ‘sense fields’ settled down on by beings confused about the self, all dharmas are without a real basis, without a vital essence, devoid of a vital essence, the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, empty of a basic nature, and empty of their own marks, so bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, having seen that all dharmas are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, empty of a basic nature, and empty of their own marks, conjure up a body like a magician’s and teach the Dharma to beings. They give a discourse on giving to beings who are stingy, give a discourse on morality to beings who are immoral, give a discourse on patience to beings thinking malicious thoughts, give a discourse on perseverance to beings who are lazy, give a discourse on meditative stabilization to beings who are distracted, and give a discourse on the intellect to beings with intellectual confusion. When they have established beings in giving, up to established them in wisdom, they then give the noble discourses to do with deliverance to beings, causing them to reach the result of stream enterer, up to causing them to reach the state of a worthy one, causing them to reach a pratyekabuddha's awakening, up to and causing them to reach the knowledge of all aspects."

76.16 Then venerable Śāriputra asked the Lord, "Lord, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom [F.113.a] establish beings who do not exist and who are not there in giving, up to establish them in wisdom, and on top of that give noble discourses to do with deliverance, give discourses that cause them to reach the state of a worthy one, cause them to reach a pratyekabuddha's awakening, up to and cause them to reach the knowledge of all aspects, so how could they not apprehend anything?"

76.17 Venerable Śāriputra having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not apprehend anything. And why? Because those bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not apprehend any being at all except as a conventional term in conventional usage. Śāriputra, standing there in the two truths, bodhisattva great beings teach the doctrine to beings. Nevertheless, in the two truths, Śāriputra, there is no apprehension of a being and no designation of a being. But still bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection with skillful means teach the doctrine to beings so that those beings do not apprehend a self even in this very life, never mind what they will obtain, or how they will obtain it. Śāriputra, it is thus that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means teach the doctrine to beings."

76.18 The Lord having said that, venerable Śāriputra said to him, "Ah! Lord, [F.113.b] this is a great enthusiasm indeed, that bodhisattva great beings are armed with an armor like this—namely, Lord, that they do not apprehend any dharma at all as the same, or different, or separate; that they are armed with such an armor that they are not in the desire realm, are not in the form realm, are not in the formless realm, are not in the compounded element, and are not in the un-compounded element; and that they free beings from the three realms without apprehending a being or the designation of a being. In the absence of the designation of a being, a being is not bound and is not freed; since a being is not bound and is not freed, there is no defilement and there is no purification; since there is no defilement and there is no purification, forms of life do not have specific features; since forms of life do not have specific features, there is no karma and there are no afflictions; and given that there is no karma and there are no afflictions, however could there be a maturation, a maturation on account of which I and beings come to be in the five forms of life in the stream of cycles of existence?"

76.19 Venerable Śāriputra having said that, the Lord replied to him, "Exactly so, Śāriputra, exactly so! It is exactly as you say! Śāriputra, if a being there before were not there later, there would thus be the fault that a bodhisattva and tathāgata 'would have been there before and would not be there later'; and there would also be the fault that the five forms of life in the stream of cyclic existence would have been something that really existed before and would be something that really does not exist later. Therefore, Śāriputra, whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas [F.114.a] do not arise, the true dharmic nature of dharmas—suchness, unmistaken suchness—remains. In it there is no self, there is also no being, there is also no living being, there is also no person, there is also no one who does, and there is also no one who makes someone else do, so however could there be form there? However could there be feeling, perception, volitional factors, and however could there be consciousness? However could there be the five forms of life in the stream of cycles of existence from which beings are to be freed, given that dharmas do not exist and are not there?"

76.20 "Therefore, Śāriputra, these dharmas are the emptiness of an intrinsic nature. Having heard about this from earlier tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas, bodhisattva great beings have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, but there is no intrinsic nature of any dharma at all that can be apprehended in which they can believe, except what foolish ordinary people confused by distortion have settled down on. Bodhisattva great beings armed with such armor do not turn back from unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Armed with such armor they think, 'It is not that I will not fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening; rather, I will fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening,' and, 'Having fully awakened, I will work for the welfare of beings, a welfare that comes with the sort of Dharma that frees beings from distortion.'

76.21 "To illustrate, Śāriputra, a person conjured up by a magician conjures up many hundred thousands of billions of living beings. Having conjured them up, he satisfies them by feeding them many delectable soft and hard foods, [F.114.b] but even having satisfied them by feeding them, when he cries out cries of delight, saying, 'I have greatly increased my merit,' what do you think, Śāriputra, has anyone at all been fed and satisfied?"

"No, Lord."

- 76.22 “Similarly, Śāriputra, starting from the first production of the thought, when bodhisattva great beings practice the six perfections, practice the four concentrations, practice the four immeasurables, practice the four formless absorptions, practice the four applications of mindfulness, practice the four right efforts, practice the four legs of miraculous power, practice the five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path, practice the fourteen emptinesses, practice the signlessness meditative stabilization and wishlessness meditative stabilization, and practice the ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, cleanse the awakening path, purify a buddhafiield, and bring beings to maturity, they do not apprehend any being at all, who, having been apprehended, has to be tamed.” [B54]
- 76.23 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, what is the bodhisattva great beings’ path on which bodhisattva great beings who have to purify a buddhafiield and bring beings to maturity practice?”
- 76.24 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here, [F.115.a] starting from the first production of the thought, bodhisattva great beings make a practice of the perfection of giving; make a practice of the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom; up to make a practice of the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha; and bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhafiield.”
- 76.25 “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving bring beings to maturity?”
- 76.26 “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom give gifts to beings, and having given gifts advise and instruct them like this: ‘Sons of a good family, here do not grasp at and seize on giving gifts. Do not, by seizing on giving gifts, make a body come into being, a body that brings with it the experience of many sufferings. Sons of a good family, ultimately giving does not exist here, a benefactor does not exist, and a recipient does not exist either. Those three phenomena are empty of an intrinsic nature, so a phenomenon empty of a basic nature does not receive, and the emptiness of a basic nature is not grasped.’ In that way, Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of giving, they give gifts to beings like that but without apprehending giving, without apprehending a giver, and without apprehending a recipient there. Such a perfection of giving is a perfection of not apprehending anything. Bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving [F.115.b] connect beings with the result of stream enterer;<sup>826</sup> similarly, connect this with each, up to connect them with unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening without apprehending any of those three phenomena. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving bring beings to maturity. They personally give gifts, inspire others to take up giving, speak in praise of giving, and speak in praise of others giving gifts as well, welcoming it. Having given such gifts, bodhisattva great beings take birth sharing in the good fortune of those in great sāla tree-like royal families, take birth sharing in the good fortune of those in great sāla tree-like brahmin families, take birth sharing in the good fortune of those in great sāla tree-like business families, or become a local ruler, or become a wheel-turning emperor, or, having attained sovereignty over an empire, gather humans with the four ways of gathering a retinue. What are the four? They gather them by giving, kind words, beneficial actions, and consistency between words and deeds.

76.27 “Having gathered those beings into a retinue by giving, they gradually establish them in morality, and establish them in meditative stabilization and wisdom, the four concentrations, the four immeasurables, the four formless absorptions, the four applications of mindfulness, up to the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, and in the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness meditative stabilization. They cause them to enter into the flawlessness that is a perfect state and inspire them to take up the state of a worthy one, a pratyekbuddha’s awakening, up to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening: ‘Hey, you people! Fully awakening to unsurpassed, [F.116.a] perfect, complete awakening is not hard. Other than it not being realized because of a mind made confused by error, here there is no phenomenon to which beings are attached that exists through its intrinsic nature, so you should stop all grasping at distortions and free yourself from saṃsāra, and free others from saṃsāra too. You should do something of great value for yourselves in that way, and you should connect others with something of great value too.’

76.28 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice the perfection of giving so that when they practice, they practice in such a way that right from the first production of the thought they will not in the worst case<sup>827</sup> fall into a terrible form of life nor ever not do the work of a wheel-turning emperor. And why? Because the result is like the seed. When supplicants arrive in the presence of that wheel-turning emperor, the wheel-turning emperor thinks, ‘I have assumed sovereignty over an empire for nothing other than the welfare of beings,’ and says, ‘Whatever you want, consider it given. It is yours, not mine. I am not even doing it for the sake of this inner form, never mind anything else. Apart from having accepted a life in saṃsāra for the sake of all beings, I am not someone who likes saṃsāra.’

- 76.29 “Thus, out of compassion they become completely filled with great compassion, and as much as they are filled with great compassion they work for the welfare of beings even though those sorts of beings who might become perfected cannot be apprehended except as names, designations, and terms in conventional usage. And you should know the conventional usage, furthermore, is a nonconventional usage, like an echo.
- 76.30 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings have to practice the perfection of giving as a practice where [F.116.b] there is no material thing at all that they will not give away to other beings, where they will even, finally, give away their flesh, so what need is there to say more about external things that beings require in order to be freed from saṃsāra?”
- 76.31 “Lord, what are those requirements?”
- “What, Subhūti, are those requirements? They are these, namely, the perfection of giving is a requirement, the perfection of morality is a requirement, the perfection of patience is a requirement, the perfection of perseverance is a requirement, the perfection of concentration is a requirement, the perfection of wisdom is a requirement, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha are a requirement. They are requirements because, helped by those requirements, beings are freed from saṃsāra.
- 76.32 “Furthermore, Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving give gifts to beings, they exclaim, ‘Come here, sons of a good family! I will ensure that whatever food, or drink, up to or the seven precious stones you require are not insufficient. Guard your morality. I will ensure that the food, or drink, up to or seven precious stones are not insufficient, and relieve whatever other poverty might make you turn to immorality. One way or the other, keeping to the moral code you must gradually reach the end of suffering in one or other of the three vehicles, the Śrāvaka Vehicle, or the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle, or the Great Vehicle of the knowledge of all aspects.’ Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving [F.117.a] thus gather a retinue of beings with the perfection of morality.
- 76.33 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving exclaim to those who are upset and have malicious thoughts, ‘Sons of a good family! You must take from me whatever food, or drink, up to or anything else you require to relieve the poverty that causes you to be upset, or bear malice, or bitterly criticize. I will ensure that you are not destitute, so you must not be upset and bear malice. I am yours and you are mine.<sup>828</sup> The possessions I have are yours, so anyone who has any need please take it. I will ensure that you are not destitute of whatever food, drink, clothes, up to or anything else you require. One way or the other, you must not be governed by rage and malice.’ Bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving thus connect beings with the perfection of patience.

76.34 “ ‘You are getting enraged on account of something that is pointless. There is no existent thing there at all. That rage is an imagination of the unreal, so there is no real basis that is a reason for you to be obsessed, enraged, and bear malice, and having become obsessed, enraged, and malicious, to strike with sticks, hurl weapons, and kill one another—none at all. Therefore, since when you have become upset by the imagination of the unreal you fall into the hells, or into the animal world, or into the world of Yama, [F.117.b] or fall into other terrible forms of life where you experience feelings of unbearable, grating, scorching suffering, well then, pay attention everyone! You will not even find a human birth because of the karma you are saddled with, so meeting with the arising of a buddha does not even come up in conversation. Do not get saddled with such karma for the sake of phenomena that are without a real basis. Pay attention everyone! It is hard to encounter the arising of a buddha. Even to be born human is hard, so do not squander this perfect human birth or else you will end up in an incurable situation in a place that precludes a perfect human birth.’ Bodhisattva great beings thus personally perfect the perfection of patience, connect others to patience, speak in praise of patience, and speak in praise of others being patient as well, welcoming it. Having connected those beings to patience and established them in patience, they cause them to gradually pass into complete nirvāṇa in the three vehicles. It is thus, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving connect beings to the perfection of patience.

76.35 “Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving connect beings to the perfection of perseverance?

76.36 “Subhūti, here when bodhisattva great beings see those who are lazy, they rebuke them: ‘Why are all of you being lazy?’

“They say, ‘It is because we don’t have the wherewithal to get on with it.’

76.37 “Bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving say to those beings, ‘Pay attention everyone! I will ensure that you are supplied with the wherewithal for giving, the wherewithal for morality, the wherewithal for patience, as well as all those other types of things [F.118.a] for making a vigorous effort, so make a vigorous effort.’

76.38 “There, those supplied with what they require by the bodhisattva great beings make a vigorous attempt at physical and mental effort; with physical and mental effort they complete all the wholesome dharmas; with those wholesome dharmas they cultivate the noble dharmas without outflows; and having cultivated those they reach the result of stream enterer; reach the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, and the state of a worthy one; reach a pratyekabuddha's awakening; and fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. It is thus, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving connect beings to the perfection of perseverance.

76.39 "Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving connect beings to the perfection of concentration?"

76.40 "Subhūti, here when bodhisattva great beings see those who are mentally distracted, they rebuke them: 'Why are all of you not absorbed in meditation on the perfection of concentration?'

"They say, 'It is because we don't have the wherewithal to get on with it.'

76.41 "Bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving say to those beings, 'Pay attention everyone! I will supply you with the wherewithal, the sorts of necessary conditions for you not to apply your thoughts to 'this is inner, this is outer, and this is inner and outer.'

76.42 "There, those bodhisattva great beings supply those beings with whatever sorts of conditions are necessary so that they [F.118.b] do not apply thought. With that, those beings, having cut off applied thought, accomplish and dwell in the first concentration; accomplish and dwell in the second, third, and fourth concentration; become absorbed in the meditation on love, compassion, joy, and equanimity; and with those concentrations and immeasurables, cultivate..., up to the eightfold noble path. Having cultivated them, they gradually pass into complete nirvāṇa in the three vehicles.

76.43 "Among them, some will not abandon the awakening path during the period up until they fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. It is thus, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving connect beings to the perfection of meditative stabilization.

76.44 "Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving look after beings with the perfection of wisdom? Subhūti, here when bodhisattva great beings see those who are intellectually confused, they give them advice and instruct them, saying, 'Hey! Why are all of you not cultivating the perfection of wisdom?'

76.45 "When they say, 'It is because we don't have the wherewithal to get on with it,' they advise and instruct those beings, saying, 'Get those requirements from me and give gifts, guard morality, be patient, make a vigorous effort, cultivate the concentrations, and, having completed those aspects, while cultivating the perfection of wisdom [F.119.a] investigate whether a self, or a being, or a living being, or one who lives, or a person, up to or one who knows, or one who sees, or one who does; or the desire realm or form realm, or formless realm; or the six perfections; or the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening; or the result of stream enterer, or the result of once-returner, or the result of non-returner, or the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha's awakening, or unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, or any apprehended dharma at all exists.'

76.46 "Bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not apprehend any phenomenon that can be apprehended and settled down on. They do not settle down on anything, so they do not see any phenomenon that is produced or stopped or is defiled or purified. They do not see that, so they do not think, 'This is hell. This is the animal world. This is the world of Yama. This is the class of asuras. This is a god. This is a human. This one is moral. This one is immoral. This is a stream enterer. This is a once-returner. This is a non-returner. This is a worthy one. This is a pratyekabuddha. This is unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.' It is thus, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving connect beings to the perfection of wisdom.

76.47 "Subhūti, how do bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of giving, and standing in [F.119.b] the perfection of morality, perfection of patience, perfection of perseverance, perfection of concentration, and perfection of wisdom look after..., up to the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening? Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom offer beings what they require and cause beings assisted by those requirements to meditate on the applications of mindfulness; and to meditate on the four right efforts, to meditate on the four legs of miraculous power, and to meditate on the five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path. Assisted by that path, they are freed from saṃsāra in its entirety. It is thus, Subhūti, with the noble dharmas without outflows, that bodhisattva great beings look after beings.

76.48 "Furthermore, Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving see beings without a protector, suffering, and without anything to eat or drink, they bring them to maturity like this: 'Come here, sons of a good family. Take food and drink, clothes and transport, mats and seats, incense, flower garlands, creams, up to the seven precious stones and whatever other requirements from me and make them of benefit to beings. They will be for your advantage, benefit, and happiness for a long time. Do not think that they are for my advantage, not for yours. I have been supplying these for a long time for the welfare of beings, so you should think, "They belong to me personally," and give gifts to others. [F.120.a] By giving, also connect them with morality, connect them with patience, connect them with perseverance, connect them with meditative stabilization, connect them with concentration, connect them with wisdom, up to connect them with the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening. And do not be satisfied with just that, also establish them in the previously mentioned noble dharmas without outflows, and establish them in the result of stream enterer, the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, the state of a worthy one, a pratyekabuddha's awakening, and unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.'

76.49 "Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should bring beings to maturity in such a way that those brought to maturity are freed from the three terrible forms of life, up to they are freed from saṃsāra in its entirety.

76.50 "Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of morality should bring beings to maturity like this: 'Come here, sons of a good family. I will supply you those requirements—food, or drink, up to or any other human requirement—to relieve you of whatever poverty might make you turn to immorality.' Even after having thus established those beings in the perfection of morality, they benefit them so much that when they have been benefited in that way they will take the ten wholesome action ordination, and keep an untattered morality, an untarnished morality, the moral code.

76.51 Similarly, connect this with each, up to the six perfections as well."

76.52 This was the seventy-sixth chapter, "The Armor for Bringing Beings to Maturity," [F.120.b] of "The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines."

77.           CHAPTER 77: TEACHING THE PURIFICATION
                  OF A BUDDHAFIELD

77.1       Then it occurred to venerable Subhūti to think, “What is the path of bodhisattva great beings standing on which bodhisattva great beings have to be armed with such armor?”

77.2       Then the Lord, understanding in his mind the thoughts occurring to Subhūti, said to Subhūti, “Subhūti, the six perfections are the path of the bodhisattva great beings; the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening are the path of the bodhisattva great beings; and the fourteen emptinesses, nine serial absorptions, eight deliverances, ten tathāgata powers, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha are the path of the bodhisattva great beings. Furthermore, Subhūti, all dharmas are the path of the bodhisattva great beings.

77.3       “What do you think, Subhūti, is there a dharma in which bodhisattva great beings do not train, without training in which they will fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening? Subhūti, there is no dharma in which bodhisattva great beings do not train, because without training in all dharmas, bodhisattva great beings are not able to reach the knowledge of all aspects.”

77.4       Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if all dharmas are empty, how will bodhisattva great beings train in all dharmas? Lord, if they say ‘there are this many,’ [F.121.a] or ‘they are these,’ or that these dharmas are ordinary or extraordinary, or with outflows or without outflows, or compounded or uncompounded, or the dharmas of ordinary people, or worthy one dharmas, or pratyekabuddha dharmas, have they elaborated on what cannot be elaborated, or else are they not one?”

77.5       Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! All dharmas are empty. Subhūti, were all dharmas not to be empty, bodhisattva great beings would not fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. But, Subhūti, all dharmas are empty, so bodhisattva great beings do fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.

77.6 “Again, Subhūti, in regard to what you have asked—‘if all dharmas are empty, how will bodhisattva great beings make distinctions between all dharmas such as “there are this many,” or “they are these,” up to or the dharmas of ordinary people, or worthy one dharmas, or pratyekabuddha dharmas?’—Subhūti, were these ordinary beings to know ‘all dharmas are empty,’ then since they would know, bodhisattva great beings would not, having trained in all dharmas, reach the knowledge of all aspects.<sup>829</sup> But, Subhūti, these beings do not know ‘all dharmas are empty,’ so bodhisattva great beings, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, make a presentation of all dharmas and teach [F.121.b] the doctrine to beings.

77.7 “Subhūti, there, right from the beginning, bodhisattva great beings practicing the awakening path should reflect deeply on the fact that here, except for its being an enactment, there is no dharma at all that can be apprehended through its own intrinsic nature. And when they thus reflect deeply on the nature of those dharmas, they do not settle down on the perfections, or the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, or the result of stream enterer, or the result of once-returner, or the result of non-returner, or the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, or unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, or any dharma at all. And why? Because all dharmas are empty of an intrinsic nature of all dharmas, so emptiness does not settle down on emptiness. And when even emptiness cannot be apprehended, what need is there to say more about emptiness settling down on emptiness?

77.8 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings thus abide without settling down on all dharmas. Standing in that training they think, ‘What are these beings doing?’, and looking at what all beings are doing, think, ‘They are grasping at nonexistence.’ It then occurs to the bodhisattva great beings to think, ‘Oh! I will free these beings well from grasping at the unreal.’ So, standing with skillful means in the perfection of wisdom, they give them advice: ‘Come here, all of you! Give gifts, and through that you will get richer and richer. But do not project a sense of false superiority because of those riches. They are totally worthless.’ Similarly, they advise them to guard morality but not project a sense of false superiority because of that morality: ‘It too is totally worthless.’ [F.122.a] Similarly patience, similarly perseverance, similarly concentration, and similarly, they advise them to cultivate wisdom but not project a sense of false superiority because of that wisdom: ‘It is totally worthless.’ Similarly, they advise them to meditate on the result of stream enterer, similarly the result of once-returner, similarly the result of non-returner, similarly the state of a worthy one, similarly a pratyekabuddha's awakening, and similarly, up to all buddhadharmas: 'But do not project a sense of false superiority because of those dharmas. They too are totally worthless.'

77.9 "Thus, while giving advice and instruction and practicing the awakening path, they still do not settle down on any dharma at all. And why? Because, based on having emptiness as their nature, all dharmas are not things that have been settled down on, because they have no intrinsic nature such that they could have been settled down on. Thus, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practice the awakening path but are not located anywhere. By way of not being located, they practice the perfection of giving but they are not located there. They practice the perfection of morality but are not located there. They practice the perfection of patience but are not located there. They practice the perfection of perseverance but are not located there. They practice the perfection of concentration but are not located there. They practice the perfection of wisdom but are not located there.

77.10 "They become absorbed in the first concentration but are not located there. And why? Because the first concentration is empty of an intrinsic nature of a concentration. That which becomes absorbed, that too is empty, and those aspects on account of which they become absorbed, they are empty as well. Similarly, [F.122.b] they reach the second concentration, third concentration, up to the fourth concentration; similarly, love, compassion, joy, and equanimity, up to the formless absorptions; similarly, they reach the eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, and the result of stream enterer but are not located there. They reach the result of once-returner but are not located there; they reach the result of non-returner but are not located there; they reach the state of a worthy one but are not located there; and they reach a pratyekabuddha's awakening but are not located there."

77.11 "Lord, why are they not located?"

"Subhūti, they are not located for two reasons. And what are the two? It is because those results where they might be located have no intrinsic nature, nor does that on account of which they might be located, nor those who might be located. And second, because up until they fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening they are not easily satisfied. They think, 'It is not that I should not reach the result of stream enterer, but even after having reached the result of stream enterer I should not stand there; up to it is not that I should not reach a pratyekabuddha's awakening, but even after having reached a pratyekabuddha's awakening I should not stand there. And why? Because from my production of the first thought I have never produced any other thought except that of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.' And why? Because those bodhisattva great beings, from the first production of the thought, have never produced any other thought except that of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. And similarly, starting from when they entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva up until they reached the tenth level, their thought [F.123.a] never wavered and they never produced any other thought except of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.

77.12 “Subhūti, no matter how much physical, verbal, and mental training those bodhisattva great beings put into effect, it is not other than the thought of awakening. The bodhisattva great beings keep on thinking of awakening without wavering in their mind, producing a path to awakening.”

77.13 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if all dharmas are unproduced, well then, Lord, how will bodhisattva great beings produce a path to awakening?”

77.14 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! All dharmas have not been produced. How so? All dharmas have not been produced for those who do not occasion anything.”

77.15 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise, does the true dharmic nature of dharmas not remain?”

77.16 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! Whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise, the true dharmic nature of dharmas remains, but still, for the sake of those who do not know that establishment of dharmas, bodhisattva great beings produce a path to awakening and with that path free beings from saṃsāra.”

77.17 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, [F.123.b] “Lord, do they reach awakening on that path that has been produced?”

“No,”

77.18 “Lord, do they reach awakening on that path that has not been produced?”

“No.”

77.19 “Lord, do they reach awakening on that path that has not been produced when it is not produced and is produced when it is produced?”

“No.”

77.20 “Lord, do they reach awakening on that path that has neither been produced nor not produced?”

“No.”

77.21 “Well then, Lord, how do they reach awakening?”

Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, awakening is not reached by the path and it is not reached by what is not the path. Just awakening is the path, and just the path is awakening.”

- 77.22 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if just awakening is the path, and just the path is awakening, well then, would not bodhisattva great beings already have reached awakening? Why is it still taught, then, that ‘a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha is on account of the thirty-two major marks of a great person, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, four immeasurables, four formless absorptions, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha?’”
- 77.23 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord asked him in return, “Subhūti, what do you think, [F.124.a] does a buddha reach awakening?”
“No, Lord. Just a buddha is awakening, and just awakening is a buddha.”
- 77.24 “Again, Subhūti, in regard to what you have said—‘Do bodhisattva great beings reach awakening or does it not happen at all?’—Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings, having completed the six perfections, completed the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, and completed the ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening through the wisdom of the unique single instant that is the vajropama meditative stabilization. Having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, from then on they are called tathāgata. They know all dharmas and see all dharmas, therefore they are said to be all-knowing.”
- 77.25 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if all dharmas are isolated from their own intrinsic nature, well then, Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings purify a buddhafiield?”
- 77.26 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here, starting from the first production of the thought, bodhisattva great beings purify their own and others’ final physical basis of suffering, final verbal basis of suffering, and final mental basis of suffering [F.124.b] and, with those purified, purify a buddhafiield.”
- 77.27 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, what is the bodhisattva great beings’ final physical basis of suffering, final verbal basis of suffering, and final mental basis of suffering?”
- 77.28 The Lord replied to venerable Subhūti, “Subhūti, the unwholesome physical action of killing, stealing, and illicit sex because of lust; the unwholesome verbal action of lying, backbiting, insulting, and babbling nonsense; and the unwholesome mental action of coveting, malice, and wrong view are called the bodhisattva great beings’ final physical basis of suffering, final verbal basis of suffering, and final mental basis of suffering.

Bodhisattva great beings purify those final physical, verbal, and mental bases of suffering of themselves and others, and with those purified, purify a buddhafiield.

77.29 “Furthermore, Subhūti, stingy thought is the bodhisattva great beings’ final mental basis of suffering; immoral thought, angry thought, lazy thought, distracted thought, and intellectually confused thought are the bodhisattva great beings’ final mental basis of suffering too. Furthermore, Subhūti, morality that has not been purified is also the bodhisattva great beings’ final mental basis of suffering. Furthermore, Subhūti, separation from the four applications of mindfulness is also the bodhisattva great beings’ [F.125.a] final mental basis of suffering; similarly, separation from the four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path, and from the emptiness meditative stabilization, signlessness meditative stabilization, and wishlessness meditative stabilization is also the bodhisattva great beings’ final mental basis of suffering. Furthermore, Subhūti, while making manifest the result of stream enterer, feeling delight in it is also the bodhisattva great beings’ final mental basis of suffering; up to while making manifest the state of a worthy one, and a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, feeling delight in it is also the bodhisattva great beings’ final mental basis of suffering. Furthermore, Subhūti, the perception of form is the basis of suffering, and the perception of feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness is the basis of suffering; the perception of eyes is the basis of suffering, and the perception of ears, nose, tongue, body, and thinking mind is the basis of suffering; and the perception of female is the basis of suffering and the perception of male is the basis of suffering. The perception of desire realm, perception of form realm, perception of formless realm, perception of wholesome, perception of unwholesome, perception of compounded, and perception of uncompounded, Subhūti, is also the bodhisattva great beings’ final physical basis of suffering, final verbal basis of suffering, and final mental basis of suffering.

77.30 “Having eliminated all those bases of suffering, they personally give gifts and they inspire others [F.125.b] to give as well. They give food to those who want food, give drinks to those who want drink, up to give whatever they require, as appropriate, to those who have requirements, establish others in just those and inspire them to take them up, making that wholesome root into something shared in common by all beings and dedicating it to the purification of a buddhafiield.

77.31 Similarly, connect this with each, up to morality, patience, perseverance, concentration, and wisdom.

- 77.32 “Having filled up this great billionfold world system with the seven precious stones, they personally give it as a gift because of the Three Jewels, inspire other to take up just that too, and dedicate it thus: ‘Through this wholesome root, may my buddhafiield be made of the seven precious stones.’
- 77.33 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings cause divine instrumental music to be played for the buddhas or buddha reliquaries and dedicate it thus: ‘Through this wholesome root, may divine instrumental music pleasing to the mind be constantly and always played in my buddhafiield.’
- 77.34 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings, having filled up this great billionfold world system with a divine fragrance, offer it to the buddhas or buddha reliquaries and dedicate it thus: ‘Through this wholesome root, may a divine fragrance come forth in my buddhafiield.’
- 77.35 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings, having offered food with a hundred flavors to the tathāgatas and the tathāgatas’ śrāvakas, dedicate it thus: [F.126.a] ‘Through this wholesome root, may the śrāvakas in my buddhafiield when I have fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening partake of food with a hundred flavors.’
- 77.36 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings, having put divine creams on the tathāgatas, the tathāgatas’ śrāvakas, tathāgata statues, and tathāgata reliquaries, dedicate it thus: ‘Through this wholesome root, may the beings in my buddhafiield when I have fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening experience perfect feelings of divine touch.’
- 77.37 “Furthermore, Subhūti, it occurs to bodhisattva great beings to think, ‘Just by thinking about it may I give the five sorts of sense objects—forms, sounds, smells, tastes, and feelings—pleasing to the mind to the buddhas, the buddhas’ śrāvakas, and all beings.’ Having thought that and given them, they dedicate it thus: ‘Through this wholesome root, may all the śrāvaka saṅghas and all beings in my buddhafiield when I have fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening come to have the five sorts of sense objects—forms, sounds, smells, tastes, and feelings—pleasing to the mind just by thinking about it.’
- 77.38 “Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings, personally in association with all beings, give the gift of the five sorts of sense objects—forms, sounds, smells, tastes, and feelings—pleasing to the mind to the buddhas and the buddhas’ śrāvakas. [F.126.b]
- 77.39 “Furthermore, Subhūti, it occurs to bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom to think, ‘I will become absorbed in the first concentration and cause others to enter the first concentration as well. Similarly, up to I will cause others to enter the fourth concentration and establish them there. I will establish them in love, compassion, joy, equanimity, up to the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening.’ And they think, ‘Through this wholesome root, may the beings in my buddhafiield when I have fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening not be separated from the two gifts;<sup>830</sup> may they not be separated from the four concentrations; may they not be separated from the four immeasurables; and may they not be separated from the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening.’ In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings purify a buddhafiield, and until all those aspirations are fulfilled do not fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. They cause themselves to be endowed with all those wholesome dharmas and others to be endowed with them as well. They personally have beautiful bodies and those beings that bodhisattva great beings bring to maturity have beautiful bodies as well. They, because of this—namely being assisted by merit—accomplish beautiful, good-looking, and handsome bodies.

77.40 “Thus, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings purify a buddhafiield so that there will not even be the designation of the three terrible forms of life; [F.127.a] there will not even be the designation of different views; there will not even be the designation of greed, hatred, and confusion; there will not even be the words male or female; there will not even be words for the two vehicles; there will not even be the designation of impermanence, suffering, or self; there will not even be the designation of appropriation; there will not even be the designation of self-grasping and taking something as ‘mine’; there will not even be the designation of attachment or obsession; there will not even be the designation of distortion; and there will not even be the designation of a presentation of the results.<sup>831</sup> Quite the opposite, a proclamation of the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness meditative stabilization will issue forth; a proclamation that those beings thus want to give away outer and inner things will issue forth; from trees stirred by the wind and from the outer and inner dharmas, words for emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness will issue forth; words for nonproduction and noncessation will issue forth; such a proclamation of the actual intrinsic nature of those dharmas will issue forth; such a proclamation that ‘all dharmas are empty of all dharmas,’ of the actual nature of those dharmas will issue forth; and a teaching of the Dharma will issue forth, proclaiming, ‘Whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise, all dharmas are empty of all dharmas, in that which is empty there is no causal sign, and in that which has no causal sign there is nothing wished for.’ Such a proclamation of Dharma as appropriate for those standing up or sitting down, lying down or walking, will come forth in the day or at night. [F.127.b] It is thus that they purify a buddhafiield.

77.41 “All the lord buddhas, as many as there are in all world systems in the ten directions, raise their voices in praise of that tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha who has fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening in that buddhafiield. All those beings who hear the praise and name of that tathāgata become destined for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. None of the beings become uncertain about whether the Dharma taught by that tathāgata, worthy one, perfect complete buddha is the Dharma or is not the Dharma. And why? Because in the true dharmic nature of all dharmas, there is nothing that is not the Dharma at all. All that is the Dharma. There, those beings overcome by unwholesome roots who have not planted wholesome roots in relation to the buddhas and the buddhas’ śrāvakas, who are influenced by bad friends, who are obstinate about the view of self, up to who are obstinate about every instance of a view, who are standing at the extreme of going on and on forever and at the extreme of annihilation, who, seized by an incorrect grasping,<sup>832</sup> imagine someone not a buddha to be a perfectly complete buddha and imagine a perfectly complete buddha to be someone who is not a buddha, and say about the doctrine that it is not the doctrine. Saying about the doctrine that it is not the doctrine, they reject the doctrine; having rejected the doctrine their bodies disintegrate and after death they go into a terrible form of life, fall into error, and are born in hell. Those lord buddhas, having fully awakened [F.128.a] to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, liberate those beings included in saṃsāra from those terrible forms of life and from being riddled with views. Having liberated them, they establish them in the class of those destined for the perfect state and, having established them there, they will not, from then on, be born in hell.

77.42 “Subhūti, that is how bodhisattva great beings purify a buddhafiield, and those beings who have been purified do not abide in any ordinary dharmas or extraordinary dharmas, dharmas with outflows or dharmas without outflows, compounded dharmas or uncompounded dharmas at all. And up until their unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, they all remain destined for the perfect state.”

77.43 This was the seventy-seventh chapter, “Teaching the Purification of a Buddhafiield,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.” [B55]

78.

CHAPTER 78: TEACHING THE SKILLFUL MEANS FOR THE PURIFICATION OF A BUDDHAFIELD

78.1 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, are bodhisattva great beings ‘destined’ or rather ‘not necessarily destined’?”

78.2 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “bodhisattva great beings are destined, not not necessarily destined.”

78.3 “Lord, which group, the śrāvaka group or the pratyekabuddha group, are they destined to be in?”

78.4 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings are not necessarily destined to be in the śrāvaka group or in the pratyekabuddha group; they are destined to be in the buddha group.”

78.5 “Lord, are bodhisattva great beings [F.128.b] who have produced the first thought destined [to be in the buddha group], or are those who are irreversible from awakening destined, or are those who are in a last existence destined?”

78.6 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who have produced the first thought are destined; those who are irreversible are also destined; and those who are in a last existence are destined as well.”

78.7 “Lord, do bodhisattva great beings who have become destined take birth in terrible forms of life?”

78.8 “No, Subhūti. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who have become destined do not take birth in terrible forms of life. What do you think, Subhūti, does the Aṣṭamaka, or stream enterer, or once-returner, or non-returner, or worthy one, or pratyekabuddha take birth in terrible forms of life?”

“No, Lord.”

78.9 “Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who have become destined also do not take birth in terrible forms of life. Subhūti, it is impossible that bodhisattva great beings who, starting from the first production of the thought, give gifts, guard morality, make a practice of being patient, make a vigorous effort, become absorbed in meditative stabilization, cultivate wisdom, cultivate love, compassion, joy, and equanimity toward all beings, and remain in order to eliminate all unwholesome dharmas would take birth in terrible forms of life. It is impossible that they would take birth among the long-lived gods. It is impossible that they would take birth in areas where the wholesome dharmas are practiced incorrectly or with a sheep-like obtuseness. It is impossible that they would take birth in areas where there are robbers and barbarians, at the outer limits of society. It is impossible that they would take birth in families with wrong views. [F.129.a] It is impossible that they would take birth where there is no word Buddha, no word Dharma, and no word Saṅgha. It is impossible that they would take birth where they follow the view that action has no consequences. It is also impossible, Subhūti, that bodhisattva great beings, having set out from the first production of the thought for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening with a surpassing aspiration, would ply the ten unwholesome actions.”

78.10 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if bodhisattva great beings with such wholesome roots do not take birth in those places—namely, the negative ones—then where were those wholesome roots when the Tathāgata took birth in the animal world, as you personally have taught in your birth stories?”

78.11 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, the Bodhisattva Great Being did not take birth as an animal because of unwholesome karma, rather he intentionally, with skillful means, appropriated whatever sort of body would be of benefit to beings for the sake of beings.

78.12 “Subhūti, do worthy ones and pratyekabuddhas have the skillful means of the bodhisattva great beings who are endowed with such skillful means that, when they have taken birth in the animal world, they inspire those very beings who are leading them to slaughter to take up great patience, calming them and establishing them in it, giving up their body for the sake of those beings and not hurting those beings?

78.13 “Subhūti, also because of this one of many explanations you should know that bodhisattva great beings [F.129.b] thus complete great compassion for the welfare of beings and for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and take birth in the animal world, but still are not sullied by the defects of the forms of life in the animal world.”

78.14 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, in which wholesome dharmas do bodhisattva great beings stand when they appropriate such a body?”

- 78.15 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, is there some sort of wholesome dharma that bodhisattva great beings do not have to complete? The completion of all wholesome dharmas is unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, so starting from the first production of the thought up until seated at the site of awakening, there is no wholesome dharma at all that bodhisattva great beings do not have to complete. They will not fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening unless they complete all those wholesome dharmas. It is impossible. Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should train in the completion of all wholesome dharmas from the first production of the thought onward. When they have trained in them, they reach the knowledge of all aspects, and all connections with residual impressions are eliminated.”
- 78.16 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, how, through a noble action without outflows, do bodhisattva great beings endowed with bright dharmas take birth in terrible forms of life or in the animal world?”
- 78.17 “Subhūti, are tathāgatas [F.130.a] noble beings without outflows?”
“So they are, Lord. So they are, Sugata. Tathāgatas are noble beings without outflows.”
- 78.18 “Subhūti, tathāgatas magically produce a living being included in the animal world, and having magically produced it there they have it do the work of a buddha, do they not?”
“Yes they do, Lord.”
- 78.19 “Subhūti, does the Tathāgata turn into an animal?”
“No, Lord.”
- 78.20 “Subhūti, does the Tathāgata experience the sufferings of the animal world?”
“No, Lord.”
- 78.21 “Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings are endowed with noble bright dharmas without outflows but still appropriate such a body at will, as appropriate and according to circumstances, and with that body brings beings to maturity.
- 78.22 “What do you think, Subhūti, when a worthy one has magically created a magical creation, does that magical creation do the work of the worthy one and on account of that work produce joy in others?”
“It is so, Lord.”
- 78.23 “Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings are endowed with the noble bright dharmas without outflows but still appropriate such a body and work for the welfare of beings. They do not, however, suffer on account of such a body and do not experience feelings of suffering.

78.24 “What do you think, Subhūti, when a magician makes an elephant’s body, or a horse’s body, or a bull’s body, conjured up by magic, appear, or when they make the bodies of various other types of living beings [F.130.b] appear, do those turn into an elephant, or turn into a horse, or turn into a bull, or turn into those bodies of various other types of living beings?”

“No, Lord.”

78.25 “Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings endowed with the noble bright dharmas without outflows make such bodies appear at will. But even though they work for the welfare of beings, they still do not suffer on account of such a body and do not experience such types of feelings of suffering.”

78.26 Then venerable Subhūti said to the Lord, “Lord, bodhisattva great beings endowed with such noble knowledge without outflows, who appropriate whatever sort of a body is capable of working for the welfare of beings, are those with great skill in means. Lord, standing in those bright dharmas, do bodhisattva great beings utilize such skillful means but still are not affected by those actions?”

78.27 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom are endowed with such skillful means as those. Endowed with those skillful means, they work for the welfare of beings in world systems as many as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in the east, south, west, north, and the intermediate directions, but they have no contact with them at all. And why? Because those bodhisattva great beings do not apprehend any dharma at all that could be contacted, that makes contact, or where contact could be made. And why? Because all three of those dharmas are empty of an intrinsic nature. [F.131.a] Hence emptiness does not contact emptiness and emptiness does not contact any dharma at all, and emptiness is also not something that can be contacted. That, Subhūti, is the emptiness of not apprehending. Standing there, the bodhisattva great beings fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”

78.28 “Lord, do bodhisattva great beings stand only in the perfection of wisdom but not in other dharmas?”

“Subhūti, is there any dharma not included in the perfection of wisdom?”

78.29 “Lord, if the perfection of wisdom is empty of an intrinsic nature, how could all dharmas be included in the perfection of wisdom? Lord, there is no dharma at all that is included and that is not included in emptiness.”

78.30 “Subhūti, all dharmas are empty of all dharmas, so all dharmas are not not included in emptiness.”<sup>833</sup>

“Lord, all dharmas are empty of all dharmas.”

78.31 “Subhūti, if all dharmas are empty of all dharmas, all dharmas are included in emptiness, are they not?”

“So it is, Lord.”

78.32 “Subhūti, you should understand from this one of many explanations that bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom like that utilize such skillful means as those.”

78.33 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom, standing in the emptiness of all dharmas, find and produce within themselves the perfection of clairvoyance that grows from wholesome roots [F.131.b] planted in relation to those lord buddhas, a clairvoyance that they stand in when they travel to world systems as many as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in the eastern direction, attend on the lord buddhas dwelling and maintaining themselves in those world systems, and listen to them teaching the doctrine?”

78.34 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom see all those world systems, as many as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in the eastern direction, as empty of an intrinsic nature, and those lord buddhas who are standing there as empty of an intrinsic nature too, as nothing but descriptions based on name and conventional term designations, and see all those designations as empty of an intrinsic nature as well. If those world systems were not empty of an intrinsic nature, and those lord buddhas were not empty of an intrinsic nature, and those practices that are designations were also not empty of an intrinsic nature, there would then just be a partial emptiness. But such a partial emptiness is not apprehended, so all dharmas are empty of all dharmas, and therefore bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means find and produce within themselves the perfection of clairvoyance, and standing in that clairvoyance find and produce within themselves the divine eye, divine hearing, performance of miraculous power, knowledge of others’ thoughts, recollection of past lives, and knowledge of deaths and births.

78.35 “Without the clairvoyances bodhisattva great beings cannot fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening; therefore, the bodhisattva great beings’ [F.132.a] awakening is included within this perfection of clairvoyance, and awakening has to be pursued through these clairvoyances. While in pursuit they see all wholesome dharmas with their divine eye, connect others to all wholesome dharmas, but do not settle down on those wholesome dharmas. And why? Because all those wholesome dharmas are empty of an intrinsic nature, and emptiness does not settle down on anything. In emptiness there is no experience to be relished, so there is nothing to be settled down on and nothing to be experienced. Therefore bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom find and produce the divine eye within themselves, and with the divine eye those bodhisattva great beings standing in the true nature of dharmas produce bodies of the kind that teach the doctrine to beings, but still do not apprehend beings or the designation of beings.

78.36 “It is thus, by way of not apprehending anything, that bodhisattva great beings find and produce within themselves the perfection of clairvoyance. With those clairvoyances they make the dharmas that need to be made with clairvoyance. With the purified divine eye that transcends the human, those bodhisattva great beings see world systems in the east, south, west, and north, in the intermediate directions, and below and above. With the performance of miraculous power they go there, and by giving, or being moral, or being patient, or persevering, or concentration, or wisdom, or by the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, or the concentrations, or deliverances, or meditative stabilizations, or absorptions, or śrāvaka dharmas, or pratyekabuddha dharmas, or bodhisattva dharmas, or buddha dharmas, work for the welfare of beings [F.132.b] doing what needs to be done for those beings.

78.37 “There they give a Dharma discourse to beings who are stingy, teaching the Dharma like this: ‘Give gifts. Poverty is suffering. If, because of poverty, you cannot work for your own welfare, what need is there to say more about the welfare of another? So, you should give gifts, be happy yourself, and make others happy too. Do not feed on each other’s flesh or else you will not find freedom from the three terrible forms of life.’

78.38 “They give a Dharma discourse on morality to beings who are immoral, teaching the Dharma like this: ‘Hey, all of you! Immorality is suffering. If, because of immorality, you cannot work for your own welfare, what need is there to say more about the welfare of another? The maturation of immorality is in hell, the animal world, and the world of Yama; if you fall into the three terrible forms of life you cannot even extricate yourself, never mind others. So do not provide any opportunity at all for even a single immoral thought or else later on you will come to regret it.’

78.39 “They give a Dharma discourse on patience to beings who are upsetting each other and thinking malicious thoughts, teaching the Dharma like this: ‘Hey, all of you! Do not upset one another. You do not get any wholesome dharma at all from upsetting someone. So, when you upset and bear malice toward each other, it is grounds for falling into hell, the animal world, and the world of Yama. Therefore, if you should not entertain any angry and disturbing thought or malicious thought at all, what need is there to say more about providing an opportunity for any other unwholesome thought?’

- 78.40      Similarly, connect this with they connect beings who are lazy to perseverance; connect beings who are distracted to meditative stabilization; [F.133.a] connect beings with intellectual confusion to wisdom; connect beings with a strong libido to meditation on the disagreeable; and cause those who have set out on a wrong path to enter the path, connecting them with the śrāvaka path, or the pratyekabuddha path, or the buddha path, teaching the Dharma like this: ‘All those dharmas you settle down on are empty of an intrinsic nature. You cannot settle down on dharmas that are empty of an intrinsic nature; emptiness does not settle down.’
- 78.41      “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom thus stand in the clairvoyances and work for the welfare of beings. Subhūti, without standing in the clairvoyances, bodhisattva great beings cannot teach the doctrine to beings or cause those who have set out on a wrong path to enter the path—it is impossible.
- 78.42      “To illustrate, Subhūti, a bird without wings cannot fly in the sky. Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings cannot teach the doctrine to beings without resorting to the clairvoyances, so bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should therefore find and produce within themselves the clairvoyances. With those clairvoyances that they have found and produced within themselves, they easily do what they want to do for the welfare of beings.
- 78.43      “With their divine eye they see those world systems, as many as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River. They see those living beings who have taken birth there, and having seen them, having gone there with magical powers, they know just by turning their minds to it the thoughts of other beings. Having come to know them, they again teach the doctrine with a discourse on giving, or with a discourse on morality, or with a discourse on the noble truths, up to or with a discourse [F.133.b] on complete nirvāṇa.
- 78.44      “With their divine ear they hear human and nonhuman sounds. They hear all those lord buddhas giving Dharma discourses in world systems as many as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in the eastern direction, and having heard them they take those up for suchness. Having taken them up for suchness, they again teach the doctrine to beings with a discourse on giving, up to or with a discourse on complete nirvāṇa.
- 78.45      “They are endowed with an extremely pure knowledge of the ways of thinking. With that knowledge of the ways of thinking they come to know the thoughts of beings, again teaching them the doctrine like that with a discourse on giving, or with those discourses..., up to on complete nirvāṇa.
- 78.46      “They recollect their own and others’ various previous states of existence. With that knowledge recollecting previous states of existence they are thus aware, ‘This is the name of the previous tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha,' and, 'There were this many in his retinue of śrāvakas.' They again teach the doctrine to those beings who admire their recollection of previous states of existence with a discourse on giving, up to or with a discourse on complete nirvāṇa.

78.47 "With their magical powers they go to many world systems, attend on the lord buddhas, and plant wholesome roots in relation to those lord buddhas. Having planted those wholesome roots, they again return from those same world systems. Endowed with an extremely pure knowledge of the extinction of outflows, they teach the doctrine to those beings with a discourse on giving, up to or with a discourse on complete nirvāṇa.

78.48 "In that way, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should find and produce within themselves the clairvoyances. With those [F.134.a] clairvoyances completely mastered they will appropriate whatever body they want to appropriate, but still they will not get happiness or suffering, or mental happiness or mental anguish; they will not have attachment or rage.

78.49 "To illustrate, Subhūti, a man magically created by a tathāgata does all the work that has to be done but still is not affected by happiness or suffering. Similarly, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings standing in the perfection of wisdom, sporting in the clairvoyances in world systems as many as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River, give Dharma discourses exactly according to beliefs but still are not affected by happiness or suffering.

78.50 "Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should sport in and meditate on the clairvoyances in such a way that while sporting in the clairvoyances it will purify a buddhafiield and bring beings to maturity. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings cannot fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening unless they have purified a buddhafiield and brought beings to maturity. And why? Subhūti, it is because unless the branches of the bodhisattva great beings' awakening have been completed, there is no unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening."

78.51 The Lord having said this, venerable Subhūti asked him, "Lord, what are the branches of the bodhisattva great beings' awakening, having completed which the bodhisattva great beings will fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?"

78.52 Venerable Subhūti having asked this, the Lord said to him, [F.134.b] "Subhūti, all wholesome dharmas are the branches of the bodhisattva great beings' awakening."

78.53 "Lord," he asked, "what are those wholesome dharmas by means of which the bodhisattva great beings will full awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?"

78.54 Venerable Subhūti having asked this, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, starting from the first production of the thought, that nonconceptualization even when practicing the perfection of giving is a wholesome dharma. And how, when giving, is there nonconceptualization? Based on the emptiness of an intrinsic nature, there is no conceptualization of giving as ‘this is giving’; there is no conceptualization of ‘it has to be given to that one,’ or ‘I have to give’—none of those three. With that perfection of giving they free themselves from saṃsāra and free others as well. Subhūti, those wholesome dharmas are the bodhisattva great beings’ path to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Subhūti, past, future, and present bodhisattva great beings have gone beyond, will go beyond, and are going beyond on that path.

78.55 “Similarly, bodhisattva great beings have to complete the perfections of morality, patience, perseverance, concentration, and wisdom; the four concentrations, four immeasurables, and four formless absorptions; the four applications of mindfulness, four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path; the three gateways to liberation, fourteen emptinesses, eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, dhāraṇī gateways, and meditative stabilization gateways; and the detailed and thorough knowledges, [F.135.a] up to eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha—as many wholesome dharmas as there are—the entire bodhisattva’s path. Having completed those wholesome dharmas, bodhisattva great beings will reach the knowledge of all aspects, and having reached that, will turn the wheel of the Dharma.”

78.56 This was the seventy-eighth chapter, “Teaching the Skillful Means for the Purification of a Buddhafield,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

79.           CHAPTER 79: TEACHING THE NONEXISTENCE
                  OF AN INTRINSIC NATURE

79.1       Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if those dharmas are the bodhisattva dharmas, well then, Lord, what are the buddhadharmas?”

79.2       The Lord replied, “Again, Subhūti, in regard to what you have asked—‘If those dharmas are the bodhisattva dharmas what, then, are the buddhadharmas?’—Subhūti, just those bodhisattva dharmas are the buddhadharmas as well. When bodhisattva great beings have completely awakened to those dharmas in all aspects and have reached the knowledge of all aspects, they eliminate all the residual impression connections. They will fully awaken to those, but tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas have fully awakened to all dharmas through the wisdom of the unique single instant. That, Subhūti, is the difference between bodhisattva great beings and the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas.

79.3       “To illustrate, Subhūti, even though a candidate is one thing and a result-recipient another, still both are not not the highest person. Similarly, Subhūti, [F.135.b] bodhisattva great beings stand on the unobstructed path, but tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas have reached a knowledge of all dharmas without obscurations. That, Subhūti, is the difference between bodhisattva great beings and tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas.”

79.4       The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti inquired further of him, “Lord, if all dharmas are empty of their own marks, how can you apprehend specific features in all dharmas that are empty of their own marks and make the distinctions, ‘This is a being in hell, this is one in the animal world, this is one in the world of Yama, this is a god, this is a human, this one is on the Gotra level, this one is an Aṣṭamaka, this is a stream enterer, this is a once-returned, this is a non-returned, this is a worthy one, this is a pratyekabuddha, this is a bodhisattva, and this is a tathāgata, worthy one, perfect complete buddha’? Lord, just as those persons cannot be apprehended, so too karma cannot be apprehended, and just as karma cannot be apprehended, so too the maturation cannot be apprehended either.”

79.5 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! It is exactly as you say! Karma and the maturation of karma cannot be apprehended in all dharmas that are empty of their own marks. Those who do not understand that all dharmas are empty of their own marks behave badly or behave well, or accumulate karma with outflows or without outflows. Through the karma from behaving badly they fall into the three [F.136.a] terrible forms of life; through the karma from behaving well they are born among gods and humans; through wholesome karma without flaws they are born in the form realm and the formless realm. There the bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of giving, up to practice the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, producing those bodhisattva dharmas in a practice without flaws. Having produced them, they become absorbed in the vajropama meditative stabilization endowed with the surrounding limbs of awakening, and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, they work for the welfare of beings. Because they have worked for their welfare they are not lost, and because they are not lost, they do not from then on take birth in the five forms of life in saṃsāra.”

79.6 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, does the Lord, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, apprehend the five forms of life in saṃsāra?”

“No, Subhūti.”

79.7 “Lord, does a tathāgata apprehend bright, or dark, or bright and dark, or neither bright nor dark dharmas?”

“No, Subhūti.”

79.8 “Lord, if they have not apprehended them, how have they designated hell, the animal world, and the world of Yama; how have they designated gods and humans; how have they designated stream enterer; how have they designated once-returner, non-returner, worthy one, and pratyekabuddha; how have they designated bodhisattva; and how have they designated tathāgata, worthy one, perfect complete buddha?” [F.136.b]

79.9 “Subhūti, do these beings know that phenomena are empty of their own marks?”

“No, Lord.”

79.10 “Subhūti, if these beings were thus to know ‘phenomena are empty of their own marks,’ bodhisattva great beings would not set out to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and would not, when they have entered into unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, free beings from the three terrible forms of life, up to the five forms of life in saṃsāra. But, Subhūti, these beings do not thus know that phenomena are empty of their own marks, and because they do not know, they are not freed from the three terrible forms of life, and the five forms of life in saṃsāra. Therefore, bodhisattva great beings, having heard from those lord buddhas that ‘phenomena are empty of their own marks,’ set out to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening for the sake of beings.

79.11 “These phenomena do not exist in the way that foolish ordinary people have settled down on them. These beings, having themselves constructed unreal phenomena and apprehended them, have the perception of a being where there is no being, the perception of form where there is no form, the perception of feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., and consciousness where there is no consciousness, up to the perception of compounded and un-compounded dharmas where there are no compounded and un-compounded dharmas. With their minds distorted because of the error of constructing the unreal, they accumulate physical, verbal, and mental karma and are not freed from the five forms of life in saṃsāra. Therefore, bodhisattva great beings, having included all wholesome dharmas in the practice [F.137.a] of the perfection of wisdom, pursue the bodhisattva practice, and pursuing that fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, they free beings from the five forms of life in saṃsāra.”

79.12 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if all phenomena are empty of their own marks, well then, how do bodhisattva great beings fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening and free beings from the five forms of life in saṃsāra?”

79.13 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, expound, explain, set forth, and establish the four noble truths—suffering, the origination of suffering, the cessation of suffering, and the path leading to the cessation of suffering. Included in these four noble truths are all the wholesome dharmas on the side of awakening, as many as there are, and through those dharmas on the side of awakening there is a presentation of the Three Jewels (which three?—these, namely, the Buddha Jewel, Dharma Jewel, and Saṅgha Jewel), and when the Three Jewels have appeared, beings are freed from the five forms of life in saṃsāra.”

79.14 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, will beings pass into complete nirvāṇa on account of knowing suffering or will they pass into complete nirvāṇa [F.137.b] on account of suffering? Will they come to be in complete nirvāṇa on account of knowing the origination of suffering or will they come to be in complete nirvāṇa on account of the origination of suffering? Will they come to be in complete nirvāṇa on account of knowing the cessation of suffering or will they come to be in complete nirvāṇa on account of the cessation of suffering? Will they come to be in complete nirvāṇa on account of knowing the path leading to the cessation of suffering or will they come to be in complete nirvāṇa on account of the path leading to the cessation of suffering?”

79.15 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, they will not pass into complete nirvāṇa on account of knowing suffering, nor on account of suffering; not on account of knowing the origination of suffering, nor on account of the origination of suffering; not on account of knowing the cessation of suffering, nor on account of the cessation of suffering; and they will not pass into complete nirvāṇa on account of knowing the path leading to the cessation of suffering nor on account of the path leading to the cessation of suffering. Subhūti, I have said that they will pass into complete nirvāṇa on account of the sameness of the noble truths—they will not pass into complete nirvāṇa on account of knowing suffering, nor on account of suffering; not on account of knowing the origination of suffering, nor on account of the origination of suffering; not on account of knowing the cessation of suffering, nor on account of the cessation of suffering; and not on account of knowing the path leading to the cessation of suffering nor on account of the path leading to the cessation of suffering.”

79.16 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, what is the sameness of the four noble truths?” [F.138.a]

79.17 “Subhūti,” he replied, “it is where there is no knowledge of suffering and no suffering; where there is no knowledge of the origination of suffering and no origination of suffering; where there is no knowledge of the cessation of suffering and no cessation of suffering; and where there is no knowledge of the path leading to the cessation of suffering and no path leading to the cessation of suffering.

79.18 “Furthermore, Subhūti, whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise, the suchness of the four noble truths, their unmistakable suchness and unaltered suchness, the true nature of dharmas, the certification of dharmas, and the establishment of dharmas remain as just the dharma-constituent. Such a dharma-constituent is a natural state not robbed of mindfulness, the true nature of dharmas that is never ruined. Bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom practice the truths in order to awaken, one way or the other, to the truths.”<sup>834</sup>

79.19 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom practice in order to awaken to the truths? How, while practicing, do they awaken to the

truths? How, having awakened, do they practice for suchness? And how, having practiced, do they not fall to the śrāvaka level, not fall to the pratyekabuddha level, but rather enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva?"

79.20 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Subhūti, there is no dharma the limit of which bodhisattva great beings do not see. When they do not see any dharma, they then do not apprehend it.<sup>835</sup> Not apprehending anything they see that all dharmas are empty; they see that all those dharmas included in the truths [F.138.b] or not included in the truths<sup>836</sup> are empty. Seeing like that, they enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva and stand at the Gotra level. Those bodhisattvas standing at the Gotra level do not fall onto a peak<sup>837</sup>—a peak that, when fallen on, would be a fall to the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level.

79.21 "Standing at the Gotra level, those bodhisattva great beings generate the four concentrations, and generate the four immeasurables and the four formless absorptions. Standing at that calm abiding<sup>838</sup> level they make a detailed examination of all dharmas and also realize the four noble truths. Even though they comprehend suffering, they do not produce any thought with suffering as its objective support; they abandon the origination of suffering, but they do not produce any thought with origination as its objective support; they actualize the cessation of suffering, but they do not produce any thought with cessation as its objective support; they cultivate the path to the cessation of suffering, but they do not produce any thought with the path as its objective support. On the contrary, with a thought inclined to awakening, they see all dharmas for what they really are."

79.22 "Lord, what are 'all dharmas as they really are'?"

"Subhūti, it is seeing all dharmas as emptiness."

79.23 "Lord, how do they see all dharmas as empty?"

"Subhūti, they see like this—that all dharmas are empty of their own marks. But even though they see with such an insight that 'all dharmas are empty,' they still do not see an intrinsic nature on which they might stand and fully awaken to awakening; they see no such intrinsic nature at all."

79.24 "In that case, Lord, is awakening a nonexistent thing?"

"Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! It is exactly [F.139.a] as you say! Awakening is a nonexistent thing. It has not been made by buddhas, it has not been made by pratyekabuddhas, it has not been made by worthy ones, and it has not been made by those bodhisattva great beings who are practicing for it. On the contrary, it is because beings do not know and do not see things as they really are that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means teach the doctrine to beings."

79.25 This was the seventy-ninth chapter, "Teaching the Nonexistence of an Intrinsic Nature," of "The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines."

80. CHAPTER 80: TEACHING THAT THERE IS NO
DEFILEMENT OR PURIFICATION

80.1 Then venerable Subhūti inquired of the Lord,<sup>839</sup> “Lord, if all dharmas are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, if they have not been made by buddhas, have not been made by pratyekabuddhas, have not been made by worthy ones, have not been made by non-returners, have not been made by once-returners, have not been made by stream enterers, and have not been made by those bodhisattva great beings who are practicing for this awakening, well then, Lord, why in these dharmas is there a distinction made between them, or a presentation of them thus: ‘These are beings in hell, these in the animal world, these in the world of Yama, these are gods, these are humans; because of this karma they are in hell, because of this in the animal world, because of this in the world of Yama, because of this they are gods, because of this humans, because of this Brahmakāyika, up to Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana gods; because of this karma they are stream enterers, up to because of this karma they are pratyekabuddhas, because of this karma they are bodhisattvas, and because of this karma they are tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas?’ [F.139.b] Lord, in a dharma that is not real there is no action such that, on account of such an action, they would go to hell, or to the animal world, or to the world of Yama, or take birth as a god or human, up to a Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana god; or reach the result of stream enterer, or reach the result of once-returner, or the result of non-returner, or the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha’s awakening; or be a bodhisattva, or practice the awakening path, or reach the knowledge of all aspects, or, having reached that, cause beings to be liberated from saṃsāra.”

80.2 Venerable Subhūti having inquired about that, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! It is exactly as you say! Subhūti, whereas in a dharma that is not real there is no karma, there is no action,<sup>840</sup> and there is no result, unlettered, foolish, ordinary people uneducated about the noble

dharmas do not know that dharmas are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, and because of thought that has arisen on account of error,<sup>841</sup> accumulate a variety of karma. Certain sorts of bodies come into being because of that: the bodies of beings in hell, or in the animal world, or in the world of Yama, or of gods, or of humans, up to of the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana gods come into being. In a dharma that is not real there is no action, there is nothing being done, and there is no result—that which is not real is just not real.

80.3 “Again, Subhūti, in regard to what you have said—in a dharma that is not real [F.140.a] there is no action such that, on account of such an action, they would reach..., up to the result of stream enterer, or reach..., up to the state of a worthy one, or a pratyekabuddha’s awakening; or be a bodhisattva great being practicing the knowledge of path aspects, or reach the knowledge of all aspects of a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha, or, having reached that, cause beings to be liberated from saṃsāra—Subhūti, what do you think, is the path not a nonexistent thing, or is the result of stream enterer not a nonexistent thing, or is the result of once-returner not a nonexistent thing, or is the result of non-returner not a nonexistent thing, or is the state of a worthy one not a nonexistent thing, or is a pratyekabuddha’s awakening not a nonexistent thing, or is the knowledge of path aspects not a nonexistent thing, up to or is the knowledge of all aspects not a nonexistent thing?”

80.4 “Lord, the path is a nonexistent thing..., up to the knowledge of all aspects are nonexistent things.”

80.5 “Subhūti, well then, does a nonexistent phenomenon reach a nonexistent phenomenon?”

“No, Lord.”

80.6 “So then, Subhūti, that which is a nonexistent thing and that which is the path, both of those phenomena are neither conjoined with nor disjoined from anything, are formless, do not show themselves, are not obstructed, and have only one mark—that is, no mark. Therefore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means dissuade beings [F.140.b] who settle down on the aggregates, who settle down on an existent thing because of four errors—the perception of impermanence as permanence, the perception of suffering as happiness, the perception of the selfless as self, and the perception of the unclean as clean—from believing in an existent thing.”

80.7 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, is there some real basis called suchness and unmistaken suchness, that was or is, that foolish, ordinary people stand on and settle down on as ‘a real basis’; and if

- there is not, how do they accumulate karma, the type of karma on account of which they are not freed from the five forms of life in saṃsāra?"
- 80.8 "Subhūti, no real basis at all has been set down, other than in error, where foolish ordinary persons stand and accumulate karma, not even as much as a part of the tip of a strand of hair. Therefore, Subhūti, to the extent possible I will explain this to you with an illustration in order to cover just this topic in more detail for the intelligent to understand.
- 80.9 "What do you think, Subhūti, when somebody dreaming a dream experiences a sense of gratification through the five sorts of sense objects, is there any corresponding real basis for the dreamer of the dream?"
- 80.10 "Lord, if even just the dream is not there, how could there ever be a real basis where the dreamer of the dream stands and experiences a sense of gratification through the five sorts of sense objects?"
- 80.11 "What do you think, Subhūti, are there any compounded or un-compounded dharmas, with outflows or without outflows, that are not like a dream?"
- 80.12 "Lord, there are not any compounded or un-compounded dharmas, with outflows or without outflows, that are not like a dream." [F.141.a]
- 80.13 "What do you think, Subhūti, in a dream are there the five forms of life in saṃsāra?"
- "No, Lord."
- 80.14 "What do you think, Subhūti, in a dream is there any meditation on a path thanks to which there would be no defilement and there would also be no purification?"
- 80.15 "No, Lord. Lord, that dharma is without a real basis, has no designation, and is not something designated by any utterances, stems, or inflected words." [B56]
- 80.16 The Lord then asked, "What do you think, Subhūti, is there any karma accumulated by the reflection seen on the surface of a mirror, on account of which it will become a being in hell, or in the animal world, or in the world of Yama, or a god, or a human?"
- 80.17 "No, Lord. Lord, if that reflection itself, other than coaxing foolish ordinary persons into believing it is true, has no real basis, how could it ever have accumulated any karma, on account of which it becomes a being in hell, or in the animal world, or in the world of Yama, or a god, or a human?"
- 80.18 "What do you think, Subhūti, is there any meditation on a path there, thanks to which there would be no defilement and there would also be no purification?"
- 80.19 "No, Lord. Lord, if even just that reflection has no real basis, [F.141.b] how could there be a meditation on a path there, thanks to which there would be no defilement and there would also be no purification?"

- 80.20 “What do you think, Subhūti, is there any karma accumulated by an echo echoing in a river valley, a verdant valley in the foothills, a dense jungle, or a mountain retreat, or from a crevice in a cliff, on account of which it becomes a being in hell, or in the animal world, or in the world of Yama, or a god, or a human, or a god living in the desire realm, or a god living in the form realm, up to or a god in the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana?”
- 80.21 “No, Lord. Lord, if even that echo itself has no real basis, how could it ever have accumulated any karma, on account of which it becomes a being in hell, or in the animal world, or in the world of Yama, or a god, or a human, or a god living in the desire realm, or a god living in the form realm, up to or a god in the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana?”
- 80.22 “What do you think, Subhūti, is there any meditation on a path in that echo, thanks to which there would be no defilement and there would also be no purification?”
- 80.23 “No, Lord. Lord, if even just that echo is absolutely not there, how could there be any meditation on a path there, thanks to which there would be no defilement and there would also be no purification?”
- 80.24 “What do you think, Subhūti, is there any karma accumulated by the perception of water in a mirage where there is no water, by the perception of a river where there is no river, by the perception of a city [F.142.a] where there is no city, or by the perception of a park where there is no park, on account of which it goes to hell, up to or goes to the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana?”
- 80.25 “No, Lord. Lord, when, other than being an error of perception, a state of visual delusion, there is absolutely no water in that mirage, there is no river, no city, and no park, how could it ever have accumulated any karma on account of which it goes to hell, up to or goes to the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana?”
- 80.26 “What do you think, Subhūti, is there any meditation on a path in that error of perception, thanks to which there would be no defilement and there would also be no purification?”
- 80.27 “No, Lord. Lord, if even just that error of perception is absolutely not there, how could there be a meditation on a path there, thanks to which there would be no defilement and there would also be no purification?”
- 80.28 “What do you think, Subhūti, when a magician conjures up a variety of magical creations—conjures up a collection of elephants, or a collection of horses, or a collection of bulls, or a collection of foot soldiers, or a collection of chariots, or a woman’s body, or a man’s body—is there any karma accumulated in those magical creations, on account of which they would go to hell, up to or go to the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana?”

- 80.29 “No, Lord. [F.142.b] Lord, when those magical creations have no real basis at all set down where they might stand and accumulate karma, not even as much as a part of the tip of a strand of hair, how could they ever have accumulated any karma, on account of which they would go to hell, up to or go to the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana?”
- 80.30 “What do you think, Subhūti, in those magical creations is there any meditation on a path, thanks to which there would be no defilement and there would also be no purification?”
- 80.31 “No, Lord. Lord, if even just those creations themselves are absolutely not there, how could there be any meditation on a path there, thanks to which there would be no defilement and there would also be no purification?”
- 80.32 “What do you think, Subhūti, when a tathāgata’s magical creation magically creates another magical creation, is there any karma accumulated in that magical creation, on account of which it would go to hell, up to or go to the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana?”
- 80.33 “No, Lord. Lord, when that magical creation itself has no real basis, how could it ever have accumulated any karma, on account of which it would go to hell, up to or go to the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana?”
- 80.34 “What do you think, Subhūti, in that magical creation is there any meditation on a path, thanks to which there would be no defilement and there would also be no purification?”
- “No, Lord.” [F.143.a]
- 80.35 “Subhūti, is there any defilement or purification happening there?”
- “None at all, Lord,”
- 80.36 “Subhūti, just as there is no defilement happening at all and just as there is no purification happening at all there, similarly there is no defilement or purification. And why? Because defilement happens and purification happens to those beings who live grasping at ‘I’ and grasping at ‘mine,’ but for those with perfect vision, defilement does not happen and purification does not happen. And just as those with perfect vision do not become defiled and do not become purified, similarly there is no defilement or purification.”
- 80.37 This was the eightieth chapter, “Teaching That There is No Defilement or Purification,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

81.

CHAPTER 81: YOGIC PRACTICE OF THE ULTIMATE

- 81.1 Then venerable Subhūti inquired of the Lord, “Lord, for someone who sees reality, defilement does not happen and purification does not happen, and even for someone who does not see reality, defilement does not happen and purification does not happen. This is because, Lord, all dharmas are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. So, there is no defilement and there is no purification for something that does not exist, and there is no defilement and there is no purification even for something that does exist. Lord, if there is no defilement and there is no purification even for something that exists in itself, [F.143.b] and if there is no defilement and there is no purification even for something that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, well then, what is that purification the Lord has been speaking about?”
- 81.2 “Subhūti,” he replied, “I have said that which is the sameness of all dharmas is purification.”
- 81.3 “Lord, what is the sameness of all dharmas?” he asked.
“Subhūti,” he replied, “that suchness, unmistakable suchness, unaltered suchness, the true nature of dharmas, the dharma-constituent, the establishment of dharmas, the certification of dharmas—that establishment of dharmas, that dharma-constituent that remains as it is whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise—that, Subhūti, is called purification. Subhūti, that term is simply used conventionally by way of ordinary convention; it is inexpressible, not amenable to ordinary language, and inexpressible by verbal communication, sound, or word.”
- 81.4 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti inquired further of him, “Lord, if all dharmas are like an illusion, like a dream, like an echo, like an apparition, like a reflection in the mirror, like a mirage, like a city of the gandharvas, and like a magical creation, well then, how, given that dharmas are like an illusion, up to like a magical creation, are nonexistent things and are not materially existent, do bodhisattva great beings produce the thought of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, thinking, 'I will complete the perfection of giving,' up to 'I will complete the perfection of wisdom,' and similarly, 'I will complete the perfection of skillful means, the perfection of prayer, the perfection of power, the perfection [F.144.a] of knowledge, and the perfection of clairvoyance; I will complete absorption into the four concentrations, and I will complete the four immeasurables and four formless absorptions; I will cultivate the four applications of mindfulness, up to I will cultivate the eightfold noble path; I will gain the eight deliverances, nine serial absorptions, ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, great love, great compassion, confident readiness, and the dhāraṇī gateways; I will complete the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha and will gain..., up to the thirty-two major marks and eighty minor signs of a great person; I will complete the immeasurable light that causes an illumination pervading a great billionfold world system; and, having sought out the mental constructions of beings in world systems in the ten directions just by turning my mind to them, I will complete Brahmā's melodious voice that will teach them the Dharma exactly according to their beliefs with a single melodious sound'?"

81.5 "Subhūti," he replied, "what do you think, those dharmas you have described, they are like an illusion, like a dream, like an echo, like an apparition, like a reflection in the mirror, like a mirage, like a city of the gandharvas, and like a magical creation, are they not?"

81.6 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti said to him, "If those dharmas are like an illusion, like a dream, up to like a magical creation, [F.144.b] well then, Lord, how, given that those dharmas are like an illusion, like a dream, up to like a magical creation, would bodhisattva great beings have practiced the perfection of wisdom? Lord, an illusion, a dream, up to a magical creation are unreal, and, Lord, the unreal is unable to practice the perfection of giving, up to practice the perfection of wisdom, up to practice the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening; similarly, the unreal is unable to practice..., up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha and fully awaken to the knowledge of all aspects."

81.7 Venerable Subhūti having said that, the Lord said to him, "Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! The unreal is unable to practice the perfection of giving, up to practice the perfection of wisdom. The unreal is unable to practice..., up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha and fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. What do you think, Subhūti, does the perfection of giving fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, up to does the perfection of wisdom fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening? Do the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, the fourteen emptinesses, the noble truths, the concentrations, the immeasurables, the formless absorptions, the deliverances, the dhāraṇī gateways, emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness, the clairvoyances, [F.145.a] up to the ten tathāgata powers, the four fearlessnesses, the four detailed and thorough knowledges, or the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”

“No, Lord.”

81.8 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! The perfection of giving does not fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha do not fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. And why? Subhūti, it is because all these dharmas have been brought into being and are the outcome of intentions,<sup>842</sup> and the knowledge of all aspects cannot be reached through dharmas that have been brought into being and are the outcome of intentions.

81.9 “But still, Subhūti, all those dharmas establish the path and bring about the path, even though they do not cause a result to be obtained. In those dharmas, what does not arise and does not stop is also what has no mark. Bodhisattva great beings, therefore, starting from the first production of the thought, are aware that those wholesome dharmas they undertake, whatever the wholesome dharma may be—the perfection of giving, up to or the perfection of wisdom, up to or the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha—are all like an illusion. But without completing those dharmas—the perfection of giving, up to the perfection of wisdom, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha—they cannot bring beings to maturity or reach the knowledge of all aspects, so whatever the wholesome dharma the bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom [F.145.b] undertake, they are aware that all are like a dream, up to aware that all are like a magical creation. When they are practicing the perfection of wisdom, they are aware that..., up to the knowledge of all aspects is like a dream, up to aware that it is like a magical creation. They are aware that those beings too are practicing a practice like a dream, up to are practicing a practice like a magical creation. Therefore bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom apprehend all illusion-like phenomena as things that do not exist, and, apprehending them like that, accomplish the knowledge of all aspects, up to apprehend all magical creation-like phenomena as things that do not exist, and, apprehending them like that, reach the knowledge of all aspects.

81.10 “The perfection of giving cannot be grasped, up to the perfection of wisdom cannot be grasped, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha cannot be grasped, so bodhisattva great beings, knowing that all phenomena cannot be grasped, set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. And why? Because all phenomena are like a dream, up to like a magical creation, cannot be grasped and are things that do not exist, and, except that all beings do not know and do not see those phenomena,<sup>843</sup> phenomena that cannot be grasped are not able to reach phenomena that cannot be grasped.

81.11 “Therefore, bodhisattva great beings set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening for the sake of all beings. Starting from the first production of the thought, whatever gifts they give, they give all for the welfare of beings; whatever morality they guard, whatever patience they practice, whatever effort they make, whatever meditative stabilization they become absorbed in, and whatever wisdom [F.146.a] they cultivate, they cultivate all for the sake of beings, not for their own sake.

81.12 “Bodhisattva great beings would not even set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening except for the sake of all beings. When they practice the perfection of wisdom, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom free beings stuck in the perception of a being where there is no being, stuck in the perception of self where there is no self—they free from these errors beings stuck in the perception of a creature, a child of Manu, one born of Manu, a living being, one who lives, a person, an individual, one who does, one who feels, one who makes someone else do, a motivator, one who motivates, one who knows, up to one who sees, up to where there is no one who sees. Having freed them from those errors, they establish them in the realm of immortality. Having established them there, habitual ideas do not arise and do not move about, so the habitual idea of a notion of self, up to the habitual idea of the notion of one who does, do not habitually occur. Having forsaken all that moving, shaking, false projection, and thought construction, they regularly become absorbed in and stay with a mind free from false projection.

81.13 “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with skillful means do not personally settle down on any dharma at all, and also establish all beings in nonsettling as well, but as an ordinary convention, not ultimately.”

81.14 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, is the dharma a tathāgata [F.146.b] has fully awakened to, fully awakened to as an ordinary convention or as an ultimate?”

81.15 “Subhūti, ‘a tathāgata has taught this dharma, a tathāgata has fully awakened to this dharma’ is a convention designated by ordinary language, because in ‘this dharma has fully awakened to that dharma’ there is nothing at all that can be apprehended. And why? Because ‘this dharma has fully awakened to that dharma’ falsely considers something a fact, because there is no attainment or clear realization at all dualistically.”

- 81.16 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if there is no attainment or clear realization at all dualistically, well then, is there an attainment and clear realization nondualistically?”
- 81.17 “Subhūti, there is no clear realization dualistically and there is no clear realization nondualistically either. Here, where there is no duality and no nonduality, that is clear realization. And why? Because ‘this is clear realization; this clearly realizes’ is thought construction. In the sameness of dharmas there is no thought construction, because the absence of thought construction is the sameness of dharmas.”
- 81.18 “Lord, given that dharmas are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, what is this ‘sameness of dharmas?’”
- 81.19 “Subhūti, here where there is no existing thing,<sup>844</sup> no intrinsic existence, and nothing that has been expressed, that is the sameness of dharmas. The sameness of dharmas is not something that can be expressed. Setting aside the sameness of dharmas, there is no dharma at all that can be apprehended. The sameness of dharmas has passed completely beyond [F.147.a] all dharmas. The sameness of dharmas is not the support and not within the range of simple folk or noble beings.”
- 81.20 “Lord, is that sameness of dharmas not within the range even of a tathāgata?”
- “Subhūti, that sameness of dharmas is not within the range of all noble beings, and neither is it within the range of stream enterers, or once-returners, or non-returners, or worthy ones, or pratyekabuddhas, or bodhisattvas, or even tathāgatas.”
- 81.21 “Lord, is a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha not in control of the entire range of dharmas?”<sup>845</sup>
- 81.22 “Subhūti,” he replied, “were the sameness of dharmas one thing and a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha another, a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha might have control of the entire range of dharmas, but, Subhūti, that sameness that is the sameness of foolish, ordinary people, that sameness of faith followers and Dharma followers, that sameness of stream enterers, and similarly, connect this with that sameness of once-returners, non-returners, worthy ones, and pratyekabuddhas, and that sameness of tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas—there is not the slightest difference in that sameness. The sameness of ordinary people and the sameness of noble beings is the same sameness. In a sameness that is the same, the duality ‘this is an ordinary person, up to this is [F.147.b] a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha’ does not exist. In a sameness that is the same, those dharmas ‘this is an ordinary person, up to this is a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha’ all cannot be apprehended.”

- 81.23 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti said to him, “Lord, if, in the sameness of all dharmas, ‘this is an ordinary person, this is a stream enterer,’ up to ‘this is a pratyekabuddha, this is a bodhisattva,’ up to ‘this is a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha’ all cannot be apprehended, in that case foolish, ordinary people, faith followers and Dharma followers, stream enterers, once-returners, non-returners, worthy ones, pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattvas, and even tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas would not have specific features.”
- 81.24 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! In the sameness of dharmas, foolish, ordinary people, up to tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas do not have specific features.”
- 81.25 “Lord, if, in the sameness of dharmas, foolish, ordinary people, faith followers, up to tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas do not have specific features, well then, Lord, from where do the Three Jewels—the Buddha Jewel, Dharma Jewel, and Saṅgha Jewel—appear in the world?” [F.148.a]
- 81.26 “What do you think, Subhūti, is the Buddha Jewel one thing, the Dharma Jewel another, the Saṅgha Jewel another, and the sameness of dharmas yet another?”
- 81.27 The Lord having asked that, venerable Subhūti said to him, “The way I understand the meaning of what you, Lord, have said, is that the Buddha Jewel is not one thing, the Dharma Jewel another, the Saṅgha Jewel another, and the sameness of dharmas yet another. That Buddha Jewel, that Dharma Jewel, that Saṅgha Jewel, and that sameness of dharmas—all those dharmas are not conjoined, are not disjoined, are formless, do not show themselves, and are not obstructed and have only one mark—that is, no mark. So, Lord, how has this presentation of dharmas that have no marks made by the Lord into ‘this is an ordinary person, this is a stream enterer, up to this is a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha’ come about?”
- 81.28 Venerable Subhūti having said that, the Lord asked him, “Subhūti, were a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha not to have awakened fully to complete awakening, and, having not fully awakened, not made a presentation of dharmas, would it be obvious that there is hell; would it be obvious that there is the animal world, the world of Yama, humans and gods; the Cāturmahārājika gods, up to the Paranirmitavaśavartin, Brahmakāyika, up to those [F.148.b] in the Naivasamjñānāsamjñāyatana absorption; the four applications of mindfulness, up to the eightfold noble path; inner emptiness, and similarly, connect this with each, up to the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, up to the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha?”
- “No, Lord.”

81.29 “So then, Subhūti, that a tathāgata makes a presentation of dharmas without moving from the sameness of dharmas is their personal heroic power.”

81.30 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, is the way in which a tathāgata does not move from the sameness of dharmas how ordinary people, up to pratyekabuddhas do not move from the sameness of dharmas, and similarly how bodhisattvas do not move from the sameness of dharmas?”

81.31 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! They do not move from the sameness of dharmas and do not pass beyond the sameness of dharmas. And why? Because just that suchness, unmistaken suchness, unaltered suchness, true nature of dharmas, dharma-constituent, establishment of dharmas, certification of dharmas, and very limit of reality of tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas is itself the suchness, unmistaken suchness, unaltered suchness, true nature of dharmas, dharma-constituent, establishment of dharmas, certification of dharmas, and very limit of reality of ordinary people, and just that is the suchness, unmistaken suchness, unaltered suchness, true nature of dharmas, dharma-constituent, establishment of dharmas, certification of dharmas, and very limit of reality of faith followers and Dharma followers, Aṣṭamakas, stream enterers, once-returners, non-returners, worthy ones, pratyekabuddhas, and bodhisattvas—they all do not pass beyond the sameness of dharmas. And why? Because their suchness, unmistaken suchness, [F.149.a] unaltered suchness, true nature of dharmas, dharma-constituent, establishment of dharmas, certification of dharmas, and very limit of reality is just that—there is no other ‘sameness of dharmas’ than those.”

81.32 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti inquired further of him, “Lord, if just that true dharmic nature of all dharmas is just that true dharmic nature of ordinary people, and if the true dharmic nature of stream enterers, once-returners, non-returners, worthy ones, pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattvas, and tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas is just that as well, in that case, Lord, given that those—namely, form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness—have different marks, given that the true dharmic nature of form is one thing, of feeling another, of perception another, of volitional factors another, and the true dharmic nature of consciousness another; the true dharmic nature of the eyes is one thing, and the true dharmic nature of the ears, nose, tongue, body, and thinking mind another; the true dharmic nature of a form one thing, and the true dharmic nature of a sound, a smell, a taste, a feeling, and dharmas another; the true dharmic nature of the earth element one thing, and the true dharmic nature of the water element, fire element, wind element, space element, and consciousness element another; the true dharmic nature of greed, hatred, and confusion one thing, and the true dharmic nature of instances of views another; of the concentrations [F.149.b] another, of the immeasurables another, of the formless absorptions another; of the applications of mindfulness another, up to of the eightfold noble path another; of emptiness another, of signlessness another, of wishlessness another; of inner emptiness another, up to of the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature another; of the deliverances another, of the absorptions another, of the tathāgata powers another, of the fearlessnesses another, of the detailed and thorough knowledges another, and of the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha another; and given that the true dharmic nature of the compounded element is one thing, and of the un compounded element another, in that case, Lord, how do those dharmas with different marks come to have one mark? How have bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom stayed there and made a differentiation of dharmas? Without making a differentiation of dharmas, bodhisattva great beings are not able to practice the perfection of wisdom, so, Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom, go from level to level, enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva, having entered into the secure state of a bodhisattva transcend the śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels, and having transcended them complete the perfection of the clairvoyances? How do bodhisattva great beings while playing with the clairvoyances complete the perfection of giving, up to complete the perfection of meditative stabilization; while playing, pass on from buddhafi eld [F.150.a] to buddhafi eld, attend on the lord buddhas and plant wholesome roots in relation to them, and with those wholesome roots bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhafi eld?"

81.33 Venerable Subhūti having thus inquired, the Lord said to him, "Subhūti, in regard to what you have said—'If just that true dharmic nature of all dharmas is just that true dharmic nature of ordinary people, and if the true dharmic nature of tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas is just that as well, how is it right that those dharmas with different marks come to have the one mark of the true nature of dharmas?'—Subhūti, what do you think, is that which is the true dharmic nature of form not emptiness, up to is that which is the true dharmic nature of the Tathāgata not emptiness?"

"It is emptiness, Lord."

81.34 "Well then, Subhūti, is there any dharma with a distinct mark apprehended in emptiness—form with a distinct mark, up to consciousness with a distinct mark, up to a tathāgata?"

"No, Lord."

- 81.35        “Subhūti, from just this explanation you should understand that in the true dharmic nature of dharmas there are no ordinary people and there is nothing other than ordinary people, up to there is no tathāgata and there is nothing other than the Tathāgata.”
- 81.36        “Lord, is that true nature of dharmas a compounded phenomenon or is it an un-compounded phenomenon?”
- 81.37        “Subhūti, it is not a compounded phenomenon and it is not an un-compounded phenomenon either. An un-compounded phenomenon other than a compounded phenomenon cannot be apprehended, and a compounded phenomenon other than an un-compounded phenomenon cannot be apprehended either. Therefore, Subhūti, both [F.150.b] those dharmas—the compounded element and the un-compounded element—are not conjoined and not disjoined, are formless, cannot be pointed out, do not obstruct, and have only one mark—that is, no mark. A tathāgata employs this language according to ordinary convention, but not ultimately. In the ultimate there is no physical volitional factor, no verbal volitional factor, and no mental volitional factor, and in the ultimate something other than a physical volitional factor, verbal volitional factor, and mental volitional factor cannot be apprehended. That which is the sameness of compounded and un-compounded dharmas is the ultimate.
- 81.38        “Therefore, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not move from the ultimate, all the while doing the work that bodhisattvas have to do.”
- 81.39        This was the eighty-first chapter, “Yogic Practice of the Ultimate,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

82.

CHAPTER 82: THE UNCHANGING TRUE NATURE OF DHARMAS

- 82.1 Then venerable Subhūti asked the Lord, “Lord, if the sameness of all dharmas is empty of a basic nature, then no dharma does anything, so how, while dharmas are not doing anything and are not anything at all, do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom not move from the ultimate but still work for the welfare of beings by way of giving gifts, kind words, beneficial actions, and consistency between words and deeds?”
- 82.2 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! It is exactly as you say! Subhūti, emptiness does not do anything that has to be done or that does not have to be done; there is nothing at all.<sup>847</sup> Yet, Subhūti, were these beings to understand this by themselves, in that case the Tathāgata would not, without moving from the ultimate, cause the separation of beings from the perception of self, [F.151.a] and having separated them, free them from saṃsāra with emptiness, or similarly, cause the separation of beings from the perception of a being, up to the perception of one who does; the notion of form, up to the perception of consciousness; the perception of eyes, up to the perception of thinking mind; the perception of the earth element, up to the perception of the consciousness element; the perception of compounded element, and having separated them, establish them in the uncompounded element of emptiness.”
- 82.3 “Lord, of what is emptiness empty?”<sup>848</sup>
- “Subhūti, whatever the perception of it, it is empty of that. Subhūti, when one magical creation has created another magical creation, is there any real thing there that is not empty?”
- 82.4 “No, Lord. In a magical creation something real that is not emptiness does not exist. That which is the emptiness and that which is the magical creation are not joined and not disjoined—both those dharmas are empty of emptiness.”<sup>849</sup>

- 82.5 “Subhūti, what do you think, is there a contortion into ‘this is a magical creation; this is an emptiness’?”
- 82.6 “No, Lord. And why? Because in emptiness, those dharmas ‘this is a magical creation’ and ‘this is an emptiness’ are not two.”
- 82.7 “Subhūti, there is no form, or feeling, or perception, or volitional factors, or consciousness that is not a magical creation, and whatever is a magical creation is an emptiness,”
- 82.8 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti then asked him, “Lord, if those ordinary dharmas are magical creations, are these extraordinary dharmas—namely, the four applications of mindfulness, [F.151.b] four right efforts, four legs of miraculous power, five faculties, five powers, seven limbs of awakening, and eightfold noble path; and the ten tathāgata powers, four fearlessnesses, four detailed and thorough knowledges, and eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha—also magical creations? And their results, whatever they are, and those persons that appear on account of them—the stream enterer, once-returner, non-returner, worthy one, pratyekabuddha, bodhisattva, and tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha—are those dharmas magical creations as well?”
- 82.9 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, there where all dharmas are thus magical creations, some are magically created by śrāvakas, some are magically created by pratyekabuddhas, some are magically created by bodhisattvas, some are magically created by tathāgatas, some are magically created by afflictive emotions, and some are magically created by actions,<sup>850</sup> so in that way all dharmas are like a magical creation.”
- 82.10 “Lord, are this ‘abandonment,’ and those other dharmas—the result of stream enterer, result of once-returner, result of non-returner, and state of a worthy one—also magical creations? And are those other dharmas—the pratyekabuddha level, the buddha level, and the elimination of all residual impressions, connections, and afflictions—also magical creations?”
- “Subhūti, whatever the dharma, be it a production or cessation, it is a magical creation.”
- 82.11 “Lord, what is the dharma that is not a magical creation?”
- “Subhūti, that which has no production and no cessation is not a magical creation.”
- 82.12 “And what, Lord, is that?” [F.152.a]
- “It is nirvāṇa—that which has the quality of not coaxing you into believing it is true. Those dharmas are not a magical creation.”
- 82.13 “Lord, according to what you have said, Lord, that ‘not moving from emptiness and not stained by duality either there is no dharma at all that is not emptiness,’ then even that which has the dharma of not coaxing you into believing it is true, nirvāṇa, is magically created.”

82.14 “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so! Subhūti, all dharmas are empty of an intrinsic nature. They have not been made by śrāvakas, have not been made by pratyekabuddhas, have not been made by bodhisattva great beings, and have not been made by tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas. That which is empty of an intrinsic nature is nirvāṇa.”

82.15 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, if a person who is beginning the work is going to understand the emptiness of an intrinsic nature, how should they be advised and instructed?”

82.16 “Subhūti, does a thing that really existed before become a thing that does not exist later? Subhūti, here there is no existent thing, nor a nonexistent thing, and there is not something’s own existence, nor any existence from something else, so how will there ever be anything called ‘emptiness of an intrinsic nature’ that has to be understood?”

82.17 This was the eighty-second chapter, “The Unchanging True Nature of Dharmas,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.” [B57]

83.

CHAPTER 83: CATEGORIZATION OF A BODHISATTVA'S TRAINING

- 83.1 Then the bodhisattva great being Maitreya<sup>851</sup> asked the Lord, "Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom who want to train in a bodhisattva's training [F.152.b] train in form, and how do they train in feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; how do they train in the eye sense field, ear sense field, nose sense field, tongue sense field, body sense field, and thinking mind sense field; how do they train in the form sense field, sound sense field, smell sense field, taste sense field, feeling sense field, and dharma sense field; how do they train in the eye constituent, form constituent, and eye consciousness constituent, ear constituent, sound constituent, and ear consciousness constituent, nose constituent, smell constituent, and nose consciousness constituent, tongue constituent, taste constituent, and tongue consciousness constituent, body constituent, feeling constituent, and body consciousness constituent, and thinking mind constituent, dharma constituent, and thinking-mind consciousness constituent; how do they train in the eye contact sense field, and the ear, nose, tongue, body, and thinking-mind contact sense field; how do they train in ignorance, and how do they train in volitional factors, consciousness, name and form, the six sense fields, contact, feeling, craving, appropriation, existence, birth, and old age and death; how do they train in the truth of suffering, and how do they train in the truth of origination, truth of cessation, and truth of the path; how do they train in dharmas that have form, and how do they train in those that are formless, show themselves and do not show themselves, and are obstructed and not obstructed, compounded and uncompounded, with outflows and without outflows, a basic immorality and not a basic immorality, to be resorted to [F.153.a] and not resorted to, vile and sublime, inner and outer, seen, heard, thought about, and known, past, present, and future, wholesome, unwholesome, and neutral, connected with the desire realm, connected with the form realm, connected with the formless realm, and not connected, in the dharmas of those in training and of those for whom there is no more training, in the dharmas of greed, rage, conceit, ignorance, view, and doubt; how do they train in miserliness and giving, immorality and morality, malice and patience, laziness and perseverance, distraction and concentration, and intellectual confusion and wisdom; how do they train in conceptualization and emptiness, a causal sign and signlessness, an improper wish and wishlessness, unpleasant dharmas, impermanence, suffering, and selflessness; and how do they train in affliction and the elimination of affliction, defilement and purification, saṃsāra and nirvāṇa, awakening and the buddhadharmas?"

83.2 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Maitreya, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom who want to train in a bodhisattva's training should train in 'form is a mere name'; should train in 'feeling...,' 'perception...,' 'volitional factors...,' and 'consciousness is a mere name'; up to 'buddhadharmas are a mere name.' "

83.3 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya said to him, "Lord, [F.153.b] when this—namely, the designation form,—is apprehended together with a basis; the designations feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are apprehended together with a basis; up to the designation buddhadharmas is apprehended together with a basis, having taken it as the causal sign of the volitional factors, how could bodhisattvas train in 'form that is just a mere name'; how could they train in 'feeling...,' 'perception...,' 'volitional factors...,' and 'consciousness that is just a mere name'; up to 'buddhadharmas that are just mere names'? And if a basis were not to exist, that name for it would also not be suitable to be just a mere name—that is, it would not be suitable that 'form is just a mere name'; that is..., 'feeling...,' 'perception...,' 'volitional factors...' and 'consciousness is just a mere name'; it would not be suitable that..., up to 'buddhadharmas is just a mere name.' "

83.4 The bodhisattva Maitreya having said that, the Lord said to him, "Maitreya, this—namely, form—is a name plucked out of thin air; these—namely, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness—are names plucked out of thin air; up to this—namely, buddhadharmas—is a name plucked out of thin air for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon."<sup>852</sup>

83.5 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, "Lord, is it not the case that in the absence of the name form, there is no being aware of, realizing, or knowing the name form through a basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, but through that name form there is awareness of, realizing, and knowing a basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon? [F.154.a] So how could this be—namely, 'form is a name plucked out of thin air for the basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon? Lord, is it not the case that there is no being aware of, realizing, or knowing the name feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness through that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon; up to Lord, is it not the case that there is no being aware of the name buddhadharmas through that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, but through that feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; up to through that buddhadharmas, there is awareness of, realizing, and knowing just that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon? So how could this be—namely, ‘form...’; namely, ‘feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., and consciousness...’; up to namely, ‘buddhadharmas is a name plucked out of thin air for the basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon?’”

83.6 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord said to him, “So then, Maitreya, I will ask you a question, and you, as much as you can bear it, must find an answer. Maitreya, what do you think—without resorting to, without standing on, without having to stand on the designation form for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, do you think this—namely, ‘this is form’—about this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon?”

“No, Lord.”

83.7 “Maitreya, what do you think—without resorting to, without standing on, without having to stand on the designation feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness, up to on this—namely, the designation buddhadharmas—[F.154.b] for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, do you think this—namely, ‘feeling,<sup>853</sup> ‘perception,’ ‘volitional factors,’ and ‘consciousness’; up to ‘buddhadharmas’—about this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon?”

“No, Lord.”

83.8 “From this one of many explanations, Maitreya, you should thus know that these—namely, form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness—are names plucked out of thin air for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon; up to also this—namely buddhadharmas—is a name plucked out of thin air for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon.

83.9 “Maitreya, what do you think, do a variety of kinds of words, conventional terms, conventional labels, and designations designate, or conventionally refer to, or label, or apply to this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon?”

“It is so, Lord.”

- 83.10 “From this one of many explanations, Maitreya, you should thus know that this—namely, form; that these—namely feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; up to that this—namely, buddhadharmas—is a name plucked out of thin air for that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon.
- 83.11 “Maitreya, what do you think—here, does someone designate, or name, or give a subsequent conventional designation to, or apply to just that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon a name for a basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon different from it?”
 “It is so, Lord.”
- 83.12 “From this one of many explanations too, Maitreya, you should thus know that this—namely, form; that these—namely, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; up to that this—namely, buddhadharmas—is a name plucked out of thin air.” [F.155.a]
- 83.13 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, “In that case, Lord, would it not then be just that basis that is the causal sign of a compounded phenomenon that is apprehended as the form entity, based on which this—form; these—feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; up to buddhadharmas—is a designation, name, label, and subsequent conventional designation?”<sup>854</sup>
- 83.14 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord asked him in return, “Maitreya, what do you think, is the basis that is the causal sign of a compounded phenomenon when form is designating, conventionally referring to, naming, or working as a subsequent conventional designation for form, the form entity,<sup>855</sup> or is it simply merely designated?”
 “Lord, it is simply merely designated.”
- 83.15 “Well then, Maitreya, how could you think, Maitreya, that it is just that basis that is the causal sign of a compounded phenomenon that is apprehended as the form entity, based on which these—namely, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; up to buddhadharmas—is a designation, name, label, and subsequent conventional designation? Maitreya, what do you think, is the feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to or buddhadharmas entity simply merely designated?”
 “Lord, it is simply merely designated.”
- 83.16 “Well then, how could you think, Maitreya, that it is just that feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to or buddhadharmas entity that is apprehended?”
- 83.17 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, [F.155.b] “In that case, Lord, if form is simply just a designation, name, conventional term, label, and conventional designation, and if feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas is simply just a designation, name, conventional term, label, and conventional designation, would it not just be the form entity ... ; and then, would it not just be the feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas entity that is apprehended as designation, name, conventional term, label, and conventional designation?"

83.18 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord asked him in return, "Maitreya, what do you think, is that form that is simply just a designation, name, conventional term, label, and conventional designation produced or stopped, or defiled or purified?"

"No, Lord."

83.19 "Well then, Maitreya," he asked, "how could you have thought 'would it not just be the form entity that is apprehended'?"

83.20 "Maitreya, what do you think, is that feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., consciousness..., up to buddhadharmas that is simply just a designation, name, conventional term, label, and conventional designation produced or stopped, or defiled or purified?"

"No, Lord."

83.21 "Well then, Maitreya," he asked, "how could you have thought 'would it not just be the feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., consciousness..., up to buddhadharmas entity that is apprehended'?" [F.156.a]

83.22 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, "Lord, does form just not exist at all? Is it without any mark at all? Lord, does feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., consciousness..., up to do buddhadharmas not exist at all? Are they without any marks at all?"

83.23 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Maitreya, I do not say 'form just does not exist at all without any mark at all.' Maitreya, I do not say 'feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas just do not exist at all without any marks at all.' "

83.24 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, "How then, Lord, does form exist? How then, Lord, does feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., consciousness..., up to how do buddhadharmas exist?"

83.25 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Maitreya, form exists as an ordinary term and convention, but not ultimately. Maitreya, feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas exist as ordinary terms and conventions, but not ultimately."

83.26 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya said to him, "Lord, the way I understand what you have said, Lord, is that this element<sup>856</sup> is ultimately inexpressible. Lord, if that inexpressible element [F.156.b] ultimately exists, then how can it be a basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon designated by the name form plucked out of thin air; if it ultimately exists, then how can it be a basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon designated by the name feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to or buddhadharmas plucked out of thin air? And if ultimately it does not exist, then how could it be an inexpressible element, because it is not suitable to call a basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon an ‘inexpressible element.’ ”<sup>857</sup>

83.27 The bodhisattva Maitreya having said that, the Lord said to him, “So then, Maitreya, I will ask you a question, and you, as much as you can bear it, must find an answer. Maitreya, what do you think—when abiding in the correct practice of wisdom connected with the inexpressible element, do you apprehend this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon that has been designated by the name form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to or buddhadharmas, plucked out of thin air?”

“Lord, I do not apprehend it,” he replied.

83.28 “From this one of many explanations, Maitreya,” he continued, “you should know that this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon is not the inexpressible element and the inexpressible element is not other than this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon. This basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon designated by these—namely, the names form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas plucked out of thin air—if they are taken to be the inexpressible element, well then, all foolish ordinary people would be in nirvāṇa, [F.157.a] and would even have fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Maitreya, if the inexpressible element is taken to be other than this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, well then, given that even the causal sign would not be apprehended, in this case would there be a realization of that inexpressible element?”

83.29 “From this one of many explanations, Maitreya, you should know that the inexpressible element is not other than this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon that has been designated by these—namely, the names form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas plucked out of thin air— and that the inexpressible element is not not other than those either.”

83.30 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, “Lord, if, when bodhisattvas are abiding in the correct practice of wisdom connected with the inexpressible element, this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon that has been designated by the names form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas plucked out of thin air is not apprehended, is existence not apprehended, or is nonexistence not apprehended?"

83.31 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Maitreya, that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon has no independence or existence at all.<sup>858</sup> And why? Maitreya, when you conceive of that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon is that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon gotten hold of through the conceptualizations, or, when you are abiding in the correct practice of wisdom connected with the inexpressible element and do not conceive of it, [F.157.b] is it gotten hold of through the absence of conceptualization?"

"It is, Lord."

83.32 "If that is so, Maitreya, that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon that has been thus designated by these—namely, the names form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas plucked out of thin air—is simply just conceptualization or just a conceptual state. When they are thus abiding in the nonconceptual element free from conceptualizations, what existence does it, designated by these—namely, the names form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas plucked out of thin air—have? What existence can be apprehended?"

83.33 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, "Lord, how many designations for the separate aspects of form should bodhisattvas practicing the perfection of wisdom, involved in skillfully making a differentiation of a dharma, know? How many designations for the separate aspects of feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas should they know?"

83.34 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Maitreya, bodhisattvas practicing the perfection of wisdom, involved in skillfully making a differentiation of a dharma, should know three designations for the separate modes of form, and should know three designations for the separate modes of feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas, namely, 'this is imaginary form,' 'this is conceptualized form,' [F.158.a] and 'this is the true dharmic nature of form'; 'this is imaginary feeling,' 'this is conceptualized feeling,' and 'this is the true dharmic nature of feeling'; 'this is imaginary perception,' 'this is conceptualized perception,' and 'this is the true dharmic nature of perception'; 'these are imaginary volitional factors,' 'these are conceptualized volitional factors,' and 'this is the true dharmic nature of the volitional factors'; 'this is imaginary consciousness,' 'this is conceptualized consciousness,' and 'this is the true dharmic nature of consciousness'; up to 'these are imaginary buddhadharmas,' 'these are conceptualized buddhadharmas,' and 'this is the true dharmic nature of buddhadharmas.' "

83.35 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, "Lord, what is imaginary form, what is conceptualized form, and what is the true dharmic nature of form; what is imaginary feeling..., ... perception, ... volitional factors, ... consciousness; up to ... buddhadharmas, what are conceptualized buddhadharmas, and what is the true dharmic nature of buddhadharmas?"

83.36 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord said to him, "Maitreya, based on the designation, name, label, and conventional designation form for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, this imagining that it is the intrinsic nature of form is imaginary form. Maitreya, based on the designations, names, labels, and conventional designations feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness, up to buddhadharmas [F.158.b] for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, this imagining that it is the intrinsic nature of feeling, or it is the intrinsic nature of perception, volitional factors, and consciousness, up to buddhadharmas, is imaginary feeling; is imaginary perception, volitional factors, and consciousness; up to are imaginary buddhadharmas.

83.37 "That basis, which is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, an expression dependent on conceptualization established in the true dharmic nature of mere conceptualization, for which the designations, names, labels, and conventional designations 'this is form,' 'this is feeling,' 'this is perception,' 'this is a volitional factor,' 'this is consciousness,' up to 'these are buddhadharmas' are used—this is conceptualized form,<sup>859</sup> this is conceptualized feeling, this is conceptualized perception, this is a conceptualized volitional factor, this is conceptualized consciousness, up to these are conceptualized buddhadharmas.

83.38 "This true nature of dharmas that simply remains whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise, the element of the establishment of dharmas that is just the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature—falsely imagined form as that conceptualized form—for a time that is eternally eternal and constantly constant,<sup>860</sup> the nonexistence of a self in dharmas, suchness, and the very limit of reality, is the true dharmic nature of form; this is also the true dharmic nature of feeling, this is the true dharmic nature of perception, this is the true dharmic nature of volitional factors, this is the true dharmic nature of consciousness, up to and this is the true dharmic nature of the buddhadharmas."

- 83.39 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, “Lord, among these three forms, which form is viewed [F.159.a] as a nonmaterial reality and which as a material reality, and which as neither a nonmaterial reality nor a material reality and in the category of the ultimate? Among these three feelings, and among these three perceptions, these three volitional factors, and these three consciousnesses, up to and these three buddhadharmas, which are viewed as a nonmaterial reality and which as a material reality, and which as neither a nonmaterial reality nor a material reality and in the category of the ultimate?”
- 83.40 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Maitreya, view the form that is imaginary as not a material reality. View conceptualized form as a material reality based on the material reality of a conceptualization, but not because it is there under its own power. And view the true dharmic nature of form as neither a nonmaterial reality nor a material reality and in the category of the ultimate. View the feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., and consciousness that is imaginary..., up to the buddhadharmas that are imaginary as not a material reality. View the feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., and consciousness that is conceptualized..., up to the buddhadharmas that are conceptualized as a material reality based on the material reality of a conceptualization, but not because they are there under their own power. Maitreya, view the true dharmic nature of feeling..., perception..., volitional factors..., and consciousness..., up to Maitreya, view the true dharmic nature of the buddhadharmas as neither a nonmaterial reality nor a material reality and in the category of the ultimate.” [F.159.b]
- 83.41 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, “Lord, given that there is<sup>861</sup> such a designation for differentiated form, and given there is such a designation for differentiated feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness, up to buddhadharmas, this that the Lord has said—namely, ‘anything called form is counted as not two’—and this—namely, ‘anything called feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness, up to buddhadharmas is counted as not two’—in regard to that, what did the Lord have in mind when the Lord said this—namely, ‘anything called form is counted as not two’—and this—namely, ‘anything called feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness up to buddhadharmas—is counted as not two’?”
- 83.42 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord asked him in return, “Maitreya, what do you think, is the absence of material reality in imaginary form, form, or is it not?”
- “It is not, Lord.”
- 83.43 “Is then form just the mere designation, name, label, and conventional designation form for it?”

- “No, Lord.”
- 83.44 “Maitreya, through this one of many explanations, you should know that imaginary form is not form and is not not form either, and that which is not form and is not not form is counted as nondual. That was what I had in mind when I said this—namely, ‘anything called form is counted as not two.’
- 83.45 “Maitreya, what do you think, [F.160.a] is conceptualized form, the material reality, dependent on which this name, designation, and convention is used, not form?”
- “No, Lord.”<sup>862</sup>
- 83.46 “Maitreya, what do you think, is that imaginary form of just that conceptualized form—that which is not its intrinsic nature, not its defining mark—form?”
- “No, Lord.”
- 83.47 “Maitreya, also through this one of many explanations, you should know that conceptualized form is not form and is not not form either, and that which is not form and is not not form is counted as nondual. That was what I had in mind when I said this—namely, ‘anything called form’ is counted as not two.’
- 83.48 “Maitreya, what do you think, is that true dharmic nature of form, form in the category of selflessness, form?”
- “No, Lord.”
- 83.49 “Is that true dharmic nature of form that is just that true dharmic nature of form, form?”
- “No, Lord.”
- 83.50 “Maitreya, also through this one of many explanations, you should know that the true dharmic nature of form is not form and is not not form either, and that which is not form and is not not form is counted as nondual. That was what I had in mind when I said this—namely, ‘anything called form is counted as not two.’ Similarly, connect this with feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness, up to the buddhadharmas.”
- 83.51 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya [F.160.b] asked him, “Lord, how should they view the mark of comprehension, how the mark of abandonment, how the mark of actualization, and how the mark of cultivation of bodhisattvas practicing the perfection of wisdom who, having avoided the two extremes and set forth on the middle way, have such a skill in the nondual mark of form, and such a skill in the absence of marks<sup>863</sup> in feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to buddhadharmas?”
- 83.52 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Maitreya, bodhisattvas practicing the perfection of wisdom who, avoiding the two extremes, have set forth on the middle way, neither comprehend nor do not comprehend form, and just that is their comprehension; they neither comprehend nor do not comprehend feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to or buddhadharmas, and just that is their comprehension. They neither abandon nor do not abandon form and just that is their abandonment; they neither abandon nor do not abandon feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, up to or buddhadharmas, and just that is their abandonment. They neither actualize nor do not actualize an abandonment of form and just that is their actualization; they neither cultivate the path nor do not cultivate the path in order to abandon form, and just that is their cultivation. Similarly, connect this with feeling, perception, volitional factors, consciousness, [F.161.a] up to and the buddhadharmas.”

83.53 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, “Lord, what is the nirvāṇa of bodhisattvas practicing the perfection of wisdom endowed with such comprehension, abandonment, actualization, and cultivation?”

83.54 The bodhisattva Maitreya having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Maitreya, the nirvāṇa of bodhisattvas is deep, extremely deep.”

83.55 “Lord, why is the nirvāṇa of bodhisattvas so deep, so extremely deep?”

“Maitreya,” replied the Lord, “it is because the nirvāṇa of bodhisattvas is neither nirvāṇa nor not nirvāṇa; that is why it is called ‘deep, extremely deep.’ ”

83.56 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, “Lord, how is the nirvāṇa of bodhisattvas neither nirvāṇa nor not nirvāṇa?”

83.57 “Maitreya,” replied the Lord, “taking the welfare of others as the point of departure, it is not nirvāṇa because they do not totally reject saṃsāra; taking their own welfare as the point of departure, it is not not nirvāṇa because they do not totally reject nirvāṇa.”

83.58 “Lord, if, taking the welfare of others as the point of departure, [F.161.b] bodhisattvas do not totally reject saṃsāra, by not totally rejecting saṃsāra how do they not totally reject nirvāṇa? Lord, if, taking their own welfare as the point of departure, bodhisattvas do not totally reject nirvāṇa, how do they not totally reject saṃsāra?”

83.59 The Lord said, “Here bodhisattvas practicing the perfection of wisdom do not even conceive of saṃsāra as actually saṃsāra, and do not even conceive of nirvāṇa as actually nirvāṇa. So, because they thus do not conceptualize those two—namely, saṃsāra and nirvāṇa—they are the same and equal. And why? Because they do not conceive of saṃsāra as actually saṃsāra, so they do not become repulsed by saṃsāra. Similarly, because they do not conceive of nirvāṇa as actually nirvāṇa, their nirvāṇa does not degenerate; and similarly, even in saṃsāra, it does not degenerate.<sup>864</sup> Thus, you should know that for this reason they are located in a realm without thought construction and neither totally reject saṃsāra nor totally reject nirvāṇa.”

- 83.60 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, “Well then, Lord, will it not be the case that just as bodhisattvas standing in the realm without thought construction practicing the perfection of wisdom have not totally rejected a life in saṃsāra they will similarly not have appropriated it, and just as they have not totally rejected nirvāṇa they will similarly not have appropriated that, either? And Lord, if there is no appropriation, how can there be no rejection?”
- 83.61 “Maitreya,” replied the Lord, “I do not say they ‘appropriate’ or ‘do not appropriate’ a life in saṃsāra like this. Rather, Maitreya, [F.162.a] because bodhisattvas practicing the perfection of wisdom exhibit a life in saṃsāra through skillful means when they have gained control over their minds through the knowledge that has the realm without thought construction as its objective support, I say about bodhisattvas<sup>865</sup> in world systems as many as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in world systems in the ten directions who have passed into nirvāṇa that ‘they do not reject a life in saṃsāra.’ And because they remain in emptiness, in the realm that gives no basis for apprehending anything, I say ‘they do not reject nirvāṇa’ ”
- 83.62 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, “Lord, how in the absence of conceptualization should the collection of marks be viewed?”
- 83.63 “Maitreya,” replied the Lord, “that which is form, and that which is feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness, up to that which is the buddhadharmas, and that which is the emptiness of up to the buddhadharmas—that which is the nonduality and nonelaboration of an existent thing and a nonexistent thing in those dharmas and those emptinesses—that, Maitreya, should be viewed as the collection of marks in the absence of conceptualization.”
- 83.64 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, “Lord, are all śrāvakas absolutely with certainty located in nirvāṇa?”
- 83.65 “No, Maitreya,” replied the Lord. “And why? Because this world has various elements, it has multiple elements, so in this world that has various elements and multiple elements, many families and dispositions of beings can be found. Maitreya, there is one sort of family of beings, those who from the start strive for a superior qualification, who gain [F.162.b] just the superior qualification; there is one sort of family of beings, those who from the start strive for an inferior qualification, who are satisfied by gaining just the inferior; and there is one sort of family of beings who from the start strive for an inferior qualification, gain the inferior, understand that it is lacking, are not satisfied just by that, and then strive for the superior qualification and gain the superior.”

- 83.66 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya asked him, “Lord, someone in the third family of beings, having reached the state of a worthy one, strives for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening but does not take rebirth, so how do they reach it? The Lord has not said the practice itself is their rebirth.”<sup>866</sup>
- 83.67 “Maitreya,” replied the Lord, “I do not say that their rebirth is dictated by karma and afflictive emotion; I say that theirs is an inconceivable rebirth, magically created and dedicated.”<sup>867</sup>
- 83.68 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya said to him, “Lord, how incredible the vast aspiration, the great surpassing aspiration of bodhisattva great beings who thus from the start strive to be truly exceptional and become truly exceptional must be. Lord, what is the vast aspiration, what is the great surpassing aspiration of bodhisattva great beings?”
- 83.69 “Maitreya,” replied the Lord, “that those bodhisattvas do not strive to be a Śatakratu, to be a Brahmā, to be a world protector, to be a wheel-turning emperor, or to have any ordinary success at all— [F.163.a] that those bodhisattvas have no attachment to those and are free from grasping at them is their vast aspiration. And that bodhisattvas want all beings to share in common the happiness of nonattachment, the happiness free from grasping, and the happiness of nirvāṇa, and that they make a dedication to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, which is to say, they do not give up volitional factors,<sup>868</sup> is to be seen as their truly great surpassing aspiration.”
- 83.70 The Lord having said that, the bodhisattva Maitreya said to him, “Lord, the bodhisattva dharmas are amazing and marvelous; the bodhisattva training is amazing and marvelous. Lord, a son of a good family or daughter of a good family who wants to train in the amazingly marvelous bodhisattva dharmas should produce the thought of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”
- 83.71 This was the eighty-third chapter, “Categorization of a Bodhisattva’s Training,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.” [B58]

84.

CHAPTER 84: COLLECTION

84.1 Furthermore, the Lord, yet again teaching this perfection of wisdom in order to cause a great joy in those four retinues, at that time spoke these verses:<sup>869</sup>

84.2 With the finest liking, respect, and serene confidence
That clear away obscuring afflictions and pass beyond stains,<sup>870</sup>
Listen to this perfection of wisdom of the brave, Practiced by heroes who have set out for the sake of the world.<sup>871</sup>

84.3 All the rivers flowing here in Jambudvīpa,
Which make medicinal plants and forests with flowers and fruit grow,
Have their source in the powerful nāga who rules in Lake Anavatapta,
And are all that Nāga-Lord's glorious power.<sup>872</sup> [F.163.b]

84.4 So too all doctrine that the Victor's hearers teach, Explain, and logically expound, the attainment of a supreme Noble state of happiness and its results—all these Are the Tathāgata's personal heroic power.

84.5 And why? Because the finest people in the form of his disciples Train in the kinds of Dharma the Victor teaches,
And having realized them, teach as they trained.
This is done by the power of the Buddha, not by the power of their own strength.<sup>873</sup>

84.6 Those who have no perplexity or fear when hearing
That the finest perfection of wisdom cannot be apprehended,
A bodhisattva cannot be apprehended, the thought of awakening Cannot be apprehended—those bodhisattvas practice<sup>874</sup> the wisdom of the sugatas.

84.7 They have no form, no feeling, no perception, no intention—
Not even an atom's worth of a place for consciousness to stand.

- They do not stand on any dharmas, they live without a dwelling place,
And, not grasping, they find the awakening of the sugatas.
- 84.8 Just as the mendicant Śreṇika with his knowledge apprehends nothing
And the disintegration of the aggregates occurs,
So too the bodhisattvas comprehend the dharmas
And do not touch nirvāṇa—they dwell in wisdom.<sup>875</sup>
- 84.9 “What is this wisdom? Whose is it? Where is it from?”
They consider that all these dharmas are empty.
Looking closely, they are not cowed and are not scared—
Those bodhisattvas are close to awakening.
- 84.10 But if without wisdom they make a practice
Of the form,<sup>876</sup> perception, feeling, intention, and consciousness aggregates,
And imagine the aggregates to be empty, they practice causal signs.
Their faith is not in what does not arise and does not stop.<sup>877</sup>
- 84.11 Not in form or feeling, not in perception or intention,
Not practicing in consciousness, wandering without a place to stay, With steady wisdom not apprehending “one is practicing,” with an awareness of nonproduction<sup>878</sup>
They touch the most excellent calm meditative stabilization.<sup>879</sup>
- 84.12 Those bodhisattvas who thus abide here personally at peace<sup>880</sup>
Have been prophesied by the previous tathāgatas. They do not falsely project [F.164.a]
“I have entered into meditative equipoise” or “I have emerged.”
And why? Because they have comprehended the basic nature of dharmas.<sup>881</sup>
- 84.13 When practicing like that they practice the wisdom of the sugatas.
And because they comprehend that no practice is the practice,<sup>882</sup>
They do not even apprehend the Dharma that they practice—
This is the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.
- 84.14 That which does not exist<sup>883</sup> is called nonexistent.
Fools have imagined it and fashion it as existing and not existing.
Dharmas are not these two—existing and not existing.
Bodhisattvas who know that will go forth.<sup>884</sup>
- 84.15 Those who know that these five aggregates are like an illusion,
And do not make illusion one thing and the aggregates another,
Free from the perception of variety, practicing at peace—
This is the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.

- 84.16 Those with spiritual friends, with special insight,
Do not get scared when listening to the Mother of Victors.
Those with bad friends, placing their trust in others,
Break apart like an unfired pot coming into contact with water.<sup>885</sup>
- 84.17 Why are they called a bodhisattva?
They want to cut attachments, to extinguish attachments everywhere,
And touch the awakening of the victors that is without attachment.<sup>886</sup>
Therefore they get the name bodhisattva.
- 84.18 Why then are they called a great being?
They will become foremost in a great mass of beings.
They chop down the many views of a mass of beings.
Therefore, they get called a great being.
- 84.19 Greatly generous, with great intellect and great power,
They have set out in the supreme Great Vehicle of the victors,
And buckled on the great armor to conquer Māra's deceit.
Therefore, they are called a great being.
- 84.20 As when a magician at a crossroads conjures
The illusion of many people and severs ten million heads,
The bodhisattvas know that, like those victims, all beings
Are like illusions, and so have no fear.
- 84.21 Form,<sup>887</sup> feeling, perception, intention, and consciousness [F.164.b]
Are not bound, are not freed, and are not real.
Therefore, the uncowed ones set out for awakening.
This is the finest armor of the best people.
- 84.22 Why is it called the awakening vehicle?
It is because having mounted on it causes all beings to enter nirvāṇa;
This vehicle is a space-like celestial mansion, the finest vehicle
In which they reach happiness, the state of bliss, and security.
- 84.23 You cannot find a direction in which those who mount on it go.
They are said to go to nirvāṇa but you cannot find where they went,
Just like when a fire goes out, it does not go anywhere,
And that is the reason it is said to be nirvāṇa.<sup>888</sup>
- 84.24 Bodhisattvas purified of the three time periods
Do not apprehend a prior limit, a later limit, or a present.
Those who are purified are uncompounded and without thought construction.

- This is the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.
- 84.25 When smart bodhisattvas think about nonproduction,
At that time, practicing like that, they generate Great compassion, but without a perception of beings.
This is the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.
- 84.26 If bodhisattvas have a perception of a being, a perception of suffering, Think, “I will eliminate suffering and benefit beings,”
Or conceive of a self and beings,
This is not the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.
- 84.27 Knowing that just as they are, all beings are like that too;
Knowing that just as all beings are, all dharmas are like that too;<sup>889</sup>
Not entertaining the idea of either production or nonproduction—
This is the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.
- 84.28 Having eliminated a production and a beyond in all
The dharma-names, as many as there are, spoken in all the worlds,
A perfect, matchless knowledge that does not die is gained.
Therefore, it is called the perfection of wisdom.
- 84.29 You should know that bodhisattvas are those who practice
Like that without hesitation, endowed with wisdom, abiding in sameness.
Comprehending that dharmas are without a basic nature [F.165.a]
Is practicing the finest perfection of wisdom.<sup>890</sup>
- 84.30 Those who do not stand in form and do not stand in feeling,
In perception, or in intention, who do not stand
In consciousness—they stand in the true nature of dharmas.
This is the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.
- 84.31 They do not stand in permanent or impermanent,
Happiness or suffering, clean or dirty, self or selfless,
Or in suchness, and similarly they do not stand in emptiness,
The attainment of the results, the worthy one level, the pratyeka level, or the buddha level.
- 84.32 Just as the Leader does not stand in the uncompounded element,
Does not stand in the compounded element, and wanders without a home,
So too the Victor says the bodhisattva who stands like that stands,
Not standing on a place to stand, standing without standing.
- 84.33 Those who want to become a tathāgata’s śrāvaka,
A pratyekabuddha, and similarly a Dharma king,

- Cannot do so without relying on this forbearance,
Like going from this shore to that shore without seeing the dock.
- 84.34 The Tathāgata says teaching and listening to the Dharma
And what is taught, the results obtained,
The pratyekabuddha, and the lord of the world too, the nirvāṇa
Those with clear intelligence obtain—they are all like illusions.
- 84.35 These four persons are not scared of that:
The victor's child skilled in the truths, the irreversible, the worthy one
Who has cleared away the dirt and eliminated doubt,
And the fourth,<sup>891</sup> who is the one looked after by spiritual friends.
- 84.36 Smart bodhisattvas practicing like that do not train
In the worthy one level, nor in the pratyekabuddha level,
But train in the buddhadharmas for the sake of all-knowledge.
Those not<sup>892</sup> training in training and not training are training.
- 84.37 The training is not done for the increase, reduction, or appropriation Of form, nor for the appropriation of the variety of dharmas.
While training they get hold of all-knowledge. This emergence
Is the training of those who take pleasure in the qualities.<sup>893</sup> [F.165.b]
- 84.38 Form is not wisdom, wisdom is not in form;
These—consciousness, perception, feeling, and intention—
Are not wisdom and also wisdom is not in them.
It is equal to the space element, without distinction.
- 84.39 The basic nature of those objective supports is boundless,
The basic nature of beings is boundless,
The basic nature of the space element is boundless,<sup>894</sup>
And the wisdom of the knowers of worlds is boundless too.
- 84.40 The Leader proclaims that perception is the near shore.
When perception, having disintegrated, has been abandoned,
One crosses to the far shore. Those who have subsequently attained this freedom
From perception, having crossed over, stand in the Teacher's words.
- 84.41 Even if the Teacher were to remain for as many eons as there are Sand particles in the Gaṅgā River proclaiming the word being,
However could beings, pure from the beginning, be born?
This is the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.
- 84.42 The Victor said, "When I had become a speaker in harmony

- With this finest perfection, the finest person
 Of an earlier time made a prophecy that I would in the future become a buddha."<sup>895</sup>
- 84.43 Poison, weapons, fire, and water do not overpower,
 And Māra and those on Māra's side find no way to cause trouble
 To those who respectfully<sup>896</sup> take up and master
 This perfection of wisdom, the protectors' practice.<sup>897</sup>
- 84.44 Were someone who worships the stūpa of a sugata
 Who has passed into nirvāṇa, made of the seven precious stones,
 To fill a hundred thousand one hundred million regions
 With as many of those stūpas as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River,
- 84.45 And, theoretically, were all those beings, as many as there are,
 Living in an infinity of one hundred million regions to do Nothing else but worship them with divine flowers, the finest incense,
 And fragrance for eons during the three time periods, or even longer,
- 84.46 Still, were someone to write down in a book this mother of the sugatas
 [F.166.a]
 From which the ten powers of the leaders arise, bear it in mind,
 And honor it with flowers and fragrances, the merit created from worshipping
 the stūpas
 That have been made would not approach that merit even by a fraction.
- 84.47 This perfection of wisdom of the victors is a great knowledge mantra Relieving the phenomena of pain and suffering of great masses of beings.
 Having trained in this knowledge mantra, those protectors of the past
 In worlds in the ten directions became unsurpassed doctor-kings.
- 84.48 Those who practice a practice of benefit together with compassion Train in this knowledge mantra; they are smart and touch awakening.
 You should know that the happinesses that are compounded and the happinesses
 That are uncompounded, all those happinesses issue forth from this.<sup>898</sup>
- 84.49 Seeds are sown, lodge in the earth, and are ready to sprout.
 They grow up in a variety of forms when conditions are complete.
 The five perfections and the qualities of awakening,
 As many as there are, all grow from the perfection of wisdom.<sup>899</sup>
- 84.50 On whichever path a wheel-turning emperor travels,

- All the seven precious treasures and the mass of forces always travel on that very path too.
 Wherever the Victor's perfection of wisdom travels, Right there all the dharmas—the good qualities—travel along too.<sup>900</sup>
- 84.51 Śatakratu responded when questioned by the Victor:<sup>901</sup>
 If the buddhafi elds, as many as there are sand particles in the Gaᅅgā River, Were all to be filled right to the top with the physical remains of the tathāgatas,
 Still I would take just his perfection of wisdom.
- 84.52 And why? Not because I do not respect the physical remains,<sup>902</sup>
 But because they are worshiped for being suffused by wisdom.
 Just as a person who is supported by the king receives worship,
 The physical remains of the tathāgatas are supported by perfect wisdom.<sup>903</sup>
- 84.53 A casket graced by a priceless precious jewel endowed With good qualities is worthy of reverence, and even after
 It has been taken out you take pleasure in the casket.
 The good qualities are those of that precious jewel.<sup>904</sup>
- 84.54 Similarly, even when a victor has passed into nirvāᅇa, the physical remains Invite worship because of the good qualities of the finest perfection of wisdom.
 So those who want to appropriate a victor's good qualities [F.166.b]
 Should take hold of this perfection of wisdom. It is freedom.
- 84.55 Wisdom is the leader for giving gifts,<sup>905</sup> so too for morality, Patience, perseverance, and concentration.
 It is the help so that wholesome dharmas will not be lost.<sup>906</sup>
 It shows the single way of all dharmas.
- 84.56 To illustrate, there are a thousand one hundred million trees in Jambudvīpa
 In many forms, of various kinds and various types,
 But still there are not various kinds of shadows; there is no difference
 Apart from talking about the number of things that have become shaded.<sup>907</sup>
- 84.57 Similarly, these five perfections of a victor
 Get the very name perfection of wisdom.
 When they have been dedicated to all-knowledge,
 All six of them become the single taste called awakening.<sup>908</sup>
- 84.58 If bodhisattvas who are unaware explain form, Feeling, perception, intention, and consciousness as

- Impermanent, they are engaged in a counterfeit.
The learned never ever make dharmas perish.<sup>909</sup>
- 84.59 Knowing the mode in which all dharmas are unproduced and empty,
Where form is not apprehended, nor feeling, nor perception,
Nor consciousness, nor intention is apprehended,
This is the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.<sup>910</sup>
- 84.60 The merit of someone who has written out this perfection of wisdom
And bestowed it on an excellent<sup>911</sup> being is superior to someone Who has led all the beings, as many as there are, in as many regions
As there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River to the state of a worthy one.<sup>912</sup>
- 84.61 And why? Because, having trained in this, the most excellent speakers
Make all phenomena known here in emptiness,
And, having listened to them, śrāvakas will quickly touch freedom, Touch a pratyekabuddha's awakening, and a buddha's awakening.<sup>913</sup>
- 84.62 Without seeds there would be no trees in the world,
So how would there be branches, blossoms, and fruit there?
Without the thought of awakening there would be no victors possible in the world,
So how could there be the results, Śatakratus, Brahmās, and śrāvakas?
[F.167.a]
- 84.63 When the circle of the sun sends forth its latticework of light, Beings work hard at the work they have to do.
When the thought of awakening comes to be in the world for the sake of the knowledge of the wise,
By means of knowledge, beings become endowed with the dharmas—the good qualities.<sup>914</sup>
- 84.64 To illustrate, were the Nāga Lord not to be in Anavatapta
How would the rivers in this Jambudvīpa ever flow?
Without the rivers there would be no blossoms or fruit,
And there would not be the many-colored jewels in the oceans.
- 84.65 So too, when there is no thought of awakening here,
How will there ever be the knowledge of a sugata in all these worlds?
And when there is no knowledge there is no increase in good qualities,
No awakening, and no ocean-like buddhadharmas.
- 84.66 A single ray of light from the circle of the sun is far greater than
All the light emitted by all the light-making insects in this world.

- All the light of the mass of light-makers
Is not even a fraction of it.<sup>915</sup>
- 84.67 The mass of merit that the śrāvaka communities, as many as there are, create,<sup>916</sup>
Associated with giving, morality, and meditation,
That mass of merit that the śrāvaka communities create is not even a fraction
Of what a bodhisattva's single thought of rejoicing creates.
- 84.68 All the merits of those past hundred million billion buddhas in times gone by,
Of the thousand hundred million presently standing in infinitely many buddhafiels,
Of all the world protectors who have passed into nirvāṇa,
And from the teaching of the precious Dharma that puts an end to suffering—
- 84.69 All the merits of those victors,
From their first generation of the production of the thought of supreme awakening
Up until the time the good Dharma of the leaders is extinguished—
The endowment of the perfections, all the buddhadharmas,
- 84.70 All the buddha's children, the śrāvakas,
Trainees and nontrainees, the good with outflows,
And without—the bodhisattvas gather it all together, rejoice in it,
And dedicate it all to awakening as a catalyst for the welfare of the world.
[F.167.b]
- 84.71 If the dedication occurs with a perception of a thought, a perception of an
awakening,
And a perception of a dedication and beings, it does not rank as a dedication,
Because it apprehends something, because a perception
Is based on wrong view, and the mind is triply attached.
- 84.72 If such dharmas as these stop and come to an end,
If that to which the dedication is made comes to an end,<sup>917</sup>
If there is an understanding that no dharma ever dedicates to any dharma,
In that case the dedication has been made with awareness.
- 84.73 If it is done with causal signs it is not a dedication,
But if it is done without causal signs it is a dedication to awakening.
The Victor has said that falsely apprehending a bright dharma as a fact Is like eating good food mixed with poison.

- 84.74 Therefore, the dedication in which they have to train is like this.
And the rejoicing and dedication should be in line with what Those victors know to be the type, origin,
And mark of the wholesome, exactly like that.
- 84.75 If merits are thus dedicated to awakening, one is not poisoned, Does not forsake the buddhas, and propounds what the victors have taught.<sup>918</sup>
The hero who dedicates like that surpasses all the bodhisattvas
In the world, as many as there are, caught up in apprehending things.<sup>919</sup>
- 84.76 Without a guide a billion people born blind
Cannot even find the road, so how could they ever Make it to the city? Without wisdom as a guide
These five blind perfections cannot touch awakening.<sup>920</sup>
- 84.77 When wisdom has taken hold of them,
They gain eyes and get their names,
Like when an artist has finished the work but not the eyes,
And they do not get paid until the eyes are painted in.
- 84.78 When wisdom dissects the compounded and un-compounded,
Good and bad dharmas, and does not apprehend even an atom,
Then the wisdom is counted in the world as perfect.
Like space, it does not stand anywhere at all.
- 84.79 Were bodhisattvas to think, "I will practice the wisdom of the victors
[F.168.a]
And will free many billions of beings from the experience of suffering,"
They would construct in thought the notion of beings.
This is not the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.
- 84.80 When learned bodhisattvas who have practiced before are practicing,
They practice this perfection without hesitation,
And as soon as they have heard it, perceive it as the Teacher
And quickly realize the peace of awakening.
- 84.81 Those with tiny intellects who, when practicing previously,
Showed respect to a billion buddhas but did not place their trust In the perfection of wisdom, reject it when they hear it and,
Having abandoned it, are defenseless and go to the Avīci hell.
- 84.82 So put your trust in this mother of victors
If you want to experience the finest buddha knowledge.

- Do not be like the trader who came back from a journey
To an island of precious jewels without anything to sell.<sup>921</sup>
- 84.83 Know that the purity of form is just the purity of the result.
The purity of the result and form is the purity of all-knowledge.
The purity of all-knowledge and the result, and the purity of form,
Are equal to the space element, not divided and not cut apart.
- 84.84 Heroes go beyond the three realms but not into liberation
Because of the perfection of wisdom that they practice.
Though they have eliminated the afflictions, they reveal birth.
Though they do not get old, get sick, and die, they reveal death.
- 84.85 Knowing that living beings are stuck in the mud of name<sup>922</sup> and form, Wandering in the wheel of saṃsāra that is like a windmill,
And confused like animals caught in a trap,
The wise move about like birds in the sky.
- 84.86 When a perfectly pure practitioner does not practice form
And does not practice consciousness, perception, feeling, or intention,
Such a practitioner abandons all attachments
And, freed from all attachments, practices the wisdom of the sugatas.<sup>923</sup>
- 84.87 Bodhisattvas with clear intelligence who practice like that Cut attachments and go forth without attachment to the world, [F.168.b]
Like the sun that has escaped from an eclipse and shines brightly,
And like a fire set loose that burns grass, trees, and forests.
- 84.88 When bodhisattvas see with the perfection of wisdom
That all dharmas are pure, perfectly pure in their basic nature,
They do not apprehend a doer, do not apprehend any dharma—
This is the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.<sup>924</sup>
- 84.89 Śatakratu, king of the gods, asks the Victor:<sup>925</sup>
How do bodhisattvas practicing wisdom make an effort?
They do not make even just a speck of effort at the aggregates and constituents.
Not making an effort at the aggregates is the bodhisattvas' effort.
- 84.90 If someone hears that dharmas are like magical creations,
Like illusions, and makes an effort to train without hesitation,
Know that they have served a billion buddhas well
And have long since set out in the vehicle.
- 84.91 A person who has gone many yojanas on a wild jungle path<sup>926</sup>

- Might see cow herders and tended forest boundary-markers,
 And thinking that they are signs a village or town is near,
 Will breathe out a sigh of relief and have no fear.
- 84.92 Similarly, when those set on awakening have gotten to listen To this perfection of wisdom of the victors,
 They breathe out a sigh of relief and have no fear,
 Not of the level of a worthy one and not of the level of a pratyekabuddha.
- 84.93 If those who go off to see the water in an ocean
 See trees, forests, and mountains, it is still a long way off,
 But if they do not see such signs, they become certain
 The great sea is near and have no doubt about it.
- 84.94 Similarly, those who have set out for awakening and are listening To the perfection of wisdom of the victors are like that,
 And should know, “Even if I have not come face to face with the Leader
 And been prophesied, before long I will experience a buddha’s awakening.”<sup>927</sup>
- 84.95 In brilliant springtime when buds have come out on the trees, Leaves, flowers, and fruit will appear on the branches before long.
 Whoever has taken this perfection of wisdom into their arms
 Before long will attain the awakening of the leaders. [F.169.a]
- 84.96 Just as when a woman is pregnant and suffers the pain
 Of contractions, it is said “the time is at hand for giving birth,” Similarly, bodhisattvas who hear the victor’s wisdom and feel delight
 And a desire to act will quickly experience awakening.<sup>928</sup>
- 84.97 When yogic practitioners practice the finest perfection of wisdom
 They do not see an increase or a decline in form.
 Someone who does not see a dharma, nondharma, or dharma-constituent,
 And does not experience nirvāṇa, is standing in wisdom.<sup>929</sup>
- 84.98 Those practicing this do not mentally construct the buddhadharmas, And do not mentally construct the powers, legs of miraculous power, awakening, or peace.
 Practice imbued with the special power that is nonconceptual, Free from mental construction, this is the practice of the finest perfection of wisdom.<sup>930</sup>
- 84.99 Subhūti asks the Buddha, the moon-like speaker:<sup>931</sup>
 What are the hindrances faced by those who delight in the good qualities?

And the Teacher says, There will be many hindrances,
So, for a start, I will proclaim just a few of them.

- 84.100 When writing out this perfection of wisdom of the victors
Many different types of confidence giving a readiness to speak will arise
That have not been of benefit to beings, and also that happen too fast, like lightning,
And disappear. This is the work of Māra.<sup>932</sup>
- 84.101 While it is explained some will harbor doubts:
“The Leader has not even proclaimed my name here;
He has not proclaimed my social class, station, or lineage.”
They will not listen and reject it—the work of Māra.<sup>933</sup>
- 84.102 Those without such an understanding who have heard
The perfection of wisdom but go on looking for sūtras
Are like fools who reject the roots and look for branches and leaves,
Or like those who keep tracking an elephant after finding it.
- 84.103 Bodhisattvas seeking awakening at the level
Of a worthy one after obtaining this perfection
Are like those who have obtained food with a hundred tastes—Obtained the finest food—yet go looking for food of poor quality.<sup>934</sup>
- 84.104 When they want respect, want wealth, [F.169.b]
Have ulterior motives to become intimate with householders, Forsake what is right and engage in actions that are wrong,
Or have left the path and gone astray—this is the work of Māra.<sup>935</sup>
- 84.105 At that time there are those who, out of longing and faith,
Go to listen to the good Dharma,
But come away feeling dislike and unhappiness
When they come to know the Dharma preacher’s preoccupations.<sup>936</sup>
- 84.106 At that time these works of Māra occur.
At that time many other hindrances also occur
On account of which many monks become upset
And do not uphold this perfection of wisdom.
- 84.107 Just as jewels that have become priceless are rare
And always come with many things that make trouble,
So too the victors’ finest perfection of wisdom
Is a precious Dharma that is rare and comes with many things that make trouble.<sup>937</sup>

- 84.108 Māra is eager to block narrow-minded beings
Newly set out in the vehicle from acquiring this rare jewel,
But the buddhas in the ten directions
Are there to assist them.<sup>938</sup>
- 84.109 When a mother with many sons has fallen sick,
They are all worried and attend to her needs.<sup>939</sup>
So too the buddhas in world systems in the ten directions
Watch over this supreme wisdom that serves as their mother.
- 84.110 World protectors in the past, in the ten directions now,
And those who will appear in the future arise from her—
The mother, the revealer of the world, who gives birth to the victors,
And reveals the thought activities of other beings.
- 84.111 The suchness of the world, the suchness of a worthy one,
The suchness of a pratyekabuddha, and the suchness of a victor's child Are just a single suchness separated from existing things, without another.<sup>940</sup>
A tathāgata knows the perfection of wisdom.<sup>941</sup>
- 84.112 Whether the wise stand in the world or in nirvāṇa, This true nature, the fixed nature of dharmas—that dharmas are empty—remains. [F.170.a] Bodhisattvas understand this suchness,
So those who have awakened are given the name realized one.<sup>942</sup>
- 84.113 This pleasure park that is the perfection of wisdom, the resort
Of leaders with the ten powers, is the area over which they range.
Even though they extricate beings from suffering in the Three terrible forms of life they never entertain the idea of a being.
- 84.114 Just as a lion having resorted to its mountain lair is fearless,
And, roaring, frightens many lesser animals,
So too the human lion resorts to the perfection of wisdom
And, roaring in the world,<sup>943</sup> frightens many tīrthikas.
- 84.115 Just as the light rays of the sun suspended in the sky
Dry out this earth and reveal shapes,
So too the Dharma king, having resorted to the perfection of wisdom, Dries up the rivers of craving and reveals the Dharma.
- 84.116 The Tathāgata says that where you do not see forms,
Do not see feelings, do not see perceptions,

- Do not see intentions, and do not see consciousness, Mind, or thinking mind, you “see the Dharma.”<sup>944</sup>
- 84.117 Beings say the words “see the space,”
But how do you see a space? Consider what this means.
The Tathāgata’s exposition of seeing the Dharma is like that,
Because the seeing cannot be expressed with any analogy.<sup>945</sup>
- 84.118 Those who see like that see all dharmas.
Like rulers sitting dispassionately having their minister do everything,
Whatever the work of the buddhas and the doctrines of śrāvakas,
The perfection of wisdom does it all.<sup>946</sup>
- 84.119 A ruler does not travel to villages, does not travel the countryside,
But gathers in all that is amassed from the realm.
A bodhisattva does not stray from the true nature of dharmas
But gathers in all the good qualities of the buddha level.<sup>947</sup>
- 84.120 Those who have firm faith in the sugatas and bodhisattvas,
With an intention yoked to the finest perfection of wisdom, [F.170.b]
Go beyond both śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha levels
And, unsurpassable, quickly reach the awakening of the victors.<sup>948</sup>
- 84.121 To illustrate, when a boat on the ocean breaks up,
People who do not grab hold of a corpse, thatch, or a log
Will perish in the middle of the water without reaching the shore.
But those who do grab hold get to the other side of the ocean.<sup>949</sup>
- 84.122 Those with such faith who have gained a serene confidence
Do not do so having set aside the mother perfection of wisdom.<sup>950</sup>
When the good qualities of skillful means are assisted by wisdom,
They quickly experience the finest marvelous awakening of the sugatas.
- 84.123 You should know that it is like when somebody transports water
In an unfired pot, which quickly disintegrates because it is flimsy.
Carrying water in a fired pot, one does not worry that it will Fall to pieces along the way—one arrives home happily.
- 84.124 Similarly, even if bodhisattvas have a lot of faith,
If they are lacking in wisdom they will quickly become unfit,
But when their faith has been assisted by wisdom, they pass beyond
The two levels and gain the highest awakening.
- 84.125 It is like when a ship that has not been well constructed Gets destroyed on the ocean together with its cargo and traders,

- But if that ship has been well constructed,
It does not break up and reaches the shore with its cargo.
- 84.126 Similarly, even bodhisattvas who have cultivated faith will quickly
Be lacking in what it takes for awakening if they have no wisdom.
But if they are endowed with the finest perfection of wisdom,
They will quickly, unharmed and uninjured, experience a victor's awakening.
- 84.127 Even if an ailing one hundred and twenty-year-old person Gets up, they are unable to walk on their own.
But if they are supported by people on the left and the right,
They have no fear of falling and move about easily.
- 84.128 Similarly, even after they have set out, bodhisattvas
Who are weak in wisdom degenerate in the interim.
But if they are assisted by skillful means and wisdom,
They do not degenerate and touch a tathāgata's awakening.<sup>951</sup> [F.171.a]
- 84.129 Those bodhisattvas standing on the level of someone beginning the work<sup>952</sup>
Who have set out with a surpassing aspiration for a buddha's finest
awakening,
Who are good trainees with respect for their gurus,
Must continually rely on learned spiritual friends.
- 84.130 Why? The good qualities of the learned come from them.
They give instruction in the perfection of wisdom.
The Victor, holder of all the finest qualities, says,
"The buddhadharmas are contingent on a spiritual friend."
- 84.131 Dedicate giving, morality, patience, and similarly perseverance, Concentration, and wisdom to awakening.
Do not settle down on awakening and the aggregates<sup>953</sup> and grasp them as an absolute.
Those who are beginning the work have to be taught that.
- 84.132 Those practicing like that, oceans of good qualities,<sup>954</sup> moon-like speakers,
Are the world's refuge, final allies, resting place, support, Intelligence,<sup>955</sup> island, leaders, helpers, illuminators, Lamps, propounders of the finest doctrine, and imperturbable.
- 84.133 Greatly glorified, they wear the armor difficult to wear,
An armor not of aggregates, constituents, and sense fields.<sup>956</sup>
They are free from and not grabbed by the notion of three vehicles;

- They are irreversible, unshaken, and have the quality of being imperturbable.
- 84.134 You should know that those endowed with such dharmas, free from thought construction,
Free from doubt, hesitation, and uncertainty, purposeful,
Not procrastinating after hearing the perfection of wisdom,
Do not place their trust in others and are irreversible.
- 84.135 This Dharma of the leaders is deep and hard to see.
Nobody has realized it and nobody attains it.
Therefore, the helpful and compassionate one, having reached awakening,
Is uninclined<sup>957</sup> to teach, wondering, “Which group of beings will understand?”
- 84.136 Beings like foundations and want objects.
They keep on grasping like blind, uneducated fools.
The dharma to be acquired has no foundation and is free from grasping,
So it comes up as a topic for dispute<sup>958</sup> with the world.<sup>959</sup> [F.171.b]
- 84.137 The space element in the eastern direction, southern direction,
And, similarly, in the western direction and northern direction is without an end.
It is there above and below, in the ten directions as far as they go, Without differences and without specific features.
- 84.138 The suchness of what has gone and the suchness of what is yet to come,
The suchness of the present and the suchness of worthy ones,
The suchness of the totality of dharmas, the suchness of victors—
All this suchness of dharmas is without a distinguishing feature.<sup>960</sup>
- 84.139 Bodhisattvas who want to reach this—
The awakening of the sugatas free from a differentiation of dharmas—Should unite with the perfection of wisdom united with skillful means.
There is no attainment without the wisdom of the leaders.
- 84.140 When a bird with a large body of a hundred and fifty yojanas, Feeble and with wings that give out and fail,
Launches itself from Trāyastriṃśa to Jambudvīpa,
It gets utterly tired out there and drops.
- 84.141 Even were the victors to have accomplished
These five perfections for many billions of eons,
And to have always resorted to infinite vast prayers in the world,<sup>961</sup>

- Without method, separated from wisdom, they would have fallen to the state of a śrāvaka.<sup>962</sup>
- 84.142 Those who want to go forth in the Buddha Vehicle<sup>963</sup>
Should regard all beings equally, perceive them as father and mother,
And train in the thought to benefit and in a mind that is kind.
They should be without malice,<sup>964</sup> straightforward, and gentle in speech.<sup>965</sup>
- 84.143 The elder Subhūti petitioned the world protector:
Please teach the signs of the conflict-free Oceans of good qualities, how those who are powerful are irreversible from awakening.
Victor, please give us just an indication of such good qualities.<sup>966</sup>
- 84.144 Free from the perception of difference, speaking appropriate words,
Not relying on others who lead a secluded religious life or brahmins,
The wise avoid the three terrible forms of life at all times
And work hard on the ten wholesome actions.<sup>967</sup>
- 84.145 They instruct the world in the Dharma for no material benefit, [F.172.a] Take singular delight in the Dharma, always speak gently,
Are fully mindful when going out, walking, sitting, and resting,
And look ahead just as much as a yoke-length when going, without thoughts veering off.
- 84.146 They are clean, wear immaculate clothes, are pure on account of three isolations,<sup>968</sup>
Do not want wealth, are like dominant bulls always wanting the Dharma,
Are beyond the range of Māra,<sup>969</sup> do not place trust in others,
And are absorbed in the four concentrations but do not stand<sup>970</sup> in those concentrations.
- 84.147 They do not want to be famous, their minds are not enveloped in anger,
And they become householders without attachment to all real bases,
Without seeking possessions by wrong livelihood
Through black magic spells or spells to procure women.<sup>971</sup>
- 84.148 They do not foretell a boy or a girl to those who engage in sexual intercourse.<sup>972</sup>
They have endeavored at the finest, very isolated perfection of wisdom;
Have steered clear of fights and quarrels; have steady loving minds;
Always want all-knowledge and have thoughts set on the Dharma,<sup>973</sup>
- 84.149 Have avoided border areas, outer regions where barbarians are born;<sup>974</sup>

- Are not uncertain about their own level, always like Mount Sumeru;<sup>975</sup> Will forsake even their life for the sake of the Dharma; and have worked hard at yoga<sup>976</sup>—
 Know that these are the signs they are irreversible from awakening.<sup>977</sup>
- 84.150 Form, feeling, perception, intention, and consciousness are deep.
 In their basic nature they are without signs and are at peace.<sup>978</sup>
 Like trying to reach the bottom of the ocean with a reed,
 When examined with wisdom, a bottom to the aggregates cannot be found.
- 84.151 What greater accomplishment of merit is there
 Than that of bodhisattvas who have become deep like that,
 Who realize the Dharma, the ultimate vehicle free from attachment
 In which there are no aggregates, no sense fields, and no constituents?<sup>979</sup>
- 84.152 As many times in a single day as a man with a strong libido
 Actively imagines a woman in his mind
 After setting up a date but not getting her,
 For that many eons the bodhisattva gets merit.<sup>980</sup>
- 84.153 Bodhisattvas endowed with<sup>981</sup> the perfection of wisdom [F.172.b]
 Who give expression to the Dharma are better than those who give gifts
 To worthy ones and pratyekabuddhas and guard morality for a thousand One hundred million eons. Such giving and morality do not equal a fraction of that merit.<sup>982</sup>
- 84.154 There is nothing in the three worlds that can match the virtue Of bodhisattvas who, having meditated on the finest perfection of wisdom, Arise from it and give expression to the unsullied Dharma,
 And dedicate it as the cause of awakening for the sake of the world.
- 84.155 Understanding,<sup>983</sup> furthermore, that such merit
 Rings hollow, is empty, in vain, a fraud, and pointless,
 They thus practice the practice of the wisdom of the sugatas,
 And when practicing appropriate infinite merit.<sup>984</sup>
- 84.156 They know that all these dharmas the buddha has explained, Advocated, and explicated are simply just talk.
 Even if they are talked about for many billion eons,
 In the dharma-constituent nothing diminishes and nothing increases.
- 84.157 Those dharmas of the victors called “perfections”
 Are proclaimed to be just words. Bodhisattvas who dedicate Without falsely projecting them are not ruined

- And will experience a buddha's finest awakening.<sup>985</sup>
- 84.158 Just as the wick of an oil lamp is not burned up by its first encounter
With a flame, yet not burned up without it either,
And just as the wick is not burned up by its last encounter with a tongue of fire
Yet the wick is not burned up without the last tongue of fire either,
- 84.159 The finest awakening is not touched because of the first thought,
Yet it cannot be touched without it either.
The peace of awakening is not gained through the last thought
Yet it cannot be gained without it either.<sup>986</sup>
- 84.160 The seedling, flowers, and fruit come forth from the seed.
If it has ceased, the tree does not exist since it does not.
Similarly, the first thought is also the cause of awakening.
If it has ceased, awakening does not exist since it does not.
- 84.161 Just as a pot is gradually filled up with drops of water,
The first to the last, with fewer and fewer,<sup>987</sup>
So too the first thought is a cause of the finest awakening— [F.173.a] Gradually buddhas become replete with good qualities.
- 84.162 Practicing empty, signless, and wishless dharmas
They do not touch nirvāṇa and are not involved with causal signs;
Like skilled boatmen they cross over and return again,
Not alighting at either shore, and not alighting in the ocean either.
- 84.163 Bodhisattvas practicing like that do not falsely project superiority, thinking, “I will be prophesied by those with the ten powers and will touch awakening.”
They are not scared of awakening because “there is nothing whatsoever here.”
Practicing like that they practice the wisdom of the sugatas.<sup>988</sup>
- 84.164 Seeing the world as a wilderness with starvation and disease
They are not scared, and from then they are clothed in armor;
Always striving and wisely understanding until the final limit,
They do not entertain even a speck of despondency.<sup>989</sup>
- 84.165 Bodhisattvas practicing the wisdom of the victors Know that these aggregates are not produced and are empty from the beginning.

- When not in equipoise their compassion for the mass of beings is set in motion,
 And during that time they do not let the buddhadharmas decline.<sup>990</sup>
- 84.166 It is just like a skillful person endowed with all the good qualities, Strong, hard to beat, expert,<sup>991</sup> skilled in vocational arts and rituals, Gone as far as you can go in archery and many crafts,
 An accomplished magician wanting the welfare of the world,
- 84.167 Who, having brought together parents and spouse
 And taken them into a wilderness bristling with enemies,
 Magically conjures up many heroic and brave people,
 So that they journey and return home safely.
- 84.168 Similarly, at that time skillful bodhisattvas generate great compassion
 For the entire mass of beings, and having passed beyond
 The four Māras and two levels, abide in the finest Meditative stabilization and do not touch awakening.<sup>992</sup>
- 84.169 Space supports the wind and it supports the bodies of water;
 They support this great earth, and it supports the world.
 The causal basis for a being's experience of karma is like that.
 Where is space located? Think about the meaning of this. [F.173.b]
- 84.170 Similarly, bodhisattvas abiding in emptiness,
 Based on the prayer that is a vow to help beings in the world understand,
 Demonstrate many and varied kinds of work;
 They do not touch nirvāṇa, and do not stand in emptiness.<sup>993</sup>
- 84.171 When bodhisattvas with clear intelligence
 Practice the finest meditative stabilization of empty calm,
 During that time they do not meditate on causal signs;
 They stand in signlessness,<sup>994</sup> the calmest of calm.<sup>995</sup>
- 84.172 A bird flying in the sky has not taken up a position.
 It does not stand there yet does not fall to the ground.
 So too bodhisattvas practicing the three gateways to liberation
 Do not touch nirvāṇa yet do not practice with causal signs.<sup>996</sup>
- 84.173 It is just like a person trained in archery who shoots an arrow into the sky,
 And with a series of other arrows in succession
 Keeps the first arrow from falling to the ground—
 If the person wished, the arrow would fall to the ground.
- 84.174 So too those practicing the finest perfection of wisdom—

- Practicing intelligently with wisdom, skillful means, powers,
 And miraculous powers, they do not obtain that ultimate emptiness Unless and until the wholesome roots are complete.<sup>997</sup>
- 84.175 It is just like a monk endowed with supreme magical power
 Who stands in the sky with a double and performs miracles, Making a show of standing, walking, lying down, and sitting,
 Without getting sick of it and without finding it difficult.<sup>998</sup>
- 84.176 So too smart bodhisattvas stand in emptiness
 With perfected knowledge and magical power, without a dwelling place, Making a show of infinite types of work for the worlds
 Over a billion eons, without getting sick of it and without finding it difficult.
- 84.177 It is just like somebody standing at the edge of a precipice,
 With both hands holding two wind-sails, who leaps into the sky
 To throw their body into the abyss,
 Not falling for as long as they glide.
- 84.178 Similarly, the smart bodhisattvas stand in compassion,
 Grasping the two wind-sails of skillful means and knowledge, Considering dharmas as empty, signless, and wishless— [F.174.a] Without touching nirvāṇa, they still see the dharmas.<sup>999</sup>
- 84.179 It is just like those desiring jewels who go to a jewel island
 And, having discovered jewels, return home—
 These traders do not live a happy life alone there, Ignoring the unhappiness of their relatives and friends.
- 84.180 So too the bodhisattvas who have gone to the emptiness jewel island
 And obtained the concentrations, faculties, and powers—
 They do not enjoy alone the experience of nirvāṇa, Ignoring the sufferings of beings.
- 84.181 It is just like traders seeking business who, to gain familiarity,
 Go to the towns, markets, and villages along the way,
 But do not stay in them and do not stay even on a jewel island.
 Clever persons do not stay home but become expert at the path.
- 84.182 Similarly, smart bodhisattvas are expert in all the śrāvaka and
 pratyekabuddha
 Knowledges and liberations but do not stand in them,
 Do not stand in the knowledge of a buddha, do not stand
 In the un compounded, and have a proper understanding of paths.<sup>1000</sup>

- 84.183 When, having forged a connection with the world out of love,
They practice empty, signless, and wishless meditative stabilization
It is impossible to designate them either as Having reached nirvāṇa or as something compounded.<sup>1001</sup>
- 84.184 Just like the body of a person who has been magically conjured
Is not invisible, you can designate it in words.
Similarly, with bodhisattvas practicing the gateways to liberation,
You can designate them in words as well.<sup>1002</sup>
- 84.185 If, when asked about practice and faculties, Bodhisattvas do not teach the empty and signless dharmas,
And do not explain the dharmas of the irreversible level,
You should know that they have not been prophesied to awakening.<sup>1003</sup>
- 84.186 If they do not long for the worthy one level, pratyekabuddha knowledge,
Or anything in the three realms even in a dream,
And if they see the buddhas, and teach the doctrine in the world,
You should know that they have been prophesied to be irreversible from awakening.<sup>1004</sup> [F.174.b]
- 84.187 Those who, in a dream, see beings living in the three terrible forms of life
And immediately make a prayer that is a vow to cut the continuum of those terrible forms of life;
Who quell a conflagration by means of the controlling power of truth—
You should know that they have been prophesied to be irreversible from awakening.<sup>1005</sup>
- 84.188 When through the controlling power of truth, with goodwill and empathy,
They cure the world of mortals of many demonic spirits and diseases,
But without a false sense of superiority and without generating pride—
You should know that they have been prophesied to be irreversible from awakening.<sup>1006</sup>
- 84.189 If they accomplish all sorts of things through the controlling power of truth
And get a false sense of superiority, thinking, “I have been prophesied”—
If the false prophecy by someone else makes those bodhisattvas feel superior—
You should know that they are slightly intelligent with a false sense of superiority.<sup>1007</sup>
- 84.190 Māra approaches<sup>1008</sup> through the controlling power of a name<sup>1009</sup>
And says, “These are the names of your mother and father,
These are the names of your ancestors going back seven generations,<sup>1010</sup>

And when you become a buddha this will be your name;

- 84.191 The types of good qualities you had before are similar To the sorts of asceticism, restraint, and yogic practices you will have.”
The bodhisattvas who listen to this and have a false sense of pride—
You should know that they are slightly intelligent and being boosted by Māra.<sup>1011</sup>
- 84.192 Bodhisattvas doing a retreat in an isolated house,
Village, mountain lair, jungle, or isolated forest,
Who praise themselves and disparage others—
You should know that they are slightly intelligent and being boosted by Māra.<sup>1012</sup>
- 84.193 Those who live constantly in a house, in a city or market town, But, apart from bringing beings to maturity and making an effort at
awakening,
Do not generate a longing for the worthy one or pratyekabuddha vehicles—
The children of the sugatas say that they are in isolation.<sup>1013</sup>
- 84.194 Were they, unaware of this isolation, to live for many hundreds Of millions of years in a mountain fastness
Stretching five hundred yojanas, infested with snakes, Still such bodhisattvas would be living a crowded life with unfounded conceit.
- 84.195 If they look down on bodhisattvas who endeavor for the welfare of the world,
Who have gained the concentrations, powers, faculties, liberations,
And meditative stabilizations, thinking, “They are not practicing in forest isolation,” [F.175.a]
The victors say that they are living within the range of Māra.
- 84.196 Whether they live at home or whether they live in the forest,
If free from thoughts of the two vehicles and destined for the supreme
awakening,
They are in the isolation of those who have set out for the welfare of the world.
Bodhisattvas who think that they are greater than that one<sup>1014</sup> have demeaned themselves.<sup>1015</sup>
- 84.197 Therefore, scholars with a fierce aspiration<sup>1016</sup> seeking the best awakening Totally overcome a false sense of superiority;
Like relying on a doctor to cure a group of patients,

- They must rely on a spiritual friend without becoming lazy.<sup>1017</sup>
- 84.198 Rely on spiritual friends—buddhas, and bodhisattvas who have set out
For the supreme awakening who possess the perfections.
They are the instructors; this is the ground of accomplishment.
On account of these two causes there is a speedy realization of a buddha's
awakening.<sup>1018</sup>
- 84.199 For all the victors<sup>1019</sup> gone by, yet to come, and now standing In the ten directions, the path is this perfection, nothing else is.
This perfection is explained to be the illumination, the light, the torch,
The finest teacher of those who have set out for supreme awakening.<sup>1020</sup>
- 84.200 Bodhisattvas understand that just as the perfection of wisdom
Is marked as empty, all these dharmas are marked as empty too.
Understanding that dharmas are empty and without signs,
They thus practice the practice of the sugatas' wisdom.<sup>1021</sup>
- 84.201 A being with false imagination wants food,
And with a mind attached to saṃsāra always circles around.
Both dharmas—"I" and "mine"—are unreal, are empty;
Those that are foolish tie knots in space.
- 84.202 It is like those who worry that they have taken poison,
And even though no poison was ingested, still collapse.
Similarly, fools assenting to "I" and "mine"
Have the notion of "I" that is unreal.<sup>1022</sup> They are born and die continually.
- 84.203 I have explained that to the extent there is grasping, there is defilement,
And said that purification is not apprehending "I" and "mine."
Here, understanding that nothing will be defiled or purified, [F.175.b] Bodhisattvas realize the perfection of wisdom.<sup>1023</sup>
- 84.204 Were all the beings, as many as there are in Jambudvīpa,
To produce the thought of supreme awakening,
To give gifts for many hundreds of millions of millennia,
And dedicate it all as a cause for awakening for the sake of the world,
- 84.205 Still, were someone to work hard at the finest perfection of wisdom
And comply with it<sup>1024</sup> even for as little as a single day,
The merit from the aggregate of giving would not be even a fraction of that.
So one should continually enter into wisdom without becoming lazy.<sup>1025</sup>
- 84.206 Yogins practicing the finest perfection of wisdom Generate great compassion yet have no perception of beings.

- At that point they are smart and worthy of the offerings of the world.
They make use of a city's almsgiving that is never in vain.<sup>1026</sup>
- 84.207 Bodhisattvas who want to show the realm of beings the highway to the other side
In order to liberate gods, humans, and beings
In the three terrible forms of life, linked there for so long,
Should make an effort at the perfection of wisdom day and night.<sup>1027</sup>
- 84.208 Persons who previously lost their prized precious jewel
Are overjoyed when later it is found.
If as soon as they have found it, they lose it again through carelessness;
They suffer continually from wanting the precious jewel they have lost.
- 84.209 Thus, yogins who have set out for the finest awakening
Should not part from the perfection of wisdom that is like a precious jewel,
As if taking up a precious jewel that is found, Diligently wrapping it, going quickly, and being at peace.<sup>1028</sup>
- 84.210 The sun's lattice of light rays when the clouds have gone Shines and destroys the blinding dense darkness in its entirety, Surpassing the light of all animals, the light-making insects,
And the light of all the hosts of stars and the moon.
- 84.211 Similarly, bodhisattvas skilled at practicing the empty and signless
Practice of the finest perfection of wisdom
Destroy the darkness of views and surpass Śrāvakas, pratyekabuddhas, and many bodhisattvas.<sup>1029</sup>
- 84.212 It is just like the generous and socially responsible son of a king
Who is the most excellent of all and rightly sought out. [F.176.a]
He makes many beings happy even at that time,
Not to mention after gaining the resources when he has become king.
- 84.213 So too bodhisattvas skilled at the practice of wisdom
Are generous with the elixir of immortality,<sup>1030</sup> delighting humans and gods.
Even at that time they endeavor to benefit many beings,
Not to mention later when established as Dharma kings.<sup>1031</sup>
- 84.214 At that time the Māras feel a stab and are wracked by pain, Suffer, undergo mental anguish, and feel weak,
And in order to make these bodhisattvas lose confidence, to cause a frightful spectacle,
They set the directions on fire and let loose a shower of meteors.<sup>1032</sup>

- 84.215 But when those smart bodhisattvas with fierce aspirations
Day and night keep the finest perfection of wisdom in view, Then their physical, mental, and verbal<sup>1033</sup> conduct is like a bird flying through space—
How could the friends of the dark find a way to hurt them?
- 84.216 When bodhisattvas fight, quarrel,
Fall out, and harbor angry thoughts toward one another,
Māra then feels joy and an intense pleasure, Thinking, “Both are distant from a victor’s knowledge,<sup>1034</sup>
- 84.217 “Both are far removed and have become like flesh-eating fiends;
Both have broken their promise. How could there be Awakening for those who are angry and impatient?”
At that time the Māras and those on their side are pleased.
- 84.218 If bodhisattvas who have not been prophesied entertain angry thoughts About those who have been prophesied, and provoke them into an argument,
They will have to buckle on the armor yet again
For as many eons as the instants of their hardhearted, faulty thinking.
- 84.219 Those who generate mindfulness, thinking, “Buddhas touch awakening Through the perfection of patience; these thoughts are not good”;
Who make a confession of each, restrain themselves in the future,
And are not pleased,<sup>1035</sup> train here in the buddhadharmas.<sup>1036</sup>
- 84.220 Those who, when training, do not assert any training whatsoever,
Do not apprehend someone training or dharmas<sup>1037</sup> to be trained in, [F.176.b]
And do not conceive of either training or not training—
Those who train like that train here in the buddhadharmas.
- 84.221 The bodhisattvas who understand that sort of training
Will never be incompletely trained and never be immoral.
They train here in the dharmas to be pleasing to the buddhas;<sup>1038</sup> Training with skill in the superior training, they do not apprehend anything.
- 84.222 Thus, they train in the wisdom of the learned light-makers
And do not think even a mere single thought that is not wholesome,
Just as when the sun moves through space
Its rays outshine the darkness before it.
- 84.223 When training in the perfection of wisdom is being done,
All the perfections are included in it;

- Just as the sixty-two views are included in the view of the perishable collection,
So too these perfections are said to be included in it.
- 84.224 It is just like when the life faculty shuts down,
And all the other sense faculties, as many as there are, shut down too.
Similarly, when the finest of experts practice wisdom,
It is said that all the perfections are included there as well.<sup>1039</sup>
- 84.225 Smart bodhisattvas train in all the good qualities of śrāvakas,
So too all the good qualities of pratyekabuddhas,
But they do not stand in them and do not long for them.
“I have to train in them,” they think, and train because of that.<sup>1040</sup>
- 84.226 It is possible to take the measure of a billion Sumerus by weighing it against
A unit of weight, but not the goodness of that rejoicing—
The rejoicing, with an aspiration, in the production of the thought Of irreversible bodhisattvas who have set out for supreme awakening.<sup>1041</sup>
- 84.227 It becomes a rejoicing in the mass of merit of all beings
Striving for the wholesome and wanting to be of benefit.
So, they acquire the good qualities of the Victor
And make the gift of Dharma to the world to bring suffering to an end.
- 84.228 Bodhisattvas free from conceptualization, comprehending
That all dharmas are empty, signless, and cannot be elaborated on,
Who do not strive for awakening with dualistic wisdom<sup>1042</sup>—
Those yogins endeavor at the finest perfection of wisdom. [F.177.a]
- 84.229 There is no obstruction of the space element by a space;
Nobody can find such a thing.
So too the bodhisattvas skilled in the practice of wisdom
Are like space, pursuing a course of action at peace.<sup>1043</sup>
- 84.230 It does not occur to a person conjured by magic, when among people, to think,
“I have to make these people happy.” But still it does.
It is seen demonstrating various miraculous powers,
Though it has no body, has no mind, and does not even have a name.
- 84.231 Similarly, it never occurs to those practicing wisdom to think, “Having realized awakening I will liberate the world.”
Though they demonstrate, like illusions, various births and many works,
They practice without conceptualization.

- 84.232 It is just like a magically created buddha who does a buddha's work, Without even a speck of vanity arising while it is being done.
Similarly, bodhisattvas skilled in the practice of wisdom
Demonstrate every action like a magically created illusion.
- 84.233 A skilled carpenter produces a contraption
Like a woman or a man that also does all that has to be done.
So too with bodhisattvas skilled in the practice of wisdom—
Free from conceptualization, knowledge does all the work.<sup>1044</sup>
- 84.234 The many assemblies of gods cup their palms together in a gesture of supplication
And bow down and prostrate to those with such a skillful practice,
And the buddhas, as many as there are, in worlds
In the ten directions, garland their good qualities with praise.<sup>1045</sup>
- 84.235 Even if beings in realms as numerous as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River,
All of them, were hypothetically to become Māras,
And even if each of their pores were to magically create that many again,
Still all those would be incapable of hindering the smart bodhisattvas.<sup>1046</sup>
- 84.236 There are four reasons why the four Māras cannot Overcome and sway smart and powerful bodhisattvas:
They stand in emptiness, do not forsake beings, Are true to their word, and are imbued with the special power of the sugatas.<sup>1047</sup>
- 84.237 Know that the fine bodhisattvas who believe
In this perfection of wisdom, the mother of the tathāgatas,
When it is being explained, and sincerely make an effort [F.177.b]
To accomplish it, have set out to be a knower of all.<sup>1048</sup>
- 84.238 The dharma-constituent does not come to stand in suchness,<sup>1049</sup>
Just like a cloud in the sky that stands without a place to stand,
Or a wandering sky-flying sorcerer who wants a place to stand
And casts a spell that makes unexpected flowers and trees appear right there in space.
- 84.239 Bodhisattvas with clear intelligence practicing like that Do not apprehend an awakening or the buddhadharmas
And do not apprehend a teacher or someone who wants and sees the Dharma.<sup>1050</sup>
This is where those who seek peace and delight in good qualities stand.<sup>1051</sup>

- 84.240 Setting aside the arhat-liberation<sup>1052</sup> of a tathāgata,
This standing place is the finest, the highest,
Among as many śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha standing places as there are Conjoined with calm meditative stabilization, peace, and ease.
- 84.241 Just as a bird lives in the sky but does not fall to the ground,<sup>1053</sup>
And a fish lives in water but does not drown, Bodhisattvas gone beyond through concentrations and powers Stand in emptiness but do not pass into complete nirvāṇa.
- 84.242 Those who want to go to the finest quality of all beings,
To touch the finest, most supremely marvelous buddha knowledge,
And bestow the best, the finest, the most excellent gift of Dharma Should resort to this finest station of those who bring benefit.<sup>1054</sup>
- 84.243 Of all the trainings the guides elucidate,
This training is the finest, the highest training unrivaled by all.
Someone smart who wants to go beyond all training,
Should train in this training of a buddha, the perfection of wisdom.
- 84.244 This is the finest dharma lode, the most excellent dharma treasury,
The buddha lineage, the world's storehouse of happiness and well-being.
The protectors of the past, still to come, and now in the worlds of the ten directions
Are born from it, and yet this dharma-constituent is not exhausted.<sup>1055</sup>
- 84.245 As many trees, fruits, and blossoms—whole forests—as there are,
They all come forth and appear from the earth,
But still the earth is not exhausted, is not increased, is not diminished,
[F.178.a]
Is without conceptualization, and does not feel oppressed.<sup>1056</sup>
- 84.246 Buddhas, śrāvakas, pratyekabuddhas, gods,
And all the happiness and well-being dharmas, as many as there are,
Originate from the finest of perfections, wisdom,
But the wisdoms are never exhausted and never increased.
- 84.247 The sugatas have said that the least, the middling, and the best of sentient beings,
As many as there are, all originate from ignorance.
When the conditions are assembled, the suffering contrivance runs.
That ignorance contrivance is never exhausted and never increased.
- 84.248 Knowledge, ways, gateways, means, and roots, as many as there are,<sup>1057</sup>

- All originate from the finest of perfections, wisdom.
 When the conditions are assembled, the karma<sup>1058</sup> contrivance runs.
 The perfection of wisdom is never exhausted and never increased.
- 84.249 Bodhisattvas who know this wisdom to be a dependent origination,
 Not produced and not exhausted, destroy the darkness of ignorance
 And obtain the self-originated state, like the sun when there are no clouds, Emitting light rays and clearing away darkness.<sup>1059</sup>
- 84.250 Possessed of great might they abide in the four concentrations Without making them into a foundation or a standing place.
 But still the four concentrations together with their branches
 Become the foundation for gaining the most excellent and finest awakening.
- 84.251 Those who gain the finest wisdom<sup>1060</sup> abide in the concentrations
 And also experience the four excellent formless meditative stabilizations.
 These concentrations are beneficial to the most excellent and finest awakening.
 Bodhisattvas do not train in them to extinguish the outflows.
- 84.252 This is a totally amazing, marvelous accumulation of good qualities.
 Having dwelled in the concentrations and meditative stabilizations,
 There is no causal sign.<sup>1061</sup> Those dwelling there, if their bodies
 Are destroyed, are again born in the desire realm just as they intend.
- 84.253 It is just like a human in Jambudvīpa who has not been
 To the finest city of the gods in the land of the gods before<sup>1062</sup>
 But later on goes there and sees the places that are gained
 And, having come back here, is not attached. [F.178.b]
- 84.254 Similarly, bodhisattvas who bear the finest qualities, endeavoring at Yogic practice, having dwelled in the concentrations and stabilizations, Again later dwell in the desire realm without any attachment to it;
 Like a water lotus, they do not stand in the dharmas of childish fools.
- 84.255 Great persons complete the perfections in order to Bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhafiield, simply that.
 They do not do it in order to be born in the formless realm, Lest the good qualities of awakening and the perfections decline.<sup>1063</sup>
- 84.256 It is just like persons who find a cache of precious stones
 And do not feel any desire for them, but at a different time
 Lay claim to them and, having claimed them,
 Return home but are not attached to them.<sup>1064</sup>

- 84.257 Similarly, smart bodhisattvas who have attained the four calm Concentrations and meditative stabilizations that give joy and happiness, Having forsaken the happiness of concentration, and the concentrations and meditative stabilizations they have attained, Again enter into the desire realm out of compassion for the world.<sup>1065</sup>
- 84.258 If bodhisattvas dwell in the meditative stabilizations and concentrations
 And feel desire for the worthy one and pratyekabuddha vehicles,
 They have become uncollected, grossly excited, and mentally distracted.
 The buddha qualities are ruined, like a ferryman whose boat has broken up.
- 84.259 Furthermore, you should know that even though they manifest a zeal for
 The five sorts of sense objects, for shapes, sounds, smells, tastes, and feelings,
 Separated from the worthy one and pratyekabuddha vehicles, Enjoying the thought of awakening, they are brave and always in equipoise.
- 84.260 Purified bodhisattvas<sup>1066</sup> work hard at practicing
 The perfection of perseverance because of other persons.
 Like a female slave carrying a water pot under the control of a master, Heroes go about under the control of all beings.
- 84.261 Whether criticized or continually struck, Scared when she thinks about it and overcome with fear,
 Thinking, "I will get killed for it,"
 The female slave does not tell her master to stop.
- 84.262 Similarly, for the sake of awakening, those who have set out [F.179.a]
 For the finest awakening should be servants, as it were, of the entire world.
 From this they will reach awakening and complete the good qualities.
 Fire starts from tinder and sticks and then burns them up.<sup>1067</sup>
- 84.263 Forsaking their own happiness, they work hard day and night
 At what other beings need without any expectations,
 Like a mother attending to her only son.<sup>1068</sup>
 Be determined to keep at it without feeling it is hard.<sup>1069</sup>
- 84.264 When bodhisattva practitioners willing to spend a long time in saṃsāra
 Persevering at the welfare of beings and the purification of a buddhafield
 Do not have even a speck of the feeling of being oppressed,
 They are endowed with the perfection of perseverance and are not lazy.
- 84.265 If bodhisattvas who are not smart calculate one hundred million eons

- And have the idea that it is a long time, they will painfully progress toward awakening.
- They will suffer for a long time while trying to accomplish the Dharma.
They are deficient in the perfection of wisdom and are lazy.
- 84.266 If they think in their minds that starting from the first production
Of the thought up until reaching unsurpassed awakening
Is just one day and night, they should be known As those with clear intelligence making a vigorous attempt.<sup>1070</sup>
- 84.267 If someone says, “After Mount Sumeru is destroyed
You will reach supreme awakening,” and if that produces
A feeling of oppression and they think about the size,
Then those bodhisattvas have become lazy.
- 84.268 If they produce the thought that Sumeru is pulverized to dust
In just an instant, thinking, “It is only this size—what is the problem?”
They are smart bodhisattvas making a vigorous attempt.
Before long they will reach the finest awakening of the leaders.
- 84.269 If with the thought, “I will bring beings to maturity and work for their welfare,”
They work hard with body, speech, and mind,
Standing in the perception of self, they have become lazy.
They are as far from all-knowledge as the sky from the earth.
- 84.270 When they have no notion of body, mind, or sentient being,
When they have turned back from forming notions
And practice a nondual Dharma, the Beneficial One says that is the perfection of perseverance [F.179.b]
Of those who want the finest awakening, the peace that is never lost.
- 84.271 If they hear someone rebuke or speak harshly to them, Smart bodhisattvas feel pleasure, thinking, “This is my happiness.”
Who speaks? Who hears? Who speaks to whom and why?
Those endowed with the finest perfection of patience are wise.
- 84.272 Should someone fill the billionfold world with precious stones and give them
To the knowers of worlds, buddhas, worthy ones, and pratyekabuddhas,
The merit from that aggregate of giving would not be even a fraction
Of that of the bodhisattvas endowed with the excellent dharma of patience.
- 84.273 The bodies of those who remain patient become pure,<sup>1071</sup>
With thirty-two major marks and infinite strength.

- They proclaim the best Dharma, emptiness, to beings.
Patient and wise, they are loved by the world.
- 84.274 If a certain being takes up a container of sandalwood paste
And with great respect rubs it on a bodhisattva,
And another throws burning ashes over his entire head,
He should regard both the same, with a dispassionate attitude.
- 84.275 When smart bodhisattvas who exercise such patience
Dedicate that production of the thought to supreme awakening, They are heroes with forbearance for the whole world, surpassing the worthy ones,
Pratyekabuddhas, and mass of beings, as many as there are.
- 84.276 Bodhisattvas exercising patience should produce this thought as well:
“Given that the hells, animal world, and world of Yama have much suffering,
And I have been hurt through being powerless because of sense objects, Why would I not put up with what I have up to now, for awakening?”
- 84.277 Thinking, “I will put up with as much suffering as there is in the world—
The whips, sticks, swords, murder, prison, and torture, Decapitation, and the amputation of ears, arms, legs, and nose,” Bodhisattvas stand in the perfection of patience.<sup>1072</sup>
- 84.278 Those longing for calm are ennobled by their morality. [F.180.a] Standing within the range of the ten powers their morality is unflagging.
They carry out all the actions of restraint, as many as there are,
For the benefit of all beings and dedicate it to awakening.
- 84.279 Those longing to touch the worthy one and pratyekabuddha awakening
Are immoral, not smart, and have a degenerate practice too.
Those who dedicate to awakening, the finest peace,
Stand in the perfection of morality even if engaged with sense objects.
- 84.280 The Leader says the law from which the heroic ones’ awakened qualities come
Is the crux of the morality incumbent upon the righteous,
And whatever law causes the awakening of the beneficial ones
To degenerate is immorality.<sup>1073</sup>
- 84.281 Even if bodhisattvas enjoy the five sense objects,
If, having gone for refuge to the Buddha, Dharma, and noble Saṅgha,
They are intent upon all-knowledge, thinking, “I have to awaken,”
You should know that they are smart and stand in the perfection of morality.

- 84.282 Even if they practice the ten wholesome actions for a hundred million eons,
If they generate a longing for the state of a worthy one or pratyekabuddha,
Then their morality is faulty, their morality is degenerate.
The production of that thought is heavier than even a pārajika defeat.
- 84.283 Bodhisattvas guarding morality, dedicating it
To the finest awakening, not falsely projecting anything,
Not smug, and avoiding the idea of a self and the idea of beings
Are said to stand in the perfection of morality.
- 84.284 Bodhisattvas practicing the path of the victors
Are extremely immoral if they entertain various notions, Thinking, “These beings are moral, these immoral.”
They have a degenerate morality, not a morality that has been purified.
- 84.285 However could someone without the notion of self or the notion of beings,
Free from notions and attachment, not be restrained?<sup>1074</sup>
The Leader has said that someone who does not falsely project
Being restrained and not being restrained is restrained by morality.
- 84.286 Purified beings endowed with such a morality
Are unconcerned with all that is pleasant and unpleasant,<sup>1075</sup>
Uncowed when giving away their head and arms and legs, [F.180.b]
And always detached when giving away all that they own.
- 84.287 They understand that phenomena are in their basic nature selfless and a fraud,
So, since even when they give away their own flesh
Their minds are not cowed, what need is there to mention External things? It would be impossible for them to be stingy.
- 84.288 Fools have the notion of self and are attached Because of grasping at things as “mine,” so how could they intend to give things away?
Someone who is stingy is born in the abode of ghosts,
Or, if born human, will still be destitute.
- 84.289 And so bodhisattvas, knowing that beings are in poverty,
Come to admire giving and always give away freely,
Feeling joy from giving away the four beautifully decorated continents
As though they were a gob of spit, but not so from gaining the continents.
- 84.290 Bodhisattvas with clear intelligence give a gift While focusing on the thought, “May this become a gift given to all beings,

- As many as there are on the three planes of existence,”
Also dedicating it to the finest awakening for the sake of the world.
- 84.291 Without making it into a real thing on which to take a stand, Never hoping for a result,
They are smart at giving like that and give away everything.
Having given away a trifle it becomes many and immeasurable.<sup>1076</sup>
- 84.292 Were as many beings as there are on the three planes of existence,
All of them without any left out, hypothetically to give gifts
To knowers of worlds, buddhas, worthy ones, and pratyekabuddhas
For eons without end seeking the good qualities of a śrāvaka,
- 84.293 And were someone with skillful means
To rejoice in their bases of meritorious action
And dedicate it to the finest awakening for the sake of beings,
That smart bodhisattva dedicating thus would surpass all the worlds.
- 84.294 A single precious stone of beryl surpasses Glittering stones, all of them, even a great pile,
And, similarly, a rejoicing bodhisattva surpasses
All the vast heaps of gifts of all the worlds. [F.181.a]
- 84.295 If bodhisattvas giving a gift to the world do not make it
Their own and do not value it as if property,
Then the wholesome roots grow to have great might,
Like the cloudless shining circle of the waxing moon.<sup>1077</sup>
- 84.296 Through giving bodhisattvas cut off life as a ghost,
Cut off destitution and all the afflictive emotions,
While practicing gain an unending spread of things to use and enjoy,
And through giving cause suffering beings to mature.
- 84.297 By being moral they avoid the many forms of life in the animal world
And the eight places that preclude a perfect human birth.
They always find a perfect human birth.<sup>1078</sup> By being patient they obtain A most excellent and broad body, golden in color, beloved, and attractive to the world.
- 84.298 By persevering, bright good qualities do not decline,
And infinite knowledge, the storehouse of the victor’s treasure, is gained.
On account of concentration they quit sense objects in disgust
And accomplish esoteric knowledge, clairvoyance, and meditative stabilization.

- 84.299 And with wisdom they comprehend the basic nature of all dharmas, Pass perfectly beyond all three realms,
And, having turned the precious wheel, as the dominant bull among humans,
Teach the Dharma in the world to put an end to suffering.
- 84.300 Those bodhisattvas, having brought these dharmas to completion,
Look after a purified buddhafiield and purified beings,
Look after the line of the Buddha and the line of the Dharma,
And similarly look after the Saṅgha and all dharmas as well.
- 84.301 The supreme doctor who cures the sickness of the world has given
This instruction on wisdom and the awakening path titled “The Collection of Jewel Qualities, the Awakening Path,”
So that all beings will obtain this path.
- 84.302 This was the eighty-fourth chapter, “Collection,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.” [B59]

85.

CHAPTER 85: SADĀPRARUDITA

- 85.1 Then the Lord, having spoken these verses, [F.181.b] said to venerable Subhūti, “Subhūti, any son of a good family or daughter of a good family who wants to search for the perfection of wisdom, that son of a good family or daughter of a good family should search for the perfection of wisdom as it was sought for by the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, who is now practicing celibacy in the presence of the tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha Bhīṣmagarjitanirghoṣasvara.”
- 85.2 The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti asked him, “Lord, when the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita was searching for the perfection of wisdom, how did he search for it?”
- 85.3 Venerable Subhūti having asked that, the Lord said to him, “Subhūti, when the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita was searching for the perfection of wisdom, he searched in such a way that he did not take great care of his body, had no regard for his life, and was not motivated by gain, honor, or praise. While searching for the perfection of wisdom in a remote jungle hermitage, he heard a voice in the sky saying, ‘Son of a good family, go east and listen to the perfection of wisdom, go as you go when you do not pay attention to your body being tired, do not pay attention to feeling sleepy and drowsy, do not pay attention to food, do not pay attention to drink, do not pay attention to night and do not pay attention to day, and do not pay attention to the cold and do not pay attention to heat. Go without placing your hopes [F.182.a] in anything inside or outside. Son of a good family, go without looking to the right or left; go without looking to the west,<sup>1079</sup> the north, above, below, or into the intermediate directions. Son of a good family, go as you go when you do not move at all from the perishable collection, do not move at all from form, and do not move at all from feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness. Someone who moves from this will fail.

In what will they fail? They will fail in the buddhadharmas, and those who fail in the buddhadharmas will live a cyclic existence, and those who live a cyclic existence will not gain the perfection of wisdom.'

85.4 "The voice having said that, the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita then replied to that voice, 'I will do so. And why? Because I want to be a light to all beings; I want to fully accomplish all the buddhadharmas.'

"The bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita having said that, that voice said to him, 'Excellent, excellent!'

85.5 "Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita again heard a sound. He heard the sound say, 'Son of a good family, since you have developed admiration for the emptiness, the signlessness, and the wishlessness dharmas, you must search for the perfection of wisdom. You must reject causal signs. You must reject real existence. You must reject the view that there is a being. Son of a good family, you must reject bad friends and must serve, attend on, and worship those spiritual friends who teach dharmas that are emptiness, the signlessness, and the wishlessness, not produced, not born, not really existent, [F.182.b] and not stopped. Son of a good family, when you are making progress like that it will not be long before you learn the perfection of wisdom that has been put into a book or that exists in the body of a monk who preaches the Dharma. Son of a good family, you should imagine whomever you learn this perfection of wisdom from to be the Teacher, and, son of a good family, you should feel appreciation and feel a sense of gratitude. You should weigh up these benefits: 'Whomever I learn this perfection of wisdom from is my spiritual friend. By learning this perfection of wisdom I will quickly become irreversible from unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, will stay close by the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas and be born in buddhafiels where I will not be separated from the tathāgatas. I will avoid the places that preclude a perfect human birth, and I will obtain the perfect moment.' Having understood these benefits, son of a good family, you should imagine the monk preaching the Dharma to be the Teacher. Son of a good family, you should not follow after the monk preaching the Dharma on account of a stream of thought connected with ordinary material possessions; rather, you should follow after the monk preaching the Dharma on account of seeking the Dharma from him and because of your respect for the Dharma.

85.6 " 'You should see through the works of Māra. Son of a good family, it can be that Māra the wicked one presents bodhisattva great beings with shapes, sounds, smells, tastes, and feelings to become engaged with, enjoyed, and used. Having risen above them, they become engaged with, enjoy, and make use of them with skillful means. You should not on that account let yourself feel a lack of faith in those monk bodhisattvas preaching the Dharma;

[F.183.a] rather, you should think like this: “I do not know those skillful means, but they are well aware of skillful means. They are enjoying, keeping company with, and using these dharmas as a way to tame beings, because it is conducive to the growth of the wholesome roots of beings. Bodhisattvas are not attached to or obstructed by<sup>1080</sup> anything.” At that very moment, son of a good family, you should understand analytically the way things really are. And what, son of a good family, is the way things really are? It is this: all dharmas are without defilement and are without purification. And why? Because all dharmas are empty of an intrinsic nature. All dharmas are devoid of a being, devoid of a living being, devoid of a person, like an illusion, like a dream, like an echo, and like a mirage. Son of a good family, if you analyze the way all dharmas really are like that, and if you follow others because they are Dharma preachers, before long you will go forth into the perfection of wisdom.

85.7 “ ‘Furthermore, son of a good family, look out for the work of Māra. Do not feel displeased, son of a good family, if Dharma preachers look down on and do not watch over a son of a good family who wants the perfection of wisdom. Rather, keep on seeking for the Dharma, keep feeling a respect for the Dharma, and follow the monk preaching the Dharma without becoming despondent.’

85.8 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, having received this instruction from the voice, went east, but before he had gone far it occurred to him that he had not asked the voice how far he should go, so he stopped right there, crying, grieving, [F.183.b] and lamenting: ‘I will spend the day on this very spot, spend two days, or three, or four, or five, or a week here. Until I hear the perfection of wisdom, I will not pay attention to my tired body, will not pay attention to drowsy and sleepy feelings, will not pay attention to food, will not pay attention to drink, will not pay attention to night and will not pay attention to day, and will not pay attention to the cold and will not pay attention to heat.’

85.9 “Subhūti, it is just like somebody whose only son is near death—they feel great suffering and mental anguish, and with that pain they are extremely concerned for their son, concerned with nothing else except him. Similarly, Subhūti, the attention of the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita at that time was directed just to when he would hear the perfection of wisdom; he was concerned with nothing else except that.

85.10 “Then, Subhūti, a shape assumed by a tathāgata stood in the presence of the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, who was suffering like that, and complimented him: ‘Excellent, son of a good family, what you say is excellent! When the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas of the past were practicing the bodhisattva practice, they sought for the perfection of wisdom just as you are now searching for the perfection of wisdom. Therefore, son of a good family, pursue it with this perseverance, this enthusiasm, and this yearning, and with a desire for it go east. Son of a good family, five hundred yojanas from here is a city called Gandhavatī surrounded by a series [F.184.a] of seven ramparts built of the seven precious stones, surrounded by a series of seven ditches and a series of seven rows of palm trees. It is twelve yojanas long and twelve yojanas wide, prosperous, thriving, secure, with an abundant food supply, with many living creatures, and full of people. It is laid out like a picture beautifully made with five hundred identical matching streets going through the city<sup>1081</sup> with ample space for palanquins, crisscrossed at intervals with bridges. The ramparts all around that metropolis are made of the seven precious stones. The copings on the ramparts are made of gold from the river Jambū, they rise up and are well worked, and on the top of all the copings grow trees made of the seven precious stones, laden with various fruits, also made of precious stones. All around, between each tree from one coping to the next, hangs a string that is also made of precious stones. A network of small golden bells is fastened on the strings and thus surrounds the entire city. When stirred by the wind, the network of small golden bells gives out a sweet, charming, and delightful sound. To illustrate, five-part music when played in harmony by skilled musicians gives out a sweet, charming, and delightful sound, and just like that those small bells give out a sweet, charming, and delightful sound when stirred by the wind. Those beings play, delight in, and take great pleasure in that sound. The ditches in the environs of the metropolis are full of water—water neither too cold nor too hot—and on the water there are beautiful boats that have come about from the maturation of earlier karma,<sup>1082</sup> variously decked out with the seven precious stones. Those beings go on board and play, delight, and sail around in them. The water is everywhere covered with blossoms of the blue lotus, the pink lotus, and the white lotus [F.184.b] and covered with other types of the most beautiful and fragrant flowers. Among all the types of flowers in a great billionfold world system there are none that are not there. There are five hundred parks in that metropolis all made of the seven precious stones, all of them colorful and beautiful. Each park has a large lotus lake with a circumference of about five hundred krośa, and growing from all the edges of the lotus lakes are colorful and beautiful blue lotus, pink lotus, and white lotus flowers of the seven precious stones. They cover the water. All those blue lotus, pink lotus, and white lotus flowers are the size of cart wheels and are blue, are the color blue, look blue, and appear blue;<sup>1083</sup> are yellow, are the color yellow, look yellow, and appear yellow; are red, are the color red, look red, and appear red; and are white, are the color white, look white, and appear white. On all those lotus lakes geese, cranes, kāraṇḍa ducks, and curlews are calling out. All the lotus lakes are unowned and unrestricted and have come about from the maturation of the earlier karma of beings, beings such as those who have practiced the perfection of wisdom for a long time and believed in the deep dharmas for a long time.<sup>1084</sup>

85.11 “ ‘Son of a good family, at the main crossroads in the center of the city is the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata made of the seven precious stones, colorful and beautiful, with a circumference of about a yojana, surrounded by seven ramparts and a series of seven rows of palm trees. [F.185.a] There are four gardens in the residence for the use of those living there, called Nityapramūḍita, Aśoka, Śokavigata, and Puṣpacitra, and in each of the gardens there are eight lotus ponds called Bhadrā, Bhadrottamā, Nandā, Nandottamā, Kṣemā, Kṣemottamā, Niyatā, and Avivāhā. One side of each lotus pond is made of gold, the second made of silver, the third made of beryl, and the fourth made of crystal. The ground at the bottom consists of quartz with golden sand over it. For each lotus pond there are eight flights of stairs adorned with steps made of different kinds of precious stones. In the spaces between the flights of stairs grow plantain trees of gold from the river Jambū. Covering the water of all the lotus ponds are pink lotus, blue lotus, and white lotus flowers, and on the lotus ponds geese, cranes, and curlews are calling out. All around those lotus ponds various flowering trees grow, and when those trees are stirred by the wind the blossoms drop onto the lotus ponds, so the water in all the lotus ponds has become imbued with the fragrance of sandalwood with its color and with its smell.

85.12 “ ‘The bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata along with his retinue, together with sixty-eight thousand women, endowed with an abundance of the five sorts of sense objects, play, delight, and take great pleasure there, and all those other male and female beings living in that city also enjoy those parks and lotus ponds, are endowed with an [F.185.b] abundance of the five sorts of sense objects, and play, delight in, and take great pleasure in them.

85.13 “ ‘Furthermore, even as the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata along with his retinue play, delight, and take great pleasure, he teaches them the perfection of wisdom during the three time periods. Those beings living in the city of Gandhavatī show their respect for the Dharma like this: They set up a throne for the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata at the main crossroads in the center of the city with one leg of gold, one leg of silver, one leg of beryl, and one leg of crystal<sup>1085</sup> with a cotton cloth spread over, with a soft pillow and a cushion on top covered with Vārāṇāsī cotton, and with a cloth canopy with interconnected pearl ornamentation about half a krośa above it in the sky. Over that ground and its surroundings, they strew the five different sorts of colored flowers and imbue the place with fragrance from different sorts of perfumes and incense. The bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata seats himself there and teaches the perfection of wisdom, and those beings showing such respect, son of a good family, listen to the perfection of wisdom from the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata. From among those gods and humans, those many hundreds of beings, many thousands of beings, many hundreds of thousands of beings, some listen to it being read aloud, some take it up, some bear it in mind, some go over it again and again, some clearly articulate it, some recite it from memory, some write it out, and some pay proper attention and understand it. None of those beings is subject to making a blunder. They are all irreversible from unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.

85.14 “ ‘Son of a good family, go into the presence [F.186.a] of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata and you will learn the perfection of wisdom from him. Son of a good family, he has been your spiritual friend for a long time, the one who perfectly reveals and inspires you to take up unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, who fires you up and excites you about it. Son of a good family, I too earlier sought the perfection of wisdom just as you are now seeking it. Son of a good family, pay attention day and night and keep on going constantly,<sup>1086</sup> and before long you will hear the perfection of wisdom.’

85.15 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, having heard that, was pleased, delighted, enraptured, overjoyed, and filled with joy and mental happiness.

85.16 “It is just like when a person pierced by a poisoned dart is concerned with nothing else except the thought, ‘When will I find a doctor who will free me from this suffering and remove this dart?’ Similarly, the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita was concerned with no other dharma except the thought, ‘When will I see that son of a good family who will let me hear the perfection of wisdom, and, having heard that Dharma, eliminate the attention I pay to falsely apprehended facts?’

85.17 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, while remaining right on that very spot, generated the perception of the absence of a standing place in all dharmas, and many meditative stabilization gateways became evident to him—namely, the sarvadharmasvabhāvaavyavalokana meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmasvabhāvānupalabdhi meditative stabilization, [F.186.b] the sarvadharmājñānāpagata<sup>1087</sup> meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmānirvikāradarśin meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmāvabhāsakara meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmatamopagata meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmājñānavidhvaṃsana meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmānupalabdhi meditative stabilization, the kusumābhikīrṇa meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmātmabhāvānabhinirhāra meditative stabilization, the māyāvivarjita meditative stabilization, the ādarśamaṇḍalapratibhāsanirhāra meditative stabilization, the sarvasattvarutanirhāra meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmānirnānātva meditative stabilization, the sarvasattvābhipramodana meditative stabilization, the sarvasattvarutakauśalyānugata meditative stabilization, the nānārutapadavyaṅjanābhinirhāra meditative stabilization, the astambhita meditative stabilization, the prakṛtyavalokita<sup>1088</sup> meditative stabilization, the anāvaraṇavimokṣapṛāpta meditative stabilization, the rajopagata meditative stabilization, the nāmaniruktipadavyaṅjana meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmavipaśyana meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmānāvāraṇakoṭi meditative stabilization,<sup>1089</sup> the gaganakalpa meditative stabilization, the vajropama meditative stabilization, the āsannarūparājas<sup>1090</sup> meditative stabilization, the jayalabdha meditative stabilization,<sup>1091</sup> the avivartyacakṣus meditative stabilization, the dharmadhātunirgata meditative stabilization,<sup>1092</sup> [F.187.a] the āśvāsadātā meditative stabilization, the siṃhābhigarjita meditative stabilization, the sarvasattvābhibhavana<sup>1093</sup> meditative stabilization, the vigatarajas meditative stabilization, the asaṃkliṣṭa meditative stabilization, the padmavyūha meditative stabilization, the kāṅkṣocchedana meditative stabilization, the sarvasārānugata meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmābhyudgata meditative stabilization, the abhijñābalavaiśāradypṛāpta meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmānirvedhaka meditative stabilization,<sup>1094</sup> the sarvadharmavibhavasamudra meditative stabilization,<sup>1095</sup> the sarvadharmānirviśeṣadarśin meditative stabilization, the sarvadyṣṭikṛtagahanavivarjita meditative stabilization, the tamopagata meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmānimittāpagata meditative stabilization, the sarvasaṅgavimukta meditative stabilization, the sarvakausīdyāpagata meditative stabilization, the gambhīradharmaprabhākara meditative stabilization, the merukalpa meditative stabilization, the asaṃhārya meditative stabilization, the māramaṇḍalavidhvaṃsanakara meditative stabilization, the trailokyānabhiviniṣṭa meditative stabilization, the raśminirhāra meditative stabilization, and the tathāgatadarśana meditative stabilization<sup>1096</sup> became evident to him.

85.18 “While remaining in those meditative stabilizations, he beheld countless, infinite lord buddhas in world systems [F.187.b] in the ten directions, who were illuminating this perfection of wisdom for the bodhisattva great beings. Those tathāgatas, having complimented him with ‘excellent’ and assured him, said, ‘Son of a good family, earlier when we were undertaking the bodhisattva’s practice we sought for the perfection of wisdom like this, and when we were seeking we also attained these meditative stabilizations; having attained these meditative stabilizations we became advanced in our comprehension of the perfection of wisdom and became grounded in the irreversible buddhadharmas. As we looked at the intrinsic nature and basic nature of these meditative stabilizations, we did not see any phenomenon at all that becomes absorbed, that arises from absorption, that practices for awakening, or that would fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Son of a good family, this is that perfection of wisdom. Son of a good family, having stood without falsely projecting superiority or not falsely projecting superiority on account of any phenomenon we have gained such a body as this with a color like gold and obtained the thirty-two major marks, eighty minor signs, a halo extending the length of our outstretched arms, the inconceivable knowledge of a buddha and unsurpassed wisdom of a buddha, the unsurpassed meditative stabilization of a buddha, and the perfection of all the good qualities of a buddha—a perfection of good qualities that even tathāgatas cannot take the measure of or see the end of, never mind śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas. Therefore, son of a good family, produce a great feeling of respect for just these dharmas, intensely seeking for and wanting to obtain them. [F.188.a] Son of a good family, when you seek for and want to obtain unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, it is not hard to gain. Produce an intense feeling of respect for your spiritual friends and cherish them. Bodhisattva great beings who are looked after by spiritual friends will quickly and fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.’

85.19 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita asked those tathāgatas, ‘Who is my spiritual friend?’

85.20 “They said to him, ‘Son of a good family, for a long time you have been matured for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening and assisted by the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, who has trained you in the perfection of wisdom and skillful means. Son of a good family, he is the spiritual friend assisting you, so bear in mind as an order what he says to you. Son of a good family, if you should wrap the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata like a turban on your head for an eon, or two eons, or a hundred eons, or a thousand eons, or even more eons than that, and attend to his needs with all the prerequisites for happiness, offer him all the shapes, sounds, smells, tastes, and feelings in a great billionfold world system, as many as there are, son of a good family, you still would not have paid him back for what he has done for you. And why? Because, son of a good family, through his power you have gained such meditative stabilizations as these, have heard about the perfection of wisdom and skillful means, and have obtained the perfection of wisdom.’ [F.188.b]

85.21 “Then those tathāgatas, having assured the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, disappeared. That son of a good family emerged from those meditative stabilizations, and having emerged it still occurred to him to wonder, ‘Where did those tathāgatas come from and where did they go?’

Unable to see those tathāgatas, he became distressed and unhappy. It also occurred to him to think, ‘That bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata has obtained the dhāraṇīs, has the five clairvoyances, has served well the victors of the past, and as my spiritual friend has looked after me. He has worked for my welfare for a long time, so I am going to go into the presence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata and, when I get there I will ask about this matter, about where those tathāgatas came from and where they went.’

85.22 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita constantly cultivated an attitude of liking, serene confidence, reverence,<sup>1097</sup> and respect for the bodhisattva great being Dharmdogata, and having constantly cultivated that attitude, he began to worry: ‘I am destitute, so what can I take to show my respect when I go into the presence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmdogata? I do not have anything like a robe, or jewel, or gold, or precious stone, or pearl, or beryl, or conch shell, or crystal, or coral, or silver, or fine sand particles of gold, or flowers, or a perfumed flower garland, or a cream, or a parasol. Were I [F.189.a] to go into the presence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmdogata like this it would be wrong of me. I feel no joy or delight.’

85.23 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, endowed with such qualities and with such a respectful attitude toward the guru, set off and gradually reached another city. When he went into the middle of the marketplace, it occurred to him to think, ‘I should sell myself and with the profit get something to show respect to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata. For a long time, thousands of my bodies have been destroyed, come to an end, and been sold, and over immeasurable cyclic existences I have experienced immeasurable suffering in hell again and again because of the desire for sense gratification caused by sense objects, but not because of such a Dharma as this or in order to have something to show respect to such a great being as this.’

85.24 “The bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita then stood in the marketplace and advertised himself, shouting, ‘Who wants a man? Who wants a man?’

85.25 “Then it occurred to Māra the wicked one to think, ‘This bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, having sold himself out of a desire for the Dharma, will then show respect to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata and in regard to the perfection of wisdom and skillful means will inquire, “How should a bodhisattva great being practice the perfection of wisdom and quickly and fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, receive a veritable ocean of sacred learning, not be overpowered by Māra and the Māra class of gods, and obtain the perfection of all good qualities?” There he will work for the welfare of many beings and, having fully

- awakened [F.189.b] to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, will cause them to pass beyond my sphere of influence and will cause other beings as well to pass beyond my sphere of influence. I have to block him in this.’
- 85.26 “Somehow or other Māra the wicked one cast a spell over the brahmins and landowners so that they could not hear the shout of the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita calling out, ‘Who wants a man? Who wants to purchase me?’
- 85.27 “Then, when the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita found there was nobody to purchase him, he stood off to the side and wept, lamenting, ‘When I thought to sell myself to find something to show respect to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, I could not even find somebody to purchase me. What I found is something terrible to find.’
- 85.28 “Then it occurred to Śatakratu, head of the gods, to think, ‘Does the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita have such a perfect surpassing aspiration—namely, to give up his body out of a desire for the Dharma—or not? I will put this bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita through a trial.’
- 85.29 Having magically produced himself disguised in the form of a brahmin student, he went specifically to where the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita was, and having gone there he asked the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, ‘Son of a good family, what is the problem such that you are so miserable, distraught, and weeping like this?’
- 85.30 “ ‘Brahmin student,’ he replied, ‘I wanted to sell myself out of a desire for the Dharma, in order to worship the Dharma, but I found nobody to purchase me. This made me think, “Oh, I really have very little merit, [F.190.a] because when I had the idea to sell myself to worship the perfection of wisdom and to show respect to the noble bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, I still could not even find somebody to purchase me.” ’
- 85.31 “Then that brahmin student said to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, ‘I do not want a man, but I am making a sacrifice, and for that I need a human heart, blood, bone, and marrow. Make a deal with me for that.’
- 85.32 “The bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita thought, ‘I have found something excellent to find, and good to find in that I have found this brahmin student who will purchase my heart, blood, bone, and marrow, and the final outcome of my body will be in the perfection of wisdom and skillful means.’ He was thrilled, cheered up, and overjoyed, and he said to the brahmin student, ‘Brahmin student, you can take what you want from this body of mine.’
- 85.33 “ ‘Son of a good family,’ he replied, ‘I will give you whatever payment you want.’
- “He said to him, ‘Brahmin student, give me whatever you will part with.’

- 85.34 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita took a sharp sword, stabbed his right arm and made the blood flow out, stabbed his right thigh and stripped all the flesh off, and went up to a wall to smash the bone to get the marrow.
- 85.35 “Then a merchant’s daughter sitting on the top floor of her house saw that bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita strip all the flesh off his thigh and go up to the wall to smash the bone and thought, ‘Why is this son of a good family [F.190.b] hurting himself like this? I am going to go up to that son of a good family and ask him.’
- 85.36 “That merchant’s daughter went right to where the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita was and, having gone, asked the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, ‘Son of a good family, why are you hurting yourself like this? What are you going to do with this blood, bone, and marrow?’ ”
- 85.37 “Sadāprarudita said to the merchant’s daughter, ‘Having sold it to this brahmin student, I will worship the perfection of wisdom and will also show respect to the noble bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata.’
- 85.38 “Then that merchant’s daughter asked the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, ‘Son of a good family, having sold your heart, blood, bone, and marrow like this, son of a good family, what kind of good quality will you, who want to show respect to him, accomplish?’
- 85.39 “ ‘Young lady,’ he replied to her, ‘that son of a good family will instruct me in the perfection of wisdom and skillful means in which I have to train, and when I have trained in them, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, I will become a support for all beings. I will also obtain a body gold-like in color, and I will also obtain the thirty-two major marks of a great person, a halo extending the length of two outstretched arms, endless light rays, great love, great compassion, great joy, and great equanimity, the four fearlessnesses, the four detailed and thorough knowledges, and the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha. [F.191.a] I will complete the five clairvoyances; inconceivably pure morality, inconceivably pure meditative stabilization, and inconceivably pure wisdom; the ten tathāgata powers; and perfect, complete knowledge, and I will obtain the unsurpassed Dharma jewel that is to be apportioned out among all beings.’
- 85.40 “That merchant’s daughter then said to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, ‘Son of a good family, it is totally amazing, these dharmas you have proclaimed that are so vast. You have to give your body away for as many eons as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River for the sake of each of such dharmas as these, never mind for one. Son of a good family, I will give you whatever gold, or jewel, or pearl, or beryl, or silver, or flowers, or incense, or perfume, or fragrance,<sup>1098</sup> or flower garland, or cream, or powder, or robe, or parasol you need to show respect to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, but do not hurt yourself like this. I will also accompany you. I will go right to where the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata is, and together with you I too will cause such wholesome roots to grow—namely, those for obtaining such dharmas as those.’

85.41 “Then Śatakratu, head of the gods, having thrown off his brahmin student disguise, stood in front of bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita in his own body and said, [F.191.b] ‘Excellent, son of a good family; excellent that you have such a firm commitment! Earlier, when out of a desire for such dharmas, previous tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas were undertaking the practice of a bodhisattva, they completed the perfection of wisdom and skillful means and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Son of a good family, I have no use for a heart, blood, bone, and marrow. I came here to test you. Son of a good family, pick whatever favor you want. Whatever the favor, son of a good family, I will grant it to you.’

85.42 “He said to him, ‘Śatakratu, please give me the unsurpassed buddhadharmas.’

“Śatakratu replied, ‘Son of a good family, this is a specific object that does not lie within my range. This is an object that lies specifically within the range of the lord buddhas. Pick some other favor.’

85.43 “The bodhisattva Sadāprarudita said, ‘Head of the gods, do not concern yourself with my body being in this state that needs to be made whole. Head of the gods, I myself will unleash the controlling power of truth. Head of the gods, if it is true that the tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas have prophesied that I am irreversible from full awakening to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and if I am known from my immovable surpassing aspiration, then through that truth and through the truth of those words, let my body become as it was before.’ Having said that, through the power of the Buddha and the purity of the surpassing aspiration, at that very moment, in that second, in the time it takes to blink, the body of the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita was reconstituted as it was before. [F.192.a] Then Śatakratu, head of the gods, lost his confidence giving a readiness to speak and, unable to muster up the confidence to say anything in reply to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, simply vanished on the spot.<sup>1099</sup>

85.44 “Then that merchant’s daughter said to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, ‘Son of a good family, come here. Come right to where my home is. I will get my parents to donate some jewels so you can worship the perfection of wisdom and show respect to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata with them.’

85.45 “The bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, accompanied by that merchant’s daughter, then went right to her home. Having arrived at her home<sup>1100</sup> that merchant’s daughter then said to her parents, ‘Mother, father, please give me a lot of gold, and silver, and jewels, and precious stones, and flowers, and incense, and perfume, and flower garlands, and creams, and powders, and robes, and a parasol, and a royal ensign, and a banner, and what is needed for making music.<sup>1101</sup> Please release<sup>1102</sup> the five hundred servant girls you have given me. We will accompany the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita and go to worship the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata. He will also teach us the Dharma.’

85.46 “Then that young lady’s parents asked her, ‘Daughter, who is this bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita? Daughter, where is this son of a good family now?’

85.47 “The young lady said, ‘That son of a good family has right now arrived at our front gateway. That son of a good family with the unsurpassed aspiration—namely, the desire to set all beings free [F.192.b] from the infinite sufferings of saṃsāra—has set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. Out of a desire for the Dharma he was selling himself, wanting to worship the perfection of wisdom and wanting to get something to show respect to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata. Unable to get anybody to purchase his body, he was suffering, unhappy, and miserable and said, “When I wanted to sell myself, I could not find somebody to purchase me.” Then Śatakratu, having transformed himself into the form of a brahmin student, asked him, “Son of a good family, what do you want to sell yourself for?” and Sadāprarudita said, “Through this I will get something to worship the perfection of wisdom and show respect to that noble bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata as well; my buddhadharmas are contingent on that, which is to say, out of a desire for the Dharma.” Then Śatakratu, in the form of a brahmin student, said, “I do not need you. But I am making a sacrifice, and for that I need a human heart, blood, bone, and marrow.” That son of a good family, without despairing, said to him, “I will give it,” took a sharp sword, stabbed his arm and made himself bleed, stripped the flesh off his thigh, and, going off to smash the bone, stood off to one side thinking, “I will donate the bone and marrow.” I had gone up to the top floor of the house, so I saw him bleeding there and I wondered about that, “Why is this man hurting himself like this?” So I went up to him and spoke to him. I asked, “Son of a good family, why are you yourself making your body bleed like this? What are you doing this for?” [F.193.a] He said to me, “I am giving my blood, heart, bone, and marrow to this brahmin student. Why? Because I am destitute. I have no other wealth at all.” I asked, “What are you going to use your wealth for?” and he said to me, “It is for this, namely, to worship the perfection of wisdom and to get something to show respect to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata out of a desire for the Dharma." I asked him, "Son of a good family, what kind, or what special good quality will you get from that?" and he said to me, "On account of this he will reveal to me the inconceivable good qualities of a buddha and infinite dharmas of a buddha. I will get dharmas such as those from this." Having heard about those inconceivable good qualities of a buddha, I too felt joy and immense delight and thought, "It is totally amazing that this son of a good family would have such enthusiasm for such a condition<sup>1103</sup> as this and be so overjoyed. If this son of a good family, out of a desire for the Dharma, is giving even himself away, why would we, who have vast possessions, not worship the Dharma? Why would we not make prayers for such states as those?" Then I said to that son of a good family, "Son of a good family, do not hurt yourself like this. I will give you a lot of the wealth you need to show respect to the noble bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata. I will also accompany you and will go right to where the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata is, and I too will worship that son of a good family. I too will obtain what you have proclaimed, namely, these unsurpassed buddhadharmas." [F.193.b] So, father and mother, please give me a great pile of treasure, and I together with that son of a good family will worship the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata.' [B60]

85.48 "Then that daughter's parents said to their daughter, 'From what you have told us about those excruciating conditions of that son of a good family, those dharmas are definitely inconceivable, superior in all the world, and bring about happiness for all beings. And that son of a good family is eager for such an excruciating condition for the sake of them, so we grant you our permission. But we too, daughter, together with you will go to see the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, and we also will worship him. Arrange for us the opportunity to go as well.'

85.49 "That young lady then prepared to leave<sup>1104</sup> in order to worship and serve the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata and said to her parents, 'I am not going to stand in the way of anyone on the side of good.'

85.50 "Then that merchant's daughter decked out five hundred carriages with ornaments, decked out those five hundred girls with ornaments, and, having decked them out, while holding flowers of various colors; holding incense, and perfume, and flower garlands, and creams, and powders, and robes, and a parasol, and a royal ensign, and a banner; holding aloft gold and silver flowers; holding an assortment of various jewels, and bringing along hard food, soft food, and tasty food to eat in a copious abundance, got into one carriage together with the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita [F.194.a] while the five hundred girls got into their five hundred carriages surrounding them, and with a huge retinue, starting with her mother and father in front, they set off traveling specifically to the east.

85.51 “After they had gone along stage by stage, the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita saw from afar the city of Gandhavatī with the colors of the seven precious stones, built beautiful to behold, surrounded by a series of seven ramparts of the seven precious stones, with seven archways, surrounded by a series of seven moats and a series of seven rows of palm trees, twelve yojanas long and twelve yojanas wide, prosperous, thriving, secure, with an abundant food supply, full of many people and living creatures, laid out like a picture beautifully made with five hundred identical matching streets going through the city with ample space for palanquins, and crisscrossed at intervals with bridges excellently built. He saw seated on a Dharma throne at the crossroads at its center the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, at the head of and surrounded by a retinue of many hundreds, many thousands, many hundreds of thousands, explaining the Dharma. The moment he saw him he obtained a joy and happiness just like that of a monk when he is absorbed in the first concentration with single-pointed attention, and seeing him he thought, ‘It would not be becoming of me to go into the presence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata while seated in a carriage,’ so he got down from his carriage, and the merchant’s daughter and the five hundred girls got down from their carriages together with him too. Then, with the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita surrounded by the merchant’s daughter and the five hundred girls and so on in front, [F.194.b] all proceeded specifically toward the infinite array<sup>1105</sup> and the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata.

85.52 “The bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata had had an upper chamber on the roof constructed for the perfection of wisdom, made out of the seven precious stones, ornamented with red sandalwood, and draped in a net of pearls, and at that time, in order to worship the perfection of wisdom, seven jewels had been placed at the four corners of the upper chamber on the roof doing the work of lamps, and four censers made of silver were hanging down at the four sides in which pure black agaru<sup>1106</sup> was smoldering. In the center of the upper chamber four<sup>1107</sup> thrones made of the seven precious stones had been set down, four jeweled chests had been placed on them, and a golden book of the Perfection of Wisdom written in melted beryl had been put in those. That upper chamber on the roof was also adorned with variously colored hanging tassels.

85.53 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita and the merchant’s daughter together with the five hundred girls saw that upper chamber on the roof adorned with the infinite array, and saw many thousands of gods, and also saw Śatakratu, head of the gods, showering down on, showering over, and showering right over that upper chamber on the roof divine mandārava flowers, divine sandalwood powder, divine gold dust, and divine silver dust. They also heard divine instrumental music.

85.54 “Having seen and heard that, the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita asked Śatakratu, head of the gods, ‘Head of the gods, why are you and many thousands of gods showering down on, showering over, and showering right over [F.195.a] that jeweled upper chamber on the roof mandārava flowers and sandalwood powder, and why are the gods playing this divine instrumental music up in the sky?’

85.55 “The bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita having asked that, Śatakratu, head of the gods, said to him, ‘Son of a good family, are you not aware that this is the perfection of wisdom, the mother and guide of the bodhisattva great beings, and by training in it bodhisattva great beings will quickly gain the perfection of all good qualities, all the buddhadharmas, and all-knowledge as well?’

85.56 “Śatakratu, head of the gods, having said that, the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita asked him, ‘Kauśika, where is the perfection of wisdom, the mother and guide of the bodhisattva great beings?’

85.57 “ ‘It is in this upper chamber on the roof,’ replied Śatakratu. ‘The noble bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata has placed it there, having written it in melted beryl in a golden book and sealed it with seven seals. It is difficult for us to show it to you.’

85.58 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, with the merchant’s daughter and together with the five hundred girls, came forward as a group bearing flowers and bunches of flower garlands, and jeweled robes, and incense, and perfume, and flower garlands, and creams, and powders, and robes, and a parasol, and a royal ensign, and a banner, and gold and silver flowers, as much as they had, and they worshiped the perfection of wisdom with them. Each of them, too, had set aside [F.195.b] a portion from that for showing respect to the noble bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata.

85.59 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita,<sup>1108</sup> having earlier worshiped the perfection of wisdom with flowers, and incense, and perfume, and flower garlands, and creams, and powders, and clothes, and a royal ensign, and a banner and so on, went right to where the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata was, and, having gone there, in order just to worship the Dharma, strewed near, strewed in front, and strewed all around the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata flowers, and incense, and perfume, and flower garlands, and creams, and powders, and robes, and a parasol, and a royal ensign, and a banner, and sandalwood powder, and gold and silver flowers.

85.60 “Those flowers then became a second story of flowers above the head of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata; the gold and silver flowers remained like a palace<sup>1109</sup> in the sky; and those robes and jeweled robes remained like a choice circle of clouds made of various precious stones. Beholding such a miracle of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata’s miraculous power, the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, the merchant’s daughter, and the five hundred girls thought, ‘This is amazing! Even while this bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, this son of a good family, is pursuing the career of a bodhisattva, he has such great miraculous power, is so very mighty, and has such great energy. What, then, is it going to be like when he has fully awakened to unsurpassed, [F.196.a] perfect, complete awakening?’

85.61 “Then, starting with that merchant’s daughter, those five hundred girls generated a tremendous feeling of delight in the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata. They all produced the thought of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening and said, ‘In the future may we, from this wholesome root, become tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas. May we, even while pursuing the career of a bodhisattva, obtain those dharmas that are just like these dharmas that the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata has obtained, and even while pursuing the career of a bodhisattva, may we actualize such dharmas as those. May we come to show respect to the perfection of wisdom just as the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata shows respect to the perfection of wisdom; and just as the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata teaches it to many people, may we teach it too. Just as this bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata is endowed with and perfected in the perfection of wisdom and skillful means, may we too come to be endowed with and perfected in the perfection of wisdom and skillful means.’

85.62 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita and those five hundred girls starting with the merchant’s daughter, having worshiped the perfection of wisdom and also showed respect to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, bowed their heads to the feet of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata and, treating him with respect, [F.196.b] stood to one side with palms cupped together in a gesture of supplication.

85.63 “While standing to one side, the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita said to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, ‘Son of a good family, here, while searching for the perfection of wisdom, I went to a remote jungle hermitage and heard a voice saying, “Son of a good family, go east and listen to the perfection of wisdom!” Having heard that voice, I went specifically to the east, but it occurred to me that I had not asked the voice how far I should go and who I would find to hear the perfection of wisdom from, so I felt very unhappy and distraught. I spent seven days and nights right on that very spot. Because I was so distraught, I did not have the customary thoughts about eating; rather, I focused my attention on just the perfection of wisdom. While thinking, “I did not ask the voice how far I should go and who I would find to hear the perfection of wisdom from,” a shape assumed by a tathāgata appeared in my presence and it said, “Son of a good family, go five hundred yojanas from here, and in a city called Gandhavatī you will see the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata teaching the perfection of wisdom.”

85.64 “ ‘Having heard that from that shape assumed by a tathāgata, I set out and went on, as I had been told, specifically to the east, and I saw from afar a noble Dharma preacher, and the moment I saw him I felt a happiness just like that of a monk who has entered into the first concentration. [F.197.a] Suffused by that joy and delight, I did not move from that spot, and I heard the perfection of wisdom from you.<sup>1110</sup> As I listened to it, many meditative stabilization gateways arose, and as I stood in them, the lord buddhas in world systems in the ten directions assured me and said, “Excellent, excellent, son of a good family, these meditative stabilizations of yours have arisen from the perfection of wisdom. We too, having stood in them, completed the buddhadharmas.” Thus, those tathāgatas taught me excellently, inspired me, fired me up, and excited me. Then they disappeared, and, having emerged from those meditative stabilizations, it occurred to me to wonder, “Where did those tathāgatas come from and where have they gone?” Then I again thought, “The bodhisattva great being noble Dharmodgata has done the work under the victors of the past, planted wholesome roots, and is well trained in the perfection of wisdom and skillful means. He will reveal to me where those tathāgatas came from and where those tathāgatas have gone.” So, son of a good family, I am asking you where those tathāgatas came from and where those tathāgatas have gone. Please teach me about the coming and going of those tathāgatas so we will be knowledgeable about the coming and going of those tathāgatas and will not become separated from seeing the tathāgatas.’ ”

85.65 This was the eighty-fifth chapter, “Sadāprarudita,” [F.197.b] of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

CHAPTER 86: DHARMODGATA

- 86.1 “Having said this, the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata said to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, ‘Son of a good family, tathāgatas have not come from anywhere and have not gone anywhere. They do not move from suchness. The Tathāgata is suchness.
- 86.2 “ ‘Son of a good family, there is no coming or going in what is not produced. The Tathāgata is not produced.
 “ ‘Son of a good family, there is no coming or going in the very limit of reality. The Tathāgata is the very limit of reality.
- 86.3 “ ‘Son of a good family, there is no coming or going in emptiness. The Tathāgata is emptiness.
 “ ‘Son of a good family, there is no coming or going in things as they really are. The Tathāgata is things as they really are.
- 86.4 “ ‘Son of a good family, there is no coming or going in what is separated from greed. The Tathāgata is separated from greed.
 “ ‘Son of a good family, there is no coming or going in a cessation. The Tathāgata is a cessation.
- 86.5 “ ‘Son of a good family, there is no coming or going in the element of space. The Tathāgata is the element of space.
 “ ‘Son of a good family, the Tathāgata is not other than those dharmas. Son of a good family, the suchness of those dharmas and the suchness of the Tathāgata is a single suchness. Suchness, son of a good family, cannot be divided. Son of a good family, the one suchness is beyond being counted as two or three because of this—namely, it is not a state of being. [F.198.a]
- 86.6 “ ‘Son of a good family, it is just like this: a man oppressed by the sun at midday in the middle of the last month of the hot season might see a shimmering mirage and run after it, thinking, “I will drink some water from it.” What do you think, son of a good family, has that water come from somewhere and gone somewhere? Has it gone anywhere, to the ocean in the eastern direction, or the ocean in the southern direction, or the ocean in the western direction, or the ocean in the northern direction?’

86.7 “Sadāprarudita said, ‘Son of a good family, given that a mirage has no water, how could it come or go? Son of a good family, a man with a naturally childish disposition, a naturally confused disposition, oppressed by the sun, sees a mirage and forms the notion of water where there is no water, even though, in its basic nature, water does not exist there.’

86.8 “ ‘Exactly so, son of a good family, exactly so,’ replied Dharmodgata. ‘And so too, son of a good family, do those with deep-seated attachment to a tathāgata’s form or voice mentally construct the coming or going of a tathāgata. Those who mentally construct a coming and going of a tathāgata are all said to have naturally childish dispositions, naturally confused dispositions, just like the person who forms the notion of water where there is no water. And why? It is because a tathāgata should not be viewed as a form body; the tathāgatas are dharma bodies. Son of a good family, the true nature of dharmas does not come or go, and similarly there is no coming or going of the tathāgatas.

86.9 “ ‘Son of a good family, it is just like this: there is no coming or going of a group of elephants, or a group of horses, or a group of chariots, or a group of infantry conjured up by a magician. Similarly, son of a good family, there is no coming or going of a tathāgata’s body.

86.10 “ ‘Son of a good family, it is just like this: in a dream a person who has fallen asleep [F.198.b] sees one or two or three or four or five or ten or twenty or thirty or forty or fifty or even more tathāgatas than that, but when they wake up, they do not see even a single tathāgata. Son of a good family, what do you think, did those tathāgatas come from anywhere or go anywhere?’

86.11 “ ‘Son of a good family,’ replied Sadāprarudita, ‘there is no dharma established at all in a dream. A dream is lie. It is not real.’<sup>1111</sup>

86.12 “ ‘Exactly, son of a good family,’ said Dharmodgata. ‘The Tathāgata has said, “All dharmas are like a dream.” Son of a good family, those who do not understand that the Tathāgata’s teaching “all dharmas are like a dream” is in accord with reality have a deep-seated attachment to a tathāgata as a name body<sup>1112</sup> or form body. Those who do not understand the true nature of dharmas like that mentally construct the coming or going of a tathāgata. Those foolish, ordinary people who accept that a tathāgata has come or has gone, they all have gone, are going,<sup>1113</sup> and will go through the six forms of life in cyclic existence, and they are all far from the perfection of wisdom; they are all far from the buddhadharmas.

- 86.13 “Furthermore, son of a good family, those who know that the Tathāgata’s teaching “all dharmas are like a dream” is in accord with the reality that all dharmas are like a dream do not mentally construct the coming or going or production or stopping of any dharma. Those who do not mentally construct the coming or going or production or stopping of any dharma know a tathāgata as the true nature of dharmas. Those who know a tathāgata as the true nature of dharmas do not mentally construct [F.199.a] the coming or going of a tathāgata. Those who know that the true dharmic nature of a tathāgata is like that are close to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. A city’s almsgiving to those śrāvakas of the Lord will not be in vain. They are each of them worthy of the world’s gifts.
- 86.14 “ ‘Son of a good family, it is just like this: The jewels that are in the ocean do not come from the eastern direction, and they do not come from the south, west, or north, the intermediate directions, or below or above—from anywhere in the ten directions—but still those jewels arise in the ocean based on the wholesome roots of those beings. They do not arise without a cause; they have originated dependently, contingent on cause, conditions, and support, and the jewels that are held back have not changed places to be somewhere else in the worlds of the ten directions. But still, when the conditions are right, those jewels separate themselves out, and when conditions are not right, the separating out of those jewels does not occur.<sup>1114</sup>
- 86.15 “ ‘Similarly, son of a good family, when a body of those tathāgatas comes into being, it does not come from anywhere and it does not go anywhere in the worlds of the ten directions, but still the body of those lord buddhas is not without a cause. It has come into being from earlier practice, contingent on cause and conditions, from the maturation of past actions, originated from its cause. When those conditions are right, that body comes into being, and when conditions are not right, the coming into being of that body does not manifest.
- 86.16 “ ‘Son of a good family, it is just like this: When a sound is produced from a vīṇā, it does not come from anywhere, and when it stops it does not go anywhere—it does not change places to be somewhere else. It originates dependently, contingent on causes and contingent on conditions— [F.199.b] namely, contingent on an oval-shaped trough, contingent on a leather skin, contingent on strings, contingent on a bow, contingent on the neck, and contingent on the energy the person expends on it. The sound originates from the vīṇā but that sound does not come out of the oval-shaped trough of the vīṇā, does not come out of the leather skin, does not come out of the strings, does not come out of the bow, does not come out of the neck, and does not come out of the energy the person expends on it. Rather, it resounds from the complete collection of them. Also, the stopping of that sound does not go anywhere.

86.17 “ ‘Similarly, son of a good family, the bodies of those lord buddhas come into being contingent on causes and contingent on conditions. They come into being not from a single cause and from a single condition but from many wholesome roots. The separating out of a body of a buddha is not from a single wholesome root, and it is also not without a cause, coming into being from the complete collection of many causes and conditions. It has not come from anywhere, and, when the collection of causes and conditions is not there, it also has not gone anywhere.

86.18 “ ‘So, son of a good family, you should view the coming and going of those tathāgatas like that. Son of a good family, you should comprehend the true dharmic nature of all dharmas like that as well. Son of a good family, so long as you have the awareness that all dharmas have not been produced and have not stopped, you will be destined for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening and will definitely be practicing the perfection of wisdom and skillful means.’

86.19 “When this explanation of tathāgatas not coming or going had been given, the earth shook greatly: the entirety of this great billionfold world system shook in six ways, that is, it shook, shook greatly, and shook violently; it quaked, quaked greatly, and quaked violently. [F.200.a] All of Māra’s habitations were churned up and unnerved, and the grass, branches of the trees, and forests, as many as there were, in the great billionfold world system all bowed specifically in the direction of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata. Flowers out of season were strewn from the sky above and a rain of flowers descended. Śatakratu, head of the gods, and the Four Mahārājas also showered down on, showered over, and showered right over the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita divine sandalwood powder and divine flowers and said, ‘Through your power today we have also heard a lecture sprung from the ultimate that is an explanation that is antithetical to all worlds and is not for those who take a stand on the perishable collection.’

86.20 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita asked the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, ‘Son of a good family, what caused this great shaking of the world to happen? What is the reason for it?’

86.21 “ ‘Son of a good family,’ replied Dharmodgata, ‘it is because, on account of my explanation, when you asked about tathāgatas not coming and not going, eight thousand beings gained forbearance for the nonproduction of dharmas, eighty billion produced the thought of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and for sixty-four thousand beings the dust-free and stainless Dharma eye became clear.’

- 86.22 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita became endowed with an immense joy and delight, thinking, ‘I have found something excellent to find, [F.200.b] because this explanation from my asking about the perfection of wisdom, and about tathāgatas not coming and going, has worked for the welfare of so many beings. Just because of this, I, with the finest wholesome root to bring unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening to completion, will have no more uncertainty in regard to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. I will, without doubt, become a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha.’ Endowed with that joy and delight he levitated to the height of seven palm trees into the sky and, standing there at the height of seven palm trees, thought, ‘Standing in the sky, I should show respect to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata.’
- 86.23 “Then Śatakratu, head of the gods, seeing the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita levitating, and knowing in his mind what he was thinking, gave him divine mandārava flowers and said, ‘Son of a good family, show respect to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata with these flowers. This is my assistance to you, because, son of a good family, through your power, the needs of many thousands of beings have been looked after. Son of a good family, those enthusiastic beings who remain with such enthusiasm as you have for infinite, incalculable eons for the sake of all beings are hard come by.’
- 86.24 “The bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita then took those flowers from Śatakratu, head of the gods, and showered them down on, showered them over, and showered them right over the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata and with his own body hovered over him and said to him, ‘Son of a good family, [F.201.a] I give myself to you from now on, to wait on you and to serve you.’ Having offered himself, he stayed in front of him with his palms cupped together in a gesture of supplication.
- 86.25 “Then that merchant’s daughter and the retinue of five hundred said to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, ‘Son of a good family, we too give ourselves to you. Through this wholesome root, may we too acquire those dharmas and may we too wait on the buddhas and bodhisattvas along with you and remain close by you.’
- 86.26 “The bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita then said to that merchant’s daughter and the five hundred, ‘Young women, if you are here with a surpassing intention in regard to me, then give yourself to me with that noblest intention and I will accept you.’
- 86.27 “The young women replied, ‘Out of an absolutely surpassing intention in regard to you we are imitating you. With the noblest of intentions we give ourselves to you to do with as you want.’

- 86.28 “Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, having adorned the five hundred led by the merchant’s daughter with all adornments, and having decked out the five hundred carriages, gave them all to the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, saying, ‘I offer these attendants and these five hundred carriages to you for your enjoyment and use.’
- 86.29 “Then Śatakratu, head of the gods, complimented that son of a good family, ‘Excellent, excellent, son of a good family! Bodhisattva great beings should give all their personal possessions away like that. [F.201.b] Bodhisattva great beings with that sort of thought to give things away will quickly and fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. In that way, having worshiped the Dharma preachers, they are able to hear about the perfection of wisdom and skillful means, because those previous tathāgatas, worthy ones, unsurpassed, perfectly complete buddhas while they were previously pursuing the career of a bodhisattva also continually gave things away like that, inquired about the perfection of wisdom and skillful means, and fully accomplished unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.’
- 86.30 “Then, to fully grow the wholesome root of the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata accepted the five hundred girls led by the merchant’s daughter and the five hundred carriages and, having accepted them, returned them to the son of a good family, Sadāprarudita.
- 86.31 “Then the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata got up from his seat and went into his house. When the sun had set it occurred to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita to think, ‘I have come like this on account of wanting the Dharma, so were I to sit or lie down it would not be becoming of me. It would not be good, so I will remain in these two ways of carrying myself—either standing or walking about—until the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata comes back to teach the Dharma.
- 86.32 “The bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata then became absorbed in a meditative stabilization for seven years, remaining in the countless, infinite meditative stabilizations of a bodhisattva that come about from the perfection of wisdom and skillful means. And during those seven years the bodhisattva great being [F.202.a] Sadāprarudita did not think about sense experience, did not think a malicious thought, did not think a violent thought, and was not greedy for a taste. On the contrary, he only thought, ‘When will the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata emerge? We must arrange the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata’s Dharma seat on which the son of a good family will sit and expound the Dharma, and we must sprinkle water on the ground in the place where the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata will be teaching the perfection of wisdom and skillful means, and we must smooth it out well<sup>1115</sup> and strew various flowers upon it.' Those five hundred girls led by the merchant's daughter followed the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita in the training, passing the time in the two ways of carrying themselves and using him as the model for everything they had to do.

86.33 "Then the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita heard a divine sound announcing, 'In a week the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata will emerge from meditative stabilization, and having emerged he will take a seat in the middle of the city and teach the Dharma.' Having heard that divine voice, the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita felt great pleasure, rapture, and joy; he was overjoyed and felt a mental happiness. Together with the five hundred girls led by the merchant's daughter, he swept that spot and set up a Dharma seat decorated with all the jewels. Then those young women each took off their upper shawls and spread them over that seat on which the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata was to sit and teach the Dharma.

86.34 "Then, when the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita wanted to sprinkle water [F.202.b] on that spot, Māra the wicked one made all the water disappear so that the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, unable to find water anywhere, would become depressed and unhappy and change his mind, so that his wholesome root would shrivel up and those acts of worship would lose their luster. Māra having made the water disappear, Sadāprarudita sought everywhere but could not find water.

86.35 "It then occurred to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita to think, 'I will stab my body and sprinkle my blood on this spot. Why? Because this spot is very dusty, and it would not be proper were dust particles to come from here<sup>1116</sup> and land on the body of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata. What should I do with this body of mine that is definitely subject to destruction? It is better my body is destroyed in this sort of action than in an action over which I have no power. Put there because of the desire for sense gratification caused by sense objects, it is absolutely not appropriate that many hundreds and thousands of such bodies of mine have been destroyed under such conditions.'

86.36 "The bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita then took a sharp sword, stabbed all over his body, and sprinkled his blood all around on that very spot; and all those five hundred young ladies led by the merchant's daughter, following the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita in their training, took sharp swords, stabbed all over their own bodies, and sprinkled their blood on that spot too. Māra the wicked one found no change in the minds of the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita and those young ladies that would have provided him an opportunity to stand in the way of their virtuous practice.

86.37 “Then it occurred to Śatakratu, head of the gods, to think, ‘It is amazing how much this bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita wants the Dharma, how firm he is [F.203.a] in his commitment, how armed he is with the great armor, how little he concerns himself with his body, life, and possessions, and how he has set out in order to reach unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, which is to say, with the surpassing aspiration, “Having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, I will free beings from the infinite sufferings of saṃsāra.” ’

86.38 “Then Śatakratu, head of the gods, employed his controlling power to turn all that blood into divine sandalwood water, and the supreme, sublime, inconceivable fragrance of that divine sandalwood water completely filled five hundred yojanas around that spot with its aroma.

86.39 “Śatakratu, head of the gods, then said to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, ‘Excellent, excellent, son of a good family! Your perseverance is inconceivable, and your desire for the Dharma and your search for the Dharma are unsurpassed. Son of a good family, those previous tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas also fully accomplished unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening with such a surpassing aspiration, such perseverance, and such a desire for the Dharma.’

86.40 “Then it occurred to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita to wonder, ‘I have spread out the Dharma seat for the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, I have swept this spot, and I have sprinkled it, but now, where am I going to find flowers to strew over this spot and to strew over the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata when he is explaining the Dharma?’

86.41 “Śatakratu, head of the gods, then said to the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita, [F.203.b] ‘Son of a good family, take these divine mandāra flowers and spread flowers around on those places. You should also strew them over the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata when he is sitting on the lion throne explaining the Dharma.’ Saying that, he gave him a thousand loads of mandāra flowers. The bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita took those flowers and spread some of them on that spot, and some of them he kept to strew over the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata.

86.42 “Then, after seven years had passed, the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata emerged from meditative stabilization, came specifically to where the seat for teaching the Dharma was, sat on the seat that had been spread out, and taught the perfection of wisdom at the head of a surrounding retinue of many hundreds of thousands. The moment the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita saw the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, he obtained a happiness just like that of a monk when he is absorbed in the first concentration with single pointed attention.

86.43 “You should know this bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata’s exposition of the perfection of wisdom as this: All dharmas are the same, so the perfection of wisdom is the same;<sup>1117</sup> all dharmas are isolated, so the perfection of wisdom is isolated; all dharmas do not move, so the perfection of wisdom does not move; all dharmas do not falsely project anything, so the perfection of wisdom does not falsely project anything; all dharmas are not puffed up, so the perfection of wisdom is not puffed up; all dharmas have one taste, so the perfection of wisdom has one taste; [F.204.a] all dharmas are limitless, so the perfection of wisdom is limitless; all dharmas do not arise, so the perfection of wisdom does not arise; all dharmas do not cease, so the perfection of wisdom does not cease; space has no limits, so the perfection of wisdom has no limits; the ocean has no limits, so the perfection of wisdom has no limits; Sumeru is a complex of colors,<sup>1118</sup> so the perfection of wisdom is a complex of colors; space is without thought construction, so the perfection of wisdom is without thought construction; form is limitless, so the perfection of wisdom is limitless, and similarly, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness are limitless, so the perfection of wisdom is limitless; the earth element is limitless, so the perfection of wisdom is limitless; the water element, fire element, and wind element are limitless, so the perfection of wisdom is limitless; the space element is limitless, so the perfection of wisdom is limitless;<sup>1119</sup> the diamond-like dharma,<sup>1120</sup> is the same so the perfection of wisdom is the same; all dharmas are unadulterated, so the perfection of wisdom is unadulterated; all dharmas are unfindable, so the perfection of wisdom is unfindable; all dharmas are in the same state of disintegration,<sup>1121</sup> so the perfection of wisdom is in the same state of disintegration; all dharmas are without exertion, so the perfection of wisdom is without exertion; and all dharmas are inconceivable, so the perfection of wisdom is inconceivable.

86.44 “Then the bodhisattva great being [F.204.b] Sadāprarudita, while seated just like that, generated the sarvadharmasamatā meditative stabilization.<sup>1122</sup> He also came into the possession of the sarvadharmavivikta meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmācalana meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmāmanana meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmāstambhita meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmāikarasa meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmāparyanta meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmānutpāda meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmānirodha meditative stabilization, the gaganāparyata meditative stabilization, the samudrāparyanta meditative stabilization, the meruvicitra meditative stabilization, the gaganākalpa meditative stabilization, the rūpāparyanta meditative stabilization, the vedanā-, saṃjñā-, saṃskāra-, and viññānāparyanta meditative stabilizations, the ṛthivīdhātvaparyanta meditative stabilization, the abdhātu-, tejodhātu-, and vāyudhātvaparyanta meditative stabilizations, the ākāśadhātvaparyanta meditative stabilization,<sup>1123</sup> the vajropama meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmāsaṃbheda meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmasvabhāvānupalabdhi<sup>1124</sup> meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmāvibhāvanāsamatā<sup>1125</sup> meditative stabilization, the sarvadharmāniśceṣṭa meditative stabilization, and the sarvadharmācintya meditative stabilization. Starting with those, the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita came into possession of six million meditative stabilization gateways.”

86.45 This was the eighty-sixth chapter, “Dharmodgata,” [F.205.a] of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

87.

CHAPTER 87: ENTRUSTING

87.1 “Subhūti, the moment the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita came into possession of those six million meditative stabilization gateways, he beheld, in world systems as many as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in the eastern direction, southern direction, western direction, and northern direction, in the intermediate directions, and in the directions below and above, the lord buddhas surrounded by a community of monks and at the head of an assembly of bodhisattvas, as many as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River, teaching the perfection of wisdom in just such ways as these, with just these names, and in just these words, just as I, Subhūti, the Dharma teacher in this great billionfold world system, am now teaching the perfection of wisdom surrounded by a community of monks and at the head of an assembly of bodhisattvas in just such ways as these, with just these names, and in just these words. He became endowed with inconceivably great learning and an ocean-like erudition; he was never separated from the buddhas wherever he was born; in all his lives he took birth in places where he would come face to face with the lord buddhas; and he was not separated from the lord buddhas even in dreams. He avoided the places that preclude a perfect human birth and accomplished a perfect human birth.<sup>1126</sup>

87.2 “Subhūti,<sup>1127</sup> from this one of many explanations, you should know that this perfection of wisdom brings about the bodhisattva great beings’ knowledge of a knower of all. Therefore, Subhūti, those bodhisattva great beings who want to gain the knowledge of a knower of all should practice the perfection of wisdom.”

87.3 Then the Lord [F.205.b] said to venerable Ānanda, “Ānanda, bodhisattvas must take up, bear in mind, read aloud, and study this perfection of wisdom in order to perfectly look after it.<sup>1128</sup> They must also explicate it in detail to others. Ānanda, bodhisattva great beings should listen to, take up, bear in mind, read aloud, master, read aloud to others, clearly articulate, teach, and recite from memory this perfection of wisdom. Having carefully written it out in a big book with the letters made clear, extremely clear, under the controlling power of the tathāgata, they should respect, revere, honor, worship, praise, and attend to it with flowers, incense, perfumes, creams, powders, robes, parasols, flags and banners, and with rosaries of lamps all around it and by worshiping it in many ways. This, Ānanda, is my instruction. And why? Ānanda, what do you think, is the Tathāgata your teacher?”

“You are my teacher, Lord. You are my teacher, Sugata,” replied Ānanda.

87.4 The venerable Ānanda having affirmed that, the Lord said to him, “Ānanda, the Tathāgata is your teacher, and, Ānanda, you have served me with kind and touching physical action, with kind and touching verbal action, and with kind and touching mental action. Therefore, Ānanda, just as you have cherished, had serene confidence in, and venerated this body of mine in which I am now dwelling and maintaining myself, when I am gone, do the same toward this perfection of wisdom. I entrust this perfection of wisdom to you, Ānanda, a second time and [F.206.a] a third time so that one way or the other it does not die out, and so that you are not the last<sup>1129</sup> person. I pass it on to you.

87.5 “Know, Ānanda, that as long as this perfection of wisdom circulates<sup>1130</sup> in the world, the Tathāgata will remain and the Tathāgata will teach the Dharma. Know, Ānanda, that those beings who listen to, take up, bear in mind, read aloud, master, read aloud to others, clearly articulate, teach, recite from memory, and write out in letters this perfection of wisdom—those who respect, revere, honor, worship, praise, and attend to it with flowers, incense, perfumes, flower garlands, creams, powders, robes, parasols, flags and banners, and with rosaries of lamps all around it—by worshiping it in many ways, will not become separated from seeing the Buddha, will not become separated from hearing the Dharma, and will not become separated from serving the Saṅgha. And know, Ānanda, that those beings live their lives in the presence of the Tathāgata.”

87.6 When the Lord had said that, bodhisattva great being Maitreya and so on, venerable Subhūti, venerable Śāriputra, venerable Mahāmaudgalyāyana, venerable Mahākāśyapa, venerable Pūrṇa Maitrāyaṇīputra, venerable Kātyāyana, venerable Aniruddha, venerable Revata, venerable Rāhula, and venerable Ānanda, together with the gods, humans, asuras, and gandharvas, rejoiced and praised the teaching of the Lord.

87.7 This was the eighty-seventh chapter, “Entrusting,” of “The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines.”

c.

Colophon

- c.1 The Noble Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines is completed. It has been translated, proofed, and prepared for publication by the Indian preceptors Jinamitra, Surendrabodhi, Yeshé Dé, and so on.<sup>1131</sup> ab.

ABBREVIATIONS

- AAV* Āryavimuktisena ('phags pa nam grol sde). 'phags pa shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phrag nyi shu lnga pa'i man ngag gi bstan bcos mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan gyi tshig le'ur byas pa'i rnam par 'grel pa (Āryapañcaviṃśatisāhasrikāprajñāpāramitopadeśaśāstrābhisamayālaṃkārikāvārttika).
- AAVN* Āryavimuktisena. Abhisamayālamkāravṛtti (mistakenly titled Abhisamayālaṅkāravākhyā). Nepal German Manuscript Preservation Project A 37/9, National Archives Kathmandu Accession Number 5/55. The numbers follow the page numbering of Sparham's undated, unpublished transliteration of the part of the manuscript not included in Pensa 1967.
- Abhisamayālaṃkāra* shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa'i man ngag gi bstan bcos mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan zhes bya ba tshig le'ur byas pa (Abhisamayālaṃkāra-nāma-prajñāpāramitopadeśaśāstrakārikā) [The Ornament for the Clear Realizations]. Numbering of the verses as in the Unrai Wogihara edition: Abhisamayālaṃkāralokā Prajñāpāramitā Vyākhyā: The Work of Haribhadra.
- Amano* Amano, Koei H. Abhisamayālaṃkāra-kārikā-śāstra-ivṛti.
- Aṣṭa* Aṣṭasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā. Page numbers are Wogihara (1973) that includes the edition of Mitra (1888).
- Buddhaśrī* shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa sdud pa'i tshig su byas pa'i dka' 'grel (Prajñāpāramitāsaṃcayagāthāpañjikā).
- Bṭ1* Anonymous / Daṃṣṭrāsena. shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa 'bum gyi rgya cher 'grel (Śatasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitābṛhatṭikā) [Bṛhatṭikā].

Bṭ3	Vasubandhu/Daṃṣṭrāsena. 'phags pa shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa 'bum dang / nyi khri lnga sgong pa dang / khri brgyad stong pa rgya cher bshad pa (Āryaśatasāhasrikāpañcaviṃśati-sāhasrikāṣṭādaśa-sāhasrikāprajñāpāramitābḥaṭṭikā) [Bḥaṭṭikā]. English translation in Sparham 2022 ( https://read.84000.co/translation/toh3808.html ).
C	Choné (co ne) Kangyur and Tengyur.
D	Degé (sde dge) Kangyur and Tengyur.
Edg	Buddhist Hybrid Sanskrit Dictionary .
Eight Thousand	Conze, Edward. The Perfection of Wisdom in Eight Thousand Lines &amp; Its Verse Summary .
GRETIL	Göttingen Register of Electronic Texts in Indian Languages.
Ghoṣa	Ghoṣa, Pratāpachandra, ed. Śatasāhasrikā Prajñāpāramitā .
Gilgit	Gilgit Buddhist Manuscripts .
GilgitC	Edward Conze, ed. and trans. The Gilgit Manuscript of the Aṣṭādaśasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā: Chapters 55 to 70 Corresponding to the 5th Abhisamaya .
Gyurme (khri pa)	Gyurme Dorje. The Transcendent Perfection of Wisdom in Ten Thousand Lines ( https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html ).
H	Lhasa (zhöl) Kangyur and Tengyur.
K	Peking (Kangxi) Kangyur and Tengyur.
LC	Lokesh Candra. Tibetan Sanskrit Dictionary .
LSPW	Conze, Edward. The Large Sutra on Perfection Wisdom (Conze 1984).
MDPL	Conze, Edward. Materials for a Dictionary of the Prajñāpāramitā Literature .
MQ	Conze, Edward and Shotaro Iida. "Maitreya's Questions" in the Prajñāpāramitā .
MW	Monier-Williams, M. A. A Sanskrit-English dictionary etymologically and philologically arranged with special reference to cognate Indo-European languages .
Mppś	Lamotte, Étienne. Le Traité de la Grande Vertu de Sagesse de Nāgārjuna (Mahāprajñā-pāramitā-śāstra) .
Mppś English	Gelongma Karma Migme Chodron. The Treatise on the Great Virtue of Wisdom of Nāgārjuna .
Mvy	Mahāvīyutpatti (bye brag tu rtogs par byed pa chen po) .
N	Narthing (snar thang) Kangyur and Tengyur.
NAK	National Archives Kathmandu.

NGMPP	Nepal German Manuscript Preservation Project.
PSP	Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikā Prajñāpāramitā .
RecA	Skt and Tib editions of Recension A in Yuyama 1976.
RecAs	Sanskrit Recension A in Yuyama 1976.
RecAt	Tibetan Recension A in Yuyama 1976.
S	Stok Palace (stog pho brang bris ma) Kangyur.
Skt	Sanskrit.
Subodhinī	Attributed to Haribhadra. bcom ldan 'das yon tan rin po che sdud pa'i tshig su byas pa'i dka' 'grel shes bya ba ( Bhagavadratnagaṇasaṃcayagāthā-pañjikānāma ) ["Easy Pañjikā"].
Thempangma	bka' 'gyur rgyal rtse'i them spang ma.
Tib	Tibetan.
Toh	Tōhoku Imperial University A Complete Catalogue of the Tibetan Buddhist Canons ( bkaḥ-ḥgyur and bstan-ḥgyur ).
Wogihara	Unrai Wogihara. Abhisamayālaṃkāralokā Prajñāpāramitā Vyākhyā: The Work of Haribhadra .
Z	Zacchetti, Stefano. In Praise of the Light .
brgyad stong pa	shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa brgyad stong pa ( Aṣṭasāhasrikā-prajñāpāramitā ) [Eight Thousand].
khri brgyad stong pa	shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa khri brgyad stong pa ( Aṣṭādaśa-sāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā ) [The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines].
khri pa	shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa khri pa ( Daśasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā ) [The Perfection of Wisdom in Ten Thousand Lines ( https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html ), Toh 11].
le'u brgyad ma	shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phrag nyi shu lnga pa ( Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā ) [Haribhadra's "Eight Chapters"]. Citations are from the 1976–79 Karmapae chodhey gyalwae sungrab partun khang edition, first the Tib vol. letter, followed by the folio and line number.
nyi khri	shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phrag nyi shu lnga pa ( Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā ) [The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines ( https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html )].
rgyan snang	Haribhadra. shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa brgyad stong pa'i bshad pa mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan gyi snang ba ( Aṣṭasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā-vyākhyānābhisamayālaṃkāralokā ) [Illumination of the Abhisamayālaṃkāra].

ŚsPK	Śatasāhasrikāprajñāparamitā.
ŚsPN3	Śatasāhasrikāprajñāparamitā NGMPP A 115/3, NAK Accession Number 3/632. Numbering of the scanned pages.
ŚsPN4	Śatasāhasrikāprajñāparamitā NGMPP B 91/3, NAK Accession Number 3/633. Numbering of the scanned pages.
ŚsPN4/2	Śatasāhasrikāprajñāparamitā NGMPP B 91/3, NAK Accession Number 3/633 (part two). Numbering of the scanned pages.
'bum	shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phrag brgya pa ( Śata- sāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā ) [ The Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand Lines ( https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html )]. Citations are from the 1976–79 Karmapae chodhey gyalwae sungrab partun khang edition, first the Tib letter in italics of the vol., followed by the folio and line number.

n.

NOTES

- n.1 Padmakara Translation Group, trans., The Transcendent Perfection of Wisdom in Ten Thousand Lines (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html>) (Daśasāhasrikā-prajñāpāramitā, Toh 11), 2018. Hereafter, referred to as khri pa.
- n.2 Zacchetti 2005: 17, 23 n. 76.
- n.3 Gareth Sparham, trans., The Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand Lines (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html>) (Śatasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā, Toh 8), 2024. Hereafter, referred to as 'bum.
- n.4 Padmakara Translation Group, trans., The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-five Thousand Lines (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html>) (Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikā-prajñāpāramitā, Toh 9), 2023. Hereafter, referred to as nyi khri.
- n.5 Zacchetti 2005: 40, n. 167; Lee undated: 1.
- n.6 Nañjio 1883: 2–3.
- n.7 Nañjio 1883: 3, (c).
- n.8 Gareth Sparham, trans., The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh3808.html>) (Toh 3808), 2022. Hereafter, referred to as Bṭ3.
- n.9 Conze 1962: 1978.
- n.10 Conze 1962: xv.
- n.11 Zacchetti 2005: 19–22.
- n.12 Zacchetti 2015: bibliography.

- n.13 Bṭ3 i.46.
- n.14 nyi khri Chapter 72: The Divisions of a Bodhisattva's Training.
- n.15 In other contexts, “attribute” translates rnam pa.
- n.16 See Dharmachakra Translation Committee, trans., The Heart of the Perfection of Wisdom, the Blessed Mother (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh21.html#UT22084-034-009-81>) (Toh 21), 2022.
- n.17 Here and below “numbering” renders mātra (from the root mā, “to measure”). Dtsam means “just” (in a limiting sense).
- n.18 “Perfect” is the MDPL rendering of paramapārami (dam pa'i pha rol tu son pa). Seton (Appendix I, 36) says Ratnākaraśānti dissolves the compound more fully to mean “because they have gone and are in a state that has gone to the limit of mental mastery.”
- n.19 H: rin chen snying po.
- n.20 “Asuras”: lha ma yin renders dānava.
- n.21 Nakamura (2014: 516) renders this as “strewing [flowers] near [to Buddha], strewing [flowers] in front [of Buddha] and strewing [flowers] all around [Buddha].” The Tib says, literally, “strew down on, strew over, and strew right over.”
- n.22 We have based this translation in part on Z 272 n. 253 and have rendered shes bzhin du spyod cig (samprajānacārī bhāveḥ) “be on your best behavior” instead of “be careful” (Z) or “act with full self-possession” (LSPW) because in this Tib version the bodhisattva is very polite without having first been instructed by his buddha. Z has a good summary of the possible meanings.
- n.23 “Stand” consistently renders the verb sthā because it is etymologically similar, even if it pushes the boundaries of ordinary English usage. Here it obviously does not mean to stand as the opposite of to sit; it does not mean stand like a clock stands on a mantelpiece. Rather, it means to stay in a particular condition, to be.
- n.24 Bṭ3 4.20 glosses “compounded downfall”: “Even if they do incur a downfall, they do not compound it by letting time pass.”
- n.25 Tib consistently renders upādāya with phyir (“because”).
- n.26 Cf. Ghoṣa 1258 vyāghatika (emend to vyāghātaka?), the first in the list. “Cut into pieces” would fit the context better. Below (11.36) rnam par rnags pa (vyādhmātaka), “cleaned out [by worms],” fits better with the stages of a decaying body. The stages are described in detail below (16.10–16.18).

- n.27 Mppś English vol. 3, p. 1205, says this is knowledge that what has been extinguished will not arise again and is absent from a buddha.
- n.28 This is a literal rendering of sgra ji bzhin pa. LSPW, following Lamotte’s (Mppś English, 1204) reading yathābhūta, in place of yathāruta based on Kumārajīva’s Chinese translation, renders this “cognition of what is just so,” “cognition of what really is.”
- n.29 Tib shes pa, ye shes, and mkhyen pa, when rendering Skt jñāna, are all rendered into English with the same word: “knowledge.” “Transcendental knowledge” is used to signal ye shes at 43.14. The complexities involved in interpreting the Skt ending -tā (rendered consistently by Tib nyid in mkhyen pa nyid and so on) have been skipped over by rendering it “knower” when it is used in a longer construction like “knowledge of a knower of all” and as simply “knowledge” in briefer constructions. “All-knowledge” is the “knowledge of a knower of all.” In the longer versions of the Perfection of Wisdom, this “all-knowledge” (sarvajñā(tā), thams cad mkhyen pa [nyid]) is specifically the knowledge that a śrāvaka does not transcend. That is why it is not simply rendered “omniscience.” Sometimes, however, “all-knowledge” is a term for all three knowledges: the knowledge of all aspects (of a buddha), the knowledge of paths (of a bodhisattva), and the all-knowledge (of a śrāvaka specifically as it is known to a bodhisattva or buddha). In such cases it is true omniscience, as in the Eight Thousand Line version.
- n.30 Thempangma sdug pa.
- n.31 See n.29.
- n.32 Tib renders vāsanānusaṃdhikleśa here as a dvandva; elsewhere Tib sometimes renders vāsanānusaṃdhi as a tatpuruṣa “residual impression connections” in the sense of “connections that are residual impressions” or “connections because of residual impressions.”
- n.33 skyon med pa nyid (niyāmatā/nyāmatā) by itself is rendered “flawlessness,” following the etymology given in this scripture; when together with byang chub sems dpa’ (bodhisattvanyāma), skyon med pa (niyāma/nyāma) is “the secure state (of bodhisattvas)”; when together with “dharmas” (dharmaniyāmatā/nyāmatā), skyon med pa nyid is “certification (of dharmas).”
- n.34 This is made clearer in chapter 33.

- n.35 Edg 522 suggests that śaṅkhaśilā (PSP 1-1:32) is the name of a single precious stone and that śilā is “camphor,” that is, a fragrant dried clear resin.
- n.36 Alternatively, the Dharmachakra Translation Committee (The Play in Full, Toh 95, 20.1 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh95.html#UT22084-046-001-1407>)) renders this “the realms that filled the entire field of phenomena.”
- n.37 “Production of the thought” (go bar byed par 'dod pa) is a technical term that conveys the same meaning as the verb “want” in the earlier paragraphs.
- n.38 This is Conze’s translation of anavakāra (Tib dor ba med pa). It means the “absence of the repudiated.”
- n.39 Alternatively, mi dmigs pa'i stong pa nyid, anupalambhaśūnyatā (“emptiness of what cannot be apprehended”).
- n.40 Jäschke relates khyed pa ('khyed) to 'gye (as in sku 'gye); Z and LSPW render pratipādaya “to present to.”
- n.41 K, N byin pa de ltar byin na; PSP 1-1:35 evaṃ bodhisattvena mahāsattvena dānaṃ dadatā sañ pāramitāḥ paripūritā bhavanti.
- n.42 Z 308 n. 497 renders anutpādakotim anuprāptukāma “who wishes to reach their point of non-origination.”
- n.43 The following five are the Śuddhāvāsa (“pure abode”) heavens, but the Śuddhāvāsa is listed separately here.
- n.44 Alternatively, “with one sitting [left before awakening].”
- n.45 btshun mo'i 'khor (literally, “a retinue of queens”); Ghoṣa 117 puramadhyāt. Missing from Z.
- n.46 nye bar 'dzin. Dutt 37.13 upādadāti, LSPW “lay hold of”; Z 323 n. 38.
- n.47 All the Tib versions of the sūtra have all four possibilities, and none of the Skt versions do.
- n.48 This is a truncation of the longer list, taking out “is empty of the intrinsic nature of form, but is not empty because of emptiness” for each of the intervening aggregates.
- n.49 Ghoṣa 119 asthānam (“not standing”), which is better, as below.
- n.50 Q brtags pa; D gdags pa (“labels”).

- n.51 This translation follows D ming gis. If one reads ming gi tha snyad the translation would be “to the extent they work conventionally as name designations.” Z 388, 329 n. 15 yāvād eva nāmasaṅketena vyavahriyante (“they are merely named with a conventional designation”).
- n.52 “Number” and so on render specific Sanskrit names for high numbers. Below (33.50) they follow the series “thousandth part, nor by a hundred thousandth part, nor by a hundred millionth part, nor by a thousandth one hundred millionth part, nor by a hundred thousandth one hundred millionth part.” The increase in the value of the earlier numbers in the series is probably followed to arrive at a value for each later one, which is so astronomical they are given separate names. Gyurme (khri pa) renders a similar passage at 33.17 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2695>): “cannot be expressed as even a thousandth part..., or indeed as any other number, fraction, quantity, or material part.” Cf. Edg, s.v. upaṅṣā.
- n.53 Z 330 n. 28 ekadīvasaparibhāvitā (“contained in just one day”).
- n.54 Z “wisdom concerned with the task”; LSPW “the task for which it has been set up.”
- n.55 Ghoṣa 126, Z 390 “knowledge of path aspects”; Dutt 40 “all-knowledge.”
- n.56 Tib zlo bzlas bzla is causal to ‘da’ (“to be beyond”); ‘da’ bar byed pa (“to cause to be beyond”).
- n.57 spyod pa (a carver’s misreading of sbyong?); Z 391, Ghoṣa 132, Dutt pariśodhayati. On the meaning of “purifying” in the Pāli Canon see Z’s summary (338 n. 72) of Vetter’s (1993) explanation. In essence, the donor and the donation are “purified” when both the donor (a bodhisattva) and donation (all dharmas) cannot get any better than they are.
- n.58 Z, Dutt, and Ghoṣa all have prajñāyante.
- n.59 ‘du shes med pa’i sems can; Mvy, Edg, asaṅjñīsattva (Pāli asaññasatta): “Beings in the nonperception absorption.” Edg, s.v. sattvāvāsa, places the asaññasatta in a fifth sattvāvāsa (the ārūpyāvacāra gods in the sixth to ninth). He says the Mvy is wrong to put this category above the ārūpyāvacāra gods. Earlier (2.27), “the nonperception absorption” is listed immediately after the fourth concentration. Nevertheless, it is a custom when discussing nirodhasamāpatti in the Tibetan debate courtyard to place the ‘du shes med pa’i snyoms ’jug and the tshor ba med pa’i snyoms ’jug above the four ārūpyadhātu states.

- n.60 Emend spyod to sbyong. Z suggests “metaphorically” as a translation for paryāyeṇa (rnam grangs kyis). We understand this in the sense: he models purification to show others who do not understand how to purify, within understanding that no purification is necessary.
- n.61 LSPW uses “endeavor” and “join” for yuj and its derivatives; brtson does mean “to endeavor, make an effort,” but as Z notes, Kumārajīva’s Chinese translation of this includes the meaning “compliant with,” that is, fitting, or logically established.
- n.62 gzugs su yod pa; 15.25 gzugs su rung ba, the definition of gzugs.
- n.63 This based on Bṭ3 4.293 “they do not connect the yogic practice of emptiness with another inherently existing yogic practice of emptiness.” ’bum 2.256 (ka 91b2), nyi khri 2.128 (ka 52b1–2) stong pa nyid dang stong pa nyid du myi sdud myi ’byed (“does not incorporate emptiness into emptiness and does separate it [from emptiness]”); LSPW 47–50 “nor is emptiness a matter for joining” interprets yoga in the sense of yogyā (“fitness”).
- n.64 Z follows Edg in rendering avatāṛ (’jug) “comprehend,” based on the contextually appropriate meaning.
- n.65 “Join” and the earlier “cause to engage” render the same word yojayati (sbyor bar byed).
- n.66 Z 397; Ghoṣa 250, anupalambha (“of not apprehending”).
- n.67 Z 232 n. 142 gives the different readings here.
- n.68 Dutt 55, Ghoṣa 256 doṣa; Z 398 roga (“sickness”).
- n.69 Bṭ3 1.43, 4.1035 says there are four dhāraṇīs (“mnemonic devices”): forbearance, doctrine, meaning, and mantra dhāraṇī. The idea of a gateway is conveyed by the use of the first letter of a word standing for the whole word, the word’s meaning, and the understanding of its meaning. To come “face to face” with a dhāraṇī in its simplest sense means to learn alphabets and through that learn to read and understand meanings. A “meditative stabilization doorway” is the concentrated state of understanding that comes from a dhāraṇī like the letter “A” for example, as a letter conveying a negation (as in apolitical). The concentration of the meaning of many letters in an abbreviation is paralleled by the mental concentration in a meditative stabilization. To come “face to face” means to have a direct, unmediated perception, in a completely clear state of mind.
- n.70 This borrows from Z’s translation 359 n. 178.

- n.71 The construction zhes bya bar sbyor (“cause X to join with/to”) renders yojaya (Ghoṣa 262, Dutt 57, and Z 398 all have yojaya) even though up to this point in the Tib yojaya has been consistently rendered sbyor bar byed, not just sbyor. So I do not use the “while practicing ... form joins to emptiness” construction, and I do not use the “they cause X to join to Y” construction, but a third synonymous construction: “they join X to Y,” following LSPW and Z, who take the 'di (sa) here with the bodhisattva.
- n.72 One of the markers of progress on the bodhisattvas’ path is receiving a prophecy from a buddha that they will become such and such a buddha at such and such a time in such and such a place. It is a variable of the strength of the bodhisattvas’ thought of awakening, unbroken realization of emptiness, habituation to the illusory nature of phenomena, and collection of merits.
- n.73 Dutt 59, Ghoṣa 264, Z 399 omit.
- n.74 It is not clear whether the emphasis is on the fact that beings, as the object of empathy, are unproduced, or that bodhisattvas as practitioners of the perfection of wisdom are unproduced, an ambiguity retained in LSPW and Z’s translation “through the fact of the nonproduction of a being.”
- n.75 Ghoṣa 267 manuṣyebhyo vā; 'bum 2.478, nyi khri 2.162, le'u brgyad ma ga 68a6–7.
- n.76 Dutt 61 avipramuṣita; LSPW “of which he never loses sight”; Ghoṣa 267 avipranaṣṭa; 'bum 2.480 (ka 160b1), nyi khri 2.163 (ka 61b5) nyams pa med pa.
- n.77 Ghoṣa 270, Dutt 63.7, and LSPW 62–63 add another group here.
- n.78 Bṭ3 4.88 and LSPW gloss this “flawlessness=secure/fixed state” with “of a bodhisattva.”
- n.79 Cf. 62.54–62.56. There are two meditative stabilizations, the siṃhavijṛmbhita (lion’s yawn or stretch) meditative stabilization, and the viṣkandaka (leaping above) meditative stabilization. Conze renders the latter meditative stabilization the “Crowning Assault.” The idea behind the siṃhavijṛmbhita is that the meditator extends his or her meditative reach first up through each of the meditative stabilizations and then retracts it, as it were, by coming back down through them, in a big mental stretch. The meditator descends through each of the meditative states, one by one, until he or she comes to the first concentration, not that one leaps down to it. In the viṣkandaka the meditator leaps over different states that are gone through in sequential order in the siṃhavijṛmbhita. The intention, in contrast to the earlier siṃhavijṛmbhita meditative stabilization, is that in this viṣkandaka the meditator begins to leave out some of the intervening meditative stabilizations, leaping across the gaps, as it were, leaving bigger and bigger gaps.

- n.80 LSPW “having taken for their guide.”
- n.81 Emend de 'dra ba nyid kyi lus to de 'dra ba bdag nyid kyi lus. Dutt 68 ātmabhāva, le'u brgyad ma; ga 72a7 bdag nyid kyi lus; Ghoṣa vighraha.
- n.82 LSPW 68–69, n. 24 gives the different versions.
- n.83 Alternatively, “Śāriputra, there are bodhisattva great beings standing in the six perfections who lighten the darkness of beings standing in wrong views with the light of the Teaching of the Buddha, and they never separate themselves from the light of the Teaching of the Buddha up until they fully awaken to the unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening. This, Śāriputra, is the origination of the bodhisattva great beings in the Teaching of the Buddha.”
- n.84 'bum 2.539 (ka 179b1) yang dag par 'byung ba.
- n.85 “Basic” means an immorality not contingent on a prior commitment to a code of conduct.
- n.86 Dutt, Ghoṣa ātmabhāva; alternatively, “become possessed of the sort of personality.”
- n.87 The word samanudṛś is used in a negative sense here. Ghoṣa 290; Dutt 76 paripūrayati na ... manyante.
- n.88 The following five are the Śuddhāvāsa (“pure abode”) heavens, but the Śuddhāvāsa is listed separately here.
- n.89 The following explanation is not satisfactory. As it stands it says a bodhisattva with the dharma eye knows a person to be a faith follower or a Dharma follower, and it then says it knows each, through all three gateways to liberation, on all the stages from producing the faculties up to reaching the state of a worthy one. It then says of either a faith follower or a Dharma follower that they could be at any of those stages through each of the gateways, taken separately. The longer versions are better. The Śatasāhasrikā (Ghoṣa, 'bum 2.574) goes through each of the stages starting with producing the faculties first based on the emptiness gateway to liberation, spelling them out one by one. It then does the same based on the other two. The Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikā (Dutt, nyi khri 2.224) references all three gateways to liberation, then takes the first of them, the person based on the emptiness gateway explicitly, going through the stages starting from producing the faculties. It then goes on to the next gateway, and then the next, abbreviating the stages.

n.90 Cf. 21.26–21.28.

n.91 This passage is identical to Ghoṣa 297, except that it lacks Ghoṣa's necessary jānāti ("they know") and requires a 'di ltar (Dutt 80.1 evam jānāti, "they know thus:"). If emended in the light of Ghoṣa this would read, "Furthermore, Śāriputra, a bodhisattva great being knows: 'One, having thus realized that everything qualified by origination is qualified by cessation, will gain the five faculties (faith and so on).' That too, Śāriputra, is a bodhisattva great being's perfectly pure dharma eye."

n.92 This is the forbearance for the nonproduction of dharmas, the realization that whatever the attainment, it has no intrinsic nature.

n.93 This is the vow, while sitting under the Bodhi tree at the site of awakening, not to arise from meditation until perfectly and completely awakened.

n.94 Dutt āsannasthāyin; Ghoṣa 300 āsattvasthāyin; 'bum 2.594 (ka 182b7), nyi khri 2.-230 (ka 75a3), le'u brgyad ma ga 81a7 nye bar gnas, in all cases with dang. Edg, s.v. āsattvasthāyin, "abiding until the coming into existence" of the buddhas.

n.95 Ghoṣa 300 omits.

n.96 Edg, s.v. pratyanubhavati (2) says "uncertain whether mg. is experiences, enjoys ... or gets"; cf. Daśabhūmikasūtra (Peter Alan Roberts, trans. The Ten Bhūmis (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh44-31.html>) (Toh 44-31), 2021; Rahder, 34–36).

n.97 86.19 provides a full explanation of the six ways of the earth shaking and so on.

n.98 This means it is isolated from any obscured state of mind.

n.99 Emend des to de as at 3.131.

n.100 This renders chung ngur gyur pa and chen por gyur pa; alternatively, taking the -gata (gyur pa) literally: "that have and have not moved a lot."

n.101 Gyurme (khri pa) 10.45 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-1108>) rnam pa and yul phyogs ("circumstances and locations").

n.102 Emend 'gro to nye bar 'gro (-upaga).

- n.103      Ghoṣa “They do not reach the śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha level, and they do not see any dharma that fully awakens to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”
- n.104      Ghoṣa 307 dauḥprajñācittaparivarjanatā (“getting rid of intellectually confused thoughts”).
- n.105      gdags (prajñāpyate, “the labeling of X is done”).
- n.106      LSPW “learns to establish all beings in this insight.”
- n.107      PSP 1-1 bhikṣuṇī.
- n.108      This is in the sense of “covered him with gifts.”
- n.109      *gos ci gyon pa rnam*s; ‘bum 2.623 (ka 188b5), nyi khri 2.246 (ka 81a1), le’u brgyad ma ga 86b5 gos gyon gyon pa; LSPW 89–91, n. 47 says the translation “wearing their religious garments in a proper and correct manner” is based on Snellgrove’s Tib informants’ explanation.
- n.110      PSP 1-1 parṣanmaṇḍala; LSPW 91–92 “from the circle of the assembly.”
- n.111      This is a paraphrase of the clearer longer versions. It expects the reader to know that the verb “developed” goes with the last in the list, “wisdom,” intending that the reader supplies “guarded morality, developed patience, exerted perseverance, and become absorbed in concentration.” Similarly, “acquire the body” and so on go with each of the perfections in turn, on the model of the perfection of giving.
- n.112      Ghoṣa yathā-tathā yathā vadatha; Gilgit, PSP 1-1 omit.
- n.113      PSP 1-1:108, Ghoṣa 321 mahātyā tūryatāḍāvacaśaṃgītyā; ‘bum 2.668 (ka 197b1), nyi khri 2.272 (ka 85b5–6), le’u brgyad ma ga 90b4 glu dang / rol mo brdung ba dang dkrol ba mang pos (“with much singing and music, beating and playing”). We understand pheg rdob to render tūrya, sil snyan to render tāḍa, and the mahāti avacaśaṃgīti to be an orchestra (rol mo sgra), that is, a great sound coming up together from a marching band made up of drummers and cymbal players. Alternatively, “together with an orchestra of cymbals and drums.”
- n.114      lung ’bogs may just mean “teach scripture.”
- n.115      Gilgit 39v11 evam eva śrāvakaśaṅghaḥ parihāremaḥ evam eva parśadi dharmam deśayemaḥ (“May we bring together just such a śrāvaka saṅgha, and may we teach the Dharma to just such a retinue”).

- n.116 The omission of dgag pa med pa (anirodhāya), “do not stop,” here is likely a scribal error.
- n.117 Kimura, Ghoṣa, 'bum, nyi khri, and le'u brgyad ma have sixty-eight.
- n.118 'bum 2.674 (ka 198b1), nyi khri 2.275 (ka 86b6) shā ri'i bu'i le'u ste gnyis pa'o (“Second Śāriputra Chapter”); Ghoṣa 322, Gilgit 40a2 prathamah parivartta (“First Chapter”).
- n.119 Ghoṣa 324 sarvaśrāvaka-pratyeka-buddhānāṃ bodhisattvebhyo mahāsattvebhyah; 'bum 3.3 (ka 199a1–2), nyi khri 3.3 (ka 87a6), le'u brgyad ma ga 92a3 sems dpa' la ... nyan thos dang rang sangs rgyas thams cad kyi yul ma yin no (“teaching the perfection of wisdom to the bodhisattva great beings here is not within the scope of any of the śrāvakas or pratyekabuddhas”).
- n.120 Gilgit 40r11–12 tac ca nāma nādhyātmaṃ na bahirdhā nobhayam antareṇopalabhyate (“That name cannot be apprehended inside, nor outside, nor as other than the two”).
- n.121 In this section we have employed the following conventions for compounds with the word prajñapti (rendered into Tib by forms of 'dogs): btags pa (prajñapti in its basic meaning), “designation” (i.e., “something that makes something else known”); ming du btags pa (nāmaprajñapti), “name designation”; chos su btags pa (dharmaprajñapti), “dharma designation”; btags pa'i chos (prajñapti-dharma), “phenomenon that is a designation”; tha snyad du gdags pa (vyavahar passive), “being used conventionally”; and ming gi brda' (ming dang brda) (nāma/saṃjñāsamketa), “name and conventional term.” Zacchetti (2014) explains the way terms like these that straddle the thought/mental-object divide have been dealt with in Chinese translations of the Perfection of Wisdom.
- n.122 “Inner” here means from the perspective of the perceiving subject. Thus “outer” below is an epithet of the environment in which a perceiving subject finds themselves.
- n.123 Ghoṣa 330, Kimura 1-1:112; Gilgit 40v11.
- n.124 Here “inner body” renders nang gi lus zhes bya ba (adhyātmika), “on the subject side”).
- n.125 It is “outer” in the sense of the environment seen from the perspective of a perceiving subject.
- n.126 'bum 3.66, nyi khri 3.25: “Even the past lord buddhas are just names, and those names are not inner.”

- n.127 Gilgit 41v7, Kimura 1-1:114. prajñāpti (“designation”) is rendered “making things known” here in line with its basic meaning as a causal from the root jñā. There is a sense of altruism in prajñāpti, where all dharmas are what they are to make known to others their lack of an intrinsic nature in order to liberate them.
- n.128 The application of mindfulness in the fundamental Buddhist scriptures is to the dharmas, which is to say, to the aggregates, sense fields, and constituents listed in the previous paragraphs. “Standing without mentally constructing any dharmas” means without “settling down,” without projecting onto any of them an intrinsic nature or absolute truth. The earlier list of dharmas is then expanded on to include all the dharmas, including those associated with bodhisattvas and buddhas.
- n.129 The reading here is problematic. We have translated it as it stands guided by Gilgit 45r11–12: tāṃś ca buddhā[n] bhagavataḥ satkṛtya gurukṛtya mānayatvā pūjayitvā yair kuśalamūlair ākāṃkṣisyati tān buddhān bhagavataḥ satkartum gurukartum mānayatum pūjayitum tāni cāsyā [Ghoṣa vāsyā] kuśalamūlāni prādurbhaviṣyanti tair eva ca kuśalamūlena(!) [kuśalamūlai Ghoṣa] teṣāṃś ca buddhānāṃ bhagavatām antike prādurbhaviṣyati. LSPW “and by means of that wholesome root he is reborn near those Buddhas and Lords” renders PSP 1-1:131 tenaiva kuśalamūlena teṣāṃś buddhānāṃ bhagavatām cāntika upapadyate.
- n.130 This is either referencing the earlier statement (6.4), “Then venerable Subhūti said to the Lord, ‘Lord, you say this—namely, “bodhisattva”—again and again. What is this word “bodhisattva” for? Lord, I do not see that—namely, the phenomenon with the name “bodhisattva” ’ ”), or else is corrupt, or is an abrupt abridgment of the longer version (Ghoṣa 382; bum 3.125, nyi khri 3.76) “You have said, Subhūti, ‘The Lord says “bodhisattva” again and again.’ What do you think, is form the ‘bodhisattva’?” The scribe at Gilgit 45v1 writes caḥṣur in place of rūpam and then mixes up the order.
- n.131 We have not emended sems can (sattva) to byang chub sems dpa’ (bodhisattva), the reading at Ghoṣa 432, Gilgit 48r10, PSP 1-1:139, bum 3.656, nyi khri 3.142, and le’u brgyad ma ga 115b5.
- n.132 Earlier it said, “You say bodhisattva again and again” (bodhisattvo bodhisattvo iti).
- n.133 The dropping of the quotation mark (zhes bya ba) around bodhisattva may be just a scribal error.

- n.134 “Comprehend” (khong du chud, parijñā) is knowledge paired with “elimination” (spang ba, prahā) that follows just below.
- n.135 Ghoṣa also has “the four foods” (āhāra) here; 'bum 4.8 (ka 314a7), nyi khri 4.4 (ka 118a1) zas.
- n.136 Gyurme (khri pa), 12.12 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-1179>), translates the names of a hundred and eleven meditative stabilizations (not the same list) into English. The list in Ghoṣa has the sequence of jumping meditative stabilizations that explains the siṃhavikrīḍita and siṃhavijrmbhita meditative stabilizations at this point (explained below, 62.54–62.56). It makes good sense.
- n.137 kun tu lta ba'i phyag rgya ting nge 'dzin. Ghoṣa and Kimura avalokita; 'bum 4.17 (ka 318a4), nyi khri 4.6 (ka 119b6), and le'u brgyad ma ga 124a1 phyan re gzigs.
- n.138 chos thams cad shes par bzod pa la 'jug pa. Ghoṣa 484 sarvadharmajñānādhiṅāsana; 'bum 4.17 (ka 318b4), nyi khri 4.6 (ka 120a1) chos thams cad shes par gnas pa la 'jug pa. One of the meanings of adhiṅāsana (“to live above something”) is “forbearance.”
- n.139 Both 'bum and nyi khri render ākāra by rang bzhin.
- n.140 The Skt name is from Ghoṣa; PSP caturmārabalavikāraṇa; 'bum, nyi khri, le'u brgyad ma ga 124a5 bdud bzhi'i dpung sel ba.
skyon gyi spyi gtsug; 'bum 4.19 (ka 319b5), nyi khri 4.7 (ka 120a7) skyon chen po;
- n.141 le'u brgyad ma has rtse mo'i skyon; Edg, s.v. mūdhāma, comments on Ghoṣa's reading.
- n.142 byang chub sems dpa'i skyon med pa, bodhisattvanyāma (“the absence of hardheadedness”).
- n.143 PSP 1-1:150 bodhisattvamūrdhāmaḥ; Ghoṣa 486 bodhisattvasyāmaḥ.
- n.144 LSPW 119 renders abhiniviś, adhithā, and saṃjñā (“settle down on,” “insist on,” and “hold to be true”).
- n.145 This list is probably the result of a block cutter's mistake. The correct list is nyi khri 4.11 (ka 121a1–4) gzugs stong, then mi rtag, sdug bsngal, bdag med, zhi, stong, mtshan med, smon med; Ghoṣa 486–88 śūnya, anitya, duḥkha, anātman, animitta, apraṇihita; Gilgit 51v12–13 has sānta after anātman.

- n.146 skyon med pa, nyāma (“absence of hardheadedness”). When nyāma is understood as niyāma it means “secure,” “fixed,” “definite.”
- n.147 One expects the emptiness of not apprehending at this point in the list, as at Ghoṣa 490, PSP 1-1:152–53; ‘bum 4.32 (ka 323a4), nyi khri 4.13 (ka 122b2–3), and le’u brgyad ma ga 126b1–2 mi dmigs pa stong pa nyid.
- n.148 This is very elliptical. Cf. PSP 1-1:153, Ghoṣa 490, ‘bum 4.34, nyi khri 4.14.
- n.149 Ghoṣa 495.
- n.150 Here Ghoṣa acittam avikāram avikalpam suggests not “no thought,” but “without thought,” corroborated below by acintya, “not something accessible to thought.”
- n.151 Cf. Aṣṭa 38 prakṛtiś cittam svabhāvaṃ; Eight Thousand, 84 “since in its essential original nature thought is transparently luminous.”
- n.152 PSP 1-1:154, Ghoṣa 495 kiṃ punar āyūṣman subhūte asti tac cittam yac cittam acittam (“The thought that is no thought, does that thought exist?”).
- n.153 As it stands, this reads, “Because, in this perfection of wisdom is detailed instruction for the three vehicles—the level of bodhisattva great beings, the level of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattvas and buddhas in which they should train.” However, we have emended kyi sa to kyis based on Bṭ3 7.-30 (91b); also PSP 1-1:155 tathā hy atra prajñāpāramitāyāṃ trīṇi yānāni vistareṇopadiṣṭāni yatra bodhisattvair mahāsattvaiḥ śrāvakabhūmau vā pratyekabuddhabhūmau vā bodhisattvabhūmau vā śikṣitavyam: “Because, in this perfection of wisdom is given in detail instruction for the three vehicles in which bodhisattva great beings should always train on the level of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas and on the level of bodhisattvas”; Ghoṣa 503 atra hi prajñāpāramitāyāṃ vistareṇa trīṇi yānāny upadiśyānte yatra bodhisattvair śrāvakaiḥ pratyekabuddhaiś ca satatasamitam (‘bum 4.54 (ka 332b6), nyi khri 4.24 (ka 125b7) rtaḡ tu) śikṣitavyam: “In this perfection of wisdom is detailed instruction for the three vehicles in which bodhisattvas, śrāvakas, and pratyekabuddhas should always train.”
- n.154 gnas pa (sthita) and thug pa (viṣṭhita); le’u brgyad ma ga 129a6–7 gnas pa and gnas pa dang bral ba.
- n.155 PSP 1-1:156, Ghoṣa 505, Gilgit 280.5 kasya nāmadheyaṃ kariṣyāmi bodhisattoa iti.
- n.156 There is a change here from gang la to ji ltar.

- n.157 We have adapted LSPW's translations of these terms: tathatā, avitathatā, ananyatathatā, dharmatā, dharmadhātu, dharmasthititā, dharmaniyāmatā, bhūtakoṭi, acintyadhātu; PSP 1-2:56 gives them in this order.
- n.158 Ghoṣa 553, Kimura 1-1:161, 'bum 5.189 (ka 366a5), and nyi khri 5.16 have the last words later.
- n.159 Bṭ3 4.554 understands "a syllable" to be a letter standing as an acronym.
- n.160 Ghoṣa 568, PSP 1-11:168 rūpānityatā; 'bum 5.230 (ka 378a3), nyi khri 5.26 (ka 136a4) gzugs mi rtag pa nyid ("the impermanence of form").
- n.161 PSP 1-1:170 patita; Ghoṣa 582 gata.
- n.162 "Enactment" renders abhisaṃskāra; Conze 1973a, s.v. anabhisaṃskāra, "put together, brought together." The idea is that when they are meditating on the dharmas from the perspective of the fundamental scriptures and understand "I" does not exist as they have taken it to be, and when they meditate on the dharmas from the perspective of the Great Vehicle scriptures and contemplate their lack of an intrinsic nature, they get tied up in it and settle down on what is not ultimately real as real.
- n.163 Alternatively, "does not assist" it. There are two meanings of parigrah (yongs su 'dzin): one ("fully grasp") may be positive or negative, and one ("assist" = compassion, a compassionate teacher) is positive. The upāyakauśalya in the sentence suggests the latter meaning is primarily intended.
- n.164 Read nges pa (niyata) not des pa.
- n.165 bzo sbyangs ("Artisan Trainer"); 'bum 5.423 (kha 20a7) 'phreng ba can ("One in a Line [of Artisans]"). Lamotte (Chodron 2001, 1759 n. 554) says "the wandering mendicant Śreṇika appears as the prototype of the Mahāyānist saint." He does not at first understand that the dharmas taught in the fundamental Buddhist scriptures have no intrinsic nature, but he has faith in the Buddha teaching that doctrine. "The king Seniya (Śreṇya, Śreṇika) Bimbisāra" (Kern 1896, 18) is a different person.
- n.166 LSPW 135 "gone to a beyond which is no beyond," supported by 'bum 5.442 (kha 34a6), nyi khri 5.55 (ka 143b5), le'u brgyad ma ga 145b1, and PSP 1-1:173, Ghoṣa 633 apārapāragatām; Gilgit 284.10–11 atārapāragamanatām upādāya ("a going to a beyond that does not cause freedom").
- n.167 'bum 5.504 (kha 61b7), nyi khri 5.78 (ka 147b7), le'u brgyad ma ga 148b2 nye; PSP 1-1:177 asannībhavati; Ghoṣa 681 sarvākārajñatāyā ābhyāśībhavati, Gilgit 287.7

sarvajñatāyā ābhyāśībhavati: “has become habituated to.”

- n.168 This chapter and khri pa chapter 12 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-1168>) are very similar.
- n.169 To “practice form” means to engage in the practice set forth in the fundamental Buddhist scriptures wherein the practitioner, keeping him- or herself in mind as the objective support, goes through each of the dharmas, starting with the form aggregate comprised of a form, eyes, and eye consciousness and so on.
- n.170 Ghoṣa 683–753; LSPW 139 renders upalambha “basis” but in a note gives the excellent “what is falsely considered as an ascertained fact.”
- n.171 PSP 1-1:182 upaiti nopaiti ca; LSPW “both approaches and does not approach.”
- n.172 Here “so” renders de ltar. Ghoṣa 825, PSP 1-1:182, and le’u brgyad ma ga 151b6 preface the statement āsannībhavaty ayaṃ bodhisattvo mahāsattoḥ sarvākāra-jñatāyāḥ with “if bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that do not tremble, feel frightened, or become terrified, if their minds are not cowed by any dharma, do not tense up, and do not experience regret.”
- n.173 mnyam pa nyid is not found elsewhere and is not glossed at Bṭ3 4.620.
- n.174 The rin po che (ratna) may be simply an honorific. Ghoṣa vajrah; nyi khri 6.20 (ka 152b4) has just rdo rje.
- n.175 Edg says this is a different form of the word vyāskandhaka.
- n.176 Mvy śuddhasāra; Ghoṣa 828 śuddhābhāsa; PSP 1-1:183, Gilgit 292.9 śuddhāvāsa; below, 15.35, ’bum 6.162 (kha 178b4), nyi khri 6.20 (ka 153a3), le’u brgyad ma ga 153b6 dag pa dam pa. dam pa perhaps originally translated āvāra understood as related to vara = dam pa.
- n.177 This is Edgerton’s name for the meditative stabilization.
- n.178 PSP anantaprabha, but le’u brgyad ma ga 154b1 spobs pa mtha’ yas pa.
- n.179 There are many different versions of the name of this meditative stabilization. We have based the reconstruction of the reading here (and below, 15.118), rtogs pas srid pa’i mun pa thams cad dang bral ba, as reading (with Mironov, see Edg, s.v. nairvedhika-sarva-bhava-talopagata) tamas (mun pa) in place of tala (gzhi), and apagata (bral ba) in place of avagata (khong du chud);

Ghoṣa 833, Gilgit 293.4 nairvedhikasarvabhava-talāpagata, Ghoṣa 1423, Gilgit 341.10 -vigata (Edg opines this is definitely wrong); PSP 1-1:183 niratiśayasarva-bhavatalavikirāṇa, 1-2:73 nirvedhikasarvabhāvatalādīhikāra; le'u brgyad ma ga 154b3, nyi khri ka 153b7 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-6920#UT22084-026-001-6920>) srid pa'i gzhi thams cad rtogs par khong du chud pa; 'bum kha 182b6–7 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-7011#UT22084-014-001-7011>) rtogs pas srid pa'i gzhi thams cad khong du chud pa; again found later nyi khri ka 231a3 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7075#UT22084-026-001-7075>), le'u brgyad ma ga 224a2.

- n.180 le'u brgyad ma ga 154b4, nyi khri ka 154a1 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-6921#UT22084-026-001-6921>), 'bum kha 183b3–4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-7013#UT22084-014-001-7013>) mngon par dmigs pa med pa renders Mvy anabhilakṣita, LSPW 202 “Undistinguished.”
- n.181 Ghoṣa 834 samyaktvamithyātvasarvasaṃgrahaṇa, PSP 1-1:184 samyaktvamithyātvasaṃgraha, Gilgit 293.6 samyaktvamithyātvasaṃgrāna. I have followed LC who gives samyaktva-mithyātva-sarva-grasana as the correct form, though it seems likely grahaṇa may itself have the meaning sel ba in certain contexts.
- n.182 The translation of araṇa as sgra med here for Ghoṣa 835 araṇasaraṇasarvasamavasaraṇa is noteworthy. Mvy has nyon mongs pa med pa dang nyon mongs pa dang bcas pa thams cad yang dag par 'du ba; 'bum kha 185a2–3 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-7016#UT22084-014-001-7016>), and nyi khri ka 154a6 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-6921#UT22084-026-001-6921>) render the compound nyon mongs pa dang bcas pa thams cad nyon mongs pa med par yang dag par gzhol ba (“In which All Conflict Has Found Its Way to a Natural Resting Place in Non-conflict”).
- n.183 LSPW 203 renders this “Stability of Nonthought in Suchness.”
- n.184 PSP and le'u brgyad ma take vākkalividhvaṃsana and gaganakalpa to be separate.
- n.185 Gilgit 294.6 avidyamānatvena, alternatively, “are not known.”
- n.186 Ghoṣa 837 avidyamānatvāt.

- n.187 We have rendered ji ltar here “as is to be expected.” Alternatively, reading yathāpi nāma for ji ltar, this might be translated, “You have demonstrated what I have said, namely, that you are the foremost of śrāvakas at the conflict-free stage.”
- n.188 LSPW “How then do they not exist?” is not supported by the reading in PSP 1-1:188, Ghoṣa 842 kathaṃ bhagavann ete dharmāḥ saṃvidyante or Gilgit kathaṃ punar bhagavann ete dharmā vidyante. The m(a) on the mchis pa at le’u brgyad ma ga 157a7, ‘bum kha 191a7 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-7028#UT22084-014-001-7028>), and nyi khri ka 156b5 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-6926#UT22084-026-001-6926>) chos ’di dag rnam pa gang gis mchis pa lags is a sngon ’jug, not a negation.
- n.189 The word vid means both “exist” and “know.” The word saṃvid has the same two meanings, perhaps intensified, “completely exist” or “completely know.” In Skt, therefore, the sentence means, at one and the same time, “As they are not known, so are they known. Thus, not being known, they say ‘ignorance,’ ” and “As they do not exist, so do they exist. Thus, not existing, they say ‘not existing.’ ”
- n.190 ‘bum 6.188 (kha 191a7–b1) ji ltar med pa de ltar yod de / de ltar yod pa ma yin pas de’i phyir med ces bya’o / gsol ba / bcom ldan ’das de ci’i slad du / mchis pa ma lags pa la ma mchis pa zhes bgyi / gzugs, etc. “As they do not exist so do they exist. Because they thus do not exist they are therefore said to be “nonexistent.” ’ [Śāriputra] asked, ‘Lord, why is it said of the nonexistent that they are “nonexistent”?’ The Lord said, ‘Form does not exist’ ”; nyi khri 6.37 (ka 156b5) mchis pa ma lags pa de la mchis pa zhes bgyi “Lord, why is it said of the nonexistent that they ‘exist’?” The translators read vidyā, or more likely the ma has been accidentally left out by the carver.
- n.191 Ghoṣa 872 pratiṣṭhā.
- n.192 Ghoṣa 885 “by way of not apprehending inner emptiness” and the rest of the list of emptinesses down to abhāvasvabhāvasūnyatā; Gilgit 297.2 adhyātma-sūnyatāyā yāvad sarvadharmasūnyatāyā anupalambhayogena; PSP 1-1:191 differs.
- n.193 Ghoṣa 898–904; Gilgit 297.12; PSP 1-2:3–4.
- n.194 Cp. saṃjñāsamaññā (Ghoṣa 905 atraiṣāṃ saṃjñāsamaññāprajñaptivyavahārah / pañca-sūpādānaskandheṣu yad uta bodhisattva iti), rendered at ‘bum 7.122 (kha 237b4) nye bar len pa’i phung po lnga po ’di dag la ’di lta ste / byang chub sems dpa’ zhes bya ba ming dang brda dang gdags pa dang tha snyad du bya ba yin nam.

- n.195 Ghōṣa 905 is clearer, prefacing the statement with “The way I understand what you, Lord, have said is that there is a training that should be done (śikṣitavyam bhavati) for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening by bodhisattva great beings training in the perfection of wisdom as an illusory person. And why? Because, Lord, all these—that is, the five appropriating aggregates—should be known as illusory persons.” LSPW 152–53.
- n.196 Bṭ3 4.665 says this means they are illusory and nonexistent things like the five aggregates.
- n.197 grang renders mā; Ghōṣa 910, Gilgit 299.9 mā haiva; PSP 1-2:6 mā khalu.
- n.198 Ghōṣa 937.
- n.199 dge ba'i bshes gnyen gyis yongs su spangs (also in 'bum and nyi khri) kalyāṇamitra-parivarjita. In regard to spangs, there is a cause and result form: spong, spangs, spang, spongs (“to reject, forsake”) and phong, phongs (Jäschke gives only the forms 'phongs and phongs) (“to be destitute of”). It does not seem possible the Tib means “destitute of spiritual friends,” even though the Skt is capable of that meaning.
- n.200 Gilgit 304.4, Ghōṣa 1042, PSP 1-2:12 tayā ca prajñāpāramitayā manyate; LSPW 157 “fancies himself for it.”
- n.201 This marks the end of the most detailed list so far in the Śatasāhasrikā (Ghōṣa 1042–1185).
- n.202 PSP 1-2:14, Ghōṣa 1186, Gilgit 305.9 upadiś, ācakṣ.
- n.203 This work of Māra is totally missing from Gilgit. Missing from the list here are gāthā, udāna, vaipulya, *adbhūta*dharmā, and upadeśa. Ghōṣa, PSP, 'bum, nyi khri, and le'u brgyad ma all say the bad friend is one who does not identify as Māra's work all twelve branches connected with śrāvakas taught by Māra disguised as the buddha to a bodhisattva.
- n.204 This renders K. D and Thempangma 147b3 have byang chub sems dpa' sems dpa' “you say ‘bodhisattva, sattva.’ ” We have rendered padārtha, gzhi'i don “basis in reality”; 'bum 8.1 (ga 28a4), nyi khri 8.2 (ka 178b7) tshig 'di'i don (“meaning of this word”); le'u brgyad ma ga 176a1 tshig gi don (“meaning of the term”). Earlier (6.4) has byang chub sems dpa' zhes bgyi ba de chos gang gi tshig bla dags = dharmasya adhvācanam (“the name of the dharma”); here PSP 1-2:17 has kaḥ padārthaḥ; Ghōṣa 1192, Gilgit 307.6 ko 'sya padārthaḥ; LSPW renders padārtha by “meaning of the word,” “real,” and “track.” Wogihara 75 kaḥ padārtha; brgyad stong pa 10b3 gzhi'i don gang.

- n.205 All versions render pada by rjes (“track”—literally “afterward, what is left”).
- n.206 Gilgit 310.10 asattāyām; Ghoṣa 1257 asaṅgatātāyām; PSP 1-2:24 asaktatāyām asadbhūtatāyām; le’u brgyad ma ga 181a5 chags pa med pa nyid dang / yod par gyur pa ma yin pa nyid; ’bum ga 60a7 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-7567#UT22084-014-001-7567>) med pa yang dag pa nyid la; nyi khri ka 185a4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-6983#UT22084-026-001-6983>) has ma chags pa dang / med pa yang dag pa nyid la.
- n.207 Although the reading thabs la mkhas pa is supported by PSP 1-2:24 upāyakauśalaṃ and le’u brgyad ma ga 181b5 thabs mkhas pa dang, the correct reading is likely Ghoṣa 1258 aupadikaṃ. ’bum 8.77 (ga 60b7) and nyi khri 8.32 (ka 185b3) have nyams su blang ba dang ldan pa’i dngos po “the place of the basis of merit that is together with taking up practice.” This is perhaps Kumārajīva’s reading recorded by Mppś 2246 (English version V 1856) “K’iuan-tao perhaps is the original Indian samādāpana ... an incentive (in Tib, bskul ba) to do something.” The exhaustive explanation in Mppś does not mention the reading thabs la mkhas pa. Mvy gives rdzas las byung ba’i (“arisen from material things”) bsod nams bya ba’i dngos po as rendering aupadhikaṃ puṇyakriyāvastu.
- n.208 “Backbiting” means intentionally separating friends by speaking behind their back.
- n.209 Here las (karman) probably means the latency left by an action, or else the bare action understood as separate from the motivating force.
- n.210 Pema Karpo, 130a2–5, explains: “The third [deliverance is as follows]. Again, having resorted to a mind of the fourth concentration, they open up to the belief that all forms are of one taste—beautiful—based on these three perceptions: that pleasant [and unpleasant forms] are contingent on each other (a silver pot, for example, contingent on the copper one, is pleasant, and contingent on the gold one is unpleasant), the perception free from both a silver pot being pleasant and unpleasant, and the perception that the basic nature of a single silver pot that is pleasant and unpleasant has the same nature. This meditation counteracts liking, that is, counteracts the conceptualization that a mentally created pleasant form is desirable, and a mentally created unpleasant form is undesirable, respectively.”
- n.211 PSP 1-2:27, Gilgit 313.3, Ghoṣa 1262 na anyathātvaṃ; le’u brgyad ma ga 184a3, ’bum 8.88 (ga 64a4), nyi khri 8.42 (ka 188a4) gnas pa las gzhan du ’gyur pa mi

mngon pa/myed/med pa “remains without change,” “does not become something else.”

- n.212 LSPW 169 renders this “on account of their nondiscrimination and their nonconstruction.”
- n.213 Mppś (English version, 254) says, “Moreover he is called mahāsattva because he is the chief of many beings.”
- n.214 Mvy 5075 gives phal po che as a translation of nicaya, “heaping up, collection, assembly.”
- n.215 PSP 1-2:28, Ghōṣa 1264 have causal nirvāpita, but it is not explicitly here in the Tib translation.
- n.216 Unmixed (ma 'dres pa, avyavakīrṇa) thought is not influenced by śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha hankerings.
- n.217 PSP 1-2:29 ekaikasyāpy ahaṃ sattvasya; Ghōṣa 1264, Gilgit 314.3 ekaikasyāhaṃ sattvasya; 'bum 8.97 (ga 65b3), nyi khri 8.50 (ka 189b2) sems can re re'i don du yang (“for the sake of each being, individually”).
- n.218 “Be preoccupied with” renders kun tu dga' ba'i rnal 'byor la brtson pa, āramatāyogānuyukta. Āryavimuktisena (AAV, Sparham 2006–11 vol. 3, 69) says, “It uses both the word yoga and anuyoga (“yoga that follows”) to indicate [those who] apply themselves (yoga), and then again apply themselves (anuyoga) to the truth of suffering and origin, and the truth of cessation and path, respectively, in a temporal sequence.”
- n.219 See 9.24.
- n.220 On the name of this chapter (khrel yod, apatrāpya), see LSPW 160, n. 1. Conze opines it is an early corruption from aupamyā in an early manuscript and calls the chapter “Similes.” There is no chapter ending at 'bum 8.110, nyi khri 8.58, or le'u brgyad ma ga 187a5.
- We have supplied “in the three realms” from Ghōṣa 1278–79, PSP 1-2: 31,
- n.221 aparyāpannaṃ traidhātuke.
- n.222 A sentence has dropped out here similar to nyi khri 8.64 (ka 192a6) de ci'i phyir zhe na / 'di ltar sems ni sems ma mchis pa ste/ sems ma mchis pa de la yangs chags pa med do. “And why? Because thought is no thought and because it is no thought it is unattached even to that thought.” Below (12.16) Śāriputra says Subhūti has said this earlier.

- n.223 Ghoṣa 1292 acittatvāt tatrāpi citte 'sakta iti. See n.222. This is either a cross-reference to Subhūti's statement in the Eight Thousand, or a reference to a line missing from this version. The statement is also found at khri pa 7.45 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-931>), and, perhaps in an editorial decision of Haribhadra, in le'u brgyad ma ga 188a3.
- n.224 The reading here and at Ghōṣa 1292, PSP 1-2:33, and Gilgit 317.3 is uncertain, in some part because the absence or presence of a virāma sign is optional. 'bum ga 85b1 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-7618#UT22084-014-001-7618>), nyi khri ka 193b4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7000#UT22084-026-001-7000>) rab 'byor gzugs med pa yang gzugs la chags pa med do; le'u brgyad ma ga 189a5 rab 'byor gzugs kyang gzugs med pa la chags pa med do. LSPW 174 has, "Is not also form unattached to no-form?"
- n.225 Here kiyatā (rendered "to what extent" rather than "with how many") modifies the "strands" (of either the perfections or beings) that are closely interwoven as the armor and strapped around the body for protection.
- n.226 Ghōṣa 1302, Bṭ3 4.744 have the refrain "one is therefore said to be 'armed with great armor.' "
- n.227 Pariṇāmaya ("to transform"). Jäschke, s.v. sngo ba, notes sngo ba, the Tib rendering of pariṇāmaya ("turn over, dedicate, transform"), is rooted in the same meaning as sngo ("blue green"). MW, s.v. pariṇāma, gives as one of its meanings "mature, ripen." The metaphor means the root grows into ("greens out into") the branches and the leaves and the fruit of bodhi.
- n.228 Here and with the following perfections Ghōṣa 1303 has "practicing the perfection of wisdom"; 'bum 8.174 (ga 93a3) shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa la spyod cing / sbyin pa yong su gtong ba'i sbyin pa'i pha rol tu phyin pa'i go cha'o.
- n.229 Ghōṣa 1304, PSP 1-2:35, Gilgit 319.1 nimittīkr; 'bum 8.180 (ga 93b6) mtshan mar mi byed ("does not make those perfections into a causal sign").
- n.230 PSP 1-2:35 kuśalamūlam, "the wholesome root," is better.
- n.231 Earlier (2.30) it says, "the perfection of giving is completed by way of the purity of the three spheres, not apprehending a gift, giver, or recipient."
- n.232 So also Ghōṣa 1313, 'bum 8.219, and nyi khri 8.121. The two questions are different at PSP 1-2:39 mahāyānasamprasthito mahāyānasamārūḍho and le'u brgyad ma ga 196b1 theg pa chen po la yang dag par 'jug pa / theg pa chen po la 'dzeg par

'gyur pa, supported by Abhisamayālaṅkāra 1.45 prasthānapratipad mahāyānādhirohiṅī.

- n.233 Bṭ3 4.1300 says, “Names, designations, conventional terms and so on are ‘tokens’; defining marks and behaviors are ‘signs.’ ” Both of these explain “attributes” (ākāra, rnam pa), the aspects of a particular thing that make up its identity. They pay attention to the attributes and so on of space because, like space, all the different meditative states are ultimately the same, without any intrinsic nature.
- n.234 In the scheme of the Abhisamayālaṅkāra this ends the ṣaṭpāramitāprasthāna. It is marked as such in Haribhadra’s revised version (PSP 1-2:41), and this may be an accidental incorporation of that gloss into this text.
- n.235 “Practicing the immeasurables” (PSP 1-2:42 apramāṇeṣu carataḥ prajñāpāramitā) is expected, as with all the earlier five perfections, but Ghoṣa 1327 does not have it.
- n.236 LSPW 183 “his cognition does not proceed in the three periods.”
- n.237 So too ‘bum ga 112b3 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-7672#UT22084-014-001-7672>), nyi khri ka 205a5 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7023#UT22084-026-001-7023>) yang dag par gnas; PSP 1-2:44, Ghoṣa 1329 samārūḍha; le’u brgyad ma ga 200a1 zhugs, and ga 200a2 ’dzeg pa; ‘bum ga 112b1, nyi khri ka 205a3 gnas; Abhisamayālaṅkāra 1.45d adhirohiṅī; mngon rtogs rgyan ka 4a6 ’dzegs.
- n.238 PSP ārohati; Ghoṣa, Gilgit 321.1 samārohati.
- n.239 Here the translators render bhāvanāvibhāvanā by bsgom par rnam par gzhiḡ pa. Later they render it consistently bsgom par rnam par ’jig pa, “a disintegration of meditation” (at 51.78 bshig pa, the past tense of ‘jig pa). Alternatively, “in order (phyir) to cause an investigation/disintegration.” Ghoṣa 1331, PSP 1-2:44 bhāvanāvibhāvanārthena; le’u brgyad ma ga 200b1 bsgom pa rnam par gzhiḡ pa’i don du; ‘bum 8.253 (ga 113b1), nyi khri 8.147 (ka 205b1) bsgom pa rnam par bsgom pa’i don du, “in order to develop a meditation”; LSPW 184 “a development in the sense of annihilation.”
- n.240 Contextually byang chub sems dpa’ is expected. Ghoṣa 1334 bodhisattvānupalabdhitām upādāya; PSP 1-2:45 sattvānupalabdhitām upādāya but le’u brgyad ma ga 200b3 byang chub sems dpa’ dmigs su med pa’i phyir.

- n.241 PSP 1-2:46 ghoṣam udīrayanti yaśaḥ prakāśayanti; Ghoṣa 1340 yaśas udīrayanti ghoṣam praśrāvayanti; Gilgit 322.14 varṇaṃ bhāṣante śabdāṃ udīrayanti ghoṣam anuśrāvayanti.
- n.242 PSP 1-2:48 dharmataiṣā subhūte dharmāṇāṃ māyādharmatām upādāya; literally, “Having taken the true nature of dharmas as conjured up, this is the true nature of dharmas.”
- n.243 “Knife, or a sword” renders lag cha dang / mtshon. Mvy only the generic āyudha for lag cha; PSP 1-2: 39 only daṇḍaloṣṭamuṣṭīśāstraprahāran.
- n.244 Ghoṣa 1358, Gilgit 326.1, PSP 1-2:50 kāyikacaitasikavīrya.
- n.245 Ghoṣa 1361, Gilgit 327.1 gatvā.
- n.246 Ghoṣa 1369, PSP 1-2:52 sarvākārajñatāpratisaṃyuktena cittena viharan nānyeṣāṃ cittotpādānām avakāśam dadati; Gilgit 328.1 sarvākārajñatāpratisaṃyuktena cittena nānyeṣāṃ cittotpādānām akāśaṃ dadāti.
- n.247 LSPW 191 “not armed with an armor.”
- n.248 Gilgit 329.5–6 akṛtā subhūte sarvajñatā anabhisaṃskṛtā; Ghoṣa 1380 akṛtāhi subhūte sarvākārajñatā / avikṛtā anabhisaṃskṛtā; PSP 1-2:54 sarvākārajñatā akṛtā avikṛtā anabhisaṃskṛtā. AAV (Pensa, 93) explains kṛta as a basic construction (common to all things), vikṛta a further process of particularization (the nyi khri’s rnam par byas) and for abhisaṃskṛta (“making manifest the attainment of a result”), that is, the final stage in a process of constructed existence.
- n.249 In the expanded version of the list (6.5) are self, a living being, a creature, one who lives, an individual, a person, one born of Manu, a child of Manu, one who does, one who makes someone else do, a motivator, one who motivates, one who feels, one who makes someone else feel, one who knows, and one who sees.
- n.250 gzugs nyid med pa’i phyir. It is odd to write gzugs med nyid kyi phyir in Tib. nyi khri ka 217b1 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7048#UT22084-026-001-7048>) and le’u brgyad ma ga 214a2 both have gzugs med pa’i phyir. LSPW “nonbeingness” conveys that asattva here (as in sarve sattvāḥ and bodhisattva) means more than just a state of nonexistence.
- n.251 Below (17.1) the question is repeated with ji ltar, in place of ji tsam na: “How have bodhisattva great beings come to set out in the Great Vehicle?” Gilgit 332.13–14 kiyatā bhagavan bodhisattvo mahāsattvo mahāyāne prasthito veditavāḥ; Ghoṣa 1405 kiyanto bhagavan bodhisattvo mahāsattvo mahāyānasamprasthitā veditavāḥ; nyi khri ka 220a4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7053#UT22084-026-001-7053>) and le'u brgyad ma ga 213b4 ji tsam gyis na; PSP 1-2:58 and below 1-2:87–88 kathaṃ bhagavan bodhisattvo mahāsattvo mahāyanasaṃprasthito veditavyaḥ. Jäschke records but questions ji tsam=ji snyad from J. Schmidt's Tibetish-Deutsches Wörterbuch.

- n.252 Here “where” renders gang la; below, when the question is repeated (18.1), gang nas “from where” (kutaḥ) (the response is, “from the three realms”). Again, the yang dag par zhugs here is nges par 'byung bar 'gyur below.
- n.253 A bodhisattva is a Great Vehicle that carries many people, in the sense that a bodhisattva supports or is responsible for their welfare, as in the colloquial “she has been carrying them all since they became unemployed.”
- n.254 Alternatively, sbyin par byed may simply render dadāti (“he gives”).
- n.255 “Not unmoved” renders ther zug du gnas pa med pa, akūṭastha.
- n.256 gzugs su rung ba; elsewhere (3.23) gzugs su yod pa.
- n.257 “Existent thing” (being) renders bhāva, “nonexistent thing” (not being) abhāva, “intrinsic nature” (own-being) svabhāva, and “a nature from something else” (other-being) parabhāva.
- n.258 This is the samādhirāja in the earlier list.
- n.259 The earlier list also has samāhitāvasthāpratiṣṭhāna, rājamudra, and balavīrya before samudgata.
- n.260 This is sarvadharmasamavasaraṇasamudra in the earlier list.
- n.261 Only D includes this meditative stabilization in this list. It is in this place in the earlier list. Only PSP 1-2:71 gives an explanation of a nāmanimittapraveśa meditative stabilization later.
- n.262 This is rendered me sgron (jvalanolka) in the earlier list.
- n.263 In the earlier list the translators read anāvīlakṣānti and rendered it bzod pa rnyog pa med pa.
- n.264 PSP 1-2:65 anusārapratīsāra.
- n.265 We have rendered the meditative stabilization as vimalaprabha in place of vimalapratibhāsa following Gilgit 337.1 and PSP 1-2:65.

- n.266 Here D has gdung ba med pa'i glog gi 'od; all the other editions of khri brgyad stong pa do not have this meditative stabilization at this point in the list. We speculate that somebody opined vidyutprabha could be dangerous and added gdung ba med pa. This then led others to drop the meditative stabilization altogether. Ghōṣa, Gilgit, and PSP have vidyutprabha.
- n.267 This is in PSP; Gilgit, Ghōṣa both have sarvalokaprabhākara as in the earlier list.
- n.268 The earlier list goes arajovirajonayayukta, araṇasarāṇasarvasamavasaraṇa (this is clearly the reading at Gilgit 337.3 and Ghōṣa 1414), and araṇasamavasaraṇa. Here araṇa is rendered nyon mongs pa med pa.
- n.269 Again, as in the earlier list, araṇa is rendered sgra med here. (See n.182.)
- n.270 Again, as in the earlier list (9.24), the translator reads nīścitta.
- n.271 A subject, not explicitly spelled out in the scripture, has been supplied.
- n.272 Cf. Edg, s.v. atyudgama (shin tu 'phags par 'gro ba); LSPW “One is elevated above all concentrations”; Gilgit 337.8 has only udgama.
- n.273 Ghōṣa 1416, Gilgit 337.10 vajra is better; PSP 1-2:66 vajropama.
- n.274 LSPW says it means “One establishes oneself in all concentrations with the definiteness of a king.”
- n.275 Mistakenly reading ratna for raṇa. PSP 1-2:68, later in the list, has tatra katamo raṇajaho nāma samādhiḥ? yatra samādhou sthitvā sarvasamādhīnāṃ nimittāny api jahāti prāg evānyāni nimittāni kleśānāṃ, tenocyate raṇajaho nāma samādhiḥ, exactly what is translated here. Ghōṣa 1417 has the name preraṇajaha? and then raṇajaha with the explanation sarvakleśamalān śoṣayati “cause the stains of all the afflictions to dry out”; Gilgit 338.7 has raṇajaha with the explanation sarvakleśam alam / sarvakleśamalam śuṣayati (“enough that it dries out all the afflictions, it dries out all the stains of afflictions”); nyi khri ka 226a4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7065#UT22084-026-001-7065>) translates dhvajāgrakeyūra; PSP 1-2:67 tejovatin, translated at le'u brgyad ma ga 220b2. It is noteworthy that from this point the translation into Tib no longer mirrors the structure of the sentence in Gilgit and Ghōṣa but changes to that found in PSP (tenocyate is de'i phyir).
- n.276 Jäschke, s.v. lham me (snang), lhan ne (snang), and lhang nge (snang), all as different forms of the same word meaning “clear and distinct.”
- n.277 This renders exactly Ghōṣa 1418 sarvasamādhīnāṃ malam apakarṣati sarvasamādhīn pratibhāsayati; PSP balam ākarṣayati sarvasamādhīn prabhāvayati!; nyi khri ka 228a2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7069#UT22084-026-001-7069>), le'u brgyad ma ga 221a5 have only dri ma sel ba.

- n.278 LSPW “cannot be overturned.”
- n.279 The translation’s sentence structure here reverts to the Gilgit and Ghoṣa form.
- n.280 LSPW suggests “Jewel Cusp.”
- n.281 Ghoṣa 1420, Gilgit 339.14 amudrākoṭimudritatām upādāya; PSP 1-2:70 ādimudrā-mudritām upādāya is LSPW “with a seal from the very beginning.”
- n.282 Emend dpyod pa to spyod pa.
- n.283 Ghoṣa, Kimura, Gilgit 341.8 all read cākārābhīnīrhāraṇi samanupaśyati; we think it makes more sense saying “he sees the consummation,” but also nyi khri ka 230b7 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7074#UT22084-026-001-7074>) and le'u brgyad ma ga 223b7 mi mthong.
- n.284 There is no explanation here for the vidyutprabho nāma samādhiḥ.
- n.285 This renders gnyid kyis non pa gsal ba, nidrāklamaprativinodana. LSPW “dispelling exhaustion by sleep.”
- n.286 So Kimura 1-2:76 kumbhakāraḥ kumbhakārāntevāsī vā. Ghoṣa 1429, Gilgit 344.2 bhramacakraṅvarttī bhramacakraṅvarttevasī vā, “spinner of the humming wheel,” allows for other, perhaps more appropriate analogies to do with directing water to fields or grinding grain.
- n.287 mon sran de'u, literally “Indian shot bean,” a nice description.
- n.288 Kimura 1-2:78, Ghoṣa 1432 bahirdhākāye (“outer body”).
- n.289 skyugs za/skyugs pa: “vomit-eater” (also a word for a dog and type of demon) probably renders vāntāda (Ghoṣa 1432 vāstāsa?).
- n.290 Ghoṣa 1436 cittaṃ pragṛhṇāti samyak pradadhāti; alternatively, Kimura 1-2: 80 “exerting themselves mentally, and setting it out as a perfect goal.”
- n.291 The four are desire-to-do = yearning (chanda), perseverance (vīrya), concentrated mind (citta), and examination (mīmāṃsā). The meditative stabilization is a mental force that functions to make each of the four stable, causing the stabilization of the desire (the yearning) to be mindful and make an effort and so on. Alternatively, all four factor into a perfect meditative stabilization. Meditative stabilization is being highlighted, as were mindfulness and effort (or abandonment) in the earlier two sets of four applications of mindfulness and four right efforts. Each of the four limbs are necessary. The “concentrated mind” limb is then the latency from earlier habituation rather than the stabilized or concentrated mind itself.

- n.292 Alternatively, “knowledge that cuts off the artificial aggregates”; cf. LSPW 156, n. 3.
- n.293 This is a repetition of 13.38; cf. PSP 1-2:41 and Ghoṣa 1444 that have the four meditative stabilizations before the four immeasurables.
- n.294 This is a repetition of 16.72–16.80.
- n.295 A better reading is below (73.67): rnam par smin pa gnas kyi rnam pa dang / rgyu'i rnam par (khri pa has gnas kyi sgo nas dang / rgyu'i sgo nas; Ghoṣa 1446, PSP 1-2:83 sthānaśo hetuśaḥ; ŚsPN4/2 0083r2 sthānaso hetuso vipākam; Gilgit 621.6 sthānaśo hetuto vipākam) “They accurately know from the perspective of place and from the perspective of cause the results of past, present, and future actions and the undertaking of actions.”
- n.296 This may simply mean “the world with its various places and multiplicity of regions.”
- n.297 Elsewhere the compound vimuktijñānadarśana is rendered “knowledge and seeing of liberation.”
- n.298 Saloman (1990) derives the 42 letters (“the arapacana syllabary”) from the Karoṣṭhī alphabet; Brough (1977) examines them in the light of the Laṅkāvatārasūtra in Chinese translation; also LSPW 211–13 and notes. We have not followed the correct extended Wylie transliteration.
- n.299 khyad par med pa = nirviśeṣāt; Ghoṣa 1450, PSP 1-2:85 paramārthanirdeśāt (“because it teaches the ultimate”).
- n.300 To avoid a repetition with sa below, this should be either ṣ (as in ṣaḍāyatana) or śr (as in ṣaddha, Skt śraddha, according to Brough 1977).
- n.301 Here stambha is rendered khengs (“conceited”). Again Brough, based on Chinese translations and transliterations, suggests ṣṭha to avoid repetition with stha below.
- n.302 sdiḡ pa, heṭ(h)a; better Ghoṣa ṭakāra rendering Mvy bsdigs pa, the spelling in Bṭ3; LSPW suggests ṭalo (sthala) “the other shore,” based on a reading of Kumārajīva’s translation.

- n.303 'bum ga 195b2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-9848#UT22084-014-001-9848>), nyi khri ka 246b1 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7106#UT22084-026-001-7106>) chags; LSPW “tied down.”
- n.304 This is a conjectural rendering of a zhes bya ba la sogs pa'i yi ge la 'jug pa'i phyag rgya a zhes bya ba la sogs pa yi ge'i phyag rgya'i tshig 'di dag. The letter a is a mudrā (“seal”) in the sense of a mark left to show authenticity because as a negation it shows all words and their means are empty of an intrinsic nature. The letter a is an “entrance” because it is the first letter of the alphabet. Through it you get to all the other letters, and by extension, through it you get to all the words and sentences built up out of letters and to the meanings they convey. Bṭ3 1.50 cites a passage similar to Gilgit 351.1–2: tatra katamāni dhāraṇīmukhāni yad utākṣarasamatā bhāṣyasamat akṣaramukham akṣarapraveśaḥ. “What are the dhāraṇī gateways, which is to say, the sameness of letters, the sameness of spoken words, a syllable door, and a syllable entrance?” akṣara means not only “letter, syllable” but also “nonperishing.”
- n.305 Emend kyis to kyi sa (yā dharmāṇāṇi bhūmis).
- n.306 “Purification” (yongs su sbyong ba, parikarma); alternatively, “groundwork”; LSPW “preparation.” In the Tib translation of the Daśabhūmikā (sa bcu pa) pariśodhana is rendered systematically as yongs su sbyong ba.
- n.307 This is not glossed later (17.13) and perhaps explains why there are eleven, not ten parikarmas here. It is in the first list (Ghoṣa 1454, Gilgit 352.12) but not glossed later (Ghoṣa 1459, Gilgit 355.2). It is in the list at Abhisamayālaṅkāra 1.48 (Wogihara 99).
- n.308 “Auspicious” renders bzang po (also 'bum ga 196b5 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-9850#UT22084-014-001-9850>), nyi khri ka 247b2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7108#UT22084-026-001-7108>), and le'u brgyad ma ga 237a4), a word added in Tibetan (like the ye in ye shes, jñāna) to distinguish a special status. Ghoṣa 1454, Gilgit 352.14–353.1, PSP 1-2:88 lakṣaṇānuvyaḥ.
- n.309 PSP, le'u brgyad ma, and LSPW 214 omit this purification. It is glossed below (17.22), but together with the second, it makes for a total of eleven parikarmas, whereas above it says there are ten.
- n.310 The translators read nirvṛt in place of nirvid; PSP 1-2 95 nirvitsahagataś cittotpādaḥ.

- n.311 The translators incorrectly read anavakīrṇa in place of anavalīṇa.
- n.312 PSP 1-2:89 daśa dharmāḥ; Abhisamayālaṅkāra dasaitān; le'u brgyad ma ga 227b7 chos bcu; Ghoṣa 1456 ṣaḍ dharmāḥ; 'bum ga 197b2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-9852#UT22084-014-001-9852>), nyi khri ka 248a7 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7109#UT22084-026-001-7109>) chos drug; Gilgit 353.10 aṣṭau dharmāḥ.
- n.313 Ghoṣa 1456, Gilgit 353.12 vicikitsā. This is not glossed below (17.59) or at Ghoṣa 1465 and Gilgit 358.9.
- n.314 Dyongs su yi 'chad pa; Edg, s.v. paritasyati and aparitarṣaṇā “the not being wearied,” but he notes “there is no doubt that BHS paritarṣaṇā means desire”; 'bum ga 197b7 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-9852#UT22084-014-001-9852>), nyi khri ka 248b4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7110#UT22084-026-001-7110>) sred pa'i sems.
- n.315 'bum ga 198b2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-9854#UT22084-014-001-9854>), nyi khri ka 249a6 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7111#UT22084-026-001-7111>) byams pa'i skabs shes pa; Gilgit 354.7 anunayāvasarajñatā (“knowledge of opportunities for loving-kindness”). Mvy gives skabs for avasara; Abhisamayālaṅkāra 1.65a sakti is likely a gloss of anunaya.
- n.316 The translators read pariniṣpanna for pariṇāmanā.
- n.317 The desire realm (kāmadhātu) is where sense objects (kāmaguṇa) predominate.
- n.318 This explanation only makes sense when reading avalīṇa (PSP 1-2:95 anavalīnacittatā), sams zhum pa, “not feeling mentally cowed” (lī means to “lie down on” or to “adhere to”), in place of avakīrṇa, 'dre ba (“mixed”).
- n.319 nyi khri 10.18 (ka 253b1), le'u brgyad ma ga 242b5 yongs su skom (bskam) pa'i sems mi skyed de (“does not have thoughts that thirst for,” that is, “does not miss” them).
- n.320 There is a gloss for vicikitsā (“doubt”) rather than “greed, hatred, and confusion” at 'bum 10.61 (ga 203b7) and le'u brgyad ma ga 243b3; PSP 1-2:96 “It is because of seeing all dharmas because all doubt has been dispelled.”
- n.321 This is usually the meditative stabilization that arises at the time of birth (from the maturation of the karma that gave rise to the life) and lasts as long as the bodhisattva lives.

- n.322 Ghōṣa 1473, Gilgit 362.1 śuklavipaśyanā; Mppś 2444 śuṣkavidarśana (“ground of the dry view”).
- n.323 Ghōṣa 1473, Gilgit 362.3, ‘bum 10.132, and nyi khri 10.28 have no chapter break here; PSP 1-2:103 iti bhūmisaṃbhārah; le’u brgyad ma ga 249b1 sa’i tshogs so.
- n.324 This renders gang nas; earlier (15.1) gang la (“where”).
- n.325 Ghōṣa 1474, Gilgit 362.5. PSP 1-2:103 adds dharmadhātoḥ (“from the dharma-constituent”).
- n.326 At 15.1.
- n.327 At 15.1.
- n.328 “Extremely” renders atyanta (shin tu); le’u brgyad ma renders the word literally mtha’ las ’das pa (“that is beyond limits”).
- n.329 PSP 1-2:112 and le’u brgyad ma ga 256a7–b2 add the names of the ten bodhisattva levels at this point.
- n.330 Bṭ3 4.1164 says this is asking why self and so on cannot be apprehended, and says first it is because the ultimate cannot be apprehended; then it says the ultimate cannot be apprehended because it has no defining mark; and lastly it says therefore all the bases of the ultimate (the levels and so on) and the ultimate itself (emptiness and so on) cannot be apprehended.
- n.331 Ghōṣa 1529 sthāsyati, ‘bum 10.286 (ga 249b1) gnas par ’gyur ro (“will stand”).
- n.332 The idea in this section of the sūtra, as we understand it, derives from i/ya as “going,” in the sense of a dynamic state of being, like persons who find themselves going through time. The emptiness of that is a niryāna, “no going,” and that is the Mahāyāna “great going.” We have retained the basic English translations of niryāna as “going forth” and mahāyāna as “Great Vehicle.” They are not intended to convey all the aspects of the Skt words, but, as with the Tib translations, are lexical markers for them.
- n.333 “Space” (ākāśa) “has room” (avakāśa).
- n.334 At 19.1.
- n.335 PSP 1-2:125 ākāśaṃ na labhyate nopalabhyate; Bṭ3 4.1191 (158b) ‘thob pa ma yin dmigs su yod pa ma yin (perhaps “is not obtained and is not held on to” is the meaning). Gilgit 378.2 ākāśaṃ nopalabhyate na nopalabhyate, “not apprehended and not not apprehended,” is a good reading.

n.336 Cf. 19.1.

n.337 This is a play on the words sattva a state of being, in the sense of a living being, and sattā a state of being in the sense of a state of existence. At Gilgit 378.6 all are plural. The literal meaning then is “it is because the states of beings are the states of not existing (sattvāsattā) that spaces are states of not existing.” LSPW “it is because of the nonbeingness of beings.” The Tib translates sattva with the standard lexical marker sems can “sentient being.”

n.338 Again, this is playing on the words sattva and asattā. See n.337.

n.339 The list (Ghoṣa 1570ff.) includes outer sense fields, consciousnesses, contacts, feelings, elements, and links of dependent origination.

n.340 The absence of “pratyekabuddha” is probably an error.

n.341 At 19.2; Ghoṣa 1588, Gilgit 381.3, PSP 1-2:129.

n.342 At 19.4.

n.343 Emend dbus rnamṣ ni to dbus rnamṣ su ni; PSP 1-2:134 pūrvāntāparāntamadhyeṣu; Ghoṣa 1628, Gilgit 383.14 pratyutpannataḥ.

n.344 Cf. 19.4.

n.345 Ghoṣa 1635 ekādaśaparivarttaḥ; Gilgit 384.12; 'bum ga 331a3
(<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-10110#UT22084-014-001-10110>), nyi khri ka 309a3
(<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7231#UT22084-026-001-7231>) le'u bcu gcig pa'o.

n.346 Ghoṣa, Gilgit adhyeṣita; PSP adhīṣṭa.

n.347 Other versions have, more simply, “What are the wholesome dharmas (the dharmas on the side of awakening), and what are the śrāvaka dharmas, pratyekabuddha dharmas, bodhisattva dharmas, and buddha dharmas that come together and stream into the perfection of wisdom?”

n.348 Here the second meaning of na saṃvidyate—“They do not know and do not apprehend that ‘a bodhisattva is form’ ”—is probably more appropriate.

n.349 bar du, yāvac ca.

- n.350 K, N, D: “form that has not come into being.”
- n.351 Sattva.
- n.352 LSPW takes it as a dvandva, “endlessness and boundlessness.”
- n.353 The entire sentence reads, “Given that all dharmas thus have no intrinsic nature, what is that form that has come into being?”
- n.354 Gilgit 398.8, PSP 1-2:149 sāmyogikaḥ svabhāvaḥ.
- n.355 This renders PSP 1-2: 150 na kasyacid viḡamena. D gang dang yang bral bas ma yin no is literally “but not because it has separated from anything.”
- n.356 This renders zad pa’i dngos po med pa’o. Gilgit 398.13 yad anityaṃ so [’]bhāva-kṣayasya (“because an impermanence is of the coming to an end of a nonexistent thing”); PSP yad anityaṃ so ’bhāvaḥ kṣayaś ca; ’bum nga 84b4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-10394#UT22084-014-001-10394>), nyi khri ka 336a5 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7285#UT22084-026-001-7285>) dngos po med pa dang zad pa; LSPW 252–54 “nonexistence and extinction.”
- n.357 le’u brgyad ma ga 298b1 also has ther zug for akūṭastha; ’bum nga 118b1 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html?part=UT22084-014-001-10460#UT22084-014-001-10460>), nyi khri ka 336b3 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7286#UT22084-026-001-7286>) rtag pa.
- n.358 This (=PSP 1-2:151 anabhinivṛttāni) appears to be a direct citation from the earlier passage (20.11), but this exact wording is not found there.
- n.359 ’bum, nyi khri, and le’u brgyad ma have ma gtogs pa in place of las gud na.
- n.360 “Awakening” renders bodhi; “state of being” renders sattva.
- n.361 “Attribute” renders rnam pa (ākāra) and “formulated” renders ’dzin pa (ākārayante); nyi khri ka 355a6 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7323#UT22084-026-001-7323>) renders this rnam pa yod par bya ba.
- n.362 “Perfection” renders pāramitā; “gone far off” āram itā; “gone to the other side” pāram itā. Based on the glosses in the AAV (Pensa 123, Sparham 2006–11 vol. 1, 144) there are two constructive etymologies at work here, one from ram (“to enjoy”) where the prefix ā is equal to vi, hence to “abstain from” (Conze);

the other from āra, a theoretical root for deriving the word ārāt (“at a distance”). Gilgit 403.8 āram itaiṣāyūṣman śāriputra yad ucyate prajñāpāramiteti; PSP 1-2:157 ārātā āramitaiṣā āyūṣman śāriputra tenocyate prajñāpāramiteti.

- n.363 nyi khri 13.46 (ka 366a4) “Would not those in the śrāvaka vehicle have already gained the result of stream enterer, the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, and the state of a worthy one, and those in the pratyekabuddha vehicle not have already gained a pratyekabuddha’s awakening?” nyan thos kyi theg pa ba rnams kyis kyang / rgyun du zhugs pa’i ’bras bu dang / lan cig phyir ’ong ba’i ’bras bu dang / phyir mi ’long [’ong] ba’i ’bras bu dang / dgra bcom pa nyid thob zin par ’byur ro// rang sangs rgyas kyi theg pa ba rnams kyis kyang / rang sangs rgyas kyi byang chub thob zin par ’gyur ro. Gilgit 407.9; PSP 1-2:163 translated LSPW 259.
- n.364 An ordinary person, a śrāvaka, then a bodhisattva would have each gained each of the four results plus the result of pratyekabuddha.
- n.365 “Accept” (“I would have it be the case”) renders ’dod (iṣ); LSPW “wish or look for”; Edg, s.v. iṣ, does not record “accept” as a meaning, but it is extremely common in scholastic Tib as a meaning of ’dod.
- n.366 Here len pa suggests the translators read anupādā; Gilgit 408.2 anupalaṅbha (“does not apprehend”); PSP 1-2:164 anutpādaya (“does not produce”).
- n.367 PSP 1-2:166 śāriputra āha: kiṃ punar āyūṣman subhūte utpāda utpadyate athānutpāda utpadyate. (“Is production being produced or is nonproduction being produced?”)
- n.368 AAV (Pensa 125) aniścitatā.
- n.369 “Without” renders med par. It may be that antareṇa cannot, in such contexts, be rendered by the Tib bar la, and med par actually means “in between.”
- n.370 bod rgya tshig mdzod chen mo, s.v. phung po gsum pa, says it is (merit made from) confession, rejoicing, and dedication, or confession, rejoicing, and requesting the turning of the wheel of Dharma.
- n.371 bsngo ba dug med pa, nirviṣapariṇāma; LSPW 266 “undifferentiated” renders PSP 1-2:170 nirviśeṣapariṇāma.
- n.372 “Ordinary, worldly” renders laukikī.
- n.373 This section is explaining the usage of laukikī, a secondary derivative meaning “worldly, to do with the world,” from loka, or “world,” itself perhaps from a root like ruc, “to shine.” The explanation relates laukikī to loka by putting loka in each of the seven cases: nominative and so on. Each explanation should be understood as, for instance in the first of the seven, “[the aggregates are laukikī because it is] on account of them the loka is here.” PSP 1-2:171 kena kāraṇena laukikī? loko yābhir bhavati, lokaṃ vā yābhir nivartayati(!), lokena vā yāḥ samāḥ, lokāya vā yābhir dīyate, lokād vā yābhir [na] niḥsarati, lokasya vā yā bhavāya, loka vā bhavā yās tā laukikasyaḥ. “Why are they laukikī? They are called laukikī because they are those on account of which the world (nominative) exists; or on account of which it eliminates (!) the world (accusative); or which are the same as the world (instrumental); or on account of which [five sense objects] something is given to the world [of the six senses]; or on account of which [links of dependent origination and so on] they do not escape from the world (ablative); or [ordinary beings] who are for the coming into existence of the world (genitive); and [beings] who come into being in the world (locative).” LSPW, Gilgit, nyi khri omit. Bṭ3 4.-1346–4.1360 glosses each statement.

n.374 This section again puts loka in each of the seven cases, nominative and so on, and explains the usage of lokottara (“extraordinary, transcendental, supramundane”), a compound word composed of loka and uttara (“higher”). In most of the following explanations, however, the word uttara is derived not from uttara, but from uttī (“to escape”), for instance, the first of the seven, “[the parts of the eightfold noble path are lokottara because] on account of them the loka [=a person] (nominative) escapes.” PSP 1-2:171 tatra katamā lokottarā? loko yābhir uttarati, lokaṃ vā yābhir uttārayati, lokena vā yābhir uttāryate, ālokāya vā yā bhavati, lokād vā yābhir niḥsarati, lokasya vā yā uttaraṇāya, loka vā yā uttarās tā lokottarā iti: “There what are the lokottaras? They are called lokottaras [because they are those] on account of which the world (nominative) escapes; or on account of which [compassion and wisdom] they cause the world to escape (accusative); or on account of which [compassion and wisdom] a world [=a person] (instrumental) causes an escape; or which are there for illumination (dative); or on account of which they escape the world (ablative); or who are for the emancipation of the world (genitive); or who are the emancipators in the world (locative).” LSPW, Gilgit, nyi khri omit. Bṭ3 4.-1346–4.1360 glosses each statement.

n.375 Haribhadra (Wogihara 127) glosses bhūtapadābhīdhānena (yang dag pa'i tshig brjod pas; brgyad stong pa 28b5 yang dag pa'i tshig tu brjod par), “expressing the statement as an absolute,” with yathārutārthābhīdhānena, “when you take the meaning of the words literally.”

n.376 The plural of the heads of each of the orders of gods is intended.

- n.377 LSPW renders purataḥ (“in comparison to”).
- n.378 The name Kauśika means “of the Kuśika gotra,” perhaps in reference to an earlier ascetic (Viśvāmitra) of that lineage who, through his practice of the hundred aśvamedha sacrifices (hence śatakratu), became the head god, or, as MW speculates, because Indra is originally favorable to that clan, or somehow associated with it.
- n.379 Emend byas to bya ste.
- n.380 The translators render samyaktvaniyāma (“the flawlessness that is a perfect state”), that is, an ordinary śrāvaka’s nirvāṇa, variously by yang dag pa’i skyon med pa, yang dag pa nyid skyon med pa, and yang dag pa nyid kyi skyon med pa. Cf. the similar term yang dag pa nyid du nges pa (samyaktvaniyata) (“destined for the perfect state”). The reformulation of older terminology with a meaning specific to the agenda of the perfection of wisdom suggests avakram (“enters into”) may have the meaning “have stepped down from [a bodhisattva’s] perfect flawlessness” to a peaceful state of an unskillful bodhisattva without active bodhicitta. “Those who have already arrived at the maturity of the finality of existence.”
- n.381 Thempangma, ka 346b7. De et al have incorrectly repeated mi rtag pa dang / sdug bsngal ba (“impermanent, suffering”) here.
- n.382 Literally, “causing dharmas to join together with a dharma.” The three parts (dharmas) of the picture are (1) the state of mind committed to becoming fully awakened (“the thought of awakening”), (2) the state of mind closer to the goal because of the good that has been done motivated by the commitment (“the thought of the wholesome roots”), and (3) the state of mind when rededicating to the original commitment, turning over all the good that brings the goal of full awakening closer to full awakening (“the thought of dedication”).
- n.383 Drtog sbyor; K, N rtog spyod.
- n.384 “All these parts together” renders chos thams cad.
- n.385 “Not dwell on physical forms” is Gyurme Dorje’s translation of rūpam iti na sthātaoyam.
- n.386 Probably “powders” (cūrṇa) has dropped out of the list here.
- n.387 ŚsPK II-2:179 utpādaya (“develop”) in place of pariniṣpādaya. The causal perhaps means that the bodhisattva is causing all these qualities to happen in others.

- n.388 Each level from stream enterer to worthy one has a candidate (pratipannaka) and a result-recipient (phalastha). Of these eight, the lowest, the srotāpanna-pratipannaka, is called aṣṭamaka, “the eighth.”
- n.389 Emend de ltar to H re ltar, a translation of paramaḥ (“at most”); 'bum nga 350a2, nyi khri kha 13b2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7402#UT22084-026-001-7402>), le'u brgyad ma nga 16a1 po zos na. bod rgya tshig mdzod chen mo, 1256, s.v. po zos pa, an archaic term meaning ji tsam 'gor ba (“as long as it lasts”).
- n.390 This is a conjecture for mgo mnyam pa, samaśīrṣa (“equal in stature”), not a well known name for a member of the saṅgha.
- n.391 The “knowledge of a knower of path aspects,” also referred to as “knowledge of paths,” is the knowledge of a bodhisattva.
- n.392 ci ltar (kva) “however could” or “could ever,” in a rhetorical sense meaning you will never find it.
- n.393 gzhan ma yin pa (alternative translation “unique”?) is not in other versions.
- n.394 khri pa chos kyi gting rtogs pa (reading pātāla for pudgala?); Gyurme (khri pa) 16.9 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-1497>): “who have realized the depths of the sacred doctrine.”
- n.395 This entire passage is an unwieldy single sentence with a single rhetorical “is it not the case that ... is taught” (ma bstan tam) at the end. The translation utilizes parts of the construction at 'bum ca 21a5–22a5, nyi khri 15.27, Gilgit 428.12, and ŚsPK II-3:36.
- n.396 The abbreviation is too abrupt. PSP 2-3: 24 and ŚsPK II-3:83 sa sarvākārajñatā-sūnyatāyāṃ śikṣate 'dvaidhīkāreṇa have added “the emptiness of.” The idea is that training in the emptiness of any one dharma is training in the emptiness of any other, therefore training in any one dharma is training in any other dharma.
- n.397 Gilgit 434.2 has adhyātmaśūnyatām upādāya (“based on inner emptiness”) at the end of the entire abbreviated list. ŚsPK II-3:104 (also 'bum ca 110b3, nyi khri 16.33 (kha 44b1) has adhyātmabāhirdhāśūnyatām upādāya (“based on inner and outer emptiness”) right from the start. There is no obvious reason why there would only be adhyātmaśūnyatām for the aggregates here, and adhyātmabāhirdhāśūnyatā for some others in the list. On the other hand, PSP 2-3:26 has adhyātmaśūnyatāṃ yāvad abhāvasvabhāvasūnyatām upādāya (“based on inner

- emptiness, up to the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature”), probably Haribhadra’s later clarification.
- n.398 This has the sense, “A realizer cannot be apprehended apart from reality, and reality apart from the realizer of it.”
- n.399 We have taken this as a less elegant translation of PSP 2-3:28 and ŚsPK II-3:146. It is rendered at le’u brgyad ma nga 33a4, ’bum ca 129a1, and nyi khri 16.-48 (kha 47a2) as “its might is that which is not conjoined with or disjoined from all dharmas.”
- n.400 The sense is “gods with Indra as their leader,” but we have retained the plural because the multiplication of worlds is a recurring motif. LSPW 431 “the gods around Indra” and so on.
- n.401 LSPW: “will be well sustained by just the emptiness of form”; Gyurme (khri pa) 16.19 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-1509>): “will have been totally consecrated in [the understanding] that physical forms are emptiness.”
- n.402 D ming; N, H rus; Gilgit janetri [= janayitrī]; PSP jananī; le’u brgyad ma nga 43b7 ma ma; ’bum ca 239a3 skye ba; nyi khri, kha 58a4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7491#UT22084-026-001-7491>) skyid pa. Probably the sense intended in this list of ten benefits is that the bodhisattva is born of the solar race (kula) into the famous Śākya clan, and born in the royal family there (janman). However, ma ma (janayitrī) brings to mind a good patrilineage (N and H have cho rigs), matrilineage, and a special aunt as wet nurse.
- n.403 ’bum ca 247b2, nyi khri 17.13 omit. PSP 2-3:45 mahārājāno lokapālāḥ; le’u brgyad ma nga 47a7 ’jig rten skyong pa’i rgyal po chen po: “Mahārājas who are the protectors of the world.”
- n.404 ’bum ca 250a1 ser sna can du myi ’gyur (“not become envious”).
- n.405 H mgron po (“a guest”); D ’dron po?
- n.406 Thempangma, kha 31b3 brgya byin gyi le’u gsum pa, “third Śatakṛatu chapter.”
- n.407 We have rendered smān ma yin pa literally because we are not sure what it means; alternatively, perhaps, “even if struck with an incurable disease” or “even if the victim of a quack.”
- n.408 Edg (citing Burrow BSOS 7.781) says kākhorda is an Iranian loan word for a malicious spirit. Jäschke, s.v. byad (the Tib rendering of kākhorda), says a

- harmful spell is written on a piece of paper and hidden. LSPW “devil-lore.”
- n.409 Edg, s.v. upanāmaya (nye bar bsgrubs), does not give an example of a negative meaning associated with this verb as found here.
- n.410 blud is the past tense of ldud.
- n.411 This renders chus gtor; PSP 2-3:54, Gilgit 450.8 [uc?]choraya (gtor).
- n.412 PSP 2-3:56 śarīrāṇi; Gilgit 452.4 śarīram.
- n.413 Emend ma to mi.
- n.414 The order in Aṣṭa 216 (Sparham 2006–11 vol. 2, 160–62) is excellent. The order is hard to make sense of in all the longer versions, including this one. ‘bum ca 273b1–3, nyi khri 18.23 has the pratyekabuddha, then those who have set out (yang dag par zhugs pa) for unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, then those who practice (spyod pa) unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, and then it ends with those wanting to be an unsurpassed, perfect, complete buddha (tshang rgya bar ’dod). Whether the order in the Aṣṭa is systematizing earlier unsystematic lists is yet to be ascertained. LSPW 234–35 abbreviates its way past the problem.
- n.415 This version is not clear, but we have rendered it without emendation. Gilgit 455.10, PSP 2-3:62, Aṣṭa 216 pūrovaṃ bodhisattvacārikāṃ caran śikṣito (“a tathāgata, earlier when practicing the bodhisattva’s way of life”); rendered LSPW 233 “[Because they] will cognize that therein the Tathāgata has trained in the past.”
- n.416 Haribhadra lists the seven precious stones as coral, turquoise, silver, crystal, gold, ruby, and emerald. Other versions of the sūtra give the measurements or numbers of stūpas here.
- n.417 PSP 2-3:64, Gilgit 457.3 antaśaḥ pustakaḡatām api kṛtvā; Gilgit 457.3 also has just likhitvā ca, as the first in the list. Here, and in the repetitions below, by tha na (antaśaḥ) the translators seem to want to convey the sense of “in an extreme case, even were they to do no more than just write it out and make a book of it.”
- n.418 Gilgit 458.12; Thempangma, kha 45a2 brgya byin gyi le’u bzhi pa “Fourth Śatakratu chapter.”
- n.419 Earlier rgyu (upaṇiśā) came later in the list of numbers, after dpe (upamā).

- n.420 These words are explained by Haribhadra (Wogihara 237, Sparham 2006–11 vol. 2, 173).
- n.421 The twelve deeds of a tenth-level bodhisattva mirroring the twelve deeds of a buddha.
- n.422 dkar po'i cha. Gilgit 462.15 śuklāṃśa; PSP 2-3:74 śuklaṃ dharmam.
- n.423 This is Edg's rendering of vicakṣukaraṇa; LSPW 241 "to blind."
- n.424 Insert rigs kyi bu mo (kuladuhitā); probably omitted by scribal error.
- n.425 bsngags pa yongs su brjod par mdzad (nāmadheyaṃ parikīrtaya), rendered ming yongs su brjod par mdzad below. We have translated them differently because the Tib here renders them separately.
- n.426 The passage is easier to understand if pariṇāmita is taken to mean yongs su gyur pa ("transformed into").
- n.427 This order is unusual.
- n.428 'bum ca 333b1, nyi khri 21.39 (kha 99a1), le'u brgyad ma nga 80b6, Aṣṭa 261, and PSP 2-3:86 have "They see the turning of the wheel of the Dharma," omitted from all the editions of khri brgyad stong pa. It has probably dropped out by accident, but it is possible that just the chanting of the bodhisattvas points to the origin of the sūtra.
- n.429 Thempangma, kha 64b2 mchod rten la bsti stand bya ba'i le'u zhes bya ste sum bcu pa'o: "Honoring Reliquaries chapter"; the same as Aṣṭa 267, chapter 3 stūpa-satkāraparivarta.
- n.430 LSPW 243–44 "so that beings in it might do the work of a Buddha."
- n.431 MW, s.v. saṃnīpāta: "complicated derangement of the three humors."
- n.432 Cf. 3.5.
- n.433 It is noteworthy that only 'bum ca 360b3 and nyi khri 22.39 (kha 110a3), not PSP 2-3:96 or le'u brgyad ma nga 89b1, add "knowledge body" (ye shes kyi sku, jñānakāya) here.
- n.434 On the meaning of chos nyid du here see Aṣṭa 276 ye ... buddhā ... tān dharmatayā draṣṭukāmena ... prajñāpāramitā ... bhāvayitavyā; Eight Thousand, 118 "in accordance with dharma." The meaning "true dharmic nature, true reality, the way things are" does not fit the context.

- n.435 PSP 2-3:102 dharmābhisaṃbuddhas; LSPW “though which.”
- n.436 If mchod (pūjaya) is emended to 'chad (sūcaya) the passage reads, “A son of a good family or daughter of a good family who teaches and explains the perfection of wisdom in detail, up to points it out to others by way of not apprehending anything creates a lot more merit than a son of a good family or daughter of a good family who practices the perfection of giving for infinite, incalculable eons by way of apprehending something.” PSP 2-3:109 kathayed yāvat sūcayet.
- n.437 'bum cha 67b, nyi khri 23.42 say, to paraphrase, that because they retain an idea (zhes bya bar rtog) of form as being impermanent and so on they do not practice the perfection of wisdom. Aṣṭa 298–99 says it is a semblance of the perfection of wisdom to say that form is impermanent, to say that you should investigate that, and to say that doing so is to practice the perfection of wisdom.
- n.438 The absence of the “four continents” here is perhaps a block cutter’s error missed by an editor.
- n.439 Bṭ3 5.204 says the comparison is between someone who has established just that many beings in awakening and someone who keeps on causing beings to learn and practice the perfection of wisdom in its completeness.
- n.440 Aṣṭa 327–29, Eight Thousand 125–26 convey the intended meaning of this section very clearly.
- n.441 The word “dedicate” renders the Tib bsngo (“to turn something green,” “to cause it to grow”) that in turn renders the Skt pariṇāma (“dedicate,” “transform,” “turn over”).
- n.442 PSP 2-3:127 bodhisattvakulam grahīṣyati. 'bum cha 131a4–5, nyi khri 24.21, le'u brgyad ma nga 115b7. The meaning is that the bodhisattva discovers his or her true identity as one destined for awakening and never wavers. It is unlikely it means to be born in or to marry into a bodhisattva family, or that bodhisattvas become his or her family and as such give assistance.
- n.443 'bum cha 131b1–2, nyi khri 24.22 (kha 145b2) tshig gi lam nyams pa myi mnga' ba = (a)paryāttavākpatha (“for whom the path of speech does not end”); PSP 2-3:127 paryāttapāspa, le'u brgyad ma nga 116a3 mchi ma zad pa (“for whom tears have ended”).
- n.444 “Conforming” renders 'thun, that is, the same as the way it is done when it is done properly. Alternatively, it may mean where all the parts of the dedication are understood as being essentially the same. PSP 2-3:129 samena pariṇāmayati; LSPW 261 “turns over evenly.”

- n.445 This translation, reading bar (either accidentally left out or understood from the context) with las, is based on the gloss at Bṭ3 5.226 (191a).
- n.446 'bum cha 135b3–6, nyi khri 24.30 spell this out more clearly. When the buddhas and their śrāvaka saṅghas have entered into nirvāṇa, they are extinct; there is no conventional reality left to them. When bodhisattvas bring to mind the wholesome roots that led to the attainment of nirvāṇa by those buddhas with their śrāvaka saṅghas and dedicate their own wholesome roots planted on account of rejoicing in the wholesome roots those buddhas and their śrāvaka saṅghas planted to be able to reach that nirvāṇa, in order for the dedication to be perfect the state in which the bodhisattvas make the dedication—“the thought with which the dedication is made”—should be exactly the same as the dedication (PSP 1-2: 130 parināmayitavya, “that which has to be dedicated”), which is to say, both should be nirvāṇa, the intrinsic nature, true reality.
- n.447 PSP 2-3: 131 says subhūtir āha (“Subhūti says”), and the Lord praises Subhūti, not Maitreya below (33.40). The reading here has not been emended, because it is supported by 'bum cha 136b1, nyi khri 24.34, and Bṭ3 5.231.
- n.448 They have ceased because the buddhas have entered into complete nirvāṇa.
- n.449 Haribhadra (Wogihara 359) glosses this as “dedication could not be in the three periods of time or in the triple world because in true reality they do not produce it there.”
- n.450 This is a literal translation of an overly abbreviated passage. If somebody supported them in their endeavor and dedicated with a “tainted” dedication or a dedication “with attachment” is the intended meaning.
- n.451 Aṣṭa 371 yathāvimukti; PSP 2-3:141 yathādhimukti; LSPW 268–69 “the resolve.”
- n.452 'bum cha 178a5, nyi khri 25.1 (kha 161b6) shul gol ba (“wrong road”); so too le'u brgyad ma nga 127a6 lam log pa. Alternatively, the metaphor may be of a track through the forest that is not clearly marked.
- n.453 PSP 2-3:143 triparivartadvādaśākāradharmacakrapravartayitrī; 'bum cha 178b2 and nyi khri 25.1 (kha 162a3): rnam pa bcu gnyis rgyud gsum du 'khor ba'i chos kyi 'khor lo (“that turns three times and has twelve aspects”) is a better translation.
- n.454 nyi khri 25.6 has this same problematic reading that turns Śāriputra’s “It is not so” into a non sequitur. 'bum cha 179b7–180a4 is the correct translation.

We have provided a translation that has tried to keep the original Tib but still makes sense.

- n.455 We have supplied the subject that is missing from the passive construction in the Skt and Tib.
- n.456 glo ba ches is a variant of blo khog che; 'bum cha 204a5, nyi khri 25.20 (kha 165b5) shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa la yid ches pas chos gang la yid ches ("in what dharma do you have confidence when you have confidence in the perfection of wisdom"); Aṣṭa 387 paridīpita (Eight Thousand, 137 "lit up") differs.
- n.457 The "wisdom" here is a bit odd.
- n.458 Haribhadra (Wogihara 391, Sparham 2006–11 vol. 2, 272) glosses the clearer version of this in the Aṣṭa: "They follow doctrine, understand meaning, and instruct others by means of both of those methods."
- n.459 bems po nyid, PSP 2-3:149 dharmajaḍatām upādāya; LSPW 273 "real field?"
- n.460 Edg, s.v. vibhajya-vyākaraṇa, an explanation "distinguishing aspects beyond what the question itself immediately raised."
- n.461 PSP 2-3:150 yathā nopacayaṃ paśyati nāpacayaṃ ("seeing how it does not increase and decrease").
- n.462 This is a conjectural translation of lus dang sems kyi tshogs par mi byed pa. PSP 2-3:150 na kāyena na cittena samagrīn dāsyanti ("They will not give everything physically and mentally"). LSPW 275 "There is no concord either in their bodies or their thoughts."
- n.463 Haribhadra (Wogihara 397, Sparham 2006–11 vol. 2, 276) "The eight great hells are the great Avīci hell at a distance of twenty thousand yojanas beneath Jambudvīpa, and stationed above that [hell] the Pratāpana, Tapana, Mahāraurava, Raurava, Saṃghāta, Kālasūtra, and Saṃjīva hells."
- n.464 This refers to the end of an eon when all the realms in that particular world system are destroyed.
- n.465 A literal rendering of lus kyi tshad, PSP 2-3:152 ātmabhāvasya pramāṇam, is "measure of the body"; LSPW 276 "length of time a person will be reborn under the influence of the deed."
- n.466 PSP 2-3:153 agrāhyavacanā vā. 'bum cha 322b4, nyi khri 26.20 (kha 174a6) shin tu 'jungs pa'i sems dang ldan par 'gyur du'ong ngo ("become extremely stingy") differ.

- n.467 gzugs dngos po med pa'i rang bzhin ni gzugs yin pa'i phyir ro: literally, “the intrinsic nature of nonexistent form is form.” A superior translation of rūpābhāvasvabhāvo hi rūpam is at 'bum cha 324b4, nyi khri kha 175b4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7725#UT22084-026-001-7725>) gzugs la rang bzhin med pa ni gzugs yin no.
- n.468 Alternatively, “transform it into.”
- n.469 “Appear” renders 'tshal. 'bum nya 240a7, nyi khri kha 200a1 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7774#UT22084-026-001-7774>), khri pa nga 202b1 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html?part=UT22084-031-002-5150#UT22084-031-002-5150>) mchis; PSP 2-3:173–74 na prajñāyate; le'u brgyad ma nga 158a1 btags pa ma mchis so.
- n.470 “Want” renders 'tshal (-kāma).
- n.471 rnam pa. The translators read evākāraiḥ in place of PSP 2-3:177, Aṣṭa 432 evākṣarair; le'u brgyad ma nga 161b2, 'bum nya 232a4, nyi khri 28.40 (kha 207b4) yi ge (“letters, syllables”).
- n.472 These are the auspicious days of the lunar cycle.
- n.473 Abhisamayālaṃkāra 3.16 and the AAV (Sparham 2006–11 vol. 2, 63) say that from here to the end of the chapter is a summary of the first three of the eight abhisamayas.
- n.474 gang gi tshe, yadā? yasmāt (gang gi phyir); “on account of which” would be better.
- n.475 gnas med pa'i le'u; LSPW chapter 37 “Unsupported Anywhere.” The chapter titles are often simply taken from the last sentences of the chapter. We take the Tib gnas simply to be part of the word sbyin gnas that is equivalent to sus kyang.
- n.476 This is referencing nāmarūpa (“name and form”), the fourth of the twelve links of dependent origination.
- n.477 PSP 4:1 akṣaya; 'bum nya 342a5, nyi khri kha 217b3 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7809#UT22084-026-001-7809>) skad cig pa ma mchis pa renders akṣaṇa (“is not momentary”).
- n.478 chu 'bab pa, udakasyanda?; PSP 4:2 udakaskandhā, LSPW 297 “mass of water.”

- n.479 The ultimate practice, beyond ordinary convention or thought construction; alternatively, “practice so it is exactly as” a bodhisattva has heard, without any distortion.
- n.480 LSPW “is brought about as something that has come forth.”
- n.481 Here “stand in X” means, from a negative perspective, to keep on entertaining the idea of X as real, and from a positive perspective to have their feet solidly on the ground of reality. Even the second is ultimately negated.
- n.482 So too 'bum nya 353a5–6, nyi khri kha 225a4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7824#UT22084-026-001-7824>) gzugs la m(y)i gnas te / gang gi tshe gzugs la mi gnas pa de'i tshe / gzugs la brtson par byed pa yin no; le'u brgyad ma nga 177b4 gzugs la mi gnas te / gang gi tshe gzugs la mi gnas pa de'i tshe gzugs la rnal 'byor du byed pa yin no; but PSP 4:11 yadā rūpe na tiṣṭhati tadā rūpe na yogam āpadyate (“does not practice the yoga of form”); LSPW 301–2, “does not stand in form, etc. and in consequence makes no endeavour about form.”
- n.483 'bum nya 361a5 myi sbyor myi 'byed, “If they do not ‘apply themselves, detach themselves’ ”; alternatively, “If they do not ‘conjoin and disjoin’ (yuj, viyuj) they practice the yoga (yogam āpad).”
- n.484 This reading zhes bya ba de ltar yang mi spyod na, “If they also do not practice with such an idea,” is not found in other versions. It is repeated below (39.-19): “if they do not practice with the idea ‘that state of being hard to fathom of form...’ ” (without de ltar), but is absent from “immeasurability” (39.20). It is likely a corruption in the text, but we have translated the text as it has been received. Here nyi khri 30.14 says simply, and more coherently, “It is because the depth of form is not form” and so on, up to “the depth of the knowledge of all aspects is not the knowledge of all aspects.” It does the same with “hard to fathom” (nyi khri 30.15) and “immeasurable” (nyi khri 30.17); 'bum nya 386a7 to ta 4b1 is the same as nyi khri, but longer.
- n.485 This renders de tsam du literally; tanmātram (“in that measure”), LSPW 302–3 “so.”
- n.486 N log par ltung bar 'gro ba'i las gsogs pa in place of D log par ltung bar 'gro ba lags par 'gyur te; PSP 4:15 vinipātagāmikarmopacinuyāt.
- n.487 Bodhisattvas travel from buddhafiield to buddhafiield to worship the buddhas and listen to their teaching.

- n.488 This agrees with LSPW 303–4, which takes the yāvad (PSP 4:16) as the list of dharmas up to going into the site of awakening. Alternative yāvad could mean they keep on cultivating the six perfections right up until they go into the site of awakening.
- n.489 The translation of PSP 4:16 prativibuddhaḥ (Edg “reawaken”) at 'bum ta 5b5, nyi khri 30.26 (kha 232a7), and le'u brgyad nga 182a6 by gnyid kyis ma log pa zhig (“who have not fallen asleep”) is better. 'bum, nyi khri, PSP 4:16, LSPW 303–4, and le'u brgyad ma nga 182b1 do not have sems pa (“intend”). They simply contrast the sets of perfections done while asleep and awake and say it goes without saying that those doing the latter are approaching awakening if the former seem to be.
- n.490 Alternatively, de bzhin nyid du, tathatoāya as earlier (39.1): “practice it for suchness.”
- n.491 There is a change from singular to plural here in the Skt and Tib (not in this English translation) that is abrupt and not found at PSP 4:19, le'u brgyad ma nga 184a4, 'bum ta 7b7–8a1, or nyi khri 30.30.
- n.492 Read las (as in the earlier similar statement at 39.1 and in Subhūti’s statement that follows) in place of la.
- n.493 The inconsistency here is perhaps the mistake of a copyist or block cutter.
- n.494 One meaning of vartani (bar ta ni) is “east.” The translators transliterate the Skt, unlike south (lho) and north (byang) that are translated into Tib.
- n.495 Alternatively, nges par 'byung (niryā) may mean “escape.”
- n.496 Emend de dag ni to de dag na? PSP 4:29 tatra śāriputra iyaṃ gambhīrā prajñā-pāramitā buddhakṛtyaṃ kariṣyati: “This deep perfection of wisdom does the work of the buddha.”
- n.497 There are a number of ways to explain “last of the five hundreds,” one of which is that the Dharma lasts five thousand years, divided into ten periods of five hundred (Nattier 1999).
- n.498 The “site” is the site of awakening.
- n.499 LSPW renders yad uta ... ārabhya “that is, with reference to”; Edg, s.v. ārabhya, “have to do with.” It is saying that bodhisattvas, through establishing beings firmly on wholesome roots, advance their own progress toward awakening, or else it is saying that bodhisattvas establish beings firmly on wholesome roots that will grow into the future awakening of those beings.

- n.500 A “maturation” means an entire life from the viewpoint of its main defining features.
- n.501 PSP 4:34 udyogam āpannāḥ (“have striven at”) is better.
- n.502 The lacuna in the Gilgit manuscript ends here.
- n.503 An editor has perhaps included this (absent from the K, N, and H versions) and the following fault as two different translations of parasparam uccagghayamānā.
- n.504 This, following Edg and LSPW 315, renders co ’dri (uccagha). However, ’bum ta 64a4, nyi khri 31.6 (kha 250a7), and Bṭ3 5.443 (208b) all have steg (“tickle?”) an old word for sgeg and rol, and Bṭ1 pa 86b5–87a2 says “fooling with each other (phan tsun steg) is shouting out to each other, or playing, or cracking jokes” (khas brgya pa’am, rtze ba’am steg sngags zer zhing).
- n.505 From here to the end of the chapter the perfection of wisdom is primarily a book that has been, or is being, written out by hand. It is not restricted only to that meaning, however, so it is not capitalized as a title.
- n.506 “Just from headings” means, for instance, saying just “form and so on” is empty of an inherent nature, in place of spelling out the entire list of dharmas, up to the knowledge of all aspects, and saying of each that they are empty of an inherent nature.
- n.507 In the Vinaya scriptures, for instance, after the introduction there might be a story of the Buddha encountering a particular suffering person, a story of an earlier life in which the action leading to the result was done, a pithy presentation of proper conduct, and a final summary. The summary might be extracted and put together with other summaries, or the stories extracted and put together with other stories. Each part fits together as one of the divisions of the twelve division of the teaching. The division is not necessarily into twelve separate types of book.
- n.508 PSP 4:54 buddhapramukhaṃ bhikṣusamṅgham.
- n.509 The name of the title here, tshogs pa dang mi ldan pa, is rendering the visāmagrī/visāmagryā used as a refrain in the earlier sections of this chapter where it means “everything is not complete.” Aṣṭa 527 ends the māra karma-parivarta chapter here; Gilgit 501.11, ŚsPN3 4533r10, PSP 4:56–57, ’bum ta 101a6, nyi khri 32.62 omit; LSPW 326–28 ends the chapter titled “Chapter 41: The Absence of Māra’s Hosts,” not here, but later at the point at which the

Abhisamayālaṅkāra begins the discussion of lakṣaṇa and PSP 4:58 ends the discussion of doṣa (skyon).

- n.510 N, K.
- n.511 Bṭ3 5.465 says, “Take ‘destroyed’ and ‘really destroyed’ as getting used up, and becoming ruined.”
- n.512 The translators read Gilgit 506.9 anāsrava in place of the better reading at ŚsPN3 4538r10, PSP 4:62 anāsraya (“without a foundation”).
- n.513 we have rendered Tib lhag par g.yo ba, bral bar g.yo ba, bsdus par g.yo ba, rgyas pa (cp. ‘bum ta 116b1, nyi khri kha 275b2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7925#UT22084-026-001-7925>), le’u brgyad ma nga, 219b3 that have ‘phro ba, ’du pa, bkram pa, bcum pa) without emendation, even though it is difficult to understand what the Tib words might mean in context. This is because the translators have derived the words from a root iñj (Edg, s.v. iñjate, references Pali iñjati), meaning “to move.” It is much easier to understand the four terms as at Bṭ3 5.489: “thoughts that are clear, dull, abridged, and expanded,” rendering unmiñjita, nimiñjita, saṃmiñjita, and prasārita, derived from miñj (“to say, to shine”). In any case, the reference is to four categories under which wrong views are explained, wrong views such as sixty-two wrong views set forth in detail in the Brahmajālasūtra (tshangs pa’i dra ba’i mdo).
- n.514 “Mark” (mtshan nyid, lakṣaṇa) is used here in the sense of something’s definition or defining characteristic.
- n.515 K ngo bo med pa (“absence of an intrinsic nature”); PSP 4:67–68, ŚsPN3 4540r10–v4, Gilgit 510.2–5 asvabhāva.
- n.516 These are the definitions of form and so on.
- n.517 Deriving the Skt word for morality (śīla) from śyai (“to cool”).
- n.518 This renders spong ba. All other editions have asaṅga (chags pa med pa), “nonattachment.”
- n.519 The reference here is to the so-called eight “worldly dharmas” (laukikadharmas), where attachment and aversion, respectively, to each of the four opposites (pleasure and pain, and so on) are the laws (dharma) governing an ordinary person’s life (laukika).
- n.520 Alternative translation of this paragraph: “Subhūti, the tathāgatas have appreciation (kṛtajñatā) and a feeling of gratitude (kṛtaveditā). Subhūti, those who say the tathāgatas have appreciation and a feeling of gratitude’ make a correct statement. And how do the tathāgatas show appreciation and a feeling of gratitude? Subhūti, since the tathāgatas, having traveled in that vehicle and on that path, fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, therefore the tathāgatas respect, revere, honor, worship, protect, and treasure just that vehicle and just that path. You should view that as the tathāgatas’ appreciation and feeling of gratitude.”

- n.521 Bṭ3 5.516 says without a body means “without an interior” (khog pa med pa).
- n.522 Alternative translation of this paragraph: “Furthermore, Subhūti, the tathāgatas fully awaken to all dharmas as unmade (akṛta) and unchanging (avikṛta) because there is no agent. Because there is no body, they fully awaken to them as unmade. Subhūti, the full awakening by the tathāgatas to all dharmas as without activity, thanks to the perfection of wisdom, that is the tathāgatas’ knowledge of the unmade and awareness of the unmade. Furthermore, Subhūti, thanks to the perfection of wisdom, on account of being ultimately unoriginated, the tathagata have engaged with all the dharmas of the unmade transcendental knowledge.”
- n.523 Even though it is likely the following sentence gives the reason for this, it is not clearly spelled out as such here.
- n.524 Alternatively, D mnyam pa med pa dang mi mnyam pa, PSP 4:76 asamasamā iti subhūte asamaviṣamādhivacanam etat (“unequal to the unequaled”). K has “equal to the unequaled.”
- n.525 Earlier (22.47) it said “a faith follower and Dharma follower are the eighth.”
- n.526 This is the K and N reading, supported by Gilgit 519.9, ŚsPN3 4578v1 ekadevasikā kṣāntiḥ. D de nyid is supported by PSP 4:80 iyam eva.
- n.527 It means such knowledge and effort is part of what makes up the forbearance (kṣānti) in the sense that the bodhisattva practices it fully (though without passing into a nirvāṇa that blocks working for others). The bodhisattva’s practice is informed by forbearance for, or an understanding of, the practice itself lacking any intrinsic value beyond the value it may have for others.
- n.528 PSP 4:86 yaiḥ prajñāpāramitā parigṛhītā; nyi khri 35.7 (kha 298a5) and below 35.8 (299b4) has yongs su bzung (“assisted by” the perfection of wisdom) throughout, which is better.

- n.529 One krośa is said to be a bit more than a mile, but it is surely less than that here.
- n.530 Here the dark side is when there is false projection and the bodhisattva has therefore not been assisted by the perfection of giving up to the knowledge of all aspects and skillful means, and the bright side is when that false projection is absent and they have been assisted. ŚsPN3 4592v5–4593r1 goes through the list of dark and bright side dharmas in detail. Both sides are equally to be rejected as having any intrinsic nature.
- n.531 Dbrten (“rely on”).
- n.532 PSP 4:94, ŚsPN3 4593v5 bhaktavya. Another meaning of bsnyen is “stay close to.”
- n.533 mā samyaksam̐bodhiṃ rūpataḥ parām̐rākṣiḥ / parām̐r̥kṣaḥ; Edg, s.v. parām̐r̥ṣati, “do not attach yourself (cleave) to awakening as form.” Bṭ3 5.541 (215b) mchog tu 'dzin pa ma byed cig (“do not hold it as an absolute”) is excellent; Abhisamayālaṃkāra 4.26a (Amano 65) glosses this with anāsvāda (“nonrelishing”).
- n.534 'bum ta 267a6, nyi khri 36.3 (kha 305b2) yongs su ma brtags pa'i gzugs ni; LSPW 348 “For the aggregates, when not misconstrued, reach an all-knowledge which is also not misconstrued.”
- n.535 layana (gnas), “resting place,” also means “adhere to, cling to.”
- n.536 Emend 'dre ba to 'brel pa, Bṭ3 216a.
- n.537 lhag ma rendering śeṣa in the sense of what remains when what is bad is gone, hence liberation; khri pa lhag ma ma lus; Gyurme (khri pa) 22.20 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-1937>) “the non-residual [state]”; ŚsPN3 4605v10 aśleṣa; nyi khri kha 312a6 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-7998#UT22084-026-001-7998>) correctly 'dre ba med pa; 'bum ta 304b4 incorrectly 'dra ba myed pa.
- n.538 D shows this triad in an irregular order here: rtags rnams dang / rnam pa dang / mthan ma rnams. This and any other incidental instances of the triad have been emended in the English to reflect the regular order: attributes (rnam pa), tokens (rtags), and signs (mtshan ma).
- n.539 This is a literal rendering of sīmābaddhaḥ, the word used for setting the boundaries for a retreat. Here it means having restricted the number of beings for whom the bodhisattva is practicing.

- n.540 ma mchis pa; alternatively, “nonexistent thing.”
- n.541 Earlier (43.45) the laity achieve this status.
- n.542 D bar snang de nas (“from in the sky”).
- n.543 Alternatively, sngo bar byed means “dedicate it to.” The mistaken bodhisattvas take unsurpassed awakening as a real attainment with an intrinsic nature, rather than something that exists only conventionally, something that can be utilized, not unlike a story, for the benefit of others.
- n.544 This renders N, H, etc., supported by 'bum tha 72a1, nyi khri kha 344b2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8063#UT22084-026-001-8063>) byang chub las phyir ldog par yang myi 'gyur ro.
- n.545 LSPW spells it out well: “When one adopts the method of considering dharmas in their ultimate reality, which Subhuti the Elder uses in his exposition.”
- n.546 Aṣṭa 659–60 bodhisattvānāṃ tathāyāṃ pravibhāvayamānānām avīṣeṣatām nirvīṣeṣatām nirnānākaraṇatām śrutvā yasya is much more detailed and clear. The translation here of chos thams cad kyi de bzhin nyid kyi bye brag med par rab tu phyed ba la is in light of the reading in the Aṣṭa. Alternatively, based on the long versions, “Thus the bodhisattva great beings whose minds are not cowed, do not tense up, and do not experience regret when categories are made in terms of the suchness of all dharmas without distinction will go forth to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.” In passing, it is hard to see how the Aṣṭa can be a basic early version of the scripture when there are such contrasting passages as these.
- n.547 “One should think all beings are the same” either in ultimate reality, or insofar as they want happiness.
- n.548 Other versions throughout the above list have anupalambhayogena, “by way of not apprehending anything,” which helps make better sense of this final capping section of the chapter.
- n.549 khri pa nga 352a3 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html?part=UT22084-031-002-5449#UT22084-031-002-5449>) adds legs par gsungs pa'i chos 'dul ba la the tshom bskyed par mi byed de.
- n.550 This follows K, N dag par, supported by khri pa 31.5 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2520>); 'bum tha 115a7, nyi khri kha 354a6 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8082#UT22084-026-001-8082>) bkra shis dang ltas kyis gtsang mar myi 'dogs.

- n.551 The types and functions of the “maggot families” (krimikula) are explained at length in The Application of Mindfulness of the Sacred Dharma (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh287.html>) (Saddharmasmṛtyupasthāna, Toh 287) [see Dharmachakra Translation Committee, trans., 2020a], where they are called “worms.” It is a striking use of language intended to foster meditative detachment from one’s own body and the bodies of others.
- n.552 The twelve are listed earlier (41.6).
- n.553 Gilgit 560.4 na kṣubhaṇacitta; earlier (2.40) “who want to prevent malicious thoughts from arising.”
- n.554 Aṣṭa 674 makes it clear that the thought (citta) is bodhicitta, the thought of awakening.
- n.555 MW, s.v. śraddhā, says śraddhayā plus gam and the genitive means “believe in.” We have rendered parasya “another” instead of “somebody else” in light of the reason given below, that “one does not see any dharma at all.”
- n.556 “Focus” (guruko bhavati), literally “become something heavy”; Tib lhur len pa, literally, perhaps, “to take as one’s part”; Jäschke: “to apply oneself to.”
- n.557 This summarizes the full list given earlier (21.63).
- n.558 This is a conjecture for rigs 'phan par 'gyur ro. Alternatively, “your family will be benefitted” (taking 'phan as a form of phan, “to be useful”); Gyurme (khri pa) 31.49 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2573>) “Your family line will be broken”; PSP 4:157 kulodgata; ŚsPN4 9793v5 kuladevatā vā bhaviṣyati deveṣu.
- n.559 Here prakṛti (“basic nature”) also means, according to MW, “the constituent elements or powers of the state (king, minister, allies, treasure, army, territory, fortresses)” in the different countries (hostile, neutral, enemy of an enemy, and so on) surrounding a country going to war.
- n.560 Emend sbyor (even though supported by 'bum tha 141b1, nyi khri kha 369b2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8113#UT22084-026-001-8113>), le'u brgyad ma nga 301b2, and khri pa nga 364b3 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html?part=UT22084-031-002-5474#UT22084-031-002-5474>)) to sbyong, supported by ŚsPN4 9795r8 bhūta- koṭyāṃ śodhayati, PSP 4:160 bhūtakotīḥ śodhayati, Gilgit 569.3 bhūtakotya[āṃ] śodhayati, and AAVN 79b5 bhūtakotyaṃ śodanāt.

- n.561 gdon mi za ba is not found here in other versions, and besides, this rendering is surely not what is finally intended, given what follows. What was intended is that they do not think they will or will not fully awaken.
- n.562 Dgang dag (“whosoever”).
- n.563 Thempangma, kha 325a3. D et al “inseparable.”
- n.564 Emend the misprint phyir mi ldog pa to phyir ldog pa.
- n.565 'bum tha 169b1–2, nyi khri 41.38 (kha 379b6) bstan pa mngon par bsgrub par bshad pa (“explanation that is the consummation of a tathāgata’s teaching”).
- n.566 sems (citta) is rendered “mind” here and not “thought” because “mind and mental factors” is a commonly used terminology.
- n.567 rgyu ba means yongs su rgyu ba (samudācāra).
- n.568 K, N des. PSP 4:177, ŚsPN4 9810r9 api nu tena nimittasaṃjñā vibhāvītā bhavati. D de (“has the perception of it as a causal sign disintegrated”) is syntactically correct; bshig pa is the past tense of 'jig pa.
- n.569 Here the Tib renders vibhāvanā as rnam par gzhiḡ pa (“investigate”), not rnam par bshig pa (“disintegrated”). LSPW 398 “I will annihilate the signless” does not make sense to me. Alternatively, vibhāvanā might mean “do the opposite of meditate.”
- n.570 'bri ba renders apacaya; Aṣṭa 730 upacaya (“collection”).
- n.571 Haribhadra (Wogihara 733) glosses “isolated” as devoid of any real thing that is an objective support and therefore empty.
- n.572 *so so rnam*s, “each separate one.” Each mental event that creates karma occurs without any contact with a real object. Still, it occurs because a “causal sign” functions as an objective support because it invites a misplaced belief in its reality. The reading *so so rnam*s is not supported by PSP 4: 179 or Eight Thousand, 216, “one treats an actually nonexistent objective support as a sign,” and may be an accidental reduplication of the prṭhak (so so) in prṭhagjana (“ordinary being”).
- n.573 This interpolation is odd. The part left out in the immediately following section is “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing like that complete the six perfections and get close to the knowledge of all aspects.” But it is put back in again in the section after that.

- n.574 ras bcos bu renders Mvy dūṣyayugam; gser gyi kha dog lta bu zung cig, PSP 4:190 suvarṇavarṇapītavarṇaṃ ca puṣpayugam.
- n.575 Cf. 5.9.
- n.576 A tathāgatasamnipāta is equated (Aṣṭa 746) with uttīrṇapaṅka ([a lotus] “emerged from the mud”). Haribhadra (Wogihara 746) glosses this “without kleśa” (kleśāvaraṇaprḥāṇād). It means a bodhisattva in the assembly of a tathagata.
- n.577 Better is ŚsPN4 9817v8 that has evaṃ, “thus,” in place of eva (nyid du), “actual.”
- n.578 Emend dus ma yin pa to dus yin pa: “it is the time to acquire and master”?
- n.579 Take thogs as ’thogs (grhīta, “to seize” or “hold up”).
- n.580 This is rendered literally. The Tib translators have taken vyavahṛ (PSP 4: 195 na cānimittena vyāhriyate) with its usual, though contextually inappropriate, meaning. Had they understood it simply as a form of vihr, “to rest in, dwell in,” it would mean “they do not rest through signlessness,” which is to say, they do not make nirvāṇa into an absolute. bum tha 201b4–5, nyi khri 44.9: “They stand in the four immeasurables and complete the six perfections. Having completed them, without attaining the extinction of outflows they master (ŚsPN4 9818v7 karoti, “work at”) the knowledge of all aspects.”
- n.581 Cf. 3.43: “the emptiness of what transcends limits, the emptiness of no beginning and no end, the emptiness of nonrepudiation, the emptiness of a basic nature, the emptiness of its own mark.”
- n.582 sems mngon par sgrub par byed renders cittam abhinirharati. It is noteworthy that Edg, s.v. abhinirhāra, says the Pāli meaning “earnest wish” is not attested in Buddhist Hybrid Sanskrit.
- n.583 Alternatively, “perceive doctrines that are not good as good” (yod pa = sat as at nyi khri 44.13 (a 10a6) dam pa ma yin).
- n.584 Here anabhisaṃskāra (rendered in other contexts “not occasioning anything” or “nonenactment”) is clearly equivalent to a śrāvaka’s nirvāṇa. Edg says anabhisaṃskāra is usually a bahuvrihi.

- n.585 Better is 'bum tha 212a2, nyi khri 44.28: "those who give an answer like bodhisattva great beings standing on levels that have been cleansed or levels that have not been cleansed are few."
- n.586 From here (parivarta 55) Gilgit is available in the Conze (1962) edition, cited hereafter as GilgitC.
- n.587 This is contextually the most likely meaning, however sākṣātkṛ might mean to treat something as being as real as when it is right before one's eyes, hence to over-reify.
- n.588 GilgitC 4 omits.
- n.589 PSP 5:3 satyādhiṣṭhānaṃ karoti. Sánchez (2011, 18, n. 9) renders satyādhiṣṭhāna "truth-command" and says it is a synonym of satyakriyā and satyavāc. He says (18) in its earliest Vedic usage it "extracts its effectiveness from the complete tuning of the proclaimer with the same reality/truth (satya) that constitutes the cosmic order." He says (22) "While the Vedic satyakriyā is based on the perfect harmony between oneself and her/his own duty within the cosmos (ṛta), the Buddhist saccakiriya instead extracts its power from the speakers' ethical perfection," and Sánchez cites Harvey (1993, 67–68, 70–71, 74) to the effect that " '(moral) truth is a natural force with irresistible power.' "
- n.590 The nāmādhiṣṭhāna is the detailed declaration of the irreversible bodhisattva's name and so on as given below. D, K slightly differ, suggesting those editors too were not quite sure of how to render the term. Haribhadra (Wogihara 774) glosses the two words nāmāpadeśa and nāmādhiṣṭhāna with "declaring the name" and "detailing the mother's name and so on."
- n.591 Haribhadra (Wogihara 774) glosses this with "not having broken a rule" (āpattirahitatvena).
- n.592 Haribhadra (Wogihara 775) glosses this with "because one is not needy" (alpecchatvād).
- n.593 The translators read pratyakṣa with Aṣṭa 781 yakṣa.
- n.594 The translators read peyāla in place of peśāla. GilgitC 14 yāvāt peśālān kalyāṇadharmān; PSP 5:9, Nepal 9826r10 peśālān kalyāṇadharmān ("well behaved and lovely in character").
- n.595 That is to say, those bodhisattvas who are living in the authentic isolation. Cf. Aṣṭa 783, brgyad stong pa 219a2: "They should make an effort for their own sake. By always feeling disgust for and fearing saṃsāra they should apply themselves to not being adulterated by the three realms." LSPW pp. 416–17,

“He should devote himself to his own welfare, always alarmed at Samsara and afraid of it, unsubmerged by the triple world,” renders a version like PSP 5: 10 or ŚsPN4 9826v4.

- n.596 Emend zhes to zhe sa; PSP, Gilgit, Nepal gaurava.
- n.597 PSP 5:10 “The applications of mindfulness” and so on “are for the elimination of all residual impressions” and so on (sarvavāsanānusamdhikleśa-prahāṇāya).
- n.598 K pas; PSP 5:12 ahaṃkāramamakāreṇa.
- n.599 Probably “and daughters of a good family” has dropped out.
- n.600 “Those requirements of theirs come to have a great result, a great benefit” may be a gloss accidentally incorporated into the text.
- n.601 Cf. 45.6: “he falls sick in his body with a wind, or bile, or phlegm disorder, or a disorder from them in combination.”
- n.602 This is the translation at LSPW 423–24.
- n.603 The addition of bar du here is likely a block cutter’s mistake.
- n.604 Insert bar du.
- n.605 Alternatively, zhar ba (kāṇa?), “missing an eye.”
- n.606 GilgitC, Aṣṭa kubja (“humpbacked”).
- n.607 Other versions add “without hesitation.”
- n.608 yul du phyin pa; GilgitC 46 buddhaviṣayam anugantukāmena; a better translation is ‘bum tha 307b4, nyi khri 47.25 (a 43b5) yul khong du chud par ‘dod pa (“wants to comprehend the objects”); khri pa 25.47 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2174>) (nga 286a7) rnam pa thams cad mkhyen pa’i yul rjes su ‘gro ba (“wants to have comprehended the object known by the knowledge of all aspects”).
- n.609 Literally “want to play the game” (vikrīditaṃ vikrīditukāma).
- n.610 LSPW 427–28 “never again lose interest in” is an excellent, if free translation.
- n.611 bcu is the past tense of ‘chu (utkṣip), “to take out water.”
- n.612 skra’i rtse mo renders vālāgra, MW “the point of hair as a measure,” equaling 64 atoms.

- n.613 'bum tha 311b4, nyi khri 48.8 (a 47a3) ci nas kyang sems med pa dang / sems ma yin pa gzhan yang med par ("in the absence of thought and in the absence of anything else other than thought"); le'u brgyad ma ca 63a5 ji ltar sems gzhan la mi rgyu ba de ltar ("in the way it is done when thought does not wander to something else"); Gyurme (khri pa) 26.9 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2192>), ci nas sems su mi 'gyur zhing sems las gzhan du spyod par mi 'gyur ba de ltar ("they should make this dedication in such a way that they do not engage with mind and do not engage with anything other than mind"). We have added the word "awakening" based on our interpretation of the gloss at Bṭ3 5.1046.
- n.614 "Extremely isolated" means totally isolated from the aspirations of śrāvakas or from its own hypothetical intrinsic nature.
- n.615 khri pa 26.14 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2198>)–26.16 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2200>) is a less ambiguous Tib translation of this section, saying, to paraphrase, there would be no awakening if the perfection of wisdom and the result of practicing it were not to be extremely isolated, (which is to say were each not free of śrāvaka aspirations or empty of its own hypothetical intrinsic nature), but in fact they both are extremely isolated and therefore there is awakening, even though there is (ultimately) no attainment of an isolated awakening through an isolated perfection of wisdom.
- n.616 Here dag renders a neuter accusative dual (PSP 5: 48 gambhīre 'rthe) not a locative singular.
- n.617 Alternatively, "is not broken (abheda), is not differentiated (avikalpa)" or "nonconceptualization (avikalpa)."
- n.618 GilgitC translation, 265 n. 10, suggests this reading is a corruption of Aṣṭa 858–59 (Mitra 453), Eight Thousand, 262.
- n.619 PSP 5:70 vinayataś; GilgitC 74 arthataś ca dharmataś ca vyañjanataś (nyi khri a 63a3 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8284#UT22084-026-001-8284>) yi ge) cānuḡamiṣyati; LSPW 447 "according to its meaning, contents, and method" (n. 9 "This is a tentative and inadequate rendering").
- n.620 Cf. 'bum tha 343a5, nyi khri 50.15 (a 63a5) . . . sangs rgyas rnam la dge ba'i rtsa ba lta yang mi slu ste / snyan thos sam / rang sangs rgyas sam / sang rgyas su 'gyur mod kyi / 'on kyang ("still does not falsify the wholesome roots sprung from the buddhas and become a śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha or buddha").

- n.621 The meaning of anusamparigrah here is to look after awakening by furthering the practice of the perfection of wisdom that is in total harmony with it.
- n.622 The movement is the movement of thought, a movement absent from space, from an imaginary person, and from dharmas isolated from a person.
- n.623 The twelve links of dependent origination (dvadaśāṅgapratītyasamutpāda) are exhausted, which is to say, come to an end in a sequence, and with that end comes nirvāṇa (and the akṣayajñāna, the knowledge of it). The same word akṣaya is being used here to describe the emptiness of all dharmas (the dharmanairātmya) and the bodhisattva's knowledge of it.
- n.624 "Space (ākāśa) is inexhaustible (akṣayatva)."
- n.625 We have supplied the subject that is missing from the passive construction in the Skt and Tib. Haribhadra (Wogihara 883) relates this to the beginner and says Subhūti is asking how anyone who settles down on an objective support as real can find it.
- n.626 He means, "How while making a practice of does one's practice become at one and the same time a practice of morality?"
- n.627 śdom pa, PSP 5:83 saṃvara ("restraint"), and hence a rule in a code restraining monks and so on from unwholesome behavior; Gilgit 93 saṃcara, LSPW 455 "engagement."
- n.628 The order has been jumbled. This should be later in the list.
- n.629 The prerequisite three robes and a begging bowl of a monk or nun is probably the meaning.
- n.630 The full list is given earlier (21.64).
- n.631 These are the four concentrations spelled out in full earlier (16.54).
- n.632 These ten wholesome actions are spelled out in full earlier (26.14–26.18).
- n.633 There is no obvious list here. The "up to" is a mistaken transposition of the yāvāt from earlier in the sentence; cf. GilgitC 99, PSP 5:91 prathamacittotpādam upādāya yāvāt bodhimaṇḍaṇiṣaṇṇasya manuṣyabhūto vāmanuṣyabhūto vā.
- n.634 Dadds "that has applied thought and has sustained thought and joy and happiness born of detachment."
- n.635 K bdag in place of D de dag.

- n.636 These and the following are spelled out in full earlier (3.112–3.133).
- n.637 Bṭ3 4.945 says the experience of pleasure is cultivated to overcome the effects from meditations in the lower concentrations, to check on the response of one's own mind to see if any attachment is present when viewing something beautiful, or to check if a change occurs when viewing the attractive parts of one's own physical being as a source of pleasure. Pema Karpo, cited earlier in n.210, says this deliverance is based on a mind of the fourth concentration and "counteracts liking, that is, counteracts the conceptualization that a mentally created pleasant form is desirable, and a mentally created unpleasant form is undesirable, respectively." The locution "directly experiences with the body" is because the pleasure is experienced as a physical feeling because mental feelings of pleasure and joy have been meditated on as suffering in the lower concentrations.
- n.638 This is a summary of the presentation of the nine given earlier (11.42).
- n.639 Cf. 3.75. The idea is that the meditator extends his or her meditative reach first up through each of the meditative stabilizations and then retracts it, as it were, by coming back down through them, in a big mental stretch.
- n.640 The intention here is that one descends through each of the meditative states, one by one, until one comes to the first concentration, not that one leaps down to it.
- n.641 In the viṣkandaka meditative stabilization the meditator leaps over different states. Conze renders the meditative stabilization the "Crowning Assault." The intention, in contrast to the earlier simhaviṣṭambhita meditative stabilization, is that in this viṣkandaka meditative stabilization the meditator begins to leave out some of the intervening meditative stabilizations, leaping across the gaps, as it were, leaving bigger and bigger gaps.
- n.642 The rest in the list is probably those given earlier (55.26), including "Subhūti, you should know that they are vulgar bodhisattvas. You should know that they are polluted bodhisattvas. You should know that they are fake bodhisattvas. You should know they are the robbers of the world with its gods, humans, and asuras. You should know that they are robbers masquerading as monks in the world with its gods, humans, and asuras. You should know that they are robbers of the sons of a good family in the Bodhisattva Vehicle."
- n.643 nyi khri 53.15 (a 97a1) bdag gis gang yang yongs su ma btang ba med do ("There is nothing I have not given away.")

- n.644 Alternatively, “It is because anything that might have the intrinsic nature of ‘settling down’ does not exist.” The correct reading is hard to determine.
- n.645 “This very life” renders mthong ba’i chos (PSP 5:59 dr̥ṣṭaṃ dharmam), probably Haribhadra’s clarification of “any dharma” (GilgitC 120, ŚsPN4 9911v8 kaṃcid dharmam; ‘bum da 47b2, nyi khri 53.40 (a 104b3), le’u brgyad ma ca 83b6–7 chos gang yang).
- n.646 nyi khri 53.41 (a 104b5) med pa (asattāḥ in place of GilgitC 120, note c asaktāḥ) (“do not exist”).
- n.647 nyi khri 53.55, “For reaching the knowledge of all aspects the śrāvaka path is not the path of bodhisattva great beings... . For reaching the knowledge of all aspects the six perfections with the perfection of wisdom going in front is the path of bodhisattva great beings. This is the path and not the path of bodhisattva great beings.”
- n.648 Alternatively, “in particular for the sake of”; LSPW 442 “For a great performance.”
- n.649 pa na sa’i ’bras bu, panasaphala. It is noteworthy that the word is from the Andhra region.
- n.650 D “have you said?”
- n.651 This means all rivers tip into the ocean; all dharmas end up inside the perfection of wisdom.
- n.652 They “become” (bhavanti) of one taste; when they “have been categorized” (bhāvitā) they turn into the perfection of wisdom.
- n.653 “That which has no intrinsic nature (asvabhāva) is a nonexistent thing (abhāva).”
- n.654 dgongs pa.
- n.655 The reading here rnam pa la ’jug [pa] (ākārapraveśa) is supported by PSP 5:108 ākārapraveśakuśalo but nyi khri 53.87 (a 116b4), for example, has rnam par rtogs par bya ba la mkhas pa (“skilled in particular realizations”). As for the translation of the other terms below, some are conjectural.
- n.656 Emend rjod pa la ’jug to rjod pa med pa la ’jug (avyavahārapraveśa).
- n.657 These four are variations of the same word bhāva (cognate with “being”) in Skt. Literally, “being,” “not being” (abhāva), “self-being” (svabhāva), and “other-being” (parabhāva).

- n.658 This basic statement of the Buddhist doctrine acts like a mantra. It means: “The Tathāgata, the great follower of a secluded religious life, spoke about the dharmas that arise from causes and their cause, and similarly spoke about their cessation as well.” It may be here only because in Tibetan translation this marks the end of the second long volume, but it is noteworthy that the last part of the summary of khri bryad stong pa, chapter 84 (84.245–84.301), is possibly summarizing a version that originally ended here.
- n.659 de ltar. The translators evidently read evam. A better reading is GilgitC 138, ŚsPN4 9954v4 eva “right from the first.”
- n.660 K, N, etc. (GilgitC 138 anupalambheṣu sarvadharmeṣu). In this section upalambha and anupalambha are rendered in two ways, coming at the meaning from the side of the subject and from the side of the object. In the former case they are rendered “(not) apprehending” or “(absence of) apprehending,” and in the latter case as “providing (no) basis for apprehension.” Both intend the same meaning.
- n.661 This is based on K dmigs su mchis pa supported by ‘bum da 152a7 and nyi khri 53.128 (a 123a3). D: “Is it the Lord’s not apprehending that does not apprehend or is it duality that does not apprehend?” ŚsPN4 9956r8 and PSP 5:116 kiṃ punar bhagavann upalambho ‘nupalambhaḥ, athānupalambha upalambhaḥ: “Lord, does apprehending not apprehend or does the absence of apprehending not apprehend?”
- n.662 Alternatively, “Apprehending does not apprehend and the absence of apprehending does not apprehend, but still, Subhūti, the state in which apprehending and the absence of apprehending are the same is not apprehending.”
- n.663 Emend lags to la gnas; PSP 5:123, GilgitC 146, ŚsPN4 9965r1 sthitvā.
- n.664 Alternatively, “in brief.” le’u brgyad ma ca 144b1 also has mdor.
- n.665 “Three types of omniscience” renders thams cad mkhyen pa nyid gsum po (trisarvajñatva/trisarvajñatā), literally, “three all-knowledges.”
- n.666 Reading D kyi as kyis. ‘bum da 176a3, nyi khri a 132a7 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8422#UT22084-026-001-8422>), le’u brgyad ma ca 146b6 chos thams cad rang gi mtshan nyid kyis stong pas.
- n.667 “Why” renders ci’i slad du (kenārthena). It means “To what does perfection of wisdom refer?”

- n.668 “Perfection” renders pāramitā; “perfect” renders paramapārami. GilgitC 151 paramapāramiprāptaiṣā subhūte prajñāpāramitā sarvadharmāṇām. Cf. n.18.
- n.669 Here “reality” and “good” both render the same word don (artha).
- n.670 The “knowledge of dharma” (chos shes pa, dharmajñāna) is the knowledge of the qualification (dharmā) emptiness that qualifies all subjects (chos can, dharmin).
- n.671 “Bad” renders don ma yin pa (anartha), possibly a misreading of naya (tshul) “method” (PSP 2-3:149 arthataś ca nayataś).
- n.672 K, N.
- n.673 The “knowledge from prayer that is a vow” unique to a buddha is explained by Haribhadra (Amano) glossing Abhisamayālaṅkāra 8.8 (the single quotation marks identify words from the Abhisamayālaṅkāra): “The ‘knowledge from prayer that is a vow’ of a tathāgata is accepted to run under its own power without causal signs; to be separated from ‘attachment’ to form and so on because it does not settle down on anything; to be ‘without obstruction’ when it comes to all objects of knowledge because of the elimination of afflictive and object of knowledge obscurations along with the residual impressions; to ‘remain forever’ because of staying until the end of saṃsāra; and provide a response ‘to all questions’ because of finding perfect detailed and thorough knowledge. The knowledge of śrāvakas and so on is the opposite and not like that.” Cf. Mahāyānasamgraha (Lamotte [1938] translated by Chodron [no date, pp. 394–95]), Mahāyānasūtrālaṅkārikā 21.4 (Thurman et al, pp. 336–37).
- n.674 byang chub la zhugs pa (“candidate for awakening”) is a locution for a bodhisattva in a last birth before perfect awakening.
- n.675 Thempangma, ga, 79b8 yongs su ‘dris par byed; GilgitC 164, ŚsPN4 9975v6 bodhimārga paricayaṃ kurvan. The translators of D read bodhimarge ‘paricayaṃ (“not mastering”).
- n.676 The ekakṣaṇābhisambodhi, the single, unique instant of the path just prior to complete awakening.
- n.677 Perhaps the Tibetan here should be emended to “do not make it into a causal sign”?
- n.678 nyi khri 54.34–54.35 spells this out fully: “They do not make those beings for the sake of whom they cultivate wisdom into a causal sign and do not pay attention to them as an existent thing or as a nonexistent thing. They do not think about inner emptiness, up to the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature [...] or unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening in a certain way, do not make it into a causal sign, and do not pay attention to it as an existent thing and as a nonexistent thing.”

- n.679 Cf. 23.22: “An unimpeded confident readiness, an unbroken confident readiness, a meditatively absorbed confident readiness, an appropriate confident readiness, a connected confident readiness, a meaningful confident readiness, and a superior confident readiness that rises above all the world.”
- n.680 The word bhūtārtha (“true reality”) sounds like buddha, as does the next, bhūta dharma (“true Dharma”); abhisambuddha is rendered “fully awakened.” The root budh means “to awaken or expand.”
- n.681 This again seems to be based on the similar sound of the compounds bodhyārtha and bhūtārtha. PSP 5:140, GilgitC 169 have abheda in place of bhūta; 'bum da 213b5, nyi khri a 145b4 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8449#UT22084-026-001-8449>) dbyer med pa.
- n.682 gzhar yang means nam yang.
- n.683 PSP 5:149 svabhāvato na calanti. Alternatively, “from the perspective of their own intrinsic nature they do not move.”
- n.684 Here svabhāva (literally, “own-being”) is rendered “intrinsic nature” and abhāva (literally, “no-being”) “nonexistent thing.” It means bodhisattvas do not move from what they intrinsically are, and intrinsically they are not anything at all.
- n.685 H dn̄gos pos.
- n.686 This reading is supported by AAVN 98b4.
- n.687 Emend dn̄gos po to dn̄gos po med pa based on AAVN 99a1 na hi svabhāvaḥ svabhāvaṃ abhāvo vā abhāvaṃ prapañcayātīty and ŚsPN4 9999r4 nābhāvo bhāvaṃ prapañcayati, where an avagraha sign is understood; PSP 5:152 abhāvo vābhāvaṃ prapañcayati, GilgitC 181 nābhāva abhāvaṃ prapañcayati; nyi khri 58.24 (a 156a6), le'u brgyad ma ca 171a5 dn̄gos po med pa yang dn̄gos po med pa 'phro par mi byed. In this sentence spros (“construct in thought”) is rendered “concoct” and dn̄gos po (“intrinsic nature”) and dn̄gos po med pa (“nonexistent thing”) are rendered “real” and “unreal.”

- n.688 Again, this reading not found elsewhere is supported by AAVN 99a1 sarva-dharmmaniḥprapañcavyavalokanapras̄nena / nāsti subhūte rūpasya svabhāva ity ārabhyāsvabhāvatvena, but it is not in the list of questions at Bṛ3 5.808.
- n.689 These are the four paths of stream enterer and so on.
- n.690 The knowledge that a person is impermanent, for instance, is preceded by an instant of similar knowledge (called the kṣānti, “forbearance”) that functions as the antidote removing a mistaken belief that the person is permanent. Here, the bodhisattva’s knowledge is called “forbearance” because it is the instant that serves as the antidote to the belief that the knowledge of impermanence has an intrinsic nature.
- n.691 Emend gang gis to gang gi. PSP 5:159, GilgitC 189 kasya dharmasya.
- n.692 Better is ‘bum da 266a3, nyi khri 58.46 (a 163b7), le’u brgyad ma ca 179a3 mtshan nyid m(y)ed pa’i dbyings (“the element of no marks”).
- n.693 This is not just the patience normally expected in a decent person, nor a śrāvaka’s comprehension of the four noble truths, but is a patience specific to bodhisattvas.
- n.694 We have added “that correctly knows” based on GilgitC 199 iti yathābhūtam ājñātavān.
- n.695 The three masses given earlier (52.28) are beings “destined for the perfect state, destined to be wrong, and not necessarily destined.”
- n.696 This question, marking the beginning of the Abhisamayālaṅkāra’s sixth (anupūrvābhisamaya) chapter, contextualizes its interpretation very well: if there is a homogeneity of all things in their ultimate nature, how will practice gradually lead to awakening?
- n.697 Emend rgya brten to rgyab brten; PSP 6-8:2, ŚsPN4/2 0020v6 upāśrayam upāśrayārthikānām/-sya.
- n.698 Other versions have dharmānusmṛtyāṃ in place of dharmadhātum.
- n.699 Dya means the first of a pair; K, N omit.
- n.700 This summary is too brief. le’u brgyad ma ca 195b3–5: “They pay attention to those four pairs of persons and eight individual persons as the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. And why? Because they have no intrinsic nature and anything without an intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing. A nonexistent thing cannot be mindful of a nonexistent thing. And why? Because not being mindful and not paying attention is mindfulness of the Saṅgha. Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings training in this mindfulness of the Saṅgha by way of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature gain up to the knowledge of all aspects. They fully awaken to all dharmas as just the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature. They have no perception of an existing thing or perception of a nonexistent thing, so what further need is there to say that they have no perception of even an atom of the action of mindfulness, or of an absence of mindfulness?"

- n.701 Bṛ3 5.830, 5.1242 omits "Lord, if in the absence of an apprehended object there is no attainment, there is no clear realization, and there is no unsurpassed, perfect complete awakening." When it is omitted this passage makes sense. Conze (LSPW 508, n. 3) says he cannot fully understand this long passage as it is found.
- n.702 A vipāka (rnam smin) result in the Abhidharma means those attributes that come along at birth and last until death, but in this context (see Bṛ3 5.1243 "from the eighth level on up afflictions do not arise and it is a maturation") the meaning of the word is being modified in a Mahāyāna way and it refers to the attributes of a bodhisattva on and above the eighth bodhisattva level. LSPW 508–9 renders vipākaja "karma-resultant."
- n.703 This is summarizing 70.17.
- n.704 brgyan cing (ālaṃkṛtya); literally, "having ornamented it."
- n.705 lam dang lam gyi yan lag tu gtogs pa; PSP 6-8:23 mārgāṅgena mārgaparyāpannena ("incorporated into the path as a branch of the path?"). Below (72.20) lam du rtogs pas is a mistaken reading.
- n.706 Emend lus kyi to sems kyi; PSP 6-8:23 caitasikena vīryeṇa samanvāgato; 'bum da 361b3 sems kyi brtson 'grus dang ldan pas.
- n.707 Add chos.
- n.708 The sense of a "maturation dharma" here is the eighth bodhisattva level and above. The shared sense of the word vipāka (phala) as a part of a person's makeup that comes along with the person's birth and lasts until death is modified to mean the "karma" of practice that results in a basis-like result from the eighth level on up.
- n.709 This section has a parallel in khri pa 28.1 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2294>)ff.

- n.710 This is framed in terms of all six perfections, but a reader should know that the topic here is primarily the first perfection, the perfection of giving, indivisible from the other perfections.
- n.711 LSPW 518–19 notes 2–8 suggest parallels and give brief speculative explanations of this otherwise unknown set of moralities. This terminology is not in the Bodhisattoabhūmi's “Śīla” chapter.
- n.712 This reads pramāṇa; other editions prahāṇa (spang ba).
- n.713 Conze suggests there is a play on the word aṇu (“tiniest one, atom”) and the anu prefix in anutpattika.
- n.714 Emend rtogs to gtogs (paryāpanna) as above at 71.32.
- n.715 Gyurme (khri pa) 28.19
<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2316>, “Having abandoned that, they will achieve the power of absorption in consummate perfection, without defining characteristics.”
- n.716 “Having pervaded them with their bodies” is a conjectural rendering of lus kyis khyab par byas nas (kāyena sphāritvā). Conze suggests “diffused” and “irradiated” for sphāritvā.
- n.717 This derives nyāma (PSP niyāma) (“secure state”) from āma that Conze renders “rawness,” and Gyurme (khri pa) “immaturity”; Tib renders āma with skyon (“flaw”) and nyāma with skyon med (“flawless”). I have usually rendered byang chub sems dpa'i skyon med pa (bodhisattvanyāma) “secure state of a bodhisattva.”
- n.718 Delete de bzhin du sbyar te (“similarly, connect this with”) as a mistake in the text?
- n.719 Karma that is “immovable” (āniñjya, mi g.yo ba) comes into being on account of meditation. It does not move from its place at the head of the line, as it were, ensuring certain birth in the corresponding form or formless realm state.
- n.720 K, N bskyod; Gilgit 614.6 praccālya.
- n.721 Here svarga (mtho ris) is the desire realm (kāmadhātu) heavens up to but not including the Brahmaloaka.
- n.722 This is a speculative rendering of D khyod ... sus ma longs zhes. K, N, etc. are equally difficult to construe.

- n.723 bud med dam means skyes pa'am bud med dam, or else is a printing error.
- n.724 These are listed at length at 16.9.
- n.725 Gilgit 619.4, PSP 6-8:54 āśubhaparivartakasya, ŚsPN4/2 0080r10 āśubha-parivarttakasya. Cf. The Noble Application of Mindfulness of the Sacred Dharma (Saddharmasmṛtyupasthāna) that teaches the contemplation of the parts of the gross body to counteract ordinary lust.
- n.726 Gilgit 619.5-6, ŚsPN4/2 0080v1, PSP 6-8: 54 tataḥ samādānād vivecayati. The translation is guided by 'bum a 40a7, nyi khri 62.37 (a 225b6), and le'u brygad ma ca 234b4 rnam grangs du mas 'jig rten gyi chos (le'u brygad ma has rnam) ma nor bar blangs ba de las bskyod de de las bskyod nas, rendering the sam in samādāna as samyak (ma nor ba, "unmistaken") and vivic as skyod ("move") to make clear that the ordinary dharmas are not to be fully rejected. Here the paryāya ("ways") could also mean one of a number of parts of an explanation, in juxtaposition with the above aśubhaparivarta and so on.
- n.727 Probably the "knowledge of a knower of all aspects."
- n.728 Gilgit 619.12–13 has the superior reading anandhakāratām (mun pa med pa, "absence of darkness") in place of anānākāratām; LSPW 528–29.
- n.729 Emend bzhi to gsum.
- n.730 See 16.1–16.19.
- n.731 The earlier explanation of these three meditative stabilizations (16.26ff.) differs.
- n.732 This is explained more fully in n.637.
- n.733 AAV (Sparham 2006–11, vol. 4, 76) says, "Thus 'blue' is a shared epithet of flowers and clothes, but relative to flowers 'the color blue' is an innate color, and based on clothes an added color; both flowers and clothes 'appear blue' because both appear in that way." Nakamura 2017, 611–12.
- n.734 The reading here, rdzi ba'i me tog ("flowers that are pressed down") is perhaps an editor's guess (suggesting a flower that is quickly crushed). MW, s.v. bandhujīvaka, says "a plant with a red flower that opens at midday and withers away the next morning." PSP 6-8:59 bandhūka.
- n.735 "White" renders avadāta (dkar po). The example suggests a dazzling, shining color.
- n.736 Cf. the list given earlier (16.81–16.89).

- n.737 Emend lus to las (3.131).
- n.738 Cf. 16.95.
- n.739 Emend kyi bar du / bar der to pa nas las bar du bar / bar der. The part of the passage referenced here (16.97) reads, “Between the night when tathāgatas awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening and the night when they pass into complete nirvāṇa in the element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind, while tathāgatas teach the path that puts an end to suffering in the world of beings together with the gods, Māra, Brahmā, those leading a secluded religious life, and brahmins, and together with gods, humans, and asuras, one does not trip up, does not shout out” and so on.
- n.740 Cf. 64.23.
- n.741 The numbers have been added for the convenience of the modern reader.
- n.742 The Tib translators simply use the same word “long” (ring ba) for both āyata and dīrgha in describing the toes and fingers, and gloss āyata with che ba, “big” or “larger,” in describing the heels.
- n.743 This is repetitious but we have translated it literally.
- n.744 “Thick” in the sense of not scrawny; “set attractively” renders phyā ler ’dug pa; Mvy phyā le ba renders śāta. Cf. ‘bum a 50b1–2, le’u brgyad ma ca 242b3, nyi khri 62.77 (a 235a7) mgur dang rgyud legs par ’brel zhing lhun zlum pa, “shoulders are round and well connected with the throat and muscles and tendons in the neck, so ... .” The idea seems to be that the indentation between the shoulders at the back is filled in, and the indentations on the right and left in the front where the shoulders meet the chest are filled in, so that the shoulders and the neck go together, seamlessly rounded. The explanation of this below suggests a connection with “muscular.”
- n.745 The meaning “heap” or “piled up” for lham is corroborated by Mvy pūla, ŚsPN4/2 0084v8 upacita.
- n.746 Emend mkhrang pa to Bṭ3 269a mkhregs pa?
- n.747 Emend bskyal to bskyel.
- n.748 The idea is nobody falls through the safety net.
- n.749 Literally “what has been eaten, drunk, licked, and chewed” (bza’ ba dang / btung ba dang / bldag pa dang / bca’ ba, PSP 6-8: 63 aśītapīṭalīḍhakhādita).

- n.750 Āryavimuktisena (Sparham 2006–11, vol. 4, 88) says, “There the straightness is because he did not deceitfully hide the wealth he had from those who asked for it, and the length because he did not reject supplicants, but took them as an opportunity [for giving]. It is a sign that he will have control over them and discipline them, because he has control over his mind, so miserliness does not control him.”
- n.751 Āryavimuktisena (Sparham 2006–11, vol. 4, 88) adds “based on the idea that the line of a buddha is unbroken until the end of saṃsāra.”
- n.752 The contrast is between the twittering of lesser creatures and the occasional, meaningful roar of a lion.
- n.753 The passage found here begins a longer passage in Gilgit 623.12–636.4 found in khri pa 29.37 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2392>) with slight differences, but omitted from PSP, ŚsPN4/2, ‘bum, nyi khri, and le’u brgyad ma.
- n.754 “Makes it appear” (byin gyis slob, adhiṭṭhati); Gyurme (khri pa) 29.37 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2392>), “consecrate.”
- n.755 This explanation connects conduct (vṛttataḥ) with rounded (vṛtta).
- n.756 This explanation connects accumulated (cita) with increased, large (upacita).
- n.757 This explanation connects gradually (anupūrva) with tapering (anupūrva).
- n.758 This explanation connects not showing (gūḍha) with hidden (sugūḍha).
- n.759 This explanation connects difficulty (viśama) with different (viśama).
- n.760 This explanation connects advantageous (pradakṣiṇa) with to the right (pradakṣiṇa).
- n.761 This explanation connects beautiful (cāru) with handsome (cāru).
- n.762 Emend khri la to ‘*khri*l. This explanation connects attractive (vṛtta) with behavior (vṛtta); tshul (vṛtta), “behavior,” is corroborated by ŚsPN4/2 0085v7; PSP 6-8:65 omits.
- n.763 This explanation connects polished (mṛṣṭa) with cleansed away (pramṛṣṭa).
- n.764 LSPW 535 “Their limbs are slender.”
- n.765 This explanation connects even (sama) with same (sama).

- n.766 This explanation, connecting soft (kumāra) with youthful (kumāra), is corroborated by PSP 6-8:65 sukumāragātrās ca buddhā bhagavanto bhavanti sukumāradharmadeśikāḥ (ŚsPON4/2 0085v9 paramasukumāradharmadeśakāra).
- n.767 This explanation connects dejected (ādīna) with slouching (ādīna).
- n.768 “Spread out” renders rgyas pa. Alternatively, PSP 6-8:65 (utsadagātrās ca buddhā bhagavanto bhavanty utsannākuśalamūlāḥ) connects pulled up (utsanna) with erect (utsada), “Lord buddhas have pulled up unwholesome roots so they carry themselves with their bodies erect.” Edg, s.v. utsada, in a long entry has “prominent.”
- n.769 This explanation connects a body compacted together (saṃhatagātra) with linked up with (sahagata).
- n.770 Again, this explanation connects behaved (ṛtta) with round (ṛtta). “Fully rounded” renders ṛttasaṃpanna. LC has ṛtta for tshul and saṃpanna for ldan.
- n.771 Again, this explanation connects cleaned (mṛṣṭa) with cleaned away (pramṛṣṭa). bod rgya tshig mdzod chen mo, s.v. skabs phyin pa and skabs phyed pa, references dku skabs phyin pa (Mvy mṛṣṭakukṣi) and says it means rked pa phra ba (“narrow waist”).
- n.772 This explanation connects running out (kṣaya) with emaciated (kṣāma).
- n.773 Again, this explanation connects advantageous (pradakṣiṇa) with to the right (pradakṣiṇa).
- n.774 nag po, kāla (“black”); Haribhadra (Wogihara 921) akāla; rgyan snang cha 321a7 dus ma yin pa (“untimely”).
- n.775 Again, this explanation connects light (yang ba, sukumāra) with very soft (shin tu ’jam pa, sukumāra).
- n.776 Mahāśramaṇa means “great follower of the secluded religious life.” This explanation connects love (byams, snigdha) with vivid (mdangs yod pa, snigdha). The sense of snigdha is “moist,” as in “melted my heart.”
- n.777 This explanation connects wide-ranging (rgya chen po, āyati) with long (ring ba, āyata).
- n.778 This explanation connects not too long (ha cang phal che ba ma yin pa, nātyāyata) with not too wide (ha cang mi ring ba, nātyāyata).
- n.779 “Shapes” renders gzugs (bimba).

- n.780 This explanation connects easy on ('jam pa, mṛdu) with pliable (mnyen po, mṛdu).
- n.781 This explanation connects subtle (phra ba, tanu) with thin (srab pa, tanu).
- n.782 This explanation connects attachment (chags pa, rakta) with red (dmар po, rakta).
- n.783 This explanation again connects turned back (log pa, vṛtta) with tubular (zlum pa, vṛtta).
- n.784 This explanation connects keen (rnon po, tīkṣṇa) with sharp (rno ba, tīkṣṇa).
- n.785 This explanation connects pure (dkar po, śukla) with white (dkar po, śukla).
- n.786 This explanation connects equal ([cha] mnyam, sama[bhāga]) with even (mnyam pa, sama).
- n.787 This explanation connects in a series (rim gyis, anupūrova) with tapering (byin gyis phra ba, anupūrova).
- n.788 This explanation connects unsullied (gtsang ba, śuci) with clean (gtsang ma, śuci). We have translated it literally, but “have people who have progressed perfectly in the pure Vinaya” (PSP 6-8:66 śucivīnaya-jana-saṃpratipannāḥ) or “have people with a belief in the pure Vinaya” (*nyi snang ka 204b2–3 yid ches pa = *saṃpratītayāḥ*) is better.
- n.789 This is not found in this part of the list in other versions.
- n.790 This explanation connects wide (yangs ba, viśāla) with wide range (shin tu yangs ba, paraviśāla).
- n.791 This explanation connects packed around them (shin tu bsags pa, cita) with thick (stug pa, cita).
- n.792 This explanation connects vast (yangs ba, āyati) with a long way (ring ba, āyata).
- n.793 This explanation connects equal length (mnyam pa, sama) with all sides (kun nas, samanta).
- n.794 Again, this explanation connects moisture and moistened (snum gyis ... snum, ślakṣṇa) with glossy (snum, ślakṣṇa).
- n.795 This explanation connects supremely extensive (mchod tu yangs ba, pīnāyata) with full and long (stug cing ring ba, pīnāyata).

- n.796 This explanation connects won the battles (g.yul las rgyal ba, jita-samarāḥ) with equal in size (mnyam pa, sama).
- n.797 K, N ma nyams.
- n.798 This explanation connects perfectly developed/unwrinkled (legs par 'byes pa, supariṇāmita) with eliminated (rnam par spangs pa, vipariṇata?).
- n.799 This connects heads are very large (dbu shin tu rgyas pa, suparipūrṇottamāṅgāḥ) with have fully carried out their highest vow (smon lam dam pa shin tu yongs su rdzogs pa, suparipūrṇottamapraṇidhānāḥ).
- n.800 This connects thick (stug pa, cita) with cause to diminish (spangs pa, apacita).
- n.801 This connects gentle ('jam pa, ślakṣṇa) with soft ('jam pa, ślakṣṇa).
- n.802 This connects undisturbed (ma 'khrugs pa, asaṃluḍita) with not tousled (mi 'dzing ba, asaṃluḍita).
- n.803 This connects not bristly (ma gshor, a-paruṣa) with never harshly (mi brlang ba, apa-rūṣa).
- n.804 Earlier (8.22) it says “bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should not stand in syllables, in syllable accomplishment, in a single explanation, in two explanations, or in a number of different explanations.” Bṭ3 4.554 glosses mngon par sgrub pa (akṣarābhiniṛhāra): “The term syllable accomplishment is used for the production of the knowledge of nonproduction after resorting to the seed syllable a and so on used as a dhāraṇī.”
- n.805 This probably should be emended to “forty-two,” the number of letters in the arapacana alphabet. We have translated it without the emendation because it is possibly the number of letters in an unknown alphabet (the devanāgarī alphabet, for example, has almost the same number of letters).
- n.806 ŚsPN4/2 87r2 ekākṣareṇa sarvaṃ vyayagatam anugacchata. We have translated this literally because we are unsure whether this means that if you take one away from a total the total has changed, or, alternatively, if it means that when you know one syllable is ultimately unfindable you know all syllables are.
- n.807 LSPW 536–37 highlights a juxtaposition of bodhisattvam eva and bodhipakṣikān dharmān here and renders this “does not even, to begin with, apprehend an awakening-being, how much less the dharmas which act as wings to awakening!”

- n.808 LSPW 537–38: “Because one cannot apprehend of them an own-being in which they could be established. For the nonexistent does not stand in the nonexistent, own-being does not stand in own-being, other-being does not stand in other-being.”
- n.809 Mvy gives nirbhārtsitaḥ for tshar gcad pa; Edg, s.v. nirbhaccita, nirbatsanā, nirbhatsayati, says “doubtless an imperfect Sktization of MIndic nibbaccheti, as in Pāli”; MW, bharts (“to revile”).
- n.810 3.117, 21.26–21.28, and 27.16.
- n.811 This relates nāman (“name”) with the root nam (“to bow”) and the derivative nimna (“downwards, incline to”). “Point somewhere” renders gzhol ba (Mvy under gzhol ba gives, besides nimna and nimnatā, also upacāra “metaphor” and parāyaṇa “final goal”). The idea is one gets to the roof of the ultimate on the ladder of the conventional.
- n.812 bod rgya tshig mdzod chen mo (Zhang 2000), s.v. gsong ldong, gives the definition btsog chu 'gro ba'i wa kha, “eave/trough through which dirty water goes.”
- n.813 smig rgyu'i tshogs! The translators appear to have taken the locative marīcīkāyām (ŚsPN4/2 0102r7) as a compound marīcīkāya.
- n.814 Gilgit 632.11–12, ŚsPN4/2 0102v10 tathaiṅva duḥkhasya tathatety prajānāti. This means the reality of one thing is the same as the reality of all things. LSPW 544–45: “He wisely knows the Suchness of ill as just Suchness.”
- n.815 Insert lha (“gods”) PSP 6-8: 84.
- n.816 rol dbyam “side spreads?” cf. rab 'byams “widespread”; alternatively, rol means “to play.” We have translated this based on ‘bum a 116a1, nyi khri a 258a5 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8674#UT22084-026-001-8674>), le'u brgyad ma ca 261a4 stan dang 'khor gyi stan dang gzhi; ŚsPN4/2 0108v9, Gilgit 634.4–5 āstaraṇopāstaraṇapratyāstaraṇāni; PSP 6-8:85 āstaraṇapratyāstaraṇāni.
- n.817 Here guṇa (“strand”) in mālāguṇa is rendered yon tan (“good quality”).
- n.818 Emend gzugs to gzugs med (“formless”); nyi khri a 258b3 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8675#UT22084-026-001-8675>) gzugs med pa, Gilgit 634.7 yāvan naiṅvasaṃjñā-nāsaṃjñāyatanopagatān devān vā darśayed arūpiṅaḥ.
- n.819 LSPW pp. 547–48: “[The] well informed ... think to themselves: ‘This is a wonderful and astonishing Dharma! And yet no dharma can therein be apprehended. For this man delights this crowd of people with nonexistent dharmas.' And they do not apprehend those perceptions of beings, on the grounds that those beings do indeed perceive what is actually real in what is not actually real."

- n.820 The meaning of these opening paragraphs in plain English is: If the ultimate nature (which is pure from the beginning, and nirvāṇa) and the ultimate nature of beings (caught in saṃsāra based on imaginary things conjured out of thin air) is the same ultimate nature, how can you talk about beings in saṃsāra getting to nirvāṇa?
- n.821 amṛta means both "immortal" and "ambrosia, divine nectar." The place beyond death and rebirth is reached when the understanding that a self has no intrinsic nature eliminates afflictive obscurations and nirvāṇa is gained. "Both" are the giver and the recipient.
- n.822 PSP 6-8: 92 sattvaviviktatā hi sarvadharmāḥ. A person has no intrinsic nature so the physical and mental attributes (dharma) defining it have no relation with it.
- n.823 PSP 6-8: 94: yad yad evaṃ karma karoṣi kāyena vā vācā vā manasā vā tat sarvam amṛtādhiḡamāya pariṇāmaya tathā te ete dharmāḥ sarva amṛtāvīḡamāya bhaviṣyanty amṛtaparyavasānāya ca, "dedicate them all for the realization of the elixir of immortality such that all these dharmas of yours will be the elixir of immortality and will end up as the elixir of immortality."
- n.824 In place of D 'jig ("destroyed"), K, etc. read 'jug: "But does not see any dharma at all as being there after having set out. In regard to all dharmas, there is no establishment and there is no being there after having set out."
- n.825 In place of D ma yin pa ("not having") this reads yin pa ("having"), corroborated by Bṡ3 5.1410 (275b). Gyurme (khri pa) 30.38 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html#UT22084-031-002-2499>): rnam par rtog pa med pa'i phyir phyin ci log ma yin no ("Since they are without false imaginations, they are without erroneous views"); PSP 6-8:98 kalpanābhiṣyandam upādāya.
- n.826 K, N. D accidentally adds in here, "Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving bring beings to maturity."
- n.827 gzhan yang, Mvy bhuyo 'pi? Better is nam yang ("never") at 'bum a 232a4, nyi khri 65.39 (a 288b4), and le'u brgyad ma ca 287b6.
- n.828 This line is not found in other versions.

- n.829 It means bodhisattvas would not have to do so, because even though the knowledge of all aspects conventionally occurs as a personal attainment it has no meaning except as a vehicle to benefit others.
- n.830 This is out of place here and is not supported by PSP 6-8:129, Gilgit 656.14, or ŚsPN4/2 0184v3. The two gifts are material gifts and the gift of Dharma; or else they are the gifts, and the absence of attachment to, or hope for, any results from the giving.
- n.831 The results are eight attainments, stream enterer and so on. The presentation of each result is in terms of the elimination of different levels of attachment and so on.
- n.832 LSPW 570 “seized by a wrong conception.”
- n.833 Better is Gilgit 660.6 bhagavān āha / na punaḥ subhūte sarvadharmāḥ sarvadharmaiḥ śūnyāḥ (“And all dharmas are not empty of all dharmas”).
- n.834 ‘bum a 348a7, nyi khri 68.17 (a 319a4–5), le’u brgyad ma ca 313b2 bden pa khong du chud pa ji ltar bya ba bzhin du bden pa khong du chud par bya ba’i don du spyod do (“In order to awaken to the truths exactly as the truths should be awakened to”). LSPW 577 (reading na in place of anu?): “courses toward an understanding of the truths. And yet the truths are not something that should be understood.”
- n.835 PSP 6-8:144 na so dharmo yasyāntaṃ paśyati, tathā ca paśyati yathā na kañcid dharmam upalabhate: “They do not see that dharma of which there is an end. They see in a way that they do not apprehend any dharma at all.” le’u brgyad ma ca 313b4–5: chos de dag ci nas kyang chos gang yang dmigs su med pa de ltar mthong ste.
- n.836 K, N gtogs, supported by ‘bum a 349b3. D rtogs; nyi khri 68.19 (a 319b1) rtogs (“dharmas that they might awaken to as truths, or that they might not awaken to as truths”).
- n.837 This is a literal translation. LSPW “he cannot fall from the summits” is not supported by Tib, nor by Bṭ3 5.1455 (278b), which glosses spyi bor ltung bar mi ’gyur te with de la chos la ’dun pa’i sred pa mi byed do “does not yearn for, crave for a dharma.” A śrāvaka nirvāṇa is a nirvāṇa conventionally, but for the bodhisattva in a secure state it is only something without any intrinsic nature for the benefit of beings.
- n.838 Gilgit 666.1, PSP 6-8:145 śamathabhūmau; ‘bum a 348b6, nyi khri 68.19 (a 319b3), le’u brgyad ma ca 313b6 lhag mthong gi sa (“special insight level”); earlier (17.9), Gilgit 354.6 śamathavipaśyanābhūmi (“calm abiding and special insight level”).

- n.839 This section is found from PSP 6-8: 158 and le'u brgyad ma ca 323a2. The Maitreya Chapter (below called “The eighty-third ... chapter”) comes here (PSP 6-8: 145 and le'u brgyad ma ca 314a5) in Haribhadra’s edition.
- n.840 Here “karma” (las, karman) is the actual action as it is being done, and “action” (bya ba, kriyā) the object of that action, in the sense of what is deposited in history, as it were, by the action.
- n.841 “Thought that has arisen on account of error” means a conscious state built into which is an acceptance of its own true existence that it does not, in reality, have.
- n.842 “The outcome of intentions” renders bsams pa (= abhisaṃcetaṅg). Bṭ3 5.1464 says “they are the outcome of intentions because they are preceded by an intention, so they are falsely imagined phenomena.” MDPL, s.v. abhisaṃcetaṅg, “arranged (into concrete things and events),” with mngon par bsags pa (not bsams pa) as its Tib equivalent, apparently deriving it from ci, “to gather, accumulate.” LSPW pp. 586–87 “contrived activities, planned and willed” similar to ‘bum a 367b2-3, nyi khri a 330a2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8818#UT22084-026-001-8818>), le'u brgyad ma ca 330b7-331a1: chos de dag thams cad kyang 'dus byas pa/ mngon par 'dus byas pa ste.
- n.843 This is translated literally. It means the only ones who take them as graspable and existent are beings who do not know and do not see that they cannot be grasped and do not exist. PSP 6-8: 167 suggests the meaning: except that such dharmas need to be talked about to those who do not understand (na ... agrāhyatā śaktābhiṅg, “you cannot talk about something that cannot be grasped”) but it is not supported by Tib versions’ thob (“cannot reach or attain”).
- n.844 nābhāva (“no nonexistent thing”) has probably dropped out. ‘bum a 375b4, nyi khri a 333b2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8825#UT22084-026-001-8825>) gang dngos po med pa dang / dngos po med pa yang ma yin pa dang.
- n.845 A tathāgata is “in control” in the sense that there is nothing that is beyond the complete understanding of a tathāgata. In particular, there is no use of language and so on that might be of use to beings that is not fully mastered by a tathāgata. Ultimately, however, there is no control.
- n.846 Insert dang.

- n.847 Better is nyi khri 71.2 (a 341a1–2) stong pa nyid gang yin pa de ni gang la yang ci yang byed pa med ci yang mi byed pa yang med de (“That which is emptiness does not do and does not not do anything at all to anything.”)
- n.848 We have supplied the referent “emptiness.”
- n.849 LSPW 593 “empty through emptiness.”
- n.850 Emend chos to las; 'bum (Lhasa Kangyur [shes phyin, bum, na]), 471a3, Bṭ3 281a las.
- n.851 The edition of this chapter in Conze and Iida 1968, 229–42 (MQ) is the same as PSP 6-8:145ff. and le'u brgyad ma ca 314a5ff. Conze and Iida (MQ 230) say, “Both the Tibetan versions in 18.000 and 25.000 ślokas have at the end a miscellaneous collection of items missing in the version in 100.000 Lines, and in both cases the Maitreya-chapter is the first of these additions... Chapter 83 of the version in 18.000 ślokas is fairly close to the Tan-jur text... On the other hand, chapter 72 of the version in 25.000 ślokas ... differs a great deal.”
- n.852 'du byed kyi mtshan ma'i dngos po (saṃskāranimittam vastu); LSPW 578–79 “entity which is the sign of something conditioned”; Brunnhölzl 2011 “an entity that has the characteristic of being conditioned.”
- n.853 Construe “feeling” and so on as “this is feeling.”
- n.854 The idea is that since the name given is utterly arbitrary then the only thing known when the name is given is the thing it is given to.
- n.855 An actual thing “out there” or just a thing that is designated.
- n.856 dbyings (dhātu) is not the specific dhātu (“constituent”) form and so on as a basis, but the nature (or absence of a nature) that qualifies, in the sense of underpins (dhātu) all qualifiers (dharma).
- n.857 LSPW 579 differs. MQ 236, nyi khri 72.27: “How is this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon going to be inexpressible?”
- n.858 This reading, rang dbang nyid dam yod pa nyid, is corroborated by Bṭ3 285b. However, nyi khri 72.31 (a 347b5) rang dbang du yod pa nyid dam / med pa nyid du 'gyur pa (“has no independent existence or nonexistence”).
- n.859 Brunnhölzl 2011, 21: “Conceived form is to be grounded in [the fact that] the true nature of this entity that has the characteristic of being conditioned is mere conception (an expression conditioned by conception) to which this name ... refers.” LSPW 580–81: “Discerned form, etc. is the definition of that entity which is the sign of something conditioned as in its dharmic nature mere discernment, as a verbal expression which is conditioned by discernment and to which refers this name.”

- n.860 Alternatively, “this eternally eternal, constantly constant nonexistence of imaginary form as the intrinsic nature of that conceptualized form.”
- n.861 We have translated this based on nyi khri 72.41 (a 350a1) gzugs rab tu dbye ba mdzad, understanding ma mchis (“given there is no such designation”) here to reflect not an alternative reading, but rather an attempt on the part of the translators to render contrasting parts of a long sentence.
- n.862 Maitreya is saying it is form.
- n.863 nyi khri 72.52 (a 350b7) gnyis su med pa'i mtshan nyid (“mark of nonduality”); MQ 239.
- n.864 Better is nyi khri 72.59 (a 352a2) mya ngan las 'das pa bzhin du 'khor bar mi skyo'o... 'khor ba bzhin du myan ngan las 'das pa la zhen par mi 'gyur ro (“just like nirvāṇa one is not depressed by saṃsāra ... just like saṃsāra one does not settle down on nirvāṇa”; that is, you do not dislike saṃsāra in the same way you do not dislike nirvāṇa; and you do not settle down on nirvāṇa in the same way as you do not settle down on saṃsāra.)
- n.865 Delete la (nyi khri a 352a6 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8862#UT22084-026-001-8862>)).
- n.866 Better is PSP 6-8:157 upapattis cāsya bhagavatā pratipattau ca na vyākṛtā; Conze and Iida 241 upapattis cāsya bhagavatā pratipattyaiva na vyākṛtā; LSPW 583, “The Lord has not said anything about his rebirth which would (be necessary to) enable him to make further progress.” Cf. nyi khri 72.64 (a 353a1) de'i skye ba yang ma mchis par lung bstan te / skye ba ma mchis na ji ltar 'thob par 'gyur “He has said that their rebirth does not exist, but if their rebirth does not exist how will they gain [awakening]?”
- n.867 Cf. nyi khri 72.64 ; PSP 6-8:157; LSPW “an unthinkable rebirth which allows him to advance to the beyond of Nirvana.”
- n.868 'du byed. nyi khri 72.66 (a 353a5), le'u brgyad ma ca 322b7 'khor ba (“life in cyclic existence”).
- n.869 The verses in this chapter are distinguished in the original by what has been characterized as a “hybrid” language incorporating apparently vernacular features into Sanskrit. Necessarily, this distinguishing feature is largely lost in both the Tib and English translations. It is noteworthy that the Eighteen

Thousand version of the perfection of wisdom scripture incorporates this eighty-fourth chapter, which circulates as a separate work called The Verse Summary of the Jewel Qualities, right into the body of the text. It functions as a summary of what has gone earlier. Here at the outset the verses are put into the mouth of “the Lord,” but many of the verses are in fact spoken by the other interlocutors met with earlier in the course of the scripture, so they have not been punctuated as quoted speech.

- n.870 Buddhaśrī 118b7 says the stains are the obscuring afflictions (der ni dri ma zhes bya ba'i sgra tshig snga ma dang sbyar ro).
- n.871 See 2.3ff.
- n.872 About Lake Anavatapa (ma dros pa), Malalasekera, s.v. anotatta, says it is “the last one to dry up at the end of the world”; Buddhaśrī 120a6 has ma dros pa las 'byung ba; Subodhini 8b1 bdag nyid kyi khyim suggests the name of the lake is the name of the nāga who dwells in and rules it. On nāgendra (“most powerful serpent”) and nāgapati (“serpent ruler”), see Vogel 1926 Chapter V, “Principal Nāga-rājas”; also McKay 2015, Chapter Five. “Anavatapta Nāgendra Nāgapati” means the powerful nāga who rules the lake at the center of the world.
- n.873 See 6.3, Aṣṭa (Mitra 3–4, Wogihara 22).
- n.874 Buddhaśrī 124a6–7 glosses this with skye ba dang 'gag pa la mngon par zhen pa sel ba'i sgo nas yul du byed pa'o (“takes it as an object from the vantage point of having eliminated settling down on production and cessation”).
- n.875 See 8.36ff.
- n.876 In place of gzugs su 'du shes shing, reading RecAt gzugs dang 'du shes dang (“form and perception”).
- n.877 RecA 1.9 anupādapade asakto, skye med gnas la reg ma yin (“does not touch the stage of nonproduction”); alternatively, “does not tread the untrod ground.”
- n.878 Alternatively, anupādadhī, skye med blo yis (“in an intellectually active state of mind that has not been produced”).
- n.879 See 9.19ff.
- n.880 byang chub sems gang; RecAt byang chub sems dpa'.
- n.881 See 9.25.

- n.882 RecA caraṇaṃ ca so acarāṇaṃ prajñāyitvā, des ni spyod dang mi spyod rab tu shes pas na (“comprehends what is conduct and what is not [right] conduct”).
- n.883 9.42; Gilgit 295.10; Ghoṣa 842; PSP 1-1:188. The word vid means both “exist” and “know.” The word saṃvid has the same two meanings, intensified: “completely exist” or “completely know.” In Skt, therefore, the sentence means, at one and the same time, “As they are not known, so are they known. Thus, not being known, one says ‘ignorance,’ ” and, “As they do not exist, so do they exist. Thus, not existing, one says ‘not existing.’ ”
- n.884 Buddhaśrī “from the three realms.”
- n.885 The example is at 45.2.
- n.886 Buddhaśrī 131b3–7 says that during the preparation period (nirvedhabhāgīya) a bodhisattva cuts off belief in a basis for a self, first as an object (physical or mental) and then as a subject (as a materially existing being, or even just as a name). In the awakening that is arrived at one finds the bodhisattva. He glosses bodhim asaṅgabhūtām with mtshan ma thams cad dang bral ba’i byang chub (“an awakening separated from all causal signs”).
- n.887 The segue is: “If all people are as if conjured up by a magician, how can you talk of freeing them?”
- n.888 This derives nirvāṇa from nirvā, “to blow out” or “be blown out.”
- n.889 Buddhaśrī 135a4 says self and others are the same as objects of compassion; all dharmas are the same insofar as they are empty of an intrinsic nature.
- n.890 This ends RecA chapter 1; Buddhaśrī 135b5 omits the chapter break but says this is the end of the first of the eight chapters of the Abhisamayālaṅkāra.
- n.891 RecAs 2.6, has vidhūtamalakleśa (“cleared away the dirt of afflictions”) and paripācita (“the one who has been brought to maturity”). Buddhaśrī says the third bodhisattva (“who has cleared away the dirt and afflictions”) has eliminated obscurations to omniscience; and he takes “the fourth” in the last line not as one of the four, but as the worthy one “who has eliminated doubt” and says they are bodhisattvas who have not fallen into a śrāvaka-type nirvāṇa.
- n.892 The translators read na ya. RecA naya (tshul), “the one training by way of not training in training is training.”
- n.893 RecAs2.8d guṇo. This is the first reference to the “qualities” in the title given below in the final verse (84.301). The “qualities” are the attributes of a bodhisattva who has completely awakened, which is to say, all the good qualities included within the perfection of wisdom that is defined in terms of all that is of benefit to all beings, in particular, the qualities of the śrāvakas, pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattvas, and buddhas.

n.894 See 24.71–24.89.

n.895 This ends RecA chapter 2. Cf. 25.5–28.2.

n.896 gus byas, sa[t]kṛtya; RecA rtaḡ, nitya (“constantly”).

n.897 These verses summarize the path of meditation called smos pa’i sgom lam (25.6–27.21.) and its benefits (anuśaṃsā).

n.898 See 28.7–28.9.

n.899 See 30.10.

n.900 This ends RecA chapter 3. This illustration is not in the khri brgyad stong pa at this point; at 63.17 it is the wheel of the emperor.

n.901 See 31.2.

n.902 See 31.34.

n.903 This translation takes the verse as summarizing 31.19: “To illustrate, Lord, a person fearful of rich creditors seeks safety with the ruler, and in the retinue of the ruler is actually lobbied by those whom one fears ... Similarly, Lord, the physical remains of the tathāgatas get to be worshiped because they are suffused with the perfection of wisdom. Lord, there the perfection of wisdom should be viewed as being like a ruler; the physical relics of the tathāgatas that get to be worshiped because they are suffused by the perfection of wisdom should be viewed as being like the person who has sought safety with the ruler.” Alternatively, if summarizing 31.7: “Lord, at the times when I am present on the throne of the head of the gods in the Sudharmā assembly of gods, the gods come to attend on me there in my place. When I am not present on my lion throne they think, ‘Seated on this Dharma throne Śatakratu, head of the gods, teaches Dharma to the Trāyastriṃśa gods,’ and they bow down to that throne of mine and go back.” The line “Just as a man with the king as support receives human worship...” would then be rendered “Just as [a throne] that is a king’s support receives human worship...”

n.904 Summarizing 31.22ff., especially 31.27.

n.905 See 31.50.

- n.906 Buddhaśrī 140a6 “to miserliness and so on.”
- n.907 See 31.51.
- n.908 This ends RecA chapter 4.
- n.909 Summarizing 32.28–32.29.
- n.910 Summarizing 32.45–32.50.
- n.911 parasattva; RecAt gzhan; Eight Thousand, 19 (5.3) “another being,” but Buddhaśrī 41a1 sems can mchog la zhes bya ba ni byang chub sems dpa’ la’o / mchog zhes bya ba’i sgra ni dam par rjod par byed pa yin pai phyir te / byang chub sems dpa’ gzhan gyis byang chub tu sems bskyed pa la zhes bya ba rgyas par gang bsungs pa yin no.
- n.912 Summarizing 32.51–32.59.
- n.913 Summarizing 32.60–32.73.
- n.914 Buddhaśrī 141a7 says that in possession of the light-like four detailed and thorough knowledges they teach others to practice the ten wholesome actions and so on. The form sada appears to be rendered into Tib by byung.
- n.915 This ends RecA chapter 5.
- n.916 This and the following stanzas summarize Chapter 33.
- n.917 Buddhaśrī 142b3 “to awakening.”
- n.918 Subodhinī 32a2 des gnang ba’i yongs su bsngo ba dang ldan pa’i phyir ro snyam du dgongs pa yin no (“It intends: because they are in possession of the dedication approved by him.”)
- n.919 This ends RecA chapter 6. Eight Thousand, 22 (6.9) is based on the reading abhibhonti.
- n.920 See 34.6.
- n.921 This ends RecA chapter 7.
- n.922 Buddhaśrī 144b2 ming ni tshor ba la sogs pa’i phung po’o (“name is the feeling aggregate and so on”).
- n.923 This ends RecA chapter 8.

- n.924 This ends RecA chapter 9. 37.1: “Then venerable Subhūti said to the Lord, ‘Lord, the perfection of wisdom is not an agent.’ The Lord responded, ‘Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is the nonapprehender of all dharmas.’ ”
- n.925 See 37.25.
- n.926 See 39.30
- n.927 See 39.33–39.35.
- n.928 See 39.38–39.39.
- n.929 See 39.44–39.47.
- n.930 This ends RecA chapter 10, summarizing 39.51–39.52.
- n.931 See 39.57. Buddhaśrī 147a6 smra ba’i zla ba zhes bya ba ni dngos po thams cad gsal ba byed pa yin pa’i phyir ro “(A speaker-moon because of clarifying everything”).
- n.932 See 40.2–40.7.
- n.933 See 40.24–40.28.
- n.934 See 40.31.
- n.935 See 41.4–41.5.
- n.936 RecA na-kārya-yuktaṃ, bya ba min dang ldan; Eight Thousand, 30 (10.7), “is disinclined to do his work.” This summarizes the long sequence of “faults” (41.1–41.38).
- n.937 See 41.49.
- n.938 This ends RecA chapter 11, summarizing up to 41.52.
- n.939 See 42.1.
- n.940 Eight Thousand, 31 (12.3c): “unaltering.”
- n.941 See 42.2–42.30.
- n.942 See 43.7.
- n.943 Here ‘jig rten (“world”) must have crept in as a mistake for ‘jigs med; Eight Thousand, 31 (12.6), “roars fearlessly.”
- n.944 See 43.19–43.21.

- n.945 This ends RecA chapter 12, summarizing 43.44.
- n.946 See 44.3.
- n.947 This ends RecA chapter 13.
- n.948 Summarizing from 44.15 up to 44.23.
- n.949 These examples are summarizing 45.1–45.9.
- n.950 For the differences between the editions at this point, see Yuyama, 172 (with notes inserted into RecAt).
- n.951 This ends RecA chapter 14.
- n.952 The segue here is given at 45.10: “How is it, Lord, that those sons of a good family or daughters of a good family who have set out in the Bodhisattva Vehicle have not been assisted by the perfection of wisdom and have not been assisted by skillful means and even fall to the śrāvaka level and the pratyekabuddha level?” This is, however, explicitly summarizing the beginning of chapter 46: “The Lord having said that, venerable Subhūti inquired of him, ‘Lord, how should bodhisattva great beings beginning the work train in the perfection of wisdom? How should they train in the perfection of concentration, perfection of perseverance, perfection of patience, perfection of morality, and perfection of giving?’ ‘Subhūti,’ replied the Lord, ‘bodhisattva great beings beginning the work who want to train in the perfection of wisdom, and who want to train in the perfection of concentration, perfection of perseverance, perfection of patience, perfection of morality, and perfection of giving, should attend on spiritual friends who teach the perfection of wisdom.’ ”
- n.953 This translation follows Buddhaśrī 151a2: byang chub ni rnam par byang ba’i bdag nyid rnam so// phung po ni kun nas nyon mongs pa’i mtshan nyid rnam so.
- n.954 Emend legs ’tsho to legs mtsho, guṇasāgara.
- n.955 blo, buddhi.
- n.956 See 47.8–47.10.
- n.957 48.3 (kha.167.b1), ‘bum tha 8a7, nyi khri kha 330a3 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html?part=UT22084-026-001-8034#UT22084-026-001-8034>) thugs gzhol.
- n.958 RecA vigraha, rtsod pa; 48.1 mi ’thun pa (“counterpoint”); Gilgit 543.2 vipratyayanīya; Gyurme (khri pa) “incompatible with”; Eight Thousand “antagonistic to”; 'bum tha 8b1, nyi khri 38.7 (kha 330a5) 'jig rten thams cad kyis yid chas par dka' ba (“hard for the entire world to believe in”).

- n.959 This ends RecA chapter 15.
- n.960 Summarizing 48.15–48.27.
- n.961 Neither Buddhaśrī nor Subodhinī gloss the word 'jig rten (loke) explicitly, but the idea seems to be that the five perfections are perfections in an ordinary (loka) sense, but not ultimately. For that the perfection of wisdom is necessary.
- n.962 Summarizing 48.34–48.43.
- n.963 RecAt, 174 supports the reading theg pa here, but RecAs, 62 (16.6a) jñāna (ye shes) is glossed as such by Buddhaśrī 153a2, Subodhinī 46a3. In the Abhisamayālaṅkāra this marks the beginning of explanation of the prayoga, sbyor ba (practice) proper.
- n.964 Jäschke says tha ba means thu ba; Buddhaśrī 153a5 glosses with gnod sems med pa.
- n.965 This ends RecA chapter 16, summarizing up to 48.101, the end of the forty-eighth chapter.
- n.966 49.1: “The Lord having said this, venerable Subhūti asked him, ‘Lord, what is the attribute, what is the token, and what is the sign of bodhisattva great beings? How do I know, “These bodhisattva great beings are irreversible?” ’ ”
- n.967 Summarizing 49.1–49.10.
- n.968 Buddhaśrī 153b5 lus kyī las la sogs pa kha na ma tho ba med pa'i phyir sgo gsum dben zhing dag pa (“pure because of being isolated from basic physical, verbal, and mental immoralities”).
- n.969 Summarizing 49.30–50.9.
- n.970 Buddhaśrī 154a1 ro byang ba med pa (“does not relish”).
- n.971 Summarizing 50.17. “Black magic” (abhicāra, drag shul) incorporates violent and antinomian behavior.
- n.972 Alternatively, 'dod pa'i las can (icchakarmam) may mean “those who want to make it happen.” Buddhaśrī 154a3 khnye'ur 'gyur ro zhe'am bu mor 'gyur ro zhes bya ba ston.

- n.973 Emend brtan/brten to RecA śāsanī, bstan.
- n.974 The idea is they have avoided a purposeless birth where what they have to teach in life is unwelcome to the listeners; cf. 49.8.
- n.975 See 50.31: “They are not uncertain and harbor no doubt about their own level. And why? Because they have no uncertainty about the very limit of reality, and they do not conceive of the very limit of reality as one or two. Because of such an understanding, they do not produce a thought at the śrāvaka level or the pratyekabuddha level even after returning back to a life.”
- n.976 Cf. 50.38.
- n.977 This ends RecA chapter 17.
- n.978 51.7. Buddhaśrī 154a7 (explaining the Abhisamayālaṅkāra) says these begin the signs of irreversible bodhisattvas on the path of meditation.
- n.979 See 51.11.
- n.980 Summarizing 51.12–51.16. To paraphrase Subodhinī 48b5–49a1, the lustful man is dying for her to come. Like that, “through the force of the path of meditation bodhisattvas obtain a collection of as much wisdom and merit as the collection of wisdom and merit through which, over unbroken eons, beings, having rejected saṃsāra, will gain awakening, [such is one’s desire for it to happen].” Buddhaśrī 154b5–6: “just a tiny moment of paying attention to wisdom brings about as much merit as it takes an eon to accomplish.”
- n.981 ldan. RecAs abhiyukta (“makes an effort at”).
- n.982 See 51.17–51.21.
- n.983 shes; RecA 18.6 khyāyati, snang (“appears to be”); Eight Thousand, “declared to be.”
- n.984 See 51.32–51.33.
- n.985 This ends RecA chapter 18, summarizing 51.34–51.53.
- n.986 See 51.53–51.72.
- n.987 ngung ngu ngyung ngus; RecAs, 71 stokastokaṃ also means “drop by drop.”
- n.988 Note the excursus on karma and the appeal to Maitreya (52.3–52.17) is not referenced here. It is in the Abhisamayālaṅkāra. This summarizes 52.18–52.20.

- n.989 This ends RecA chapter 19, summarizing up to 52.53.
- n.990 Leaving out the Gaṅgādevī chapter, this summarizes 54.1–54.6, beginning the upāyakauśalya section that ends Abhisamayālaṅkāra chapter 4.
- n.991 RecAs, 75 (20.2) kṛtayogyā; LC 'os su gyur; Eight Thousand, 45 “well-qualified.” Buddhaśrī 151b5 goms par byas pa (“very experienced”).
- n.992 The illustration is at 54.7. They do not touch awakening because they have not yet accumulated all the necessary equipment for that state, or because they do not settle down on the reality even of that state.
- n.993 “Supported” renders gnas (adhiṣṭhāna); Buddhaśrī 157a2 says “the work (bya ba) is the four ways of gathering a retinue.”
- n.994 The reading here and at RecAt, 177 (20.7d) is mtshan ma med par gnas shing; but RecAs, 76 and Obermiller 1960, 75 have na ca ānimittu-sthitu; Eight Thousand, “Nor should one stand in the signless,” supported by Buddhaśrī 157a3 stong pa nyid la gnas pa mtshan ma dang mtshan ma med pa dag tu mi 'dzin pa'i phyir.
- n.995 See 54.8.
- n.996 See 54.9.
- n.997 See 54.10.
- n.998 These illustrations are not in any of the extant versions of the sūtra and not in the Abhisamayālaṅkāra. Bṭ3 5.1014 in this context says, “Here there are a further seven subsections to the passage.”
- n.999 Here “dharma” means one keeps on meditating on the three gateways to liberation without entering nirvāṇa (Buddhaśrī 158a1).
- n.-
1000 This translation, “have a proper understanding of paths,” is supported by Subodhinī 55a2–3 “have a proper understanding” because they are skilled in the comprehension of the good qualities and faults, respectively.
- n.-
1001 RecAs, 81 (20.19cd): “It is simply impossible to be able to give an exposition, be it of one who has reached nirvāṇa or even of one being something compounded.” RecAt, 178 (20.19cd): “If they were to experience nirvāṇa they would not be there, but even were that the case, they would still be able to reach it.”
- n.-
1002 K, N pa; RecAs, 81 (20.20d) prajñāpanāya śakyaḥ.

- n.- Summarizing 54.22.
1003
- n.- Summarizing 55.1–55.3.
1004
- n.- Summarizing 55.5–55.6.
1005
- n.- This ends RecA chapter 20. Summarizing 55.9.
1006
- n.- Summarizing 55.10. Buddhaśrī 159b2 gzhan gyis lung bstan zhes ba ba ni bdud 1007 kyis sangs rgyas su 'gyur ro.
- n.- Māra is disguised as a buddha, or (55.13) “disguised as a monk; or else he 1008 approaches disguised as a nun; or else he approaches disguised as a landlord; or else he approaches disguised as their mother; or else he approaches disguised as their father.”
- n.- ming gi gzhi las renders nāmādhīṣṭhāna (cf. 55.12) governed by the exigencies of 1009 meter. It means the detailed declaration of the irreversible bodhisattva’s name and so on.
- n.- See 55.12.
1010
- n.- See 55.12–55.15.
1011
- n.- See 55.18–55.25.
1012
- n.- See 55.21–55.22.
1013
- n.- “Think that they are greater than” renders drod snyam, literally “think they 1014 outweigh.” RecAs, 86 (21.8d) tulayeya; bod rgya tshig mdzod chen mo, s.v. drod, gives as a second meaning tshod “measure”; Jäschke, s.v. drod, “one Lex. has drod rig pa = mātrajña experienced or well-versed in measure.” Eight Thousand, 50 “should ... be considered.” Buddhaśrī 170a5 says it means to disparage (drod snyom zhing brnyas par byed pa de ni).
- n.- This ends RecA chapter 21.
1015
- n.- drag ldan. Emend or read RecAs, 88 (22.1b) guru, Eight Thousand, 51 “weighty” 1016 as ugra.
- n.- See 55.28.
1017
- n.- See 55.30.
1018
- n.- Subodhinī 57b6 de dag kun te sangs rgyas ji snyed pa'i lam.
1019
- See 55.31.

- n.- 1020 See 55.33–55.36.
- n.- 1021 Emend mi to min; RecAs, 90 (22.6d) sadā a-bhūto.
- n.- 1022 See 55.37–55.43.
- n.- 1023 Buddhaśrī 163b3 glosses rjes su mthun byed zhes bya ba ni rab tu ston par byed pa'o (“to teach it”).
- n.- 1024 See 55.45–55.46.
- n.- 1025 See 55.49–55.50.
- n.- 1026 Explaining 55.50–55.51.
- n.- 1027 See 55.52. The perfection of wisdom is best taken as both a book and a practice here as in Haribhadra’s gloss of the Aṣṭa (Wogihara 796; Sparham 2006–11, vol. 4, 153). Buddhaśrī 164a7 “ ‘Going quickly.’ Worried an enemy might come one goes quickly and calms down. It intends: so one will not lose the precious jewel.” This ends RecA chapter 22.
- n.- 1029 This example is not explicitly taught but conveys the meaning of 56.5, “The bodhisattva great beings will not simply surpass the stream enterers, up to pratyekabuddhas in one respect but not another; they will surpass all those bodhisattva great beings without skillful means and separated from the perfection of wisdom practicing the perfection of giving” and so on.
- n.- 1030 Buddhaśrī says they teach their own knowledge to others.
- n.- 1031 This ends RecA chapter 23. Again, this example is not explicitly taught but conveys the meaning at 56.6: “The Four Mahārājas will think about approaching bodhisattva great beings who train like that, and having come into their presence, they will say, ‘Make haste at training! Train quickly! The tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas of yore took possession of these four begging bowls, so you too, seated at the site of awakening, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect complete awakening, should take possession of them as well.’ ”
- n.- 1032 See 56.11.
- n.- 1033 Emend dag to ngag RecAs, 96 (24.2c) kāyacittavacanam.
- n.- 1034 This and the following verses are summarizing 56.12–56.30.
- n.- 1035 Buddhaśrī 166a1 says one puts oneself down, thinking someone who has to help and benefit all should not get upset like this.

- n.- 1036 This ends RecA chapter 24, summarizing 56.26–56.30.
- n.- 1037 Buddhaśrī 166a5.
- n.- 1038 Subodhinī 61b1–2, Buddhaśrī 166b1.
- n.- 1039 57.14 gives both examples.
- n.- 1040 This ends RecA chapter 25.
- n.- 1041 See 58.3–58.7.
- n.- 1042 Buddhaśrī 167b7: “with wisdom that settles down on a duality.”
- n.- 1043 The context for this is 58.18–58.19: “Lord, it does not occur to those bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom to think, ‘I am distant from the śrāvaka level or pratyekabuddha level, but I am close to the knowledge of all aspects.’ To illustrate, Lord, it does not occur to a space to think, ‘I am near one thing and distant from another.’ And why? Lord, it is because a space does not have specific features, because a space is without thought construction.”
- n.- 1044 These illustrations are 58.20–58.25.
- n.- 1045 This ends RecA chapter 26, summarizing 59.3–59.9.
- n.- 1046 See 59.10.
- n.- 1047 See 59.10–59.11; also Aṣṭa (Wogihara 852), brgyad stong pa, 242b5, ŚsPN3 9868r10, PSP 5:42, and nyi khri 49.15.
- n.- 1048 As in the Eight Thousand Line version, “knower of all” or “all-knowledge” is not reserved for the limited knowledge of a worthy one.
- n.- 1049 Summarizing 59.17–59.23.
- n.- 1050 See 60.4. The reading dharmakāmam is supported by Buddhaśrī 170b1.
- n.- 1051 The context (60.5–60.7) is the Lord’s statement to Śatakratu that Subhūti’s dwelling, that is to say, the result of a śrāvaka’s practice, “does not approach the bodhisattva great being’s dwelling in the perfection of wisdom even by ... a hundred thousand one hundred millionth part ... because ... bodhisattva great beings practicing this perfection of wisdom pass beyond the śrāvaka level and the pratyekabuddha level, enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva, and, having completed all the buddhadharmas, reach the knowledge of all aspects. Having reached the knowledge of all aspects, they obtain the elimination of all residual impressions, connections, and afflictions.”

n.-
1052 Buddhaśrī 170b7 says one can read arhan not as dgra bcom pa (“destroyer of the enemy [afflictions]”) but as “become worthy (arhan) of all good qualities.”

n.- 1053 This example comes earlier (54.9).

n.- 1054 This ends RecA chapter 27.

n.-
1055 Buddhaśrī 172b1 connects this with when the Lord delivers the perfection of wisdom over to Ānanda for safekeeping (going up to 60.38). The remainder of the verses (84.245–84.301) explain each of the six perfections, starting with wisdom and ending with giving, and then provide a short summary of the six in the customary order. The Subodhinī connects it with the Sadāprarudita story and so on, but since that is itself a summary (not in the form of an udāna but an avadāna), it does not make sense that an udāna (this collection of verses in chapter 84) would include the avadāna (the Sadāprarudita story) within the purview of what needs to be summarized. This marks the end of the second of the three Kangyur volumes of khri brgyad stong pa.

n.- 1056 This begins the explanation of the perfection of wisdom.

n.- 1057 This is Buddhaśrī’s (173a3) explanation, relating these with the paths of meditation down to accumulation, respectively.

n.- 1058 RecAs, 110 (28.6c) has jñānayantra; Eight Thousand, 61 “the machinery of cognition” in place of karmayantra.

n.- 1059 This ends RecA chapter 28.

n.- 1060 This begins the perfection of concentration. Buddhaśrī 175a2; Subodhinī 67a7. The context is the explanation of how each of the perfections is included in the other—the explanation is of the state at the end of meditation that includes all the practices undivided.

n.-
1061 Subodhinī 67b4 says there is no causal sign that makes one settle down on them.

n.-
1062 The idea is that all the places in Jambudvīpa are inferior relative to the perfect places of the gods and the humans in Kuru.

n.-
1063 The idea is that there is no sound in the formless realm, so it is not possible to talk with the beings there and be of any use to them.

The idea is that one uses the wealth for the good of one’s family.

- n.- 1064 One does not react to meditative attainment incorrectly by dwelling on the experience.
- n.- 1065 RecAs sattvāḥ; Buddhaśrī 177b1 sems dpa' ste sems go cha'i brtson 'grus kyis rnam
n.-
1066 par dag pa yod pa'i byang chub sems dpa'. He goes on to say there are six impediments to perseverance. The first, laziness, is being referenced in the first two lines, and the second, pride (mānagrāhin), in the last two lines.
- n.-
1067 Buddhaśrī 178a2–3: “the emergence of awakening in a mindstream destroys the pride and so on that were in the mindstream before.” The pride (a block to perseverance) is overcome by cultivating the insight that one is a slave to all beings. The absence of the pride even to such a degree (awakening) requires the pride to be in a mindstream in the first place. A similar example is in the Laṅkāvatārasūtra.
- n.-
1068 Buddhaśrī glosses RecAs, 116 (29.14c) paricaryamānā with 'tsho bar byed (“look after”).
- n.- 1069 This ends RecA chapter 29.
- n.-
1070 This is the stanza as it is explained by Buddhaśrī 178b4–5. Different, but very possible, is RecAs, 119 (30.3c), RecAt, 187. “If, thinking ‘I have to reach the unsurpassed calm,’ they have produced their first production of the thought of supreme awakening and make their thinking mind stay with that day and night, they should be known as those with clear intelligence making a vigorous attempt.”
- n.-
1071 Not twisted by malice and so on.
- n.- 1072 This ends RecA chapter 30.
- n.- 1073 In this verse “law” renders chos (dharma). Emend nges pa (a printing error) to des pa. MW, s.v. guṇadharmā (yon tan chos), “the virtue or duty incident to the possession of certain qualities (as clemency is the virtue and duty of royalty).” Buddhaśrī 182a4 byang chub yon tan 'byung 'gyur la// gang las byang chub kyi yon tan stobs la sogs pa yang dag par 'grub par 'gyur pa'i chos de.
- n.-
1074 Alternatively, sdom min (RecAs, 125 asaṃvaro), “not following the code.”
- n.-
1075 The reference here is to the eight “worldly dharmas” (laukikadharmā), where attachment and aversion, respectively, to each of the four opposites (pleasure and pain and so on) rule an ordinary person’s life, as above (43.11) “great equanimity with the mark of remaining indifferent toward pleasure and pain, gaining and not gaining, fame and infamy, praise and blame that cause faults in beings.”

- n.-
1076 Buddhaśrī 184b5 says “many” are the enjoyments of decent people and “immeasurable” the final nirvāṇa.
- n.-
1077 This ends RecA chapter 31.
- n.-
1078 Buddhaśrī 186a6 takes the line, as do the Tib translators, first explaining the negative a in akṣaṇa as mi khom pa (“places that preclude a perfect human birth”) and then the kṣaṇa as dal ba (“perfect human birth”).
- n.-
1079 Aṣṭa (Wogihara 927) mā dakṣiṇena mā purvveṇa mā paścimena mottareṇa mordhvaṇi mā’dho; brgyad stong pa 261b2 shar du ma yin slor ma yin nub tu ma yin. The correct reading is likely “without looking to the right or left, without looking to the south, west, north” and so on.
- n.-
1080 The translators here and at brgyad stong pa 262b2 read āvāraṇam (sgrib pa) in place of ārambanam; Eight Thousand, 278 “no attachment to objective supports.”
- n.-
1081 Below, the translators use a plural for grong khyer, and the size of the “city” (nagarī) shows it is a metropolis, like a modern Indian city made up of many relatively autonomous villages.
- n.-
1082 las/karma is missing here in the Tibetan but has been added based on the parallel passage in Aṣṭa (Wogihara, 939.18).
- n.-
1083 Cf. 73.55. Āryavimuktisena (Sparham 2006–11, vol. 4, 76) explains: “ ‘Blue’ is the general rubric (uddeśapada); ‘the color blue’ (nīlavarṇa) is based on innate blueness; ‘look blue’ (nīladarśana) is based on added blueness; ‘shine out blue’ [“appear blue”] (nīlabhāsvara) is based on the fact that both release light and shine out. Nakamura (2014, 611–612) renders the last of these “ ‘whose shining is blue’ is because of the brightness [caused] by the release of light (prabhānirmokṣabhāsvaratā) of these two.’
- n.- 1084 A line has (accidentally?) been omitted here. Aṣṭa (Wogihara 934, Mitra 487) buddhanetrīcitrikarānugata sugata śrutacittānāṃ sattvānām; brgyad stong pa 264a6 sangs rgyas kyi tshul la gus par byed pa rjes su ’gro ba’i thos pa dang sems pa legs par rtogs pa. Its inclusion is supported by Haribhadra’s commentary (Wogihara 939, Sparham 2006–11, vol. 4, 275) on a similar line: “ ‘With minds faithfully devoted to’ with serene faith in her ‘the Guide of the Buddhas’ the Perfection of Wisdom ‘and bent on listening to’ with the aforementioned knowledge arisen from listening to ‘the Sugata’ well (suṣṭhu) gone (gata), ‘and for a long time they had been intent on deep dharmas.’ The anugata is because [the faithful devotion] is connected with that [mind bent on listening].”

- n.- 1085 Aṣṭa (Wogihara) just has suvarṇapādaka.
- n.- 1086 Perhaps the translators read abhīkṣṇa for Aṣṭa (Wogihara 936) adhiṣṭhita.
- n.- 1087 This is a conjecture.
- n.- 1088 This is a conjecture. Aṣṭa (Wogihara 941) prakṛtyavyavahāra; brgyad stong pa 236a6 rang bzhin gyis tha snyad med pa (“in its basic nature inexpressible”).
- n.- 1089 Omitted here is Aṣṭa (Wogihara 941) sarvadharmaviṣayāpagata; brgyad stong pa 236a7 chos thams cad yul dang bral ba; Eight Thousand, 282 “it has left the sphere of dharmas behind.”
- n.- 1090 This is a conjecture. Aṣṭa (Wogihara 941) āsannarūparāja; Eight Thousand, 282 “The king is near.” We have emended rāja to rajas based on the reading here and brgyad stong pa 236b1 gzugs kyi rdul sel (“eliminating material dirt”).
- n.- 1091 Omitted here is Aṣṭa (Wogihara 941) asapatnarāja; Eight Thousand, 282 “the unrivaled king.” brgyad stong pa 236a7 has phun sum tshogs pa (“perfect”).
- n.- 1092 Omitted here is Aṣṭa (Wogihara 941) dharmadhātuniyata; brgyad stong pa, 236a7 chos kyi dbyings su nges pa; Eight Thousand, 282 “fixed on the element of dharma.”
- n.- 1093 This is a conjecture. Aṣṭa (Wogihara 941) sarvasattvābhavana; Eight Thousand, 282 “no world for beings to be reborn in.”
- n.- 1094 Emend las to la; brgyad stong pa 236b5 chos thams cad la nges par 'bigs pa; Eight Thousand, 282 “piercer of all dharmas.”
- n.- 1095 Omitted here is Aṣṭa (Wogihara 941) sarvadharmavibhavamudrā; Eight Thousand, 282 “seal of the desisting from becoming on the part of all dharmas”; brgyad stong pa 236b5 chos thams cad kyi 'byor ba phiyag rgya, “seal of the wealth of all dharmas.”
- n.- 1096 Omitted here is Aṣṭa (Wogihara 941) sarvatathāgatadarśin; brgyad stong pa 237a1 de bzhin gshegs pa thams cad mthong ba, “with sight of all tathāgatas.”
- n.- 1097 ri mo, citrikāra; Edg, “pay reverence, respect.”
- n.- 1098 Probably an editor’s error.
- n.- 1099 The language used to tell the story is somewhat slimmed down here in comparison with the version in the Aṣṭa and brgyad stong pa.

brgyad stong pa 271b3 adds sgo drung du bsdad do (“he waited at the gateway”).

n.- 1100 rol mo'i cha byad is either a mistake, or an alternative for rol mo'i yo byad (brgyad stong pa 271b4), Aṣṭa (Wogihara 950.21) vādyaprakṛti.

n.- 1101 dgyer? Perhaps, on the model 'byed, phye, dbye, this is from 'gyed, past tense n.- 1102 bgyes ("to disperse, dismiss"); cf. kun 'gyed "donation to each in the entire community." Aṣṭa (Wogihara 950) utsrjyata ("release").

n.- 1103 Aṣṭa (Wogihara 952.21) pīḍāsthānam ("oppressive state").

n.- 1104 chas (prasthita) is probably a perfect form of cha ("to go"—with a secondary meaning of to be on the point of doing something); alternatively, it may be an incorrect form of 'cha', Jäschke "to make, prepare, construct."

n.- 1105 Aṣṭa (Wogihara 954) aparimāṇapūjāvvyūhena, they proceeded "as an infinite immeasurable array of worship." The translators apparently understood vyūha to be in reference to the immense layout of the city; brgyad stong pa 274a1 mchod pa'i bkod pa tshad med pa dang ("a layout inviting infinite worship"); Eight Thousand, 288 "magnificent display of religious aspirations."

n.- 1106 There is a helpful Wikipedia article (<https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Agarwood>) on araru (MW agallochum) under "agarwood." Accessed May 9, 2022.

n.- 1107 Aṣṭa (Wogihara 955) saptaratnamayaḥ paryāṅkaḥ prajñāpto 'bhut; Eight Thousand, 288 "a couch made of the seven precious stones was put up." But brgyad stong pa 274a4 supports the reading here, the four perhaps reflecting the four Vedas or four baskets (piṭaka; cf. Wogihara 955.10 peḍā, MW peṭaka) of sūtra, vinaya, abhidharma, and bodhisattva teachings.

n.- 1108 Probably in error this version omits "with the merchant's daughter and the five hundred girls."

n.- 1109 Reading, with brgyad stong pa 275a5, gzhal med khang (vimāna) in place of Aṣṭa (Wogihara 957.4) vitāna; Eight Thousand, 289 "like a canopy."

n.- 1110 khyod las; brgyad stong pa 276a5 khyod kyis; Aṣṭa (Wogihara 958.27) tava ("your perfection of wisdom") fits a bit better with the earlier story.

n.- 1111 Aṣṭa (Wogihara 966.9) has omitted yang dag pa ma lags so ("it is not real").

n.- 1112 ming mtshan gyi sku is an odd honorific for Aṣṭa (Wogihara 966.13) nāmakāyena; brgyad stong pa 277b7–278a1 ming gyi sku. In the nāmarūpa ("name and form") of the twelve-branch pratītyasamutpāda, nāman is the mental part of a being's makeup.

- n.-
1113 Emend dong ba 'dod pa 'dod par 'gyur to dong ba 'dong pa 'dong par 'gyur.
- n.- 1114 rab tu 'byed. Aṣṭa (Wogihara 967) prabhāvyante; Eight Thousand, 292 “augmented.”
- n.-
1115 phyugs pa, Aṣṭa (Wogihara 981.16) sumṛṣṭa literally means “smeared,” like smearing the walls with mud and cow dung to make a good surface.
- n.-
1116 byung perhaps renders prādurbhūta; cf. Aṣṭa (Wogihara 982) bhūpradeśād (“from this spot of earth”).
- n.-
1117 In each case the Tib translators render the Skt abstract nouns literally. In English this would be: “the state of all dharmas is the same, so the state of the perfection of wisdom is the same; all dharmas are in an isolated state so the perfection of wisdom is in an isolated state; all dharmas are in a state that does not move so the perfection of wisdom is in a state that does not move,” and so on.
- n.- 1118 sna tshogs pa nyid, Aṣṭa (Wogihara 986.7) vicitratā. Each side of the axial mountain is said to be a different color.
- n.-
1119 Aṣṭa (Wogihara 986) vijñānadhātvaṇyantaś ca nāma samādhiḥ; brgyad stong pa 283b6 rnam par shes pa'i kham mu med pa nyid pas (“the consciousness element is limitless so the perfection of wisdom is limitless”). This is also absent from the list of meditative stabilizations below.
- n.- 1120 This vajropamadharma is likely the last meditative stabilization before awakening.
- n.-
1121 rnam par 'jigs pa mnyam pa nyid, so too *brgyad stong pa 284a1 *vibhāvanāsamatā*; Aṣṭa (Wogihara 986.16) abhibhāvanāsamatā; Eight Thousand, 297 “remains the same whatever it may surpass.”
- n.-
1122 Each of these meditative stabilizations matches Dharmodgata’s explanations of the perfection of wisdom.
- n.- 1123 As above (see n.1119), vijñānadhātvaṇyantaś ca nāma samādhiḥ is left out.
- n.-
1124 This is a conjecture. Aṣṭa (Wogihara 987) sarvadharmānupalabdhi, brgyad stong pa 284a7 chos thams cad dmigs su med pa; Eight Thousand, 298 “non-apprehension of all dharmas.”
- n.-
1125 Aṣṭa (Wogihara 987) sarvadharmavibhāvanāsamatā; Eight Thousand, 298 (perhaps for the sake of consistency) “remains the same whatever it may surpass.”

- n.-
1126 “Avoided the places that preclude a perfect human birth” renders akṣaṇā (literally “those on account of which the moment is not there”; Tib mi khom pa, “absences of leisure or capacity”) vivarjitāḥ. “Accomplished a perfect human birth” renders kṣaṇasampac- (literally “perfect moment”; Tib (dal ba/khom pa) phun tshogs, “fullnesses of leisure or capacity”) cārāvagatāḥ (Wogihara 989). The implied metaphor is a flash of lightning that stands for the perfection of wisdom, understood as a brilliant and powerful state of mind, in essence “the thought of awakening” that makes clear, in a billion lifetimes of darkness, a meaningful life. It does not mean an instant, in the usual sense of the word, but a lifetime that, when compared with the billions of other lifetimes a practitioner has spent in darkness without understanding the perfection of wisdom, is an instant.
- n.- 1127 At Aṣṭa (Wogihara 989.21) and brgyad stong pa 285a1–2 these last two sentences are said not to Subhūti, but to Ānanda.
- n.-
1128 yang dag par yongs su gzung ba'i phyir is omitted from Aṣṭa (Wogihara 989) and brgyad stong pa 285a3.
- n.-
1129 skyes bu tha mar mi 'gyur pa, reading anta (tha ma), so too brgyad stong pa 285b2, in place of Aṣṭa (Wogihara 990) anya; Eight Thousand, 300 “No other man would be as suitable as you are.”
- n.-
1130 spyod; brgyad stong pa 285b3 rab tu spyod; Aṣṭa (Wogihara 990.22) paricariṣyati; Eight Thousand, 300 “shall be observed.”
- n.-
1131 S 'phags pa shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa khri brgyad stong pa rdzogs so// rgya gar gyi mkhan po dzi na mi tra dang / su ren+d+ra bo d+hi dang / zhu chen gyi lo tsa ba ban de ye shes sde la sogs pas bsgyur cig zhus te gtan la bab pa'o. D omits. The Hemis Kangyur (from the Ladahki/Mustang group) and the Gangteng Kangyur (Thempangma) list the Indian preceptor Prajñāvarman (pradz+nya barma) instead of Surendrabodhi.

b.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

· Primary Sources ·

shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa khri brgyad stong pa (Aṣṭādaśasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā) [The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines]. Toh 10, Degé Kangyur vols. 30–31 (shes phyin, khri brgyad, ka–ga), folios ka.1.b–ga.206.a.

shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa khri brgyad stong pa. bka' 'gyur (dpe bsdur ma) [Comparative Edition of the Kangyur], krung go'i bod rig pa zhib 'jug ste gnas kyi bka' bstan dpe sdur khang (The Tibetan Tripitaka Collation Bureau of the China Tibetology Research Center). 108 volumes. Beijing: krung go'i bod rig pa dpe skrun khang (China Tibetology Publishing House), 2006–9, vol. 29, pp. 19–513.

shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa khri brgyad stong pa. Stok Palace Kangyur vols. 45–47 (khri brgyad, ka–ga), folios ka.1.b–ga.392.a.

shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa brgyad stong pa (Aṣṭasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā) [The Perfection of Wisdom in Eight Thousand Lines]. Toh 12, Degé Kangyur vol. 33 (shes phyin, brgyad stong pa, ka), folios 1.b–286.a.

shes phyin khri pa (Daśasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā) [The Perfection of Wisdom in Ten Thousand Lines]. Toh 11, Degé Kangyur vol. 31 (shes phyin, ga), folios 1.b–91.a; vol. 32 (shes phyin, nga), folios 92.b–397.a. English translation in Padmakara Translation Group 2018 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html>).

shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa rdo rje bcod pa (Vajracchedikā) [The Diamond Sūtra]. Toh 16, Degé Kangyur vol. 34 (sher phyin, ma tshogs, ka), folios 121.a–132.b.

shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phrag brgya pa (Śatasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā) [The Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand Lines]. Toh 8, Degé Kangyur vols. 14–25 (shes phyin, 'bum, ka–a), folios ka.1.b–a.395.a. English translation in Sparham 2024 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html>).

shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phrag nyi shu lnga pa (Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā) [The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines]. Toh 9, Degé Kangyur vols. 26–28 (shes phyin, nyi khri, ka–a), folios ka.1.b–ga.381.a. English translation in Padmakara Translation Group 2023 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html>).

shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa sdud pa tshigs su bcad pa (Prajñāpāramitārātnagaṇa-saṃcayaḡāthā) [The Verse Summary of the Jewel Qualities]. In shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa khri brgyad stong pa (Aṣṭādaśasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā) Toh 10, Degé Kangyur vol. 31 (shes phyin, khri brgyad, ga), folios 163.a–181.b. Also Toh 13, Degé Kangyur vol. 34 (shes rab sna tshogs pa, ka), folios 1.b–19.b.

Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikā Prajñāpāramitā (<http://grettil.sub.uni-goettingen.de/grettil.htm#LargerPrajP>) [The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines]. GRETIL edition input by Klaus Wille (Göttingen), based on the edition by Takayasu Kimura. Tokyo: Sankibo Busshorin 2007–9 (1-1, 1–2), 1986 (2–3), 1990 (4), 1992 (5), 2006 (6–8).

Aṣṭasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā [The Perfection of Wisdom in Eight Thousand Lines]. Ed. Wogihara (1973) incorporating Mitra (1888).

Abhisamayālaṃkāranāmaprajñāpāramitopadeśasāstra [The Ornament for the Clear Realizations]. Ed. Wogihara (1973).

Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikā Prajñāpāramitā [The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines]. Dutt, Nalinaksha. Calcutta Oriental Series 28. London: Luzac, 1934. Reprint edition, Sri Satguru Publications, 1986.

· Secondary References ·

.. Sūtras ..

rgya cher rol pa (Lalitavistara) [The Play in Full]. Toh 95, Degé Kangyur vol. 46 (mdo sde, kha), folios 1.b–216.b; Lhasa Kangyur 96, vol. 48 (mdo sde, kha), folios 1.b–352.a. English translation in Dharmachakra Translation Committee 2013 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh95.html>).

dam pa'i chos dran pa nye bar gzhang pa (Saddharmasmṛtyupasthāna). Toh 287, Degé Kangyur, vols. 68–71 (mdo sde, ya–sha), folios ya.82.a–sha.229.b. English translation in Dharmachakra Translation Committee 2020a <https://read.84000.co/translation/toh287.html>).

dam pa'i chos pad ma dkar po (Saddharmapuṇḍarika) [The White Lotus of the Good Dharma]. Toh 113, Degé Kangyur vol. 51 (mdo sde, ja), folios 1.b–180.b. English translation in Roberts 2018 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh113.html>).

de bzhin gshegs pa'i snying rje chen po nges par bstan pa (Tathāgatamahākaraṇīrdeśa) [Great Compassion of the Tathāgata Sūtra] [Dhāraṇīśvararāja]. Toh 147, Degé Kangyur vol. 57 (mdo sde, pa), folios 142.a–242.b; Lhasa Kangyur vol. 57 (mdo sde, da), folios 153.b–319.a. English translation in Burchardi 2020 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh147.html>).

de bzhin gshegs pa'i snying po (Tathāgatarbha) [Tathāgatarbha Sūtra]. Toh 258, Degé Kangyur vol. 66 (mdo sde, za), folios 245.b–259.b; Lhasa Kangyur 260, vol. 67 (mdo sde, zha), folios 1.b–24.a.

de bzhin gshegs pa'i gsang ba bsam gyis mi khyab pa'i bstan pa (Tathāgatācintyaguhyanirdeśa) [Explanation of the Inconceivable Secrets of the Tathāgatas]. Toh 47, Degé Kangyur vol. 39 (dkon brtsegs, ka), folios 100.a–203.a; Lhasa Kangyur vol. 35 (dkon brtsegs, ka), folios 151.a–313.b. English translation in Fiordalis, David. and Dharmachakra Translation Committee 2023 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh47.html>).

dri ma med par grags pas bstan pa (Vimalakīrtinirdeśa) [The Teaching of Vimalakīrti]. Toh 176, Degé Kangyur vol. 60 (mdo sde, ma), folios 175.a–239.b. English translation in Thurman 2017 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh176.html>).

mdo chen po stong pa nyid ces bya ba (Śūnyatānāmamahāśūtra) [Śūnyatā Sūtra]. Toh 290, Degé Kangyur vol. 71 (mdo sde, sha), folios 250.a–253.b; Lhasa Kangyur 293, vol. 71 (mdo sde, ra), folios 476.b–482.a.

chos bcu pa (Daśadharmaka) [The Ten Dharmas Sūtra]. Toh 53, Degé Kangyur vol. 40 (dkon brtsegs, kha), folios 164.a–184.b.

tshangs pa'i dra ba (Brahmajāla) [Brahma's Net Sūtra]. Toh 352, Degé Kangyur vol. 76 (mdo sde, aH), folios 70.b–86.a; Lhasa Kangyur 360, vol. 76 (mdo sde, a), folios 111.a–135.b.

byang chub sems dpa'i sde snod (Bodhisattvapiṭaka) [Bodhisattva Piṭaka Sūtra]. Toh 56, Degé Kangyur vols. 40–41 (dkon brtsegs, kha–ga), folios kha.255.b–ga.205.b; Lhasa Kangyur 56, vol. 37 (dkon brtsegs, ga), folios 1.b–380.b. English translation in Norwegian Institute of Palaeography and Historical Philology 2023 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh56.html>).

- za ma tog bkod pa (Kāraṇḍavyūha)*. Toh 116, Degé Kangyur, vol. 51 (mdo sde, pa), folios 200.a–247.b. English translation in Roberts 2013 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh116.html>).
- lang kar gshegs pa (Laṅkāvatāra)* [The Descent to Laṅkā Sūtra]. Toh 107, Degé Kangyur vol. 49 (mdo sde, ca), folios 56.a–191.b.
- blo gros rgya mtshos zhus pa (Sāgaramatipariṣcchā)* [The Questions of Sāgaramati]. Toh 152, Degé Kangyur vol. 58 (mdo sde, pha), folios 1.b–115.b; Lhasa Kangyur 153, vol. 58 (mdo sde, na), folios 1.b–180.a. English translation in Dharmachakra Translation Committee 2020b (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh153.html>).
- blo gros mi zad pas bstan pa (Akṣayamatīnirdeśa)* [The Teaching of Akṣayamati]. Toh 175, Degé Kangyur vol. 60 (mdo sde, ma), folios 79.a–174.b; Lhasa Kangyur 176, vol. 60 (mdo sde, pha), folios 122.b–270.b. English translation in Braarvig and Welsh 2020 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh175.html>).
- shes rab snying po (Prajñāpāramitāhṛdaya)*. Toh 21, Degé Kangyur vol. 34 (sher phyin, ka), folios 144.b–146.a; Toh 531, Degé Kangyur vol. 88 (rgyud, na), folios 94.b–95.b. English translation in Dharmachakra Translation Committee 2022 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh21.html>).
- sa bcu pa'i mdo (Daśabhūmikāsūtra)* [The Ten Levels Sūtra]. Lhasa Kangyur 94, vol. 43 (phal chen, ga), folios 67.a–234.b. English translation in Roberts 2021 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh44-31.html>).
- sangs rgyas phal po che zhes bya ba shin tu rgyas pa chen po (Buddhāvataṃsakanāma-mahāvaiṣṭya)* [Avataṃsaka Sūtra]. Toh 44, Degé Kangyur vols. 35–36 (phal chen, ka–a); Lhasa Kangyur 94, vols. 41–46 (phal chen, ka–cha).
- lha mo dpal 'phreng gi seng ge'i sgra (Śrīmālādevīsīṃhanāda)* [The Lion's Roar of the Goddess Śrīmālā]. Toh 92, Degé Kangyur vol. 44 (dkon brtsegs, cha), folios 255.a–277.b.

· · Indic Commentaries · ·

- Abhayākara Gupta. thub pa'i dgongs pa'i rgyan (Munimatālaṅkāra) [“Thought of the Sage”]. Toh 3903, Degé Tengyur vol. 211 (dbu ma, a), folios 73.b–293.a.
- . shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa brgyad stong pa'i 'grel pa gnad kyi zla 'od (Āṣṭasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitāvṛttimarmakaumudī) [“Moonlight”]. Toh 3805, Degé Tengyur vol. 90 (shes phyin, da), folios 1.b–228.a.
- Anonymous / Daṃṣṭrāsena. shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa 'bum gyi rgya cher 'grel (Śatasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitābrhatṭikā) [“Detailed Explanation of the One Hundred Thousand”]. Toh 3807, Degé Tengyur vols. 91–92 (shes phyin, na-pa).

Āryavimuktisena. 'phags pa shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phrag nyi shu lnga pa'i man ngag gi bstan bcos mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan gyi tshig le'ur byas pa'i rnam par 'grel pa (Āryapañcaviṃśatisāhasrikāprajñāpāramitopadeśa-śāstrābhisamayālaṃkārikāvārttika) ["Āryavimuktisena's Commentary"].

Toh 3787, Degé Tengyur vol. 80 (shes phyin, ka), folios 14.b–212.a.

Asaṅga. theg pa chen po rgyud bla ma'i bstan bcos rnam par bshad pa (Mahāyānottaratantraśāstravyākhyā) ["Explanation of the Uttaratantra"]. Toh 4025, Degé Tengyur vol. 225 (sems tsam, phi), folios 74.b–129.a.

———. theg pa chen po bsdu pa (Mahāyānasamgraha). Toh 4048, Degé Tengyur vol. 236 (sems tsam, ri), folios 1.b–43.a.

———. rnal 'byor spyod pa'i sa (Yogācārabhūmi) ["The Yogācāra Levels"]. Toh 4035–4042, Degé Tengyur vol. 229 (sems tsam, tshi-'i), folios tshi.1.b–'i.68.b.

———. rnal 'byor spyod pa'i sa las byang chub sems dpa'i sa (Bodhisattvabhūmi) ["The Bodhisattva Levels"]. Toh 4037, Degé Tengyur vol. 231 (sems tsam, wi), folios 1.b–213.a.

Asaṅga/Maitreya. theg pa chen po rgyud bla ma'i bstan bcos (Mahāyānottaratantraśāstraratnagotravibhāga) [Uttaratantra]. Toh 4024, Degé Tengyur vol. 225 (sems tsam, phi), folios 54.b–73.a.

Asvabhāva. theg pa chen po bsdu pa'i bshad sbyar (Mahāyānasamgrahopanibandhana) ["Explanation of the Mahāyānasamgraha"]. Toh 4051 Degé Tengyur vol. 236 (sems tsam, ri), folios 190.b–296.a.

Bhadanta Vimuktisena (btsun pa grol sde). 'phags pa shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phrag nyi shu lnga pa'i man ngag gi bstan bcos mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan gyi tshig le'ur byas pa'i rnam par 'grel pa (**Āryapañcaviṃśatisāhasrikāprajñāpāramitopadeśa-śāstrābhisamayālaṃkārikāvārttika*) ["Bhadanta's Commentary"]. Toh 3788, Degé Tengyur vol. 81 (shes phyin, kha), folios 1.b–181.a.

Buddhaśrī. shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa sdud pa'i tshig su byas pa'i dka' 'grel (Prajñāpāramitāsamcayagāthāpañjikā) ["Buddhaśrī's Explanation of the Jewel Qualities"]. Toh 3798, Degé Tengyur (shes phyin, nya), folios 116.a–189.b.

Daśabalaśrīmitra. 'dus byas 'dus ma byas rnam par nges pa (Samskṛtāsamskṛtāviniścaya) ["Determination of Compounded and Uncompounded Phenomena"]. Toh 3897, Degé Tengyur (dbu ma, ha), folios 109.a–317.a.

Dharmatrāta. ched du brjod pa'i tshoms (Udānavarga) ["Compilation of Udānas"]. Toh 4099, Degé Tengyur vol. 250 (mngon pa, tu), folios 1.b–45.a; Toh 326, Degé Kangyur vol. 72 (mdo sde, sa), folios 209.a–253.a.

- Haribhadra. bcom ldan 'das yon tan rin po che sdud pa'i tshig su byas pa'i dka' 'grel shes bya ba (Bhagavadratnaguṇasaṃcayagāthā-pañjikānāma/Subodhintī) ["Easy Pañjikā"]. Toh 3792, Degé Tengyur vol. 86 (shes phyin, ja), folios 1.b–78.a.
- . shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa brgyad stong pa'i bshad pa mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan gyi snang ba (Aṣṭasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā-vyākhyānābhisamayālaṃkāṛālokā) ["Illumination of the Abhisamayālaṃkāra"]. Toh 3791, Degé Tengyur vol. 85 (shes phyin, cha), folios 1.b–341.a.
- . shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa'i man ngag gi bstan bcos mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan zhes bya ba'i 'grel pa (Abhisamayālaṃkāranāmaprajñāpāramitopadeśa-śāstravṛtti) ["Clear Meaning Commentary"]. Toh 3793, Degé Tengyur vol. 86 (shes phyin, ja), folios 78.b–140.a.
- . shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phrag nyi shu lnga pa (Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā) ["Eight Chapters"]. Toh 3790, Degé Tengyur vols. 82–84 (shes phyin, ga–ca), folios ga.1.a–ca.342.a.
- Jñānavajra. 'phags pa lang kar gshegs pa zhes bya ba theg pa chen po'i mdo'i 'grel pa de bzhin gshegs pa'i snying po'i rgyan zhes bya ba (Āryalaṅkāvatāranāma-mahāyānasūtravṛttitathāgatahṛdayālaṃkāranāma) ["Commentary on the Descent to Laṅkā Sūtra"]. Toh 4019, Degé Tengyur vol. 122 (mdo 'grel, pi), folios 1.b–310.a.
- Maitreya. theg pa chen po mdo sde'i rgyan zhes bya ba'i tshig le'ur byas pa (Mahāyānasūtrālaṃkāṛakārikā) ["Ornament for the Mahāyāna Sūtras"]. Toh 4020, Degé Tengyur vol. 225 (sems tsam, phi), folios 1.b–39.a.
- . dbus dang mtha' rnam par 'byed pa'i tshig le'ur byas pa (Madhyāntavibhāga) ["Delineation of the Middle and Extremes"]. Toh 4021, Degé Tengyur vol. 225 (sems tsam, phi), folios 40.b–45.a.
- . shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa'i man ngag gi bstan bcos mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan zhes bya ba tshig le'ur byas pa, sde dge, (Abhisamayālaṃkāranāmaprajñāpāramitopadeśaśāstrakārikā) [The Ornament for the Clear Realizations]. Toh 3786, Degé Tengyur vol. 80 (shes phyin, ka), folios 1.b–13.a.
- Mañjuśrīkīrti. 'phags pa chos thams cad kyi rang bzhin mnyam pa nyid rnam par spros pa'i ting nge 'dzin kyi rgyal po zhes bya ba theg pa chen po'i mdo'i 'grel pa grags pa'i phreng ba (Sarvadharmasvabhāvasamatāvīpañcitasamādhirājanāma-mahāyānasūtraṭīkākīrtimālā) ["Samādhirājasūtra Commentary"]. Toh 3897, Degé Tengyur (mdo 'grel, nyi), folios 1.b–163.b.
- Nāgārjuna. dbu ma rtsa ba'i tshig le'ur byas pa shes rab ces bya ba (Prajñānāmamūla-madhyamakakārikā) ["Root Verses on Wisdom"]. Toh 3897, Degé Tengyur vol. 198 (dbu ma, tsa), folios 1.b–19.a.

- Prajñāvardhan. ched du brjod pa'i tshoms kyi rnam par 'grel pa (Udānavargaivaraṇa) ["Explanation of the Udānavārga"]. Toh 4100, Degé Tengyur vols. 148–49 (mngon pa, tu–thu), folios tu.45.b–thu.222.a.
- Pūrṇavardana. chos mngon par chos kyi 'grel bshad mtshan nyid kyi rjes su 'brang ba (Abhidharmakośaṭīkākālakṣaṇānusāriṇī) ["Explanation of the Treasury of Knowledge"]. Toh 4093, Degé Tengyur vols. 144–45 (mngon pa, cu–chu), folios cu.1.b–chu.322.a.
- Ratnākaraśānti. mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan gyi 'grel pa'i tshig le'ur byas pa'i 'grel pa dag ldan (Abhisamayālaṅkārikāvṛttisuddhamatī) ["Purity"]. Toh 3801, Degé Tengyur vol. 88 (shes phyin, ta), folios 76.a–204.a.
- . nam mkha' dang mnyam pa zhes bya ba'i rgya cher 'grel pa (Khasamānāma-ṭīkā) ["Explanation of the Khasamā"]. Toh 1424, Degé Tengyur vol. 21 (rgyud, wa), folios 153.a–171.a.
- . 'phags pa shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa brgyad stong pa'i dka' 'grel snying po mchog (Āryāṣṭasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitāpañjikāsārottamā) [Sāratamā]. Toh 3803, Degé Tengyur vol. 89 (shes phyin, tha), folios 1.b–230.a.
- Sāgaramegha (rgya mtsho sprin). rnal 'byor spyod pa'i sa las byang chub sems dpa'i sa'i rnam par bshad pa (Bodhisattvabhūmivyākhyā) ["Explanation of the Bodhisattva Levels"]. Toh 4047, Degé Tengyur vol. 235 (sems tsam, yi), folios 1.b–338.a.
- Śrījagattalanivāsin. bcom ldan 'das ma'i man ngag gi rjes su brang ba zhes bya ba'i rnam par bshad pa (Bhagavatyāmnāyānusāriṇīnāmaavyākhyā) ["Commentary Following the Tradition"]. Toh 3811, Degé Tengyur vol. 94 (shes phyin, ba), folios 1.b–320.a.
- Sthiramati. mdo sde rgyan gyi 'grel bshad (Sūtrālaṅkāravṛttibhāṣya) ["Commentary on the Ornament for the Sūtras"]. Toh 4034, Degé Tengyur vols. 227–28 (sems tsam, ma–tsi).
- Vasubandhu. chos mngon pa'i mdzod kyi tshig le'ur byas pa (Abhidharmakośakārikā) ["The Treasury of Knowledge"]. Toh 4089, Degé Tengyur vol. 242 (mngon pa, ku), folios 1.b–25.a.
- . chos mngon pa'i mdzod kyi bshad pa (Abhidharmakośabhāṣya) ["Autocommentary to The Treasury of Knowledge"]. Toh 4090, Degé Tengyur vols. 242–43 (mngon pa, ku–khu), folios ku.26.a–khu.95.a.
- . mdo sde'i rgyan gyi bshad pa (Sūtrālaṅkāravākhyā) ["Explanation of the Ornament for the Sūtras"]. Toh 4026, Degé Tengyur vol. 225 (sems tsam, phi), folios 129.b–260.a.

- . dbus dang mtha' rnam par 'byed pa'i 'grel pa (Madhyāntavibhāgabhāṣya) ["Explanation of The Delineation of the Middle and Extremes"]. Toh, 4027, Degé Tengyur vol. 226 (sems tsam, bi), folios 1.b–27.a.
- . 'phags pa bcom ldan 'das ma shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa rdo rje gcod pa'i don bdun gyi rgya cher 'grel pa (Āryabhagavatīprajñāpāramitāvajracchedikā-saptārthaṭīkā) ["Explanation of The Diamond Sūtra"]. Toh 3816, Degé Tengyur vol. 95 (shes phyin, ma), folios 178.a–203.b.
- . 'phags pa blo gros mi zad pas bstan pa rgya cher 'grel pa (Āryākṣayamatīnirdeśaṭīkā) ["Long Explanation of The Teaching of Akṣayamati"]. Toh 3994, Degé Tengyur vol. 114 (mdo 'grel, ci), folios 1.b–269.a.
- . 'phags pa sa bcu pa'i rnam par bshad pa (Āryadaśabhūmivyākhyāna) ["Explanation of The Ten Level Sūtra"]. Toh 3993, Degé Tengyur vol. 215 (mdo sde, ngi), folios 103.b–266.a.
- . shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa rdo rje gcod pa bshad pa'i bshad sbyar gyi tshig le'ur byas pa (Vajracchedikāyāḥprajñāpāramitāyā vyākhyānopanibandhanakārikā) ["Verse Explanation of the Diamond Sūtra"]. Lhasa Tengyur 5864, vol. 146 (ngo mtshar bstan bcos, nyo), folios 1.a–5.b.
- Vasubandhu/Daṃṣṭrāsena. 'phags pa shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa 'bum dang / nyi khri lnga sgong pa dang / khri brgyad stong pa rgya cher bshad pa (Āryaśata-sāhasrikāpañcaviṃśati-sāhasrikāṣṭādaśasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitābrhṭṭīkā) ["Long Explanation of the One Hundred, Twenty-Five, and Eighteen Thousand" / "Detailed Explanation of the Three Sūtras"]. Toh 3808, Degé Tengyur vol. 93 (shes phyin, pha), folios 1.b–291.b. English translation in Sparham 2022 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh3808.html>).

.. Indigenous Tibetan Works ..

- Ar Changchup Yeshé (ar byang chub ye shes). mngon rtogs rgyan gyi 'grel pa rnam 'byed ["Disentanglement of Haribhadra's Exposition of Maitreya's 'Ornament for the Clear Realizations"]. In ar byang chub ye shes kyi gsung chos skor, bka' gdams dpe dkon gches btus, vol. 2. Edited by dpal brtsegs bod yig dpe rnying zhib 'jug khang. Beijing: krung go'i bod rig pa dpe skrun khang (China Tibetology Publishing House), 2006.
- Bodong Tsöntru Dorjé (bo dong brtson 'grus rdo rje). shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa'i man ngag gi bstan bcos mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan gyi 'grel bshad shes rab mchog gi rgyan (stod cha) ["Ornament for the Supreme Wisdom"]. 'phags yul rgyan drug mchog gnyis kyi zhal lung, vol. 11, pp. 22–565.

- Butön (bu ston rin chen grub). bde bar gshegs pa'i bstan pa'i gsal byed chos kyi 'byung gnas gsung rab rin po che'i mdzod/ chos 'byung chen mo ["History of Indian Buddhism"]. In zhol phar khang gsung 'bum, vol. 26 (ya), folios 1.b–212.a.
- Chim Namkha Drak (mchims nam mkha' grags). shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa'i stong phrag brgya pa gzhung gi don rnam par 'byed pa'i bshad pa ["Summary Explanation of the One Hundred Thousand"]. 'phags yul rgyan drug mchog gnyis kyi zhal lung, vol. 8, pp. 217–468.
- Chomden Rikpé Reltri (bcom ldan rigs pa'i ral gri). shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phra brgya pa rgyan gyi me tog ["Flower Ornament for the Clear Realizations"]. gsung 'bum, Kamtrul Sonam Dondrub typeset edition, vol. ca.
- . shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa'i 'grel bshad mngon par rtogs pa rgyan gyi me tog ["Flower Ornament for the Clear Realizations"]. gsung 'bum, Kamtrul Sonam Dondrub typeset edition, vol. ga.
- Dolpopa (dol po pa shes rab rgyal mtshan). 'phags pa shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa stong phrag nyi su lnga pa'i bshad pa ["Explanation of the Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines"]. In jo nang kun mkhyen dol po pa shes rab rgyal mtshan gyi gsung 'bum (glog klad ma gsungs 'bum), vol. 6, pp. 1–279. Edited by dpal brtsegs bod yig dpe rnying zhib 'jug khang. Beijing: krung go'i bod rig pa dpe skrun khang, 2011.
- . shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa khri brgyad stong pa'i mchan bu zur du bkod pa (stod cha) ["Notes to the Eight Thousand"]. 'dzam thang gsum 'bum, vol. ma, 5.3–134. http://www.tbrc.org/#library\_work\_ViewByOutline-001CT0015d1e172%7CW21208.
- Jamsar Shéráp Wozer ('jam gsar ba shes rab 'od zer). mngon rtogs rgyan gyi 'grel bshad 'thad pa'i 'od 'bar ["Blaze of What Is Tenable"]. In 'phags yul rgyan drug mchog gnyis kyi zhal lung, vol. 9, pp. 22–458.
- Lui Gyaltsen (klu'i rgyal mtshan [byang chub rdzu 'phrul]). 'phags pa dgongs pa nges par 'grel pa'i mdo'i rnam par bshad pa (Āryasaṃdhinirmocanasūtra-vyākhyāna) ["Explanation of the Saṃdhinirmocana Sūtra"] Toh 4358, Degé Tengyur vol. 205 (sna tshogs, cho, jo), folios 1.b–293.a; 1.b–183.b.
- Pema Karpo (kun mkhyen pad ma dkar po). mngon par rtogs pa rgyan gyi 'grel pa rje btsun byams pa'i zhal lung ["Words of Maitreya"]. In Collected Works (gsun-'bum) of Kun-Mkhyen Padma-Dkar-Po, vol. 8, pp. 1–340. Darjeeling: Kargyud Sungrab Nyamso Khang, 1973–74.

Rongtön (rong ston shes bya kun rig). sher phyin stong phrag brgya pa'i rnam 'grel. In gsung 'bum, vol. 4, pp. 380–678. Chengdu: si khron mi rigs dpe skrun khang, 2008. BDRC W1PD83960 (https://www.tbrc.org/#library\_work\_ViewByOutline-O1PD941651KG60901%7CW1PD83960).

Serdok Shakya Chokten (gser mdog paN chen shAkya mchog ldan). shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa'i man ngag gi bstan bcos mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan 'grel pa dang bcas pa'i snga phyi'i 'brel rnam par btsal zhing / dngos bstan kyi dka' ba'i gnas la legs par bshad pa'i dpung tshogs rnam par bkod pa / bzhed tshul rba rlabs kyi phreng ba ["Garland of Waves"]. In Complete Works, vol. 11. Thimphu, 1975.

Tsongkhapa (tsong kha pa blo bzang grags pa). shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa'i man ngag gi bstan bcos mngon par rtogs pa'i rgyan 'grel pa dang bcas pa'i rgya cher bshad pa legs bshad gser gyi phreng ba ["Golden Garland of Eloquence: Long Explanation of the Perfection of Wisdom"]. Xining: tsho sngon mi rigs dpe skrun khang, 1986. Page numbers are the same as vols. tsa and tsha in gsung 'bum/ tsong kha pa, vol. 11, pp. 11–519. Xining: mtsho sngon mi rigs dpe skrun khang, 1999. BDRC W20510 (http://tbrc.org/link?RID=O4CZ18573|O4CZ185734CZ18862\$W20510).

bye brag tu rtogs par byed pa chen po (Mahāvīyūtpatti). Toh 4346, Degé Tengyur vol. 204 (sna tshogs, co), folios 1.b–131.a.

· · Secondary Literature · ·

Amano, Koei H. Abhisamayālaṅkāra-kārikā-śāstra-vivṛti: Haribhadra's Commentary on the Abhisamayālaṅkāra-kārikā-śāstra edited for the first time from a Sanskrit Manuscript. Kyoto: Heirakuji Shoten, 2000.

Ānandajyoti Bikkhu. Maps of Ancient Buddhist India (<https://www.ancient-buddhist-texts.net/Maps/Maps-of-Buddhist-Asia.pdf>). Revised May 2013.

Bailey, D. R. Shackleton. The Śatapañcāśatka of Māṭṛceṭa. Cambridge University Press, 1951.

Banerjea, Jitendra Nath. "The 'Webbed Fingers' of Buddha." The Indian Historical Quarterly 6, no. 4 (December 1930): 717–27.

Bernhard, Franz, ed. Udānavārga. Abhandlungen Der Akademie Der Wissenschaften. Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1965.

Bhattacharya, Gouriswar. "Nandipada or Nandyāvarta—The 'ω -motif.'" Berliner Indologische Studien 13/14 (2000): 265–72.

Bodhi, Bikkhu. In the Buddha's Words. Somerville, MA: Wisdom Publications, 2005.

- Braarvig, Jens, ed. and trans. Akṣayamatīnirdeśasūtra. Oslo: Solum Forlag, 1993.
- Braarvig, Jens, and David Welsh, trans. The Teaching of Akṣayamati (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh175.html>) (Akṣayamatīnirdeśa, Toh 175). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2020.
- Brough, John. "The Arapacana Syllabary in the Old Lalitavistara." Bulletin of the School of Oriental and African Studies 40 (1977): 85–95.
- Brunnhözl, Karl (2011a). Prajñāpāramitā, Indian "gzhan stong pas," and the Beginning of Tibetan gzhan stong. Vienna: Arbeitskreis für Tibetische und Buddhistische Studien, 2011.
- (2011b). Gone Beyond. Ithaca, NY: Snow Lion Publications, 2011.
- Bucknell, Roderick S. "The Structure of the Sagātha-Vagga of the Samyutta-Nikāya." Buddhist Studies Review 24, no. 1 (2007): 7–34.
- Burchardi, Anne, trans. The Teaching on the Great Compassion of the Tathāgata (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh147.html>) (Tathāgatamahākaraṇīrdeśa, Toh 147). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2020.
- Candra, Lokesh. Tibetan Sanskrit Dictionary. Śata-piṭaka Series Indo-Asian Literature 3. International Academy of Indian Culture, 1959–61. Reprint, 2001.
- Chimpa, Lama, and Alaka Chattopadhyaya. Tāranātha's History of Buddhism in India. Delhi: Motilal Banarsidass, 1997.
- Chodron, Gelongma Karma Migme (no date). Mahāyānaśaṅgraha (La Somme du Grand Véhicule d'Asaṅga) by Étienne Lamotte. Vol. 2, Translation and Commentary. Gampo Abbey, Nova Scotia, n.d. English translation of Lamotte 1938.
- (2001). The Treatise on the Great Virtue of Wisdom of Nāgārjuna. Gampo Abbey, Nova Scotia, 2001. English translation of Lamotte 1949–80.
- Conze, Edward, ed. (no date). Ms. Cambridge Add. 1628 (abhisamayālaṅkāra, pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā) with various additions. Photocopy of typed manuscript.
- (1984). The Large Sutra on Perfection Wisdom. Berkeley: University of California Press, 1975. First paperback printing, 1984.
- (1978). The Prajñāpāramitā Literature. Tokyo: The Reiyukai, 1978.
- (1973a). Materials for a Dictionary of the Prajñāpāramitā Literature. Tokyo: Suzuki Research Foundation, 1973.
- (1973b). The Perfection of Wisdom in Eight Thousand Lines & Its Verse Summary. Bolinas, CA: Four Seasons Foundation, 1973.

- , ed. and trans. (1962). The Gilgit Manuscript of the Aṣṭādaśa-sāhasrikā-prajñāpāramitā: Chapters 55 to 70 Corresponding to the 5th Abhisamaya. Rome: Istituto Italiano per il Medio ed Estremo Oriente, 1962.
- , ed. (1954). Abhisamayālaṅkāra. Serie Orientale Roma 6. Rome: Is.M.E.O., 1954.
- Conze, Edward, and Shotaro Iida. “ ‘Maitreya’s Questions’ in the Prajñāpāramitā.” In Mélanges d’India a la Mémoire de Louis Renou, 229–42. Paris: Éditions E. de Boccard, 1968.
- Critical Pāli Dictionary Online* (<https://cpd.uni-koeln.de>). University of Cologne. Accessed 24 February, 2022.
- Das, Sarat Candra. Tibetan–English Dictionary. Calcutta, 1902. Reprint, New Delhi: 1985.
- de Jong, J. W. Nāgārjuna, Mūlamadhyamakakārikāḥ. Madras, India: Adyar Library and Research Centre, 1977.
- Dharmachakra Translation Committee, trans. (2013). The Play in Full (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh95.html>) (Lalitavistara, Toh 95). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2013.
- , trans. (2020a). The Application of Mindfulness of the Sacred Dharma (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh287.html>) (Saddharmasmṛtyupasthāna, Toh 287). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2020.
- , trans. (2020b). The Questions of Sāgaramati (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh152.html>) (Sāgaramatipariṣcchā, Toh 152). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2020.
- , trans. (2022). The Heart of the Perfection of Wisdom, the Blessed Mother (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh21.html>) (Bhagavatīprajñāpāramitāhṛdaya, Toh 21). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2022.
- Dorje, Gyurme. The Transcendent Perfection of Wisdom in Ten Thousand Lines (<http://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html>). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2018.
- Dutt, Nalinaksha. Pañcaviṃśati-sāhasrikā Prajñā-pāramitā. Calcutta Oriental Series 28. London: Luzac, 1934. Reprint, Delhi: Sri Satguru Publications, 1986.
- Edgerton, F. Buddhist Hybrid Sanskrit Dictionary. New Haven: Yale University Press, 1953.
- Encyclopaedia Iranica* (<http://www.iranicaonline.org>). Accessed 24 February 2022.

- Fiordalis, David. and Dharmachakra Translation Committee, trans. The Secrets of the Realized Ones (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh47.html>) (Toh 47). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2023.
- Goldstein, Melvyn. A New Tibetan English Dictionary of Modern Tibetan. University of California Press, 2001.
- Ghoṣa, Pratāpachandra, ed. Śatasāhasrikā Prajñāpāramitā. Calcutta: Asiatic Society of Bengal, 1902–14.
- Griffiths, Paul J. “Omniscience in the Mahāyānasūtrālaṅkāra and Its Commentaries.” Indo-Iranian Journal 33 (1990): 85–120, 1990.
- Harrison, Paul. “Vajracchedikā Prajñāpāramitā: A New English Translation of the Sanskrit Text Based on Two Manuscripts from Greater Gandhāra.” In Manuscripts in the Schøyen Collection, edited by Jens Braavig et al. Oslo: Hermes Publishing, 2006. Available at Bibliotheca Polyglotta (<https://www2.hf.uio.no/polyglotta/index.php?page=volume&vid=1133>). University of Oslo. Accessed 24 February 2002.
- Harrison, Paul, and Shōgo Watanabe. “Vajracchedikā Prajñāpāramitā.” In Manuscripts in the Schøyen Collection, edited by Jens Braavig et al. Oslo: Hermes Publishing, 2006. Available at Bibliotheca Polyglotta (<https://www2.hf.uio.no/polyglotta/index.php?page=volume&vid=1133>). University of Oslo. Accessed 24 February 2002.
- Harvey, P. “The Dynamics of Paritta Chanting in Southern Buddhism.” In Love Divine: Studies in Bhakti and Devotional Mysticism, edited by K. Werner, 53–84. London: Curzon Press, 1993.
- Herrmann-Pfandt, Adelheid. Die lHan kar ma : ein früher Katalog der ins Tibetische übersetzten buddhistischen Texte. Kritische Neuausgabe mit Einleitung und Materialien. Vienna: Verlag der Österreichischen Akademie der Wissenschaften, 2008.
- Honda, Megumu. “Annotated Translation of the Daśabhūmika-sūtra.” In Studies in South, East, and Central Asia, 115–276. Delhi: International Academy of Indian Culture, 1968.
- Ishihama, Yumiko, and Yoichi Fukuda, eds. A New Critical Edition of the Mahāvīyutpatti. Studia Tibetica 16. Tokyo: The Toyo Bunko, 1989.
- Jaini, P. S. Sāratamā: A Pañjikā on the Abhisamayālaṅkāra by Ācārya Ratnākaraśānti. Tibetan Sanskrit Works Series 18. Patna: Kashi Prasad Jayaswal Research Institute, 1972.
- Jäschke, H. A. A Tibetan–English Dictionary. London: 1881. Reprint, Dover Publications, 2003.

- Johnston, E. H., ed. (1950). The Ratnagotravibhāga Mahāyānottaratantraśāstra. Patna: Bihar Research Society, 1950.
- (1932). “Vardhamāna and Śrīvasta.” Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society 64, no. 2 (April 1932): 393–98.
- Kano, Kazuo, and Xuezhu Li (2014). “Critical Edition and Japanese Translation and Critical Edition of the Saṃskrit text of the Munimatālaṃkāra Chapter 1: Ekayāna Portion (fol. 67v2–70r4); Parallel Passages in the Madhyamakāloka.” The Mikkyo Bunka [Journal of Esoteric Buddhism] 232 (March 2014): 138–103 [7–42].
- (2012). “Annotated Japanese Translation and Critical Edition of the Saṃskrit text of the Munimatālaṃkāra Chapter 1: Opening Portion.” The Mikkyo Bunka [Journal of Esoteric Buddhism] 229 (December 2012): 64–37 [59–86].
- Karashima, Seishi. Introduction to Manuscripts in the National Archives of India Facsimile Edition Volume II.1 Mahāyāna Texts: Prajñāpāramitā Texts (1). Edited by Seishi Karashima et al. New Delhi: International Research Institute for Advanced Buddhology, 2016.
- Kern, Hendrik (1896). Manual of Indian Buddhism. Grundriss der Indoarischen Philologie und Altertumskunde 3.8. Strassburg: Trübner, 1896.
- , trans. (1884). The Saddharma-puṇḍarīka, or Lotus of the True Law. Oxford: Clarendon, 1884. Available at Internet Sacred Text Archive (<https://www.sacred-texts.com/bud/lotus/lot01.htm>). Accessed 24 February 2022.
- Kimura, Takayasu, ed. Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikā Prajñāpāramitā. GRETIL edition input by Klaus Wille (Göttingen). Tokyo: Sankibo Busshorin, 2007–9 (1-1, 1-2 (http://gretil.sub.uni-goettingen.de/gretil/corpustei/transformations/html/sa\_paJcaviMzatisAhasrikA-prajApAramitA1-8.htm)), 1986 (2-3 (http://gretil.sub.uni-goettingen.de/gretil/1\_sansk/4\_rellit/buddh/psp\_2-3u.htm)), 1990 (4 (http://gretil.sub.uni-goettingen.de/gretil/1\_sansk/4\_rellit/buddh/psp\_4u.htm)), 1992 (5 (http://gretil.sub.uni-goettingen.de/gretil/1\_sansk/4\_rellit/buddh/psp\_5u.htm)), 2006 (6-8 (http://gretil.sub.uni-goettingen.de/gretil/1\_sansk/4\_rellit/buddh/psp\_6-8u.htm)).
- , ed. (2009–14). Śatasāhasrikā Prajñāpāramitā. GRETIL edition input by Klaus Wille (Göttingen). Tokyo: Sankibo Busshorin, 2009 (II-1 (

- goettingen.de/gretil/corpuستي/transformations/html/sa\_zatasAhasrikA-prajApAramitA-2.htm), 2010 (II-2 (http://gretil.sub.uni-goettingen.de/gretil/1\_sanskr/4\_rellit/buddh/sspp2\_2u.htm), II-3 (http://gretil.sub.uni-goettingen.de/gretil/1\_sanskr/4\_rellit/buddh/sspp2\_3u.htm), 2014 (II-4 (http://gretil.sub.uni-goettingen.de/gretil/1\_sanskr/4\_rellit/buddh/sspp2\_4u.htm)).
- Jaini, P. S. Sāratamā: A Pañjikā on the Abhisamayālaṅkāra by Ācārya Ratnākaraśānti. Tibetan Sanskrit Works 18. Patna: Kashi Prasad Jayaswal Research Institute, 1972.
- Lamotte, Étienne. (1938). La Somme du grand véhicule d'Asaṅga. 2 vols. Publications de l'Institut Orientaliste de Louvain, 8. Louvain: Université de Louvain; reprint, 1973.
- (1949–80). Le Traité de la Grande Vertu de Sagesse de Nāgārjuna (Mahāprajñāpāramitā-śāstra). Vol. I and II: Bibliothèque du Muséon, 18. Louvain: Institut Orientaliste, 1949; reprinted 1967. Vol III, IV and V: Publications de l'Institut Orientaliste de Louvain, 2, 12, and 24. Louvain: Institut Orientaliste, 1970, 1976, and 1980.
- la Vallée Poussin, Louis de. L'Abhidharmakośa de Vasubandhu. 6 vols. Brussels: Institut Belge des Hautes Études Chinoises, 1971.
- Law, B. C. Historical Geography of Ancient India. Paris: Société Asiatique de Paris, 1954.
- Lee, Youngjin, ed. (2017a) Critical Edition of the First Abhisamaya of the Commentary on the Prajñāpāramitā Sūtra in 25,000 Lines by Ārya-Vimuktiṣeṇa, Based on Two Sanskrit Manuscripts Preserved in Nepal and Tibet. Manuscripta Buddhica 3. Napoli: Università Degli Studi di Napoli "L'Orientale," 2017.
- (2017b) "On Two Sanskrit Manuscripts of Ārya Vimuktiṣeṇa's Commentary on the Abhisamayālaṅkāra." In Śrāvakahūmi and Buddhist Manuscripts, edited by Seongcheol Kim and Jundo Nagashima, 209–33. Tokyo: Nombro, 2017.
- (n.d.). "Traditional Commentaries on the Larger Prajñāpāramitā." n.d.
- Lévi, Sylvain. Mahāyānasūtrālaṅkāra, exposé de la doctrine du grand véhicule selon le système Yogācāra. 2 vols. Paris: Bibliothèque de l'École des Hautes Études, 1907; reprint, vol. 1, Shanghai: 1940.
- Malalasekera, G. P. Dictionary of Pāli Proper Names. Vols. 1 and 2. London: John Murray, 1937–38.

- Martin, Dan. "Tibetan Vocabulary." THL Tibetan to English Translation Tool (<http://www.thlib.org/reference/dictionaries/tibetan-dictionary/translate.php>). Version April 14, 2003.
- McKay, Alex. Kailas Histories: Renunciate Traditions and the Construction of Himalayan Sacred Geography. Brill's Tibetan Studies Library 38. Leiden: Brill, 2015.
- McKlintock, Sarah. "Omniscience and the Rhetoric of Reason in the Tattvasaṃgraha and the Tattvasaṃgrahapañjikā." PhD diss., Harvard University, 2002.
- Mitra, Rājendralāla. Ashṭasāhasrikā. Calcutta: Baptist Mission Press, 1888.
- Monier-Williams, M. A Sanskrit-English Dictionary: Etymologically and Philologically Arranged with special reference to Cognate Indo-European Languages. Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1899.
- Nattier, Jan. Once Upon a Future Time: Studies in a Buddhist Prophecy of Decline. Berkeley: Asian Humanities Press, 1999.
- Nagao, Gadjin M., ed. Madhyāntavibhāṅgabhāṣya. Tokyo: Suzuki Research Foundation, 1964.
- Nakamura, Hōdō. "Ārya-Vimuktisena's Abhisamayālaṅkāravṛtti, the Earliest Commentary on the Abhisamayālaṅkāra: A Critical Edition and a Translation of the Chapters Five to Eight with an Introduction and Critical Notes." PhD diss., Universität Hamburg, 2014.
- Ñāṇamoli, Bikkhu, trans. Visuddhimagga (The Path of Purification: Visuddhimagga Bhadantacariya Buddhaghosa). Colombo, Ceylon: R. Semage, 1956; Berkeley: Shambala Publications, 1976.
- Nanjio, Bunyiu, ed. Laṅkāvatāra Sūtra. Bibliotheca Otaniensis 1. Kyoto: Otani University Press, 1923.
- . A Catalogue of the Chinese Translation of the Buddhist Tripiṭaka: The Sacred Canon of the Buddhists in China and Japan.. Oxford: Clarendon Press, 1883.
- Norwegian Institute of Palaeography and Historical Philology, trans. The Collected Teachings on the Bodhisatva (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh56.html>) (Toh 56). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2023.
- Obermiller, E. (1960). Ed. Prajñā-pāramitā-ratna-guṇa-saṃcaya-gāthā. (Bibliotheca Buddhica 29, Leningrad 1937) reprint edition, Indo-Iranian Reprints, 's-Gravenhage: Mouton and Co., 1960.
- (1932–33). "The Doctrine of Prajñāpāramitā as Exposed in the Abhisamayālaṅkāra of Maitreya." Acta Orientalia 9: 1–33.

- Padmakara Translation Group, trans. (2018). The Transcendent Perfection of Wisdom in Ten Thousand Lines (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh11.html>) (Daśasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā, Toh 11). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2018.
- , trans. (2023). The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-five Thousand Lines (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html>) (Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā, Toh 9). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2023.
- Pensa, Corrado. L'Abhisamayālamkāravṛtti di Ārya-Vimuktisena: primo Abhisamaya; testo e note critiche [a cura di] Corrado Pensa. Rome: Istituto Italiano per il Medio ed Estremo Oriente, 1967.
- Pruden, Leo M. Abhidharmakośabhāṣyam. 4 vols. Berkeley: Asian Humanities Press, 1988. English translation of la Vallée Poussin 1971.
- Rahder, Johannes. Dasabhumikasutra et Bodhisattvabhūmi, publiés avec une introduction et des notes. Paris, 1926.
- Régamey, Konstanty. Philosophy in the Samādhiraśasutra. Delhi: Motilal Banarsidass, 1990.
- Rhys Davids, T. W., and C. A. F. Rhys Davids. Dialogues of the Buddha Part II. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1910.
- Roberts, Peter Alan, trans. (2021). The Ten Bhūmis (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh44-31.html>) (Daśabhūmika, Toh 44-31). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2021.
- , trans. (2018). The White Lotus of the Good Dharma (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh113.html>) (Saddharmapuṇḍarīka, Toh 113). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2018.
- , trans. (2013). The Basket's Display (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh116.html>) (Kāraṇḍavyūha, Toh 116). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2013.
- Saloman, Richard. "New Evidence for a Gāndhārī Origin of the Arapacana Syllabary." Journal of the American Oriental Society 110 (April–June 1990): 255–73.
- Sánchez, Pedro Manuel Castro. "The Indian Buddhist Dāraṇī: An Introduction to its History, Meanings and Functions." MA diss, University of Sunderland, 2011.
- Schopen, G. "The Manuscript of the Vajracchedikā Found at Gilgit." In Studies in the Literature of the Great Vehicle, Three Mahāyāna Buddhist Texts, edited by L. O. Gomez and J. A. Silk, 89–141. Ann Arbor: University of Michigan, 1989.

- Seton, Gregory Max. "Defining Wisdom: Ratnākaraśānti's Sāratamā." PhD diss., Oxford University, 2015.
- Shastri, Swami Dwarikadas, ed. Abhidharmakośa and Bhāṣya of Ācārya Vasubandhu with Sphuṭārtha Commentary of Ācārya Yaśomitra. Bauddha Bharati Series 5. Banaras: Bauddha Bharati, 1970.
- Sparham, Gareth (2008–13). Golden Garland of Eloquence: legs bshad gser phreng. 4 vols. Fremont, CA: Jain Publishing Company, 2008–13.
- (2006–11). Abhisamayālaṅkāra with Vṛtti and Ālokā. 4 vols. Fremont, CA: Jain Publication Company, 2006–11.
- , trans. (2022). The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh3808.html>) (**Āryaśatasāhasrikāpañcaviṃśatisāhasrikāṣṭādaśasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitābṛhaṭṭīkā*, Toh 3808). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2022.
- , trans. (2024). The Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand Lines (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh8.html>) (Śatasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā, Toh 8). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2024.
- Stein, R. A. La civilization tibétaine. Paris: Dunod, 1962. English translation by J. E. S. Driver. Tibetan Civilization. Stanford: Stanford University Press, 1972.
- Suzuki, D. T. The Lankavatara Sutra. London: George Routledge and Sons, 1932.
- Thurman, Robert A. F., trans. The Teaching of Vimalakīrti (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh176.html>) (Vimalakīrtinirdeśa, Toh 176). 84000: Translating the Words of the Buddha, 2017.
- Thurman, Robert et al. The Universal Vehicle Discourse Literature. New York: American Institute of Buddhist Studies, 2004.
- Tournadre, N. "The Classical Tibetan Cases." Himalayan Linguistics 9, no. 2 (2010): 87–125.
- Tucci, Giuseppe. Minor Buddhist Texts, Part 1. Serie Orientale Roma 9. Rome: IsMeo, 1956.
- Ui, Hakuju et al, eds. A Complete Catalogue of the Tibetan Buddhist Canons (bkaḥ-ḥgyur and bstan-ḥgyur). Sendai: Tōhoku Imperial University, 1934.
- Vaidya, P. L., ed. Lalitavistara. Darbhanga: Mithila Institute, 1958.
- van der Kuijp, Leonard W. J. "Some Remarks on the Textual Transmission and Text of Bu ston rin chen grub's Chos 'byung, a Chronicle of Buddhism in India and Tibet." Revue d'Etudes Tibétaines 25 (April 2013): 115–93.

- Vetter, Tilmann. "Compounds in the Prologue of the Pañcaviṃśatisāhasrikā," Wiener Zeitschrift für die Kunde Südasiens 37 (1993): 45–92.
- Vira, Raghu, and Lokesh Chandra. Gilgit Buddhist Manuscripts, vol. 1. Bibliotheca Indo-Buddhica 150. Delhi: Sri Satguru Publications, 1995.
- Vogel, J. Indian Serpent Lore or the Nāgas in Hindu Legend and Art. London: Arthur Probsthain, 1926.
- Whitney, William Dwight. A Sanskrit Grammar. London: Trübner, 1879.
- Wogihara, Unrai, ed. Abhisamayālaṅkāralokā Prajñāpāramitā Vyākhyā: The Work of Haribhadra. Tokyo: The Toyo Bunko, 1932–35. Reprint, Tokyo: Sankibo Buddhist Book Store, 1973.
- Yuyama, Akira (1992). "Pañcāśati-, '500' or '50'? With Special Reference to the Lotus Sutra." In The Dating of the Historical Buddha[Die Datierung des Historischen Buddha], edited by Heinz Bechert, 2:208–33. . Göttingen: Vandenhoeck & Ruprecht, 1992.
- (1976). Prajñā-pāramitā-ratna-guṇa-saṃcaya-gāthā (Sanskrit Recension A). Cambridge University Press, 1976.
- Zacchetti, Stefano (2014). "Mind the Hermeneutical Gap: A Terminological Issue in Kumārajīva's Version of the Diamond Sutra" In Chinese Buddhism: Past, Present and Future, edited by D Xie, 157–94. N.p.: n.p., 1976.
- (2005). In Praise of the Light. Bibliotheca Philologica et Philosophica Buddhica 8. Tokyo: Soka University, 2005.
- Zimmermann, Michael. A Buddha Within: The Tathāgatarbhasūtra: The Earliest Exposition of the Buddha-Nature Teaching in India. Tokyo: Soka University, 2002. Available from Bibliotheca Polyglotta (<http://polyglotta.no/index.php?page=volume&vid=53>). Input 2010.
- Zhang, Yisun, ed. bod rgya tshig mdzod chen mo. Beijing: mi rigs dpe skrun khang, 2000.

GLOSSARY

· Types of attestation for names and terms of the corresponding · source language

AS	Attested in source text This term is attested in a manuscript used as a source for this translation.
AO	Attested in other text This term is attested in other manuscripts with a parallel or similar context.
AD	Attested in dictionary This term is attested in dictionaries matching Tibetan to the corresponding language.
AA	Approximate attestation The attestation of this name is approximate. It is based on other names where the relationship between the Tibetan and source language is attested in dictionaries or other manuscripts.
RP	Reconstruction from Tibetan phonetic rendering This term is a reconstruction based on the Tibetan phonetic rendering of the term.
RS	Reconstruction from Tibetan semantic rendering This term is a reconstruction based on the semantics of the Tibetan translation.
SU	Source unspecified This term has been supplied from an unspecified source, which most often is a widely trusted dictionary.

g.1 a hundred thousand one hundred million world systems

'jig rten gyi khams bye ba phrag 'bum

འཇིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ཁམས་བྱེ་བ་ཕྱག་འབུམ། koṭīśatasahasralokadhātu

g.2 abandonment element

spong ba'i dbyings

སྤྲོང་བའི་དབྱིངས། prahāṇadhātu

g.3 abdhātvaparyanta

chu'i khams mu med pa

ཚུའི་ཁམས་སུ་མེད་པ།

abdhātvaparyanta

Lit. “limitless water element.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.4 Ābhāsvara

'od gsal

འོད་གསལ།

ābhāsvara

The head of the Ābhāsvara gods.

g.5 Ābhāsvara

'od gsal

འོད་གསལ།

ābhāsvara

Lit. “Clear Light.” The sixth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the third of the three heavens that correspond to the second of the four concentrations.

g.6 abhijñābalavaiśāradyaaprāpta

mngon par shes pa dang / stobs dang / mi 'jigs pa thob pa

མངོན་པར་ཤེས་པ་དང་། ལྷོབས་དང་། མི་འཇིགས་པ་ཐོབ་པ། abhijñābalavaiśāradyaaprāpta

Lit. “from which the clairvoyances, powers, and fearlessnesses are gained.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.7 Abhimukhī

mngon du gyur pa

མངོན་དུ་གྱུར་པ།

abhimukhī

Lit. "Directly Witnessed." The sixth level of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas. See "ten bodhisattva levels."

g.8 Abhirati

mngon par dga' ba

མངོན་པར་དགའ་བ།

abhirati

Lit. "Intense Delight." The realm of the buddha Akṣobhya.

g.9 abiding in the correct practice of wisdom

shes rab kyi spyod pa la gnas pa

ཤེས་རབ་ཀྱི་སྦྱོང་པ་ལ་གནས་པ། **prajñāpracāro bhavati* <sup>RS</sup>

g.10 absence of an existing thing

dngos po med pa

དངོས་པོ་མེད་པ།

abhāva

g.11 absence of an intrinsic nature

ngo bo nyid med pa

ངོ་བོ་ཉིད་མེད་པ། niḥsvabhāvatā

g.12 absence of annihilation

chad pa med pa

ཆད་པ་མེད་པ། anuccheda

g.13 absence of appearing

'byung ba med pa

འབྱུང་བ་མེད་པ། apradūrbhāva

g.14 absence of being apprehended

dmigs su med pa

དམིགས་སུ་མེད་པ།

anupalambha

g.15 absence of being taken away from and the absence of being added to dbri ba med pa dang bsnan pa med pa

དབྱིབས་མེད་པ་དང་བསྐྱུ་བ་མེད་པ། anuddhārāpratyuddhāra

g.16 absence of coming

'ong ba med pa

འོང་བ་མེད་པ། anāgamana

g.17 absence of defilement

kun nas nyon mongs pa med pa · kun nas nyon mongs pa ma mchis pa

ཀུན་ནས་ཉོན་མོངས་པ་མེད་པ། · ཀུན་ནས་ཉོན་མོངས་པ་མ་མཆིས་པ། asaṃkleśa

g.18 absence of difference

don tha dad pa ma yin pa

དོན་ཐ་དད་པ་མ་ཡིན་པ། anānārtha

g.19 absence of going

'gro ba med pa

འགྲོ་བ་མེད་པ། agamana

g.20 absence of going on and on forever

rtag pa med pa

རྟག་པ་མེད་པ།

aśāśvata

g.21 absence of occasioning anything

mngon par 'du byed pa med pa · mngon par 'du bya ba med pa

· mngon par 'du bgyi ba ma mchis pa

མངོན་པར་འདུ་བྱེད་པ་མེད་པ། · མངོན་པར་འདུ་བྱ་བ་མེད་པ། · མངོན་པར་འདུ་བཞི་བ་མ་མཆིས་པ། anabhisaṃskāra

g.22 absence of production
skye ba med pa · skye ba ma mchis pa

སྐྱེ་བ་མེད་པ། · སྐྱེ་བ་མ་མཚེས་པ། anutpāda

g.23 absence of purification rnam par byang ba med pa · rnam par byang ba ma mchis pa

རྣམ་པར་བྱང་བ་མེད་པ། · རྣམ་པར་བྱང་བ་མ་མཚེས་པ། avyavadāna

g.24 absence of stopping
'gag pa med pa

འགག་པ་མེད་པ། anirodha

g.25 absence of unity
don gcig pa ma yin pa

དོན་གཅིག་པ་མ་ཡིན་པ། anekārtha

g.26 absolutely with certainty
gcig tu nges par gtan du

གཅིག་ཏུ་ངེས་པར་གཏན་དུ། ekāntātyantikī

g.27 absorption
snyoms par 'jug pa

སྟོམས་པར་འཇུག་པ།
samāpatti

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Sanskrit literally means “attainment,” and is used to refer specifically to meditative attainment and to particular meditative states. The Tibetan translators interpreted it as sama-āpatti, which suggests the idea of “equal” or “level”; however, they also parsed it as sam-āpatti, in which case it would have the sense of “concentration” or “absorption,” much like samādhi, but with the added sense of “attainment.”

g.28 absorptions

snyoms par 'jug pa

སྣོམས་པར་འཇུག་པ།

samāpatti

May refer to the “four formless absorptions” and/or the “nine serial absorptions.”

g.29 acala

g.yo ba med pa

གཡོ་བ་མེད་པ།

acala

Lit. “Unmoving.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.30 Acalā

mi g.yo ba

མི་གཡོ་བ།

acalā

Lit. “Immovable.” The eighth level of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas. See “ten bodhisattva levels.”

g.31 accompanied mtshungs par ldan

མཚུངས་པར་ལྷན། saṃprayukta

g.32 accomplish and dwell in

bsgrubs te gnas

བསྐྱབས་ཏེ་གནས།

upasampadya vihr

g.33 accomplishing the letters

yi ge sgrub pa

ཡི་གེ་སྐྱབ་པ།

akṣarābhinirhāra

g.34 account

de lta bu byung ba

དེལ་བུ་བྱུང་བ།

itivr̥ttaka

Accounts of the lives of past buddhas and bodhisattvas. Literally “thus it has happened.” One of the twelve aspects of the wheel of Dharma.

g.35 act of worship

mchod pa

མཚོད་པ།

pūjā

g.36 actualize the very limit of reality

yang dag pa'i mtha' mngon sum du byed

ཡང་དག་པའི་མཐའ་མངོན་སུམ་དུ་བྱེད། bhūtakoṭiṃ sākṣātkr

g.37 acyutābhijñā

mngon par shes pa mi nyams pa

མངོན་པར་ཤེས་པ་མི་ཉམས་པ།

acyutābhijñā

Lit. “undying clairvoyant knowledge.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.38 ādarśamaṇḍalapratibhāsanirhāra me long gi dkyil 'khor snang ba sgrub pa

མེ་ལོང་གི་དཀྱིལ་འཁོར་སྒྲུབ་པ། ādarśamaṇḍalapratibhāsanirhāra

Lit. “that produces appearances [as if] on the surface of a mirror.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.39 ādhāramudrā

phyag rgya yongs su 'dzin pa

ཕྱག་རྒྱ་ཡོངས་སུ་འཛིན་པ། ādhāramudrā

Lit. “fully held seal.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.40 adhivacanapraveśa

tshig bla dags la 'jug pa

ཚིག་བླ་དགས་ལ་འཇུག་པ།

adhivacanapraveśa

Lit. “entry into words.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.41 adhivacanasampraveśa

tshig bla dags la yang dag par 'jug pa

ཚིག་སྒྲ་དགས་ལ་ཡང་དག་པར་འཇུག་པ།

adhivacanasampraveśa

Lit. “entry into words.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.42 admiration

mos pa

མོས་པ།

adhimukti

g.43 afflicted

nyon mongs pa dang bcas pa

ཉོན་མོངས་པ་དང་བཅས་པ།

saṃkleśa

g.44 affliction

nyon mongs pa

ཉོན་མོངས་པ།

kleśa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The essentially pure nature of mind is obscured and afflicted by various psychological defilements, which destroy the mind’s peace and composure and lead to unwholesome deeds of body, speech, and mind, acting as causes for continued existence in saṃsāra. Included among them are the primary afflictions of desire (rāga), anger (dveṣa), and ignorance (avidyā). It is said that there are eighty-four thousand of these negative mental qualities, for which the eighty-four thousand categories of the Buddha’s teachings serve as the antidote.

Kleśa is also commonly translated as “negative emotions,” “disturbing emotions,” and so on. The Pāli kilesa, Middle Indic kileśa, and Buddhist Hybrid Sanskrit kleśa all primarily mean “stain” or “defilement.” The translation “affliction” is a secondary development that derives from the more general (non-Buddhist) classical understanding of  $\sqrt{\text{kliś}}$  (“to harm,” “to afflict”). Both meanings are noted by Buddhist commentators.

In this text:

Also rendered here as afflictive emotion.

g.45 afflictive emotion

nyon mongs pa

ཉོན་མོངས་པ།

kleśa

See “affliction.”

g.46 aggregate

phung po

ཕུང་པོ།

skandha

Lit. a “heap” or “pile.” The five aggregates of form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness. On the individual level the five aggregates refer to the basis upon which the mistaken idea of a self is projected.

However, in this text, five pure or uncontaminated aggregates are also listed, namely: the aggregate of morality, the aggregate of meditative stabilization, the aggregate of wisdom, the aggregate of liberation, and the aggregate of knowledge and seeing of liberation.

g.47 aggregate of knowledge and seeing of liberation

rnam par grol ba'i ye shes mthong ba'i phung po

རྣམ་པར་གྲོལ་བའི་ཡེ་ཤེས་མཐོང་བའི་ཕུང་པོ།

vimuktijñānadarśanaskandha

One of the five uncontaminated aggregates.

g.48 aggregate of liberation

rnam par grol ba'i phung po

རྣམ་པར་གྲོལ་བའི་ཕུང་པོ།

vimuktiskandha

One of the five uncontaminated aggregates.

g.49 aggregate of meditative stabilization ting nge 'dzin gyi phung po

ཉིང་ངེ་འཛིན་གྱི་ཕུང་པོ།

samādhiskandha

One of the five uncontaminated aggregates.

g.50 aggregate of morality

tshul khrims kyi phung po

ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས་ཀྱི་ཕུང་པོ། śīlaskandha

One of the five uncontaminated aggregates.

g.51 aggregate of wisdom

shes rab kyi phung po

ཤེས་རབ་ཀྱི་ཕུང་པོ། prajñāskandha

One of the five uncontaminated aggregates.

g.52 ajeya

mi pham pa

མི་ཕམ་པ།

ajeya

Lit. "unconquerable." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.53 Akaniṣṭha

'og min

འོག་མིན།

akaniṣṭha

Lit. "Not Below." The highest of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the fifth of the five Pure Abodes.

g.54 ākārabhinirhāra

rnam pa mngon par sgrub pa

རྣམ་པ་མངོན་པར་སྐྱབ་པ།

ākārabhinirhāra

Lit. "accomplishing aspects." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.55 ākāranavakāra

rnam pa dor ba med pa

རྣམ་པ་དྲོས་བ་མེད་པ།

ākārānavakāra

Lit. “not forsaking any aspect.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.56 ākāśadhātvaparyanta nam mkha' i khams mu med pa

རྣམ་མཁའི་ཁམས་སྲུ་མེད་པ།

ākāśadhātvaparyanta

Lit. “limitless space element.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.57 ākāśaṣaṅgavimuktinirupalepa nam mkha' ltar chags pa med pas rnam par grol zhing gos pa med pa

རྣམ་མཁའ་ལྟར་ཚགས་པ་མེད་པས་རྣམ་པར་གྲོལ་ཞིང་གོས་པ་མེད་པ།

ākāśaṣaṅgavimuktinirupalepa

Lit. “unattached, liberated, and uncovered like space.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.58 ākāśaspharaṇa

nam mkha' khyab par byed pa

རྣམ་མཁའ་ལྲབ་པར་བྱེད་པ།

ākāśaspharaṇa

Lit. “pervading space.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.59 ākāśāvasthita

nam mkha' i gnas la gnas pa

རྣམ་མཁའི་གནས་ལ་གནས་པ།

ākāśāvasthita

Lit. “abiding in space.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.60 akṣarāpagata

yi ge dang bral ba

ཡི་གེ་དང་བྲལ་བ།

akṣarāpagata · akṣarāgata

Lit. “without syllables.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.61 akṣaya

zad mi shes pa

ཟད་མི་ཤེས་པ།

akṣaya

Lit. “inexhaustible.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.62 akṣayakarāṇḍa

zad mi shes pa'i za ma tog

ཟད་མི་ཤེས་པའི་བཟོ་མ་རྟོག།

akṣayakarāṇḍa

Lit. “inexhaustible basket.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.63 Akṣobhya

mi 'khrugs pa

མི་འཁྲུགས་པ།

akṣobhya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Lit. “Not Disturbed” or “Immovable One.” The buddha in the eastern realm of Abhirati. A well-known buddha in Mahāyāna, regarded in the higher tantras as the head of one of the five buddha families, the vajra family in the east.

g.64 all-knowing

thams cad mkhyen pa

ཐམས་ཅད་མཁྲིན་པ།

sarvajña

g.65 all-knowledge

thams cad mkhyen pa nyid · thams cad shes pa nyid

ཐམས་ཅད་མཁྲིན་པ་ཉིད། · ཐམས་ཅད་ཤེས་པ་ཉིད།

sarvajñatva

See “three types of omniscience.”

g.66 alms-food eater

bsod snyoms pa

བསོད་སྟོམས་པ། painḍapātika

g.67 ālokakara

snang ba byed pa

སྒྲོལ་བ་བྱེད་པ།

ālokakara

Lit. “light maker.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.68 ambition

bsam pa

བསམ་པ། abhiprāya

g.69 Amoghadarśin

mthong ba don yod

མཐོང་བ་དོན་ཡོད། amoghadarśin

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.70 anabhilakṣita

mngon par ma dmigs pa

མངོན་པར་མ་དམིགས་པ།

anabhilakṣita

Lit. “not distinguished.” Name of a meditative stabilization

g.71 Anabhrakā

sprin med

སྤྲིན་མེད།

anabhrakā

Lit. “Cloudless.” The tenth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the first of the three heavens that correspond to the fourth of the four concentrations.

g.72 Ānanda

kun dga' bo

ཀུན་དགའ་བོ།

ānanda

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A major śrāvaka disciple and personal attendant of the Buddha Śākyamuni during the last twenty-five years of his life. He was a cousin of the Buddha (according to the Mahāvastu, he was a son of Śuklodana, one of the brothers of King Śuddhodana, which means he was a brother of Devadatta; other sources say he was a son of Amṛtodana, another brother of King Śuddhodana, which means he would have been a brother of Aniruddha).

Ānanda, having always been in the Buddha's presence, is said to have memorized all the teachings he heard and is celebrated for having recited all the Buddha's teachings by memory at the first council of the Buddhist saṅgha, thus preserving the teachings after the Buddha's parinirvāṇa. The phrase "Thus did I hear at one time," found at the beginning of the sūtras, usually stands for his recitation of the teachings. He became a patriarch after the passing of Mahākāśyapa.

g.73 Anantamati
blo gros mtha' yas ལྷོ་གྲོས་མཐའ་ཡས། anantamati

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.74 anantaprabha
'od mtha' yas pa འོད་མཐའ་ཡས་པ། anantaprabha

Lit. "endless light." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.75 anantapratibhāna
spobs pa mtha' yas pa ལྷོ་བས་པ་མཐའ་ཡས་པ། anantapratibhāna

Lit. "endless confidence." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.76 Anantavīrya
brtson 'grus mtha' yas བརྩོན་འགྲུས་མཐའ་ཡས། anantavīrya

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.77 Anāvараṇamatin

blo gros sgrib med

སློབ་གྲོས་སྒྲིབ་མེད།

anāvaraṇamatin

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.78 anāvaraṇavimokṣaprāpta

sgrib pa med pa'i rnam par thar pa thob pa

སྒྲིབ་པ་མེད་པའི་རྣམ་པར་གར་པ་ཐོབ་པ།

anāvaraṇavimokṣaprāpta

Lit. “reached a freedom without obscuration.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.79 Anavatapta

ma dros pa

མ་དྲོས་པ།

anavatapta

See also n.872.

g.80 anāvilakṣānti

bzod pa rnyog pa med pa

བཟོད་པ་རྣམ་པ་མེད་པ།

anāvilakṣānti

Lit. “unblemished patience.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.81 aneṣa

tshol ba med pa

ཚོལ་བ་མེད་པ།

aneṣa · animiṣa

Lit. “not seeking.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

Edgerton says the correct form is aneṣa. Animiṣa usually means “unblinking,” but here it is a different form of aneṣa.

g.82 anger

khro ba

ཚྲོ་བ། krodha

- g.83     aniketacārī
gnas med par spyod pa གནས་མེད་པར་སྒྱུར་པ། aniketacārī
Lit. “homeless practice.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.84     aniketasthita
gnas la rten pa med pa · gnas la brten pa med pa གནས་ལ་རྟེན་པ་མེད་པ། · གནས་ལ་བརྟེན་པ་མེད་པ། aniketasthita
Lit. “not relying on a dwelling.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.85     Anikṣiptadhura
brtson pa mi gtong
བརྩོན་པ་མི་གཏོང་།
anikṣiptadhura
A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.
- g.86     anilambhaniketānirata
gnas la brten pa med pa la brtson pa གནས་ལ་བརྟེན་པ་མེད་པ་ལ་བརྩོན་པ། anilambhaniketānirata
Lit. “intent on not relying on a dwelling.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.87     āniñjya
mi g.yo ba མི་གཡོ་བ།
āniñjya
Lit. “immovable.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.88     Aniruddha
ma 'gags pa མ་འགགས་པ། aniruddha
Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Lit. “Unobstructed.” One of the ten great śrāvaka disciples, famed for his meditative prowess and superknowledges. He was the Buddha's cousin—a son of Amṛtodana, one of the brothers of King Śuddhodana—and is often mentioned along with his two brothers Bhadrīka and Mahānāma. Some sources also include Ānanda among his brothers.

g.89 annihilation

chad pa

ཚད་པ།

uccheda

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The extreme philosophical view that rejects rebirth and the law of karma by considering that causes (and thus actions) do not have effects and that the self, being the same as one or all of the aggregates (skandhas), ends at death. Commonly translated as “nihilism” or, more literally, as “view of annihilation.” It is often mentioned along with its opposite view, the extreme of eternalism or permanence.

g.90 antithetical to all worlds

'jig rten thams cad dang mi 'thun pa

འཇིག་རྟེན་ཐམས་ཅད་དང་མི་འགྲུན་པ།

sarvalokavipratyanika

Also translated as “counterpoint to all that is ordinary.”

g.91 Anupamamatin

blo gros dpe med

བློ་གྲོས་དཔེ་མེད།

anupamamatin

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.92 anurodhāpratirodha

'thun pa dang 'gal ba med pa · mthun pa dang 'gal ba med pa

འགྲུན་པ་དང་འགལ་བ་མེད་པ། · མཁྲུན་པ་དང་འགལ་བ་མེད་པ། anurodhāpratirodha

Lit. “not contrary to being in harmony.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.93 apparition

mig yor

མིག་ཡིད། pratibhāsa

g.94 application of mindfulness

dran pa nye bar gzhas pa

སྒྲུབ་པ་ཉེ་བར་གཞག་པ།

smṛtyupasthāna

See “four applications of mindfulness.”

g.95 applied mindfulness

dran pa nye bar gzhas pa

སྒྲུབ་པ་ཉེ་བར་གཞག་པ།

upasthitasmṛti

g.96 applied thought

rtog pa

རྟོག་པ།

vitarka

g.97 apprehend

dmigs

དམིགས།

—

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

dmigs (pa) translates a number of Sanskrit terms, including ālambana, upalabdhi, and ālambate. These terms commonly refer to the apprehending of a subject, an object, and the relationships that exist between them. The term may also be translated as “referentiality,” meaning a system based on the existence of referent objects, referent subjects, and the referential relationships that exist between them. As part of their doctrine of “threefold nonapprehending / nonreferentiality” (‘khor gsum mi dmigs pa), Mahāyāna Buddhists famously assert that all three categories of apprehending lack substantiality.

g.98 appropriated because of the maturation of karma

las kyi rnam par smin pas yongs su zin pa

ལས་ཀྱི་རྣམ་པར་སློན་པས་ཡོངས་སུ་བློན་པ། karmavipākaparigrhīta

g.99 appropriation len pa

ལེན་པ།

upādāna

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

This term, although commonly translated as “appropriation,” also means “grasping” or “clinging,” but it has a particular meaning as the ninth of the twelve links of dependent origination, situated between craving (tṛṣṇā, sred pa) and becoming or existence (bhava, srid pa). In some texts, four types of appropriation (upādāna) are listed: that of desire (rāga), view (dṛṣṭi), rules and observances as paramount (śīlavrataparāmarśa), and belief in a self (ātmanavāda).

g.100 aprakāra

rnam pa med pa

རྣམ་པ་མེད་པ།

aparakāra

Lit. “aspectless.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.101 Apramāṇābha

tshad med 'od

ཚད་མེད་འོད།

apramāṇābha

Lit. “Immeasurable Light.” The fifth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the second of the three heavens that correspond to the second of the four concentrations.

g.102 Apramāṇāsubha

tshad med dge

ཚད་མེད་དགེ།

apramāṇāsubha

Lit. “Immeasurable Virtue.” The eighth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the second of the three heavens that correspond to the third of the four concentrations.

- g.103 arajovirajonayayukta
rdul med cing rdul dang bral ba'i tshul dang ldan pa རྩུལ་མེད་ཅིང་རྩུལ་དང་བྲལ་བའི་ཚུལ་དང་ལྷན་པ། arajovirajonayayukta
 Lit. "endowed with a dustless mode free from dust." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.104 ārambanacchedaḥ
dmigs pa gcod pa དམིགས་པ་གཅོད་པ། ārambanacchedaḥ
 Lit. "objective support cut off." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.105 araṇasamavasaraṇa
nyon mongs par med pa yang dag par 'du ba ཉོན་མོངས་པར་མེད་པ་ཡང་དག་པར་འདུ་བ། araṇasamavasaraṇa
 Lit. "in which nonconflict comes together." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.106 araṇasaraṇasarvasamavasaraṇa sgra med pa dang sgra dang bcas pa thams cad yang dag par 'du ba སྒྲ་མེད་པ་དང་སྒྲ་དང་བཅས་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་ཡང་དག་པར་འདུ་བ། araṇasaraṇasarvasamavasaraṇa
 Lit. "in which all that is soundless and with sounds comes together"; alternatively, "in which all with affliction comes together in what is without affliction." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.107 Arciṣmatī
'od 'phro ba can འོད་འཕྲོ་བ་ཅན། arciṣmatī
 Lit. "Radiant." The fourth level of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas. See "ten bodhisattva levels."
- g.108 are not collected in body and mind
lus dang sems kyi tshogs par mi byed

ལུས་དང་སེམས་ཀྱི་ཚྲིགས་པར་མི་བྱེད།

**na kāyena na cittena samagrīn dā<sup>RS</sup>*

g.109 arhat

dgra bcom pa

དགའ་བཅོམ་པ།

arhat

See “worthy one.”

g.110 arisen from maturation

rnam par smin pa las byung ba

རྣམ་པར་སླིན་པ་ལས་བྱུང་བ།

vaipākika

g.111 arisen on account of error

phyin ci log las skyes · phyin ci log gis kun nas bslad ba

ཕྱིན་ཅི་ལོག་ལས་སྐྱེས། . ཕྱིན་ཅི་ལོག་གིས་ཀུན་ནས་བསྐྱེད་བ། viparyāsasamutthita

g.112 armor

go cha

གོ་ཇ།

saṃnāha

This is a protective clothing, made of closely interwoven strands, strapped around the body. In the Mahāyāna sūtras, it can be understood symbolically: the strands are the six perfections interlocking in a way that nothing can get through them. The strands bound together in the protective clothing may also be the net of interlocking beings occasioning a bodhisattva’s never-failing empathy.

g.113 arrangement

rnam par dgod pa

རྣམ་པར་དགོད་པ།

vyavasthāna

g.114 array bkod pa

བཀོད་པ།

vyūha

g.115 arrogance

dregs pa

དྲེགས་པ། darpita

g.116 ārya

'phags pa

འཕགས་པ།

ārya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Sanskrit ārya has the general meaning of a noble person, one of a higher class or caste. In Buddhist literature, depending on the context, it often means specifically one who has gained the realization of the path and is superior for that reason. In particular, it applies to stream enterers, once-returners, non-returners, and worthy ones (arhats) and is also used as an epithet of bodhisattvas. In the five-path system, it refers to someone who has achieved at least the path of seeing (darśanamārga).

g.117 as a conventional term in conventional usage

kun rdzob kyi brdas tha snyad 'dogs pa

ཀུན་རྫོབ་ཀྱི་བདམས་བསྟན་འདོགས་པ། saṃvṛtisamketena vyavaharati

g.118 as a real thing

dngos por

དངོས་པོར། bhāvataḥ

g.119 as anything at all in any way at all thams cad kyi thams cad rnam pa thams cad kyi thams cad du ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་ཐམས་ཅད་རྣམ་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་ཐམས་ཅད་དུ། sarveṇa sarvaṃ sarvathā sarvaṃ

g.120 as it really is ji lta ba bzhin du · ji lta ba'i bdag nyid · bdag nyid ji lta ba

ཇི་ལྟར་བ་བཞིན་དུ། · ཇི་ལྟར་བའི་བདག་ཉིད། · བདག་ཉིད་ཇི་ལྟར་བ།

yathābhūtam · yathātmyam

The quality or condition of things as they really are, which cannot be conveyed in conceptual, dualistic terms. Akin to other terms rendered here as “suchness,” “the real,” and “natural state.”

g.121 as things are

ji lta ba bzhin

ཇི་ལྟ་བུ་བཞིན།

yathāvat

g.122 asamāsama

mi mnyam pa dang mnyam pa

མི་མཉམ་པ་དང་མཉམ་པ།

asamāsama

Lit. “equal to the unequaled.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.123 asaṃhārya

mi ‘phrogs pa

མི་འཕྲོགས་པ།

asaṃhārya

Lit. “that you cannot steal.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.124 Asaṃjñin

‘du shes med pa

འདུ་ཤེས་མེད་པ།

asaṃjñin

Lit. “Perceptionless.” See “Asaṃjñisattva.”

g.125 Asaṃjñisattva

sems can ‘du shes med pa · ‘du shes med pa’i sems can

· ‘du shes ma mchis pa’i sems can

སེམས་ཅན་འདུ་ཤེས་མེད་པ། · འདུ་ཤེས་མེད་པའི་སེམས་ཅན། · འདུ་ཤེས་མ་མཚིས་པའི་སེམས་ཅན།

asaṃjñisattva

Lit. “Perceptionless Beings.” A heavenly realm listed in this text between the twelfth heaven of the form realm, Bṛhatphala, and the five Pure Abodes of the form realm, known collectively as Śuddhāvāsa.

g.126 asaṃkhyeya

grangs med pa

གངས་མེད་པ།

asaṃkhyeya

Asaṃkhyeya and other specific, extremely large numbers that have separate values and are not actually synonymous with “infinite” are left untranslated in contexts where the difference between them is a salient factor. On the number asaṃkhyeya (“incalculable”), see also Abhidharmakośa 3.93.

g.127 asaṃkliṣṭa

kun nas nyon mongs pa med pa

ཀུན་ནས་ཉོན་མོངས་པ་མེད་པ།

asaṃkliṣṭa

Lit. “without defilement.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.128 asaṃpramoṣa

brjed pa med pa

བརྗེད་པ་མེད་པ།

asaṃpramoṣa · asaṃpramuṣito

Lit. “non-loss of mindfulness.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.129 āsannarūparājas

gzugs kyi rdul sel

གཟུགས་ཀྱི་རྩལ་སེལ།

āsannarūparājas

Lit. “eliminating material dirt.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.130 Aśoka

mya ngan med

མྱ་ངན་མེད།

aśoka

Lit. “Without Sorrow.” Name of one of four gardens in the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.131 Aśokaśrī

mya ngan med pa'i dpal

མྱ་ངན་མེད་པའི་དཔལ།

aśokaśrī

Lit. “Glorious without Sorrow.” A buddha in a world system called Sarvaśokāpagata, in the southern direction.

g.132 aspiration

bsam pa · sems pa

བསམ་པ། · སེམས་པ། āśaya

g.133 Aṣṭamaka level

brgyad pa'i sa

བརྒྱད་པའི་ས།

aṣṭamakabhūmi

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A person who is “eight steps” away in the arc of their development from becoming an arhat (Tib. dgra bcom pa). Specifically, this term refers to one who is on the cusp of becoming a stream enterer (Skt. srotaāpanna; Tib. rgyun du zhugs pa), and it is the first and lowest stage in a list of eight stages or classes of a noble person (Skt. āryapudgala). The person at this lowest stage in the sequence is still on the path of seeing (Skt. darśanamārga; Tib. mthong lam) and then enters the path of cultivation (Skt. bhāvanāmārga; Tib. sgom lam) upon attaining the next stage, that of a stream enterer (stage seven). From there they progress through the remaining stages of the śrāvaka path, becoming in turn a once-returner (stages six and five), a non-returner (stages four and three), and an arhat (stages two and one). This same “eighth stage” also appears in a set of ten stages (Skt. daśabhūmi; Tib. sa bcu) found in Mahāyāna sources, where it is the third out of the ten. Not to be confused with the ten stages of the bodhisattva’s path, these ten stages mark the progress of one who sequentially follows the paths of a śrāvaka, pratyekabuddha, and then bodhisattva on their way to complete buddhahood. In this set of ten stages a person “on the eighth stage” is similarly one who is on the cusp of becoming a stream enterer.

In this text:

Lit. “Eighth level,” sometimes rendered “Eighth Lowest.” The third of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the level of an ordinary person until reaching buddhahood. See “ten levels.”

g.134 astambhita

ma khengs pa

མ་ཁེངས་པ།

astambhita

Lit. “when there is no pride.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.135 asura

lha ma yin

ལྷ་མ་ཡིན།

asura · dānava

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A type of nonhuman being whose precise status is subject to different views, but is included as one of the six classes of beings in the sixfold classification of realms of rebirth. In the Buddhist context, asuras are powerful beings said to be dominated by envy, ambition, and hostility. They are also known in the pre-Buddhist and pre-Vedic mythologies of India and Iran, and feature prominently in Vedic and post-Vedic Brahmanical mythology, as well as in the Buddhist tradition. In these traditions, asuras are often described as being engaged in interminable conflict with the devas (gods).

g.136 āśvāsadātā

dbugs 'byin pa sbyin pa

དབུགས་འབྱིན་པ་སྤྱིན་པ། āśvāsadātā

Lit. “that gives relief.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.137 at will

bsams bzhin du · bsam bzhin du

བསམ་མས་བཞིན་དུ། · བསམ་བཞིན་དུ། saṃcintya

g.138 Atapa

mi gdung

མི་གདུང།

atapa

Lit. “Those Who Do Not Cause Pain.” The fourteenth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, it is listed as the second of the five Pure Abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa.

g.139 attachment-free level

rjes su 'chags pa'i sa ma yin pa

རྗེས་སུ་འཆགས་པའི་ས་མ་ཡིན་པ།

—

g.140 attribute

rnam pa · chos

རྣམ་པ། · ཚོས།

ākāra · dharma

g.141 auspicious major and minor signs

mtshan dang dpe byad bzang po

མཚན་དང་དཔེ་བྱད་བཟང་པོ། lakṣaṇānuvyajana

See also “major marks” and “minor signs.”

g.142 auspicious sign

bkra shis

བཀྲ་ཤིས།

maṅgala

g.143 autonomous

dbang 'byor ba

དབང་འབྱོར་བ།

abhujīṣya

g.144 available

nye bar gnas pa

ཉེ་བར་གནས་པ།

pratyupasthitā

g.145 Avakīrṇakusuma

me tog gtor ba

མེ་ཏོག་གཏོར་བ།

avakīrṇakusuma

Lit. “One Who Strewed Flowers.” Name that six thousand monks will bear when they become buddhas during the eon called Tārapopama, due to the aspiration to engage the perfection of wisdom they made while attending this teaching.

g.146 avalokita

kun tu lta ba

ཀུན་ཏུ་ལྟ་བུ།

avalokita

Lit. “sees all.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.147 Avalokiteśvara

spyan ras gzigs dbang phyug

སྤྱན་རས་གཟིགས་དབང་ཕྱུག

avalokiteśvara

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the “eight close sons of the Buddha,” he is also known as the bodhisattva who embodies compassion. In certain tantras, he is also the lord of the three families, where he embodies the compassion of the buddhas. In Tibet, he attained great significance as a special protector of Tibet, and in China, in female form, as Guanyin, the most important bodhisattva in all of East Asia.

In this text:

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.148 avikāra

'gyur ba med pa

འགྱུར་བ་མེད་པ།

avikāra

Lit. “unchangeable.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.149 Avivāhā

mi 'bab

མི་འབབ།

avivāhā

Lit. “Nondescending.” Name of four lotus ponds, each located in one of the four gardens of the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.150 avivartta

'gyur ba med pa

འགྱུར་བ་མེད་པ།

avivartta

Lit. “unchangeable.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.151 avivartyacakṣus

phyir mi ldog pa'i mig

ཕྱིར་མི་ལྡོག་པའི་མིག་ avivartyacakṣus

Lit. “from which you cannot avert your eyes.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.152 Avṛha

mi che ba

མི་ཚེ་བ།

avṛha

Lit. “Slightest.” The thirteenth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, it is listed as the first of the five Pure Abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa. It is said to be the most common rebirth for the “non-returners” of the Śrāvaka Vehicle.

g.153 awakening path

byang chub kyi lam

བྱང་ལྡན་གྱི་ལམ། bodhimārga

g.154 bad for me

bdag la gnod

བདག་ལ་གཞོན། me 'narthah

g.155 bad friend

sdig pa'i grogs po

སྡིག་པའི་གྲོགས་པོ། pāpamitra

g.156 bad proclivity

bag la nyal

བག་ལ་ཉལ།

anuśaya

g.157 balanced thought

mnyam pa'i sems

མཉམ་བའི་སེམས།

samacitta

g.158 balavīrya

brtson 'grus kyi stobs

བརྩོན་འགྲུས་ཀྱི་སྟོབས།

balavīrya

Lit. "power of perseverance." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.159 balavyūha

dpung bkod pa

དཔུང་བཀོད་པ།

balavyūha

Lit. "array of forces." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.160 bamboo-flute maker

'od ma mkhan

འོད་མ་མཁན།

veṇukāra

g.161 bandhujīvaka flower

rdzi ba'i me tog · dzi ba'i me tog

རྩི་བའི་མེ་རྟོག་ . རྩི་བའི་མེ་རྟོག་

bandhujīvakapuṣpa

See also n.734.

g.162 barbarian

kla klo

མེ་ལོ། mleccha

g.163 bases of meritorious action

bsod nams bya ba'i dngos po · bsod nams bgyi ba'i dngos po

བསོད་ནམས་བྱ་བའི་དངོས་པོ། . བསོད་ནམས་བགྱི་བའི་དངོས་པོ།

punyaḥkriyāvastu

Lit. “merit work entity.” The meaning of this term is made clear in chapter 33, when the value of a bodhisattva practicing the perfection of wisdom is compared with other meritorious acts; cf. Mppś 2248, Mppś English p. 1858.

g.164 basic character

rang bzhin

རང་བཞིན།

jātika

g.165 basic immorality

kha na ma tho ba . kha na ma tho ba dang bcas pa

ཁ་ན་མ་ཐོ་བ། . ཁ་ན་མ་ཐོ་བ་དང་བཅས་པ། sāvadya

g.166 basic nature

rang bzhin

རང་བཞིན།

prakṛti

See “intrinsic nature.”

g.167 basis for a causal sign

mtshan ma'i gzhi

མཚན་མའི་གཞི། nimittapada

g.168 basis in reality

gzhi'i don

གཞིའི་དོན། padārtha

g.169 basis of suffering

gnas ngan len

གནས་ངན་ལེན།

dauṣṭulya

Refers to the very existence of the body, voice, or mind. As long as they are there, there are all the problems of life.

g.170 bayur tree flower

dong ka'i me tog

དོང་ཀའི་མེ་ཏོག་

karnikārapuṣpa

g.171 beggar

slong ba

སློང་བ། yācanaka

g.172 being moral

tshul khrims dang ldan · tshul khrims can

ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས་དང་ལྷན། · ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས་ཅན། śīlavant

g.173 being used conventionally

tha snyad du gdags pa · tha snyad gdags pa

ཐ་སྐད་དུ་གདགས་པ། · ཐ་སྐད་གདགས་པ། vyavahr

g.174 being very certain shin tu rnam par nges pa

ཤིན་ཏུ་རྣམ་པར་ངེས་པ། suviniścita

g.175 being very firmly grounded

shin tu brtan pa

ཤིན་ཏུ་བརྟན་པ། supraṭiṣṭhita

g.176 beings in hell

sems can dmyal ba

སེམས་ཅན་དམྱལ་བ།

naraka

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the five or six classes of sentient beings. Birth in hell is considered to be the karmic fruition of past anger and harmful actions. According to Buddhist tradition there are eighteen different hells, namely eight hot hells and eight cold hells, as well as neighboring and ephemeral hells, all of them tormented by increasing levels of unimaginable suffering.

g.177 belief

mos pa

མོས་པ།

adhimukti · adhimucyanatā

g.178 beneficial actions

don spyod pa

དོན་སྦྱོང་པ། arthacaryā

g.179 bent on hurting

tho 'tsham pa'i bsam pa

ཐོ་འཚོམ་པའི་བསམ་པ། viheṭhanābhiprāya

g.180 beryl

bai dUr+ya

བེ་རུ་རྩ།

vaiḍūrya

On vaiḍūrya, variously rendered as “beryl,” “lapis,” or “crystal,” see under entry “Crystal, rock” in the Encyclopaedia Iranica.

g.181 bestow

sbyin par byed pa

སྦྱིན་པར་བྱེད་པ།

dāyika

g.182 Bhadrā

bzang po

བཟང་པོ།

bhadrā

Lit. “Good.” Name of four lotus ponds, each located in one of the four gardens of the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.183 Bhadrapāla

bzang skyong

བཟང་སྐྱོང་།

bhadrapāla

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Head of the “sixteen excellent men” (ṣoḍaśasatpuruṣa), a group of householder bodhisattvas present in the audience of many sūtras. He appears prominently in certain sūtras, such as The Samādhi of the Presence of the Buddhas (Pratyutpannabuddhasaṃmukhāvasthitasamādhisūtra, Toh 133) and is perhaps also the merchant of the same name who is the principal interlocutor in The Questions of Bhadrapāla the Merchant (Toh 83).

In this text:

Lit. “Guardian of Good.” A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.184 Bhadrottamā

bzang mchog

བཟང་མཚོག་།

bhadrottamā

Lit. “Best.” Name of four lotus ponds, each located in one of the four gardens of the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.185 Bhagavatī Prajñāpāramitā

bcom ldan 'das ma shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa

བཅོམ་ལྷན་འདས་མ་ཤེས་རབ་ཀྱི་པ་རོལ་ཏུ་ཕྱིན་པ། bhagavatī prajñāpāramitā

g.186 Bhīṣmagarjitanirghoṣasvara

sgra dbyangs mi bzad par sgrogs pa

སྒྲ་དབྱངས་མི་བཟད་པར་སྒྲོགས་པ།

bhīṣmagarjitanirghoṣasvara

Lit. “Who Roared the Fearsome Roar.” A buddha, presumably in another realm, in the presence of whom the bodhisattva great being Sadāprarudita is practicing celibacy.

g.187 bile

mkhris pa

མགྲིས་པ།

pitta

One of the three vital substances in the body, along with wind and phlegm, which result in good health when balanced and illness or less than optimal health when imbalanced.

g.188 Bimbisāra

gzugs can snying po

གཟུགས་ཅན་སྡིང་པོ།

bimbisāra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The king of Magadha and a great patron of the Buddha. His birth coincided with the Buddha’s, and his father, King Mahāpadma, named him “Essence of Gold” after mistakenly attributing the brilliant light that marked the Buddha’s birth to the birth of his son by Queen Bimbī (“Goldie”). Accounts of Bimbisāra’s youth and life can be found in The Chapter on Going Forth (Toh 1-1, Pravrajyāvastu).

King Śreṇya Bimbisāra first met with the Buddha early on, when the latter was the wandering mendicant known as Gautama. Impressed by his conduct, Bimbisāra offered to take Gautama into his court, but Gautama refused, and Bimbisāra wished him success in his quest for awakening and asked him to visit his palace after he had achieved his goal. One account of this episode can be found in the sixteenth chapter of The Play in Full (Toh 95, Lalitavistara). There are other accounts where the two meet earlier on in childhood; several episodes can be found, for example, in The Hundred Deeds (Toh 340, Karmaśataka).

Later, after the Buddha’s awakening, Bimbisāra became one of his most famous patrons and donated to the saṅgha the Bamboo Grove, Veṇuvana, at the outskirts of the capital of Magadha, Rājagṛha, where he built residences for the monks. Bimbisāra was imprisoned and killed by his own son, the prince Ajātaśatru, who, influenced by Devadatta, sought to usurp his father’s throne.

g.189 birth

skye ba

སྐྱེ་བ།

jāti

The eleventh link of dependent origination.

g.190 birth from a womb

mngal nas skye ba

མངལ་ནས་སྐྱེ་བ།

jarāyuja

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the four modes of birth (caturyoni; skye gnas bzhi), it refers to that of humans and other mammals.

g.191 birth from an egg

sgo nga las skye ba

སྐྱོད་ལས་སྐྱེ་བ།

aṇḍaja

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the four modes of birth (caturyoni; skye gnas bzhi), it refers to that of birds, fish, reptiles, and so on.

g.192 birth from warmth and moisture

drod gsher las skye ba

དྲོད་གཤེར་ལས་སྐྱེ་བ།

saṃsvedajā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the four modes of birth (caturyoni; skye gnas bzhi). Tiny bugs and microbes are understood to be born from the confluence of heat and moisture.

g.193 birth story

skyes pa'i rabs

སྐྱེས་པའི་རབས།

jātaka

The Buddha's accounts of his own previous lifetimes, listed as one of the twelve aspects of the wheel of Dharma.

g.194 bitterly criticize

skyon 'dogs

སྐྱོན་འདོགས།

doṣam utpādaya

g.195 black fly

sha sbrang

ཤ་སྐྱང།

maśaka

g.196 black-and-blue perception

rnam par sngos pa'i 'du shes

རྣམ་པར་སྐྱོས་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས།

vinīlakasaṃjñā

g.197 blind in one eye

zhar ba

ཞར་བ། kāṇa

g.198 bloodied perception

rnam par dmar ba'i 'du shes

རྣམ་པར་དམར་བའི་འདུ་ཤེས།

vilohitakasaṃjñā

g.199 blow out

zhi bar bya

ཞི་བར་བྱ། nirvāp

g.200 blue green naḍa reed

'dam bu sngon po

འདམ་བུ་སྐྱོན་པོ།

—

A species of reeds; according to Monier-Williams, the Arundo tibialis, or Karka.

g.201 blue lotus

ud pa la · ut+pa la · ut+pala

ལྷན་པ་ལ། ་ ལྷན་པ། ་ ལྷན་པ། utpala

g.202 blunder into terrible forms of life

ngan 'gro log par ltung ba rnams su 'gro

ངན་འགྲོ་ལོག་པར་ལྷན་བ་རྣམས་སུ་འགྲོ།

durgativinipātaṃ gam

g.203 bodhi

byang chub

བྱང་ལྡན།

bodhi

In general the Sanskrit means “awakening,” as from sleep, but in the Buddhist context it is the awakening from ignorance, i.e., the direct realization of truth.

g.204 Bodhi tree

byang chub kyi shing

བྱང་ལྡན་གྱི་ཤིང་།

bodhiṛkṣa

The name of the tree under which the Buddha Śākyamuni attained awakening. The same term is used to describe the trees under which other tathāgatas, both in this realm and others, attain awakening.

g.205 bodhicitta

byang chub kyi sems

བྱང་ལྡན་གྱི་སེམས།

bodhicitta

Also translated as “thought of awakening.”

g.206 Bodhimaṇḍalālaṃkārasurucitā

byang chub kyi snying po'i rgyan shin tu mdzes pa

བྱང་ལྡན་གྱི་སྣིང་པོའི་རྒྱན་ཤིན་ཏུ་མཛོས་པ།

bodhimaṇḍalālaṃkārasurucitā

Lit. “Dazzling Ornament of the Choice Circle of Awakening.” A world system in the southeast direction where the buddha Padmottaraśrī dwells.

g.207 bodhisattva

byang chub sems dpa'

བྱང་ལྷན་སེམས་དཔལ།

bodhisattva

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A being who is dedicated to the cultivation and fulfilment of the altruistic intention to attain perfect buddhahood, traversing the ten bodhisattva levels (daśabhūmi, sa bcu). Bodhisattvas purposely opt to remain within cyclic existence in order to liberate all sentient beings, instead of simply seeking personal freedom from suffering. In terms of the view, they realize both the selflessness of persons and the selflessness of phenomena.

In this text:

The Tibetan translators consistently understand the word bodhisattva as bodhi-satva and render it byang chub sems dpa' (“awakening thought hero”).

g.208 bodhisattva community

byang chub sems dpa'i tshogs

བྱང་ལྷན་སེམས་དཔལ་འཛོགས། bodhisattvagaṇa

g.209 bodhisattva great being byang chub sems dpa' sems dpa' chen po

བྱང་ལྷན་སེམས་དཔལ་སེམས་དཔལ་ཆེན་པོ། bodhisattvamahāsattva

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The term can be understood to mean “great courageous one” or “great hero,” or (from the Sanskrit) simply “great being,” and is almost always found as an epithet of “bodhisattva.” The qualification “great” in this term, according to the majority of canonical definitions, focuses on the generic greatness common to all bodhisattvas, i.e., the greatness implicit in the bodhisattva vow itself in terms of outlook, aspiration, number of beings to be benefited, potential or eventual accomplishments, and so forth. In this sense the mahā- is closer in its connotations to the mahā- in “Mahāyāna” than to the mahā- in “mahāsiddha.” While individual bodhisattvas described as mahāsattva may in many cases also be “great” in terms of their level of realization, this is largely coincidental, and in the canonical texts the epithet is not restricted to bodhisattvas at any particular point in their career. Indeed, in a few cases even bodhisattvas whose path has taken a wrong direction are still described as bodhisattva mahāsattva.

Later commentarial writings do nevertheless define the term—variably—in terms of bodhisattvas having attained a particular level (bhūmi) or realization. The most common qualifying criteria mentioned are attaining the path of seeing, attaining irreversibility (according to its various definitions), or attaining the seventh bhūmi.

g.210 Bodhisattva level

byang chub sems dpa'i sa

བྱང་ལྷན་སེམས་དཔའི་ས།

bodhisattvabhūmi

The ninth of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the level of an ordinary person until reaching buddhahood. When rendered in the plural, it is understood as a reference to all levels of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas. See “ten levels” and “ten bodhisattva levels.”

g.211 bodhisattva way of life

byang chub sems dpa'i spyod pa

བྱང་ལྷན་སེམས་དཔའི་སྐྱོད་པ། bodhisattvacārikā

g.212 Bodhyaṅgapuṣpa

byang chub kyi yan lag gi me tog

བྱང་ལྷན་གྱི་ཡན་ལག་གི་མེ་ཏོག།

bodhyaṅgapuṣpa

Lit. “Limbs of Awakening Flower.” Name that a hundred thousand one hundred million billion beings will bear when they become buddhas after sixty-four eons.

g.213 bodhyaṅgavatin

byang chub kyi yan lag yod pa

བྱང་ལྷན་གྱི་ཡན་ལག་ཡོད་པ། bodhyaṅgavatin

Lit. “endowed with the limbs of awakening.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.214 body consciousness constituent lus kyi rnam par shes pa'i kham

ལུས་གྱི་རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པའི་ཁམས།

kāyavijñānadhātu

One of the eighteen constituents.

g.215 body golden in color

sku gser gyi kha dog can

སྐྱ་གསེར་གྱི་ཁ་དོག་ཅན།

suvarṇakāya

One of the features of the Buddha's body.

g.216 body of meanings

don gyi tshogs

དོན་གྱི་ཚོགས།

**arthika*<sup>RS</sup>

g.217 bones perception

rus gong gi 'du shes

རུས་གོང་གི་འདུ་ཤེས།

asthisamjñā

g.218 boon

gces spras byed pa

གཅེས་སྐྱས་བྱེད་པ། bahukara

g.219 Brahmā

tshangs pa

ཚངས་པ།

brahmā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A high-ranking deity presiding over a divine world; he is also considered to be the lord of the Sahā world (our universe). Though not considered a creator god in Buddhism, Brahmā occupies an important place as one of two gods (the other being Indra/Śakra) said to have first exhorted the Buddha Śākyamuni to teach the Dharma. The particular heavens found in the form realm over which Brahmā rules are often some of the most sought-after realms of higher rebirth in Buddhist literature. Since there are many universes or world systems, there are also multiple Brahmās presiding over them. His most frequent epithets are “Lord of the Sahā World” (Sahāṃpati) and Great Brahmā (Mahābrahmā).

g.220 brahmā dwelling

tshangs pa'i gnas

ཚངས་པའི་གནས། brahmabhava

g.221 Brahmakāyika

tshangs ris

ཚངས་རིས།

brahmakāyika

Lit. “Brahmā class.” The first of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the first of the three heavens that correspond to the first of the four concentrations. Also called Brahmāloka.

g.222 Brahmāloka

tshangs pa'i 'jig rten

ཚངས་པའི་འཇིག་རྟེན།

brahmāloka

A collective name for the first three heavens of the form realm, which correspond to the first concentration (dhyāna): Brahmakāyika, Brahmāpurohita, and Mahābrahmā (also called Brahmāpārṣadya in this text). These are ruled over by the god Brahmā, who believes himself to be the creator of the universe. According to some sources, it can also be a general reference to all the heavens in the form realm and formless realm.

g.223 Brahmāpārṣadya

tshangs 'khor · tshangs pa kun 'khor

ཚངས་འཁོར། · ཚངས་པ་ཀུན་འཁོར།

brahmāpārṣadya · brahmāpārīṣadya

Lit. “Retinue of Brahmā.” This is usually considered to be an alternate name of the Brahmāpurohita heaven, the second of the seventeen heavens of the form realm. However, in this text, it seems to refer to the third heaven and also to the name of the gods living there—otherwise called Mahābrahmā (tshangs pa chen po). In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the third of the three heavens that correspond to the first of the four concentrations.

g.224 Brahmapurohita

tshangs pa'i mdun na 'don

ཚངས་པའི་མདུན་ན་འདོན།

brahmapurohita

Lit. "Sacrificial Priests of Brahmā." The second of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the second of the three heavens that correspond to the first of the four concentrations.

g.225 Brahmā's melodious voice

tshangs pa'i dbyangs

ཚངས་པའི་དབྱངས།

brahmaghoṣa

A voice that has the qualities of the voice of the god Brahmā. This is one of the thirty-two major marks of a buddha.

g.226 brahmin

bram ze

བྲམ་ཟེ། brāhmaṇa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A member of the highest of the four castes in Indian society, which is closely associated with religious vocations.

g.227 brahmin caste

bram ze'i rigs

བྲམ་ཟེའི་རིགས།

brāhmaṇa varṇa

See "brahmin."

g.228 brahmin student

bram ze'i khye'u

བྲམ་ཟེའི་ཁྱེ་ལུ།

māṇava

The Buddha Śākyamuni in an earlier life, when his awakening was predicted by the buddha Dīpaṃkara.

g.229 Bṛhatphala

'bras bu che

འབྲས་བུ་ཚེ།

bṛhatphala

Lit. “Those in the Great Result.” The twelfth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the third of the three heavens that correspond to the fourth of the four concentrations.

g.230 bright dharma

chos dkar po

ཚོས་དཀར་པོ། śukladharma

g.231 brought to an end

rgyun chad

རྒྱུ་ཚད།

samuccheda

g.232 buddha eye

sangs rgyas kyi mig

སངས་རྒྱས་ཀྱི་མིག།

buddhacakṣu

One of the five eyes.

g.233 Buddha level

sangs rgyas kyi sa · sangs rgyas sa

སངས་རྒྱས་ཀྱི་ས། · སངས་རྒྱས་ས། buddhabhūmi

The tenth and last of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the level of an ordinary person until reaching buddhahood. See “ten levels.”

g.234 buddhadharma

sangs rgyas kyi chos

སངས་རྒྱས་ཀྱི་ཚོས། buddhadharma

g.235 buddhahood

sangs rgyas nyid

སངས་རྒྱས་ཉིད། buddhatva

g.236 burnt-bones perception

rnam par tshig pa'i 'du shes

རྣམ་པར་ཚིག་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས། vidagdhakasaṃjñā

g.237 business caste

rje'u'i rigs

རྗེ་འུ་འི་རིགས།

vaiśya varṇa

The third of the four classes in the Indian caste system. It generally includes merchants and farmers.

g.238 business family

khyim bdag gi rigs

ཁྱིམ་བདག་གི་རིགས།

gṛhapatikula

A subdivision of the vaiśya (mercantile) class of traditional Indian society.

g.239 by way of apprehending something

dmigs pa'i tshul gyis

དམིགས་པའི་ཚུལ་གྱིས། upalambhayogena

g.240 by way of not apprehending anything

mi dmigs pa'i tshul gyis

མི་དམིགས་པའི་ཚུལ་གྱིས། anupalambhayogena

g.241 calamity

sdug bsngal

སྤྱག་བསྐྱེད། vyasana

g.242 calm abiding

zhi gnas

ཞི་གནས།

śamatha

Refers to the meditative practice of calming the mind to rest free from the disturbance of thought. One of the two basic forms of Buddhist meditation, the other being insight.

g.243 calm abiding single-pointedness

zhi gnas rtse gcig tu bya ba

ཞི་གནས་ཕྱེ་གཅིག་དུ་བྱ་བ།

śamathaikāgratā

See “calm abiding.”

g.244 candidate

zhugs pa

བྱུགས་པ། pratipannaka

g.245 candradhvajaketu

zla ba'i rgyal mtshan tog

ཟླ་བའི་རྒྱལ་མཚན་རྟོག

candradhvajaketu

Lit. “crest of the moon’s victory banner.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.246 candraprabha

zla ba'i 'od

ཟླ་བའི་འོད།

candraprabha

Lit. “moonlight.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.247 candravimala

zla ba dri ma med pa

ཟླ་བ་རྩི་མ་མེད་པ།

candravimala

Lit. “stainless moon.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.248 Cāritramati

spyod pa'i blo gros

སྙོད་པའི་བློ་གྲོས།

cāritramati

Lit. “Intelligence of Activity.” A bodhisattva from a world system called Upaśānta, in the western direction, who comes to pay homage and listen to the Buddha.

g.249 cāritravatin

spyod pa dang ldan pa

སྙོད་པ་དང་ལྷན་པ།

cāritravatin

Lit. “act possessor.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.250 cast a spell over

yongs su bsgribs

ཡོངས་སུ་བསྐྱིབས།

pratyutthāpaya

g.251 catalyst

gleng gzhi

གླིང་གཞི།

—

g.252 category of the un compounded

'dus ma byas kyis rab tu phye ba

འདུས་མ་བྱས་ཀྱིས་རབ་དུ་ཕྱེ་བ། asamskṛtaprabhāvitam

g.253 Cāturmahārājika

rgyal chen bzhi'i ris

རྒྱལ་ཚེན་བཞིའི་རིས།

cāturmahārājika

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the heavens of Buddhist cosmology, lowest among the six heavens of the desire realm (kāmadhātu, 'dod kham). Dwelling place of the Four Great Kings (caturmahārāja, rgyal chen bzhi), traditionally located on a terrace of Sumeru, just below the Heaven of the Thirty-Three. Each cardinal direction is ruled by one of the Four Great Kings and inhabited by a different class of nonhuman beings as their subjects: in the east, Dhṛtarāṣṭra rules the gandharvas; in the south, Virūdhaka rules the kumbhāṇḍas; in the west, Virūpākṣa rules the nāgas; and in the north, Vaiśravaṇa rules the yakṣas.

In this text:

For consistency rgyal chen bzhi'i ris is rendered cāturmahārājika (“[gods] belonging to the group of the Four Great Kings”), even though there are a number of Skt. forms (Edg says the forms are cāturmahārājākāyika and less often caturmahārājākāyika, and cāturmahārājika and less often caturmahārājika) and slight differences are encountered in the Tib. translation. “Gods” is sometimes rendered explicitly and is sometimes implicit in the Tib.

g.254 caturmārabalavikaraṇa

bdud bzhi'i dpung stobs med par byed pa

བདུད་བཞིའི་དཔུང་སྟོབས་མེད་པར་བྱེད་པ། caturmārabalavikaraṇa

Lit. “destroyer of the power of the four māras’ host.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.255 causal sign

mtshan ma

མཚན་མ།

nimitta

A causal sign is the projected reality that functions as the objective support of a cognitive state. It cannot be separated out from the cognitive state and to that extent may enjoy a modicum of conventional reality. To “practice with a causal sign” means to look at an apparent phenomenon within accepting that it has more reality than it actually does.

g.256 celestial mansion circles

gzhal med khang gi dkyil 'khor

གཞལ་མེད་ཁང་གི་དཀྱིལ་འཁོར།

vimānamaṇḍala

The Skt. vimāna suggests the “mount” or “chariot” of the gods, namely of the sun and moon. It can be a celestial palace (gzhal med khang).

g.257 cemetery dweller

dur khrod pa

དུར་ཁོད་པ། śmāśānika

g.258 certification of dharmas

chos skyon med pa nyid

ཚོས་སྐྱོན་མེད་པ་ཉིད།

dharmaniyamatā

g.259 cessation

'gog pa · 'gog pa'i chos

འགོག་པ། · འགོག་པའི་ཚོས།

nirodha · nirodhadharma

g.260 cessation absorption

'gog pa'i snyoms par 'jug pa

འགོག་པའི་སྣོམས་པར་འཇུག་པ། nirodhasamāpatti

g.261 cessation element

'gog pa'i dbyings

འགོག་པའི་དབྱིངས།

nirodhadhātu

g.262 charity

sbyin pa

སྤྱིན་པ།

dāna · dakṣiṇā

g.263 child of Manu

shed bu

ཤེད་བུ།

mānava

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Manu being the archetypal human, the progenitor of humankind, in the Mahābhārata, the Purāṇas, and other Indian texts, “child of Manu” (mānava) or “born of Manu” (manuja) is a synonym of “human being” or humanity in general.

g.264 circle of the sun

nyi ma'i dkyil 'khor

ཉིམའི་དཀྱིལ་འཁོར། sūryamaṇḍala

g.265 circulate

spyod

སྟོད།

pracar

g.266 circumambulate

skor ba byed · bskor ba byas

སྐོར་བ་བྱེད། · བསྐོར་བ་བྱས། pradakṣiṇīkr

g.267 cittasthiti

sems gnas pa

སེམས་གནས་པ།

cittasthiti

Lit. “stability of mind.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.268 civic work

yul gyi mi rnams kyi bya ba

ཡུལ་གྱི་མི་རྣམས་ཀྱི་བྱ་བ། janapadakṛtya

g.269 clairvoyance

mngon par shes pa

མངོན་པར་ཤེས་པ།

abhijñā

The clairvoyances are listed as either five or six. The first five are the divine eye, divine ear, performance of miraculous power, recollection of past lives, and knowing others’ thoughts. A sixth, knowing that all outflows have been eliminated, is often added. The first five are attained through concentration (dhyāna) and are sometimes described as worldly, as they can be attained to some extent by non-Buddhist yogins, while the sixth is supramundane and attained only by realization.

g.270 clairvoyant knowledge

mngon par shes pa · mngon shes

མངོན་པར་ཤེས་པ། · མངོན་ཤེས།

abhijñā

See “clairvoyances.”

g.271 cleaned-out-by-worms perception

rnam par 'bus gzhiḡs pa'i 'du shes

རྣམ་པར་འབྲུས་གཞིགས་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས།

vipaḡumakasaḡjñā

g.272 clear light

'od gsal ba

འོད་གསལ་པ།

prabhāsvara

Clear light or luminosity refers to the subtlest level of mind, i.e., the fundamental, essential nature of all cognitive events. Though ever present within all sentient beings, this luminosity becomes manifest only when the gross mind has ceased to function. It is said that such a dissolution is experienced naturally by ordinary beings at the time of death, but it can also be experientially cultivated through certain meditative practices.

g.273 clear realization

mngon par rtogs pa

མངོན་པར་རྟོགས་པ།

abhisamaya

A samaya is a coming together, in this case of an object known and something that knows it; the abhi means “toward” or else adds an intensity to the act.

g.274 close relative

gnyen 'dab

གཉེན་འདབ།

—

g.275 cloth canopy

bla re

ལྷ་རེ།

vitāna · cailavitāna

g.276 cold season

lhags pa'i dus la bab pa

ལྷགས་པའི་དུས་ལ་བབ་པ། śīśirakāla

g.277 collected state

mnyam par bzhag pa

མཉམ་པར་བཞག་པ།

samāhita

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A state of deep concentration in which the mind is absorbed in its object to such a degree that conceptual thought is suspended. It is sometimes interpreted as settling (āhita) the mind in equanimity (sama).

In this text:

Also rendered here as “meditative equipoise.”

g.278 collected thought

sems bsdus pa

སེམས་བསྐྱུས་པ།

**saṃgraha*<sup>RS</sup>

g.279 collection of marks

mtshan nyid 'dus pa

མཚན་ཉིད་འདུས་པ། samastalakṣaṇa

g.280 come forth

'byung

འབྱུང་། upapad

g.281 communication tha snyad

ཐ་སྟེན། vyavahāra

g.282 community

dge 'dun

དགེ་འདུན།

saṅgha

See “saṅgha.”

g.283 compassion

snying rje

སྙིང་རྗེ།

karuṇā · kārūṇya

One of the four practices of spiritual practitioners and one of the four immeasurables (the others being loving-kindness or love, sympathetic joy, and equanimity).

g.284 complete nirvāṇa

yongs su mya ngan las 'das pa

ཡོངས་སུ་སྐྱུ་རྒྱ་ལས་འདས་པ།

parinirvāṇa

A specialized term for nirvāṇa when it is used in reference to the apparent passing away of the physical body of a buddha or an arhat. See “nirvāṇa.”

g.285 complicate rnam par 'khrug pa · rnam par dkrugs pa

རྣམ་པར་འཁྲུག་པ། · རྣམ་པར་དཀྲུག་པ།

vikopaya

g.286 compounded

'dus byas

འདུས་བྱས།

saṃskṛta

Composed of constituent parts, whether physical or temporal; dependent on causes.

g.287 compounded downfall

lhag par ltung ba

ལྷག་པར་ལྷུང་བ།

adhyāpatti

g.288 compounded phenomenon

'du byed

འདུ་བྱེད།

saṃskṛta

See “compounded.”

g.289 conceals a sharp object

zug rngu dang bcas pa

ཟུག་རྩུ་དང་བཅས་པ། saśalya

g.290 concentration bsam gtan

བསམ་གཏན།

dhyāna

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Dhyāna is defined as one-pointed abiding in an undistracted state of mind, free from afflicted mental states. Four states of dhyāna are identified as being conducive to birth within the form realm. In the context of the Mahāyāna, it is the fifth of the six perfections. It is commonly translated as “concentration,” “meditative concentration,” and so on.

g.291 concentrations

bsam gtan

བསམ་གཏན།

dhyāna

See “four concentrations.”

g.292 conceptualization rnam par rtog pa

རྣམ་པར་རྟོག་པ།

vikalpa

A mental function that tends to superimpose upon reality, either relative or ultimate, a conceptualized dualistic perspective fabricated by the subjective mind. It is often opposed to direct perception (pratyakṣa, mngon sum).

g.293 conceptualized form

rnam par brtags pa'i gzugs

རྣམ་པར་བརྟགས་པའི་གཟུགས།

vikalpitarūpa

g.294 condition

rkyen

རྐྱེན།

pratyaya

g.295 conduct

spyod pa

སྟོན་པ།

carāṇa

g.296 confident readiness

spobs pa

སྟོབས་པ།

pratibhā · pratibhāna

Pratibhāna is the capacity for speaking in a confident and inspiring manner.

g.297 conflict

nyon mongs pa

ཉོན་མོངས་པ།

raṇa

g.298 conflict-free

nyon mongs pa med pa

ཉོན་མོངས་པ་མེད་པ།

araṇa · aranya

g.299 conforming dedication

'thun par yongs su sngo ba

འཇུག་པར་ཡོངས་སུ་སྡོ་བ། samena pariṇāma

g.300 conforming order
lugs dang 'thun pa · lugs ལུགས་དང་འབྲུན་པ། ་ ལུགས། anuloma

g.301 confuse
mig gis mi rtsol མིག་གིས་མི་རྩོལ། vicakṣukaraṇa

g.302 confusion
gti mug གཏི་མུག moha

One of the three poisons (triviṣa), together with greed and hatred, that bind beings to cyclic existence.

g.303 congenital blindness
dmus long དམུས་ལོང་། jātyandha

g.304 conjoined with dang ldan pa · 'du ba དང་ལྡན་པ། ་ འདུ་བ། saṃyukta

g.305 conjunction sbyor ba སྦྱར་བ། sayukta

g.306 connections
mtshams sbyor ba མཚམས་སྦྱར་བ། anusam̐dhi

g.307 consciousness

rnam par shes pa

རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པ།

vijñāna

Consciousness is generally classified into the five sensory consciousnesses and mental consciousness. Fifth of the five aggregates and third of the twelve links of dependent origination.

g.308 consistency between words and deeds

don 'thun pa

དོན་འགྲུན་པ། samānārthatā

g.309 constantly staying in a state of equanimity

rtag tu btang snyoms su gnas pa

རྟག་ཏུ་བྱང་སྟོང་མཐུ་གནས་པ།

sadopekṣāvihāritā

g.310 constellation

rtsi

རྩི། oṣadhī

g.311 constituent

kham

ཁམས། dhātu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In the context of Buddhist philosophy, one way to describe experience in terms of eighteen elements (eye, form, and eye consciousness; ear, sound, and ear consciousness; nose, smell, and nose consciousness; tongue, taste, and tongue consciousness; body, touch, and body consciousness; and mind, mental phenomena, and mind consciousness).

This also refers to the elements of the world, which can be enumerated as four, five, or six. The four elements are earth, water, fire, and air. A fifth, space, is often added, and the sixth is consciousness.

In this text:

Also rendered here as “element.”

g.312 constricted

zhum pa

ལུམ་པ། saṅkuñcita

g.313 construct in thought

spros par byed

སྐྱོམ་པར་བྱེད།

prapañcaya

g.314 contact

'dus te reg pa · reg pa

འདུམ་ཏེ་རེག་པ། · རེག་པ།

saṁsparśa · sparśa

g.315 contented

chog shes pa · tshim

ཚོག་ཤེས་པ། · ཚིམ། saṁtuṣṭa

g.316 contentment

chog shes pa

ཚོག་ཤེས་པ། saṁtuṣṭi

g.317 continent

gling

གླིང་།

dvīpa

g.318 contortion into

rnam par sprul pa

རྣམ་པར་སྐྱུལ་པ།

vikurvita

- g.319 contractor
shing mkhan ཤིང་མཁན། palagaṇḍa
- g.320 contractor's apprentice
shing mkhan gyi slob ma ཤིང་མཁན་གྱི་སློབ་མ། palagaṇḍāntevāsin
- g.321 contraption
'khrul 'khor
 འཇུལ་འཁོར། yantra
- g.322 control
dbang དབང། vaśitā
- g.323 controlling power of a name
ming gi gzhi · ming gi byin gyis brlabs མིང་གི་གཞི། . མིང་གི་བྱིན་གྱིས་བརླབས། nāmādhiṣṭhāna
 See also n.590.
- g.324 controlling power of truth
bden pa'i byin gyis rlabs བདེན་པའི་བྱིན་གྱིས་རླབས། satyādhiṣṭhāna
- g.325 conventional designation tha snyad 'dogs pa · tha snyad ཐ་སྟེན་འདོགས་པ། . ཐ་སྟེན།
 —
- g.326 conventional knowledge

kun rdzob shes pa

ཀུན་རྫོབ་ཤེས་པ། saṃvṛtijñāna

g.327 conventional label

tha snyad gdags pa · tha snyad 'dogs pa

ཐ་སྐད་གདགས་པ། · ཐ་སྐད་འདོགས་པ། vyavahr · vyavahāra

g.328 conventional term

brda

བར། saṃketa

g.329 conventional truth

kun rdzob kyi bden pa

ཀུན་རྫོབ་ཀྱི་བདེན་པ། saṃvṛtisatya

g.330 correct attention

tshul bzhin yid la byed pa

ཚུལ་བཞིན་ཡིད་ལ་བྱེད་པ། yoniśomanasikṛ

g.331 counselor

blon po

སློན་པོ།

**jñāti* <sup>RS</sup>

g.332 counterfeit

ltar bcos pa

ལྷར་བཅོས་པ། prativāṇaka

g.333 counterpoint to all that is ordinary

'jig rten thams cad dang mi 'thun pa

འཇིག་རྟེན་ཐམས་ཅད་དང་མི་འབྲུན་པ།

sarvalokavipratyanikā

Also translated as “antithetical to all worlds.”

g.334 courtesan

smad 'tshong ma

སྐད་འཚོང་མ། gaṇikā

g.335 covetousness

brnab sems

བརྒྱབ་སེམས།

abhidhyā

g.336 cow with a baby calf

ba drus ma

བ་དྲུས་མ།

taruṇavatsā gauḥ

g.337 craft

bzo'i gnas · bzo gnas · bzo'i las བཟོའི་གནས། · བཟོ་གནས། · བཟོའི་ལས། śilpasthāna

g.338 crane

khruṅ khruṅ

ཁྲུང་ཁྲུང།

sārasa

g.339 craving

sred pa

སྲེད་པ།

trṣṇā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Eighth of the twelve links of dependent origination. Craving is often listed as threefold: craving for the desirable, craving for existence, and craving for nonexistence.

g.340 crippled

- 'theng po
འཐེང་པོ། kunḍa
- g.341 criticize
gshe གཤེ། ākruś · ākrośaya
- g.342 crooked
mi drang ba མི་ངང་བ། cakratā
- g.343 crowned in a consecration ceremony
spyi bo nas dbang bskur ba སྤྱི་བོ་ནས་དབང་བསྐྱར་བ། mūrdhnābhiṣikta
- g.344 cultivate sgom སྦོམ། bhāvaya
Acquainting the mind with a virtuous object. Often translated as “meditation” and “familiarization.”
- g.345 curlew
bzhad sgra 'byin pa · bzhad བཞད་སྐྱེ་འབྱིན་པ། · བཞད། krauñca
- g.346 cutting
yal ga 'gel ba ཡལ་ག་འགེལ་བ། stamba
- g.347 cyclic existence
'khor ba

འཁོར་བ།

saṃsāra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A state of involuntary existence conditioned by afflicted mental states and the imprint of past actions, characterized by suffering in a cycle of life, death, and rebirth. On its reversal, the contrasting state of nirvāṇa is attained, free from suffering and the processes of rebirth.

g.348 Darśana level

mthong ba'i sa

མཐོང་བའི་ས།

darśanabhūmi

Lit. "Seeing level." The fourth of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the level of an ordinary person until reaching buddhahood. See "ten levels."

g.349 daśabalodgata

stobs bcu'i stobs kyis 'phags pa

སྟོབས་བརྒྱའི་སྟོབས་ཀྱིས་འཕགས་པ།

daśabalodgata

Lit. "exalted by ten powers." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.350 daśadigvyavalokita

phyogs bcur rnam par lta ba

ཕྱོགས་བརྒྱར་རྣམ་པར་ལྟ་བ།

daśadigvyavalokita

Lit. "seeing in the ten directions." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.351 deaf

'on pa

འོན་པ། badhira

g.352 deceit

sgyu

སྤྱ། śaṭha

According to Edgerton: śaṭhya.

- g.353 declaration of a name
ming bstan pa མིང་བསྟན་པ། nāmāpadeśa
- g.354 decline
'grib
འགྲིབ། hā
- g.355 decrease
'grib
འགྲིབ། apaci
- g.356 deep place
zab mo'i gnas ཟབ་མོའི་གནས། gambhīrasthāna
- g.357 deficient in fortitude
snying stobs chung ba སྡིང་སྟོབས་ཆུང་བ། hīnasattva
- g.358 deficient in perseverance brtson 'grus zhan pa · brtson 'grus nyams pa བརྩོན་འགྲུས་ཞན་པ། · བརྩོན་འགྲུས་ཉམས་པ། hīnavīrya
- g.359 deficient thought
dman pa'i sems དམན་པའི་སེམས། hīnacitta
- g.360 defiled by crime

g.yung po

གཡུང་པོ།

puṣkasa · pukkaśa

g.361 defilement

kun nas nyon mongs pa

ཀུན་ནས་ཉོན་མོངས་པ།

saṃkleśa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A term meaning defilement, impurity, and pollution, broadly referring to cognitive and emotional factors that disturb and obscure the mind. As the self-perpetuating process of affliction in the minds of beings, it is a synonym for saṃsāra. It is often paired with its opposite, vyavadāna, meaning “purification.”

g.362 defining mark

mtshan nyid

མཚན་ཉིད།

lakṣaṇa

g.363 delicacy

kha zas bsod pa

ཁ་ཟས་བསོད་པ། praṇītabhojana

g.364 delimited

yongs su chad pa · yongs su chod pa

ཡོངས་སུ་ཆད་པ། · ཡོངས་སུ་ཚོད་པ། paricchinna

g.365 deliver over

yongs su gtad pa

ཡོངས་སུ་གཏད་པ།

parindanā · parīndānā

g.366 deliverance

rnam par thar pa · rnam par grol ba

རྣམ་པར་ཐར་པ། · རྣམ་པར་གྲོལ་བ།

vimokṣa

In its most general sense, this term refers to the state of freedom from suffering and cyclic existence, or samsāra, that is the goal of the Buddhist path. More specifically, the term may refer to a category of advanced meditative attainment known as the “eight deliverances”; for an explanation of these, see 11.41 and 62.52.

g.367 demarcated

chod pa

ཚོད་པ།

ucchinna

g.368 demeaning

skur pa btab pa

སྐྱར་པ་བྱལ་པ། abhyākḥāna

g.369 demerit

bsod nams ma yin pa

བསོད་ནམས་མ་ཡིན་པ། apunya

g.370 demon

mi ma yin

མི་མ་ཡིན།

amanuṣya

g.371 dependent origination

rten cing 'brel bar 'byung ba

རྟེན་ཅིང་འབྲེལ་བར་འབྱུང་བ།

pratītyasamutpāda

The relative nature of phenomena, which arise in dependence on causes and conditions. Together with the four noble truths, this was the first teaching given by the Buddha. When this appears as plural in the translation, it refers to dharmas as dependently originated.

g.372 dependent origination in the order in which it unfolds

rten cing 'brel bar 'byung ba'i lugs su 'byung ba

ཉེན་ཅིང་འབྲེལ་བར་འབྱུང་བའི་ལྷགས་སུ་འབྱུང་བ། anulomapratītyasamutpāda

g.373 deprived

tha ma

ཐ་མ།

*hīna<sup>RS</sup>

g.374 deride

'phya

འཕྱ། uccaggha

g.375 descent into error

log par ltung ba

ལོག་པར་ལྷུང་བ།

vinipāta

g.376 designated

gdags

གདགས། prajñāpta

g.377 designation

ming

མིང། nāmadheya

g.378 designation

btags pa · gdags pa

བཏགས་པ། · གདགས་པ།

prajñāpti

g.379 desire for sense gratification

'dod pa la 'dun pa

འདོད་པ་ལ་འདུན་པ། kāmacchanda

g.380 desire realm

*'dod pa'i kham*s

འདོད་པའི་ཁམས།

kāmadhātu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Buddhist cosmology, this is our own realm, the lowest and most coarse of the three realms of saṃsāra. It is called this because beings here are characterized by their strong longing for and attachment to the pleasures of the senses. The desire realm includes hell beings, hungry ghosts, animals, humans, asuras, and the lowest six heavens of the gods—from the Heaven of the Four Great Kings (cāturmahārājika) up to the Heaven of Making Use of Others' Emanations (paranirmitavaśavartin). Located above the desire realm is the form realm (rūpadhātu) and the formless realm (ārūpyadhātu).

g.381 destined

nges pa

ངེས་པ།

niyata

g.382 destined for the perfect state

yang dag pa nyid du nges

ཡང་དག་པ་ཉིད་དུ་ངེས། samyaktoaniyata

g.383 destined to be wrong

log pa nyid du nges

ལོག་པ་ཉིད་དུ་ངེས། mithyātvaniyata

g.384 detailed and thorough knowledge

so so yang dag par rig pa

སོ་སོ་ཡང་དག་པར་རིག་པ།

pratisamṅvid

See “four detailed and thorough knowledges.”

g.385 detailed and thorough knowledge of creative explanations

nges pa'i tshig so so yang dag par rig pa

ངེས་པའི་ཚིག་སོ་སོ་ཡང་དག་པར་རིག་པ། niruktiṭṭiṣaṃvid

g.386 detailed and thorough knowledge of dharmas

chos so so yang dag par rig pa

ཚོས་སོ་སོ་ཡང་དག་པར་རིག་པ། dharmapratiṣaṃvid

g.387 detailed presentation

rnam par dḡod pa

རྣམ་པར་དགོད་པ།

vyavasthāna

g.388 devas

lha

ལྷ།

deva

See “gods.”

g.389 devious

gya gyu

གྲ་གྲ། kauṭilya

g.390 devoid of a vital essence

srog dang bral ba

སྲོག་དང་བྲལ་བ། nirjīva

g.391 dhāraṇī

gzungs

གཟུངས།

dhāraṇī

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The term dhāraṇī has the sense of something that “holds” or “retains,” and so it can refer to the special capacity of practitioners to memorize and recall detailed teachings. It can also refer to a verbal expression of the teachings—an incantation, spell, or mnemonic formula that distills and “holds” essential points of the Dharma and is used by practitioners to attain mundane and supramundane goals. The same term is also used to denote texts that contain such formulas.

g.392 dhāraṇī gateway

gzungs kyi sgo

གཟུངས་ཀྱི་སྒོ།

dhāraṇīmukha

As a magical formula, a dhāraṇī constitutes a gateway to the infinite qualities of awakening, the awakened state itself, and the various forms of buddha activity. See also “dhāraṇī.”

g.393 dhāraṇīmati

gzungs kyi blo gros

གཟུངས་ཀྱི་སྒོ་བོ་གས།

dhāraṇīmati

Lit. “dhāraṇī wisdom.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.394 dharma

chos

ཚོས།

dharma

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The term dharma conveys ten different meanings, according to Vasubandhu’s Vyākhyāyukti. The primary meanings are as follows: the doctrine taught by the Buddha (Dharma); the ultimate reality underlying and expressed through the Buddha’s teaching (Dharma); the trainings that the Buddha’s teaching stipulates (dharmas); the various awakened qualities or attainments acquired through practicing and realizing the Buddha’s teaching (dharmas); qualities or aspects more generally, i.e., phenomena or phenomenal attributes (dharmas); and mental objects (dharmas).

In this text:

Regarding the translation of this term in this text, see i.22.

g.395 Dharma and Vinaya

chos ’dul ba

ཚོས་འདུལ་བ།

dharmavinaya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

An early term used to denote the Buddha's teaching. "Dharma" refers to the sūtras and "Vinaya" to the rules of discipline.

g.396 dharma body

chos kyi sku

ཚོས་ཀྱི་སྐུ།

dharmakāya

In distinction to the form body (rūpakāya) of a buddha, this is the eternal, imperceptible realization of a buddha. In origin it was a term for the presence of the Dharma and has become synonymous with the true nature.

g.397 dharma constituent

chos kyi khams

ཚོས་ཀྱི་ཁམས།

dharmadhātu

One of the eighteen constituents, referring to mental phenomena.

g.398 dharma designation

chos su btags pa

ཚོས་སུ་བཏགས་པ། dharmaprajñāpti

g.399 dharma eye

chos kyi mig

ཚོས་ཀྱི་མིག།

dharmacakṣu

One of the five eyes.

g.400 Dharma follower

chos kyi rjes su 'brang ba

ཚོས་ཀྱི་རྗེས་སུ་འབྲང་བ། dharmānusārin

g.401 dharma in its totality

chos kyi rjes su 'thun pa'i chos

ཚོས་ཀྱི་རྗེས་སུ་འབྲུན་པའི་ཚོས།

dharmasya cānudharma

g.402 Dharma king

chos kyi rgyal po

ཚོས་ཀྱི་རྒྱལ་པོ། dharmarāja

g.403 Dharma listener

chos nyan pa

ཚོས་ཉན་པ།

dharmasravaṇika

g.404 Dharma preacher

chos smra ba

ཚོས་སྒྲུབ།

dharmabhāṇaka · dharmakathika

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Speaker or reciter of scriptures. In early Buddhism a section of the saṅgha would consist of bhāṇakas, who, particularly before the teachings were written down and were only transmitted orally, were a key factor in the preservation of the teachings. Various groups of dharmabhāṇakas specialized in memorizing and reciting a certain set of sūtras or vinaya.

g.405 dharma-constituent

chos kyi dbyings · chos dbyings

ཚོས་ཀྱི་དབྱིངས། · ཚོས་དབྱིངས།

dharmadhātu

Dharma-dhātu is a synonym for emptiness or the ultimate nature of phenomena (dharmatā). This term is interpreted variously—given the many connotations of dharmā/chos—as the sphere, element, or nature of phenomena, suchness, or truth. In this text it is used with this general, Mahāyāna sense, not to be confused with dharma constituent (Tib. chos kyi khams), also called in Sanskrit dharmadhātu, which is one of the eighteen constituents. See also “dharma constituent.”

g.406 dharmadhātunirgata

chos kyi dbyings las nges par 'byung ba

ཚོས་ཀྱི་དབྱིངས་ལས་ངེས་པར་འབྱུང་བ།

dharmadhātunirgata

Lit. “come forth from the dharma-constituent.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.407 dharmadhātuniyata

chos kyi dbyings su nges pa

ཚོས་ཀྱི་དབྱིངས་སུ་ངེས་པ།

dharmadhātuniyata

Lit. “certainty in the dharma-constituent.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.408 Dharmameghā

chos kyi sprin

ཚོས་ཀྱི་སྒྲིན།

dharmameghā

Lit. “Cloud of Dharma.” The tenth level of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas. See “ten bodhisattva levels.”

g.409 dharmas are inanimate material

chos bems po nyid

ཚོས་བེམས་པོ་ཉིད། dharmajādatā

g.410 dharmas on the side of awakening

byang chub kyi phyogs kyi chos

བྱང་ལྡན་གྱི་ཕྱོགས་ཀྱི་ཚོས། bodhipakṣadharmā

See “thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening.”

g.411 dharmasamudgatapūrṇa

chos kyis 'phags shing rdzogs pa

ཚོས་ཀྱིས་འཕགས་ཤིང་རྫོགས་པ།

dharmasamudgatapūrṇa

Lit. “ennobled by dharmas completed.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.412 Dharmodgata

chos 'phags

ཚོས་འཕགས།

dharmodgata

A great bodhisattva, residing in a divine city called Gandhavatī, who teaches the Prajñāpāramitā three times a day. He is known for becoming the teacher of the bodhisattva Sadāprarudita, who decides to sell his flesh and blood in order to make offerings to him and receive his teachings. This story is told in this sūtra in chapters 85 and 86. It can also be found quoted in several works, such as The Words of My Perfect Teacher (kun bzang bla ma'i zhal lung) by Patrul Rinpoche.

g.413 dhvajāgrakeyūra

rgyal mtshan gyi rtse mo'i dpung rgyan

རྒྱལ་མཚན་གྱི་རྩེ་མོའི་དཔུང་རྒྱན།

dhvajāgrakeyūra

Lit. “trophy atop the victory banner.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

(dpung rgyan renders keyūra. Khri pa has thog, perhaps for ketu.)

g.414 different views

lta ba'i rnam pa

ལྟ་བའི་རྣམ་པ།

dr̥ṣṭigata

g.415 digvilokita

phyogs la rnam par lta ba

ཕྱོགས་ལ་རྣམ་པར་ལྟ་བ།

digvilokita

Lit. “seeing the directions.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.416 diminution

'bri ba · 'grib pa

འབྲི་བ། · འགྲིབ་པ། apacaya

g.417 Dīpaṃkara

mar me mdzad

མར་མེ་མཛད།

dīpaṃkara

A previous buddha who gave Śākyamuni the prophecy of his buddhahood.

In depictions of the buddhas of the three times, he represents the buddhas of the past, while Śākyamuni represents the present, Maitreya the future.

- g.418 direct eyewitness to the dharmas who witnesses with your body chos rnams la mngon sum gyi mig dang ldan pa lus mngon sum du gyur pa ཚོས་རྣམས་ལ་མངོན་སུམ་གྱི་མིག་དང་ལྡན་པ་ལུས་མངོན་སུམ་དུ་གྱུར་པ། pratyakṣacakṣur dharmeṣu kāyasākṣī
- g.419 direct perception
mngon sum མངོན་སུམ། pratyakṣa
- g.420 directly realized
mngon sum du bgyid pa མངོན་སུམ་དུ་བགྱིད་པ། sākṣātkṛta
- g.421 disadvantage
skyon ལྷོན། doṣa
- g.422 disagreeable
mi sdug pa མི་སྡུག་པ། akānta
- g.423 discerned
rnam par shes pa
 རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པ།
vijñāta
- g.424 discipline
yongs su 'dul ba · 'dul ba · dul ba ཡོངས་སྲུ་འདུལ་བ། · འདུལ་བ། · དུལ་བ། paridamana · dama · damana
- g.425 disciplined state of mind
sems dul ba

སེམས་རྣམ་པ། dāntacittatā

g.426 discourse

mdo

སངས་ sūtra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Sanskrit literally “a thread,” this is an ancient term for teachings that were memorized and orally transmitted in an essential form. Therefore, it can also mean “pithy statements,” “rules,” and “aphorisms.” In Buddhism it refers to the Buddha’s teachings, whatever their length. It is one of the three divisions of the Buddha’s teachings, the other two being Vinaya and Abhidharma. It is also used in contrast with the tantra teachings, though a number of important tantras have sūtra in their title. It is also classified as one of the nine or twelve aspects of the Dharma, in which context sūtra means “a teaching given in prose.”

g.427 discriminate differences

tha dad pa'i 'du shes

ཐ་དད་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས། nānātvasaṃjñā

g.428 dishonorable people

skyes bu dam pa ma yin pa

སྐྱེས་བུ་དམ་པ་མ་ཡིན་པ། kāpuruṣa

g.429 disintegration

rnam par gzhiḡ pa · rnam par 'jig pa

རྣམ་པར་གཞིག་པ། · རྣམ་པར་འཇིག་པ།

vibhāvanā

g.430 disintegration of meditation

bsgom pa rnam par 'jig pa

བསྐྱོམ་པ་རྣམ་པར་འཇིག་པ། bhāvanāvibhāvanā

- g.431 disjunction
'bral ba འབྲལ་བ། viyukta
- g.432 disk of the moon
zla ba'i dkyil 'khor ཟླ་བའི་དགྲིལ་འཁོར། candramaṇḍala
- g.433 disparage
smod སྐོད། avaman
- g.434 displease
thugs byung bar byed ཐུགས་བྱུང་བར་བྱེད། virāgaya
- g.435 disposition
rang bzhin
རང་བཞིན།
prakṛti
- g.436 dispute
rgol ba རྒོལ་བ།
vāda
- g.437 distance
rgyang ring du byed · ring du byed རྒྱང་རིང་དུ་བྱེད། · རིང་དུ་བྱེད། dūrīkr
- g.438 distinct attributes of a buddha
sangs rgyas kyi chos ma 'dres pa

སངས་རྒྱལ་གྱི་ཚོས་མ་འདྲིས་པ།

āveṇikabuddhadharma

See “eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha.”

g.439 distorted state of mind

sems phyin ci log tu gyur pa

སེམས་ཕྱིན་ཅི་ལོག་ཏུ་གྱུར་པ། viparyastacitta

g.440 distrustful

thugs mi ches pa

སྲུགས་མི་ཚེས་པ།

apratyaya

g.441 divine ear

lha'i rna ba

ལྷ་འི་རྣ་བ།

divyaśrotra

g.442 divine ear constituent

lha'i rna ba'i kham

ལྷ་འི་རྣ་བའི་ཁམས།

divyaśrotradhātu

g.443 divine ear knowledge

lha'i rna ba'i shes pa

ལྷ་འི་རྣ་བའི་ཤེས་པ།

divyaśrotrajñāna

g.444 divine eye

lha'i mig

ལྷ་འི་མིག

divyacakṣus

One of the five eyes.

g.445 divine hearing

lha'i rna ba

- ལྷ་འི་རྣ་བ།
divyaśrotra
- g.446 does not cause
mi byed pa · mi byed མི་བྱེད་པ། · མི་བྱེད། akaraṇa
- g.447 dominant bull
khyu mchog ལྷ་མཚོ་བ། vṛṣabha
- g.448 dominant factor
dbang bgyid pa · dbang byed pa དབང་བགྱིད་པ། · དབང་བྱེད་པ། ādhipateya
- g.449 donation
sbyin pa
སྤྲིན་པ། dakṣiṇā
- g.450 doubt
the tshom · the tshom za ཐོ་ཚོས། · ཐོ་ཚོས་ཟ། vicikitsā · vicikitsiṣyati
- g.451 dozing
gnyid གཉིད། styāna · niddha
- g.452 drawn in the boundaries
sa mtshams bkum ས་མཚོས་ས་བཀུམ། sīmābaddha

g.453 dream
g.yar lam · rmi lam གཡར་ལམ། ་ རྫི་ལམ། svapna

g.454 driver
kha lo sgyur ba ཁ་ལོ་སྐུར་བ། sārathi

g.455 drowsiness
rmugs pa རླུགས་པ། middha · styāna

g.456 dualism
gnyis la གཉིས་ལ། dvaya

g.457 dualistic perception
gnyis kyi 'du shes གཉིས་ཀྱི་འདུ་ཤེས། dvayasamjñī

g.458 dualistically
gnyis kyis གཉིས་ཀྱིས། dvayena

g.459 Dūraṃgamā
ring du song ba རིང་དུ་སོང་བ། dūraṃgamā

Lit. "Far Reaching." The seventh level of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas. See "ten bodhisattva levels."

g.460 dust particle

rdul gyi kham

རུལ་གྱི་ཁམས།

rajodhātu

g.461 dwell on the experience

ro myong bar byed

རོ་ལྷོང་བར་བྱེད།

āsvādaya

g.462 ear consciousness constituent rna ba'i rnam par shes pa'i kham

རྣ་བའི་རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པའི་ཁམས།

karnavijñānadhātu

One of the eighteen constituents.

g.463 easy

sla ba

སྤྲོ་བ།

sukara

g.464 egotism

nga'o snyam pa'i nga rgyal

ངའོ་སྤྲོམ་པའི་ང་རྒྱལ། asmimāna

g.465 eight deliverances

rnam par thar pa brgyad

རྣམ་པར་ཐར་པ་བརྒྱེད།

aṣṭau vimokṣāḥ

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A series of progressively more subtle states of meditative realization or attainment. There are several presentations of these found in the canonical literature. One of the most common is as follows: (1) One observes form while the mind dwells at the level of the form realm. (2) One observes forms externally while discerning formlessness internally. (3) One dwells in the direct experience of the body's pleasant aspect. (4) One dwells in the realization of the sphere of infinite space by transcending all conceptions of matter, resistance, and diversity. (5) Transcending the sphere of infinite space, one dwells in the realization of the sphere of infinite consciousness. (6) Transcending the sphere of infinite consciousness, one dwells in the realization of the sphere of nothingness. (7) Transcending the sphere of nothingness, one dwells in the realization of the sphere of neither perception nor nonperception. (8) Transcending the sphere of neither perception nor nonperception, one dwells in the realization of the cessation of conception and feeling.

g.466 eight places that preclude a perfect human birth

mi khom pa brgyad · mi khom brgyad

མི་ཁོམ་པ་བརྒྱད། · མི་ཁོམ་བརྒྱད། aṣṭākṣaṇa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A set of circumstances that do not provide the freedom to practice the Buddhist path: being born in the realms of (1) the hells, (2) hungry ghosts (pretas), (3) animals, or (4) long-lived gods, or in the human realm among (5) barbarians or (6) extremists, (7) in places where the Buddhist teachings do not exist, or (8) without adequate faculties to understand the teachings where they do exist.

g.467 eight stations of mastery

zil gyis gnon pa'i skye mched brgyad

ཟིལ་གྱིས་གཞོན་པའི་སྐྱེ་མཆེད་བརྒྱད།

aṣṭābhibhāvāyatana

Refers to the miraculous perceptual transformation that ensues when one (1) regards lesser external forms, (2) regards greater external forms, (3) regards blue shapes, (4) regards yellow shapes, (5) regards red shapes, (6) regards white shapes, (7) abides in the station of endless space, and (8) abides in the station of endless consciousness.

g.468 eight ways great persons think skyes bu chen po'i rnam par rtog pa brgyad

སྐྱེས་བུ་ཆེན་པོའི་རྣམ་པར་རྟོག་པ་བརྒྱད།

aṣṭamahāpuruṣavitarka

Thinking that one will (1) eliminate the suffering of beings, (2) lead beings to wealth and affluence, (3) benefit beings with one's own flesh and blood, (4) benefit beings even if it means remaining in the hells for a long time, and (5) never be reborn with wealth or power that does not benefit beings, never focus solely on the ultimate, and never cause harm to beings; (6) that beings'

negative actions will ripen upon oneself, and one's positive actions will ripen upon them; (7) that one will fulfill the wishes of beings through great worldly and supramundane riches; and (8) that one will become a buddha and thus deliver beings from suffering.

g.469 eight-branched confession and restoration

yan lag brgyad dang ldan pa'i gso sbyong

ཡན་ལག་བརྒྱད་དང་ལྷན་པའི་གསོ་སྦྱང་།

aṣṭāṅgasamanvāgata poṣadha

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

To refrain from (1) killing, (2) stealing, (3) sexual activity, (4) false speech, (5) intoxication, (6) singing, dancing, music, and beautifying oneself with adornments or cosmetics, (7) using a high or large bed, and (8) eating at improper times. Typically, this observance is maintained by lay people for twenty-four hours on new moon and full moon days, as well as other special days in the lunar calendar.

g.470 eighteen constituents

khamṣ bcwa brgyad

ཁམས་བརྒྱ་བརྒྱད།

aṣṭādaśadhātu

The eighteen constituents through which sensory experience is produced: the six sense faculties (indriya); the six corresponding sense objects (ālambana); and the six sensory consciousnesses (vijñāna).

When grouped these are: the eye constituent, form constituent, and eye consciousness constituent; the ear constituent, sound constituent, and ear consciousness constituent; the nose constituent, smell constituent, and nose consciousness constituent; the tongue constituent, taste constituent, and tongue consciousness constituent; the body constituent, touch constituent, and body consciousness constituent; the thinking-mind constituent, dharma constituent, and thinking-mind consciousness constituent.

See also “constituents.”

g.471 eighteen distinct attributes

chos ma 'dres pa bcwa brgyad

ཚོས་མ་འདྲེས་པ་བརྒྱ་བརྒྱད།

aṣṭādaśāveṇikadharmā

See “eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha.”

g.472 eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha

sangs rgyas kyi chos ma 'dres pa bcwa brgyad

སངས་རྒྱས་ཀྱི་ཚེས་མ་འདྲེས་པ་བཅུ་བརྒྱད། aṣṭādaśāveṇikabuddhadharma

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Eighteen special features of a buddha's behavior, realization, activity, and wisdom that are not shared by other beings. They are generally listed as: (1) he never makes a mistake, (2) he is never boisterous, (3) he never forgets, (4) his concentration never falters, (5) he has no notion of distinctness, (6) his equanimity is not due to lack of consideration, (7) his motivation never falters, (8) his endeavor never fails, (9) his mindfulness never falters, (10) he never abandons his concentration, (11) his insight (prajñā) never decreases, (12) his liberation never fails, (13) all his physical actions are preceded and followed by wisdom (jñāna), (14) all his verbal actions are preceded and followed by wisdom, (15) all his mental actions are preceded and followed by wisdom, (16) his wisdom and vision perceive the past without attachment or hindrance, (17) his wisdom and vision perceive the future without attachment or hindrance, and (18) his wisdom and vision perceive the present without attachment or hindrance.

g.473 eighteen emptinesses

stong pa nyid bco brgyad

སྟོང་པ་ཉིད་བཅོ་བརྒྱད།

aṣṭādaśaśūnyatā

These are enumerated at 2.18: (1) inner emptiness, (2) outer emptiness, (3) inner and outer emptiness, (4) the emptiness of emptiness, (5) great emptiness, (6) the emptiness of ultimate reality, (7) the emptiness of the compounded, (8) the emptiness of the un compounded, (9) the emptiness of what transcends limits, (10) the emptiness of no beginning and no end, (11) the emptiness of nonrepudiation, (12) the emptiness of a basic nature, (13) the emptiness of all dharmas, (14) the emptiness of its own mark, (15) the emptiness of not apprehending, (16) the emptiness of a nonexistent thing, (17) the emptiness of an intrinsic nature, and (18) the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature.

g.474 eightfold noble path

'phags pa'i lam yan lag brgyad

འཕགས་པའི་ལམ་ཡན་ལག་བརྒྱད།

āryāṣṭāṅgamārga

Right view, right idea, right speech, right conduct, right livelihood, right effort, right mindfulness, and right meditative stabilization.

g.475 eightfold path

lam yan lag brgyad

ལམ་ཡན་ལག་བརྒྱད།

aṣṭāṅgamārga

See “eightfold noble path.”

g.476 Ekachattrā

gdugs gcig pa

གདུགས་གཅིག་པ།

ekachattrā

Lit. “With a Single Umbrella.” A buddha in a world system called Vaśībhūtā, in the intermediate northwest direction.

g.477 ekākāra

rnam pa gcig tu gyur pa

རྣམ་པ་གཅིག་ཏུ་གྱུར་པ།

ekākāra

Lit. “single aspect.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.478 ekavyūha

bkod pa gcig pa

བཀོད་པ་གཅིག་པ།

ekavyūha

Lit. “single array.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.479 element

khams · dbyings

ཁམས། · དབྱིངས།

dhātu

Also rendered here as “constituent.”

g.480 element of nirvāṇa

mya ngan las 'das pa'i dbyings

མྱ་ངན་ལས་འདས་པའི་དབྱིངས། niroāṇadhātu

g.481 element of nirvāṇa without any aggregates left behind

phung po'i lhag ma med pa'i mya ngan las 'das pa'i dbyings

· phung po lhag ma med pa'i mya ngan las 'das pa'i dbyings

ཕུང་པོའི་ལྷག་མ་མེད་པའི་ལྷ་རྒྱ་རྣམས་འདས་པའི་དབྱིངས།

· ཕུང་པོ་ལྷག་མ་མེད་པའི་ལྷ་རྒྱ་རྣམས་འདས་པའི་དབྱིངས།

anupadhīṣeṣanīroāṇadhātu

g.482 elevated meditative stabilization mngon par 'phags pa'i ting nge 'dzin

མངོན་པར་འཕགས་པའི་ཉིང་ངེ་འཛིན། abhyudgatasamādhi

g.483 eleven knowledges

shes pa bcu gcig

ཤེས་པ་བརྒྱུག་ཅིག

ekadaśajñāna

Knowledge of suffering, knowledge of origination, knowledge of cessation, knowledge of the path, knowledge of extinction, knowledge of nonproduction, knowledge of dharma, subsequent realization knowledge, conventional knowledge, knowledge of mastery, and knowledge in accord with sound.

g.484 eliminate

spong bar byed

སྤོང་བར་བྱེད། prahāṇam kr

g.485 eliminating suffering

sdug bsngal sel ba

སྤུག་བསྐྱེད་སེལ་བ། duḥkhapoha

g.486 elimination in which states of existence are not produced mi skye ba'i spong bas spong

མི་སྐྱེ་བའི་སྤོང་བས་སྤོང།

anutpattikaprahāṇa

g.487 emancipated

rnam par grol ba

རྣམ་པར་གྲོལ་བ།

vivikta

g.488 emerge

nges par 'byung

ངེས་པར་འབྱུང་།

niryā

g.489 emotionally upsetting thought

'khrug pa'i sems

འཁྲུག་པའི་སེམས།

kṣubhaṇacitta

g.490 empathy

snying brtse ba

སྟིང་བརྟེ་བ།

kṛpā

g.491 employ controlling power

byin gyis rlob

བྱིན་གྱིས་རྫོབ།

adhiṣṭhā

g.492 emptiness

stong pa nyid

སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

śūnyatā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Emptiness denotes the ultimate nature of reality, the total absence of inherent existence and self-identity with respect to all phenomena.

According to this view, all things and events are devoid of any independent, intrinsic reality that constitutes their essence. Nothing can be said to exist independent of the complex network of factors that gives rise to its origination, nor are phenomena independent of the cognitive processes and mental constructs that make up the conventional framework within which their identity and existence are posited. When all levels of conceptualization dissolve and when all forms of dichotomizing tendencies are quelled through deliberate meditative deconstruction of conceptual elaborations, the ultimate nature of reality will finally become manifest. It is the first of the three gateways to liberation.

g.493 emptiness of a basic nature

rang bzhin gyi stong pa nyid

རང་བཞིན་གྱི་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

prakṛtiśūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.494 emptiness of a nature from something else

gzhan gyi dngos po stong pa nyid

གཞན་གྱི་དངོས་པོ་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

parabhāvaśūnyatā

See “emptiness.”

g.495 emptiness of a nonexistent thing

dngos po med pa stong pa nyid

དངོས་པོ་མེད་པ་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད། abhāvaśūnyatā

One of the eighteen emptinesses.

g.496 emptiness of all dharmas

chos thams cad stong pa nyid

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

sarvadharmasūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.497 emptiness of an intrinsic nature

ngo bo nyid stong pa nyid

ངོ་བོ་ཉིད་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད། svabhāvaśūnyatā

One of the eighteen emptinesses.

g.498 emptiness of emptiness

stong pa nyid stong pa nyid

སྟོང་པ་ཉིད་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

śūnyatāsūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses

g.499 emptiness of its own mark rang gi mtshan nyid stong pa nyid

རང་གི་མཚན་ཉིད་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

svalakṣaṇāsūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.500 emptiness of no beginning and no end

thog ma dang tha ma med pa stong pa nyid

ཐོག་མ་དང་ག་མ་མེད་པ་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད། anavarāgraśūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.501 emptiness of nonrepudiation

dor ba med pa stong pa nyid

དོར་བ་མེད་པ་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

anavakāraśūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.502 emptiness of not apprehending

mi dmigs pa stong pa nyid

མི་དམིགས་པ་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

anupalambhaśūnyatā

One of the eighteen emptinesses.

g.503 emptiness of the compounded

'dus byas stong pa nyid

འདུས་བྱས་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

saṃskṛtaśūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.504 emptiness of the un compounded

'dus ma byas stong pa nyid

འདུས་མ་བྱས་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

asaṃskṛtaśūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.505 emptiness of the unproduced

skye ba med pa stong pa nyid

སྐྱེ་བ་མེད་པ་སྣང་པ་ཉིད།

anutpādaśūnyatā

See “emptiness.”

g.506 emptiness of ultimate reality

don dam pa stong pa nyid

དོན་དམ་པ་སྣང་པ་ཉིད།

paramārthaśūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.507 emptiness of what transcends limits

mtha' las 'das pa stong pa nyid

མཐའ་ལས་འདས་པ་སྣང་པ་ཉིད།

atyantaśūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.508 emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature

dngos po med pa'i ngo bo nyid stong pa nyid

དངོས་པོ་མེད་པའི་ངོ་བོ་ཉིད་སྣང་པ་ཉིད།

abhāvasvabhāvaśūnyatā

One of the eighteen emptinesses.

g.509 emptiness that transcends limits

mtha' las 'das pa'i stong pa nyid

མཐའ་ལས་འདས་པའི་སྣང་པ་ཉིད།

atyantaśūnyatā

See “emptiness.”

g.510 emptinesses

stong pa nyid

སྣང་པ་ཉིད།

śūnyatā

This could refer to any of a number of enumerations of emptinesses. “Seven emptinesses,” “fourteen emptinesses,” and “eighteen emptinesses” are listed in this sūtra.

g.511 enacted

mngon par 'dus byas pa · mngon par 'du mdzad pa

མངོན་པར་འདུས་བྱས་པ། · མངོན་པར་འདུ་མཛད་པ། abhisamṣkrta

See “enactment.”

g.512 enactment

mngon par 'du bgyi ba · mngon par 'du byed pa · mngon par 'du mdzad pa

མངོན་པར་འདུ་བགྱི་བ། · མངོན་པར་འདུ་བྱེད་པ། · མངོན་པར་འདུ་མཛད་པ།

abhisamṣkāra

Here, to practice an enactment means to get tied up in, or to settle down on, what is not ultimately real as real.

g.513 encircling mountain ranges

khor yug

ཁོར་ཡུག cakravāḍa

g.514 enclose

dog

དོག

**parittikṛ<sup>RS</sup>*

g.515 endless consciousness

rnam shes mtha' yas

རྣམ་ཤེས་མཐའ་ཡས།

vijñānānantya

See “station of endless consciousness.”

g.516 endless space

nam mkha' mtha' yas

ནམ་མཁའ་མཐའ་ཡས།

ākāśānantya

See “station of endless space.”

g.517 energetic

brtson 'grus brtsams pa

བརྩོན་འགྲུས་བརྩམས་པ། ārabdhavīrya

g.518 energy

gzi brjid

གཟི་བརྗིད། ojas

g.519 engage in thought construction

spros par byed

སྐྱོས་པར་བྱེད།

prapañcaya

g.520 engaged

brtson pa

བརྩོན་པ།

yukta

g.521 engender

skyed

སྐྱེད།

utpādaya

g.522 enjoin

sbyor

སྐྱོར། niyojaya

g.523 entertain the thought

sems bskyed

སེམས་བསྐྱེད། cittotpadyate

g.524 entrance into all for which there are no letters

yi ge med pa thams cad la 'jug · yi ge rnams med pa la 'jug pa

ཡི་གེ་མེད་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་ལ་འཇུག་ . ཡི་གེ་རྣམས་མེད་པ་ལ་འཇུག་པ། sarvānakṣarapraveśā

g.525 eon conflagration

sreg pa'i bskal pa

སྲེག་པའི་བསྐྱལ་པ།

kalpoddhāha

This refers to the conflagration that is the twentieth of the twenty “sub-eons” making up the third (destruction eon) of the four subdivisions of a “great eon” (mahākalpa). The other three major divisions of a great eon are the eon of arising, of duration, and (after the eon of destruction) of voidness.

g.526 equal to the unequaled

mi mnyam pa dang mnyam pa

མི་མཉམ་པ་དང་མཉམ་པ།

asamasama

g.527 equanimity

btang snyoms

བཏང་སྟོབས།

upeksā

The antidote to attachment and aversion; a mental state free from bias toward sentient beings and experiences. One of the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening, one of the four practices of spiritual practitioners, and one of the four immeasurables (the others being loving-kindness or love, compassion, and sympathetic joy).

g.528 error of perception

'du shes phyin ci log tu gyur pa

འདུ་ཤེས་ཕྱིན་ཅིལ་ག་ཏུ་གྱུར་པ། saṃjñāviparyāsa

g.529 escape

nges par 'byung ba · nges par 'byin pa · 'byung ba

ངེས་པར་འགྱུར་བ། . ངེས་པར་འབྱིན་པ། . འགྱུར་བ། niryāṇa · niḥṣṛ

- g.530 essential nature
bdag nyid བདག་ཉིད། ātmaka
- g.531 establishment of dharmas
chos gnas pa nyid ཚོས་གནས་པ་ཉིད། dharmasthititā
 Like “dharma-constituent” (dharmadhātu) and “true nature of dharmas” (dharmatā), a name for the ultimate.
- g.532 eternal
rtag pa
 རྟག་པ། śāśvata
- g.533 everything perfect
phun sum tshogs pa ཕུན་སུམ་ཚོགས་པ། sampat
- g.534 examination of dharmas
chos rnam par 'byed pa ཚོས་རྣམ་པར་འབྱེད་པ། dharmapравicaya
- g.535 excellent definitive teaching shin tu mthar gtugs pa ཤིན་ཏུ་མཐར་གཏུགས་པ། supariniṣṭhita
- g.536 excellent explanation
nges pa'i tshig legs pa ངེས་པའི་ཚིག་ལེགས་པ། sunirukta

g.537 excellent restraint

legs par sdom pa

ལེགས་པར་སྡོམ་པ། saṃlekha

g.538 exert

rab tu 'dzin

རབ་ཏུ་འཛིན། pragrah

g.539 existence

srid pa

སྲིད་པ།

bhava

Denotes the whole of existence, i.e., the five forms of life or the three planes of existence—all the possible kinds and places of karmic rebirth. It is also the tenth of the twelve links of dependent origination (often translated as “becoming”).

g.540 existent thing

dngos po

དངོས་པོ།

bhāva

Also rendered as “real thing,” “something that exists,” and “real basis.”

g.541 exorcise

gud du 'gro bar 'gyur

གུད་དུ་འགོ་བར་འགྱུར། apakrām

g.542 expanded text

shin tu rgyas pa

ཤིན་ཏུ་རྒྱས་པ།

vaipulya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the twelve branches of scripture or aspects of the Dharma. Literally meaning “vast” or “extensive,” it refers to a particular set of lengthy sūtras or collections of sūtras that provides a comprehensive overview of Buddhist thought and practice. This category includes individual works such as the Lalitavistara and Saddharmapundarīka and collections such as the Mahā-sannipāta, Buddhāvataṃsaka, Ratnakūta, and Prajñāpāramitā.

g.543 exposition

gtan la bab par bstan pa · gtan la dbab par bstan pa'i sde

གཏན་ལ་བབ་པར་བསྟན་པ། · གཏན་ལ་དབབ་པར་བསྟན་པའི་སྡེ། upadeśa

As one of the twelve aspects of the wheel of Dharma, it means the explanation of details in the teachings and is synonymous with Abhidharma.

g.544 expound an exposition

gdags pa 'dogs pa

གདགས་པ་འདོགས་པ།

prajñāpayantaḥ prajñāpayanti

g.545 expressing the statement as an absolute yang dag pa'i tshig brjod pas

ཡང་དག་པའི་ཚིག་བརྗོད་པས།

bhūtapadābhidhānena

g.546 extent of the physical horrors

lus kyi tshad

ལུས་ཀྱི་ཚད།

ātmabhāvāsya pramāṇam

g.547 extinction of craving

sred pa zad pa

སྲིད་པ་ཟད་པ། tṛṣṇākṣaya

g.548 extraordinary right view

'jig rten las 'das pa'i yang dag pa'i lta ba

འཇིག་རྟེན་ལས་འདས་པའི་ཡང་དག་པའི་ལྷ་བ།

laukikī samyagdrṣṭi

- g.549 extremely isolated shin tu dben pa ཤིན་ཏུ་དབེན་པ། atyanatayā viviktaḥ
 See also n.614.
- g.550 extremely powerful gzi brjid che ba gzi brjid che ba གཟི་བརྗིད་ཆེ་བ་གཟི་བརྗིད་ཆེ་བ། mahaujaska mahaujaska
- g.551 extremely pure
rnam par dag pa · shin tu rnam par dag pa རྣམ་པར་དག་པ། · ཤིན་ཏུ་རྣམ་པར་དག་པ། viśuddha · suviśuddha
- g.552 extricate
'don འདོན། uddhr
- g.553 eye consciousness constituent mig gi rnam par shes pa'i khams མིག་གི་རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པའི་ཁམས། caḥṣuvijñānadhātu
 One of the eighteen constituents.
- g.554 eye contact sense field
mig gi 'dus te reg pa'i skye mched མིག་གི་འདུས་ཏེ་རེག་པའི་སྐྱེ་མཆེད། caḥṣuḥsaṃsparśāyatana
- g.555 face to face
mngon sum du མཐོན་སྐྱུལ་དུ། saṃmukham

- g.556 faculty
dbang po
 དབང་པོ།
indriya
 See “five faculties” when part of the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening and “six faculties” as in the sense faculties. In some contexts indriya is rendered as “dominant.”
- g.557 faculty of coming to understand what one does not understand mi shes pa kun shes par byed pa'i dbang po མི་ཤེས་པ་ཀུན་ཤེས་པར་བྱེད་པའི་དབང་པོ། anājñātam ājñāsyāmi indriya
- g.558 faculty of having understood kun shes pa dang ldan pa'i dbang po ཀུན་ཤེས་པ་དང་ལྡན་པའི་དབང་པོ། ājñātāvīndriya
- g.559 faculty of understanding kun shes pa'i dbang po ཀུན་ཤེས་པའི་དབང་པོ། ājñendriya
- g.560 faith
dad pa དད་པ། śraddhā
- g.561 faith follower
dad pa'i rjes su 'brang ba · dad pas rjes su 'brang ba དད་པའི་རྗེས་སུ་འབྲང་བ། · དད་པས་རྗེས་སུ་འབྲང་བ། śraddhānusārin
- g.562 fake
ltar bcos pa
 ལྷན་བཅོས་པ། prativarṇaka

- g.563 false imagination
yongs su rtog pa ཡོངས་སུ་རྟོག་པ། parikalpa
- g.564 false imagination of the unreal
yod pa ma yin par yongs su rtog pa ཡོད་པ་མ་ཡིན་པར་ཡོངས་སུ་རྟོག་པ། asatparikalpa
- g.565 false projection
rlom sems su byed
 རྣོམ་སེམས་སུ་བྱེད། man
- g.566 falsely project superiority over
rlom sems su byed
 རྣོམ་སེམས་སུ་བྱེད།
avaman
- g.567 falsify
slu ལྷ། visamvada
- g.568 farther shore
pha rol ཕ་རོལ། para
- g.569 farthest limit
pha mtha'
 ཕ་མཐའ། **āram<sup>RS</sup>*
- g.570 fault finder
klaṅ ka tshol bar byed pa

ལྷན་ཀ་ཚལ་བར་བྱེད་པ།

—

g.571 fault finding

mtshang 'dru · klan ka tshol ba

མཚང་འདྲུ། ་ ལྷན་ཀ་ཚལ་བ།

bhaṅḍana · upāmbha

g.572 favor

dam pa

དམ་པ། vara

g.573 fearlessness

mi 'jigs pa

མི་འཇིགས་པ།

vaiśāradya

When plural refers to the “four fearlessnesses.”

g.574 feeling

tshor ba

ཚོར་བ།

vedanā

The second of the five aggregates: pleasant, unpleasant, or neutral feelings as a result of sensory experiences.

g.575 feeling of delight

dga' ba

དགའ་བ།

spṛhā

g.576 female

bud med

བུད་མེད།

strī

g.577 feminine word

bud med kyi tshig bla dags

བྱང་མེད་གྱི་ཚིག་སྒྲ་དགས།

strydhivacana

g.578 fetter

kun tu sbyor ba

ཀུན་ཏུ་སྦྱོར་བ། saṃyojana

g.579 fetters that are associated with living in the desire realm

'dod pa na spyod pa'i 'thun pa'i kun tu sbyor ba rnam

འདོད་པ་ན་སྦྱོད་པའི་འབྲུན་པའི་ཀུན་ཏུ་སྦྱོར་བ་རྣམས།

—

See “five fetters that are associated with the lower realms.”

g.580 few seconds

thang cig

ཐང་ཅིག lava

g.581 fierce aspiration

bsam pa drag ldan

བསམ་པ་རྒྱལ་ལྡན།

—

g.582 final ally

dpung gnyen

དཔུང་གཉེན། parāyaṇa

g.583 final limit of reality

yang dag pa'i mtha'

ཡང་དག་པའི་མཐའ།

bhūtakoṭi

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

This term has three meanings: (1) the ultimate nature, (2) the experience of the ultimate nature, and (3) the quiescent state of a worthy one (arhat) to be avoided by bodhisattvas.

In this text:

Also translated as “very limit of reality.”

g.584 find fault

bka' gcog

བཀའ་གཅོག་

upālabh · upārambh

g.585 finds it hard to get drowsy and fall asleep

rmugs pa dang gnyid chung ba

རླུགས་པ་དང་གཉིད་རྒྱུང་བ།

alpastyānamiddha

g.586 firmly planted

nye bar brtan

ཉེབར་བརྟན། upastabdha

g.587 five aggregates

phung po lnga

ཕུང་པོ་ལྔ།

pañcaskandha

See “aggregate”.

g.588 five appropriating aggregates

nye bar len pa'i phung po lnga

ཉེབར་ལེན་པའི་ཕུང་པོ་ལྔ།

pañcopādānaskandha

This refers to the five aggregates as the bases upon which a nonexistent self is mistakenly projected. That is, they are the basis of “appropriation” (upādāna) insofar as all grasping arises on the basis of the aggregates.

g.589 five clairvoyances

mngon par shes pa lnga

མངོན་པར་ཤེས་པ་ལྔ།

pañcābhijñā

See “clairvoyances.”

g.590 five eyes

mig lnga

མིག་ལྔ།

pañcacakṣu

The flesh eye, divine eye, wisdom eye, dharma eye, and buddha eye.

g.591 five faculties

dbang po lnga

དབང་པོ་ལྔ།

pañcendriya

The faculties of faith, perseverance, mindfulness, meditative stabilization, and wisdom. They are the same as the five powers, only at a lesser stage of development.

g.592 five fetters that are associated with the lower realms tha ma'i cha dang 'thun pa'i kun tu sbyor ba lnga

ཐ་མའི་ཚདང་འཇུན་པའི་ཀུན་ཏུ་སྦྱོར་བ་ལྔ།

—

The five fetters associated with the lower realms comprise desire, hatred, inertia due to wrong views, attachment to moral and ascetic supremacy, and hesitation.

g.593 five fetters that are associated with the upper realms gong ma'i cha dang 'thun pa'i kun tu sbyor ba lnga

གོང་མའི་ཚདང་འཇུན་པའི་ཀུན་ཏུ་སྦྱོར་བ་ལྔ།

—

The five fetters associated with the upper realms comprise attachment to the form realm, attachment to the formless realm, ignorance, pride, and mental agitation.

g.594 five forms of life

'gro ba lnga · 'gro ba lnga po · 'gro ba rnam pa lnga

འགྲོ་བ་ལྔ། · འགྲོ་བ་ལྔ་པོ། · འགྲོ་བ་རྣམ་པ་ལྔ།

—

These comprise the gods and humans in the higher realms within saṃsāra, plus the animals, ghosts, and denizens of hell in the lower realms.

g.595 five inexpressible sins

mtshams med pa lnga ba · mtshams ma mchis pa lnga po

མཚམས་མེད་པ་ལྔ་བ། · མཚམས་མ་མཚིས་པ་ལྔ་པོ།

pañcānantarya

Acts for which one will be reborn in hell immediately after death, without any intervening stages; they are killing a worthy one, killing one's father, killing one's mother, causing a schism in the saṅgha, and maliciously drawing blood from a tathāgata.

g.596 five obscurations

sgrib pa lnga

སྒྲིབ་པ་ལྔ།

pañcanivarāṇa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Five impediments to meditation (bsam gtan, dhyāna): sensory desire ('dod pa la 'dun pa, kāmācchanda), ill will (gnod sems, vyāpāda), drowsiness and torpor (rmugs pa dang gnyid, styānamiddha), agitation and regret (rgod pa dang 'gyod pa, auddhatyakaukrtya), and doubt (the tshom, vicikitsā).

g.597 five perfections

pha rol tu phyin pa lnga

ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་ཕྱིན་པ་ལྔ།

pañcapāramitā

The six perfections excluding the perfection of wisdom: giving, morality, patience, perseverance or effort, and concentration.

g.598 five powers

stobs lnga

སྟོབས་ལྔ།

pañcabala

Faith, perseverance, mindfulness, meditative stabilization, and wisdom. These are among the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening. Although the same as the five faculties, they are termed "powers" due to their greater strength. See also "ten powers."

g.599 five sorts of sense object

'dod pa'i yon tan lnga

འདོད་པའི་ཡོན་ཏན་ལྔ།

pañca kāmaguṇāḥ

Desirable objects of the five senses: form, sound, smell, taste, and touch.

g.600 five undiminished clairvoyances

ma nyams pa'i mngon par shes pa lnga

མ་ཉམས་པའི་མངོན་པར་ཤེས་པ་ལྟ།

—

See “clairvoyances.”

g.601 five-point training

bslab pa'i gzhi lnga

བསྐྱབ་པའི་གཞི་ལྟ།

pañcan śikṣāpada

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Refers to the five fundamental precepts of abstaining from killing, stealing, sexual misconduct, lying, and consuming intoxicants.

g.602 fixed nature of dharmas

chos nyid skyon med pa nyid · chos skyon med pa nyid

ཚོས་ཉིད་སྐྱོན་མེད་པ་ཉིད། · ཚོས་སྐྱོན་མེད་པ་ཉིད། dharmatānīyāmatā · dharmanīyāmatā

g.603 flawlessness

skyon med pa

སྐྱོན་མེད་པ།

nyāma

This word is also understood as equivalent to nyāma (“certain”).

g.604 flawlessness that is a perfect state

yang dag pa'i skyon med pa · yang dag pa nyid skyon med pa

ཡང་དག་པའི་སྐྱོན་མེད་པ། · ཡང་དག་པ་ཉིད་སྐྱོན་མེད་པ། samyaktvanyāma

See also n.380.

g.605 flax flower

zar ma'i me tog

ཟར་མའི་མེ་ཏོག། umakapuṣpa

g.606 flesh eye

sha'i mig

ཤའི་མིག

māṃsacakṣu

One of the five eyes.

g.607 flesh-eating demon

srin po

སྲིན་པོ།

rākṣasa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A class of nonhuman beings that are often, but certainly not always, considered demonic in the Buddhist tradition. They are often depicted as flesh-eating monsters who haunt frightening places and are ugly and evil-natured with a yearning for human flesh, and who additionally have miraculous powers, such as being able to change their appearance.

g.608 focus on

dmigs

དམིགས།

ālambh

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

dmigs (pa) translates a number of Sanskrit terms, including ālambana, upalabdhi, and ālambate. These terms commonly refer to the apprehending of a subject, an object, and the relationships that exist between them. The term may also be translated as “referentiality,” meaning a system based on the existence of referent objects, referent subjects, and the referential relationships that exist between them. As part of their doctrine of “threefold nonapprehending / nonreferentiality” ('khor gsum mi dmigs pa), Mahāyāna Buddhists famously assert that all three categories of apprehending lack substantiality.

g.609 focus on

lhur len pa

ལུར་ལེན་པ།

guruko bhavati

g.610 focused

sems rtse gcig pa

སེམས་རྩེ་གཅིག་པ། ekāgracitta

g.611 follow after

phyi bzhin 'brang

ཕྱི་བཞིན་འབྲང།

anubandh

g.612 for making manifest

mngon sum du byed par 'gyur

མངོན་སུམ་དུ་བྱེད་པར་འགྱུར། sākṣātkryāyai

g.613 for whom the path of speech has ended

tshig gi lam chad pa

ཚིག་གི་ལམ་ཆད་པ།

—

g.614 for whom there is no more training

mi slob pa

མི་སློབ་པ། aśaikṣa

g.615 forbearance

bzod pa

བཟོད་པ།

kṣānti

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A term meaning acceptance, forbearance, or patience. As the third of the six perfections, patience is classified into three kinds: the capacity to tolerate abuse from sentient beings, to tolerate the hardships of the path to buddhahood, and to tolerate the profound nature of reality. As a term referring to a bodhisattva's realization, dharmakṣānti (chos la bzod pa) can refer to the ways one becomes "receptive" to the nature of Dharma, and it can be an abbreviation of anutpattikadharmakṣānti, "forbearance to the unborn nature, or nonproduction, of dharmas."

In this text:

Also rendered here as “patience.”

g.616 forbearance for nonproduction

mi skye bar bzod pa

མི་སྐྱེ་བར་བཟོད་པ།

anutpādakṣānti

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The bodhisattvas’ realization that all phenomena are unproduced and empty. It sustains them on the difficult path of benefiting all beings so that they do not succumb to the goal of personal liberation. Different sources link this realization to the first or eighth bodhisattva level (bhūmi).

g.617 forbearance for the nonproduction of dharmas

mi skye ba’i chos la bzod pa

མི་སྐྱེ་བའི་ཚོས་ལ་བཟོད་པ།

anutpattikadharmakṣānti

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The bodhisattvas’ realization that all phenomena are unproduced and empty. It sustains them on the difficult path of benefiting all beings so that they do not succumb to the goal of personal liberation. Different sources link this realization to the first or eighth bodhisattva level (bhūmi).

g.618 form

gzugs

གཟུགས།

rūpa

The first of the five aggregates: the subtle and coarse forms derived from the primary material elements.

g.619 form a notion

kun tu shes

ཀུན་ཏུ་ཤེས།

saṃjñā

g.620 form an idea of

rtog par byed

རྟོག་པར་བྱེད།

parāṃṛṣ

g.621 form body

gzugs kyi sku

གཟུགས་ཀྱི་སྐུ།

rūpakāya

The visible form of a buddha that is perceived by other beings, in contrast to his “dharma body,” the dharmakāya, which is the eternal, imperceptible realization of a buddha.

g.622 form of life in suffering existence

srid par 'gro ba

སྲིད་པར་འགོ་བ།

—

g.623 form realm

gzugs kyi kham

གཟུགས་ཀྱི་ཁམས།

rūpadhātu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the three realms of saṃsāra in Buddhist cosmology, it is characterized by subtle materiality. Here beings, though subtly embodied, are not driven primarily by the urge for sense gratification. It consists of seventeen heavens structured according to the four concentrations of the form realm (rūpāvācaradhyāna), the highest five of which are collectively called “pure abodes” (śuddhāvāsa). The form realm is located above the desire realm (kāmadhātu) and below the formless realm (ārūpyadhātu).

g.624 formless

gzugs med pa

གཟུགས་མེད་པ། arūpin

g.625 formless absorption

gzugs med pa'i snyoms par 'jug pa

གཟུགས་མེད་པའི་སྣོད་མས་པར་འཇུག་པ། ārūpyasamāpatti

See “four formless absorptions.”

g.626 formless realm

gzugs med pa'i kham

གཟུགས་མེད་པའི་ཁམས།

ārūpyadhātu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The highest and subtlest of the three realms of saṃsāra in Buddhist cosmology. Here beings are no longer bound by materiality and enjoy a purely mental state of absorption. It is divided in four levels according to each of the four formless concentrations (ārūpyāvacaradhyāna), namely, the Sphere of Infinite Space (ākāśānantyāyatana), the Sphere of Infinite Consciousness (viññānānantyāyatana), the Sphere of Nothingness (akiñcanyāyatana), and the Sphere of Neither Perception nor Non-perception (naivasaṃjñānāsaṃjñāyatana). The formless realm is located above the other two realms of saṃsāra, the form realm (rūpadhātu) and the desire realm (kāmadhātu).

g.627 formulate a view

lta ba bskyed

ལྟ་བ་བསྐྱེད།

dṛṣṭim utpādaya

g.628 forsake what is right and engage in actions that are wrong

chos btang nas ni chos min bya ba spyod 'gyur ba

ཚོས་བཏང་ནས་ནི་ཚོས་མིན་གྲ་བ་སྦྱོད་འགྱུར་བ། choritva dharma kāriṣyanti adharmakaryaṃ

g.629 Fortunate Age

bskal pa bzang po

བསྐྱལ་པ་བཟང་པོ།

bhadrakalpa

The name of the current eon, so-called because one thousand buddhas are prophesied to appear during this time.

g.630 foundation

gnas

གནས། pratiṣṭhāna

g.631 four applications of mindfulness

dran pa nye bar gzhas pa bzhi

སྒྲུབ་པ་ལྷན་པ་གཞན་པ་བཞི།

catuḥsmṛtyupasthāna

The application of mindfulness to the body, the application of mindfulness to feeling, the application of mindfulness to mind, and the application of mindfulness to dharmas.

g.632 four appropriations

len pa bzhi

ལོན་པ་བཞི།

caturupādāna

Four negative appropriations: that of desire, that of view, that of the view of the self, and that of moral supremacy.

g.633 four birthplaces of being

skye gnas bzhi

སྐྱེ་གནས་བཞི།

caturyoni

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The fourfold classification of ways in which beings are born: (1) birth from an egg, (2) birth from a womb, (3) birth from warmth and moisture, and (4) miraculous birth.

g.634 four bonds

sbyor ba bzhi

སྐྱུར་བ་བཞི།

caturyoga

Most likely these refer to (1) desire ('dod pa), (2) existence (srid pa), (3) view(s) (lta ba), and (4) ignorance (ma rig pa).

g.635 four concentrations

bsam gtan bzhi

བསམ་མ་གཏན་བཞི།

caturdhyāna

The four progressive levels of concentration of the form realm that culminate in pure one-pointedness of mind and are the basis for developing insight.

These are part of the nine serial absorptions. The formulas given at 16.54 are the definitions or descriptions for each of the four.

g.636 four continents

gling bzhi

སྒྲིང་བཞི།

caturdvīpa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

According to traditional Buddhist cosmology, our universe consists of a central mountain, known as Mount Meru or Sumeru, surrounded by four island continents (dvīpa), one in each of the four cardinal directions. The Abhidharmakośa explains that each of these island continents has a specific shape and is flanked by two smaller subcontinents of similar shape. To the south of Mount Meru is Jambudvīpa, corresponding either to the Indian subcontinent itself or to the known world. It is triangular in shape, and at its center is the place where the buddhas attain awakening. The humans who inhabit Jambudvīpa have a lifespan of one hundred years. To the east is Videha, a semicircular continent inhabited by humans who have a lifespan of two hundred fifty years and are twice as tall as the humans who inhabit Jambudvīpa. To the north is Uttarakuru, a square continent whose inhabitants have a lifespan of a thousand years. To the west is Godānīya, circular in shape, where the lifespan is five hundred years.

g.637 four detailed and thorough knowledges

so so yang dag par rig pa bzhi

སོ་སོ་ཡང་དག་པར་རིག་པ་བཞི།

catuḥpratisamvid

The knowledge of the meaning, the knowledge of phenomena, the knowledge of interpretation, and the knowledge of eloquence.

g.638 four errors

phyin ci log bzhi

ཕྱིན་ཅི་ལོག་བཞི།

caturviparyāsa

Taking what is impermanent to be permanent, what is suffering to be happiness, what is unclean to be clean, and what is not self to be a self.

g.639 four fearlessnesses

mi 'jigs pa bzhi

མི་འཇིགས་པ་བཞི།

caturvaiśāradya

Fearlessness in declaring that one has (1) awakened, (2) ceased all illusions, (3) taught the obstacles to awakening, and (4) shown the way to liberation.

g.640 four floods

chu bo bzhi

ཕྱུ་བོ་བཞི།

caturrogha

The four rivers of existence, craving, ignorance, and wrong view.

g.641 four formless absorptions

gzugs med pa'i snyoms par 'jug pa bzhi

གཟུགས་མེད་པའི་སྣོ་མས་པར་འཇུག་པ་བཞི།

caturārūpyasamāpatti

These comprise the absorptions of (1) the station of endless space, (2) the station of endless consciousness, (3) the station of the nothing-at-all absorption, and (4) the station of neither perception nor nonperception.

g.642 four great elements

'byung ba chen po bzhi

འབྱུང་བ་ཆེན་པོ་བཞི།

caturmahābhūta

The four “main” or “great” outer elements of earth, water, fire, and air.

g.643 four immeasurables

tshad med pa bzhi

ཚིན་མེད་པ་བཞི།

catvāryapramāṇāni

The four positive qualities of loving-kindness, compassion, sympathetic joy, and equanimity, which may be radiated towards oneself and then immeasurable sentient beings.

g.644 four knots

mdud pa bzhi

མདུད་པ་བཞི།

caturgranthā

The four knots comprise covetousness, malice, moral supremacy, and ascetic supremacy.

g.645 four legs of miraculous power

rdzu 'phrul gyi rkang pa bzhi

རྩུ་འཕྲུལ་གྱི་རྐང་པ་བཞི།

caturṛddhipāda

The four are desire-to-do (or yearning) (chanda), perseverance (vīrya), concentrated mind (citta), and examination (mīmāṃsā).

g.646 Four Mahārājas

rgyal po chen po bzhi

རྒྱལ་པོ་ཚེན་པོ་བཞི།

caturmahārāja

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Four gods who live on the lower slopes (fourth level) of Mount Meru in the eponymous Heaven of the Four Great Kings (Cāturmahārājika, rgyal chen bzhi'i ris) and guard the four cardinal directions. Each is the leader of a nonhuman class of beings living in his realm. They are Dhṛtarāṣṭra, ruling the gandharvas in the east; Virūḍhaka, ruling over the kumbhāṇḍas in the south; Virūpākṣa, ruling the nāgas in the west; and Vaiśravaṇa (also known as Kubera) ruling the yakṣas in the north. Also referred to as Guardians of the World or World-Protectors (lokapāla, 'jig rten skyong ba).

g.647 four noble truths

'phags pa'i bden pa bzhi

འཕགས་པའི་བདེན་པ་བཞི།

caturāryasatya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The four truths that the Buddha transmitted in his first teaching: (1) suffering, (2) the origin of suffering, (3) the cessation of suffering, and (4) the path to the cessation of suffering.

g.648 four pairs of persons and eight individual persons

skyes bu zung bzhi dang / skyes bu gang zag ya brgyad po

སྐྱེས་བུ་རྩུང་བཞི་དང་། སྐྱེས་བུ་གང་ཟག་ཡ་བརྒྱད་པོ། catvāraḥ puruṣayugāḥ aṣṭau mahāpuruṣapudgalāḥ

g.649 four practices of spiritual practitioners

tshangs pa'i gnas pa bzhi

ཚེངས་པའི་གནས་པ་བཞི།

caturbrahmapvihāra

These are love, compassion, joy, and equanimity.

g.650 four presentations

rnam par dgod pa bzhi

རྣམ་པར་དགོད་པ་བཞི།

caturvyavasthānatā

The four presentations are (1) a presentation of doctrine representations (the divisions of the Buddha's teachings), (2) a presentation of truth representations (one, two, four, up to an infinite number of truths), (3) a presentation of reasoning (rig / rigs pa, yukti) representations (from contingency, function, logical proof, and the nature of things), and (4) a presentation of vehicles (three).

Pāli vavatthāna; Ñāṇamoli 1976 "definition"; Thurman 2004 "classification."

g.651 four retinues

'khor bzhi po

འཁོར་བཞི་པོ།

catasrah parṣadaḥ · catuḥpariṣad

These are monks, nuns, and male and female followers of the householder code of conduct.

g.652 four right efforts

yang dag pa'i spong ba bzhi

ཡང་དག་པའི་སྤོང་བ་བཞི།

catuḥsamyakprahāṇa

Four types of effort consisting in abandoning existing negative mind states, abandoning the production of such states, giving rise to virtuous mind states that are not yet produced, and letting those states continue.

g.653 four truths

bden pa bzhi

བདེན་པ་བཞི།

catuḥsatya

See "four noble truths."

g.654 four ways of gathering a retinue

bsdu ba'i dngos po bzhi

བསྐྱུ་བའི་དངོས་པོ་བཞི།

catuḥsaṃgrahavastu

Giving gifts, kind words, beneficial actions, and consistency between words and deeds.

g.655 four-continent world system

gling bzhi pa'i 'jig rten gyi khams

གླིང་བཞི་པའི་འཇིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ཁམས།

—

A world system formed by four great island continents. In this world system, a central mountain, Sumeru, is surrounded in the four cardinal directions by Jambudvīpa (our world) in the south, Godānīya in the west, Uttarakuru in the north, and Pūrvavideha in the east.

g.656 fourteen emptinesses

stong pa nyid bcu bzhi po

སྟོང་པ་ཉིད་བརྒྱབཞི་པོ།

caturdaśaśūnyatā

These comprise the first fourteen of the eighteen emptinesses, which are enumerated at 2.18: (1) inner emptiness, (2) outer emptiness, (3) inner and outer emptiness, (4) the emptiness of emptiness, (5) great emptiness, (6) the emptiness of ultimate reality, (7) the emptiness of the compounded, (8) the emptiness of the un compounded, (9) the emptiness of what transcends limits, (10) the emptiness of no beginning and no end, (11) the emptiness of nonrepudiation, (12) the emptiness of a basic nature, (13) the emptiness of all dharmas, and (14) the emptiness of its own mark.

g.657 fraud

ya ma brla

ཡ་མ་བརྒྱ།

vāśita

g.658 free from appropriation len pa med pa

ལེན་པ་མེད་པ།

anupādāna · nirupādāna

- g.659 free from thought construction spros pa dang bral ba སྣོས་པ་དང་བྲལ་བ། niṣprapañca
- g.660 free up
yangs
 ཡངས། *vipulīkr<sup>RS</sup>
- g.661 freed from movement
bral bar g.yo ba བྲལ་བར་གཡོ་བ། nimiñjita
- g.662 friend
grogs po · mdza' bshes བློགས་པོ། · མཛེའ་བཤེས། mārṣa · mitra
- g.663 friends of the dark
nag po'i rtsa lag ནག་པོའི་རྩ་ལག། kṛṣṇabandu
- g.664 from the perspective of cause
rgyu'i rnam par རྒྱུའི་རྣམ་པར། hetutaḥ
- g.665 from the perspective of place
gnas kyi rnam par གནས་ཀྱི་རྣམ་པར། sthānaśaḥ
- g.666 fruit of a jackfruit tree
shing pa na sa'i 'bras bu

- ཤིང་པ་ན་སའི་འབྲས་བུ། panasaphala
- g.667 fruit of a mango tree
shing a mra'i 'bras bu
- ཤིང་ཨ་མྲའི་འབྲས་བུ། amraphala
- g.668 frustrated
mi 'grub pa dang ngal ba'i skal pa can
- མི་འགྲུབ་པ་དང་ངལ་བའི་སྐྱལ་པ་ཅན། vighatasya bhāgin
- g.669 full of holes
shin tu gtse
- ཤིན་ཏུ་གཙོ། atyantacchidra
- g.670 fully awakened
mingon par rdzogs par sangs rgyas
- མངོན་པར་རྫོགས་པར་སངས་རྒྱས། abhisambuddha
- g.671 fully grasped legs par zin pa
- ལེགས་པར་ཟེན་པ། suparigṛhīta
- g.672 fully rounded
tshul dang ldan pa
- ཚྭ་དང་ལྡན་པ། ṽrttasampanna
- g.673 furnished with the best of all aspects
rnam pa thams cad kyi mchog dang ldan pa
- རྣམ་པ་བཅས་ཅད་ཀྱི་མཚོག་དང་ལྡན་པ། sarvākaravaropetā

- g.674 gaganakalpa
nam mkha' dang mtshungs pa ནམ་མཁའ་དང་མཚུངས་པ། gaganakalpa
 Lit. "sky-like." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.675 gaganākalpa
nam mkha' rtog pa med pa ནམ་མཁའ་རྟོག་པ་མེད་པ། gaganākalpa
 Lit. "inconceivable sky." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.676 gaganāparyata
nam mkha' mu med pa ནམ་མཁའ་མུ་མེད་པ། gaganāparyata
 Lit. "limitless sky." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.677 gain
thob ཐོབ། anuprāp
- g.678 gambhīradharmaprabhākara
chos zab mo'i 'od byed pa ཚོས་ཟབ་མོའི་འོད་བྱེད་པ། gambhīradharmaprabhākara
 Lit. "illuminator of the deep dharmas." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.679 gandharva
dri za འྲི་ཟ། gandharva
Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:
 A class of generally benevolent nonhuman beings who inhabit the skies, sometimes said to inhabit fantastic cities in the clouds, and more specifically to dwell on the eastern slopes of Mount Meru, where they are under the jurisdiction of the Great King Dhṛtarāṣṭra. They are most renowned as celestial musicians who serve the gods. In the Abhidharma, the term is also used to refer to the mental body assumed by sentient beings during the intermediate state between death and rebirth. Gandharvas are said to live on fragrances (gandha) in the desire realm, hence the Tibetan translation dri za, meaning “scent eater.”

g.680 Gandhavatī

spos ldan

སྣོས་ལྷན།

gandhavatī

Lit. “Fragrant.” The city in which the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata resides.

g.681 Gaṅgā River

gang gA'i klung

གང་གཱའི་ཀླུང།

gaṅgā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Gaṅgā, or Ganges in English, is considered to be the most sacred river of India, particularly within the Hindu tradition. It starts in the Himalayas, flows through the northern plains of India, bathing the holy city of Vārāṇasī, and meets the sea at the Bay of Bengal, in Bangladesh. In the sūtras, however, this river is mostly mentioned not for its sacredness but for its abundant sands—noticeable still today on its many sandy banks and at its delta—which serve as a common metaphor for infinitely large numbers.

According to Buddhist cosmology, as explained in the Abhidharmakośa, it is one of the four rivers that flow from Lake Anavatapta and cross the southern continent of Jambudvīpa—the known human world or more specifically the Indian subcontinent.

g.682 Gaṅgadevī

gang gA'i lha mo

གང་གཱའི་ལྷ་མོ།

gaṅgadevī · gaṅgadevā

The name of a nun who commits to the practice of the six perfections and worships the Buddha with golden-colored flowers. The Buddha predicts her future awakening as the buddha Suvarṇapuṣpa, during the eon called Tārakopama.

g.683 garbage worker

g.yung po

གཡུང་པོ།

pukkaśa

g.684 garden

skyed mos tshal

སྐྱེད་མོས་ཚལ།

udyāna

g.685 garuḍa

nam mkha' lding

ནམ་མཁའ་ལྗིང་།

garuḍa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Indian mythology, the garuḍa is an eagle-like bird that is regarded as the king of all birds, normally depicted with a sharp, owl-like beak, often holding a snake, and with large and powerful wings. They are traditionally enemies of the nāgas. In the Vedas, they are said to have brought nectar from the heavens to earth. Garuḍa can also be used as a proper name for a king of such creatures.

g.686 gateway to liberation

rnam par thar pa'i sgo

རྣམ་པར་ཐར་པའི་སྒོ།

vimokṣamukha

A set of three points associated with the nature of phenomena that when contemplated and integrated lead to liberation. The three are emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness.

g.687 gauge

tshad

ཚད། pramāṇa

g.688 geese

ngang ngur

ངང་ངུར། haṃsa

g.689 generate the intention

sems skyed

སེམས་སྐྱེད།

cittam utpādaya

g.690 get close to nye bar gyur

ཉེབར་གྱུར། āsannībhū

g.691 get into trouble

nyon mongs par 'gyur

ཉོན་མོངས་པར་འགྱུར།

vyasanam āpad

g.692 ghost

yi dwags

ཡི་དྲགས།

preta

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the five or six classes of sentient beings, into which beings are born as the karmic fruition of past miserliness. As the term in Sanskrit means “the departed,” they are analogous to the ancestral spirits of Vedic tradition, the pitṛs, who starve without the offerings of descendants. It is also commonly translated as “hungry ghost” or “starving spirit,” as in the Chinese 餓鬼 e gui.

The pretas live in the realm of Yama, the Lord of Death, where they are particularly known to suffer from great hunger and thirst and the inability to acquire sustenance.

g.693 giver

sbyin pa po

སྤྱིན་པ་པོ།

dāyaka

g.694 giving

sbyin pa

སྤྱོད་པ།

dāna · dakṣiṇā

The first of the six perfections.

g.695 giving gifts

sbyin pa sbyin pa · sbyin pa

སྤྱོད་པ་སྤྱོད་པ། · སྤྱོད་པ། dāna

g.696 giving up

gtang ba · gtong ba

གཏང་བ། · གཏོང་བ།

utsarjana · avasrjanatā

g.697 glossy

mdog snum

མདོག་སྤྱུམ། snigda

g.698 go blank

yid rtul

ཡིད་རྩུབ།

dhanvāya · dhandhāya

g.699 go forth

mngon par byung

མངོན་པར་བྱུང།

abhiniṣkrāma

g.700 go forth

nges par 'byung

ངེས་པར་འབྱུང།

niryā

g.701 go forth to homelessness

rab tu 'byung · khyim nas mngon par byung

པ་ལྟ་འབྱུང་། ་ བྱིམ་ནས་མངོན་པར་བྱུང་།

pra √vrt · pravrajyā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Sanskrit pravrajyā literally means “going forth,” with the sense of leaving the life of a householder and embracing the life of a renunciant. When the term is applied more technically, it refers to the act of becoming a novice monk (śrāmaṇera; dge tshul) or nun (śrāmaṇerikā; dge tshul ma), this being a first stage leading to full ordination.

g.702 go into detail

rnam par dbye · rnam par 'byed

རྣམ་པར་དགྱེ། ་ རྣམ་པར་འབྱེད།

vibhajya

g.703 god

lha · lha'i bu

ལྷ། ་ ལྷ་འི་བུ།

deva

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Cognate with the English term divine, the devas are most generally a class of celestial beings who frequently appear in Buddhist texts, often at the head of the assemblies of nonhuman beings who attend and celebrate the teachings of Śākyamuni and other buddhas and bodhisattvas. In Buddhist cosmology the devas occupy the highest of the five or six “destinies” (gati) of saṃsāra among which beings take rebirth. The devas reside in the devalokas, “heavens” that traditionally number between twenty-six and twenty-eight and are divided between the desire realm (kāmadhātu), form realm (rūpadhātu), and formless realm (ārūpyadhātu). A being attains rebirth among the devas either through meritorious deeds (in the desire realm) or the attainment of subtle meditative states (in the form and formless realms). While rebirth among the devas is considered favorable, it is ultimately a transitory state from which beings will fall when the conditions that lead to rebirth there are exhausted. Thus, rebirth in the god realms is regarded as a diversion from the spiritual path.

g.704 Godānīya

ba glang spyod

བ་གླང་སྟོད།

godānīya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the four main continents that surround Sumeru, the central mountain in classical Buddhist cosmology. It is the western continent, characterized as “rich in the resources of cattle,” thus its name “using cattle.” It is circular in shape, measuring about 7,500 yojanas in circumference, and is flanked by two subsidiary continents. Humans who live there are very tall, about 24 feet (7.3 meters) on average, and live for 500 years. It is known by the names: Godānīya, Aparāntaka, Aparagodānīya, or Aparagoyāna.

g.705 goddess

lha'i bu mo

ལྷའི་བུ་མོ།

devakanyā

A female god, literally “daughter of a god.” Sometimes also translated “celestial maiden.”

g.706 good Dharma

dam pa'i chos

དམ་པའི་ཚོས།

saddharma

The buddhadharma, or the Buddha’s teachings.

g.707 good for me

bdag gi don

བདག་གི་དོན། me 'rthaḥ

g.708 good form of life

bde 'gro

བདེ་འགྲོ།

sugata

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the standard epithets of the buddhas. A recurrent explanation offers three different meanings for su- that are meant to show the special qualities of “accomplishment of one’s own purpose” (svārthasampad) for a complete buddha. Thus, the Sugata is “well” gone, as in the expression su-rūpa (“having a good form”); he is gone “in a way that he shall not come back,” as in the expression su-naṣṭa-jvara (“a fever that has utterly gone”); and he has gone “without any remainder” as in the expression su-pūrṇa-ghaṭa (“a pot that is completely full”). According to Buddhaghōṣa, the term means that the way the Buddha went (Skt. gata) is good (Skt. su) and where he went (Skt. gata) is good (Skt. su).

g.709 good quality

yon tan

ཡོན་ཏན།

guṇa

g.710 Gotra level

rigs kyi sa

རིགས་ཀྱི་ས།

gotrabhūmi

Lit. “Lineage level.” The second of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the level of an ordinary person until reaching buddhahood. See “ten levels.”

g.711 grasping

'dzin pa

འཛིན་པ། grahana

g.712 grasping at nonexistence

med pa la 'dzin pa

མེད་པ་ལ་འཛིན་པ།

—

g.713 grasping rules and rituals as absolute tshul khrims dang brtul zhugs mchog tu 'dzin

ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས་དང་བརྟུལ་ལྷགས་མཚོག་ཏུ་འཛིན། śīlavrataparāmarśa

g.714 Gṛdhrakūṭa Hill

bya rgod kyi phung po'i ri

བྱ་རྗོད་ཀྱི་ཕུང་པོའི་རི།

gṛdhrakūṭaparvata

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Ḡṛdhrakūṭa, literally Vulture Peak, was a hill located in the kingdom of Magadha, in the vicinity of the ancient city of Rājagṛha (modern-day Rajgir, in the state of Bihar, India), where the Buddha bestowed many sūtras, especially the Great Vehicle teachings, such as the Prajñāpāramitā sūtras. It continues to be a sacred pilgrimage site for Buddhists to this day.

g.715 great being

sems dpa' chen po

སེམས་དཔའ་ཆེན་པོ།

mahāsattva

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The term can be understood to mean “great courageous one” or “great hero,” or (from the Sanskrit) simply “great being,” and is almost always found as an epithet of “bodhisattva.” The qualification “great” in this term, according to the majority of canonical definitions, focuses on the generic greatness common to all bodhisattvas, i.e., the greatness implicit in the bodhisattva vow itself in terms of outlook, aspiration, number of beings to be benefited, potential or eventual accomplishments, and so forth. In this sense the mahā- (“great”) is close in its connotations to the mahā- in “Mahāyāna.” While individual bodhisattvas described as mahāsattva may in many cases also be “great” in terms of their level of realization, this is largely coincidental, and in the canonical texts the epithet is not restricted to bodhisattvas at any particular point in their career. Indeed, in a few cases even bodhisattvas whose path has taken a wrong direction are still described as bodhisattva mahāsattva.

Later commentarial writings do nevertheless define the term—variably—in terms of bodhisattvas having attained a particular level (bhūmi) or realization. The most common qualifying criteria mentioned are attaining the path of seeing, attaining irreversibility (according to its various definitions), or attaining the seventh bhūmi.

g.716 great billionfold world system

*stong gsum gyi stong chen po'i 'jig rten gyi kham*s

སྟོང་གསུམ་གྱི་སྟོང་ཆེན་པོའི་འཇིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ཁམས།

trisahasramahāsāhasralokadhātu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The largest universe described in Buddhist cosmology. This term, in Abhidharma cosmology, refers to 1,000<sup>3</sup> world systems, i.e., 1,000 “dichiliocosms” or “two thousand great thousand world realms” (dvisāhasra- mahāsāhasralokadhātu), which are in turn made up of 1,000 first-order world systems, each with its own Mount Sumeru, continents, sun and moon, etc.

g.717 great bull elephants

glang po chen po

གླང་པོ་ཆེན་པོ། mahānāga

g.718 great emptiness

chen po stong pa nyid

ཆེན་པོ་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

mahāsūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.719 great encircling mountain ranges

khor yug chen po

ཁོར་ཡུག་ཆེན་པོ། mahācakravāḍa

g.720 great learning

mang du thos

མང་དུ་བློས། bāhuśrutya

g.721 great person

skyes bu chen po

སྐྱེས་བུ་ཆེན་པོ།

mahāpuruṣa

Someone who will become a buddha or a cakravartin, whose bodies are adorned with the thirty-two major marks and the eighty minor signs.

g.722 great śrāvaka

nyan thos chen po

ཉན་བློས་ཆེན་པོ།

mahāśrāvaka

A term referring to the Buddha Śākyamuni's closest and most important śrāvaka disciples.

g.723 great Sumeru

ri rab chen po

རི་རབ་ཆེན་པོ།

mahāmeru

g.724 Great Vehicle

theg pa chen po

ཐེག་པ་ཆེན་པོ།

mahāyāna

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

When the Buddhist teachings are classified according to their power to lead beings to an awakened state, a distinction is made between the teachings of the Lesser Vehicle (Hīnayāna), which emphasizes the individual's own freedom from cyclic existence as the primary motivation and goal, and those of the Great Vehicle (Mahāyāna), which emphasizes altruism and has the liberation of all sentient beings as the principal objective. As the term "Great Vehicle" implies, the path followed by bodhisattvas is analogous to a large carriage that can transport a vast number of people to liberation, as compared to a smaller vehicle for the individual practitioner.

g.725 greed

'dod chags

འདོད་ཆགས།

rāga · lobha

One of the three poisons (triviṣa), together with hatred and confusion, that bind beings to cyclic existence.

g.726 greediness

brkam pa

བརྐམ་པ། gṛddhi

g.727 greedy thought

'dod chags kyi sems · 'dod chags dang bcas pa'i sems

འདོད་ཆགས་ཀྱི་སེམས། . འདོད་ཆགས་དང་བཅས་པའི་སེམས།

rāgacitta · sarāgacitta

g.728 gregarious

'khor dang lhan cig tu spyod pa

འཁོར་དང་ལྷན་ཅིག་ཏུ་སྐྱོད་པ། parśadavacara

g.729 gross mental excitement

rgod pa

རོད་པ།

auddhatya

g.730 Guhyagupta

phug sbas

ཕུག་སྤྲུལ།

guhyagupta

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.731 guide

dmigs bu

དམིགས་བྱ། parināyaka

g.732 guru

bla ma

བླ་མ།

guru

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A spiritual teacher, in particular one with whom one has a personal teacher–student relationship.

g.733 habitual dualistic idea

gnyis kun tu 'byung ba

གཉིས་ཀུན་ཏུ་འབྱུང་བ། dvayasamudācāra

g.734 habitually clean

gtsang sbra spyod pa · gtsang sbra byas pa

གཙང་སྤྱོད་པ། · གཙང་སྤྱོད་པ། caukṣasamudācāro

g.735 half a minute

skad cig

སྐད་ཅིག kṣana

g.736 half-month

zla ba phyed

ཟླ་བ་ཕྱིད། ardhamāsa

g.737 handsome

mdzes pa

མཛེས་པ།

prāsādika · cāru

g.738 harbor a bad proclivity

bag la nyal bas gnas par byed

བག་ལ་ཉལ་བས་གནས་པར་བྱེད།

**anusāyabaddho viharati* <sup>RS</sup>

g.739 has no token

rtags ma mchis

རྟགས་མ་མཚིས།

aliṅga

g.740 hasta

khru

ཁྲ། hasta

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A measure of length. One unit is the distance from the elbow to the tips of the fingers, about eighteen inches.

g.741 hatred

zhe sdang

ཞེ་སྡང།

dveṣa · doṣa

One of the three poisons (triviṣa), together with greed and confusion, that bind beings to cyclic existence.

g.742 haughtiness

khengs

ཉེངས། stambha

g.743 have a bright nature dkar po'i rang bzhin can

དཀར་པོའི་རང་བཞིན་ཅན།

**śuklāṃśika* <sup>RS</sup>

g.744 have incomplete faculties

dbang po ma tshang ba

དབང་པོ་མ་ཚང་བ།

indriyavikala

g.745 have little autonomy

dbang thang chung ba

དབང་ཐང་ཚུང་བ།

alpabhāga · alpeśa

g.746 have not been produced

ma skyes

མ་སྐྱེས།

ajāta

g.747 having emerged

langs nas · ldang

ལངས་ནས། · ལྷང་།

vyutthāya

g.748 having found all the necessary conditions

tshogs pa rnyed pas

ཚོགས་པ་རྟེན་པས།

samāgrīm āsādya

- g.749 having passed beyond shin tu 'das nas · rab 'das nas · 'das par byas nas · 'das nas ཤིན་ཏུ་འདས་ནས། ་རབ་འདས་ནས། ་འདས་པར་བྱས་ནས། ་འདས་ནས། atikramya
- g.750 head of the gods
lha'i dbang po ལྷའི་དབང་པོ། devānām indriya · devendra
 A common epithet of Śatakratu, also known as Indra.
- g.751 hearts well freed by right understanding yang dag pa'i shes pas sems shin tu rnam par grol ba ཡང་དག་པའི་ཤེས་པས་སེམས་ཤིན་ཏུ་རྣམ་པར་གྲོལ་བ། samyagājñāsvimuktacitta
- g.752 heavenly world
mtho ris kyi 'jig rten མཐོ་རིས་ཀྱི་འཛིན་རྟེན། svargaloka
- g.753 hell dwelling
sems can dmyal ba thams cad kyi gnas སེམས་ཅན་དམྱལ་བ་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་གནས། nairayikabhavana
- g.754 heroic
rtul phod pa
 རུལ་ཕོད་པ། vīra
- g.755 hindrance
bar du gcod pa · bar chad བར་དུ་གཅོད་པ། ་བར་ཚད། āvaraṇa · antarāya · paripantha
- g.756 Hiraṇyagarbha

dbyig gi snying po

དབྱིག་གི་སྡིང་པོ།

hiranyagarbha

Lit. “Born from a Golden [Egg]” or “Born from Gold.” An epithet of Brahmā.

g.757 hold as a support

lhag par dmigs pa

ལྷག་པར་དམིགས་པ། adhyālabh

g.758 hold right views

yang dag pa'i lta ba can · yang dag par lta ba

ཡང་དག་པའི་ལྷ་བ་ཅན། · ཡང་དག་པར་ལྷ་བ། samyagdr̥ṣṭi

g.759 hold wrong views

log par lta ba can · log par lta ba

ལོག་པར་ལྷ་བ་ཅན། · ལོག་པར་ལྷ་བ། mithyādr̥ṣṭi

g.760 holding the highest office

mnga' dbang chen po brnyes pa

མངའ་དབང་ཆེན་པོ་བརྟེན་པ། ādhipatyapratilambha

g.761 hot season

tsha ba'i dus la bab pa · sos ka

ཚ་བའི་དུས་ལ་བབ་པ། · སོས་ཀ།

uṣṇakāla · gr̥iṣma

g.762 householder

khyim pa · khyim na gnas pa

ཁྱིམ་པ། · ཁྱིམ་ན་གནས་པ། gṛhin

g.763 human form

mir gyur pa

- མིར་གྱུར་པ། manuṣyabhūta
- g.764 human world
mi'i 'jig rten མིའི་འཇིག་རྟེན། manuṣyaloka
- g.765 hundred thousand world systems
'jig rten gyi khams 'bum phrag འཇིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ཁམས་འབུམ་ཕྱག śatasāhasralokadhātu
- g.766 hundred thousandth one hundred millionth part
bye ba phrag 'bum gyi cha བྱེ་བ་ཕྱག་འབུམ་གྱི་ཚ། koṭīśatasahasratamī kalā
- g.767 idea of beauty
sdug pa'i 'du shes སྤུག་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས། śubhasaṃjñā
- g.768 idea of happiness
bde ba'i 'du shes བདེ་བའི་འདུ་ཤེས། sukhasaṃjñā
- g.769 idea of impermanence
mi rtag pa'i 'du shes མི་རྟག་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས། anityasaṃjñā
- g.770 ignorance
ma rig pa མ་རིག་པ། avidyā

- g.771 ignorant persons
mi blun po · skyes bu blun po མི་ལྷན་པོ། ་ སྐྱེས་བུ་ལྷན་པོ། mohapuruṣa
- g.772 illumination of the wisdom
shes rab kyi snang ba ཤེས་རབ་ཀྱི་སྣང་བ། prajñāloka
- g.773 imaginary form
kun brtags pa'i gzugs ཀུན་བརྟགས་པའི་གཟུགས། parikalpitarūpa
- g.774 imagination
rnam par rtog pa · kun tu rtog pa རྣམ་པར་རྟོག་པ། ་ ཀུན་ཏུ་རྟོག་པ།
vitarka
- g.775 imagined
brtags pa བརྟགས་པ། kalpita
- g.776 immeasurables
tshad med pa ཚེད་མེད་པ། apramāṇa
 See “four immeasurables.”
- g.777 immoral thought
'chal pa'i tshul khrims kyi sems །ཇལ་པའི་ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས་ཀྱི་སེམས། dauḥṣṭlyacitta
- g.778 immorality

'chal ba'i tshul khrims · tshul khrims 'chal pa

འཇལ་བའི་ཚུལ་གྲིམས། · ཚུལ་གྲིམས་འཇལ་བ།

dauḥśīlya

g.779 immortality

'chi ba med pa · bdud rtsi

འཆིབ་མེད་པ། · བདུད་རྩི། amṛta

g.780 impatient

mi bzod pa

མི་བཟོད་པ། akṣānti

g.781 impeccable

smad du med pa

སྐད་དུ་མེད་པ།

na jugupsanīya

Literally, “cannot be disliked.”

g.782 imponderable

gzhal du med

གཟམ་དུ་མེད། atulya

g.783 impotent

nus pa cung zad kyang med

ནུས་པ་ཅུང་ཟད་ཀྱང་མེད། akimcitsamartha

g.784 improve

'phel

འཕེལ།

vr̥dh

g.785 in a disadvantaged family

rigs ngan pa

རིགས་ངན་པ།

nīcakūla

g.786 in a dualistic way

gnyis kyi tshul gyis

གཉིས་ཀྱི་ཚུལ་གྱིས། dvayayogena

g.787 in a mirage

smig rgyu'i tshogs la

སྒྲིག་རྒྱུ་ཚོགས་ལ། maricikāyām

g.788 in accord with reality

yang dag pa ji lta ba bzhin du

ཡང་དག་པ་ཇི་ལྟ་བ་བཞིན་དུ། yathābhūtam

g.789 in an unmade and unchanging way

ma byas pa dang 'gyur ba med pa'i tshul gyis

མ་བྱས་པ་དང་འགྱུར་བ་མེད་པའི་ཚུལ་གྱིས། akṛtāvikṛtayogena

g.790 in full possession of

dang ldan pa

དང་ལྷན་པ། samanvāgatā

g.791 in perfect control of their whole mind

sems thams cad kyi dbang gi dam pa'i pha rol tu son pa

སེམས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་དབང་གི་དམ་པའི་ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་སོན་པ། sarvacetovaśīparamapāramita

g.792 in the bodhisattva vehicle

byang chub sems dpa'i theg pa pa

བྱང་ཚུབ་སེམས་དཔའི་ཐེག་པ་པ། bodhisattvayānika

- g.793 in the category of the ultimate don dam pas rab tu phye ba དོན་དམ་པས་རབ་ཏུ་བྱེ་བ། paramārthaprabhāvita
- g.794 in the manner of an objective support
dmigs pa'i tshul gyis
དམིགས་པའི་རྩལ་གྱིས། ālambanayogena
- g.795 in the realm of immortality
'chi ba med pa'i dbyings · bdud rtsi'i dbyings འཆི་བ་མེད་པའི་དབྱིངས། · བདུད་རྩིའི་དབྱིངས། amṛte dhātau
- g.796 inanimate material state
bems po nyid བེས་པོ་ཉིད། dharmajadātā
- g.797 inclined to gzhol ba གཞོལ་བ། nimna
- g.798 inconceivable element
bsam gyis mi khyab pa'i dbyings བསམ་གྱིས་མི་ཁྱབ་པའི་དབྱིངས། acintyadhātu
- g.799 incorporate
yongs su 'dzin ཡོངས་སུ་འཛིན། parigrah
- g.800 increase
'phel

འཕེལ།

upaci · vṛdh · utsada

g.801 independent of

ma brten par

མ་བརྟེན་པར།

anāgamyā

g.802 Indra

dbang po

དབང་པོ།

indra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The lord of the Trāyastriṃśa heaven on the summit of Mount Sumeru. In Buddhist sūtras, he is a disciple of the Buddha and protector of the Dharma and its practitioners. He is often referred to by the epithets Śatakratu, Śakra, and Kauśika.

g.803 Indradatta

dbang pos byin

དབང་པོས་བྱིན།

indradatta

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.804 Indraketu

dbang po tog

དབང་པོ་རྟོག།

indraketu

Lit. "Indra's victory banner." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.805 indulge

sten

སྤོམ།

pratisēv

g.806 industrious

brtson 'grus dang ldan

བཙོན་འགྲུས་དང་ལྡན། vīryavant

g.807 inexhaustible

bas ma 'tshal ba lags · zad pa med pa · mi zad pa

བས་མ་འཚེལ་བ་ལགས། · ཟད་པ་མེད་པ། · མི་ཟད་པ།

akṣaya

g.808 inexpressible sin

mtshams med pa

མཚམས་མེད་པ།

ānantarya

See “five inexpressible sins.”

g.809 inexpressible

brjod du ma mchis · brjod du med

བརྗོད་དུ་མ་མཚིས། · བརྗོད་དུ་མེད། anabhilapya

g.810 infinite life

tshe dpag tu med pa

ཚེ་དཔག་དུ་མེད་པ། aparimitāyus

g.811 inflected word

tshig 'bru

ཚིག་འབྲུ།

vyañjana

g.812 influenced

yongs su zin pa

ཡོངས་སུ་ཟེན་པ། parigrhīta

g.813 infused with energy

gzi brjid bcug pa

གཟི་བརྗིད་བརྟུག་པ། ojaḥprakṣipta

g.814 inner and outer emptiness

phyi nang stong pa nyid

ཕྱི་ནང་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

adhyātmabahirdhāśūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.815 inner body

nang gi lus

ནང་གི་ལུས། adhyātmakāya · adhyātma · ātmabhāva · adhyātmika

g.816 inner emptiness

nang stong pa nyid

ནང་སྟོང་པ་ཉིད།

adhyātmaśūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses.

g.817 insight

lhag mthong

ལྷག་མཐོང།

vipaśyanā

An important form of Buddhist meditation focusing on developing insight into the nature of phenomena. Often presented as one of a pair of meditation techniques, the other being “calm abiding.”

g.818 intellect

blo

བློ། buddhi

g.819 intense faith

dad pa drag pos

དད་པ་རྒྱལ་པོས། tīrāyā bhaktyā

g.820 interrupted by a single birth

skye ba gcig gis thogs pa

སྐྱེ་བ་གཅིག་གིས་ཐོགས་པ། ekajātipratibaddha

g.821 intrinsic nature

ngo bo nyid · rang bzhin

ངོ་བོ་ཉིད། · རང་བཞིན།

svabhāva

This term denotes the ontological status of phenomena, according to which they are said to possess existence in their own right—inherently, in and of themselves, objectively, and independent of any other phenomena such as our conception and labelling. The absence of such an ontological reality is defined as the true nature of reality, emptiness. Also rendered here as “basic nature.”

g.822 introduction

gleng gzhi · gleng gzhi'i sde

གླེང་གཞི། · གླེང་གཞིའི་སྡེ། nidāna

Literally, “foundation of the narrative.” One of the twelve aspects of the wheel of Dharma.

g.823 invisible

mi snang ba

མི་སྤྲོད་བ། adrśya

g.824 involved in a false apprehension of facts

dmigs pa la spyod spyod pa

དམིགས་པ་ལ་སྐྱོད་སྐྱོད་པ། upalambhacarat

g.825 irreversible

phyir mi ldog pa

ཕྱིར་མི་ལྷོག་པ། avaivarttika

g.826 irreversible level

phyir mi ldog pa'i sa

ཕིར་མི་ལྷོག་པའི་ས། avaiṅvartya · avinirvartanīya · āvaiṅvarttikabhūmi

g.827 island

gling

གླིང།

dvīpa

g.828 isolated state

dben pa

དབེན་པ།

viviktatā

g.829 isolation

dben pa

དབེན་པ།

vivikta · viveka

Isolation is traditionally categorized as being of three types: (1) isolation of the body (kāyaviveka), which refers to remaining in solitude free from desirous or disturbing objects; (2) isolation of the mind (cittaviveka), which is mental detachment from desirous or disturbing objects; and (3) isolation from the “substrate” (upadhiviveka), which indicates detachment from all things that perpetuate rebirth, including the five aggregates, the afflictions, and karma.

g.830 it does not occupy a location

de ni yul na mi gnas

དེ་ནི་ཡུལ་ན་མི་གནས།

na hi sā deśasthā asthā

g.831 Jambū

'dzam bu

འཛམ་བུ།

jambū

Legendary river carrying the golden fruit fallen from the legendary jambu (“rose apple”) tree.

g.832 Jambudvīpa

'dzam bu'i gling

འཛམ་བུ་ནི་གླིང་།

jambudvīpa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The name of the southern continent in Buddhist cosmology, which can signify either the known human world, or more specifically the Indian subcontinent, literally “the jambu island/continent.” Jambu is the name used for a range of plum-like fruits from trees belonging to the genus Szygium, particularly Szygium jambos and Szygium cumini, and it has commonly been rendered “rose apple,” although “black plum” may be a less misleading term. Among various explanations given for the continent being so named, one (in the Abhidharmakośa) is that a jambu tree grows in its northern mountains beside Lake Anavatapta, mythically considered the source of the four great rivers of India, and that the continent is therefore named from the tree or the fruit. Jambudvīpa has the Vajrāsana at its center and is the only continent upon which buddhas attain awakening.

g.833 jaundice

mkhris pa

མཁྲིས་པ།

pitta

g.834 Jayā

rgyal ba

རྒྱལ་བ།

jayā

Lit. “Victorious.” A world system in the north direction, where the buddha Jayendra dwells.

g.835 Jayadatta

rgyal bas byin

རྒྱལ་བས་བྱིན།

jayadatta

Lit. “Victory Given.” A bodhisattva from a world system called Jayā, in the northern direction, who comes to pay homage and listen to the Buddha.

g.836 jayalabdha

rgyal ba thob pa

རྒྱལ་བ་ཐོབ་པ།

jayalabdha

Lit. “gained the victory.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.837 Jayendra

rgyal ba'i dbang po

རྒྱལ་བའི་དབང་པོ།

jayendra

Lit. “Victorious Indra.” A buddha in a world system called Jayā, in the northern direction.

g.838 jewel-like perfection

pha rol tu phyin pa rin po che

ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་ཕྱིན་པ་རིན་པོ་ཆེ།

ratnapāramitā

g.839 Jinamitra

dzi na mi tra

རྩོན་མི་ཏ།

jinamitra

Indian paṇḍita of the ninth century.

g.840 jñānaketu

ye shes tog

ཡེ་ཤེས་ཏོག།

jñānaketu

Lit. “knowledge victory banner.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.841 jñānolka

ye shes sgron ma

ཡེ་ཤེས་སྒྲོན་མ།

jñānolka

Lit. “knowledge firebrand.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.842 joy

dga' ba

དགའ་བ། prema

One of the four practices of spiritual practitioners and one of the four immeasurables (the other three being: loving-kindness or love, compassion, and equanimity).

g.843 jungle dweller

dgon pa pa

དགོན་པ་པ། āraṇyako

g.844 just a convention

tha snyad tsam

ཐ་སྟེད་ཙམ།

vyavahāramātram

g.845 jvalanolka

me sgron · sgron ma 'bar ba

མེ་སྒོན། · སྒོན་མ་འབར་བ། jvalanolkā

Lit. “fire meteor.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.846 kācalindika

ka tsa li di ka

ཀ་ཙ་ལི་དི་ཀ།

kācalindika · kācalindi

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A frequent simile for softness, thought to refer either (1) to the down of the kācilindika or kācalindika bird (see Lamotte 1975, p. 261, n. 321), or (2) to a tropical tree bearing silken pods, similar to kapok, from which garments were made, and identified (Monier-Williams p. 266) with Abrus precatorius.

g.847 kalaviṅka

ka la bing ka

ཀ་ལ་བིང་ཀ།

kalaviṅka

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Buddhist literature refers to a mythical bird whose call is said to be far more beautiful than that of all other birds, and so compelling that it can be heard even before the bird has hatched. The call of the kalaviṅka is thus used as an analogy to describe the sound of the discourse of bodhisattvas as being far superior to that of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas, even before bodhisattvas attain awakening. In some cases, the kalaviṅka also takes on mythical characteristics, being depicted as part human, part bird. It is also the sixteenth of the eighty designs on the palms and soles of a tathāgata.

While it is equated to an Indian bird renowned for its beautiful song, there is some uncertainty regarding the identity of the kalaviṅka; some dictionaries declare it to be a type of Indian cuckoo (probably Eudynamys scolopacea, also known as the asian koel) or a red and green sparrow (possibly Amandava amandava, also known as the red avadavat).

g.848 kāṅkṣocchedana

nem nur gcod pa

ནེམ་ནུར་གཙོད་པ།

kāṅkṣocchedana

Lit. “that cuts off doubt.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.849 kārākāra

bya ba byed pa

བྱ་བ་བྱེད་པ།

kārākāra

Lit. “does what needs to be done.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.850 kāraṇḍa duck

bya ka ran da

བྱ་ཀ་རན་ད། kāraṇḍava

g.851 karma

las · sug las · phyag las · lag las

ལས། · ལུག་ལས། · ལྷག་ལས། · ལག་ལས།

karman

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Meaning “action” in its most basic sense, karma is an important concept in Buddhist philosophy as the cumulative force of previous physical, verbal, and mental acts, which determines present experience and will determine future existences.

g.852 karma of rejecting the Dharma

chos spong ba'i las

ཚོས་སྤོང་བའི་ལས།

dharmapratyākhyānasaṃvartanīyaṃ karman

g.853 karmic action

las

ལས།

karman

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Meaning “action” in its most basic sense, karma is an important concept in Buddhist philosophy as the cumulative force of previous physical, verbal, and mental acts, which determines present experience and will determine future existences.

g.854 Kātyāyana

kA tyA ya na

ཀཱ་ཏྱ་ཡ་ན།

kātyāyana

Lit. “Descended from the Sage Kati.” One of the ten principal śrāvaka disciples of the Buddha. He was renowned for his ability to understand the Buddha’s teachings.

g.855 Kauśika

kau shi ka

ཀོ་ཤི་ཀ།

kauśika

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

“One who belongs to the Kuśika lineage.” An epithet of the god Śakra, also known as Indra, the king of the gods in the Trāyastriṃśa heaven. In the Ṛgveda, Indra is addressed by the epithet Kauśika, with the implication that he is associated with the descendants of the Kuśika lineage (gotra) as their aiding deity. In later epic and Purāṇic texts, we find the story that Indra took birth as Gādhi Kauśika, the son of Kuśika and one of the Vedic poet-seers, after the Puru king Kuśika had performed austerities for one thousand years to obtain a son equal to Indra who could not be killed by others. In the Pāli Kusajāataka (Jāt V 141–45), the Buddha, in one of his former bodhisattva lives as a Trāyastriṃśa god, takes birth as the future king Kusa upon the request of Indra, who wishes to help the childless king of the Mallas, Okkaka, and his chief queen Sīlavatī. This story is also referred to by Nāgasena in the Milindapañha.

g.856 kāyakaliṣaṃpramathana

lus kyi skyon yang dag par sel ba

ལུས་ཀྱི་སྐྱོན་ཡང་དག་པར་སེལ་བ།

kāyakaliṣaṃpramathana

Lit. “overcomes physical flaws.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.857 kind words

snyan par smra ba

སྐྱོན་པར་སྐྱ་བ། priyavadya

g.858 kindly

byams pa

བྱམས་པ།

maitram

g.859 kingdom

yul 'khor · rgyal srid

ཡུལ་འཁོར། · རྒྱལ་སྲིད། rāṣṭra

g.860 kinnara

mi'am ci

མི་འམ་ཅི།

kinnara

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A class of nonhuman beings that resemble humans to the degree that their very name—which means “is that human?”—suggests some confusion as to their divine status. Kinnaras are mythological beings found in both Buddhist and Brahmanical literature, where they are portrayed as creatures half human, half animal. They are often depicted as highly skilled celestial musicians.

g.861 kinsman

nye du

ཉེད།

—

g.862 knower of all aspects

rnam pa thams cad mkhyen pa

རྣམ་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་མཁྱེན་པ།

sarvākārajñāna

g.863 knowledge

rig pa · ye shes · shes pa · mkhyen pa

རིག་པ། · ཡེ་ཤེས། · ཤེས་པ། · མཁྱེན་པ།

vidyā · jñāna

See also n.29.

g.864 knowledge and seeing of liberation

rnam par grol ba'i ye shes mthong ba

རྣམ་པར་གྲོལ་བའི་ཡེ་ཤེས་མཐོང་བ།

vimuktijñānadarśana

The translators perhaps understood “insight into knowledge of liberation.”

g.865 knowledge from prayer

smon nas shes pa

སློན་ནས་ཤེས་པ།

prañidhijñāna

See also n.673.

g.866 knowledge in accord with sound

sgra ji bzhin shes pa

སླེ་ཇི་བཞིན་ཤེས་པ། yathārutajñāna

g.867 knowledge of a knower of all

thams cad mkhyen pa'i ye shes

ཐམས་ཅད་མཁྱེན་པའི་ཡེ་ཤེས། sarvajñajñāna

g.868 knowledge of a knower of all aspects

rnam pa thams cad mkhyen pa nyid kyi ye shes

རྣམ་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་མཁྱེན་པ་ཉིད་ཀྱི་ཡེ་ཤེས།

sarvākārajñatājñāna

g.869 knowledge of a knower of path aspects

lam gyi rnam pa shes pa nyid kyi shes pa · lam gyi rnam pa shes pa nyid kyi ye shes

· lam gyi rnam pa shes pa'i ye shes

ལམ་གྱི་རྣམ་པ་ཤེས་པ་ཉིད་ཀྱི་ཤེས་པ། · ལམ་གྱི་རྣམ་པ་ཤེས་པ་ཉིད་ཀྱི་ཡེ་ཤེས།

· ལམ་གྱི་རྣམ་པ་ཤེས་པའི་ཡེ་ཤེས།

mārgākārajñatājñāna

Also referred to as “knowledge of paths,” it is the knowledge of a bodhisattva.

g.870 knowledge of all aspects

rnam pa thams cad mkhyen pa nyid

རྣམ་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་མཁྱེན་པ་ཉིད།

sarvākārajñatā

See “three types of omniscience.”

g.871 knowledge of calm abiding and insight zhi gnas dang lhag mthong shes pa

ཞི་གནས་དང་ལྷག་མཐོང་ཤེས་པ།

śamathavipaśyanājñāna

g.872 knowledge of cessation

'gog pa shes pa

འགོག་པ་ཤེས་པ། nirodhajñāna

g.873 knowledge of dharma

chos shes pa

ཚོས་ཤེས་པ།

dharmajñāna

See also n.670.

g.874 knowledge of extinction

zad pa shes pa

ཟད་པ་ཤེས་པ། kṣayajñāna

g.875 knowledge of mastery

yongs su 'dris pa shes pa · 'dris pa shes pa

ཡོངས་སུ་འདྲིས་པ་ཤེས་པ། · འདྲིས་པ་ཤེས་པ། paricayajñāna

g.876 knowledge of nonproduction

mi skye ba shes pa

མི་སྐྱེ་བ་ཤེས་པ། anutpādayajñāna

g.877 knowledge of origination

kun 'byung ba shes pa

ཀུན་འབྱུང་བ་ཤེས་པ། samudayajñāna

g.878 knowledge of path aspects

lam gyi rnam par shes pa nyid · lam gyi rnam pa shes pa

ལམ་གྱི་རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པ་ཉིད། · ལམ་གྱི་རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པ། mārgākārajñatā

See “three types of omniscience.”

g.879 knowledge of paths

lam gyi rnam pa shes pa nyid

ལམ་གྱི་རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པ་ཉིད། mārgajñatā

See “three types of omniscience.”

Also referred to as the “knowledge of a knower of path aspects,” it is the knowledge of a bodhisattva.

g.880 knowledge of suffering

sdug bsngal shes pa

སྤྱུག་བསྐྱེད་ཤེས་པ། duḥkhajñāna

g.881 knowledge of the aspects of the thought activity of all beings

sems can thams cad kyi sems kyi spyod pa'i rnam pa shes pa nyid

སེམས་ཅན་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་སེམས་ཀྱི་སྤྱོད་པའི་རྣམ་པ་ཤེས་པ་ཉིད།

—

g.882 knowledge of the knowledge of all aspects

rnam pa thams cad mkhyen pa nyid kyi ye shes

རྣམ་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་མཁྱེན་པ་ཉིད་ཀྱི་ཡེ་ཤེས།

sarvākārajñatājñāna

g.883 knowledge of the path

lam shes pa

ལམ་ཤེས་པ། mārgajñana

g.884 knowledge of the ways of thinking

sems kyi rnam grangs shes pa

སེམས་ཀྱི་རྣམ་གྲངས་ཤེས་པ། cetaḥparyāyajñāna

g.885 knowledge of things as they really are yang dag pa ji lta ba bzhin shes pa

ཡང་དག་པ་ཇི་ལྟ་བུ་བཞིན་ཤེས་པ། yathābhūtajñāna

g.886 knowledge that does not enter into attachment

rjes su 'chags pa la mi 'jug pa'i shes pa

རྗེས་སུ་འཆགས་པ་ལ་མི་འཇུག་པའི་ཤེས་པ།

—

g.887 knowledge that outflows are extinguished

zag pa zad pa shes pa

བཟག་པ་བཟད་པ་ཤེས་པ། āsravakṣayajñāna

g.888 knowledge that recollects previous states of existence

sngon gyi gnas rjes su dran pa'i shes pa

སྔོན་གྱི་གནས་རྗེས་སུ་ངན་པའི་ཤེས་པ། pūrvanivāsānusmṛtijñāna

g.889 knowledge-mantra

rigs · rig sngags

རིགས། · རིག་སྒྲགས།

vidyā

g.890 krośa

dpag tshad

དཔག་ཚད།

krośa

A unit of distance. According to Monier-Williams, a krośa equals “the range of the voice in calling,” or 4,000 hasta (“hands”), or a quarter of a yojana.

g.891 Kṛtāvin level

byas pa rtogs pa can gyi sa

བྱས་པ་རྟོགས་པ་ཅན་གྱི་ས།

kṛtāvibhūmi

Lit. “Have Done the Work to Be Done.” The seventh of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the level of an ordinary person until reaching buddhahood. See “ten levels.”

g.892 kṣayāpagata

zad pa dang bral ba

ཟད་པ་དང་བྲལ་བ།

kṣayāpagata

Lit. “free from exhaustion.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.893 Kṣemā

bde ba

བདེ་བ།

kṣemā

Lit. "Security." Name of four lotus ponds, each located in one of the four gardens of the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.894 Kśemottamā

bde ldan

བདེ་ལྷན།

**kṣemottamā*<sup>RS</sup>

Lit. "Most Secure." Name of four lotus ponds, each located in one of the four gardens of the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.895 Kuru

sgra mi snyan

སྒྲམི་སྟན།

kuru

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The continent to the north of Sumeru according to Buddhist cosmology. In the Abhidharmakośa, it is described as square in shape. Its human inhabitants enjoy a fixed lifespan of a thousand years and do not hold personal property or marry.

g.896 kusumābhikīrṇa

me tog bkram pa

མེ་ཏོག་བརྒྱུམ་པ།

kusumābhikīrṇa

Lit. "on account of which flowers have been strewed." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.897 label

'dogs pa · btags pa

འདོགས་པ། · བཏགས་པ།

—

g.898 laid down their burden

khur bor ba

ཁུར་བོར་བ།

apahr̥tabhāra

- g.899 lakṣanapariśodhaṇa
mtshan nyid yongs su sbyong ba མཚན་ཉིད་ཡོངས་སུ་སྦྱང་བ། lakṣanapariśodhaṇa
 Lit. “purification of marks.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.900 later-food refuser
zas phyis mi len pa ཟས་ཕྱིས་མི་ལེན་པ། khalupaścādbhaktika
 A “later-food refuser” is one who does not accept any food after they have begun eating (that is, once they have begun eating, they do not accept any more if it is offered).
- g.901 leader
yongs su 'dren pa · 'dren pa ཡོངས་སུ་འདྲེན་པ། · འདྲེན་པ། parināyikā · parināyaka · nāyaka
 When capitalized this term is an epithet of the Buddha.
- g.902 learned
m khas pa
 མཁས་པ། **abhijñā* <sup>RS</sup>
- g.903 legs of miraculous power
rdzu 'phrul gyi rkang pa རྩུ་འཕྲུལ་གྱི་རྐང་པ། ṛddhipāda
 See “four legs of miraculous powers.”
- g.904 let it fester
mdud par 'dzin
 མདུད་པར་འཛིན། **anusāyaṃ vahati* <sup>RS</sup>
- g.905 letter

yi ge

ཡི་གེ akṣara

g.906 liberate

yongs su dgrol · yongs su bkrol

ཡོངས་སུ་དགོལ། . ཡོངས་སུ་བཀྲོལ། parimocaya

g.907 Licchavi

lid tsa bl

ལི་དཙ་བླ།

licchavi

Name of the tribe and republican city-state whose capital was Vaiśālī.

g.908 life faculty

srog gi dbang po

སྲོག་གི་དབང་པོ། jīvitendriya

g.909 lightness

yang ba

ཡང་བ། laghutā

g.910 limb of awakening

byang chub kyi yan lag

བྱང་ཚུབ་གྱི་ཡན་ལག།

bodhyaṅga

See “seven limbs of awakening.”

g.911 limitless and boundless

mtha' yas mu med pa

མཐའ་ཡས་སུ་མེད་པ། anantāparyanta

g.912 lineage

gdung · rigs · rus

གདུང་། ་ རིགས། ་ རུས།

vamśā · kula · gotra

g.913 link up

nying mtshams sbyor ba

ཉིང་མཚམས་སྐྱོར་བ།

pratisaṃdhi · anusaṃdhi

g.914 listen to it being read aloud

klog slob

ཀློག་སྐྱོབ། śṛṅvanti

g.915 live a celibate life

tshangs par spyod

ཚངས་པར་སྐྱོད།

brahmacaryaṃ car

g.916 live having set out in the Dharma in full conformity with the Dharma

chos dang rjes su 'thun pa'i chos la zhugs shing gnas pa

ཚོས་དང་རྗེས་སུ་འཇུག་པའི་ཚོས་ལ་ཞུགས་ཤིང་གནས་པ། dharmānudharmapratipanno viharati

g.917 live on joy

dga' ba'i zas

དགའ་བའི་ཟས། prītyāhāra

g.918 lives in solitude

rab tu dben pa

རབ་ཏུ་དབེན་པ།

vivikta

g.919 living being

srog chags · srog

སྲོག་ཆགས། ་ སྲོག

prāṇin · jīva

g.920 load

khal

ཁལ། khāri

g.921 local ruler

khamṣ kyi rgyal po

ཁམས་ཀྱི་རྒྱལ་པོ།

koṭṭarāja

g.922 location

yul · yul phyogs

ཡུལ། ་ ཡུལ་ཕྱོགས།

diś

g.923 Lokapāla

'jig rten skyong ba

འཇིག་རྟེན་སྐྱོང་བ།

lokapāla

Lit. "World Protectors." They are usually the same as the Four Mahārājas but are here included as a separate group.

g.924 long thin tongue

ljags ring zhing srab pa · ljags shin tu ring zhing srab pa

ལྷགས་རིང་ཞིང་སྲབ་པ། ་ ལྷགས་ཤིན་ཏུ་རིང་ཞིང་སྲབ་པ། prabhūtatanujihva

g.925 longing

'dod pa

འདོད་པ།

**sprhā<sup>RS</sup>*

g.926 lord

bcom ldan 'das

བཅོམ་ལྷན་འདས།

bhagavān · bhagavat

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Buddhist literature, an epithet applied to buddhas, most often to Śākyamuni. The Sanskrit term generally means “possessing fortune,” but in specifically Buddhist contexts it implies that a buddha is in possession of six auspicious qualities (bhaga) associated with complete awakening. The Tibetan term—where bcom is said to refer to “subduing” the four māras, ldan to “possessing” the great qualities of buddhahood, and 'das to “going beyond” saṃsāra and nirvāṇa—possibly reflects the commentarial tradition where the Sanskrit bhagavat is interpreted, in addition, as “one who destroys the four māras.” This is achieved either by reading bhagavat as bhagnavat (“one who broke”), or by tracing the word bhaga to the root  $\sqrt{bhañj}$  (“to break”).

In this text:

An epithet of the buddhas. The Tibetan translators consistently understand the word bhagavān as bha[ḡna]-ga-vat and render it bcom ldan 'das “one who has destroyed (bcom) obscurations, possesses (ldan) the buddhadharmas, and has gone ('das) into nirvāṇa.” An alternative translation is “Blessed One” from bhaga-vat “one who possesses (vat) good fortune (bhaga).”

g.927 lotus

pad ma

པདྨ།

padma

g.928 lotus pond

rdzing bu

རྫིང་བུ།

puṣkiriṇī · puṣkaraṇī

g.929 loving

byams pa

བྱམས་པ།

maitra

g.930 loving-kindness

byams pa

བྱམས་པ།

maitrī

One of the four practices of spiritual practitioners, and one of the four immeasurables (the other three being compassion, sympathetic joy, and equanimity).

g.931 low caste

dmangs rigs

དམངས་རིགས།

śudra · śudra varṇa

g.932 lunar mansion

rgyu skar

ཐུ་སྐར།

**nakṣatra*<sup>RS</sup>

g.933 maggot

srin bu

སྲིན་བྲ།

krimi

g.934 magic spell

sgyu ma'i rig sngags

སྐུ་མའི་རིག་སྲགས།

—

g.935 magical creations

sprul pa

སྐྱལ་པ། nirmita

g.936 magical formula

rig sngags

རིག་སྲགས།

vidyā

g.937 Mahābrahmā

tshangs pa chen po

ཚེངས་པ་ཚེན་པོ།

mahābrahmā

Lit. “Great Brahmā.” The third of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the third of the three heavens that correspond to the first of the four concentrations. See also “Brahmapāraśadya.”

g.938 Mahākaruṇācinta

snying rje cher sems

སྙིང་རྗེ་ཚེར་སེམས།

mahākaruṇācinta

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.939 Mahākāśyapa

'od srung chen po

འོད་སྲུང་ཚེན་པོ།

mahākāśyapa

One of the Buddha’s principal śrāvaka disciples, he became a leader of the saṅgha after the Buddha’s passing.

g.940 Mahākātyāyana

kA t+yA'i bu chen po

ཀཱ་ཏྲཱི་སུ་ཚེན་པོ།

mahākātyāyana

See “Kātyāyana.”

g.941 Mahākauṣṭhilya

gsus po che

གསུས་པོ་ཚེ།

mahākauṣṭhilya

A great śrāvaka included in the audience of this sūtra.

g.942 Mahāketu

me tog chen po

མེ་ཏོག་ཚེན་པོ།

mahāketu

Lit. “Great Flower.” Name that three hundred monks will bear when they become buddhas, during the eon called Tārakopama, due to dressing the body of the Buddha and producing the thought of awakening while attending this teaching.

g.943 Mahāmaudgalyāyana

maud gal gyi bu chen po

མོད་གལ་གྱི་བུ་ཆེན་པོ།

mahāmaudgalyāyana

See “Maudgalyāyana.”

g.944 Mahāprajāpatī

skye dgu'i bdag mo chen mo

སྐྱེ་དགུ་འི་བདག་མོ་ཆེན་མོ། mahāprajāpatī

The maternal aunt and adoptive mother of the Buddha as well as the first woman to be ordained.

g.945 Mahārāja

rgyal po chen po

རྒྱལ་པོ་ཆེན་པོ།

mahārāja

See “Four Mahārājas.”

g.946 Mahāsthāmaprāpta

mtshu chen thob

མཐུ་ཆེན་ཐོབ།

mahāsthāmaprāpta

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra. Along with Avalokiteśvara, he is one of the two main bodhisattvas in the realm of Sukhāvātī.

g.947 Mahāvīyūha

bkod pa chen po

བཀོད་པ་ཆེན་པོ།

mahāvīyūha

Lit. “Great Array.” A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.948 mahāvyūha

bkod pa chen po

བཀོད་པ་ཆེན་པོ།

mahāvyūha

Lit. “great array.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.949 mahoraga

lto 'phye chen po

ལྷོ་འཕྱེ་ཆེན་པོ།

mahoraga

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Literally “great serpents,” mahoragas are supernatural beings depicted as large, subterranean beings with human torsos and heads and the lower bodies of serpents. Their movements are said to cause earthquakes, and they make up a class of subterranean geomantic spirits whose movement through the seasons and months of the year is deemed significant for construction projects.

g.950 Maitreya

byams pa

བྱམས་པ།

maitreya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The bodhisattva Maitreya is an important figure in many Buddhist traditions, where he is unanimously regarded as the buddha of the future era. He is said to currently reside in the heaven of Tuṣita, as Śākyamuni’s regent, where he awaits the proper time to take his final rebirth and become the fifth buddha in the Fortunate Eon, reestablishing the Dharma in this world after the teachings of the current buddha have disappeared. Within the Mahāyāna sūtras, Maitreya is elevated to the same status as other central bodhisattvas such as Mañjuśrī and Avalokiteśvara, and his name appears frequently in sūtras, either as the Buddha’s interlocutor or as a teacher of the Dharma. Maitreya literally means “Loving One.” He is also known as Ajita, meaning “Invincible.”

For more information on Maitreya, see, for example, the introduction to Maitreya’s Setting Out (Toh 198).

g.951 majestic wheel-turning emperor

dbang phyug 'khor los sgyur ba

དབང་ཕྱག་འཁོར་ལོས་སྐྱར་བ།

īśvaracakravartin

g.952 major mark

mtshan

མཚན།

lakṣaṇa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The thirty-two primary physical characteristics of a “great being,” mahāpuruṣa, which every buddha and cakravartin possesses. They are considered “major” in terms of being primary to the eighty minor marks or signs of a great being.

In this text:

For their enumeration in this text, see 73.89.

g.953 make a confession

'chags

འཚགས། pratideśaya

g.954 make a detailed examination

rab tu rnam par 'byed pa

རབ་ཏུ་རྣམ་པར་འབྱེད་པ། pravici

g.955 make an investigation

rnam par dbye bar bgyi

རྣམ་པར་དབྱེ་བར་བགྱི།

paricaya kṛ

g.956 make it be there

gnas par byed pa

གནས་པར་བྱེད་པ།

**sthāpikā*<sup>RS</sup>

g.957 maker

byed pa po

ཐྱེད་པ་པོ། kāraḥka · kṛtaka

g.958 making things known

btags pa

བཏགས་པ། prajñāpti

g.959 male

skyes pa

སྐྱེས་པ།

puruṣa

g.960 malice

gnod sems

གནོད་སེམས། vyapāda

g.961 malicious thought

gnod sems kyi sems · gnod sems

གནོད་སེམས་ཀྱི་སེམས། · གནོད་སེམས། vyāpādacitta

g.962 mandārava

man dA ra ba

མན་རྒྱ་བ།

mandārava

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the five trees of Indra's paradise, its heavenly flowers often rain down in salutation of the buddhas and bodhisattvas and are said to be very bright and aromatic, gladdening the hearts of those who see them. In our world, it is a tree native to India, Erythrina indica or Erythrina variegata, commonly known as the Indian coral tree, mandarava tree, flame tree, and tiger's claw. In the early spring, before its leaves grow, the tree is fully covered in large flowers, which are rich in nectar and attract many birds. Although the most widespread coral tree has red crimson flowers, the color of the blossoms is not usually mentioned in the sūtras themselves, and it may refer to some other kinds, like the rarer Erythrina indica alba, which boasts white flowers.

g.963 Mañjuśrī Kumārabhūta

'jam dpal gzhon nur gyur pa

འཇམ་དཔལ་གཞོན་ནུ་རྒྱུ་པ།

mañjuśrī kumārabhūta

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Mañjuśrī is one of the “eight close sons of the Buddha” and a bodhisattva who embodies wisdom. He is a major figure in the Mahāyāna sūtras, appearing often as an interlocutor of the Buddha. In his most well-known iconographic form, he is portrayed bearing the sword of wisdom in his right hand and a volume of the Prajñāpāramitāsūtra in his left. In addition to the epithet Kumārabhūta, which means “having a youthful form,” Mañjuśrī is also called Mañjughoṣa, Mañjusvara, and Pañcaśikha.

g.964 Māra

bdud

བདུད།

māra

A māra is a demon, in the sense of something that plagues a person. The four māras are (1) māra as the five aggregates (skandhamāra, phung po'i bdud), māra as the afflictive emotions (kleśamāra, nyon mongs pa'i bdud), māra as death (mṛtyumāra, 'chi bdag gi bdud), and the god māra (devaputramāra, lha'i bu'i bdud).

g.965 Māra class

bdud kyi ris

བདུད་ཀྱི་རིས། mārakāyika

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The deities ruled over by Māra. The term can also refer to the devas in his paradise, which is sometimes identified with Paranirmitavaśavartin, the highest paradise in the realm of desire. This is distinct from the four personifications of obstacles to awakening, also known as the four māras (devaputramāra, mṛtyumāra, skandhamāra, and kleśamāra).

g.966 Māra the wicked one

bdud sdig can

བདུད་སྤྲིག་ཅན།

māraḥ pāpīyān

A frequent epithet of Māra.

g.967 Mārabalapramardin

bdud kyi stobs rab tu 'joms pa

བདུད་ཀྱི་སྤྲོ་བས་རབ་ཏུ་འཛོམས་པ།

mārabalapramardin

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.968 māramaṅḍalavidhvaṃsanakara

bdud kyi dkyil 'khor rnam par 'joms par byed pa

བདུད་ཀྱི་དཀྱིལ་འཁོར་རྣམ་པར་འཛོམས་པར་བྱེད་པ། māramaṅḍalavidhvaṃsanakara

Lit. “totally defeats the circle of māras.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.969 mark

mtshan nyid · mtshan

མཚན་ཉིད། · མཚན།

lakṣaṇa

g.970 mark of a great person

skyes bu chen po'i mtshan

སྐྱེས་བུ་ཚེན་པོའི་མཚན།

mahāpuruṣalakṣaṇa

g.971 market

grong rdal

གྲོང་རྒྱུ།

nigama

g.972 market town

grong rdal

གྲོང་རྒྱུ།

nigama

g.973 marketplace

grong bar

གོང་བར།

antarāpaṇa

g.974 marvelous dharma

rmad du byung ba'i chos

རྣམ་དུ་བྱུང་བའི་ཚོས།

adbhūtadharmā

g.975 marvels

rmad du byung ba'i chos

རྣམ་དུ་བྱུང་བའི་ཚོས།

adbhūtadharmā

As one of the twelve aspects of the wheel of Dharma, it means descriptions of miracles.

g.976 masculine word

skyes pa'i tshig bla dags

སྐྱེས་པའི་ཚིག་བླ་དགས།

puruṣādhipācāna

g.977 mass of foam

dbu ba rdos pa

དབུ་བ་རྩོས་པ། phenapiṇḍa

g.978 mass of four-unit forces

dpung gi tshogs yan lag bzhi pa

དཔུང་གི་ཚོགས་ཡན་ལག་བཞི་པ།

caturāṅgaṃ balakāyam

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The ancient Indian army was composed of four branches (caturāṅga)—infantry, cavalry, chariots, and elephants.

g.979 material reality

rdzas

རྩས།

dravya

Things that are not merely labelled through concepts or ideas but are actually capable of performing a function, e.g., form.

g.980 material things

zang zing · rdzas

ཟང་ཟིང་། ་ རྩམ།

āmiṣa

g.981 maturity

smin pa · yongs su smin pa

སློན་པ། ་ ཡོངས་སུ་སློན་པ།

pāka · paripāka

g.982 Maudgalyāyana

maud gal gyi bu

མོད་གལ་གྱི་བུ།

maudgalyāyana

One of the principal śrāvaka disciples of the Buddha, paired with Śāriputra, he was renowned for his miraculous powers. His family clan was descended from Mudgala, hence his name Maudgalyāyana, “the son of Mudgala’s descendants.” Respectfully referred to as Mahāmaudgalyāyana.

g.983 māyāvivarjita

sgyu ma rnam par spangs pa

སྐྱུ་མ་རྣམ་པར་སྤངས་པ།

māyāvivarjita

Lit. “where illusion has been eliminated.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.984 medicine

sman

སློན།

auṣadha

g.985 meditative equipoise

mnyam par bzhas pa

མཉམ་པར་བཞག་པ།

samāhita

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A state of deep concentration in which the mind is absorbed in its object to such a degree that conceptual thought is suspended. It is sometimes interpreted as settling (āhita) the mind in equanimity (sama).

In this text:

Also rendered here as “collected state.”

g.986 meditative stabilization ting nge 'dzin · ting 'dzin

ཉིང་ལེ་འཛིན། ཉིང་འཛིན། samādhi

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In a general sense, samādhi can describe a number of different meditative states. In the Mahāyāna literature, in particular in the Prajñāpāramitā sūtras, we find extensive lists of different samādhis, numbering over one hundred.

In a more restricted sense, and when understood as a mental state, samādhi is defined as the one-pointedness of the mind (cittaikāgratā), the ability to remain on the same object over long periods of time. The Draḥor Bamponyipa (sgra sbyor bam po gnyis pa) commentary on the Mahāvīyutpatti explains the term samādhi as referring to the instrument through which mind and mental states “get collected,” i.e., it is by the force of samādhi that the continuum of mind and mental states becomes collected on a single point of reference without getting distracted.

g.987 meditative stabilization gateway

ting nge 'dzin gyi sgo

ཉིང་ལེ་འཛིན་གྱི་སྒོ། samādhimukha

g.988 meditative stabilization like a flash of lightning

glog lta bu'i ting nge 'dzin

གློག་ལུ་བྱུ་ཉིང་ལེ་འཛིན།

vidyutopamasamādhi

Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.989 meditative stabilization with applied and sustained thought

rtog pa dang bcas dpyod pa dang bcas pa'i ting nge 'dzin

རྟོག་པ་དང་བཅས་དཔྱོད་པ་དང་བཅས་པའི་ཉིང་ལེ་འཛིན།

savitarkasavicārasamādhi

See “meditative stabilization.”

- g.990 meditative stabilization without applied thought but with sustained thought

rtog pa med cing dpyod pa'i ting nge 'dzin

རྫོག་པ་མེད་ཅིང་དཔྱོད་པའི་ཉིང་དེ་འཛིན།

avitarkavicāramātrasamādhi

See “meditative stabilization.”

- g.991 meditative stabilization without either applied or sustained thought

rtog pa yang med dpyod pa yang med pa'i ting nge 'dzin

· rtog pa med pa dang dpyod pa med pa'i ting nge 'dzin

རྫོག་པ་ཡང་མེད་དཔྱོད་པ་ཡང་མེད་པའི་ཉིང་དེ་འཛིན། . རྫོག་པ་མེད་པ་དང་དཔྱོད་པ་མེད་པའི་ཉིང་དེ་འཛིན།

avitarkāvicārasamādhi

See “meditative stabilization.”

- g.992 melodious narration

dbyangs kyis bsnyad pa

དབྱུངས་ཀྱིས་བསྟན་པ།

geya

The repetition of prose passages in verse form. Literally “that which is to be chanted.” One of the twelve aspects of the wheel of Dharma.

- g.993 melodious sound endowed with the five branches that make it suitable for discourse

gsung gi lam yan lag lnga dang ldan pa'i dbyangs

གསུང་གི་ལམ་ཡན་ལག་ལྔ་དང་ལྷན་པའི་དབྱུངས། pañcāṅgavākpathopeta svara

- g.994 mental action

yid kyi las

ཡིད་ཀྱི་ལས། manaskarman

- g.995 mental continuum

sems kyi rgyud

སེམས་ཀྱི་རྒྱད། *saṃtāna · *cittasaṃtāna*<sup>RS</sup>

g.996 mental distraction

sems rnam par g.yeng ba

སེམས་རྣམ་པར་གཡིང་བ། vikṣiptacitta

g.997 mental distress

yid mi dga' ba

ཡིད་མི་དགའ་བ། anāttamanas

g.998 mental factor

sems las byung ba

སེམས་ལས་བྱུང་བ། cetasika

g.999 mental volitional factor

yid kyi 'du byed

ཡིད་ཀྱི་འདུ་བྱེད།

—

g.1000 mentally construct

rtog · rtog par byed · rnam par rtog · rnam par rtog par byed

རྟོག་ · རྟོག་པར་བྱེད། · རྣམ་པར་རྟོག་ · རྣམ་པར་རྟོག་པར་བྱེད།

klp

g.1001 mere designation

ming tsam

མིང་ཅོམ།

nāmadheyamātra

g.1002 mere name

ming tsam

མིང་ཅོམ།

nāmamātra

g.1003 merit

bsod nams

བསོད་ནམས།

punya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Buddhism more generally, merit refers to the wholesome karmic potential accumulated by someone as a result of positive and altruistic thoughts, words, and actions, which will ripen in the current or future lifetimes as the experience of happiness and well-being. According to the Mahāyāna, it is important to dedicate the merit of one's wholesome actions to the awakening of oneself and to the ultimate and temporary benefit of all sentient beings. Doing so ensures that others also experience the results of the positive actions generated and that the merit is not wasted by ripening in temporary happiness for oneself alone.

g.1004 Merukalpa

ri rab 'dra ba

རི་རབ་འདྲ་བ།

merukalpa

Lit. "axial mountain-like." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1005 Merukūṭa

lhun po'i rtse mo

ལྷུན་པོའི་རྩེ་མོ།

merukūṭa

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1006 meruvicitra

ri rab sna tshogs

རི་རབ་སྐྱོལ་གས།

meruvicitra

Lit. "variegated axial mountain." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1007 million world systems

stong gnyis kyi 'jig rten gyi khams · stong gnyis pa'i 'jig rten gyi khams

སྟོང་གཉིས་གྱི་འཛིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ཁམས། · སྟོང་གཉིས་པའི་འཛིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ཁམས།

dvīsāhasralokadhātu

A “twice thousandfold world system,” i.e., a millionfold universe.

g.1008 mind and mental factor

sems dang sems las byung ba

སེམས་དང་སེམས་ལས་བྱུང་བ། cittacaitasika

g.1009 mind disposed to the word

bka' nyan pa'i sems

བཀའ་ཉན་པའི་སེམས།

ājñācitta

g.1010 mind made

yid las byung ba

ཡིད་ལས་བྱུང་བ། manomaya

g.1011 mindful

dran pa

སྒོ་པ།

smṛta · smṛtīman

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

This is the faculty that enables the mind to maintain its attention on a referent object, counteracting the arising of forgetfulness, which is a great obstacle to meditative stability. The root smṛ may mean “to recollect” but also simply “to think of.” Broadly speaking, smṛti, commonly translated as “mindfulness,” means to bring something to mind, not necessarily something experienced in a distant past but also something that is experienced in the present, such as the position of one’s body or the breath.

Together with alertness (samprajāna, shes bzhin), it is one of the two indispensable factors for the development of calm abiding (śamatha, zhi gnas).

g.1012 mindfulness

dran pa

སྒོ་པ།

smṛti

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

This is the faculty that enables the mind to maintain its attention on a referent object, counteracting the arising of forgetfulness, which is a great obstacle to meditative stability. The root smṛ may mean “to recollect” but also simply “to think of.” Broadly speaking, smṛti, commonly translated as “mindfulness,” means to bring something to mind, not necessarily something experienced in a distant past but also something that is experienced in the present, such as the position of one’s body or the breath. Together with alertness (samprajāna, shes bzhin), it is one of the two indispensable factors for the development of calm abiding (śamatha, zhi gnas).

g.1013 mindfulness of breathing in and out

dbugs rngub pa dang 'byung ba rjes su dran pa · dbugs rngub pa dang dbyung ba rjes su dran pa
 · dbugs dbyung ba dang rngub pa rjes su dran pa

དབྱུགས་རླབ་པ་དང་འབྱུང་བ་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། · དབྱུགས་རླབ་པ་དང་དབྱུང་བ་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། · དབྱུགས་དབྱུང་བ་དང་རླབ་པ་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། ānāpānānusmṛti

g.1014 mindfulness of death

'chi ba rjes su dran pa འཇིབ་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། maraṇānusmṛti

g.1015 mindfulness of disgust

skyo ba rjes su dran pa ལྷོ་བ་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། udvegānusmṛti

g.1016 mindfulness of giving away

gtong ba rjes su dran pa གཏོང་བ་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། tyāgānusmṛti

g.1017 mindfulness of morality

tshul khrims rjes su dran pa ལྷུ་ལ་ཁྲིམས་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། śīlānusmṛti

- g.1018 mindfulness of the Buddha
sangs rgyas rjes su dran pa སངས་རྒྱས་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། buddhānusmṛti
- g.1019 mindfulness of the Dharma
chos rjes su dran pa ཚོས་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། dharmānusmṛti
- g.1020 mindfulness of the gods
lha rjes su dran pa ལྷ་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། devatānusmṛti
- g.1021 mindfulness of the Saṅgha
dge 'dun rjes su dran pa དགེ་འདུན་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། saṅghānusmṛti
- g.1022 mindfulness of what is included in the body lus su gtogs pa rjes su dran pa ལུས་སུ་གཏོགས་པ་རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ། kāyagatānusmṛti
- g.1023 minister
blon po
སློན་པོ།
parināyaka
- g.1024 minor sign
dpe byad bzang po · dpe byad དཔེ་བྱད་བཟང་པོ། · དཔེ་བྱད། anuvyañjana · vyañjana
Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The eighty secondary physical characteristics of a buddha and of other great beings (mahāpuruṣa), which include such details as the redness of the fingernails and the blackness of the hair. They are considered “minor” in terms of being secondary to the thirty-two major marks or signs of a great being.

In this text:

For their enumeration in this text, see 73.93.

g.1025 miracle

cho 'phrul

ཚོ་འཕྲུལ། prātihārya

g.1026 miracle of foretelling

kun brjod pa'i cho 'phrul

ཀུན་བརྗོད་པའི་ཚོ་འཕྲུལ། ādeśanāprātihārya

g.1027 miracle of instruction

rjes su bstan pa'i cho 'phrul

རྗེས་སུ་བསྟན་པའི་ཚོ་འཕྲུལ།

anuśāsanīprātihārya

g.1028 miracle of miraculous power

rdzu 'phrul gyi cho 'phrul

རྩུ་འཕྲུལ་གྱི་ཚོ་འཕྲུལ།

ṛddhiprātihārya

g.1029 miraculous birth

rdzus te skye ba

རྩུ་ཏེ་སྐྱེ་བ།

aupapāduka

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the four modes of birth (caturyonī; skye gnas bzhi). Those who take miraculous birth are spontaneously born fully mature at the time of their birth. There are many categories of beings who can be born under these circumstances, including gods, hungry ghosts, hell beings, beings born in the intermediate state (antarābhava; bar ma do), and even humans in special circumstances or in the pure realms.

g.1030 miraculous power

rdzu 'phrul

རྩུ་ཕྱུལ།

ṛddhi

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The supernatural powers of a śrāvaka correspond to the first abhijñā: “Being one he becomes many, being many he becomes one; he becomes visible, invisible; goes through walls, ramparts and mountains without being impeded, just as through air; he immerses himself in the earth and emerges from it as if in water; he goes on water without breaking through it, as if on [solid] earth; he travels through the air crosslegged like a winged bird; he takes in his hands and touches the moon and the sun, those two wonderful, mighty beings, and with his body he extends his power as far as the Brahma world” (Śūraṅgamasamādhisūtra, trans. Lamotte 2003).

The great supernatural powers (maharddhi) of bodhisattvas are “causing trembling, blazing, illuminating, rendering invisible, transforming, coming and going across obstacles, reducing or enlarging worlds, inserting any matter into one’s own body, assuming the aspects of those one frequents, appearing and disappearing, submitting everyone to one’s will, dominating the supernormal power of others, giving intellectual clarity to those who lack it, giving mindfulness, bestowing happiness, and finally, emitting beneficial rays” (Śūraṅgamasamādhisūtra, trans. Lamotte 2003).

g.1031 mirage

smig rgyu

སྐྱིག་རྒྱ། marīcikā

g.1032 miserliness

ser sna

སེར་སྤྲ།

matsara · mātsarya

g.1033 mode

rnam pa

འཇམ་པ། ākāra

g.1034 monk

dge slong

དགེ་སྦྱོང་།

bhikṣu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The term bhikṣu, often translated as “monk,” refers to the highest among the eight types of prātimokṣa vows that make one part of the Buddhist assembly. The Sanskrit term literally means “beggar” or “mendicant,” referring to the fact that Buddhist monks and nuns—like other ascetics of the time—subsisted on alms (bhikṣā) begged from the laity.

In the Tibetan tradition, which follows the Mūlasarvāstivāda Vinaya, a monk follows 253 rules as part of his moral discipline. A nun (bhikṣuṇī; dge slong ma) follows 364 rules. A novice monk (śrāmaṇera; dge tshul) or nun (śrāmaṇerikā; dge tshul ma) follows thirty-six rules of moral discipline (although in other vinaya traditions novices typically follow only ten).

g.1035 month

zla ba

ཟླ་བ། māsa

g.1036 moral code

tshul khrims kyi sdom pa

ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས་ཀྱི་སྡེ་མ་པ། śīlasaṃvara

g.1037 morality

tshul khrims

ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས།

śīla

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Morally virtuous or disciplined conduct and the abandonment of morally undisciplined conduct of body, speech, and mind. In a general sense, moral discipline is the cause for rebirth in higher, more favorable states, but it is also foundational to Buddhist practice as one of the three trainings (triśikṣā) and one of the six perfections of a bodhisattva. Often rendered as “ethics,” “discipline,” and “morality.”

g.1038 morality that comes through force of habit

yang dag par spyod pa'i tshul khrims

ཡང་དག་པར་སྟོན་པའི་ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས། samudācāraśīla

g.1039 morality with eight branches

yan lag brgyad dang ldan pa'i tshul khrims

ཡན་ལག་བརྒྱད་དང་ལྷན་པའི་ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས།

—

The eight branches are the same as the eight precepts, the upavasatha or upavāsa vows, namely: to refrain from (1) killing, (2) stealing, (3) sexual conduct, (4) lying or divisive speech, (5) intoxication, (6) eating at inappropriate times, (7) entertainment such as singing, dancing, seeing shows, and beautifying oneself with adornments or cosmetics, and (8) using a high bed.

g.1040 morality with five branches

yan lag lnga dang ldan pa'i tshul khrims

ཡན་ལག་ལྔ་དང་ལྷན་པའི་ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས།

—

The five branches are the same as the five precepts, namely: abstaining from killing, stealing, sexual misconduct, lying, and consuming intoxicants.

g.1041 morning

snga dro

སྔ་དྲོ།

purobhakta

g.1042 mosquito

sbrang bu mchu ring

སྤང་བུ་མཚུངས། daṃśa

g.1043 Mother of Victors

rgyal ba'i yum

སྐྱེས་བའི་ཡུམ།

—

See “perfection of wisdom.”

g.1044 motivator

slong ba po

སློང་བ་པོ། utthāpaka

g.1045 moved excessively lhag par g.yo ba

ལྷག་པར་གཡོ་བ། unmiñjita

g.1046 moved to abridge

bsdus par g.yo ba

བསྐྱུས་པར་གཡོ་བ། sañmiñjita

g.1047 nāga

klu

ལྷ།

nāga

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A class of nonhuman beings who live in subterranean aquatic environments, where they guard wealth and sometimes also teachings. Nāgas are associated with serpents and have a snakelike appearance. In Buddhist art and in written accounts, they are regularly portrayed as half human and half snake, and they are also said to have the ability to change into human form. Some nāgas are Dharma protectors, but they can also bring retribution if they are disturbed. They may likewise fight one another, wage war, and destroy the lands of others by causing lightning, hail, and flooding.

g.1048 nāgavṛkṣa

klu shing gi me tog

ལྷ་ཤིང་གི་མེ་རྟོག་

nāgavṛkṣa

Mesua roxburghii. The Sanskrit literally translates as “nāga flowers.”

- g.1049 nairvedhikasarvabhavatamo'pagata rtogs pas srid pa'i mun pa thams cad dang bral ba རྟོགས་པས་སྲིད་པའི་སྲུང་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་དང་བྲལ་བ། nairvedhikasarvabhavatamo'pagata
 Lit. "freed by realization from all darkness of the world." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1050 nāmaniruktipadavyañjana
ming dang nges pa'i sgra dang tshig dang 'bru མིང་དང་ངེས་པའི་སྒྲ་དང་ཚིག་དང་འབྲུ། nāmaniruktipadavyañjana
 Lit. "of words, etymologies, sentences, and syllables." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1051 nāmaniyatapraveśa
ming nges par 'jug pa མིང་ངེས་པར་འཇུག་པ། nāmaniyatapraveśa
 Lit. "entry into certainty about words." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1052 name
'du shes
 འདུ་ཤེས། sañjñā
- g.1053 name and conventional term ming gi brda · ming dang brda མིང་གི་བད། · མིང་དང་བད།
 —
- g.1054 name and form
ming dang gzugs མིང་དང་གཟུགས། nāmarūpa
 Fourth of the twelve links of dependent origination.
- g.1055 name designation

ming du btags pa · ming du gdags pa

མིང་དུ་བཏགས་པ། · མིང་དུ་གདགས་པ། nāmaprajñapti

g.1056 name plucked out of thin air

glo bur du btags pa'i ming · glo bur du ming btags · glo bur du ming du btags pa
· ming du btags pa · ming tsam kho na

གློ་བུར་དུ་བཏགས་པའི་མིང། · གློ་བུར་དུ་མིང་བཏགས། · གློ་བུར་དུ་མིང་དུ་བཏགས་པ། · མིང་དུ་བཏགས་པ། · མིང་ཙམ་ཁོ་ན།

āgantukaṃ nāmadheyam

g.1057 nameless

ming med pa

མིང་མེད་པ། anāmaka

g.1058 nānārutapadavyañjanābhinirhāra

sgra dang tshig dang 'bru sna tshogs sgrub pa

སྒྲ་དང་ཚིག་དང་འབྲུ་སྒྲ་ཚོགས་སྐྱབ་པ།

nānārutapadaṣyañjanābhinirhāra

Lit. "producing skill in [making] the variety of sounds, words, and syllables."
Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1059 Nandā

dga' ba

དགའ་བ།

nandā

Lit. "Happiness." Name of four lotus ponds, each located in one of the four gardens of the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.1060 Nandā

dga' ba

དགའ་བ།

nandā

Lit. "Delight." A world system in the direction above, where the buddha Nandaśrī now dwells.

g.1061 Nandadatta

dga' bas byin

དགའ་བས་བྱིན།

nandadatta

Lit. "Delight Given." A bodhisattva from a world system called Nandā, in the direction above, who comes to pay homage and listen to the Buddha.

g.1062 Nandaśrī

dga' ba'i dpal

དགའ་བའི་དཔལ།

nandaśrī

Lit. "Glorious Delight." A buddha in a world system called Nandā, in the direction above.

g.1063 Nandottamā

dga' ba mchog

དགའ་བ་མཚོག།

nandottamā

Lit. "Supreme Happiness." Name of four lotus ponds, each located in one of the four gardens of the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.1064 nandyāvarta

g.yung drung 'khyil ba

གཡུང་རྩུང་འཁྱིལ་བ།

nandyāvarta

Lit. "Nandi the bull's curl." One of the symbols adorning the palms of the hands and soles of the feet of the buddhas. Together with the śrīvatsa and svastika, it forms the eightieth minor sign. It is a symbol of auspiciousness.

g.1065 natural state

chos nyid

ཚོས་ཉིད།

dharmatā

See "true nature of dharmas."

g.1066 natural state not robbed of mindfulness

bsnyel ba mi mnga' ba'i chos nyid

བསྐྱེལ་བ་མི་མངའ་བའི་ཚོས་ཉིད། asampramoṣadharmatā

g.1067 natural-bed user

gzhi ji bzhin pa

གཞི་ཇི་བཞིན་པ། yathāsaṃstarika

g.1068 naturally childish disposition

byis pa'i rang bzhin can

བྱིས་པའི་རང་བཞིན་ཅན། bāljātīyah

g.1069 naturally gentle soul

rang bzhin gyis thugs 'jam pa dang ldan pa

རང་བཞིན་བྱིས་སྐྱགས་འཇམ་པ་དང་ལྡན་པ། svabhāvamṛdhucitta

g.1070 nature from something else

gzhan gyi dngos po

གཞན་གྱི་དངོས་པོ། parabhāva

g.1071 neither perception nor nonperception

'du shes med 'du shes med min

འདུ་ཤེས་མེད་འདུ་ཤེས་མེད་མིན།

naivasaṃjñānāsaṃjñā

See “station of neither perception nor nonperception.”

g.1072 nine perceptions

'du shes dgu

འདུ་ཤེས་དགུ།

navasaṃjñā

The nine perceptions of the repulsive state of the body after death are here listed as the perception of a bloated corpse, the perception of it chopped in half or the cleaned-out-by-worms perception, the perception of it as putrid, the bloodied perception, the black-and-blue perception, the savaged perception, the torn-asunder perception, the bones perception, and the burnt-bones perception.

g.1073 nine places beings live

sems can gyi gnas dgu

སེམས་ཅན་གྱི་གནས་དགུ

—

The dung dkar tshig mdzod chen mo lists the nine as (1) among those with different (tha dad) bodies and perceptions, such as humans and some gods, (2) among those with different bodies and a single perception, such as the Brahmakāyika gods, (3) among those with a single body and different perceptions, such as the Ābhāsvara gods, (4) among those with a single body and a single perception, such as the Śubhakṛtsna gods, and (5) among beings in Asamjñisattva, (6) in the station of endless space, (7) in the station of endless consciousness, (8) in the station of nothing-at-all, and (9) in the station of neither perception nor nonperception.

g.1074 nine serial absorptions

mthar gyis gnas pa'i snyoms par 'jug pa dgu

མཐར་གྱིས་གནས་པའི་སྟོན་མས་པར་འཇུག་པ་དགུ

navānupūrvavīhārasamāpatti

Nine states of concentration that one may attain during a human life, namely the four concentrations corresponding to the form realm, the four formless absorptions, and the attainment of the state of cessation.

g.1075 niradhiṣṭhāna

gnas su bya ba med pa

གནས་སུ་བྱ་བ་མེད་པ།

niradhiṣṭhāna

Lit. “without anything to rest on” (Conze: “All Stability Stopped”). Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1076 Nirmāṇarati

'phrul dga'

འཕྲུལ་དགའ།

nirmāṇarati

Lit. “Those Who Enjoy Magically Produced Creations.” The fifth of the six heavens of the desire realm; also the name of the gods living there. Its inhabitants magically create the objects of their own enjoyment.

g.1077 niruktinirdeśapraveśa

nges pa'i tshig bstan pa la 'jug pa

ངེས་པའི་ཚིག་བསྟན་པ་ལ་འཇུག་པ།

niruktinirdeśapraveśa

Lit. “entry into the exposition of etymologies.” Name of a meditative stabilization. (Ghoṣa has niruktāniyatapraveśa.)

g.1078 niruktiniyatapraveśa

nges pa'i tshig la gdon mi za bar 'jug pa

ངེས་པའི་ཚིག་ལ་གཏོན་མི་བྱ་བར་འཇུག་པ། niruktiniyatapraveśa

Lit. “entry into certainty about the etymologies.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1079 nirvāṇa

mya ngan las 'das pa

མྱ་ངན་ལས་འདས་པ།

nirvṛti

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Sanskrit, the term nirvāṇa literally means “extinguishment” and the Tibetan mya ngan las 'das pa literally means “gone beyond sorrow.” As a general term, it refers to the cessation of all suffering, afflicted mental states (kleśa), and causal processes (karman) that lead to rebirth and suffering in cyclic existence, as well as to the state in which all such rebirth and suffering has permanently ceased.

More specifically, three main types of nirvāṇa are identified. The first type of nirvāṇa, called nirvāṇa with remainder (sopadhīṣeṣanirvāṇa), is when an arhat or buddha has attained awakening but is still dependent on the conditioned aggregates until their lifespan is exhausted. At the end of life, given that there are no more causes for rebirth, these aggregates cease and no new aggregates arise. What occurs then is called nirvāṇa without remainder (anupadhīṣeṣanirvāṇa), which refers to the unconditioned element (dhātu) of nirvāṇa in which there is no remainder of the aggregates. The Mahāyāna teachings distinguish the final nirvāṇa of buddhas from that of arhats, the latter of which is not considered ultimate. The buddhas attain what is called nonabiding nirvāṇa (apratiṣṭhitānirvāṇa), which transcends the extremes of saṃsāra and nirvāṇa, i.e., existence and peace. This is the nirvāṇa that is the goal of the Mahāyāna path.

g.1080 niścitta

sems med pa

སེམས་མེད་པ།

niścitta

Lit. “without thoughts.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1081 Nityapramūḍita

rtaḡ tu rab dga'

རྟམ་ཏུ་རབ་དགའ།

nityapramūḍita

Lit. “Always a Joy.” Name of one of four gardens in the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.1082 Nityaprayukta

brtson pa mi gtong

བརྗོན་པ་མི་གཏོང།

nityaprayukta

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1083 Nityodyukta

rtaḡ tu brtson

རྟམ་ཏུ་བརྗོན།

nityodyukta

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1084 Nityotkṣiptahasta

rtaḡ tu phyag brkyang

རྟམ་ཏུ་ཕྱག་བརྒྱེད།

nityotkṣiptahasta

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1085 Niyatā

nges pa

ངེས་པ།

niyatā

Lit. "Certain." Name of four lotus ponds, each located in one of the four gardens of the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.1086 niyatadhvajaketu

nges pa'i rgyal mtshan tog

ངེས་པའི་རྒྱལ་མཚན་རྟོག

niyatadhvajaketu

Lit. "crest of the victory banner of certainty." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1087 no fixed position

mi gnas pa

མི་གནས་པ།

*aniḥśṛta · *aniścita* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1088 no intrinsic nature

ngo bo nyid med pa · rang bzhin med pa

ངོ་བོ་ཉིད་མེད་པ། · རང་བཞིན་མེད་པ། niḥsvabhāvatva · asvabhāva

g.1089 no knowledge

shes pa ma yin pa

ཤེས་པ་མ་ཡིན་པ། ajñāna

g.1090 no thought

sems ma yin

སེམས་མ་ཡིན། acitta

g.1091 no thought to hold back

sems la 'dzin pa med pa

སེམས་ལ་འཛིན་པ་མེད་པ། anāgṛhītacitta

g.1092 noble

'phags pa

འཕགས་པ།

ārya

A term of exaltation. See also “noble being.”

g.1093 noble being

'phags pa

འཕགས་པ།

ārya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Sanskrit ārya has the general meaning of a noble person, one of a higher class or caste. In Buddhist literature, depending on the context, it often means specifically one who has gained the realization of the path and is superior for that reason. In particular, it applies to stream enterers, once-returners, non-returners, and worthy ones (arhats) and is also used as an epithet of bodhisattvas. In the five-path system, it refers to someone who has achieved at least the path of seeing (darśanamārga).

g.1094 noble discourses to do with deliverance

gtam 'phags shing nges par 'byin pa

གཏམ་འཕགས་ཤིང་ངེས་པར་འབྲིན་པ། kathāṃ karoty āryāṃ nairyāṅikāṃ

g.1095 noble path

'phags pa'i lam

འཕགས་པའི་ལམ།

āryamārga

The noble eightfold path, enumerated in 16.25, comprises (1) right view, (2) right idea, (3) right speech, (4) right conduct, (5) right livelihood, (6) right effort, (7) right mindfulness, and (8) right meditative stabilization.

g.1096 noble truth

'phags pa'i bden pa

འཕགས་པའི་བདེན་པ།

āryasatya

See “four noble truths.”

g.1097 non-returner

phyir mi 'ong ba

ཕྱིར་མི་འོང་བ།

anāgāmin

One who has achieved the third of the four levels of attainment on the śrāvaka path and who will no longer be reborn in the desire realm.

g.1098 nonaccumulation

tshogs ma yin pa

ཚོགས་མ་ཡིན་པ། anicaya

g.1099 nonapprehender

dmigs su med par byed

དམིགས་སུ་མེད་པར་བྱེད།

—

g.1100 nonarising

kun nas ldang ba med pa

ཀུན་ནས་ལྡང་བ་མེད་པ། aparyutthāna

g.1101 nonconforming order

lugs dang mi 'thun pa · lugs ma yin pa

ལུགས་དང་མི་འཇུག་པ། · ལུགས་མ་ཡིན་པ། pratiloma

g.1102 nonduality

gnyis su med pa

གཉིས་སུ་མེད་པ། advaya

g.1103 nonexistence of a self in dharmas

chos la bdag med pa

ཚོས་ལ་བདག་མེད་པ། dharmanairātmya

g.1104 nonexistent thing

dnegos po med pa · dnegos po ma mchis pa

དངོས་པོ་མེད་པ། · དངོས་པོ་མ་མཚིས་པ།

abhāva

g.1105 nonhuman

mi ma yin

མི་མ་ཡིན།

amanuṣya

g.1106 nonhuman form

mi ma yin par gyur pa

མི་མ་ཡིན་པར་གྱུར་པ། amanuṣyabhūta

g.1107 nonmaterial reality

rdzas su ma mchis pa

རྗམས་སུ་མ་མཚིས་པ།

—

Things that are merely labelled through concepts or ideas.

g.1108 nonsense

don dang mi ldan pa

དོན་དང་མི་ལྡན་པ། anarthopasaṃhita

g.1109 nose consciousness constituent sna'i rnam par shes pa'i kham

སྤྱི་རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པའི་ཁམས།

ghrānavijñānadhātu

One of the eighteen constituents.

g.1110 not a state of being

med pa

མེད་པ།

asattva

g.1111 not affected by

gos par mi 'gyur

གོས་པར་མི་འགྱུར།

na lipyate

g.1112 not amenable to language

tha snyad ma mchis pa

ཐ་སྐད་མ་མཆིས་པ།

**aprayahāra* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1113 not an agent

bgyid pa ma lags

བགྱིད་པ་མ་ལགས།

akārakṛ

g.1114 not apprehending

mi dmigs pa

མི་དམིགས་པ།

anupalambha

See “apprehend.”

g.1115 not bear malice

kun nas mnar sems mi byed

ཀུན་ནས་མནར་སེམས་མི་བྱེད། na cittam āghātayati (āhan)

g.1116 not been cut apart

gcad du med

གཅད་དུ་མེད། acchina

g.1117 not being able to be crushed

thub pa med pa

ཐུབ་པ་མེད་པ། anavamardya

g.1118 not being partaken of

mi 'phrog pa

མི་འཕྲོག་པ།

asamhārya · apasamhāra

g.1119 not bringing in and not sending out as their way of being blang ba med pa dang dor ba med pa

སྤང་བ་མེད་པ་དང་དོར་བ་མེད་པ། anāyūhāniryūha

g.1120 not causing all the dharmas to come into being chos thams cad la mngon par 'du byed pa med pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ལ་མངོན་པར་འདུ་བྱེད་པ་མེད་པ། sarvadharmāṅām anabhisaṃskāro

g.1121 not cut apart

gcad du med pa

གཅད་དུ་མེད་པ། acchinna

g.1122 not distinguish

rnam par mi shes

རྣམ་པར་མི་ཤེས།

—

g.1123 not extinguished

mi zad pa

མི་བྲད་པ།

akṣaya

g.1124 not fixed

yang dag par gnas pa ma yin pa

ཡང་དག་པར་གནས་པ་མ་ཡིན་པ།

**apratiṣṭhita*<sup>RS</sup>

g.1125 not found

dmigs su ma mchis pa · mi dmigs

དམིགས་སུ་མ་མཚིས་པ། · མི་དམིགས། nopalabhyate

g.1126 not getting overheated

gdung ba med pa

གདུང་བ་མེད་པ།

anuddahana · anuddāha

g.1127 not grating

mi tshugs

མི་ཚུགས།

aneḍa · anelā

An attribute of speech.

g.1128 not have to guard against bsrung ba med pa

བསྟུང་བ་མེད་པ། arakṣya

g.1129 not joining

phrad pa med pa

ཕྱད་པ་མེད་པ། ayoga

g.1130 not made

ma byas pa

མ་བྱས་པ།

akṛta

g.1131 not mingling

'dre ba med pa

འདྲེ་བ་མེད་པ། aśleṣa

g.1132 not necessarily destined

ma nges pa

མ་ངེས་པ། aniyata

g.1133 not needy

'dod pa chung

འདོད་པ་ཚུང་།

alpeccha

g.1134 not obey

'das

འདས། atikram

g.1135 not separated

dang ma bral

དང་མ་བྲལ། avirahita

g.1136 not something about which you can speculate

brtag par mi nus pa

བརྟག་པར་མི་ནུས་པ། atarkya

g.1137 not something that can be talked about

rab tu brjod du med pa

རབ་ཏུ་བརྗོད་དུ་མེད་པ། apraṅgyāhārā

g.1138 not specifically qualified

bye brag med pa

བྱེ་བྲག་མེད་པ།

aviśeṣa

g.1139 not suitable to be clung to lhag par chags par bya ba'i 'os ma yin pa

ལྷག་པར་ཆགས་པར་བྱ་བའི་འོས་མ་ཡིན་པ། anadhyavasāya[dharma]yogatā

g.1140 not the Dharma

chos ma yin pa

ཚོས་མ་ཡིན་པ། adharma

g.1141 not things that have been settled down on mngon par zhen pa med pa

མངོན་པར་ཞེན་པ་མེད་པ། anabhiniiviṣṭa

g.1142 not truly real

ma mchis pa

མ་མཚིས་པ།

asat

g.1143 not unsure

som nyi mi za · nem nur med pa

སོམ་ཉི་མི་ཟ། · རྟེན་ལུ་མེད་པ། niṣkāṅkṣā · nāsti kāṅkṣā

g.1144 not worthwhile

snying po med pa

སྟིང་པོ་མེད་པ།

asāra

g.1145 not zigzag

ma yo bar gshegs pa

མ་ཡོ་བར་གཤེགས་པ། avakragātra

g.1146 nothing has changed places and nothing has been destroyed

'pho ba med pa dang 'jig pa med pa

འཕོ་བ་མེད་པ་དང་འཇིག་པ་མེད་པ། asaṃkrāntyavināśitā

g.1147 nothing-at-all

ci yang med pa

ཅི་ཡང་མེད་པ།

ākimcintya

See “station of nothing-at-all.”

g.1148 nullify

gsog tu bgyid pa

གསོག་ཏུ་བརྒྱུད་པ།

*ric<sup>RS</sup>

g.1149 objective support

dmigs pa

དམིགས་པ།

ālabhana · ārambana

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

dmigs (pa) translates a number of Sanskrit terms, including ālabhana, upalabdhi, and ālabate. These terms commonly refer to the apprehending of a subject, an object, and the relationships that exist between them. The term may also be translated as “referentiality,” meaning a system based on the existence of referent objects, referent subjects, and the referential relationships that exist between them. As part of their doctrine of “threefold nonapprehending / nonreferentiality” (‘khor gsum mi dmigs pa), Mahāyāna Buddhists famously assert that all three categories of apprehending lack substantiality.

g.1150 obscuration

sgrib pa

སྒྲིབ་པ།

āvaraṇa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The obscurations to liberation and omniscience. They are generally categorized as two types: affective obscurations (kleśāvaraṇa), the arising of afflictive emotions; and cognitive obscurations (jñeyāvaraṇa), those caused by misapprehension and incorrect understanding about the nature of reality.

The term is used also as a reference to a set five hindrances on the path: longing for sense pleasures (Skt. kāmacchanda), malice (Skt. vyāpāda), sloth and torpor (Skt. styānamiddha), excitement and remorse (Skt. auddhatyakaukrtya), and doubt (Skt. vicikitsā).

g.1151 obscure

bsgrib

བསྒྲིབ།

āvṛ

See “obscuration.”

g.1152 odd things with their bodies

lus kyi 'gyur ba

ལུས་ཀྱི་འགྲུར་བ། kāyavikāra

g.1153 offering

mchod pa

མཚོད་བ།

pūjā

g.1154 offspring of the Śākya

shAkyā'i sras

ལྷན་འཛིན་སྲས།

śākyaputrīya

The disciples of the Buddha Śākyamuni.

g.1155 old age and death

rga shi

གྲི་ཤི།

jarāmaraṇa

The twelfth link of dependent origination.

g.1156 omniscience

thams cad mkhyen pa

ཐམས་ཅད་མཚུན་བ།

sarvajña

See “three types of omniscience.”

g.1157 once-returner

lan cig phyir 'ong ba

ལན་ཅིག་ཕྱིར་འོང་བ།

sakṛdāgāmin

One who has achieved the second of the four levels of attainment on the śrāvaka path and who will have only one more rebirth before attaining liberation.

g.1158 one born of Manu

shed las skyes

ཤེད་ལས་སྐྱེས།

manuja

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Manu being the archetypal human, the progenitor of humankind, in the Mahābhārata, the Purāṇas, and other Indian texts, “child of Manu” (mānava) or “born of Manu” (manuja) is a synonym of “human being” or humanity in general.

g.1159 one should not behave like those who are not habitually clean gtsang sbra mi byed pa'i bag spyad par mi bya

གཙང་སྤྱི་མི་བྱེད་པའི་བག་སྟུང་པར་མི་བྱ།

'caukṣasamudācāratā na pracārayitavyā

g.1160 one who does

byed pa po

བྱེད་པ་པོ། kāraka

g.1161 one who feels tshor ba po

ཚོར་བ་པོ། vedaka

g.1162 one who is beginning the work

las dang po pa

ལས་དང་པོ་པ། ādikarmika

g.1163 one who knows

shes pa po

ཤེས་པ་པོ། jānaka

g.1164 one who lives

gso ba po · gso ba

གཤོག་པ་པོ། . གཤོག་པ། poṣa

g.1165 one who makes someone else do

byed du 'jug pa po

བྱེད་དུ་འཇུག་པ་པོ། kārayitr

g.1166 one who makes someone else feel tshor bar byed du 'jug pa po . tshor bar byed pa po

ཚོར་བར་བྱེད་དུ་འཇུག་པ་པོ། . ཚོར་བར་བྱེད་པ་པོ། vedayitrka

g.1167 one who motivates

kun nas slong ba po

ཀུན་ནས་སློང་པ་པོ། samutthāpaka

g.1168 one who sees

mthong ba po

མཐོང་པ་པོ། paśyaka

g.1169 one who sleeps sitting up

cog bu pa

ཚོག་བྱ་པ། naiśadyika

g.1170 onepointedness

rtse gcig pa

རྩེ་གཅིག་པ།

ekāgratā

g.1171 open-air dweller

bla gab med pa

བླ་གཤམ་མེད་པ། ābhyavakāśika

g.1172 opening for the production

skye ba'i sgo

སྐྱེ་བའི་སྒོ།

āyaṇi dvāram

g.1173 operates/occurs without the threefold intellectual apprehension

blo rnam pa gsum du mi 'jug · blo rnam pa gsum du mi 'byung

སྒོ་རྣམ་པ་གསུམ་དུ་མི་འབྱུག་པ་སྒོ་རྣམ་པ་གསུམ་དུ་མི་འབྱུང་། trividhā buddhir na pravartate

g.1174 opponent

phyir rgol ba

ཕྱིར་རྒོལ་བ། pratyarthika

g.1175 opportunity for speech designation

tshig gi lam gyis gdags

ཚིག་གི་ལམ་གྱིས་གདགས།

vākpathaprajñapti

g.1176 opportunity to hurt

glags

སྐྱགས། avatāra

g.1177 ordinary convention

'jig rten gyi tha snyad · tha snyad

འཇིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ཐ་སྙད། ཐ་སྙད། lokavyavahāreṇa · vyavahāra

g.1178 ordinary foolish being byis pa so so'i skye bo

བྱིས་པ་སོ་སོའི་སྐྱེ་བོ། bālapṛthagjana

g.1179 ordinary neutral phenomena lung du ma bstan pa'i chos rnam

ལུང་དུ་མ་བསྟན་པའི་ཚེས་རྣམས།

—

As listed in 11.38, these are physical karma, verbal karma, and thinking-mind karma, the four great elements, the five faculties, the four formless absorptions, the aggregates, constituents, and sense fields, and maturation.

g.1180 ordinary person

so so'i skye bo

སོ་སོའི་སྐྱེ་བོ།

prthagjana

A person who has not had a perceptual experience of the truth and has therefore not achieved the state of a noble being.

g.1181 ordinary requirements

'jig rten pa'i 'tsho ba'i yo byad

འཇིག་རྟེན་པའི་འཚོ་བའི་ཡོ་བྱད།

jīvitopakarāṇa

Food, drink, beds and seats, and medicines for sicknesses, tools, gems, pearls, beryl, conch shells, crystals, corals, silver, and gold. This is a list of requirements for sustaining oneself that differs from the requirements (yo byad, pariṣkāra) of an ordained person (robes, alms, beds and seats, and medicines for sicknesses). bod rgya tshigs mdzod chen mo gives 'tshog chas as an old word for 'tsho ba'i yo byad.

g.1182 ordinary right view

'jig rten pa'i yang dag pa'i lta ba

འཇིག་རྟེན་པའི་ཡང་དག་པའི་ལྟ་བུ།

laukikī samyagdr̥ṣṭi

g.1183 ordinary state of being

'jig rten gnas pa

འཇིག་རྟེན་གནས་པ། lokasaṃniveśa

g.1184 ordinary term and convention

'jig rten gyi brda dang tha snyad

འཇིག་རྟེན་གྱི་བརྗོད་དང་ཐ་སྟེན། lokasaṃketavyavahāra

g.1185 ordinary things

'jig rten pa

འཇིག་རྟེན་པ། laukika

g.1186 ordinary unwholesome phenomena

'jig rten pa'i chos mi dge ba rnams

འཇིག་རྟེན་པའི་ཚོས་མི་དགེ་བ་རྣམས།

—

As listed in 11.37, these comprise the ten unwholesome actions— killing, stealing, illicit sex because of lust, lying, backbiting, insulting, babbling nonsense, coveting, malice, and wrong view—and also anger, bearing a grudge, dissembling, nursing pent-up anger, violence, jealousy, envy, and pride.

g.1187 organ for excreting is hidden in a sheath

'doms kyi lba ba sbubs su nub

འདོམས་ཀྱི་ལྗང་བ་སྤུབས་སུ་རུབ།

kośopagatavastiguhya

Mvy

g.1188 origination

kun 'byung ba

ཀུན་འབྱུང་བ། samudaya

g.1189 outcast

gdol pa

གདོལ་པ།

caṇḍāla

The lowest and most disparaged class of people within the caste system of ancient India, they fall outside of the caste system altogether due to their low rank in society.

g.1190 outer emptiness

phyi stong pa nyid

ཕྱི་སྟོང་བ་ཉིད།

bahirdhāsūnyatā

One of the fourteen emptinesses and eighteen emptinesses

g.1191 outer limits of society

mtha' 'khob

མཐའ་འཁོབ།

paryanta

I.e., those living beyond the pale of civilization, out of reach of the sacred Dharma.

g.1192 outflow

zag pa

ཟག་པ། āsrava

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Literally, “to flow” or “to ooze.” Mental defilements or contaminations that “flow out” toward the objects of cyclic existence, binding us to them.

Vasubandhu offers two alternative explanations of this term: “They cause beings to remain (āsayanti) within saṃsāra” and “They flow from the Summit of Existence down to the Avīci hell, out of the six wounds that are the sense fields” (Abhidharmakośabhāṣya 5.40; Pradhan 1967, p. 308). The Summit of Existence (bhavāgra, srid pa'i rtse mo) is the highest point within saṃsāra, while the hell called Avīci (mnar med) is the lowest; the six sense fields (āyatana, skye mched) here refer to the five sense faculties plus the mind, i.e., the six internal sense fields.

In this text:

The metaphor explaining outflows (āsrava), rendered as “contaminated,” is a house with a faulty roof. But it does not simply mean that something from the outside, hatred or greed, drips in on the pristine mind of a person. Rather the drips come from within the person. They arise from unskillful mindsets that give rise to the afflictions, hence “outflows” rather than “inflows.”

g.1193 outflows dried up

zag pa zad pa

ཟག་པ་ཟད་པ།

kṣīṇāsrava

See “outflows.”

g.1194 owner

jo bo

ཇོ་བོ། svāmin

g.1195 owner

bdag gi ba

བདག་གི་བ།

**ātman* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1196 Padmā

pad ma

པད་མ།

padmā

Lit. "Lotus." A world system in the direction below, where the buddha Padmaśrī now dwells.

g.1197 Padmahasta

lag na pad ma

ལག་ན་པད་མ།

padmahasta

Lit. "Lotus Handed." A bodhisattva from a world system called Bodhimaṇḍalālaṃkārasurucitā, in the intermediate southeast direction, who comes to pay homage and listen to the Buddha.

g.1198 Padmaśrī

pad ma'i dpal

པད་མའི་དཔལ།

padmaśrī

Lit. "Glory of the Lotus." A buddha in a world system called Padmā, in the direction below.

g.1199 Padmāvātī

pad ma can

པད་མ་ཅན།

padmāvātī

Lit. "Endowed with Lotuses." Name of the empire where the Buddha stayed in a previous life as a brahmin student, in the presence of the buddha Dīpaṃkara.

g.1200 Padmavatī

pad ma can

པདྨ་བཅུ།

padmavatī

Lit. "Endowed with Lotuses." The buddhafield of the tathāgata Samantakusuma where Mañjuśrī Kumārabhūta and the god Susthitamati also live.

g.1201 padmavyūha

pad ma bkod pa

པདྨ་བཀོད་པ།

padmavyūha

Lit. "array of lotuses." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1202 Padmottama

pad ma mchog

པདྨ་མཚོན། padmottama

Lit. "Supreme Lotus." A bodhisattva from a world system called Padmā, in the direction below, who comes to pay homage and listen to the Buddha.

g.1203 Padmottaraśrī

pad ma mchog gi dpal

པདྨ་མཚོན་གི་དཔལ།

padmottaraśrī

Lit. "Glorious Supreme Lotus." A buddha in a world system called Bodhimaṇḍalālaṃkārasurucitā, in the intermediate southeast direction.

g.1204 palace

khang bzangs

ཁང་བཟངས།

prāsāda

g.1205 palace

pho brang

ཕོ་བྲང་།

rājadhāna

g.1206 palm tree

ta la

ཏ་ལ། tāla

g.1207 paltry

ngan ngon

ངན་རྒྱ། avaraka

g.1208 pārajika

phas pham pa

ཕས་ཕམ་པ།

pārajika

The pārajika are the first four defeats listed in the moral code of monks and nuns. Incurring a pārajika defeat entails exclusion from the order. Buddhaśrī 182b4–6 says a pārajika defeat is not as bad as a giving-up-bodhicitta defeat because a pārajika defeat is not absolutely wrong. Habituated behavior, lust and so on, causes the pārajika defeat, but it is not absolutely necessary that lust is the motivating factor when the activity is engaged in. So, the activity leading to a pārajika is not absolutely wrong and does not preclude bodhicitta.

g.1209 Paranirmitavaśavartin

gzhan 'phrul dbang byed

གཞན་འཕྲུལ་དབང་བྱེད།

paranirmitavaśavartin

Lit. “Those Who Control What Is Created by Others.” The sixth and highest heaven in the desire realm, so named because the inhabitants have power over the emanations of others.

g.1210 paricchadakara

yongs su gcod pa

ཡོངས་སུ་གཅོད་པ།

paricchadakara

Lit. “cutter.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1211 paripūrṇavimalacandraprabha

zla ba nya ba'i 'od dri ma med pa

ཟླ་བ་ཉ་བ་འི་འོད་ཟླི་མ་མེད་པ། paripūrṇavimalacandraprabha

Lit. “light of the stainless full moon.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1212 Parittābha

'od chung

འོད་ཚུང།

parittābha

Lit. “Those Whose Radiated Light Is Circumscribed.” The fourth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the first of the three heavens that correspond to the second of the four concentrations.

g.1213 Parittaśubha

dge chung

དགེ་ཚུང།

parittaśubha

Lit. “Those Whose Virtue Is Circumscribed.” The seventh of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the first of the three heavens that correspond to the third of the four concentrations.

g.1214 park

kun dga' ra ba · skyed mos tshal

གུན་དགའ་འ་ར་བ། · སྐྱེད་མོས་ཚལ།

ārāma

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Generally found within the limits of a town or city, an ārāma was a private citizen’s park, a pleasure grove, a pleasant garden—ārāma, in its etymology, is somewhat akin to what in English is expressed by the term “pleasance.”

The Buddha and his disciples were offered several such ārāmas in which to dwell, which evolved into monasteries or vihāras. The term is still found in contemporary usage in names of Thai monasteries.

g.1215 pass away

'das

འདས།

atyaya

g.1216 path of meditation

bsgom pa'i lam

བསྐྱེས་པའི་ལམ།

bhāvanāmārga

g.1217 path with pliancy

shin tu sbyangs pa'i lam

ཤིན་ཏུ་སྦྱངས་པའི་ལམ།

prasrabdhimārga

g.1218 path without pliancy

shin tu sbyangs pa ma yin pa'i lam

ཤིན་ཏུ་སྦྱངས་པ་མ་ཡིན་པའི་ལམ། aprasrabdhimārga

g.1219 patience

bzod pa

བཟོད་པ།

kṣānti

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A term meaning acceptance, forbearance, or patience. As the third of the six perfections, patience is classified into three kinds: the capacity to tolerate abuse from sentient beings, to tolerate the hardships of the path to buddhahood, and to tolerate the profound nature of reality. As a term referring to a bodhisattva's realization, dharmakṣānti (chos la bzod pa) can refer to the ways one becomes "receptive" to the nature of Dharma, and it can be an abbreviation of anutpattikadharmakṣānti, "forbearance to the unborn nature, or nonproduction, of dharmas."

In this text:

Also rendered here as “forbearance.”

g.1220 pātragata

snod du gyur pa

སྣོད་དུ་གྱུར་པ།

pātragata

Lit. “become a vessel.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1221 penetrating

nges par 'byed pa

ངེས་པར་འབྱེད་པ། nairovedika

g.1222 perception

'du shes

འདུ་ཤེས།

saṃjñā

The mental processes of recognizing and identifying the objects of the five senses and the mind. Third of the five aggregates.

g.1223 perception of a bloated corpse

rnam par bam pa'i 'du shes

རྣམ་པར་བམ་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས།

ādhmātaka · vyādhmātakasaṃjñā

g.1224 perception of dry bones

rus gong du 'du shes

རུས་གོང་དུ་འདུ་ཤེས།

asthisamjñā

g.1225 perception of form

gzugs su 'du shes

ག་རྒྱགས་སུ་འདུ་ཤེས། rūpasamjñā

g.1226 perception of it as putrid

rnam par rnags pa'i 'du shes

རྣམ་པར་རྣགས་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས།

vipūyakasaṃjñā · viputikasaṃjñā

g.1227 perception of it chopped in half

phyed du chad pa'i 'du shes

ཕྱེད་དུ་ཆད་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས། vyāghātakasaṃjñā

g.1228 perception of uncleanness and so on in the examination of the body lus la so sor rtog pa mi sdug pa'i 'du shes la sogs pa

ལུས་ལ་སོ་སོར་རྟོག་པ་མི་སྐྱུག་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས་ལ་སོགས་པ། aśubhādikāsu saṃjñāsu samucchrayapratyavekṣaṇā

g.1229 perfect complete buddha

yang dag par rdzogs pa'i sangs rgyas

ཡང་དག་པར་རྫོགས་པའི་སངས་རྒྱས།

samyaksambuddha

g.1230 perfect development

yongs su grub pa

ཡོངས་སུ་གྲུབ་པ། pariniṣpatti

g.1231 perfect human birth

dal ba

དལ་བ། kṣaṇa

g.1232 perfect meditative stabilization yang dag pa'i ting nge 'dzin

ཡང་དག་པའི་ཉིང་ངེ་འཛིན།

samyaksamādhi

Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1233 perfect moment/perfect human birth

dal ba phun sum tshogs pa

དལ་བ་ཕུན་སུམ་ཚོགས་པ།

kṣaṇasampad

See n.1126.

g.1234 perfect practice

yang dag pa'i spyod pa

ཡང་དག་པའི་སྦྱོར་པ། samyakcaryā

g.1235 perfect state

phun sum tshogs pa · yang dag pa · yang dag pa nyid

ཕུན་སུམ་ཚོགས་པ། · ཡང་དག་པ། · ཡང་དག་པ་ཉིད། sampad · sampatti · samyaktva

g.1236 perfected

phun sum tshogs pa · yongs su grub pa

ཕུན་སུམ་ཚོགས་པ། · ཡོངས་སུ་གྲུབ་པ། *pariniṣpanna · *pariniṣpatti* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1237 perfection

pha rol tu phyin pa

ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་ཕྱིན་པ།

pāramitā

This term is used to refer to the main trainings of a bodhisattva. Because these trainings, when brought to perfection, lead one to transcend saṃsāra and reach the full awakening of a buddha, they receive the Sanskrit name pāramitā, meaning “perfection” or “gone to the farther shore.” They are listed as either six or ten.

See “six perfections” and “ten perfections.”

g.1238 perfection of concentration bsam gtan gyi pha rol tu phyin pa

བསམ་གཏན་གྱི་ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་ཕྱིན་པ། dhyānapāramitā

Fifth of the six perfections.

g.1239 perfection of giving sbyin pa'i pha rol tu phyin pa

སྦྱིན་པའི་ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་ཕྱིན་པ། dānapāramitā

First of the six perfections.

g.1240 perfection of morality

tshul khrims kyi pha rol tu phyin pa

ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས་ཀྱི་པ་རོལ་ཏུ་བྱིན་པ། śīlapāramitā

Second of the six perfections.

g.1241 perfection of not apprehending anything

mi dmigs pa'i pha rol tu phyin pa

མི་དམིགས་པའི་པ་རོལ་ཏུ་བྱིན་པ། anupalambhapāramitā

g.1242 perfection of patience

bzod pa'i pha rol tu phyin pa

བཟོད་པའི་པ་རོལ་ཏུ་བྱིན་པ། kṣāntipāramitā

Third of the six perfections.

g.1243 perfection of perseverance

brtson 'grus kyi pha rol tu phyin pa

བརྩོན་འགུས་ཀྱི་པ་རོལ་ཏུ་བྱིན་པ། vīryapāramitā

Fourth of the six perfections.

g.1244 perfection of wisdom

shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa

ཤེས་རབ་ཀྱི་པ་རོལ་ཏུ་བྱིན་པ། prajñāpāramitā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The sixth of the six perfections, it refers to the profound understanding of the emptiness of all phenomena, the realization of ultimate reality. It is often personified as a female deity, worshiped as the “Mother of All Buddhas” (sarvajinamātā).

g.1245 perfectly complete buddha

yang dag par rdzogs pa'i sangs rgyas

ཡང་དག་པར་རྫོགས་པའི་སངས་རྒྱལ།

samyaksambuddha

g.1246 perfectly know

yang dag par mkhyen

ཡང་དག་པར་མཁྱེན།

—

g.1247 perfectly received

legs par rdzogs

ལེགས་པར་རྫོགས།

susamāpta

g.1248 perfectly reveal

yang dag par ston pa

ཡང་དག་པར་སྟོན་པ། saṃdarśayitr

g.1249 performance of miraculous power

rdzu 'phrul gyi yul · rdzu 'phrul bya ba

རྩུ་འཕྲུལ་གྱི་ཡུལ། · རྩུ་འཕྲུལ་བྱ་བ། ṛddhividhi

g.1250 perseverance

brtson 'grus

བརྩོན་འགྲུས།

vīrya

The fourth of the six perfections, it is also among the seven limbs of awakening, the five faculties, the four legs of miraculous power, and the five powers. Also translated here as “effort.”

g.1251 person

gang zag

གང་ཟག

puruṣa

g.1252 person conjured up by magic

sgyu ma'i skyes bu

མྱེ་མའི་སྐྱེས་བུ། māyāpuruṣa

g.1253 person gifted with intelligence

mkhas pa'i rang bzhin can

མཁས་པའི་རང་བཞིན་ཅན།

paṇḍitajātīyo

g.1254 personal heroic power

skyes bu'i mthu

སྐྱེས་བུའི་མཐུ།

**puruṣakāra<sup>RS</sup>*

g.1255 phenomenon

chos

ཚོས།

dharma

See “dharma.”

g.1256 phlegm

bad kan

བད་ཀན།

śleṣma

One of the three vital substances in the body, along with wind and bile, which result in good health when balanced and illness or less than optimal health when imbalanced.

g.1257 physical being

sku

སྐྱེ། ātmabhāva

g.1258 physical form

gzugs

གཟུགས།

rūpa

g.1259 physical pleasure

lus bde ba

ལུས་བདེ་བ། kāyasukha

g.1260 physical remains

sku gdung · ring bsrel

སྐུ་གདུང་། · རིང་བསྐྱེལ། śarīra · dhātu

g.1261 physical volitional factor

lus kyi 'du byed

ལུས་ཀྱི་འདུ་བྱེད།

—

g.1262 physical weariness

lus ngal ba

ལུས་རལ་བ།

kāya klānta

g.1263 pile up

mngon par 'du byed

མངོན་པར་འདུ་བྱེད།

abhisamṣkāra

g.1264 place for greed

'dod chags kyi dngos po

འདོད་ཆགས་ཀྱི་དངོས་པོ། rāgavastu

g.1265 places that preclude a perfect human birth

mi khom pa

མི་ཁོམ་པ།

akṣaṇa

See also n.1126.

g.1266 plantain tree

chu shing

ཐུའིང་། kadalī

g.1267 play

rtse

ཚེ། krīḍ

g.1268 pliability

shin tu sbyangs pa

ཤིན་ཏུ་སྦྱངས་པ།

prasrabdhi · praśrabdhi

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Fifth among the branches or limbs of awakening (Skt. bodhyaṅga); a condition of calm, clarity, and composure in mind and body that serves as an antidote to negativity and confers a mental and physical capacity that facilitates meditation and virtuous action.

g.1269 plucked out of thin air

glo bur du

གློ་བུར་དུ། āgantuka

g.1270 plural word

mang po'i tshig bla dags

མང་པོའི་ཚིག་སྒྲ་དགས།

bahvādhivacana

g.1271 pointless

snying po med pa · snying por mi lta · snying po ma mchis pa

སྟིང་པོ་མེད་པ། . སྟིང་པོར་མི་ལྟ། . སྟིང་པོ་མ་མཚིས་པ།

asāra

g.1272 poisoned

dug dang bcas pa

དུག་དང་བཅས་པ། saviṣa

g.1273 polluted
sun 'byin pa སུན་འབྱིན་པ། dūṣin

g.1274 possessed
byin gyis brlabs བྱིན་གྱིས་བརྒྱབ་སུ། adhiṣṭhita

g.1275 power
stobs སྟོབས།
bala

g.1276 powers
stobs
སྟོབས།
bala

May refer to either the “five powers” (in lists after the “[five] faculties”) or the “ten powers of the tathāgatas.”

g.1277 prabhākara
'od byed pa
འོད་བྱེད་པ། prabhākara

Lit. “illuminator.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1278 Prabhākārī
'od byed pa
འོད་བྱེད་པ།
prabhākārī

Lit. “Light Maker.” The third level of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas. See “ten bodhisattva levels.”

g.1279 practice an adulterated practice
'dres par gnas

འབྲེས་པར་གནས།

vyavakīrṇavihāreṇa viharasyati

g.1280 practice it for suchness

de bzhin nyid du sgrub · de bzhin nyid la sgrub

དེ་བཞིན་ཉིད་དུ་སྦྱབ། · དེ་བཞིན་ཉིད་ལ་སྦྱབ།

tathatvāya pratipad

To practice “for suchness” or “in suchness” is, from the perspective of the perfection of wisdom, to practice the indivisible unity of the ultimate and conventional thought of awakening. See also n.479.

g.1281 practiced incorrectly

mi spyod pa

མི་སྦྱོད་པ། apracāra

g.1282 practitioner of yoga

rnal 'byor spyod pa

རྣལ་འབྱོར་སྦྱོད་པ།

yogācāra

g.1283 praised by the wise

mkhas pas bsngags pa

མཁས་པས་བསྐྱབས་པ།

vijñāpraśasta

g.1284 Prajāpati

skye dgu'i bdag po

སྐྱེ་དགུ་འི་བདག་པོ།

prajāpati

The “lord of creatures,” a Hindu god presiding over procreation and the protector of life.

g.1285 prajñāpradīpa

shes rab sgron ma

ཤེས་རབ་སྦྱོན་མ།

prajñāpradīpa

Lit. “wisdom lamp.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1286 prakṛtyavalokita

rang bzhin rnam par bltas pa

རང་བཞིན་རྣམ་པར་བཟླས་པ།

prakṛtyavalokita

Lit. “has seen the basic nature.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1287 Pramuditā

rab tu dga' ba

རབ་ཏུ་དགའ་བ།

pramuditā

Lit. “Joyful.” The first level of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas.
See “ten bodhisattva levels.”

g.1288 Prasenajit

gsal rgyal

གསལ་རྒྱལ།

praseṇajit

King of the country of Kośala, he reigned in the city of Śrāvastī (located in Northern India, in present-day Uttar Pradesh) at the time of the Buddha.

g.1289 pratyekabuddha

rang sangs rgyas

རང་སངས་རྒྱས།

pratyekabuddha

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Literally, “buddha for oneself” or “solitary realizer.” Someone who, in his or her last life, attains awakening entirely through their own contemplation, without relying on a teacher. Unlike the awakening of a fully realized buddha (samyaksambuddha), the accomplishment of a pratyekabuddha is not regarded as final or ultimate. They attain realization of the nature of dependent origination, the selflessness of the person, and a partial realization of the selflessness of phenomena, by observing the suchness of all that arises through interdependence. This is the result of progress in previous lives but, unlike a buddha, they do not have the necessary merit, compassion or motivation to teach others. They are named as “rhinoceros-like” (khadḡgaviṣāṇakalpa) for their preference for staying in solitude or as “congregators” (vargacārin) when their preference is to stay among peers.

g.1290 Pratyekabuddha level

rang sangs rgyas sa

རང་སངས་རྒྱས་སལ།

pratyekabuddhabhūmi

The eighth of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the level of an ordinary person until reaching buddhahood. See “ten levels” and “pratyekabuddha.”

g.1291 pratyekabuddha’s awakening

rang byang chub

རང་བྱང་ལྷན།

pratyekabodhi

See “pratyekabuddha.”

g.1292 prayer

smon lam

སློན་ལམ།

praṇidhāna

A declaration of one’s aspirations and vows, and/or an invocation and request of the buddhas, bodhisattvas, etc. It is also one of the ten perfections.

g.1293 preceptor

mkhan po

མཁན་པོ།

upādhyāya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A person’s particular preceptor within the monastic tradition. They must have at least ten years of standing in the saṅgha, and their role is to confer ordination, to tend to the student, and to provide all the necessary requisites, therefore guiding that person for the taking of full vows and the maintenance of conduct and practice. This office was decreed by the Buddha so that aspirants would not have to receive ordination from the Buddha in person, and the Buddha identified two types: those who grant entry into the renunciate order and those who grant full ordination. The Tibetan translation mkhan po has also come to mean “a learned scholar,” the equivalent of a paṇḍita, but that is not the intended meaning in Indic Buddhist literature.

g.1294 precious chamberlain

khyim bdag rin po che

ཁྱིམ་བདག་རིན་པོ་ཆེ།

gr̥hapatiratna

One of the seven precious treasures of a wheel-turning emperor.

g.1295 precious stone

rin po che · rin chen

རིན་པོ་ཆེ། · རིན་ཆེན།

ratna

g.1296 prediction

lung du bstan pa

ལུང་དུ་བསྟན་པ།

vyākaraṇa

Prophecies usually made by the Buddha or another tathāgata concerning the perfect awakening of one of their followers. A literary genre or category of works that contain such prophecies, listed as one of the twelve aspects of the wheel of Dharma.

g.1297 preeminent state of a god

lha'i che ba nyid

ལྷ་འི་ཆེ་བ་ཉིད། devamahātyatā

g.1298 preeminent state of a human

mi'i che ba nyid

མི་འི་ཆེ་བ་ཉིད། manuṣyamahātyatā

g.1299 prerequisites

yo byad

ཡོ་བྱད། upakaraṇam

- g.1300 pride
nga rgyal ད་རྒྱལ། māna
- g.1301 pride in being superior
lhag pa'i nga rgyal ལྷག་པའི་ད་རྒྱལ། adhimāna
- g.1302 private part
mdoms kyi sba ba མདོ་མས་ཀྱི་སྤ་བ། vastiguhya
- g.1303 privileged rab
 རབ། **utkrṣṭa<sup>RS</sup>*
- g.1304 proclaim the name
ming yongs su brjod pa mdzad མིང་ཡོངས་སུ་བརྗོད་པ་མངོད། nāmadheyaṃ parikīrtaya
- g.1305 proclaimed morality
rnam par rig byed kyi tshul khrims རྣམ་པར་རིག་བྱེད་ཀྱི་ཚུལ་ཁྲིམས། vijñaptiśīla
- g.1306 producer
skyed pa po
 སྐྱེད་པ་པོ། **jānakā<sup>RS</sup>*
- g.1307 production of a thought associated with nirvāṇa
mya ngan las 'das pa dang ldan pa'i sems bskyed pa

སྤྱོད་ལས་འདས་པ་དང་ལྡན་པའི་སེམས་བསྐྱེད་པ། nirvṛtsahagataś cittotpādaḥ

g.1308 protector

mgon

སའོན། nātha

g.1309 provides a definite escape

nges par 'byung ba

ངེས་པར་འགྱུར་བ། nairyāṇika

g.1310 pṛthivīdhātvaḥ

sa'i khams mu med pa

སའི་ཁམས་ལྷུ་མེད་པ།

pṛthivīdhātvaḥ

Lit. "limitless earth element." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1311 Puṇyaprasava

bsod nams skyes

བསོད་ནམས་སྐྱེས།

punyaḥprasava

Lit. "Merit Born." The eleventh of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the second of the three heavens that correspond to the fourth of the four concentrations.

g.1312 pure from the beginning

gzod ma nas rnam par dag pa · gzod nas dag pa

གཞོན་མ་ནས་རྣམ་པར་དག་པ། · གཞོན་ནས་དག་པ། ādiviśuddhatva

g.1313 pure livelihood

'tsho ba yongs su dag pa

འཚོ་བ་ཡོངས་སུ་དག་པ། pariśuddhīṭva · pariśuddhājīva

g.1314 purification

yongs su sbyang ba · yongs su sbyong ba · rnam par byang ba

ཡོངས་སྤྱུང་བ། · ཡོངས་སྤྱོད་བ། · རྣམ་པར་བྱང་བ། parikarman · vyavadāna

g.1315 purification of a buddhafiield

sangs rgyas kyi zhing yongs su dag par bgyid pa

· sangs rgyas kyi zhing yongs su dag par byed pa

སངས་རྒྱལ་གྱི་ཞིང་ཡོངས་སྤྱད་པར་བགྱིད་པ། · སངས་རྒྱལ་གྱི་ཞིང་ཡོངས་སྤྱེད་པར་བྱེད་པ། buddhakṣetrapariśodhana

g.1316 purified form

rnam pa yongs su dag pa

རྣམ་པ་ཡོངས་སྤྱད་པ།

ākāraśuddha

g.1317 purity of aspiration

bsam pa rnam par dag pa

བསམ་པ་རྣམ་པར་དག་པ། āśayapariśuddhi

g.1318 Pūrṇa

gang po

གང་པོ། pūrṇa

See “Pūrṇa Maitrāyaṇīputra.”

g.1319 Pūrṇa Maitrāyaṇīputra

byams ma'i bu gang po

བྱམས་མའི་བུ་གང་པོ།

pūrṇamaitrāyaṇīputra

One of the ten principal śrāvaka disciples of the Buddha, he was the greatest in his ability to teach the Dharma.

g.1320 pursuing the career

spyad pa spyod pa

ཕུད་པ་སྤྱད་པ།

caryāṃ carataḥ

g.1321 Puṣpacitra

me tog sna tshogs pa

མེ་ཏོག་སྤྱ་ཚོགས་པ།

puṣpacitra

Lit. "Different Flowers." Name of one of four gardens in the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.1322 Puṣpākara

me tog 'byung gnas

མེ་ཏོག་འབྱུང་གནས།

puṣpākara

Lit. "Flower Source." Name of a future eon.

g.1323 put a stop to

zlog

ཚྲོག་ pratibādh

g.1324 putting into practice the Dharma in its totality

rjes su 'thun pa'i chos la spyod

རྗེས་སུ་འབྱུང་པའི་ཚོས་ལ་སྤྱད།

anudharmacārin

g.1325 qualities of the ascetic

sbyangs pa'i yon tan

སྤྱད་ས་པའི་ཡོན་ཏན།

dhūtaguṇa

These are listed as twelve at 41.6.

g.1326 quality

chos

ཚོས།

dharma

See "dharma."

g.1327 rage

khro ba · khong khro

ཐྲོ་བ། ་ རྡོ་ལྷོ།

krodha

g.1328 Rāhula

sgra gcan zin

སྐྱ་གཙན་ཟེན།

rāhula

Son of Prince Siddhārtha Gautama, who, when the latter attained awakening as the Buddha Śākyamuni, became a monk and eventually one of his foremost śrāvaka disciples.

g.1329 Rājagṛha

rgyal po'i khab

རྒྱལ་པོའི་ཁབ།

rājagṛha

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The ancient capital of Magadha prior to its relocation to Pāṭaliputra during the Mauryan dynasty, Rājagṛha is one of the most important locations in Buddhist history. The literature tells us that the Buddha and his saṅgha spent a considerable amount of time in residence in and around Rājagṛha—in nearby places, such as the Vulture Peak Mountain (Gṛdhrakūṭaparvata), a major site of the Mahāyāna sūtras, and the Bamboo Grove (Veṇuvana)—enjoying the patronage of King Bimbisāra and then of his son King Ajātaśatru. Rājagṛha is also remembered as the location where the first Buddhist monastic council was held after the Buddha Śākyamuni passed into parinirvāṇa. Now known as Rajgir and located in the modern Indian state of Bihar.

g.1330 rājamudra

rgyal po'i phyag rgya

རྒྱལ་པོའི་ཕྱག་རྒྱ།

rājamudra

Lit. “Seal of the king.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1331 rajopagata

rdul dang bral ba

རྩལ་དང་གྲུབ་བ།

rajopagata

Lit. “dust free.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1332 range of hearing

rna lam

རྣ་ལམ།

śrotāvabhāsa

g.1333 raśminirhāra

'od zer sgrub pa

འོད་ཟེར་སྐྱབ་པ།

raśminirhāra

Lit. “light-ray producer.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1334 raśmipramukha

'od zer rab tu 'gyed pa

འོད་ཟེར་རབ་ཏུ་འགྱེད་པ།

raśmipramukha

Lit. “diffusion of light rays.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1335 ratijaha

dga' ba spong ba

དགའ་བ་སྦྲོང་བ།

ratijaha

Lit. “enjoyment forsaking” (other versions have 'khrug pa spong pa: “upset forsaking”). Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1336 ratikara

dga' ba byed pa

དགའ་བ་བྱེད་པ།

ratikara

Lit. “causing delight.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1337 Ratnadatta

rin chen byin

རིན་ཆེན་བྱིན།

ratnadatta

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1338 Ratnagarbha

rin po ches byin

རིན་པོ་ཆེས་བྱིན།

ratnagarbha

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1339 ratnajahā

rin po che spong ba

རིན་པོ་ཆེ་སྤོང་བ།

ratnajahā

Lit. “jewel forsaking.” Other versions read raṇaṇijaha, nyon mongs ba med pa: “defilement forsaking.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1340 Ratnākara

dkon mchog 'byung gnas · rin chen 'byung gnas

དཀོན་མཆོག་འབྱུང་གནས། · རིན་ཆེན་འབྱུང་གནས།

ratnākara

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1341 Ratnākara

dkon mchog 'byung gnas · rin chen 'byung gnas

དཀོན་མཆོག་འབྱུང་གནས། · རིན་ཆེན་འབྱུང་གནས།

ratnākara

A buddha in a world system called Ratnāvātī, in the eastern direction.

g.1342 Ratnaketu

rin po che tog

རིན་པོ་ཆེ་ཏོག།

ratnaketu

A bodhisattva whose name is proclaimed by Śākyamuni.

g.1343 ratnakotī

rin chen mtha'

རིན་ཆེན་མཐའ།

ratna-koṭi

Lit. "jewel limit." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1344 ratnamudra

rin chen phyag rgya

རིན་ཆེན་ཕྱག་རྒྱ།

ratna-mudra

Lit. "jewel seal." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1345 Ratnamudrāhastā

lag na phyag rgya rin po che

ལག་ན་ཕྱག་རྒྱ་རིན་པོ་ཆེ།

ratnamudrāhastā

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1346 Ratnārcis

rin chen 'od 'phro

རིན་ཆེན་འོད་འཕྲོ།

ratnārcis

Lit. "Jewel Light." A buddha in a world system called Upasānta, in the western direction.

g.1347 Ratnāvātī

rin chen can

རིན་ཆེན་ཅན།

ratnāvātī

Lit. "Bejeweled." A world system in the eastern direction, where the buddha Ratnākara now dwells.

g.1348 Ratnottama

rin chen mchog

རིན་ཆེན་མཚོག།

ratnottama

Lit. "Supreme Jewel." A bodhisattva from a world system called Vaśībhūtā, in the intermediate northwest direction, who comes to pay homage and listen to the Buddha.

g.1349 real basis

dngos po

དངོས་པོ།

vastu

Also rendered as “existent thing,” “real thing,” and “something that exists.”

g.1350 real thing

dngos po

དངོས་པོ།

bhāva

Also rendered as “existent thing,” “something that exists,” and “real basis.”

g.1351 reality

don

དོན།

artha

The meaning or actuality of something.

g.1352 really destroyed

rab tu 'jig

རབ་དུ་འཇིག། praluj

g.1353 rebuke

'doms

འདོམས། avavad

g.1354 recite it from memory

kha ton byed

ཁ་ཏོན་བྱེད། svādhyāya

g.1355 recite them perfectly by heart

g.yar ton shin tu byang bar bgyis

གཡར་ཏོན་ཤིན་དུ་བྱང་བར་བགྱིས།

vacā paricita

g.1356 recollection

rjes su dran pa

རྗེས་སུ་དྲན་པ།

anusmṛti

g.1357 red lotus

ku mu da · ut+pa la dmar po

ཀུ་མུ་ད། · ལུ་ཏྲ་ལ་དམར་པོ། kumuda

g.1358 reddish brown

btsod · btsod ka

བཙོད། · བཙོད་ཀ།

mañjiṣṭhā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A distinctive shade of red common in ancient India, now known as “rose madder.” It is derived from the red dye made out of the root of the madder plant (Rubia manjista, Rubia tinctorum).

g.1359 reflection in the mirror

gzugs brnyan

གཟུགས་བརྟན། pratibimba

g.1360 refuge

skyabs

སྐྱབས།

traṇa · śaraṇa

g.1361 refuse to associate with

tshogs par mi 'byung ba

ཚོགས་པར་མི་འབྱུང་བ། asabhya

g.1362 refuse to associate with and swear at tshogs par mi 'byung ba'i tshig rtsub mo kun tu 'byin

ཚོགས་པར་མི་འབྱུང་བའི་ཚོག་རྩུབ་མོ་ཀུན་ཏུ་འབྲིན། asabhyābhiś ca paruṣābhir vāgbhiḥ samudācar

g.1363 refuse-rags wearer

phyag dar khrod pa

ཕྱག་དར་ཐོད་པ།

pāṃśukūlikāḥ

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The ascetic practice of gathering discarded rags and using them to produce one's own garments.

g.1364 region of ghosts

yi dags kyi yul

ཡི་དགམ་གྱི་ཡུལ།

pretaviṣaya · pitṛviṣaya

g.1365 religious mendicant

kun tu rgyu

ཀུན་ཏུ་རྒྱ། parivrājaka

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A non-Buddhist religious mendicant who literally “roams around.”

Historically, they wandered in India from ancient times, including the time of the Buddha, and held a variety of beliefs, engaging with one another in debate on a range of topics. Some of their metaphysical views are presented in the early Buddhist discourses of the Pali Canon. They included women in their number.

g.1366 reliquary

mchod rten

མཚོད་རྟེན།

caitya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Tibetan translates both stūpa and caitya with the same word, mchod rten, meaning “basis” or “recipient” of “offerings” or “veneration.” Pali: cetiya.

A caitya, although often synonymous with stūpa, can also refer to any site, sanctuary or shrine that is made for veneration, and may or may not contain relics.

A stūpa, literally “heap” or “mound,” is a mounded or circular structure usually containing relics of the Buddha or the masters of the past. It is considered to be a sacred object representing the awakened mind of a buddha, but the symbolism of the stūpa is complex, and its design varies throughout the Buddhist world. Stūpas continue to be erected today as objects of veneration and merit making.

g.1367 remaining physical constituents

sku gdung gi ring bsrel

སྐྱུ་གཏུང་གི་རིང་བསྐྱེལ།

—

g.1368 remains in an undifferentiated way

dbyer med pa'i tshul gyis gnas

དབྱེར་མེད་པའི་ཚུལ་གྱིས་གནས།

—

g.1369 removed the thorns

tsher ma bsal ba

ཚེར་མ་བསལ་བ།

**marditakaṅṭaka*<sup>RS</sup>

g.1370 residual impression connection

bag chags dang mtshams sbyor ba · bag chags kyi mtshams sbyor ba

བག་ཆགས་དང་མཚམས་སྦྱར་བ། · བག་ཆགས་ཀྱི་མཚམས་སྦྱར་བ། vāsanānusaṃdhi

g.1371 residual impressions

bag chags

བག་ཆགས།

vāsanā

Karmic traces or residues imprinted by past actions and constituting tendencies that predispose one to particular patterns of behavior.

g.1372 respond with the answer

lan ldon

ལན་ལྟེན། visarjaya

g.1373 resting place

gnas

གནས།

layana

g.1374 restrain

sdom · bsdam

སྡོམ། · བསྡོམ། saṃtor

g.1375 restraint morality

sdom pa'i tshul khrims

སྡོམ་པའི་ཚུལ་སྲིམས། saṃvaraśīla

g.1376 result-recipient

'bras bu la gnas pa

འབྲས་བུ་ལ་གནས་པ། phalastha

g.1377 retainer

phyi 'khor

ཕྱི་འཁོར། amātya

blon po is the usual Tibetan translation of amātya.

g.1378 Revata

nam gru

ནམ་གུ།

revata

A follower of Śāriputra (Malalasekera).

g.1379 reveal

ston

སྟོན།

darśaya

g.1380 revealer

ston pa po

སྟོན་པ་པོ།

paśyakā

g.1381 right effort

yang dag pa'i rtsol ba

ཡང་དག་པའི་རྩོལ་བ། samyakvyāyāma

g.1382 right efforts

yang dag pa'i spong ba

ཡང་དག་པའི་སྦྲོང་བ།

samyakprahāṇa

See “four right efforts.”

g.1383 right idea

yang dag pa'i rtog pa

ཡང་དག་པའི་རྟོག་པ། samyaksamkalpa

g.1384 robber

chom rkun

ཚོམ་རྒྱུ།

caura · dasyu

g.1385 root downfall

ltung ba'i rtsa ba

ལུང་བའི་རྩ་བ།

mūlāpatti

The most severe of the five types of offenses a monastic can incur. A monastic who violates one of the four principal vows and thereby incurs a defeat is expelled from the saṅgha community. They are no longer entitled to participate in communal activities, nor are they entitled to enjoy its perquisites, such as food and lodging. The four are sexual intercourse, theft, murder, and claiming greater realization than one has. See also “pārājika.”

g.1386 royal caste

rgyal rigs

རྒྱལ་རིགས།

kṣatriya varṇa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The ruling caste in the traditional four-caste hierarchy of India, associated with warriors, the aristocracy, and kings.

g.1387 royal family

rgyal rigs

རྒྱལ་རིགས།

kṣatriya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The ruling caste in the traditional four-caste hierarchy of India, associated with warriors, the aristocracy, and kings.

g.1388 ruin

chud gzon

ཚུད་གཞོན།

naś

g.1389 rule

sdom pa

སྲོམ་པ། saṃvara

g.1390 rūpāparyanta

gzugs mu med pa

གཟུགས་སྲུ་མེད་པ།

rūpāparyanta

Lit. "limitless form." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1391 rut

shul

ཤུལ། mārga

g.1392 sacrifice

mchod sbyin

མཚོད་སྤྱི་ན།

yajña

g.1393 Sadāprarudita

rtaḡ tu ngu

སྤྲུལ་ལྷོ་བུ།

sadāprarudita

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A bodhisattva famous for his quest for the Dharma and for his devotion to the teacher. It is told that Sadāprarudita, in order to make offerings to the bodhisattva Dharmodgata and request the Prajñāpāramitā teachings, sets out to sell his own flesh and blood. After receiving a first set of teachings, Sadāprarudita waits seven years for the bodhisattva Dharmodgata, his teacher, to emerge from meditation. When he receives signs this is about to happen, he wishes to prepare the ground for the teachings by settling the dust. Māra makes all the water disappear, so Sadāprarudita decides to use his own blood to settle the dust. He is said to be practicing in the presence of Buddha Bhīṣmagarjitanirghoṣasvara. His name means "Ever Weeping", on account of the numerous tears he shed until he found the teachings.

His story is told in detail by the Buddha in The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines (Toh 10, ch. 85–86), and can be found quoted in several works, such as The Words of My Perfect Teacher (kun bzang bla ma'i zhal lung) by Patrul Rinpoche.

g.1394 Sādhumatī

legs pa'i blo gros

ལེགས་པའི་སྒྲོ་བློ་སྤྱོད།

sādhumatī

Lit. "Auspicious Intellect." The ninth level of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas. See "ten bodhisattva levels."

g.1395 Sahā

mi mjed

མི་མཇེད།

sahā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The name for our particular world system, the universe of a thousand million worlds, or trichiliocosm, in which our four-continent world is located. Although it is sometimes said that it can refer only to our own four-continent world around Mount Meru, the sūtras largely seem to equate it with this trichiliocosm, and this is confirmed by scholars like Jamgön Kongtrul (see The Treasury of Knowledge, Book One). Each trichiliocosm is ruled by a god Brahmā; thus, in this context, he bears the title of Sahāṃpati, Lord of Sahā. Our world system of Sahā, or Sahālokadhātu, is also described as being the buddhafiield of the Buddha Śākyamuni. He teaches the Dharma here to beings who adhere to inferior ways and perceive this universe as an impure buddhafiield contaminated with the five degenerations (pañcakaṣāya, snyigs ma lnga): the degeneration of time, sentient beings, place, lifespan, and mental afflictions (see The Teaching of Vimalakīrti, Toh 176). It is also mentioned as the field of activity of all the thousand buddhas of this Fortunate Eon (see The White Lotus of Compassion, Toh 112).

The name Sahā possibly derives from the Sanskrit śah, “to bear, endure, or withstand.” It is often interpreted as alluding to the inhabitants of this world having to endure suffering. The Tibetan translation, mi mjed, follows along the same lines. It literally means “not unbearable,” in the sense that beings here are able to bear the suffering they experience.

g.1396 Sahāṃpati

mi mjed kyi bdag po

མི་མཇེད་ཀྱི་བདག་པོ།

sahāṃpati

Epithet of Brahmā, head god of the Brahma heavens.

g.1397 Sahāṃpati Brahmā

mi mjed kyi bdag po tshangs pa

མི་མཇེད་ཀྱི་བདག་པོ་ཚངས་པ།

sahāṃpatir brahmā

See “Brahmā.”

g.1398 Śākya

shAkya

ལྷན་གྱི།

śākya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Name of the ancient tribe in which the Buddha was born as a prince; their kingdom was based to the east of Kośala, in the foothills near the present-day border of India and Nepal, with Kapilavastu as its capital.

g.1399 Śākyamuni

shAkyā thub pa

ལྷན་ཐུབ་པ།

śākyamuni

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

An epithet for the historical Buddha, Siddhārtha Gautama: he was a muni (“sage”) from the Śākya clan. He is counted as the fourth of the first four buddhas of the present Good Eon, the other three being Krakucchanda, Kanakamuni, and Kāśyapa. He will be followed by Maitreya, the next buddha in this eon.

g.1400 Samādhihastyuttaraśrī

ting nge 'dzin gyi glang po dam pa'i dpal

ཉིང་ངེ་འཛིན་གྱི་གླང་པོ་དམ་པའི་དཔལ།

samādhihastyuttaraśrī

Lit. “Glorious Supreme Elephant of Meditative Stabilization.” A buddha in a world system called Samādhyalaṃkṛtā in the intermediate northeast direction.

g.1401 samādhirāja

ting nge 'dzin gyi rgyal po

ཉིང་ངེ་འཛིན་གྱི་རྒྱལ་པོ། samādhirāja

Lit. “king of meditative stabilizations.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1402 samādhirājasupratiṣṭhita

ting nge 'dzin la rgyal po ltar rab tu gnas pa

ཉིང་ངེ་འཛིན་ལ་རྒྱལ་པོ་ལྟར་རབ་ཏུ་གནས་པ།

samādhirājasupratiṣṭhita

Lit. “good standing like a king in meditative stabilization.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1403 samādhisamata

ting nge 'dzin mnyam pa nyid

ཉིང་ལེ་འཛིན་མཉམ་པ་ཉིད།

samādhisamata

Lit. "sameness meditative stabilization." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1404 Samādhyalamḅkṛtā

ting nge 'dzin gyis brgyan pa

ཉིང་ལེ་འཛིན་གྱིས་བརྒྱན་པ།

samādhyalamḅkṛtā

Lit. "Adorned with Meditative Stabilizations." A world system in the intermediate northeast direction, where the buddha Samādhihastyuttaraśrī now dwells.

g.1405 samāhitāvasthāpratiṣṭhāna

mnyam par gzhaḡ pa'i gnas la gnas pa

མཉམ་པར་གཞག་པའི་གནས་ལ་གནས་པ།

samāhitāvasthāpratiṣṭhāna

Lit. "stationed in the absorption stage." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1406 samākṣarāvakāra

yi ge mnyam par 'god pa

ཡི་གེ་མཉམ་པར་འགོད་པ།

samākṣarāvakāra

Lit. "sets down all syllables the same." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1407 Samantakusuma

kun nas me tog

ཀུན་ནས་མེ་རྟོག

samantakusuma

Lit. "With Flowers Everywhere." The tathāgata in the buddhafield Padmavati.

g.1408 Samantaraśmi

kun nas 'od

ཀུན་ནས་འོད།

samantaraśmi

Lit. "Rays All Around." A bodhisattva from a world system called Ratnāvati, in the eastern direction, who comes to pay homage and listen to the Buddha.

g.1409 samantāvabhāsa

kun tu snang ba

ཀུན་ཏུ་སྒྲོང་བ།

samantāvabhāsa

Lit. “total illumination.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1410 samantāvaloka

kun tu snang ba

ཀུན་ཏུ་སྒྲོང་བ།

samantāvaloka

Lit. “total light.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1411 same attitude of mind

sems mnyam pa nyid

སེམས་མཉམ་པ་ཉིད། samacittatā

g.1412 sameness

mnyam pa nyid

མཉམ་པ་ཉིད།

samatā

The fact that while all phenomena appear differently, they nonetheless share an identical nature.

g.1413 saṃjñāparyanta

'du shes mu med pa

འདུ་ཤེས་ལུ་མེད་པ།

saṃjñāparyanta

Lit. “limitless perception.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1414 saṃsāra

'khor ba

འཁོར་བ།

saṃsāra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A state of involuntary existence conditioned by afflicted mental states and the imprint of past actions, characterized by suffering in a cycle of life, death, and rebirth. On its reversal, the contrasting state of nirvāṇa is attained, free from suffering and the processes of rebirth.

g.1415 saṃskārāparyanta

'du byed mu med pa

འདུ་བྱེད་སླ་མེད་པ།

saṃskārāparyanta

Lit. “limitless volitional factors.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1416 Saṃtuṣita

yongs su dga' ldan

ཡོངས་སླུ་དག་འཕྲན།

saṃtuṣita

Head of the Tuṣita gods.

g.1417 samudgata

yang dag par 'phags pa

ཡང་དག་པར་འཕགས་པ།

samudgata

Lit. “truly noble.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1418 samudrāparyanta

rgya mtsho mu med pa

རྒྱ་མཚོ་སླ་མེད་པ།

samudrāparyanta

Lit. “limitless ocean.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1419 samyaktvamithyātvasarvasaṃgrasana

yang dag pa dang log pa thams cad yang dag par sel ba

ཡང་དག་པ་དང་ལོག་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་ཡང་དག་པར་སེལ་བ།

samyaktvamithyātvasarvasaṃgrasana

Lit. “eliminator of all right and wrong.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1420 saṅgha

dge 'dun

དག་འདུན།

saṅgha

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Though often specifically reserved for the monastic community, this term can be applied to any of the four Buddhist communities—monks, nuns, laymen, and laywomen—as well as to identify the different groups of practitioners, like the community of bodhisattvas or the community of śrāvakas. It is also the third of the Three Jewels (triratna) of Buddhism, the Buddha, the Teaching, and the Community.

In this text:

Also rendered here as “community.”

g.1421 sapphire

an da rnyil

ཨན་དརྟིལ།

indranīla

g.1422 sāravatin

snying po dang ldan pa

སྟིང་པོ་དང་ལྷན་པ།

sāravatin

Lit. “having a core.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1423 sarcastically compliment

sting

སྟིང་།

ullap

g.1424 Śāriputra

shA ri'i bu

ཤ་རིའི་བུ།

śāriputra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the principal śrāvaka disciples of the Buddha, he was renowned for his discipline and for having been praised by the Buddha as foremost of the wise (often paired with Maudgalyāyana, who was praised as foremost in the capacity for miraculous powers). His father, Tīṣya, to honor Śāriputra's mother, Śārikā, named him Śāradvatīputra, or, in its contracted form, Śāriputra, meaning "Śārikā's Son."

g.1425 sarvadharmābhyudgata

chos thams cad las mngon par 'phags pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ལས་མཛོད་པར་འཕགས་པ།

sarvadharmābhyudgata

Lit. "that has risen above all dharmas." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1426 sarvadharmācalana

chos thams cad g.yo ba med pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་གཡོ་བ་མེད་པ། sarvadharmācalana

Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1427 sarvadharmācintya

chos thams cad bsam gyis mi khyab

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་བསམ་གྱིས་མི་ལྷབ། sarvadharmācintya

Lit. "inconceivability of all dharmas." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1428 sarvadharmadhāraṇīmukhamudra

chos thams cad kyi gzungs kyi sgo'i phyag rgya

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་གཟུངས་ཀྱི་སྒྲིའི་ཕྱག་རྒྱ། sarvadharmadhāraṇīmukhamudra

Lit. "seal of the dhāraṇī gateway for all dharmas." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1429 sarvadharmāikarasa

chos thams cad ro gcig pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་རོ་གཅིག་པ།

sarvadharmāikarasa

Lit. "the one taste of all dharmas." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1430 sarvadharmajñānādhivāsanapraveśa

chos thams cad shes pa'i bzod pa la 'jug pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཤེས་པའི་བཟོན་པ་ལ་འཇུག་པ། sarvadharmājñānādhivāsanapraveśa

Lit. “entry into knowledge forbearance for all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1431 sarvadharmājñānāpagata

chos thams cad mi shes pa dang bral ba

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་མི་ཤེས་པ་དང་བྲལ་བ།

sarvadharmājñānāpagata

Lit. “separated from not knowing all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1432 sarvadharmājñānavidhvaṃsana

chos thams cad mi shes pa sel ba

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་མི་ཤེས་པ་སེལ་བ།

sarvadharmājñānavidhvaṃsana

Lit. “shattering ignorance of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1433 sarvadharmāmanana

chos thams cad rlom sems med pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་སྐྱོམ་སེམས་མེད་པ། sarvadharmāmanana

Lit. “without conceit for any dharma.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1434 sarvadharmamudra

chos thams cad kyi phyag rgya

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་ཕྱག་རྒྱ།

sarvadharmamudra

Lit. “seal of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1435 sarvadharmamudrāgata

chos thams cad kyi phyag rgyar gyur pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་ཕྱག་རྒྱར་གྱུར་པ།

sarvadharmamudrāgata

Lit. “become exalted among all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1436 sarvadharmānāvaraṇakoṭi

chos thams cad la sgrib pa med pa'i mtha'

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ལ་སྒྲིབ་པ་མེད་པའི་མཐའ།

sarvadharmānāvāraṇakoṭi

Lit. “unobstructed limit of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1437 sarvadharmanimittāpagata

chos thams cad mtshan ma dang bral ba

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་མཚན་མ་དང་བྲལ་བ།

sarvadharmanimittāpagata

Lit. “separated from all causal signs.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1438 sarvadharmānirnānātva

chos thams cad tha dad pa med pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཐ་དད་པ་མེད་པ།

sarvadharmānirnānātva

Lit. “where all dharmas are in a state without difference.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1439 sarvadharmānirodha

chos thams cad 'gag pa med pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་འགག་པ་མེད་པ།

sarvadharmānirodha

Lit. “where all dharmas are in a state without cessation.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1440 sarvadharmāniruktiniyatapraveśa

chos thams cad kyi nges pa'i tshig la gdon mi za bar 'jug pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་ངེས་པའི་ཚིག་ལ་གདོན་མི་ཟ་བར་འཇུག་པ། sarvadharmāniruktiniyatapraveśa

Lit. “entry into certainty about the etymologies of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1441 sarvadharmānirvedhaka

chos thams cad la nges par 'big pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ལ་ངེས་པར་འབྲིགས་པ།

sarvadharmānirvedhaka

Lit. “piercer of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

- g.1442 sarvadharmanirvikāradarśin chos thams cad 'gyur ba med par mthong ba ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་འགྱུར་བ་མེད་པར་མཐོང་བ། sarvadharmanirvikāradarśin
 Lit. “seeing all dharmas as unchanging.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1443 sarvadharmanirviśeṣadarśin chos thams cad bye brag med par lta ba ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་བྲེ་བྲག་མེད་པར་ལྟ་བ། sarvadharmanirviśeṣadarśin
 Lit. “that sees all dharmas without particularizing them.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1444 sarvadharmaniśceṣṭa
chos thams cad byed pa med pa ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་བྱེད་པ་མེད་པ། sarvadharmaniśceṣṭa
 Lit. “where all dharmas are mentionless.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1445 sarvadharmānupalabdhi
chos thams cad mi dmigs pa ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་མི་དམིགས་པ། sarvadharmānupalabdhi
 Lit. “all dharmas are not found.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1446 sarvadharmānutpāda
chos thams cad skye ba med pa ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་སྐྱེ་བ་མེད་པ། sarvadharmānutpāda
 Lit. “nonproduction of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1447 sarvadharmapadaprabheda
chos thams cad kyi tshig rab tu 'byed pa ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་ཚིག་རབ་ཏུ་འབྱེད་པ། sarvadharmapadaprabheda
 Lit. “sorts out the words for all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1448 sarvadharmāparigṛhīta

chos thams cad yongs su ma bzung ba

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཡོངས་སུ་མ་བརྩུང་བ།

sarvadharmāparigṛhīta

Lit. “all dharmas not fully grasped.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1449 sarvadharmāparyanta

chos thams cad mu med pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་སྤྱི་མཉམ་པ།

sarvadharmāparyanta

Lit. “the limitlessness of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1450 sarvadharmapraveśamudra

chos thams cad la 'jug pa'i phyag rgya

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ལ་འཇུག་པའི་ཕྱག་རྒྱ།

sarvadharmapraveśamudra

Lit. “seal of entry into all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1451 sarvadharmapraveśamukha

chos thams cad la 'jug pa'i sgo

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ལ་འཇུག་པའི་སྒོ། sarvadharmapraveśamukha

Lit. “gateway of the entry into all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1452 sarvadharmasamatā

chos thams cad mnyam pa nyid

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་མཉམ་པ་ཉིད།

sarvadharmasamatā

Lit. “sameness of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1453 sarvadharmasamavasaraṇākāramudra

chos thams cad yang dag par 'du ba'i rnam pa'i phyag rgya

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཡང་དག་པར་འདུ་བའི་རྣམ་པའི་ཕྱག་རྒྱ། sarvadharmasamavasaraṇākāramudra

Lit. “seal in a form in which all dharmas are united.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

- g.1454 sarvadharmasamavasaraṇasāgaramudra
chos thams cad yang dag par 'du ba rgya mtsho'i phyag rgya ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཡང་དག་པར་འདུ་བ་རྒྱ་མཚོའི་ཕྱག་རྒྱ། sarvadharmasamavasaraṇasāgaramudrā
 Lit. "ocean seal in which all dharmas are united." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1455 sarvadharmasamavasaraṇasamudra
chos thams cad yang dag par 'du ba rgya mtsho ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཡང་དག་པར་འདུ་བ་རྒྱ་མཚོ། sarvadharmasamavasaraṇasamudra
 Lit. "ocean in which all dharmas are united." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1456 sarvadharmāsambheda
chos thams cad ma 'dres pa ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་མ་འདྲེས་པ། sarvadharmāsambheda
 Lit. "unadulterated nature of all dharmas." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1457 sarvadharmāsampramoṣa
chos thams cad brjed pa med pa ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་བརྗེད་པ་མེད་པ། sarvadharmāsampramoṣa
 Lit. "does not forget all dharmas." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1458 sarvadharmāstambhita
chos thams cad khengs pa med pa ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཁེངས་པ་མེད་པ། sarvadharmāstambhita
 Lit. "without arrogance toward any dharmas." Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1459 sarvadharmasvabhāvānupalabdhi
chos thams cad kyi ngo bo nyid mi dmigs pa ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་རོ་བོ་ཉིད་མི་དམིགས་པ། sarvadharmasvabhāvānupalabdhi

Lit. “where the intrinsic nature of all dharmas cannot be found.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1460 sarvadharmasvabhāvavyavalokana

chos thams cad kyi ngo bo nyid la rnam par lta ba

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་ངོ་བོ་ཉིད་ལ་རྣམ་པར་ལྟ་བུ། sarvadharmasvabhāvavyavalokana

Lit. “looking at the intrinsic nature of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1461 sarvadharmatamopagata

chos thams cad mun pa dang bral ba

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་སྤྲུལ་པ་དང་བྲལ་བ།

sarvadharmatamopagata

Lit. “where all dharmas are free from darkness.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1462 sarvadharmātikramaṇa

chos thams cad las ‘da’ ba

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ལས་འདའ་བ།

sarvadharmātikramaṇa

Lit. “gone beyond all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1463 sarvadharmātmabhāvānabhinirhāra

chos thams cad bdag gi dngos po mi sgrub pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་བདག་གི་དངོས་པོ་མི་སྦྱབ་པ། sarvadharmātmabhāvānabhinirhāra

Lit. “does not establish the essential nature in all phenomena.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1464 sarvadharmāvabhāsakara

chos thams cad snang bar byed pa

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་སྒྲུང་བར་བྱེད་པ།

sarvadharmāvabhāsakara

Lit. “illuminator of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1465 sarvadharmāvibhāvanāsamatā

chos thams cad rnam par 'jig pa mnyam pa nyid

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་རྣམ་པར་འཇིག་པ་མཉམ་པ་ཉིད། sarvadharmāvibhāvanāsamatā

Lit. “sameness of the destruction of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1466 sarvadharmavibhavasamudra

chos thams cad kyi 'byor pa rgya mtsho

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་འབྱོར་པ་རྒྱ་མཚོ།

sarvadharmavibhavasamudra

Lit. “ocean of the wealth of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1467 sarvadharmavipaśyana

chos thams cad la rnam par lta ba

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ལ་རྣམ་པར་ལྟ་བ།

sarvadharmavipaśyana

Lit. “giving insight into all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1468 sarvadharmavivikta

chos thams cad dben

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་དབེན།

sarvadharmavivikta

Lit. “isolation of all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1469 sarvadharmodgata

chos thams cad las shin tu 'phags

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ལས་ཤིན་ཏུ་འཕགས།

sarvadharmodgata

Lit. “superior to all dharmas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1470 sarvadr̥ṣṭikṛtagahanavivarjita

lta bar gyur pa thibs po thams cad rnam par spong ba

ལྷ་བར་གྱུར་པ་ཐིབས་པོ་ཐམས་ཅད་རྣམ་པར་སྦྱོང་བ། sarvadr̥ṣṭikṛtagahanavivarjita

Lit. “extricated from the thicket of all the distortions.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

- g.1471 sarvagirighoṣākṣaravimukta
sgra dbyangs kyi yi ge thams cad dang bral ba སྒྲ་དབྱངས་ཀྱི་ཡི་གེ་ཐམས་ཅད་དང་བྲལ་བ། sarvagirighoṣākṣaravimukta
 Lit. “free from all sound and voiced syllables.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1472 sarvaguṇasaṃcaya
yon tan thams cad kyi tshogs su gyur pa ཡོན་ཏན་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་ཚོགས་སུ་གྱུར་པ། sarvaguṇasaṃcaya
 Lit. “collection of all good qualities.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1473 sarvākāraprabhākara
rnam pa thams cad du 'od byed pa རྣམ་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་དུ་འོད་བྱེད་པ། sarvākāraprabhākara
 Lit. “total illuminator.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1474 sarvākāraravaropeta
rnam pa thams cad kyi mchog dang ldan pa
 རྣམ་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་མཚོག་དང་ལྷན་པ། sarvākāraravaropeta
 Lit. “furnished with the supreme of all aspects.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1475 sarvakausīdyāpagata
le lo thams cad dang bral ba ལེ་ལོ་ཐམས་ཅད་དང་བྲལ་བ། sarvakausīdyāpagata
 Lit. “separated from all laziness.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1476 sarvakleśanirdahana
nyon mongs pa thams cad nges par sreg pa ཉོན་མོངས་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་ངེས་པར་སྲེག་པ། sarvakleśanirdahana
 Lit. “burns all afflictive emotions.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

- g.1477 sarvalokaprabhākara
'jig rten thams cad du 'od byed pa འཇིག་རྟེན་ཐམས་ཅད་དུ་འོད་བྱེད་པ། sarvalokaprabhākara
 Lit. “illuminator of all worlds.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1478 sarvarodhanirodhasaṃpraśamana
'gal ba dang 'gog pa thams cad yang dag par zhi ba འགལ་བ་དང་འགོག་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་ཡང་དག་པར་ཞི་བ། sarvarodhanirodhasaṃpraśamana
 Lit. “pacifier of all obstruction and stopping.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1479 sarvasaṃketarūtapraveśa
brda dang sgra thams cad la 'jug pa བད་དང་སྒྲ་ཐམས་ཅད་ལ་འཇུག་པ། sarvasaṃketarūtapraveśa
 Lit. “entry into all terms and sounds.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1480 sarvasaṅgavimukta
chags pa thams cad las rnam par grol ba ཆགས་པ་ཐམས་ཅད་ལས་རྣམ་པར་གྲོལ་བ། sarvasaṅgavimukta
 Lit. “free from all attachments.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1481 sarvasārānugata
snying po thams cad kyi rjes su song ba སྒྲིང་པོ་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་རྗེས་སུ་སོང་བ། sarvasārānugata
 Lit. “following all essences.” Name of a meditative stabilization.
- g.1482 sarvasattvābhibhavana
sems can thams cad zil gyis gnon pa སེམས་ཅན་ཐམས་ཅད་ཟེལ་གྱིས་གཞོན་པ། sarvasattvābhibhavana
 Lit. “overcomes all beings.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1483 sarvasattvābhipramodana

sems can thams cad mngon par dga' ba

སེམས་ཅན་ཐམས་ཅད་མངོན་པར་དགའ་བ།

sarvasattvābhipramodana

Lit. "that delights all beings." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1484 sarvasattvarutakauśalyānugata

sems can thams cad kyi sgra la mkhas pa'i rjes su song ba

སེམས་ཅན་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་སྒྲ་ལ་མཁས་པའི་རྗེས་སུ་སོང་བ། sarvasattvarutakauśalyānugata

Lit. "following the knowledge of sounds of all beings." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1485 sarvasattvarutanirhāra

sems can thams cad kyi sgra sgrub pa

སེམས་ཅན་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་སྒྲ་སྐྱབ་པ། sarvasattvarutanirhāra

Lit. "that produces the sounds of all beings." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1486 Sarvaśokāpagata

mya ngan thams cad med pa

སྤྱ་ངན་ཐམས་ཅད་མེད་པ།

sarvaśokāpagata

Lit. "Free from All Sorrow." A world system in the southern direction, where the buddha Aśokaśrī dwells.

g.1487 sarvasukhaduḥkhanirabhinandin

bde ba dang sdug bsngal thams cad la mngon par dga' ba med pa

བདེ་བ་དང་སྤྱུག་བསྐྱལ་ཐམས་ཅད་ལ་མངོན་པར་དགའ་བ་མེད་པ། sarvasukhaduḥkhanirabhinandin

Lit. "not taking pleasure in any happiness or suffering." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1488 Śatakratu

brgya byin

བརྒྱ་བྱིན།

śakra · śatakratu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The lord of the gods in the Heaven of the Thirty-Three (trāyastriṃśa). Alternatively known as Indra, the deity that is called “lord of the gods” dwells on the summit of Mount Sumeru and wields the thunderbolt. The Tibetan translation brgya byin (meaning “one hundred sacrifices”) is based on an etymology that śakra is an abbreviation of śata-kratu, one who has performed a hundred sacrifices. Each world with a central Sumeru has a Śakra. Also known by other names such as Kauśika, Devendra, and Śacipati.

g.1489 satisfied by mental work

yid la byed pas tshim par gyur pa

ཡིད་ལ་བྱེད་པས་ཚིམ་པར་གྱུར་པ། manasikaratarpita

g.1490 satisfy

tshim par byed

ཚིམ་པར་བྱེད།

saṃtr̥p (saṃtarpayā)

g.1491 savage

gdol pa

གདོལ་པ།

caṇḍāla

Also rendered here as “outcast.”

g.1492 savaged perception

rnam par zos pa'i 'du shes

རྣམ་པར་ཚོས་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས།

vikhāditakasamjñā

g.1493 saw exactly what was going on

nges par rtogs pa

ངེས་པར་རྫོགས་པ།

avakalpanā

Mvy

g.1494 scorpion

sdig pa

སྡིག་པ། vṛścika

g.1495 scoundrel

g.yon can

གཡོན་ཅན།

dhūrtaka

g.1496 seer

drang srong

དྲང་སྲོང།

ṛṣi

“Sage.” An ancient Indian spiritual title, especially for divinely inspired individuals credited with creating the foundations for all Indian culture.

g.1497 seize on

'dzin

འཛིན།

udgrah

g.1498 seizing on the unreal

yang dag pa ma yin pa la 'dzin pa

ཡང་དག་པ་མ་ཡིན་པ་ལ་འཛིན་པ། abhūtagraha

g.1499 self-confidence

bag tsha ba med pa

བག་ཚ་བ་མེད་པ། acchambī

g.1500 self-grasping

bdag tu 'dzin pa

བདག་ཏུ་འཛིན་པ། ātmagraha

g.1501 self-originated

rang byung

རང་བྱུང་།

svayambhū

g.1502 self-originated state

rang byung nyid

རང་བྱུང་ཉིད། svayambhūtda

g.1503 sense faculty

dbang po

དབང་པོ།

indriya

g.1504 sense field

skye mched

སྐྱེ་མཆེད།

āyatana

Twelve sense fields: the six sensory faculties (the eyes, nose, ear, tongue, body, and mind), which form in the womb and eventually have contact with the external six bases of sensory perception (form, smell, sound, taste, touch, and phenomena). In another context in this sūtra, āyatana refers to the four formless absorptions.

g.1505 sense gratification

'dod pa

འདོད་པ།

kāma

g.1506 sense objects

'dod pa

འདོད་པ།

kāma · kāmagaṇa

g.1507 separated

bral ba · 'bral ba

བྲལ་བ། · འབྲལ་བ།

vigata · viyukta

- g.1508 separated from a maker
byed pa po dang bral ba བྱེད་པ་པོ་དང་བྲལ་བ། kārahavirahita
- g.1509 separated from an intrinsic nature ngo bo nyid dang bral · rang bzhin dang bral རོ་བོ་ཉིད་དང་བྲལ། · རང་བཞིན་དང་བྲལ། svabhāvarahita
- g.1510 serene confidence
dang ba དང་བ། prasāda
- g.1511 serene mental confidence
sems rab tu dang bar gyur pa སེམས་རབ་ཏུ་དང་བར་གྱུར་པ། cittaprasāda
- g.1512 serves as the cause
rgyur gyur
 གྱུར་གྱུར། **kāraṇabhūta<sup>RS</sup>*
- g.1513 serves as the condition
rkyen du gyur
 རྐྱེན་དུ་གྱུར།
 —
- g.1514 serves as the force
stobs par gyur ལྷོབས་པར་གྱུར།
 —
- g.1515 serves as the foundation
rten du gyur

འོན་ཏེ་གྱུར། āsrayabhūta

g.1516 settle down on as real

mngon par zhen

མའོན་པར་ཞེན། abhiniviś

g.1517 settlement

grong

གྲོང་།

grāma

g.1518 seven emptinesses

stong pa nyid bdun

སྟོང་པ་ཉིད་བདུན།

—

The seven emptinesses are of the aggregates, sense fields, constituents, truths, dependent origination, all dharmas in the sense of dharmas taken as a totality, and compounded and uncompounded dharmas.

g.1519 seven limbs of awakening

byang chub kyi yan lag bdun

བྱང་ཆུབ་ཀྱི་ཡན་ལག་བདུན།

saptabodhyaṅga

The set of seven factors or aspects that characteristically manifest on the path of seeing: (1) mindfulness (smṛti, dran pa), (2) examination of dharmas (dharmapraṇicaya, chos rab tu rnam 'byed/shes rab), (3) perseverance (vīrya, brtson 'grus), (4) joy (prīti, dga' ba), (5) mental and physical pliability (praśrabdhi, shin sbyangs), (6) meditative stabilization (samādhi, ting nge 'dzin), and (7) equanimity (upekṣā, btang snyoms).

g.1520 seven precious stones

rin po che sna bdun

རིན་པོ་ཆེ་སྣ་བདུན།

saptaratna

Haribhadra lists the seven precious stones as coral, turquoise, silver, crystal, gold, ruby, and emerald.

g.1521 seven precious treasures

rin po che sna bdun

རིན་པོ་ཆེ་སྣ་བདུན།

saptaratna

The wheel, queen, minister, horse, elephant, general, and jewel. In the list at 63.17, “chamberlain” is added.

g.1522 seven riches

nor bdun

ནོར་བདུན།

saptadhana

The seven riches of noble beings: faith, morality, generosity, learning, modesty, humility, and wisdom.

g.1523 sex organ

mtshan

མཚན།

vyañjana

g.1524 sheep-like obtuseness

lug ltar lkugs pa

ལུག་ལྟར་ལྷུགས་པ། eḍamūka

g.1525 should think carefully about

rnam par spyad par bgyi

རྣམ་པར་སྤྱད་པར་བགྱི།

vyavacārayitaṅya · vyavacāraya

g.1526 shoulders are well rounded

dpung mgo legs par grub pa

དཔུང་མགོ་ལེགས་པར་གྲུབ་པ། susaṃvṛtaskandha

g.1527 shut down

'gag

འགག། niruddha

g.1528 sign

mtshan ma

མཚན་མ།

nimitta

g.1529 signlessness

mtshan ma med pa

མཚན་མ་མེད་པ།

ānimitta · animitta

g.1530 signs presaging

snga ltas

སྔ་ལྟ་ས།

pūroāni nimittāni

g.1531 Śikhin

gtsug tor can

གཙུག་ཏོར་ཅན།

śikhin

A bodhisattva whose name is proclaimed by Śākyamuni.

g.1532 siṃhābhiḡarjita

seng ge mngon par bsgrags pa

སེང་གེ་མཛོན་པར་བསྐྱབས་པ།

siṃhābhiḡarjita

Lit. "lion's roar." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1533 siṃhavijṛmbhita

seng ge rnam par bsgyings pa

སེང་གེ་རྣམ་པར་བསྐྱེད་ས་པ།

siṃhavijṛmbhita

Lit. "lion's yawn." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1534 siṃhavikrīḡita

seng ge rnam par rtse ba

སེང་གོ་རྒྱལ་པར་རྩེ་བ།

siṃhavikrīḍita

Lit. “lion’s play.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1535 simple folk

byis pa

བྱིས་པ།

bāla

g.1536 simpleton

blo zhan pa

སློ་ཞལ་པ།

**mandabuddhi* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1537 simply remain

gnas pa nyid

གནས་པ་ཉིད།

sthitaiva · sthita eva

g.1538 simultaneously

snga phyi med par

སྲ་ཕྱི་མེད་པར།

apūrvācaramaṇ

g.1539 single day

gdugs gcig · nyin gcig · nyi ma gcig

གདུགས་གཅིག་ · ཉིན་གཅིག་ · ཉིམ་གཅིག་ ekadevasika

gdugs gcig is an archaic word for “day.”

g.1540 single-sitter

stan gcig pa

སྟན་གཅིག་པ།

ekāsanikaḥ

A “single-sitter” is one who eats only during a single sitting (per day).

g.1541 singular word

gcig gi tshig bla dags

གཅིག་གི་ཚིག་བླ་དགའ།

ekādhivacana

g.1542 sister

sring mo

སྲིང་མོ། bhaginī

g.1543 site of awakening

byang chub kyi snying po

བྱང་ལྷན་གྱི་སྲིང་པོ།

bodhimaṇḍa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The place where the Buddha Śākyamuni achieved awakening and where every buddha will manifest the attainment of buddhahood. In our world this is understood to be located under the Bodhi tree, the Vajrāsana, in present-day Bodhgaya, India. It can also refer to the state of awakening itself.

g.1544 six clairvoyances

mngon par shes pa drug

མངོན་པར་ཤེས་པ་དྲུག།

ṣaḍābhijñā

See “clairvoyances.”

g.1545 six faculties

dbang po drug

དབང་པོ་དྲུག།

ṣaḍindriya

The six sense faculties of eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind.

g.1546 six forms of life

'gro ba drug

འགྲོ་བ་དྲུག།

ṣaḍgati

Life as a being in hell, an animal, a ghost, a human, an asura, and a god.

g.1547 six perfections

pha rol tu phyin pa drug

ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་ཕྱིན་པ་སྟེན་གཞི་

ṣaṭpāramitā

The six practices or qualities that a follower of the Great Vehicle perfects in order to transcend cyclic existence and reach the full awakening of a buddha. They are giving, morality, patience, perseverance or effort, concentration, and wisdom. See also “perfection.”

g.1548 six principles of being liked yang dag par sdud par 'gyur ba'i chos drug

ཡང་དག་པར་སྟེན་པར་འགྱུར་བའི་ཚོས་སྟེན་གཞི་

ṣaṭsaṃrañjanīya

Vasubandhu/Daṃṣṭrāsena's Bṛhatṭīkā (4.59) says these “are in the One Hundred Thousand” and lists them as “kindly physical action, kindly verbal action, kindly mental action, and a balanced morality, balanced view, and balanced livelihood.”

g.1549 six sense fields

skye mched drug

སྐྱེ་མཆོད་སྟེན་གཞི་

ṣaḍāyatana

Fifth of the twelve links of dependent origination, it consists of the six sense organs (eyes, ears, nose, tongue, body, and thinking mind) together with their respective objects (forms, sounds, smells, tastes, touch, and dharmas).

g.1550 sixty-four vocational arts

sgyu rtsal drug cu rtsa bzhi

སྐྱེ་ཚལ་སྟེན་གཞི་བཞི་

sarvāsu ca catuḥṣaṣṭhiṣu kalāsu pariniṣpanna

These include writing and mathematics, and also different sports, crafts, dancing, acting, and the playing of various instruments.

g.1551 sixty-two views

lta ba'i rnam pa drug cu rtsa gnyis · lta bar gyur pa drug cu rtsa gnyis

ལྟ་བའི་རྣམ་པ་སྟེན་གཞི་གཉིས་། · ལྟ་བར་གྱུར་པ་སྟེན་གཞི་གཉིས་། dvāṣaṣṭidṛṣṭīkrta

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The sixty-two false views, as enumerated in the Brahmajālasūtra (tshangs pa'i dra ba'i mdo, Toh 352), comprise eighteen speculations concerning the past, based on theories of eternalism, partial eternalism, extensionism, endless equivocation, and fortuitous origination, as well as forty-four speculations concerning the future, based on percipient immortality, non-percipient immortality, neither percipient nor non-percipient immortality, annihilationism, and the immediate attainment of nirvāṇa in the present life.

g.1552 skandhamāra

phung po'i bdud

ཕུང་པོའི་བདུད།

skandhamāra

See “māra.”

g.1553 skill in the completion of the faculties

dbang po yongs su rdzogs par bya ba la mkhas pa

དབང་པོ་ཡོངས་སུ་རྫོགས་པར་བྱ་བ་ལ་མཁས་པ།

indriyaparipūrīkuśalatā

g.1554 skill in understanding sounds

sgra shes pa la mkhas pa

སྒྲ་ཤེས་པ་ལ་མཁས་པ། rutajñānakauśalya

g.1555 skilled at syllable accomplishment

yi ge mngon par bsgrub pa la mkhas p

ཡི་གེ་མངོན་པར་བསྐྱུབ་པ་ལ་མཁས་པ། akṣaranirhāraśāla

g.1556 skilled in the faculties

dbang po la mkhas pa

དབང་པོ་ལ་མཁས་པ།

indriyakuśala

g.1557 smart

mkhas rig · mkhas pa

མཁས་རིག་མཁས་པ།

vidu

g.1558 Śokavigata

mya ngan bral

ལྷ་དཀྱིལ་ལྷ་ལྷ་ལྷ་

śokavigata

Lit. "Free from Sorrow." Name of one of four gardens in the residence of the bodhisattva great being Dharmodgata, in the city of Gandhavatī.

g.1559 something conjured up by magic sgyu ma

སྐྱུ་མ།

māyā

g.1560 something really worthwhile

snying po

སྤྲིང་པོ།

sāra

g.1561 something that does not exist

dngos po med pa

དངོས་པོ་མེད་པ།

abhāva

g.1562 something that exists

dngos po

དངོས་པོ།

bhāva

g.1563 something to be known

shes par bya · 'tshal bar bgyi

ཤེས་པར་བྱ། · འཚལ་བར་བརྒྱ། prajñāyate

g.1564 sometimes different

mi mnyam pa

མི་མཉམ་པ།

viṣama

g.1565 sorcerer

rig sngags 'chang ba

རིག་སྒྲགས་འཆང་བ།

—

g.1566 sound called out

sgra'i brjod pa

སྒྲའི་བརྗོད་པ།

**ghoṣodāra* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1567 southern region

lho phyogs kyi rgyud

ལྷོ་ཕྱོགས་ཀྱི་རྒྱུད།

dakṣiṇāpatha

A region where the teachings on the perfection of wisdom will spread.

g.1568 sovereignty over an empire

rgyal srid la dbang byed pa

རྒྱལ་སྲིད་ལ་དབང་བྱེད་པ།

cakravartinājyādhipatya

g.1569 space element

nam mkha'i khams

ནམ་མཁའི་ཁམས།

ākāśadhātu

g.1570 space-like inexhaustible accomplishment

nam mkha' ltar mi zad pa mngon par bsgrub pa

ནམ་མཁའ་ལྟར་མི་བཟོ་བ་མངོན་པར་བསྐྱབ་པ། ākāśākṣayābhinirhāra

g.1571 speak back to

phyir zlog

ཕྱིར་སྐྱབ།

pratimantraya · **prativacanam dā* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1572 speak falsely

gzhan du gsung

- གཞན་དུ་གསུང་། anyathavādin
- g.1573 speak harshly
tshig rtsub po smra ཚིག་རུབ་པོ་སྲུ། paruṣāṃ vācāṃ bhāṣ
- g.1574 speak unkind words
mi snyan par smra ba མི་སྒྲན་པར་སྲུ་བ། apriyaṃ vād
- g.1575 speak untruthfully
log par gsung ལོག་པར་གསུང་། vitathavādin
- g.1576 specific cognition
so sor rnam par rig pa སོ་སོར་རྣམ་པར་རིག་པ། prativijñapti
- g.1577 specific feature
bye brag བྱི་བྲག pratiśeṣa
- g.1578 spectacle
dge mtshan དགེ་མཚན། kautūhala
- g.1579 spell
gsang sngags · sngags གསང་སྲགས། · སྲགས། mantra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A formula of words or syllables that are recited aloud or mentally in order to bring about a magical or soteriological effect or result. The term has been etymologized to mean “that which protects (trā) the mind (man)”.

g.1580 spiritual friend

dge ba'i bshes gnyen

དགེ་བའི་བཤེས་གཉེན།

kalyāṇamitra

A spiritual teacher who can contribute to an individual's progress on the spiritual path to awakening and act wholeheartedly for the welfare of students.

g.1581 spiritual superior

bla ma

བླ་མ།

guru

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A spiritual teacher, in particular one with whom one has a personal teacher–student relationship.

g.1582 splendid array of a wheel-turning emperor

'khor los sgyur ba'i bkod pa

འཇོ་རེ་ལོ་ས་སྐུར་བའི་བཀོད་པ། cakravarttivṛyūha

g.1583 splendor

byin · gzi brjid

བྱིན་མེད་གཟི་བརྗིད།

tejas

g.1584 śramaṇa

dge sbyong

དགེ་སྦྱང་།

śramaṇa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A general term applied to spiritual practitioners who live as ascetic mendicants. In Buddhist texts, the term usually refers to Buddhist monastics, but it can also designate a practitioner from other ascetic/monastic spiritual traditions. In this context śramaṇa is often contrasted with the term brāhmaṇa (bram ze), which refers broadly to followers of the Vedic tradition. Any renunciate, not just a Buddhist, could be referred to as a śramaṇa if they were not within the Vedic fold. The epithet Great Śramaṇa is often applied to the Buddha.

g.1585 śrāvaka

nyan thos

ཉན་ཐོས།

śrāvaka

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Sanskrit term śrāvaka, and the Tibetan nyan thos, both derived from the verb “to hear,” are usually defined as “those who hear the teaching from the Buddha and make it heard to others.” Primarily this refers to those disciples of the Buddha who aspire to attain the state of an arhat seeking their own liberation and nirvāṇa. They are the practitioners of the first turning of the wheel of the Dharma on the four noble truths, who realize the suffering inherent in saṃsāra and focus on understanding that there is no independent self. By conquering afflicted mental states (kleśa), they liberate themselves, attaining first the stage of stream enterers at the path of seeing, followed by the stage of once-returners who will be reborn only one more time, and then the stage of non-returners who will no longer be reborn into the desire realm. The final goal is to become an arhat. These four stages are also known as the “four results of spiritual practice.”

g.1586 Śreṇika

bzo sbyangs

བཟོ་སྤྱངས།

śreṇika

Lit. “Artisan Trainer.” A religious mendicant, a śrāvaka, who gained nirvāṇa by listening to this teaching on the perfection of wisdom. See also n.165.

g.1587 śrīvatsa

dpal be'u

དཔལ་བེའུ།

śrīvatsa

Lit. “Lakṣmī’s calf.” One of the symbols adorning the palms of the hands and soles of the feet of the buddhas. Together with the svastika and nandyāvarta, it forms the eightieth minor sign. It is the endless knot, symbolizing compassion.

g.1588 śroto’nugata

rgyun gyi rjes su song ba

རྒྱན་གྱི་རྗེས་སུ་སོང་བ།

śroto ’nugata · srotānugata

Lit. “followed the stream.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1589 standing place

gnas

གནས།

sthāna

g.1590 state in which affliction is not produced

nyon mongs pa mi skye ba nyid

ཉོན་མོངས་པ་མི་སྐྱེ་བ་ཉིད། klesānutpattitā

g.1591 state in which all dharmas are just so

chos thams cad kyi de bzhin nyid

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་དེ་བཞིན་ཉིད།

sarvadharmānām tathatā

Also rendered as the “suchness of all dharmas.”

g.1592 state in which knowledge does not leave anything out

shes pa gcad du med pa nyid

ཤེས་པ་གཅད་དུ་མེད་པ་ཉིད། jñānānācchedyatā

g.1593 state of absolute purity

shin tu rnam par dag pa

ཤིན་ཏུ་རྣམ་པར་དག་པ། atyantaviśuddhitā

g.1594 state of affairs

don

དོན།

artha

g.1595 state of all-knowing

thams cad mkhyen pa nyid

ཐམས་ཅད་མཁྱེན་པ་ཉིད།

sarvajñatva

The state of knowing all possible and actual states of affairs of the past, present, and future (i.e., total omniscience) or knowing all that is most soteriologically relevant, the basic nature of reality (i.e., essential omniscience).

g.1596 state of mind

sems

སེམས། citta

g.1597 state of no thought

sems ma yin pa

སེམས་མ་ཡིན་པ། acittatā

g.1598 state of production

skye ba

སྐྱེ་བ།

utpatti

g.1599 state of visual delusion

mig 'khrul pa

མིག་འཁྲུལ་པ།

cakṣurmohanatā

g.1600 station

skye mched

སྐྱེ་མཆེད།

āyatana

Here station refers to successive stages of formless absorption, namely: station of endless space, station of endless consciousness, station of nothing-at-all, and station of neither perception nor nonperception. In other contexts in this sūtra, āyatana refers to the twelve sense fields; see “sense field.”

g.1601 station of endless consciousness

rnam shes mtha' yas skye mched

རྣམ་ཤེས་མཐའ་ཡས་སྐྱེ་མཆེད།

vijñānānantyāyatana

Second of the four formless realms. The term also refers to the class of gods that dwell there, and the name of the second of the four formless absorptions. The other three realms are the station of endless space, the station of nothing-at-all, and the station of neither perception nor nonperception.

g.1602 station of endless space

nam mkha' mtha' yas skye mched

ནམ་མཁའ་མཐའ་ཡས་སྐྱེ་མཆེད།

ākāśānantyāyatana

First of the four formless realms. The term also refers to the class of gods that dwell there and the name of the first of the four formless absorptions. The other three realms are the station of endless consciousness, the station of nothing-at-all, and the station of neither perception nor nonperception.

g.1603 station of mastery

zil gyis gnon pa'i skye mched

ཟིལ་གྱིས་གཞོན་པའི་སྐྱེ་མཆེད། abhibhāvāyatana

See “eight stations of mastery.”

g.1604 station of neither perception nor nonperception

'du shes med 'du shes med min skye mched

འདུ་ཤེས་མེད་འདུ་ཤེས་མེད་མིན་སྐྱེ་མཆེད།

naiवासamjñānāsamjñāyatana

The highest of the four formless realms. The term also refers to the class of gods that dwell there and the name of the fourth of the four formless absorptions. The other three realms are the station of endless space, the station of endless consciousness, and the station of nothing-at-all.

g.1605 station of nothing-at-all

ci yang med pa'i skye mched

ཅི་ཡང་མེད་པའི་སྐྱེ་མཆེད།

ākimcityāyatana

Third of the four formless realms. The term also refers to the class of gods that dwell there and the third of the four formless absorptions. The other three realms are the station of endless space, the station of endless consciousness, and the station of neither perception nor nonperception.

g.1606 station of the endless-space absorption nam mkha' mtha' yas skye mched kyi snyoms par 'jug pa

ནམ་མཁའ་མཐའ་ཡས་སྐྱེ་མཆེད་ཀྱི་སྣོ་མས་པར་འཇུག་པ།

—

See “station of endless space.”

g.1607 station of the neither perception nor nonperception absorption

'du shes med 'du shes med min skye mched kyi snyoms par 'jug pa

འདུ་ཤེས་མེད་འདུ་ཤེས་མེད་མིན་སྐྱེ་མཆེད་ཀྱི་སྣོ་མས་པར་འཇུག་པ།

—

See “station of neither perception nor nonperception.”

g.1608 station of the nonperception absorption

'du shes med pa'i skye mched kyi snyoms par 'jug pa

འདུ་ཤེས་མེད་པའི་སྐྱེ་མཆེད་ཀྱི་སྣོ་མས་པར་འཇུག་པ།

—

g.1609 station of the nothing-at-all absorption

ci yang med pa'i skye mched kyi snyoms par 'jug pa

ཅི་ཡང་མེད་པའི་སྐྱེ་མཆེད་ཀྱི་སྣོ་མས་པར་འཇུག་པ།

—

See “station of nothing-at-all.”

g.1610 stations of complete immersion

zad par gyi skye mched

ཟད་པར་གྱི་སྐྱེ་མཆེད།

krtsnāyatana

See “ten stations of complete immersion.”

g.1611 statue

sku gzugs

སྐྱ་གཟུགས།

pratimā

g.1612 stay still with a sheep-like obtuseness and say nothing lug ltar lkugs par bya zhing mi smra

ལུག་ལྷར་ལྷུགས་པར་བྱ་ཞིང་མི་སྐྱ། jadaiḍakamūkasadr̥sena

g.1613 stem

tshig

ཚིག།

pada

g.1614 sthitaniścitta

sems med par gnas pa

སེམས་མེད་པར་གནས་པ།

sthitaniścitta

Lit. “firm without mind.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1615 stream enterer

rgyun du zhugs pa

རྒྱུན་དུ་ལྷུགས་པ།

srotaāpanna · kunadī

A person who has entered the “stream” of practice that leads to nirvāṇa. The first of the four attainments on the path of the śrāvakas.

g.1616 stretch out

bre

བྲེ། vitan

g.1617 stretched-out heels

rting pa yangs pa

རྟིང་པ་ཡངས་པ།

āyatapārṣṇī

g.1618 strongly object

sun 'byung ba · sun dbyung ba

སུན་འབྱུང་བ། · སུན་དབྱུང་བ། dūṣaya

g.1619 stūpa

mchod rten

མཚོད་རྟེན།

stūpa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Tibetan translates both stūpa and caitya with the same word, mchod rten, meaning “basis” or “recipient” of “offerings” or “veneration.” Pali: cetiya.

A caitya, although often synonymous with stūpa, can also refer to any site, sanctuary or shrine that is made for veneration, and may or may not contain relics.

A stūpa, literally “heap” or “mound,” is a mounded or circular structure usually containing relics of the Buddha or the masters of the past. It is considered to be a sacred object representing the awakened mind of a buddha, but the symbolism of the stūpa is complex, and its design varies throughout the Buddhist world. Stūpas continue to be erected today as objects of veneration and merit making.

g.1620 Śubhakṛtsna

dge rgyas

དགེ་རྒྱལ།

śubhakṛtsna

Lit. “Those Whose Virtue Is Complete.” The ninth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the third of the three heavens that correspond to the third of the four concentrations.

g.1621 śubhapuṣpitaśuddhi

dge ba'i me tog rgyas shing dag pa

དགེ་བའི་མེ་ཏོག་རྒྱལ་ཤིང་དག་པ།

śubhapuṣpitaśuddhi

Lit. “pure blooming good flowers.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1622 Subhūti

rab 'byor

རབ་འབྱོར།

subhūti

One of the ten great śrāvaka disciples of the Buddha Śākyamuni, known for his profound understanding of emptiness. He plays a major role as an interlocutor of the Buddha in the Prajñāpāramitāsūtras.

g.1623 subject to cessation

'gog pa'i chos can

འགོག་པའི་ཚོས་ཅན། nirodhadharmi

g.1624 subject to change

rnam par 'gyur ba'i chos can

རྣམ་པར་འགྱུར་བའི་ཚོས་ཅན།

vipariṇāmadharmin

g.1625 subject to extinction

zad pa'i chos can

ཟད་པའི་ཚོས་ཅན།

**vyayadharmin* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1626 subsequent realization knowledge

rjes su rtogs pa'i shes pa

རྗེས་སུ་རྟོགས་པའི་ཤེས་པ། anvayañāna

g.1627 sucandra

zla ba bzang po

ལྷ་བ་བཟང་པོ།

sucandra

Lit. "good moon." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1628 suchness

de bzhin nyid

དེ་བཞིན་ཉིད།

tathātoa · tathatā

The quality or condition of things as they really are, which cannot be conveyed in conceptual, dualistic terms.

g.1629 suchness of all dharmas

chos thams cad kyi de bzhin nyid

ཚོས་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་དེ་བཞིན་ཉིད།

sarvadharmānām tathatā

Also rendered as the “state in which all dharmas are just so.”

g.1630 suchness of the dharma-constituent chos kyi dbyings kyi de bzhin nyid

ཚོས་ཀྱི་དབྱིངས་ཀྱི་དེ་བཞིན་ཉིད།

—

g.1631 suchness of the very limit of reality

yang dag pa'i mtha'i de bzhin nyid

ཡང་དག་པའི་མཐའི་དེ་བཞིན་ཉིད།

—

g.1632 Sudarśana

shin tu mthong ba

ཤིན་ཏུ་མཐོང་བ།

sudarśana

Lit. “Those Who See Well.” The sixteenth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the fourth of the five Pure Abodes.

g.1633 śuddhapratibhāsa

snang ba dag pa

སྣང་བ་དག་པ།

śuddhapratibhāsa

Lit. “pure and radiant.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1634 śuddhasāra

dag pa dam pa

དག་པ་དམ་པ།

śuddhasāra

Lit. “pure holy.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

(Skt. mss. have śuddhāvāsa, “pure abode,” or śuddhābhāsa, “pure illumination”; however, Kimura give śuddhasāra in a later list.)

g.1635 Śuddhāvāsa

gnas gtsang ma

གནས་གཙང་མ།

śuddhāvāsa

Lit. “Those in the Pure Abodes.” The five Pure Abodes are the highest heavens of the form realm and result from mastery of the fourth meditative absorption. They comprise the heavens of Avṛha, Atapa, Sudṛśa, Sudarśana, and Akaniṣṭha. The Pure Abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, are never destroyed during the cycles of the destruction and creation of the universe. Rebirth there is the karmic result of accomplishing the fourth concentration.

g.1636 Sudharmā

chos bzang

ཚོས་བཟང་།

sudharmā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The assembly hall in the center of Sudarśana, the city in the Heaven of the Thirty-Three (Trāyastriṃśa). It has a central throne for Indra (Śakra) and thirty-two thrones arranged to its right and left for the other thirty-two devas that make up the eponymous thirty-three devas of Indra’s paradise. Indra’s own palace is to the north of this assembly hall.

g.1637 Sudṛśa

gya nom snang ba

གྱལ་ལོ་སྐྱང་བ།

sudṛśa

Lit. “Good Looking.” The fifteenth of the seventeen heavens of the form realm; also the name of the gods living there. In the form realm, which is structured according to the four concentrations and pure abodes, or Śuddhāvāsa, it is listed as the third of the five Pure Abodes.

g.1638 Sudurjayā

shin tu sbyang dka’ ba

ཤེན་ཏུ་སྤྱང་དཀར་བ།

sudurjayā

Lit. “Invincible.” The fifth level of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas. See “ten bodhisattva levels.”

g.1639 suffering

sdug bsngal

སྤུག་བསྐྱེད།

duḥkha

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The first of the four truths of the noble ones. The term “suffering” includes all essentially unsatisfactory experiences of life in cyclic existence, whether physical or mental. These comprise (1) the suffering of suffering, i.e., the physical sensations and mental experiences that are self-evident as suffering and toward which spontaneous feelings of aversion arise; (2) the suffering of change, i.e., all experiences that are normally recognized as pleasant and desirable, but which are nonetheless suffering in that persistent indulgence in these always results in changing attitudes of dissatisfaction and boredom; and (3) the suffering of the pervasive conditioning underlying the round of birth, aging, and death.

g.1640 suffering existence

srid pa

སྲིད་པ།

bhava

See “existence.”

g.1641 suffused

yongs su bsgos pa

ཡོངས་སུ་བསྐྱོལ་པ། paribhāvita

g.1642 sugata

bde bar gshegs pa

བདེ་བར་གཤེགས་པ།

sugata

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the standard epithets of the buddhas. A recurrent explanation offers three different meanings for su- that are meant to show the special qualities of “accomplishment of one’s own purpose” (svārthasampad) for a complete buddha. Thus, the Sugata is “well” gone, as in the expression su-rūpa (“having a good form”); he is gone “in a way that he shall not come back,” as in the expression su-naṣṭa-jvara (“a fever that has utterly gone”); and he has gone “without any remainder” as in the expression su-pūrṇa-ghaṭa (“a pot that is completely full”). According to Buddhaghoṣa, the term means that the way the Buddha went (Skt. gata) is good (Skt. su) and where he went (Skt. gata) is good (Skt. su).

g.1643 Śuklavipaśyanā level

dkar po rnam par mthong ba'i sa

དཀར་པོ་རྣམ་པར་མཐོང་བའི་ས།

śuklavipaśyanābhūmi

Lit. “Bright Insight level.” The first of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the level of an ordinary person until reaching buddhahood. See “ten levels.”

g.1644 Sumeru

ri rab

རི་རབ།

sumeru

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

According to ancient Buddhist cosmology, this is the great mountain forming the axis of the universe. At its summit is Sudarśana, home of Śakra and his thirty-two gods, and on its flanks live the asuras. The mount has four sides facing the cardinal directions, each of which is made of a different precious stone. Surrounding it are several mountain ranges and the great ocean where the four principal island continents lie: in the south, Jambudvīpa (our world); in the west, Godānīya; in the north, Uttarakuru; and in the east, Pūrvavideha. Above it are the abodes of the desire realm gods. It is variously referred to as Meru, Mount Meru, Sumeru, and Mount Sumeru.

g.1645 summaries

ched du brjod pa

ཚེད་དུ་བརྗོད་པ།

udāna

As one of the twelve aspects of the wheel of Dharma, it means teachings that were not given in response to a request.

g.1646 Sunirmita

rab 'phrul dga'

རབ་འཕྲུལ་དགའ།

sunirmita

Head god of the Nirmāṇarati class of gods.

g.1647 superhuman

mi'i las 'das pa

མིའི་ལས་འདས་པ། atīkrāntamānuṣyaka

g.1648 superiority of merit

bsod nams kyi khyad par

བསོད་ནམས་ཀྱི་ལྷན་པར།

**punyaviśeṣa* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1649 supplying benefit

phan pa sgrub pa

ཕན་པ་སྐྱབ་པ། hitopasaṃhāra

g.1650 support

rten

རྟེན།

gati

g.1651 supporting

gnas byed pa

གནས་བྱེད་པ།

layana

g.1652 suppressing meditation

gnon cing sgom

གཞོན་ཅིང་སྐྱོམ།

—

g.1653 *supra*tiṣṭhita

rab tu gnas pa

རབ་ཏུ་གནས་པ།

*supra*tiṣṭhita

Lit. “good standing.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1654 supreme

mthar thug par 'gro

མཐར་ཐུག་པར་འགྲོ།

**niṣṭhāṃ gam* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1655 śūraṅgama

dpa' bar 'gro ba

དཔའ་བར་འགྲོ་བ།

śūraṅgama

Lit. “heroic march.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1656 Surendrabodhi

su ren+d+ra bo d+hi

སུ་རེ་རྒྱ་བོ་རྗེ།

surendrabodhi

An Indian paṇḍita resident in Tibet during the late eighth and early ninth centuries.

g.1657 surpassing aspiration lhag pa'i bsam pa

ལྷག་པའི་བསམ་པ། adhyāśaya

g.1658 Sūryagarbha

nyi ma'i snying po

ཉི་མའི་སྙིང་པོ།

sūryagarbha

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1659 Sūryamaṇḍalaprabhāsottaraśrī

nyi ma'i dkyil 'khor sgron ma mchog gi dpal

ཉིམའི་དགྲིལ་འཁོར་སྒྲོན་མ་མཚོག་གི་དཔལ།

sūryamaṇḍalaprabhāsottaraśrī

Lit. “Glorious Supreme Clear Light of the Sun Disk.” A buddha in a world system called Vigatarajasamcayā, in the intermediate southwest direction.

g.1660 sūryapradīpa

nyi ma'i sgron ma

ཉིམའི་སྒྲོན་མ།

sūryapradīpa

Lit. “sun lamp.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1661 Sūryapratibhāsa

nyi ma'i 'od

ཉིམའི་འོད།

sūryapratibhāsa

Lit. “Sunlight.” A bodhisattva from a world system called Vigatarajasamcayā, in the intermediate southwest direction, who comes to pay homage and listen to the Buddha.

g.1662 Susamprasthita

shin tu yang dag zhugs pa

ཤིན་ཏུ་ཡང་དག་ལྷགས་པ།

susamprasthita

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1663 Susārvthavaha

ded dpon bzang po

དེད་དཔོན་བཟང་པོ།

susārvthavaha

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1664 sustained thought

dpyod pa

དཔྱོད་པ། vicāra

g.1665 sustaining power

byin gyis brlabs pa

བྱིན་གྱིས་བརྒྱབས་པ། adhiṣṭhāna

g.1666 Susthitamati

blo gros rab gnas

སློ་གྲོས་རབ་གནས།

susthitamati

Lit. “Stable Intellect.” A god living in the buddhfield of the tathāgata Samantakusuma.

g.1667 sūtra

mdo

མདོ།

sūtra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Sanskrit literally “a thread,” this is an ancient term for teachings that were memorized and orally transmitted in an essential form. Therefore, it can also mean “pithy statements,” “rules,” and “aphorisms.” In Buddhism it refers to the Buddha’s teachings, whatever their length. It is one of the three divisions of the Buddha’s teachings, the other two being Vinaya and Abhidharma. It is also used in contrast with the tantra teachings, though a number of important tantras have sūtra in their title. It is also classified as one of the nine or twelve aspects of the Dharma, in which context sūtra means “a teaching given in prose.”

g.1668 Suvarṇapuṣpa

gser gyi me tog

གསེར་གྱི་མེ་ཏོག།

suvarṇapuṣpa

Lit. “The One Who Had the Golden Flowers.” Future name of the nun Gaṅgadevī when she becomes a bodhisattva in the buddhfield of Akṣobhya, and also when she becomes a buddha, during the eon called Tārakopama.

g.1669 Suvikrāntavikrāmin

rab kyi rtsal gyis rnam par gnon pa

རབ་གྱི་སྤུལ་གྱིས་རྣམ་པར་གཞོན་པ།

suvikrāntavikrāmin

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1670 Suyāma

rab 'thab bral

རབ་འབབ་བྲལ།

suyāma

Head of the Yāma gods.

g.1671 svastika

bkra shis

བཀྲ་ཤིས།

svastika

Lit. “may it be well.” One of the symbols adorning the palms of the hands and soles of the feet of the buddhas. Together with the śrīvatsa and the nandyāvarta, it is included in the eightieth minor sign. It represents the unchanging.

g.1672 take after

rjes su skyes

རྗེས་སུ་སྐྱེས།

anujan

g.1673 take away

'jig par bgyid pa

འཇིག་པར་བགྱིད་པ། apahāraka

g.1674 take possession of a buddhfield

sangs rgyas kyi zhing yongs su 'dzin

སངས་རྒྱས་ཀྱི་ཞིང་ཡོངས་སུ་འཛིན། buddhakṣetraṃ parigrah

g.1675 take the mark that makes a dharma a dharma as your measure

chos rnam kyī chos kyī mtshan nyid tshad mar byas na

ཚོས་རྣམས་ཀྱི་ཚོས་ཀྱི་མཚན་ཉིད་ཚད་མར་བྱས་ན། dharmāṅgāṃ dharmā[lakṣaṇa]tāṃ pramāṅīkṛtya

g.1676 take up

'dzin

འདྲེན།

udgrah

g.1677 tale

rtogs pa brjod pa

རྟོགས་པ་བརྗོད་པ།

avadāna

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the twelve types of the Buddha's teaching (dvādaśāṅga). In this sense, the Sanskrit word avadāna means "exceptional feat" or "magnificent deed," but in the context of the twelve types of buddhavacana the term came to refer to the narrative accounts of such deeds.

g.1678 tamopagata

mun pa dang bral ba

མུན་པ་དང་བྲལ་བ།

tamopagata

Lit. "separated from gloominess." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1679 Tanū level

bsrabs pa'i sa

བསྐྱབས་པའི་ས།

tanūbhūmi

Lit. "Refinement level." The fifth of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the level of an ordinary person until reaching buddhahood. See "ten levels."

g.1680 Tārakopama

skar ma lta bu

སྐར་མ་ལྷ་བུ།

tārakopama

Lit. "Starlike." Name of a future eon.

g.1681 tathāgata

de bzhin gshegs pa

དེ་བཞིན་གཤེགས་པ།

tathāgata

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A frequently used synonym for buddha. According to different explanations, it can be read as tathā-gata, literally meaning “one who has thus gone,” or as tathā-āgata, “one who has thus come.” Gata, though literally meaning “gone,” is a past passive participle used to describe a state or condition of existence. Tatha(tā), often rendered as “suchness” or “thusness,” is the quality or condition of things as they really are, which cannot be conveyed in conceptual, dualistic terms. Therefore, this epithet is interpreted in different ways, but in general it implies one who has departed in the wake of the buddhas of the past, or one who has manifested the supreme awakening dependent on the reality that does not abide in the two extremes of existence and quiescence. It is also often used as a specific epithet of the Buddha Śākyamuni.

In this text:

In this text, Tathāgata (capitalized) refers to the Buddha Śākyamuni. One possible translation is “realized one.”

g.1682 tathāgata assembly

de bzhin gshegs pa 'dus pa

དེ་བཞིན་གཤེགས་པ་འདུས་པ།

tathāgatasamṇipāta

See “tathāgata” and also n.576.

g.1683 tathāgatadarśana

de bzhin gshegs pa mthong ba

དེ་བཞིན་གཤེགས་པ་མཐོང་བ།

tathāgatadarśana

Lit. “that gives sight of the tathāgatas.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1684 tathāgatahood

de bshin gshegs pa nyid

དེ་བཞིན་གཤེགས་པ་ཉིད།

tathāgatatva

See “tathāgata.”

g.1685 tathatāsthitiniścitta

de bzhin nyid la gnas shing sems med pa

དེ་བཞིན་ཉིད་ལ་གནས་ཤིང་སེམས་མེད་པ། tathatāsthitinīścitta

Lit. “stability of nonthought in suchness.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1686 teacher

ston pa · mkhan po

སློན་པ། · མཁན་པོ།

śāstr · upādhyāya

g.1687 tejodhātvaparyanta

me'i kham mu med pa

མེའི་ཁམས་མུ་མེད་པ།

tejodhātvaparyanta

Lit. “limitless fire element.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1688 tejovatin

gzi brjid yod pa

གཟི་བརྗིད་ཡོད་པ།

tejovatin

Lit. “possessing grandeur.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1689 temple

gtsug lag khang

གཏུག་ལག་ཁང།

vihāra

g.1690 ten bodhisattva levels

byang chub sems dpa'i sa bcu

བྱང་ལྷན་སེམས་དཔའི་ས་བརྒྱ།

daśa bodhisattvabhūmayāḥ

In this text, two sets of ten levels are mentioned. One set pertains to the progress of an individual practitioner who, starting from the level of an ordinary person, sequentially follows the path of a śrāvaka, a pratyekabuddha, and then a bodhisattva on their way to complete buddhahood (see “ten levels” for a detailed explanation of this set).

The other set is more common in Mahāyāna literature, although there are variations, and refers to the ten levels traversed by an individual practitioner who has already become a bodhisattva: (1) Pramuditā (Joyful), in which one rejoices at realizing a partial aspect of the truth; (2) Vimalā (Stainless), in which one is free from all defilement; (3) Prabhākarī (Light Maker), in which one radiates the light of wisdom; (4) Arciṣmatī (Radiant), in which the radiant flame of wisdom burns away earthly desires; (5) Sudurjayā (Invincible), in which one surmounts the illusions of darkness, or ignorance, as the Middle Way; (6) Abhimukhī (Directly Witnessed), in which supreme wisdom begins to manifest; (7) Dūraṅgamā (Far Reaching), in which one rises above the states of the lower vehicles of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas; (8) Acalā (Immovable), in which one dwells firmly in the truth of the Middle Way and cannot be perturbed by anything; (9) Sādhumatī (Auspicious Intellect), in which one preaches the Dharma unimpededly; and (10) Dharmameghā (Cloud of Dharma), in which one benefits all sentient beings with Dharma, just as a cloud rains impartially upon everything.

g.1691 ten forbearances

bzod pa bcu

བཟོད་པ་བརྒྱ།

daśakṣānti

g.1692 ten levels

sa bcu

ས་བརྒྱ།

daśabhūmi

In this text, two sets of ten levels are mentioned. One set refers to the standard list of ten levels most commonly found in the general Mahāyāna literature; for a detailed explanation of this set, see ten bodhisattva levels. The other set, common to Prajñāpāramitā literature, charts the progress of an individual practitioner who, starting from the level of an ordinary person, sequentially follows the path of a śrāvaka, pratyekabuddha, and then a bodhisattva on their way to complete buddhahood.

The first three levels pertain to an ordinary person preparing themselves for the path; the next four (4-7) chart the path of a śrāvaka; level eight aligns with the practices of a pratyekabuddha; level nine refers to the path of bodhisattvas; and finally, level ten is the attainment of buddhahood. These ten levels comprise (1) the level of Śuklavipaśyanā, (2) the level of Gotra, (3)

the level of Aṣṭamaka, (4) the level of Darśana, (5) the level of Tanū, (6) the level of Vītarāga, (7) the level of Kṛtāvin, (8) the Pratyekabuddha level, (9) the Bodhisattva level, and (10) the Buddha level of perfect awakening.

g.1693 ten mindfulnesses

rjes su dran pa bcu

རྗེས་སུ་བྲན་པ་བརྒྱ།

daśānusmṛti

Mindfulness of the Buddha, mindfulness of the Dharma, mindfulness of the Saṅgha, mindfulness of morality, mindfulness of giving away, mindfulness of the gods, mindfulness of disgust, mindfulness of death, mindfulness of what is included in the body, and mindfulness of breathing in and out.

g.1694 ten perfections

pha rol tu phyin pa bcu

ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་ཕྱིན་པ་བརྒྱ།

daśapāramitā

This comprises the most common six perfections to which are added the four perfections of skillful means, prayer, power, and knowledge.

g.1695 ten powers

stobs bcu

སྟོབས་བརྒྱ།

daśabala

A category of the distinctive qualities of a tathāgata. They are knowing what is possible and what is impossible; knowing the results of actions or the ripening of karma; knowing the various inclinations of sentient beings; knowing the various elements; knowing the supreme and lesser faculties of sentient beings; knowing the paths that lead to all destinations of rebirth; knowing the concentrations, liberations, absorptions, equilibriums, afflictions, purifications, and abidings; knowing previous lives; knowing the death and rebirth of sentient beings; and knowing the cessation of the defilements. See also “five powers.”

g.1696 ten practices

spyod pa bcu

སྟོན་པ་བརྒྱ།

—

According to the list in Madhyāntavibhāga 5.9, the ten practices are writing out, worshiping, making a gift of, listening to, reading, taking up in the mind, explicating, reciting to oneself what one has memorized of, contemplating, and meditating on the perfection of wisdom.

g.1697 ten stations of complete immersion

zad par gyi skye mched bcu

ཟད་པར་གྱི་སྐྱེ་མཆེད་བརྟུ།

krtsna

These are the ten meditations on immersion into earth, water, fire, and wind; immersion into blue, yellow, red, and white; and immersion into space and consciousness, where nothing but the earth constituent and so on appear to the practitioner's mind.

g.1698 ten tathāgata powers

de bzhin gshegs pa'i stobs bcu

དེ་བཞིན་གཤེགས་པའི་སྟོབས་བརྟུ།

daśatathāgatabala

See "ten powers."

g.1699 ten unwholesome actions

mi dge ba'i las kyi lam bcu · mi dge ba bcu'i las kyi lam

མི་དགེ་བའི་ལས་ཀྱི་ལས་བརྟུ། . མི་དགེ་བ་བརྟུའི་ལས་ཀྱི་ལས།

daśākuśalakarmapatha

There are three physical unwholesome or nonvirtuous actions: killing, stealing, and illicit sex. There are four verbal nonvirtues: lying, backbiting, insulting, and babbling nonsense. And three mental nonvirtues: coveting, malice, and wrong view.

g.1700 ten wholesome actions

dge ba bcu'i las

དགེ་བ་བརྟུའི་ལས།

daśakuśalakarma

These are the opposite of the ten unwholesome actions. There are three physical virtues: saving lives, giving, and sexual propriety. There are four verbal virtues: truthfulness, reconciling discussions, gentle speech, and religious speech. There are three mental virtues: a loving attitude, a generous attitude, and right views.

g.1701 tense up

kun tu zhum · yongs su zhum · zhum

ཀུན་ཏུ་བྱུང་། ་ ཡོངས་སུ་བྱུང་། ་ བྱུང་། saṅḍi

g.1702 terrible form of life

ngan song

ངན་སྲིད་། apāya

g.1703 the part between the collarbones is filled in thal gong rgyas pa

ཐལ་གོང་རྒྱས་པ།

citāntarāṃsa

Mvy.

g.1704 the real

yang dag pa

ཡང་དག་པ།

bhūtata

Lit. “genuineness” or “authenticity.” The quality or condition of things as they really are, which cannot be conveyed in conceptual, dualistic terms. Akin to other terms rendered here as “as it really is,” “suchness,” and “natural state.”

g.1705 there-is

yod pa

ཡོད་པ། astitā

g.1706 there-is-not

med pa

མེད་པ།

nāstitā

g.1707 thing that really exists

dngos po yod pa

དངོས་པོ་ཡིད་པ།

bhāva

g.1708 thinking mind

yid

ཡིད། manas

g.1709 thinking-mind consciousness constituent yid kyi rnam par shes pa'i khams

ཡིད་ཀྱི་རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པའི་ཁམས།

manovijñānadhātu

One of the eighteen constituents.

g.1710 thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening

byang chub kyi phyogs kyi chos sum cu rtsa bdun

· byang chub kyi phyogs kyi chos rnams

བྱང་ཆུབ་ཀྱི་ཕྱོགས་ཀྱི་ཚོས་སྤྲུལ་བྱུང་བ་དུམ། · བྱང་ཆུབ་ཀྱི་ཕྱོགས་ཀྱི་ཚོས་རྣམས།

saptatrimśabodhipakṣadharmā

Thirty-seven practices that lead to the awakened state: the four applications of mindfulness, the four right efforts, the four legs of miraculous power, the five faculties, the five powers, the eightfold noble path, and the seven limbs of awakening.

g.1711 thirty-two major marks of a great person

skyes bu chen po'i mtshan sum cu rtsa gnyis

སྐྱེས་བུ་ཚེན་པོའི་མཚན་སྤྲུལ་བྱུང་གཉིས། dvātriṃśanmahāpuruṣalakṣaṇa

For their enumeration in this text, see 73.89.

g.1712 those in training

slob pa

སློབ་པ།

śaikṣa

g.1713 those with a notion that something is being apprehended

dmigs pa'i 'du shes can

དམིགས་པའི་འདུ་ཤེས་ཅན།

upalambhasamjñin

g.1714 thought of awakening

byang chub kyi sems

བྱང་ལྷན་གྱི་སེམས།

bodhicitta

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In the general Mahāyāna teachings, bodhicitta, the mind of awakening, is the intention or the strong aspiration to attain awakening for the sake of all sentient beings. Its two aspects on the relative level of truth are famously summarized in Śāntideva's Bodhicaryāvatāra (chapter 1, verses 15, 16):

“Bodhicitta, the awakened mind, is known in brief to have two aspects: First, aspiring, bodhicitta in intention; Then active bodhicitta, practical engagement. These correspond to the wish to go and then actually setting out.” On the level of absolute truth, bodhicitta is the realization of emptiness or the awakened mind itself.

g.1715 thought of dedication

yongs su bsngo ba'i sems

ཡོངས་སུ་བསྐྱོབ་པའི་སེམས། pariṇāmanācitta

g.1716 thought-production

sems bskyed pa

སེམས་བསྐྱེད་པ། cittotpāda

g.1717 thousand world systems

stong gi 'jig rten gyi khams · stong spyi phud kyi 'jig rten gyi khams

སྟོང་གི་འཛིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ཁམས། · སྟོང་སྤྱི་ཕུད་གྱི་འཛིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ཁམས།

sāhasralokadhātu

In Buddhist cosmology, a universe that itself contains a thousand world systems, each made up of its own Sumeru, four continents, sun, moon, and god realms.

g.1718 thousandth one hundred millionth part

bye ba brgya'i cha

བྱི་བ་བརྒྱའི་ཚ། koṭīśahasratamī

g.1719 three aggregates of merit

phung po gsum pa

ཕུང་པོ་གསུམ་པ།

triskandhaka

According to the bod rgya tshig mdzod chen mo, it is (merit made from) confession, rejoicing, and dedication, or confession, rejoicing, and requesting the turning of the wheel of Dharma.

g.1720 three fetters

kun tu sbyor ba gsum

ཀུན་ཏུ་སྦྱོར་བ་གསུམ།

trisaṃyojana

The view of the perishable collection, doubt, and grasping rules and rituals as absolute.

g.1721 three gateways to liberation

rnam par thar pa'i sgo gsum

རྣམ་པར་ཐར་པའི་སློ་གསུམ།

trīṇi vimokṣamukhāni

Emptiness, signlessness, wishlessness.

g.1722 Three Jewels

dkon mchog gsum

དཀོན་མཚོག་གསུམ།

trīṇi ratnāni

The Buddha, Dharma, and Saṅgha—the three objects of Buddhist refuge. In the Tibetan rendering, “the three rare and supreme ones.”

g.1723 three knowledges

rig pa gsum

རིག་པ་གསུམ།

trividyaḥ

The three knowledges are a worthy one's three clairvoyant knowledges of past lives, of where and when all die and where they will take birth, and of the extinction of outflows.

g.1724 three planes of existence

srid pa gsum

སྤྱིད་པ་གསུམ།

tribhava

The abodes of beings living below, above, and upon the surface of the earth.

g.1725 three realms

kham s gsum

ཁམས་གསུམ། tridhātu

The desire realm, form realm, and formless realm.

g.1726 three sorts of miracles

cho 'phrul nam pa gsum

ཚོ་འཕྲུལ་རྣམ་པ་གསུམ།

—

The three sorts of miraculous powers, as found in Bṛ3 1.142: “(1) the miracles of meditative stabilization, (2) wonder-working miracles, and (3) dharma-illuminating miracles. Among them, the miracles of meditative stabilization are twofold based on two meditative stabilizations: the miracles of the meditative stabilization called the samādhirāja meditative stabilization, and the miracles of the meditative stabilization called simhavikrīḍita. There are also two wonder-working miracles: wonder-working by magically creating [a great tower out of flowers], and wonder-working by sustaining [it up in the air and so on]. And there are two dharma-illuminating miracles as well: the miracle of teaching in [many] world systems, and the miracle of assembling a retinue.”

g.1727 three spheres

'khor gsum

འཁོར་གསུམ། triṃḍala

g.1728 three time periods

dus gsum

དུས་གསུམ།

trikāla

The past, present, and future.

g.1729 three types of omniscience

thams cad mkhyen pa nyid gsum po

ཐམས་ཅད་མཁྱེན་པ་ཉིད་གསུམ་པོ།

trisarvajñatva

The three types of omniscience, as described in this text, are the all-knowledge of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas; the knowledge of path aspects of bodhisattva great beings; and the knowledge of all aspects which pertain to the tathāgatas. These are explained in detail in 63.174.

g.1730 three vehicles

theg pa gsum

ཐེག་པ་གསུམ།

triyāna

The vehicles of the śrāvakas, pratyekabuddhas, and bodhisattvas.

g.1731 three-robe wearer

chos gos gsum pa

ཚོས་གོས་གསུམ་པ། traicīvarikah

g.1732 tightening up the mind and perfectly settling it down

sems rab tu 'dzin cing / yang dag par rab tu 'jog pa

སེམས་རབ་རྒྱ་འཛིན་ཅིང་། ཡང་དག་པར་རབ་རྒྱ་འཛོག་པ། cittaṃ pragṛhṇāti samyak pradadhāti

g.1733 time it takes to blink

yud tsam

ཡུད་ཅེས། nimeśa

g.1734 tiny particle

rdul phra rab

རུལ་ཕྱ་རབ།

paramāṇu

g.1735 tīrthika

mu stegs can

མུ་སྟེགས་ཅན།

tīrthika

An ascetic or mendicant follower of a non-Buddhist philosophy or religion.

g.1736 token

rtags

རྟགས།

liṅga

See n.233.

g.1737 tolerant type

dang du len pa'i rang bzhin can

དང་དུ་ལེན་པའི་རང་བཞིན་ཅན།

adhivāsanajātīyo

g.1738 toleration

bzod pa

བཟོད་པ།

kṣamaṇā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A term meaning acceptance, forbearance, or patience. As the third of the six perfections, patience is classified into three kinds: the capacity to tolerate abuse from sentient beings, to tolerate the hardships of the path to buddhahood, and to tolerate the profound nature of reality. As a term referring to a bodhisattva's realization, dharmakṣānti (chos la bzod pa) can refer to the ways one becomes "receptive" to the nature of Dharma, and it can be an abbreviation of anutpattikadharmakṣānti, "forbearance to the unborn nature, or nonproduction, of dharmas."

g.1739 tongue consciousness constituent lce'i rnam par shes pa'i kham

ལྷེའི་རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པའི་ཁམས།

jihvāvijñānadhātu

One of the eighteen constituents.

g.1740 torn-asunder perception

rnam par 'thor ba'i 'du shes

རྣམ་པར་འཐོར་བའི་འདུ་ཤེས།

vikṣiptakasaṃjñā

g.1741 town

grong khyer

གོང་ཁྱེར། nagara

g.1742 trailokyānabhiviniṣṭa

'jig rten gsum la mngon par ma zhen pa

འཇིག་རྟེན་གསུམ་ལ་མངོན་པར་མ་ཞེན་པ།

trailokyānabhiviniṣṭa

Lit. "that does not settle down on the three worlds." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1743 transcendental knowledge

ye shes

ཡེ་ཤེས།

jñāna

This term denotes the mode of awareness of a realized being. Although all sentient beings possess the potential for actualizing transcendental knowledge within their mind streams, mental obscurations make them appear instead as aspects of mundane consciousness. Also known as "pristine awareness," "primordial wisdom," "primordial awareness," "gnosis," or the like.

g.1744 transmit

lung dbog

ལུང་དབོག་ deśaya

g.1745 Trāyastriṃśa

sum cu rtsa gsum · sum cu rtsa gsum pa

སུམ་རྩུཅ་གསུམ། · སུམ་རྩུཅ་གསུམ་པ། trāyastriṃśa · trayastriṃśa

Lit. “Thirty-Three.” It is the second of the six heavens in the desire realm; also the name of the gods living there. The paradise of Śatakratu on the summit of Sumeru where there are thirty-three leading deities, hence the name.

g.1746 tree-root dweller

shing drung pa

ཤིང་རྩུང་པ། vṛkṣamūlika

g.1747 trifling material possession

zang zing cung zad tsam

ཟང་ཟིང་ཅུང་ཟད་ཅམ།

āmiṣakiñcitka

g.1748 trimaṇḍalapariśuddha

'khor gsum yongs su dag pa

འཁོར་གསུམ་ཡོངས་སུ་དག་པ།

trimaṇḍalapariśuddha

Lit. “purified of the three spheres.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1749 true dharmic nature

chos nyid

ཚོས་ཉིད།

dharmatā

See “true nature of dharmas.”

g.1750 true nature of dharmas

chos nyid

ཚོས་ཉིད།

dharmatā

“True nature of dharmas” renders dharmatā (chos nyid). In dharmatā the -tā ending is the English “-ness.” The dharmā is an attribute of a dharmīn (an “attribute possessor”). The attribute is the ultimate, emptiness. The attribute possessors are all phenomena. So, it means “the true nature [= -ness] of the attribute [emptiness].” The issue is further complicated by the widespread use of the word dharma as phenomenon (as in “all dharmas”) and so on. In such contexts it is not a word for the ultimate attribute, but for any phenomenon.

g.1751 true nature of dharmas that is never ruined

yongs su mi nyams pa'i chos nyid

ཡོངས་སུ་མི་ཉམས་པའི་ཚོས་ཉིད། aparihāṇadharmatā

g.1752 true reality

yang dag pa'i don

ཡང་དག་པའི་དོན། bhūtārtha

g.1753 truly existent

yod pa nyid

ཡོད་པ་ཉིད། sadbhūta

g.1754 turn back

ldog

ལྡོག vivart

g.1755 Tuṣita

dga' ldan

དགའ་ལྡན།

tuṣita

Lit. “The Contented.” The fourth of the six heavens of the desire realm; also the name of the gods living there. It is the paradise in which the Buddha Śākyamuni lived as the tenth level bodhisattva Śvetaketu (dam pa tog dkar po) and regent, prior to his birth in this world, and where all future buddhas dwell prior to their awakening. At present the regent of Tuṣita is the bodhisattva Maitreya, the future buddha.

g.1756 twelve aspects of the wheel of Dharma

chos kyi 'khor lo nam pa bcu gnyis

ཚོས་གྱི་འཁོར་ལོ་རྣམ་པ་བརྒྱུག་ཉིས།

—

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The classification of all aspects of the Buddha's teachings into twelve types: sūtra, geya, vyākaraṇa, gāthā, udāna, nidāna, avadāna, itivorṭtaka, jātaka, vaipulya, adbhutadharmā, and upadeśa.

Respectively, the sūtras, literally "threads," does not mean entire texts as in the general meaning of sūtra but the prose passages within texts; the geyas are the verse versions of preceding prose passages; the vyākaraṇas are prophecies; the gāthās are stand-alone verses; the udānas are teachings not given in response to a request; the nidānas are the introductory sections; the avadānas are accounts of the previous lives of individuals who were alive at the time of the Buddha; the itivorṭtakas are biographies of buddhas and bodhisattvas in the past; the jātakas are the Buddha's accounts of his own previous lifetimes; the vaipulyas are teachings that expand upon a certain subject; the adbhutadharmas are descriptions of miracles; and the upadeśas are explanations of terms and categories.

g.1757 twelve links of dependent origination

rten cing 'brel bar 'byung ba'i yan lag bcu gnyis

རྟེན་ཅིང་འབྲེལ་བར་འབྱུང་བའི་ཡན་ལག་བརྒྱུག་ཉིལ།

dvādaśāṅge pratītyasamutpāde

The twelve causal links that perpetuate life in cyclic existence; starting with ignorance and ending with death.

g.1758 twelve sense fields

skye mched bcu gnyis

སྐྱེ་མཚན་བརྒྱུག་ཉིལ།

dvādaśāyatana

These comprise the inner six sense fields and the outer six sense fields.

g.1759 twenty surpassing aspirations

lhag pa'i bsam pa nyi shu

ལྷག་པའི་བསམ་པ་ཉིལ།

vimśati adhyāśaya

Bṭ1 na, 39a3–b3 lists the following: (1–3) faith in the Buddha, Dharma, and Saṅgha (the finest aspiration); (4) for morality (moral aspiration); (5–9) aspiration for the perfections (surpassing aspiration for the other five perfections); (10–13) aspiration for the profound selflessness of persons and dharmas, the ultimate, and the reality of dharmas (aspiration for the real dharmas); (14–15) a single-pointed mind and clairvoyance (inconceivable aspiration); (16) aspiration to establish beings in the wholesome; (17–18) the pure aspiration of the ninth and tenth levels; and (19–20) aspiration for the inconceivable force of a buddha's clairvoyance, etc.

g.1760 twinned muslin scarf

ras bcos bu

རས་བཙེས་བུ། dūṣyayugam

g.1761 ultimate

don dam pa

དོན་དམ་པ།

paramārtha

Of final truth or reality. Also rendered as “ultimate reality.”

g.1762 ultimate reality

don dam pa

དོན་དམ་པ།

paramārtha

See “ultimate.”

g.1763 ultimate truth

don dam pa'i bden pa

དོན་དམ་པའི་བདེན་པ། paramārthasatya

g.1764 ultimately

don dam par

དོན་དམ་པར།

paramārthataḥ

g.1765 unaccompanied mtshungs par mi ldan

མཚུངས་པར་མི་ལྡན། asamprayukta

- g.1766 unadulterated ma 'dres pa མ་འདྲེས་པ། aśabala
- g.1767 unafflicted
nyon monggs pa med pa ཉོན་མོངས་པ་མེད་པ། niḥkleśa
- g.1768 unaltered nature
gzhan ma yin pa'i rang bzhin གཙན་མ་ཡིན་པའི་རང་བཞིན། ananyathābhāva
- g.1769 unaltered suchness
gzhan ma yin pa de bzhin nyid གཙན་མ་ཡིན་པ་དེ་བཞིན་ཉིད། ananyatathatā
- g.1770 unattached
chags pa ma mchis pa ཆགས་པ་མ་མཆིས་པ། asaṅga
- g.1771 unattractive
'dod chags dang bral ba'i chos can འདོད་ཆགས་དང་བྲལ་བའི་ཚོས་ཅན། virāgadharmīn
- g.1772 unborn and unreal
skye ba med pa dang dngos po med pa སྐྱེ་བ་མེད་པ་དང་དངོས་པོ་མེད་པ། ajātabhāva
- g.1773 unbreakable faith
dad pa mi phyed pa

དང་པ་མི་ཕྱེད་པ།

abhedyaprasādena samanvāgatā

g.1774 unbroken

mi chod pa · mi 'chad pa · rgyun mi 'chad pa

མི་ཚོད་པ། · མི་འཆད་པ། · རྒྱུན་མི་འཆད་པ། anāccheda

g.1775 unbroken unity

dbyer med pa

དབྱེར་མེད་པ།

—

g.1776 unchanging

'gyur ba med pa · 'gyur ba med

འགྱུར་བ་མེད་པ། · འགྱུར་བ་མེད། avikṛta

g.1777 uncollected thought

mnyam par ma bzhag pa'i sems

མཉམ་པར་མ་བཞག་པའི་སེམས།

asamāhitacittam

g.1778 uncompounded

'dus ma byas

འདུས་མ་བྱས། asaṃskṛta

g.1779 unconventional

rjod par med pa

རྫོད་པར་མེད་པ།

avyavahāra

g.1780 under robe

snam sbyar

སྐྱམ་སྦྱར། saṃghāṭī

- g.1781 under the control of Māra
bdud kyi dbang du mchis pa བདུད་ཀྱི་དབང་དུ་མཆིས་པ། māraśagata
- g.1782 understanding that operates without duality
gnyis su spyod pa ma yin pa'i blo
 གཉིས་སུ་སྟོད་པ་མ་ཡིན་པའི་བློ། **na dvayacarito bodhi<sup>RS</sup>*
- g.1783 understands from a detailed explanation
spros pas go ba སྟོས་པས་གོ་བ། vipañcitajña
- g.1784 understood well
legs par rtogs pa ལེགས་པར་རྟོགས་པ། supratividdha
- g.1785 undertake and keep on at yang dag par blangs nas gnas ཡང་དག་པར་བླངས་ནས་གནས། samādāne vṛt
- g.1786 undertaking of action
las yang dag par blangs pa ལས་ཡང་དག་པར་བླངས་པ། karmasamādāna
- g.1787 uneasiness
'gyod pa འགྱོད་པ། kaukr̥tya
- g.1788 uneducated
mi mkhas pa

མི་མཁས་པ། akovida

g.1789 unfindable

mi dmigs pa

མི་དམིགས་པ།

anupalabdhi

g.1790 unflagging

ma nyams pa

མ་ཉམས་པ།

akhaṅḍa

g.1791 unfounded conceit

mngon pa'i nga rgyal · lhag pa'i nga rgyal

མངོན་པའི་ང་རྒྱལ། · ལྷག་པའི་ང་རྒྱལ། abhimāna · adhimāna

g.1792 unfragmented

ma 'chol ba

མ་འཚོལ་བ། akalmāṣa

g.1793 unharmed

ma smas

མ་སྐྱས།

akṣata

g.1794 unimpaired

ma nyams pa

མ་ཉམས་པ།

anupahata

g.1795 uninclined

thugs khral chung bar mdzad

ཐུགས་ཁྲལ་ཚུང་བར་མཛད།

alpotsuko

- g.1796 uninclined to teach the doctrine
chos bstan pa la gzhol ba ma yin ཚོས་བསྟན་པ་ལ་གཞོལ་བ་མ་ཡིན། **cittam nāmayām āsa na dharmadeśanāyām* <sup>RS</sup>
- g.1797 uninjured
ma snad · ma nyams མ་སྣང། · མ་ཉམས། anupahata
- g.1798 unleashed the controlling power of truth
bden pa'i byin gyis rlob par byed pa བདེན་པའི་བྱིན་གྱིས་རྫོབ་པར་བྱེད་པ། satyādhiṣṭhānaṃ karoti
 See n.589.
- g.1799 unlettered
thos pa dang mi ldan pa ཐོས་པ་དང་མི་ལྡན་པ། aśrutavat
- g.1800 unmarked
mtshan nyid med pa · mtshan nyid ma mchis pa མཚན་ཉིད་མེད་པ། · མཚན་ཉིད་མ་མཆིས་པ། alakṣaṇa
- g.1801 unmistaken suchness
ma nor ba de bzhin nyid མ་ནོར་བ་དེ་བཞིན་ཉིད། avitathatā
- g.1802 unmoving
mi g.yo ba · g.yo ba med pa
 མི་གཡོ་བ། · གཡོ་བ་མེད་པ། **aneñja* <sup>RS</sup>
- g.1803 unowned

bdag gi ba med pa

བདག་གི་བ་མེད་པ།

anātmīya

Edg “without self.”

g.1804 unproduced dharma

chos ma skyes pa

ཚོས་མ་སྐྱེས་པ།

anutpanno dharmah

g.1805 unpunctured

skyon med pa

སྐྱོན་མེད་པ།

acchidhra

g.1806 unquestioned certainty

shin tu rton pa

ཤིན་ཏུ་རྟོན་པ།

niṣṭhāṅgata · niṣṭhāgamana

g.1807 unsullied

gos pa med pa · gos par mi 'gyur

གོས་པ་མེད་པ། . གོས་པར་མི་འགྱུར། anupalipta

g.1808 unsurpassed knowledge of a buddha

sangs rgyas kyi ye shes bla na med pa

སངས་རྒྱས་ཀྱི་ཡེ་ཤེས་བླ་ན་མེད་པ།

anuttaram buddhajñānam

g.1809 unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening

bla na med pa yang dag par rdzogs pa'i byang chub

བླ་ན་མེད་པ་ཡང་དག་པར་རྫོགས་པའི་བྱང་ཆུབ།

anuttarā samyaksambodhi

The complete awakening of a buddha, as opposed to the attainments of arhats and pratyekabuddhas.

g.1810 untainted

gos pa med pa

གོས་པ་མེད་པ། nirupalepa

g.1811 untattered

ma ral ba

མ་རལ་བ།

—

g.1812 unwholesome dharmas

mi dge ba'i chos rnams

མི་དགེ་བའི་ཚོས་རྣམས།

akalyānadharmā

See “ten unwholesome actions.”

g.1813 Upaśānta

nye bar zhi ba

ཉེ་བར་ཞི་བ།

upaśānta

“Peaceful.” A world system in the western direction, where the buddha Ratnārcis now dwells.

g.1814 ūrṇā

mdzod spu · smin mtshams kyi mdzod spu

མཛོད་སྤུ། · སླིན་མཚམས་ཀྱི་མཛོད་སྤུ། ūrṇakośa · ūrṇa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the thirty-two marks of a great being. It consists of a soft, long, fine, coiled white hair between the eyebrows capable of emitting an intense bright light. Literally, the Sanskrit ūrṇā means “wool hair,” and kośa means “treasure.”

g.1815 use of robes

gos spyod pa

གོས་སྤྱོད་པ། cīvaraparibhoga

g.1816 uses the conventional label as an ordinary conventional term

'jig rten gyi brdar bka' stsal

འཇིག་རྟེན་གྱི་བཅར་བཀའ་སྤྱུལ། lokasaṃketena vyavahriyate

g.1817 uṣṇīṣa

gtsug tor

གཙུག་ཏོར།

uṣṇīṣa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the thirty-two signs, or major marks, of a great being. In its simplest form it is a pointed shape of the head like a turban (the Sanskrit term, uṣṇīṣa, in fact means “turban”), or more elaborately a dome-shaped extension. The extension is described as having various extraordinary attributes such as emitting and absorbing rays of light or reaching an immense height.

g.1818 Uttaramatin

blo gros dam pa

བློ་གྲོས་དམ་པ། uttaramatin

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1819 Vaijayanta

rnam par rgyal ba

རྣམ་པར་རྒྱལ་བ།

vaijayanta

The palace of Śatakratu in the heaven of Trāyastriṃśa.

g.1820 vairocana

rnam par snang ba

རྣམ་པར་སྒྲང་བ།

vairocana

Lit. “illuminating.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1821 vajramaṇḍala

rdo rje'i dkyil 'khor

རྡོ་རྗེ་དཀྱིལ་འཁོར།

vajramaṇḍala

Lit. “vajra circle.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1822 Vajramatin

rdo rje blo gros

རྡོ་རྗེ་བོ་གོས།

vajramatin

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1823 Vajrapāṇi

lag na rdo rje

ལག་ན་རྡོ་རྗེ།

vajrapāṇi

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Vajrapāṇi means “Wielder of the Vajra.” In the Pali canon, he appears as a yakṣa guardian in the retinue of the Buddha. In the Mahāyāna scriptures he is a bodhisattva and one of the “eight close sons of the Buddha.” In the tantras, he is also regarded as an important Buddhist deity and instrumental in the transmission of tantric scriptures.

g.1824 vajraratna

rdo rje rin po che

རྡོ་རྗེ་རིན་པོ་ཆེ།

vajraratna

Lit. “vajra jewel.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1825 vajropama

rdo rje lta bu

རྡོ་རྗེ་ལྷ་བུ།

vajropama

Lit. “diamond-like.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1826 vākkalividhvamaṃsanagaganakalpa

ngag ki skyon rnam par 'jig pas nam mkha' lta gyur pa

ངག་གི་སྐྱོན་རྣམ་པར་འཛིན་པས་རྣམ་མཁའ་ལྟར་གྱུར་པ། vākkalividhvamaṃsanagaganakalpa

Lit. “destroying verbal flaws, it is like space.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1827 varadharmamudra

chos dam pa'i phyag rgya

ཚཱ་དམ་པའི་ཕྱག་རྒྱ།

varadharmamudra

Lit. "holy dharma seal." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1828 Vārāṇasī

bA rA na sI

བུ་རཱ་ན་སྐྱི།

vārāṇasī

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Also known as Benares, one of the oldest cities of northeast India on the banks of the Ganges, in modern-day Uttar Pradesh. It was once the capital of the ancient kingdom of Kāśī, and in the Buddha's time it had been absorbed into the kingdom of Kośala. It was an important religious center, as well as a major city, even during the time of the Buddha. The name may derive from being where the Varuna and Assi rivers flow into the Ganges. It was on the outskirts of Vārāṇasī that the Buddha first taught the Dharma, in the location known as Deer Park (Mṛgadāvā). For numerous episodes set in Vārāṇasī, including its kings, see The Hundred Deeds, Toh 340.

g.1829 Vardhamānamatin

blo gros 'phel ba

བློ་གྲོས་འཕེལ་བ།

vardhamānamatin

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1830 variation

tha dad du bgyi ba · tha dad du bya ba · tha dad du dbye ba

ཐ་དད་དུ་བགྱི་བ། · ཐ་དད་དུ་བྱ་བ། · ཐ་དད་དུ་དཔྱེ་བ། nānākaraṇa

g.1831 various sorts of physical beings

lus rnam pa tha dad pa

ལུས་རྣམ་པ་ཐ་དད་པ།

nānāprakārā ātmabhāvā

g.1832 Vartani

bar ta ni · ba ta ni

བར་ཏ་ནི། · བ་ཏ་ནི།

bartani

A country in the east, where the teachings on the perfection of wisdom will spread.

g.1833 Varuṇadeva

chu lha'i lha

ཐུ་ལྷ་འི་ལྷ།

varuṇadeva

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1834 Vaśavartin

dbang sgyur

དབང་སྐྱུར།

vaśavartin

Head god of the Paranirmitavaśavartin heaven.

g.1835 Vaśībhūtā

dbang du gyur pa

དབང་དུ་གྱུར་པ།

vaśībhūtā

“Fully Controlled.” A world system in the intermediate northwest direction, where the buddha Ekachattrā now dwells.

g.1836 vāyudhātvaparyanta

rlung gi kham mu med pa

རླུང་གི་ཁམས་མུ་མེད་པ།

vāyudhātvaparyanta

Lit. “limitless wind element.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1837 vedanāparyanta

tshor ba mu med pa

ཚོར་བ་མུ་མེད་པ།

vedanāparyanta

Lit. “limitless feeling.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1838 venerable

tshe dang ldan pa

ཚེ་དང་ལྷན་པ།

āyusman

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A respectful form of address between monks, and also between lay companions of equal standing. It literally means “one who has a [long] life.”

g.1839 venerable monk

btsun pa

བཙུན་པ།

bhadanta

A term of respect used for Buddhist monks, akin to the modern address, bhante.

g.1840 verbal volitional factor

ngag gi 'du byed

ངག་གི་འདུ་བྱེད།

—

g.1841 verses

tshigs su bcad pa

ཚིགས་སུ་བཅད་པ།

gāthā

As one of the twelve aspects of the wheel of Dharma, it means those teachings given in verse.

g.1842 very attractive

kun nas mdzes pa

ཀུན་ནས་མཛེས་པ། samantapāsādika

g.1843 very limit of reality

yang dag pa'i mtha'

ཡང་དག་པའི་མཐའ།

bhūtakoṭi

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

This term has three meanings: (1) the ultimate nature, (2) the experience of the ultimate nature, and (3) the quiescent state of a worthy one (arhat) to be avoided by bodhisattvas.

In this text:

Also translated as “final limit of reality.”

g.1844 Videha

lus dpag

ལུས་དཔག

videha

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the four main continents that surround Sumeru, the central mountain in classical Buddhist cosmology. It is the eastern continent, characterized as “sublime in physique,” and it is semicircular in shape. The humans who live there are twice as tall as those from our southern continent, and live for 250 years. It is known as Videha and Pūrvavideha.

g.1845 vidutpradīpa

glog gi sgron ma

གློག་གི་སྒྲོན་མ།

vidutpradīpa

Lit. “lamp of lightning.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1846 vidyutprabha

glog gi 'od

གློག་གི་འོད།

vidyutprabha

Lit. “lightning flash.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1847 vidyutpradīpa

glog gi sgron ma

གློག་གི་སྒྲོན་མ།

vidyutpradīpa

Lit. “lightning lamp.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1848 view of the perishable collection

'jig tshogs la lta ba

འཇིག་ཚོགས་ལ་ལྟ་བ།

satkāyadr̥ṣṭi

The Sanskrit term means “the view that the body is real,” and the Tibetan term can be translated as “the view of the perishing collection.” It refers to viewing the “perishing” collection of momentary, transitory aggregates—the body—as a self.

g.1849 view that action has no consequences.

byed pa med pa'i lta ba

བྱེད་པ་མེད་པའི་ལྟ་བཤ།

akriyādr̥ṣṭi

g.1850 vigatarajas

rdul med pa

རྩལ་མེད་པ།

vigatarajas

Lit. “dustless.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1851 Vigatarajasam̐cayā

rdul gyi tshogs dang bral ba

རྩལ་གྱི་ཚོགས་དང་བྲལ་བ། vigatarajasam̐cayā

Lit. “Free of Dust Collections.” A world system in the intermediate southwest direction, where the buddha Sūryamaṇḍalaprabhāsottaraśrī now dwells.

g.1852 Vigatāśoka

mya ngan med pa

མྱ་ངན་མེད་པ།

vigatāśoka

“Free from Sorrow.” A bodhisattva from a world system called Sarvaśokāpagata, in the southern direction, who comes to pay homage and listen to the Buddha.

g.1853 Vijayavikrāmin

rnam par rgyal bas rnam par gnon pa

རྣམ་པར་རྒྱལ་བས་རྣམ་པར་གཞོན་པ།

vijayavikrāmin

“Conquest Suppressor.” A bodhisattva from a world system called Samādhyalamḥkṛtā, in the intermediate northeast direction, who comes to pay homage and listen to the Buddha.

g.1854 vijñānāparyanta

rnam par shes pa mu med pa

རྣམ་པར་ཤེས་པ་སྲུ་མེད་པ།

vijñānāparyanta

Lit. “limitless consciousness.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1855 vikiraṇa

rnam par 'thor ba

རྣམ་པར་འཕྲོར་བ།

vikiraṇa

Lit. “strewing.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1856 vilokitamūrdhā

spyi gtsug rnam par lta ba

སྤྱི་གཙུག་རྣམ་པར་ལྷ་བ།

vilokitamūrdhā · avalokitamūrdhā

Lit. “seeing from the top of the head.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

(Kimura has avalokitamūrdhā)

g.1857 Vimalā

dri ma med pa

དྲི་མ་མེད་པ།

vimalā

Lit. “Stainless.” The second level of accomplishment pertaining to bodhisattvas. See “ten bodhisattva levels.”

g.1858 vimalaprabha

'od dri ma med pa

འོད་དྲི་མ་མེད་པ།

vimalaprabha · vimalaprabhāsa

Lit. “stainless light.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1859 vimalapradīpa

dri ma med pa'i sgron ma

འཇིག་མེད་པའི་སྒྲོན་མཁའ།

vimalapradīpa

Lit. “stainless lamp.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1860 vimativikaraṇa

nem nur rnam par sel ba

ཞེས་ཉུང་རྣམ་པར་སེལ་བ།

vimativikaraṇa

Lit. “eliminator of doubts.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1861 virtuous character

dge ba'i chos

དགེ་བའི་ཚོས། kalyāṇadharman

g.1862 viṣayatīrṇa

yul las rgal ba

ཡུལ་ལས་རྒྱལ་བ།

viṣayatīrṇa

Lit. “freed from objects.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1863 Viśeṣamatin

blo gros khyad par can

སྒྲོ་གྲོས་ཁྱེད་པར་ཅན།

viśeṣamatin

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1864 viṣkandaka

thod rgal

ཐོད་རྒྱལ།

viṣkandaka

Lit. “in leaps.” Name of a meditative stabilization. See also n.641.

g.1865 visual distortions

rab rib

རབ་རིབ།

**vitimitakara* <sup>RS</sup>

g.1866 Vītarāga level

'dod chags dang bral ba'i sa

འདོད་ཆགས་དང་བྲལ་བའི་ས།

vītarāgabhūmi

Lit. "Desireless level." The sixth of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the level of an ordinary person until reaching buddhahood. See "ten levels."

g.1867 vitimirāpagata

rab rib med pa

རབ་རིབ་མེད་པ།

vitimirāpagata

Lit. "free from eye disease." Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1868 vocalization

skad

སྐད།

ruta

g.1869 vocation

las kyi gnas

ལས་ཀྱི་གནས།

karmasthāna

g.1870 vocational art

sgyu rtsal

སྐྱུ་རྩལ། kalā

g.1871 volitional effort

'du byed

འདུ་བྱེད།

saṃskāra

g.1872 volitional factors

'du byed

འདུ་བྱེད།

saṃskāra

Fourth of the five aggregates and the second of the twelve links of dependent origination. These are the formative factors, mental volitions, and other supporting factors that perpetuate future saṃsāric existence.

g.1873 vulgar

gdol pa

གདོལ་པ།

caṇḍāla

g.1874 vyatyasta

snrel zhi

སྒྲེལ་ཞི།

vyatyasta

Lit. “nonsequential.” Name of a meditative stabilization.

g.1875 Vyūharāja

bkod pa'i rgyal po

བཀོད་པའི་རྒྱལ་པོ།

vyūharāja

A bodhisattva great being present in the audience of this sūtra.

g.1876 Vyuharāja

bkod pa'i rgyal po

བཀོད་པའི་རྒྱལ་པོ།

vyuharāja

Lit. “King of the Array.” Name that ten thousand beings will bear when they become buddhas.

g.1877 wait on

bsnyen bkur

བསྐྱེན་བཀུར། pratyupasthita bhū

g.1878 want to have reached the range

yul du phyin

ཡུལ་དུ་ཕྱིན།

viṣayaṃ anugantukāma

g.1879 warm but not hot

tsha yang mi tsha

ཚ་ཡང་མི་ཚ། nātyuṣṇa

g.1880 watch over

dgongs

དགོངས།

samanvāhr

g.1881 water bubble

chu'i chu bur

ཚུའི་ཚུབུར། budbuda

g.1882 wealth and respect

rnyed pa dang bkur sti

རྟེན་པ་དང་བཀུར་སྟེ།

lābhasatkāra

g.1883 welfare

don

དོན།

artha

g.1884 well freed

nam par grol ba

རྣམ་པར་གྲོལ་བ།

vinirmukta

g.1885 what cannot be elaborated

ma spros pa

མ་སྟོས་པ། aprapañca

g.1886 what is not a collection

mi bsdu ba

མི་བསྐྱུ་བ། asaṃgraha

g.1887 what marks dharmas as dharmas

chos rnams kyi chos kyi mtshan nyid

ཚོས་རྣམས་ཀྱི་ཚོས་ཀྱི་མཚན་ཉིད། dharmāṅgāṃ dharmalakṣaṅgaṃ

g.1888 what one does not understand

mi shes pa kun shes par byed pa'i dbang po

མི་ཤེས་པ་ཀུན་ཤེས་པར་བྱེད་པའི་དབང་པོ།

anājñātam ājñāsyāmīndriya

g.1889 what should not be constructed in thought spros par bya ba ma yin pa

སྐྱོས་པར་བྱ་བ་མ་ཡིན་པ། aprapañcya

g.1890 what the dharmas actually are when the dharmas are compounded

'dus byas kyi chos kyi chos nyid

འདུས་བྱས་ཀྱི་ཚོས་ཀྱི་ཚོས་ཉིད།

**saṃskṛtadharmadharmatā<sup>RS</sup>*

g.1891 what the dharmas actually are when the dharmas are un-compounded

'dus ma byas kyi chos kyi chos nyid

འདུས་མ་བྱས་ཀྱི་ཚོས་ཀྱི་ཚོས་ཉིད།

**asaṃskṛtadharmadharmatā<sup>RS</sup>*

g.1892 whatever human requirements are appropriate mi'i yo byad ci yang rung ba

མིའི་ཡོ་བྱེད་ཅི་ཡང་རུང་བ། anyatarānyatarāni mānuṣyakāṇi sarvaparīṣkāropakaraṅāni

g.1893 wheel-turning emperor

'khor los sgyur ba'i rgyal po

འཁོར་ལོས་སྐྱུར་བའི་རྒྱལ་པོ།

cakravartin

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

An ideal monarch or emperor who, as the result of the merit accumulated in previous lifetimes, rules over a vast realm in accordance with the Dharma. Such a monarch is called a cakravartin because he bears a wheel (cakra) that rolls (vantana) across the earth, bringing all lands and kingdoms under his power. The cakravartin conquers his territory without causing harm, and his activity causes beings to enter the path of wholesome actions. According to Vasubandhu's Abhidharmakośa, just as with the buddhas, only one cakravartin appears in a world system at any given time. They are likewise endowed with the thirty-two major marks of a great being (mahāpuruṣalakṣaṇa), but a cakravartin's marks are outshined by those of a buddha. They possess seven precious objects: the wheel, the elephant, the horse, the wish-fulfilling gem, the queen, the general, and the minister. An illustrative passage about the cakravartin and his possessions can be found in The Play in Full (Toh 95), 3.3–3.13.

Vasubandhu lists four types of cakravartins: (1) the cakravartin with a golden wheel (suvarṇacakravartin) rules over four continents and is invited by lesser kings to be their ruler; (2) the cakravartin with a silver wheel (rūpyacakravartin) rules over three continents and his opponents submit to him as he approaches; (3) the cakravartin with a copper wheel (tāmracakravartin) rules over two continents and his opponents submit themselves after preparing for battle; and (4) the cakravartin with an iron wheel (ayaścakravartin) rules over one continent and his opponents submit themselves after brandishing weapons.

g.1894 while viewing in a body

lus kyi rjes su lta

ལུས་ཀྱི་རྗེས་སུ་ལྟ། kāyavipaśyin

g.1895 while viewing in dharmas

chos kyi rjes su lta

ཚོས་ཀྱི་རྗེས་སུ་ལྟ། dharmavipaśyin

g.1896 white lotus

pad ma dkar po

ཕང་མ་དཀར་པོ། punḍarīka

g.1897 who do not radiate light

'od dang mi ldan pa

འོད་དང་མི་ལྡན་པ། prabhāvīrahita

g.1898 who have gone wrong

phyin ci log tu gyur pa

ཕྱིན་ཅི་ལོག་ཏུ་གྱུར་པ། viparyāyagata

g.1899 who have practiced the practice

spyad pa spyod pa

སྤྱད་པ་སྦྱོད་པ། caritāvin

caryācaritāvin in the Laṅkāvatara.

g.1900 wholesome karma without flaws

dge ba'i las skyon med pas

དགེ་བའི་ལས་སྦྱོན་མེད་པས། acchidya

g.1901 wholesome practice

dge ba'i spyod pa

དགེ་བའི་སྦྱོད་པ། kuśalacaryā

g.1902 wholesome root

dge ba'i rtsa ba

དགེ་བའི་རྩ་བ།

kuśalamūla

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

According to most lists (specifically those of the Pāli and some Abhidharma traditions), the (three) roots of virtue or the roots of the good or wholesome states (of mind) are what makes a mental state good or bad; they are identified as the opposites of the three mental “poisons” of greed, hatred, and delusion. Actions based on the roots of virtue will eventually lead to future happiness. The Dharmasaṃgraha, however, lists the three roots of virtue as (1) the mind of enlightenment, (2) purity of thought, and (3) freedom from egotism (Skt. trīṇi kuśalamūlāni | bodhicittotpādaḥ, āśayaviśuddhiḥ, ahaṃkāramamakāraparityāgaśceti |).

g.1903 whose path has come to an end

lam gyi rgyun bcad pa

ལམ་གྱི་རྒྱུན་བཅད་པ། chinnavartmanīnām

g.1904 whose words are not accepted

tshig gzung bar mi 'os par gyur

ཚིག་ག་རྒྱུང་བར་མི་འོས་པར་གྱུར། agrāhyavacana

g.1905 wind

rlung

རླུང་།

vāta · vāyu

One of the three vital substances in the body, along with phlegm and bile, which result in good health when balanced and illness or less than optimal health when imbalanced.

g.1906 wisdom

shes rab

ཤེས་རབ།

prajñā

The sixth of the six perfections, it refers to the profound understanding of the emptiness of all phenomena, the realization of ultimate reality.

g.1907 wisdom eye

shes rab kyi mig

ཤེས་རབ་ཀྱི་མིག་།

prajñācakṣu

One of the five eyes.

g.1908 wisdom of the single unique instant

skad cig gcig dang ldan pa'i shes rab kyis

སྐད་ཅིག་གཅིག་དང་ལྡན་པའི་ཤེས་རབ་ཀྱིས། ekakṣaṇasamāyuktayā prajñayā

See also n.676.

g.1909 wishlessness

smon pa med pa

སྲོན་པ་མེད་པ།

apraṇihita

The ultimate absence of any wish, desire, or aspiration, even those directed towards buddhahood. One of the three gateways to liberation; the other two are emptiness and signlessness.

g.1910 with a strong libido

'dod chags spyod pa · 'dod chags la spyod · 'dod chags chos la spyod pa

འདོད་ཆགས་སྡོད་པ། · འདོད་ཆགས་ལ་སྡོད། · འདོད་ཆགས་ཚེས་ལ་སྡོད་པ། rāgacarita

g.1911 with a vision of the Dharma

chos mthong ba

ཚེས་མཐོང་བ། dṛṣṭadharmā

g.1912 with an admiration for the deficient

dman pa la mos pa

དམན་པ་ལ་མོས་པ། hīnādhimuktika

g.1913 without a core

snying po med pa

སྡིང་པོ་མེད་པ།

asāra

g.1914 without a doubt

gor ma chag

གོར་མ་ཆག

nūnam · nu

- g.1915 without a fixed abode
mi gnas pa
མི་གནས་པ། anísrita
- g.1916 without a mark
mtshan nyid med pa མཚན་ཉིད་མེད་པ། alaksana
- g.1917 without a name and without a causal sign ming med pa dang mtshan ma med pa'i མིང་མེད་པ་དང་མཚན་མ་མེད་པ་འི། anāmanimitta
- g.1918 without a protector
mgon med pa མགོན་མེད་པ། anātha
- g.1919 without a vital essence srog med pa
སྲོག་མེད་པ། ajīva
- g.1920 without another
gzhan min གཞན་མིན། ananya
- g.1921 without any core at all
shin tu snying po med pa ཤིན་ཏུ་སྡིང་པོ་མེད་པ། atyantāsāra
- g.1922 without apprehending anything mi dmigs pas · dmigs pa med pa

མི་དམིགས་པས། . དམིགས་པ་མེད་པ། anupalambhena

g.1923 without arching

zhum pa med pa

ལུས་པ་མེད་པ། asaṃkuñcita

g.1924 without complacency

chog mi shes . chog mi shes pa

ཚོག་མི་ཤེས། . ཚོག་མི་ཤེས་པ། vitṛpta

g.1925 without conceptualization rnam par rtog pa med pa . mi rtog

རྣམ་པར་རྟོག་པ་མེད་པ། . མི་རྟོག nirvikalpa

g.1926 without craving

sred pa dang bral ba

སྲེད་པ་དང་བྲལ་བ། vigatatrṣṇa

g.1927 without defilement

kun nas nyon mongs pa med pa

ཀུན་ནས་ཉོན་མོངས་པ་མེད་པ།

asaṃkleśa

g.1928 without distinguishing features

bye brag med pa

བྱེ་བྲག་མེད་པ།

nirviśeṣa

g.1929 without effort

rtsol ba med pa

རྩོལ་བ་མེད་པ།

anābhoga

g.1930 without effort

lhun gyis grub pa

ལྷན་གྱིས་སྐྱབ་པ།

anābhoga

g.1931 without exertion

byed pa med pa nyid

བྱེད་པ་མེད་པ་ཉིད། niśceṣṭatā

g.1932 without experience

rig pa med pa

རིག་པ་མེད་པ།

avedaka

g.1933 without movement

g.yo ba med pa

གཡོ་བ་མེད་པ།

nirīha (nirīh)

g.1934 without purification

rnam par byang ba med pa · rnam par byang ba ma mchis pa

རྣམ་པར་བྱང་བ་མེད་པ། · རྣམ་པར་བྱང་བ་མ་མཆིས་པ།

avyavadāna

g.1935 without relishing them

ro myang ba med pa'i tshul gyis

རོ་མྱང་བ་མེད་པའི་ཚུལ་གྱིས།

anāsvādayogena

g.1936 without taking anything away and without adding anything

dor ba med pa dang bsnan pa med par

དོར་བ་མེད་པ་དང་བསྐྱེད་པ་མེད་པར། anutkṣepāprakṣepatayā

g.1937 work for the welfare of beings

sems can rnam kyī don byed · sems can thams cad kyī don byed

སེམས་ཅན་རྣམས་ཀྱི་དོན་བྱེད། . སེམས་ཅན་ཐམས་ཅད་ཀྱི་དོན་བྱེད། sarvasattvānām arthaṃ kṛ

g.1938 work of Māra

bdud kyi las

བདུད་ཀྱི་ལས།

māra karma

g.1939 world of Yama

gshin rje'i 'jig rten

གཤིན་རྗེའི་འཇིག་རྟེན།

yamaloka

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The land of the dead ruled over by the Lord of Death. In Buddhism it refers to the preta realm, where beings generally suffer from hunger and thirst, which in traditional Brahmanism is the fate of those departed without descendants to make ancestral offerings.

g.1940 world protector

'jig rten skyong ba

འཇིག་རྟེན་སྐྱོང་བ།

lokapāla

See “Lokapāla.”

g.1941 world system

'jig rten gyi khams

འཇིག་རྟེན་གྱི་ལམས།

lokadhātu

This can refer to one world with its orbiting sun and moon, and also to groups of these worlds in multiples of thousands, in particular a world realm of a thousand million worlds, which is said to be circular, with its circumference twice as long as its diameter.

g.1942 worthy of offerings

sbyin gnas

སྤྱིན་གནས།

dakṣiṇīya

g.1943 worthy one

dgra bcom pa

དགའ་བཅོམ་པ།

arhat

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

According to Buddhist tradition, one who is worthy of worship (pūjām arhati), or one who has conquered the enemies, the mental afflictions (kleśa-ari-hata-vat), and reached liberation from the cycle of rebirth and suffering. It is the fourth and highest of the four fruits attainable by śrāvakas. Also used as an epithet of the Buddha.

g.1944 written letters

yi ge 'bru

ཡི་གེ་འབྲུ། lipyakṣara

g.1945 wrong livelihood

log pa'i 'tsho ba

ལོག་པའི་འཚོ་བ། mithyājīva

—

g.1946 wrong perception

'du shes phyin ci log

འདུ་ཤེས་ཕྱིན་ཅི་ལོག།

saṃjñāviparyāsa

g.1947 wrong thought

sems phyin ci log

སེམས་ཕྱིན་ཅི་ལོག། cittaviparyāsa

g.1948 wrong view

log par lta ba · lta ba phyin ci log

ལོག་པར་ལྟ་བ། · ལྟ་བ་ཕྱིན་ཅི་ལོག། mithyādrṣṭi · drṣṭiviparyāsa

The tenth of the ten unwholesome actions; also one of five commonly listed kinds of erroneous views, it designates the disbelief in the doctrine of karma, cause and effect, and rebirth, etc.

g.1949 wrong views as a foundation and cause

log par lta ba'i las kyi gzhi dang rgyu

ལོག་པར་ལྟ་བའི་ལས་ཀྱི་གཞི་དང་རྒྱ།

—

g.1950 yakṣa

gnod sbyin

གནོད་སྦྱིན།

yakṣa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A class of nonhuman beings who inhabit forests, mountainous areas, and other natural spaces, or serve as guardians of villages and towns, and may be propitiated for health, wealth, protection, and other boons, or controlled through magic. According to tradition, their homeland is in the north, where they live under the jurisdiction of the Great King Vaiśravaṇa.

Several members of this class have been deified as gods of wealth (these include the just-mentioned Vaiśravaṇa) or as bodhisattva generals of yakṣa armies, and have entered the Buddhist pantheon in a variety of forms, including, in tantric Buddhism, those of wrathful deities.

g.1951 Yāma

'thab bral

འཐབ་བྲལ།

yāma

Lit. “The Discharged.” The third of the six heavens of the realm of desire; also the name of the gods living there. The Tibetan translation 'thab bral, “free from strife or combat,” derives from the idea that these devas, because they live in an aerial abode above Sumeru, do not have to engage in combat with the asuras who dwell on the slopes of the mountain.

g.1952 Yaśodharā

grags 'dzin ma

གྲགས་འཛིན་མ།

yaśodharā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Daughter of Śākya Daṇḍadhara (more commonly Daṇḍapāṇi), sister of Iṣudhara and Aniruddha, she was the wife of Prince Siddhārtha and mother of his only child, Rāhula. After Prince Siddhārtha left his kingdom and attained awakening as the Buddha, she became his disciple and one of the first women to be ordained as a bhikṣunī. She attained the level of an arhat, a worthy one, endowed with the six superknowledges.

g.1953 yearn

don du gnyer

དོན་དུ་གཉེན། prārthaya

g.1954 years

lo khyud 'khor

ལོ་ལྷུང་འཁོར། saṃvatsara

Lit. “yearly cycle.”

g.1955 Yeshé Dé

ye shes sde

ཡེ་ཤེས་སྡེ།

—

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Yeshé Dé (late eighth to early ninth century) was the most prolific translator of sūtras into Tibetan. Altogether he is credited with the translation of more than one hundred sixty sūtra translations and more than one hundred additional translations, mostly on tantric topics. In spite of Yeshé Dé’s great importance for the propagation of Buddhism in Tibet during the imperial era, only a few biographical details about this figure are known. Later sources describe him as a student of the Indian teacher Padmasambhava, and he is also credited with teaching both sūtra and tantra widely to students of his own. He was also known as Nanam Yeshé Dé, from the Nanam (sna nam) clan.

g.1956 yogic practice

rnal 'byor

རྣལ་འབྱོར།

yoga

A term which is generally used to refer to a wide range of spiritual practices. It literally means to be merged with or “yoked to,” in the sense of being fully immersed in one’s respective discipline. The Tibetan specifies “union with the natural state.”

g.1957 yojana

dpag tshad

དཔག་ཚད།

yojana

A yojana is eight “earshots” or the distance a cart yoked to two oxen can go in a day.

ci.

CITATION INDEX

1.2

60 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819667#UT22084-029-001-205/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-205%22%5D\)

Thus did I hear

At one time

The Lord (bhagavat)

Dwelt at Rājagṛha—on Gṛdhrakūṭa Hill.

with a great community of monks, numbering five thousand monks,

all worthy ones... with outflows dried up,

With outflows dried up—

Without afflictions

Fully controlled—

with their minds well freed and their wisdom well freed thoroughbreds

great bull elephants,

With their work done, their task accomplished with their burden laid down.

with their own goal accomplished.

with the fetters that bound them to existence broken.

with their hearts well freed by perfect understanding.

in perfect control of their whole mind with nuns numbering five hundred

... with a vision of the Dharma, and with an unbounded, infinite number of bodhisattva great beings

all of whom had acquired the dhāraṇīs acquired the dhāraṇīs.

dwellers in emptiness dwellers in emptiness, their range the signless, and who had not fashioned any wishes.

had acquired forbearance for the sameness of all dharmas.

had acquired the dhāraṇī of nonattachment.

with imperishable clairvoyant knowledges.

with speech worth listening to.

not hypocrites

not fawners.

without thoughts of reputation and gain.

Dharma teachers without thought of compensation.

with perfect forbearance for the deep dharmas had obtained the fearlessnesses.

had transcended all the works of Māra.

cut the continuum of karmic obscuration.

skillful in expounding the analysis of investigations into phenomena.

with the prayer that is a vow made during an asaṃkhyeya of eons really fully carried out.

with smiling countenances forward in addressing others.

without a frown on their faces.

skillful in communicating with others in chanted verse without feelings of depression.

without losing the confidence giving a readiness to speak.

endowed with fearlessness when surpassing endless assemblies.

skilled in going forth during an ananta of one hundred million eons.

understanding phenomena to be like an illusion, a mirage, a reflection of the moon in water, a dream, an echo, an apparition, a reflection in the mirror, and a magical creation.

skillful in comprehending the thoughts, conduct, and beliefs of all beings and subtle knowledge.

With unobstructed thoughts endowed with extreme patience.

Skilled in causing entry into reality just as it is having appropriated all the endless arrays of the buddhafi elds through prayer and setting out.

With the meditative stabilization recollecting buddhas in an infinite number of world systems constantly and always activated skillful in soliciting innumerable buddhas.

Skillful in eliminating the various views, propensities, obsessions, and defilements

Skillful in accomplishing a hundred thousand feats through meditative concentration

1.3 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816273#UT22084-029-001-210/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-210%22%5D\)

Thereupon the Lord, having himself arranged the lion throne,

Sat down with his legs crossed, holding his body erect, entered into the meditative stabilization, samādhirāja by name, the meditative stabilization... in which all meditative stabilizations are put.

included, and by being encompassed come to meet.

1.4 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816288#UT22084-029-001-211/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-211%22%5D\)

he beamed with his whole body.

Issued sixty sixty-one hundred thousand one hundred million billion rays—

From the śrīvatsa mark—

became irreversible from the unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.

1.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816292#UT22084-029-001-212/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-212%22%5D\)

Thereupon all the Lord's hair pores—

1.8 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816276#UT22084-029-001-216/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-216%22%5D\)

then the Lord, seated on that very lion throne, entered into the meditative stabilization called “siṃhavikrīḍita”

entered into the meditative stabilization called siṃhavikrīḍita it became soft and oily, producing ease for all beings,

the continuum of the hells and so on was cut,

all the places that preclude a perfect human birth disappeared

1.10 11 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816298#UT22084-029-001-218/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-218%22%5D\)

the lord buddhas in other buddhafields cried out cries of delight.

endowed with such knowledge.

Self-discipline restraint

to observe celibacy

nonviolence toward living creatures

the insane regained their senses, those with distracted thoughts became one-pointed in their thoughts, the naked found clothes, the poor found wealth, the hungry found food considered every being in the same way as they considered their mother, father ease

knowledge.

1.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816309#UT22084-029-001-219/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-219%22%5D\)

his light, color, brilliance, and glory,

1.12 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816310#UT22084-029-001-221/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-221%22%5D\)

towering over... shining forth, gleaming, dazzling, and shedding light” shining forth;

gleaming;
dazzling;
shedding light.
with his light,
color brilliance glory

1.13 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816278#UT22084-029-001-222/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-222%22%5D\)

thereupon the Lord exhibited an ordinary bodily form, like that of beings in the great billionfold world system strewed near, strewed in front, and strewed all around

Thereupon the Lord exhibited an ordinary bodily form, like that of...

the body of the Tathāgata you can never see enough.

1.14 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816280#UT22084-029-001-224/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-224%22%5D\)

stayed there like a second story made of flowers and so on, with the dimensions of the great billionfold world system

By the sustaining power of the Lord... in the sky right above the Lord's head,

1.15 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816281#UT22084-029-001-226/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-226%22%5D\)

thereupon the Lord, seated on this very lion throne

smiled once again

saw... the Tathāgata Śākyamuni, together with his community of monks and together with a retinue of bodhisattvas then in the east, beyond as many world systems as the sand particles in the Gaṅgā River

Smiled once again

1.17 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816323#UT22084-029-001-228/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-228%22%5D\)

At the very limit... there is a world system called Ratnāvātī.

stands, stays, and maintains himself,

1.19 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816325#UT22084-029-001-230/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-230%22%5D\)

For the most part in the form of the young—

1.21 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816326#UT22084-029-001-232/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-232%22%5D\)

gave... lotuses, bodhisattvas [born in that Sahā world system] are difficult to approach

1.22 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816330#UT22084-029-001-234/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-234%22%5D\)

respected, revered, honored, and worshiped, inquires about [the Lord's] health, hopes that [the Lord] is well and free from sickness, alert and buoyant, eating well, strong, and comfortable,

2.1 15 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816285#UT22084-029-001-253/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-253%22%5D\)

when the Lord understood that the world with its celestial beings, Māras

When the Lord ... said to venerable Śāriputra...

“Here, Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to all dharmas in all forms should make an effort at the perfection of wisdom.”

“Śāriputra [Son of Śāradvatī]”

“Here”

“Bodhisattva”—

“Great beings”—

“All dharmas”—

“In all forms”—

“Want to fully awaken”—

“at the perfection of wisdom (prajñāpāramitā),”

“should make an effort at the perfection of wisdom”

“should make”

“Here, Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to all dharmas in all forms should make an effort at the perfection of wisdom,”

“Here, Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to all dharmas in all forms should make an effort at the perfection of wisdom,”

2.2 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816340#UT22084-029-001-255/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-255%22%5D\)

“How then, Lord, should bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to all dharmas in all forms make an effort at the perfection of wisdom?”

“How then, Lord, should bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to all dharmas in all forms make an effort at the perfection of wisdom?”

2.3 15 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816341#UT22084-029-001-256/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-256%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, here bodhisattva great beings, having stood in the perfection of wisdom by way of not taking their stand on it”

Venerable Śāriputra having thus inquired, the Lord,

“Śāriputra, here bodhisattva great beings, having stood in the perfection of wisdom by way of not taking their stand on it,”

“Śāriputra, here bodhisattva great beings, having stood in the perfection of wisdom by way of not taking their stand on it,”

“having stood in the perfection of wisdom by way of not taking their stand on it,”

“should complete the perfection of giving.”

“by way of not giving up anything, because a gift, a giver, and a recipient are not apprehended.”

“should complete the perfection of giving by way of not giving up anything.”

“Should complete the perfection of morality because no downfall is incurred and no compounded downfall is incurred”—

“Because there is no disturbance”—

“Because there is no relaxing of physical or mental effort”—

“should complete... the perfection of perseverance”

“Because there is no experience”—

“Because all phenomena are not apprehended”—

“should complete the perfection of wisdom.”

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816342#UT22084-029-001-258/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-258%22%5D\)

“should cultivate great love, great compassion, great joy, and great equanimity.”

“should cultivate... great love, great compassion, great joy, and great equanimity,”

“Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings, having stood in the perfection of wisdom, should perfect the four applications of mindfulness,”

“they should perfect ... the wishlessness meditative stabilization,”

“the four concentrations”

“the nine abodes of beings”

“they should perfect... the ten tathāgata powers,”

“Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings, having stood in the perfection of wisdom, should perfect the four applications of mindfulness,”

“perfect the four applications of mindfulness.”

“They should cultivate the emptiness meditative stabilization.”

“the signlessness meditative stabilization.”

“the wishlessness meditative stabilization.”

“they should cultivate the four concentrations,”

“mindfulness of disgust,”

“Mindfulness of death”

“the perception of death.”

“the perception that there is no delight in the entire world.”

“the perception that there is nothing to trust in the entire world.”

“They should cultivate knowledge of suffering.”

“the knowledge of origination.”

“knowledge of extinction.”

“[The] knowledge of not arising”

“Knowledge of dharmas”

“Subsequent realization knowledge”

“conventional knowledge.”

“Knowledge of mastery”—

“Knowledge in accord with sound”—

“The five undiminished clairvoyances”—

“The six perfections”—

“The six principles of being liked”—

“The seven riches”

“The eight ways great persons think”—

“the nine places beings live”

“the ten tathāgata powers,”

“great compassion,”

2.5 12 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816343#UT22084-029-001-270/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-270%22%5D\)

“who want to fully awaken to the knowledge, furnished with the best of all aspects, of a knower of all aspects,”

“should... make an effort at the perfection of wisdom.”

“who want to fully awaken to the knowledge, furnished with the best of all aspects, of a knower of all aspects,”

“who want to fully awaken to the knowledge, furnished with the best of all aspects, of a knower of all,”

“who want to perfect all-knowledge,”

“the knowledge of all aspects.”

“the knowledge of path aspects.”

“all-knowledge.”

“want to destroy all residual impressions, connections, and afflictions”

“want to destroy all residual impressions, connections, and afflictions”

“want to perfect the knowledge of path aspects”

“want to perfect the knowledge of the aspects of the thought activity of all beings”—

2.6 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816430#UT22084-029-001-274/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-274%22%5D\)

“who want to enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva,”

“want to enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva”

“want to enter into the secure state of a bodhisattva”—

“Who want to pass beyond the level of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas”—

“Who want to stand on the irreversible level”—

“Who want to surpass gift-giving to all śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas by producing a single thought with associated rejoicing”—

“the aggregate of morality”

2.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816452#UT22084-029-001-277/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-277%22%5D\)

“for the sake of all beings... giving even a little gift,”

2.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816453#UT22084-029-001-278/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-278%22%5D\)

“Bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of giving should train in the perfection of wisdom”—

2.9 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816442#UT22084-029-001-279/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-279%22%5D\)

“want to thoroughly establish a buddha’s body.”

“Who want to thoroughly establish a buddha’s body”—

2.10 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816455#UT22084-029-001-280/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-280%22%5D\)

“Who want to be born in the buddha’s lineage”—

“The heir apparent’s level”

2.12 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816457#UT22084-029-001-282/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-282%22%5D\)

“a world as vast as the dharma-constituent”

“as far-reaching as the space element”

2.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816459#UT22084-029-001-286/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-286%22%5D\)

“Want to make a single wholesome thought of awakening inexhaustible”—

2.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816460#UT22084-029-001-292/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-292%22%5D\)

“Want to ensure the line of buddhas will be unbroken”

2.18 17 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816461#UT22084-029-001-293/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-293%22%5D\)

“[They] want to stand in inner emptiness” “outer emptiness.”
“inner and outer emptiness,”
“inner and outer emptiness.”
“emptiness of emptiness.”
“great emptiness.”
“emptiness of ultimate reality.”
“emptiness of the compounded.”
“emptiness of the un compounded.”
“emptiness of what transcends limits.”
“emptiness of no beginning and no end.”
“emptiness of nonrepudiation.”
“emptiness of a basic nature.”
“emptiness of all dharmas.”
“emptiness of its own mark.”
“emptiness of not apprehending.”
“the emptiness of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature.”

2.19 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816443#UT22084-029-001-296/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-296%22%5D\)

“comprehend the suchness of all dharmas.”

“The suchness of all dharmas, the suchness of the dharma-constituent, and the suchness of the very limit of reality”—

2.20 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816444#UT22084-029-001-297/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-297%22%5D\)

“tiny particles”

“Want to know how many tiny particles of earth there are”

2.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816487#UT22084-029-001-299/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-299%22%5D\)

“Want to blunt with the tip of one finger”—

2.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816488#UT22084-029-001-301/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-301%22%5D\)

“Want their single cross-legged posture to expand into and fill up...”—

2.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816489#UT22084-029-001-302/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-302%22%5D\)

“With a single alms bowl”

2.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816490#UT22084-029-001-308/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-308%22%5D\)

“How, Lord... when bodhisattva great beings are giving a gift?”

2.30 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816491#UT22084-029-001-309/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-309%22%5D\)

“The perfection of concentration... because of not being distracted and not constructing any ideas”—

“The perfection of wisdom... by way of not apprehending the knowledge of all dharmas”

2.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816445#UT22084-029-001-311/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-311%22%5D\)

“want to acquire the buddha qualities of the past, future, and present lord buddhas”

2.42 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816493#UT22084-029-001-324/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-324%22%5D\)

“The flesh eye, divine eye,”

2.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816494#UT22084-029-001-325/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-325%22%5D\)

“Moreover, Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings who want to hear the entire doctrine that the lord buddhas in all world systems in all ten directions explain, and having heard it take it up perfectly by applying the power of memory uninterruptedly, and who do not want any to be lost up until they awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening should train in the perfection of wisdom.”

2.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816495#UT22084-029-001-329/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-329%22%5D\)

“Blinding darkness”—

2.50 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816431#UT22084-029-001-332/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-332%22%5D\)

“bodhisattva great beings who want to establish them in the result of stream enterer, the result of once-returner, the result of non-returner, the state of a worthy one, in a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, and in unsurpassed, perfect awakening should train in the perfection of wisdom,”

2.51 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816432#UT22084-029-001-333/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-333%22%5D\)

“who want to train in the tathāgatas’ way of carrying themselves,”

“Want to train in the tathāgatas’ way of carrying themselves”—

2.52 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816497#UT22084-029-001-334/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-334%22%5D\)

“Look down as an elephant looks”—

2.55 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816498#UT22084-029-001-338/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-338%22%5D\)

“walk, stand, sit”

“lie down”

“become all diamond?”

2.63 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816501#UT22084-029-001-347/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-347%22%5D\)

“in order to brings beings to maturity... taking to the five sorts of sense objects.”

“make use of”

2.64 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816344#UT22084-029-001-351/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-351%22%5D\)

“So, Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings take to these sorts of sense objects in order to bring beings to maturity,”

“make use of those five sorts of sense objects,”

2.65 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816506#UT22084-029-001-352/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-352%22%5D\)

The second chapter, Production of the Thought.

3.1 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816345#UT22084-029-001-353/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-353%22%5D\)

“Lord, how then should bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom?”

“Lord, how then should bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom?”

3.2 31 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816507#UT22084-029-001-354/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-354%22%5D\)

Venerable Śāriputra having thus inquired, the Lord said to him, “Śāriputra, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not, even while they are bodhisattvas, see a bodhisattva. They do not see even the word bodhisattva. They do not see awakening either, and they do not see the perfection of wisdom. They do not see that ‘they practice,’ and they do not see that ‘they do not practice.’ They also do not see that ‘while practicing they practice and while not practicing do not practice,’ and they also do not see that ‘they do not practice, and do not not practice as well.’ They do not see form. Similarly, they do not see feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness either,”

“and why?”

“the name bodhisattva is empty of the intrinsic nature of a name. The name bodhisattva is not empty because of emptiness,”

“The perfection of wisdom, too,”

“Because the emptiness of the name bodhisattva is not the name bodhisattva...”

“and there is no name bodhisattva apart from emptiness.”

“the name bodhisattva itself is emptiness.”

“And emptiness is the name bodhisattva as well”

The emptiness of the bodhisattva is not the bodhisattva. There is no bodhisattva apart from emptiness. The bodhisattva is emptiness. Emptiness is the bodhisattva as well.

“and why?”

“because this—namely, bodhisattva—is just a name,”

“just names.”

“And because this—namely, emptiness—is just a name”—

“why?”

“because where there is no intrinsic nature there is no production, stopping, decrease, increase, defilement, or purification.”

“And why?”

“Form is like an illusion, feeling is like an illusion,”

“And an illusion is just a name that does not reside somewhere, does not reside in a particular place”

“The sight of an illusion is mistaken and does not exist”

“And is devoid of an intrinsic nature”

“Bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that do not see production,”

“in any dharma at all”

“production... stopping”—

“decrease... increase”—

“defilement... purification”—

“And why? Because names are made up.”

“those interdependent dharmas, they are imagined,”

“names plucked out of thin air working subsequently as conventional labels,”

“just as they are subsequently conventionally labeled, so too are they settled down on as real”

“when bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom do not see any of those names as inherently existing,”

“because they do not see them, they do not settle down on them as real”;

[Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816540#UT22084-029-001-360/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-360%22%5D\)](#)

“moreover, Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom think,”

“bodhisattvas,”

“awakening,”

“the awakened one,”

“the perfection of wisdom... form,”

3.4 8 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

[Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816545#UT22084-029-001-361/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-361%22%5D\)](#)

“For example, Śāriputra, ‘self’ is said again and again,”

“cannot be apprehended”

“Similarly, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom also...,”

“do not see”

“they do not see even the names”

“settle down on them as real.”

“Because they do not see what would make them settle down on them as real”

“setting aside the wisdom of a tathāgata, [they]... surpass the wisdom of all śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas.”

3.5 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816553#UT22084-029-001-363/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-363%22%5D\)

“To illustrate, Śāriputra, if this Jambudvīpa were filled with monks similar in worth to Śāriputra and Maudgalyāyana,”

“A thicket of naḍa reeds, or a thicket of bamboo, or a thicket of sugarcane, or a thicket of rushes, or a thicket of rice, or a thicket of sesame”

“would not approach ... even by a hundredth part, nor by a thousandth part, nor by a hundred thousandth part; it would not stand up to any number, or fraction, or counting, or analogy, or comparison.”

“the wisdom”

“the wisdom of a bodhisattva”

3.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816558#UT22084-029-001-365/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-365%22%5D\)

“As many... as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River”

3.7 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816559#UT22084-029-001-367/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-367%22%5D\)

“venerable Śāriputra,”

“Lord, the wisdom of śrāvaka stream enterers,”

“All those wisdoms are not broken apart; they are a detachment, are not produced, and are empty of an intrinsic nature.”

“Variation”—

“Distinction”

“So how, Lord, could...”

3.8 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816565#UT22084-029-001-369/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-369%22%5D\)

“what do you think, Śāriputra,”

“furnished with the best of all aspects”

“practicing the knowledge of all aspects”

“working for the welfare of all beings”

“Having fully awakened to all dharmas in all forms”

“lead all beings to complete nirvāṇa”

3.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816571#UT22084-029-001-374/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-374%22%5D\)

“What do you think, Śāriputra, do all śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas think, ‘We must, having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening,’ ”

3.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816572#UT22084-029-001-376/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-376%22%5D\)

“hence it surpasses the wisdom of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas.”

3.11 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816573#UT22084-029-001-377/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-377%22%5D\)

“What do you think, Śāriputra, do all these śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas think, ‘We must, having practiced the six perfections,’”

“ ‘lead infinite, countless beings beyond measure to complete nirvāṇa.’ ”

3.12 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816575#UT22084-029-001-379/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-379%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, a bodhisattva great being thinks...,”

“lead infinite, countless beings beyond measure to complete nirvāṇa.”

3.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816577#UT22084-029-001-380/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-380%22%5D\)

“fireflies,”

3.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816578#UT22084-029-001-381/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-381%22%5D\)

“the sun”

3.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816579#UT22084-029-001-382/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-382%22%5D\)

“How, Lord, do bodhisattva great beings, having passed...,”

3.16 8 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816580#UT22084-029-001-384/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-384%22%5D\)

“their first”—

“production of the thought onward”

“emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness”

“dharmas”

“beyond the śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha level”;

“the irreversible”

“level”;

“the [six] perfections”

3.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816588#UT22084-029-001-385/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-385%22%5D\)

“Standing on which level, Lord, do bodhisattva [great beings],”

3.18 10 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816589#UT22084-029-001-386/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-386%22%5D\)

“in the interval from their first production of the thought,”

“Because Śāriputra, it is thanks to bodhisattva great beings that all wholesome dharmas appear in the world,”

“The ten wholesome actions, the morality with five branches, the morality with eight branches”—

“the concentrations”

“the path”

“the perfections”

“distinct attributes of a buddha”

“because those wholesome dharmas appear in the world, there are great sāla tree-like royal families in the world,”

“stream enterers appear in the world,”

“the perfectly complete buddhas,”

3.19 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816599#UT22084-029-001-389/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-389%22%5D\)

“purifies the offering,”

3.20 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816346#UT22084-029-001-390/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-390%22%5D\)

“a giver of... the eight-branched confession and restoration,”

“the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha”

“Because the offering is absolutely pure”

“a giver.”

3.21 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816349#UT22084-029-001-392/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-392%22%5D\)

“Lord, how are bodhisattva great beings who engage with the perfection of wisdom ‘engaged’?”

Śāriputra

“Lord, how are bodhisattva great beings who engage with the perfection of wisdom ‘engaged’?”

3.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816604#UT22084-029-001-394/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-394%22%5D\)

the Lord

3.23

21 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816605#UT22084-029-001-396/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-396%22%5D\)

“You cannot say... that they ‘are engaged’ or ‘are not engaged.’ ”

“when”

“are practicing with these seven emptinesses,”

“and why?”

“because they do not see form as qualified by production or qualified by stopping,”

“They do not see form as qualified by defilement or qualified by purification.”

“do not see ‘a confluence of form with feeling,’ ”

“because they are empty of a basic nature”

“that emptiness of form is not form,”

“And why?”

“Because, Śāriputra, that emptiness of form is not seeable.”

“experience,”

“being collected together and knowing,”

“occasioning anything,”

“making conscious,”

“And why?”

“Because... form is not one thing and emptiness another; emptiness is not one thing and form another,”

“form is itself emptiness, and emptiness is form,”

“Śāriputra, that emptiness is not produced and does not stop,”

“does not decrease and does not increase,”

“is not past, is not future, and is not present.”

3.24 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816629#UT22084-029-001-398/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-398%22%5D\)

“In such as that,”

“there is no form, there is no feeling, there is no perception,”

3.28 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816610#UT22084-029-001-402/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-402%22%5D\)

“they do not see a pratyekabuddha’s awakening, a buddha, or awakening.”

“there is no buddha; there is no awakening.”

3.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816632#UT22084-029-001-404/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-404%22%5D\)

“they do not see the practice of the perfection of wisdom as either ‘engaged’ or ‘not engaged’ with form”

3.33 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816633#UT22084-029-001-408/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-408%22%5D\)

“Neither cause emptiness to engage with emptiness”—

“the yogic practice of emptiness as well,”

“signlessness”;

“wishlessness.”

“emptiness is neither a yogic practice nor not a yogic practice.”

3.34 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816638#UT22084-029-001-411/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-411%22%5D\)

“they do not engage with nor disengage from form”—

“enter into the emptiness of the marks particular to dharmas.”

3.35 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816640#UT22084-029-001-413/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-413%22%5D\)

“they do not join form with the prior limit,”

“because they do not even see the prior limit.”

3.36 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816642#UT22084-029-001-415/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-415%22%5D\)

“They do not join the prior limit with the later limit”—

“join the prior limit with the later limit and... join the later limit with the prior limit.”

“because of the sameness of the three periods of time.”

3.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816645#UT22084-029-001-417/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-417%22%5D\)

“[Bodhisattva great beings]... do not join form with the knowledge of all aspects”—

3.40 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816646#UT22084-029-001-419/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-419%22%5D\)

“[They]... do not join a buddha with the knowledge of all aspects”:

“a buddha is the knowledge of all aspects, and the knowledge of all aspects is the buddha as well,”

3.41 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816648#UT22084-029-001-420/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-420%22%5D\)

“Form is not joined with ‘originating.’ Form is not joined with ‘perishing,’ ”

“[Form] is not joined with ‘permanent,’ ”

“with ‘impermanent,’ ”

“Form is not joined with ‘calm,’ ”

“Form is not joined with ‘not calm,’ ”

3.42 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816654#UT22084-029-001-421/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-421%22%5D\)

“ ‘practicing,’ ”

3.43 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816655#UT22084-029-001-422/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-422%22%5D\)

“[Bodhisattva great beings]... do not practice the perfection of wisdom for the sake of the perfection of giving”—

“do not see a difference in any dharma.”

3.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816657#UT22084-029-001-424/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-424%22%5D\)

“do not even see the perfection of wisdom itself, not to mention a bodhisattva, so however could they apprehend fully all the clairvoyances?”

3.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816658#UT22084-029-001-426/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-426%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, Māra the wicked one does not gain entry to a bodhisattva great being practicing the perfection of wisdom like this,”

3.49 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816659#UT22084-029-001-432/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-432%22%5D\)

“Any phenomenon united with”

“separated”

“Come together with or not come together with them”

3.50 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816662#UT22084-029-001-434/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-434%22%5D\)

“Because the dharma-constituent does not fully awaken by means of the dharma-constituent,”

3.52 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816663#UT22084-029-001-438/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-438%22%5D\)

“do not join form to emptiness”—

“and do not join emptiness to form”—

3.53 12 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816350#UT22084-029-001-439/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-439%22%5D\)

“do not produce an immoral thought, [a malicious thought,] a lazy thought, a distracted thought, or an intellectually confused thought”

“Śāriputra, you should bear in mind that bodhisattva great beings engaged like that have been prophesied”—

“or are close to being prophesied,”

“for the welfare of infinite, countless beings beyond measure, but still it will not occur to them to think, ‘The lord buddhas will make a prophesy about me. I am close to being prophesied,’ ”

“because they do not make the dharma-constituent into a causal sign.”

“Because the notion of a being does not occur to bodhisattva great beings... like that. And why? Because a being is absolutely not produced and does not cease, because the true dharmic nature of dharmas is not produced and does not cease.”

“Practices the perfection of wisdom as an unproduced and unceasing being”

“emptiness... and cannot be apprehended,”

“in an isolated state.”

“Śāriputra, this... is the bodhisattva great beings’ ultimate yogic practice,”

“[they] accomplish... great love, great compassion,”

“they do not practice with a miserly thought,”

3.54 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816351#UT22084-029-001-443/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-443%22%5D\)

“Where did they die, Lord, bodhisattva great beings dwelling by means of this yogic practice of the perfection of wisdom who have taken birth here?”

“Where did they die... who have taken birth here?”

3.60 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816677#UT22084-029-001-451/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-451%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, there are... bodhisattva great beings without skillful means,”

3.62 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816678#UT22084-029-001-453/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-453%22%5D\)

“will fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening right here in the Fortunate Eon.”

3.76 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816679#UT22084-029-001-469/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-469%22%5D)

“knowledge”

“is a bodhisattva [great being’s]”

“forbearance.”

3.96 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816682#UT22084-029-001-492/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-492%22%5D)

“the light of the buddhadharmas,”

“up until they... fully awaken.”

3.97 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816684#UT22084-029-001-494/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-494%22%5D)

“This, Śāriputra, is the origination of the bodhisattva great beings in the buddhadharmas.”

3.98 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816685#UT22084-029-001-496/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-496%22%5D)

“Therefore, Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom would provide no opportunity for basic immoral physical, verbal, and mental action.”

3.99 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816686#UT22084-029-001-499/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-499%22%5D\)

“What, Lord, is a bodhisattva great being’s basic immoral physical action?”

3.104 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816688#UT22084-029-001-505/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-505%22%5D\)

“cleansing the awakening path”

3.105 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816687#UT22084-029-001-506/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-506%22%5D\)

“What, Lord, is the bodhisattva great beings’ awakening path?”

“Śāriputra, when bodhisattva great beings practice the awakening path,”

3.109 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816690#UT22084-029-001-512/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-512%22%5D\)

“What, Lord, is the bodhisattva great beings’ knowledge of a knower of all aspects?”

3.110 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816691#UT22084-029-001-13333/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-13333%22%5D\)

“in possession of that knowledge,”

3.113 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816692#UT22084-029-001-518/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-518%22%5D\)

“flesh eye”

3.114 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816693#UT22084-029-001-13334/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-13334%22%5D\)

“divine eye”

3.116 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816694#UT22084-029-001-525/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-525%22%5D\)

“wisdom eye”

3.117 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816695#UT22084-029-001-527/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-527%22%5D\)

“dharma eye”

3.124 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(?

commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816696#UT22084-029-001-542/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-542%22%5D\)

“buddha eye”

3.127 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(?

commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816698#UT22084-029-001-548/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-548%22%5D\)

“They do not apprehend a false projection of miraculous power,”

“What they might falsely project,”

“or what might be falsely projecting,”

“they do not apprehend”

“Its intrinsic nature is empty”

“its intrinsic nature is isolated”

“its intrinsic nature is not produced”

“They do not intend miraculous power”

“[they] intend to accomplish miraculous power”

3.133 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816697#UT22084-029-001-560/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-560%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, practicing the perfection of wisdom like that the six clairvoyances of bodhisattva great beings are perfected and purified, and those purified clairvoyances cause them to gain the knowledge of all aspects.”

3.134 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816707#UT22084-029-001-561/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-561%22%5D\)

“Therefore, Śāriputra, there are bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom who, standing in the perfection of giving, cleanse the path to the knowledge of all aspects based on not holding on to anything because of the emptiness that transcends limits.”

“Because of the emptiness that transcends limits”—

“Based on not holding on to anything”—

“standing in the perfection of giving, cleanse the path to”

3.135 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816708#UT22084-029-001-562/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-562%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, there are...,”

3.140 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816712#UT22084-029-001-568/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-568%22%5D\)

“Based on not having gone, not having come—

“based on not...”

“And not having grasped anything”—

3.141 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816715#UT22084-029-001-569/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-569%22%5D\)

“giving is designated based on holding on to things”—

3.142 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816716#UT22084-029-001-571/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-571%22%5D\)

“They do not falsely project ‘they have gotten beyond that.’ They do not falsely project ‘they have not gotten beyond that.’ ”

“They do not falsely project ‘giving and miserliness’ ”

“They do not falsely project ‘I have been snubbed.’ They do not falsely project ‘I have been saluted,’ ”

“Śāriputra, a nonproduction...”

3.144 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816720#UT22084-029-001-573/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-573%22%5D\)

“In regard to all beings, that they are the same”

“that all phenomena are the same”

5.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816352#UT22084-029-001-617/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-617%22%5D\)

“a hundred thousand one hundred million billion beings”

6.1 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816353#UT22084-029-001-622/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-622%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, starting with the perfection of wisdom, be confident in your readiness to give a Dharma discourse to the bodhisattva great beings about how bodhisattva great beings go forth in the perfection of wisdom,”

The Lord... said..., “Subhūti, starting with the perfection of wisdom, be confident in your readiness to give a Dharma discourse to the bodhisattva great beings about how bodhisattva great beings go forth in the perfection of wisdom.”

6.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816724#UT22084-029-001-623/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-623%22%5D\)

“Will venerable Subhūti instruct... on account of armor in which reposes the power of his own intellect and ready speech?”

6.3 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816723#UT22084-029-001-625/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-625%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, it is just the Tathāgata who, by skillful means, will expound the perfection of wisdom to the bodhisattva great beings.”

“Whatever the Lord’s śrāvakas say, teach, and expound”—

6.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816727#UT22084-029-001-627/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-627%22%5D\)

“Lord, ... [w]hat phenomenon is this, the word bodhisattva great being, for?”

6.5 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816742#UT22084-029-001-628/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-628%22%5D\)

“those... are just words,”

“do not exist inside, do not exist outside, and they cannot be apprehended where both do not exist”

“Subhūti, it is like this: the word being is uttered again and again, but you cannot apprehend any being,”

“and except for being used conventionally as a mere word and conventional term, any phenomenon that is a designation is not produced and does not stop,”

“self, being,”

6.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816747#UT22084-029-001-635/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-635%22%5D\)

“body”

6.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816748#UT22084-029-001-646/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-646%22%5D\)

“grass,”

6.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816749#UT22084-029-001-651/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-651%22%5D\)

“dream, echo, mirage,”

6.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816750#UT22084-029-001-653/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-653%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom they should train in names and conventional terms that make things known, in advice that makes things known, and in dharmas that make things known.”

6.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816751#UT22084-029-001-655/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-655%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings thus practicing the perfection of wisdom do not view ‘form is permanent,’ ”

6.29 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816753#UT22084-029-001-660/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-660%22%5D\)

“do not mentally construct... any of those dharmas.”

“conceptualize,”

“mentally construct,”

“Standing without mentally constructing any dharma they cultivate the applications of mindfulness,”

“the distinct attributes of a buddha.”

“[Bodhisattva great beings] practicing the perfection of wisdom excellently realize the defining marks of the dharmas. And that defining mark of a dharma, of the dharmas, is not defiled and is not purified.”

6.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816760#UT22084-029-001-662/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-662%22%5D\)

“having understood that they are [just] names and conventional terms that are dharma designations, they do not settle down on form,”

6.32 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816761#UT22084-029-001-664/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-664%22%5D\)

“the skillful means”

“They do not settle down on suchness. They do not settle down on the very limit of reality. They do not settle down on the dharma-constituent.”

6.33 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816763#UT22084-029-001-665/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-665%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings thus practicing the perfection of wisdom who do not settle down on all dharmas grow in the perfection of giving,”

“They will obtain the dhāraṇī gateways. They will obtain the meditative stabilization gateways.”

6.34 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816728#UT22084-029-001-667/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-667%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should thus understand names and conventional terms.”

6.35 10 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816730#UT22084-029-001-668/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-668%22%5D\)

“What do you think, Subhūti, is the bodhisattva form, or is the bodhisattva other than form?”

“What do you think, Subhūti, is the bodhisattva form, or is the bodhisattva other than form, or is the bodhisattva in form, or is form in the bodhisattva, or is the bodhisattva without form?”

“Or is the bodhisattva in form, or is form in the bodhisattva... or is the bodhisattva in feeling, or is feeling in the bodhisattva...?”

“Or is the bodhisattva without form... or is the bodhisattva without feeling...?”

“None of those, Lord.”

“What do you think... is the bodhisattva form?”

“What do you think... is the bodhisattva other than form? What do you think... is the bodhisattva other than feeling?”

“What do you think... is the bodhisattva in form? What do you think... is the bodhisattva in feeling?”

“What do you think... is form in the bodhisattva? Is feeling in the bodhisattva?”

“What do you think... is the bodhisattva without form? What do you think... is the bodhisattva without feeling?”

6.36 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816767#UT22084-029-001-671/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-671%22%5D\)

“Is the bodhisattva form... or is the bodhisattva feeling... or is the bodhisattva perception...?”

“Is the bodhisattva something other that is not form, ... is the bodhisattva something other that is not feeling...?”

“What do you think... is the bodhisattva feeling?”

“What do you think... is the bodhisattva perception... is the bodhisattva volitional factors?”

“What do you think... is the bodhisattva consciousness?”

6.47 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816785#UT22084-029-001-693/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-693%22%5D\)

“What do you think, Subhūti, is the bodhisattva the suchness of form?”

“None of those, Lord.”

6.49 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816784#UT22084-029-001-697/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-697%22%5D\)

“None of those, Lord.”

6.50 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816787#UT22084-029-001-699/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-699%22%5D\)

The Lord then asked

“Subhūti, for what reason do you say...?”

6.51 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816731#UT22084-029-001-700/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-700%22%5D\)

“Lord, when a bodhisattva great being absolutely does not exist and cannot be apprehended, how could that form be a bodhisattva?”

“Lord... when a bodhisattva absolutely does not exist and cannot be apprehended, how could that form be a bodhisattva?”

6.53 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816790#UT22084-029-001-704/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-704%22%5D\)

“How could the suchness of form be apprehended in it?”

6.56 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816732#UT22084-029-001-707/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-707%22%5D\)

“Bodhisattvas, Subhūti, should train in the perfection of wisdom like that, without apprehending a being.”

“Excellent, excellent, Subhūti!” said the Lord. “Bodhisattvas, Subhūti, should train in the perfection of wisdom like that, without apprehending a being.”

6.57 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816729#UT22084-029-001-708/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-708%22%5D\)

“Lord, you say... ‘bodhisattva great being,’”

“What phenomenon is this, the word bodhisattva, for?”

“Subhūti... what do you think, is bodhisattva the word for form?”

“What phenomenon is this, the word bodhisattva, for?”

“What do you think, Subhūti, is bodhisattva the word for form? Or do you think bodhisattva is the word for feeling?”

6.62 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816735#UT22084-029-001-717/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-717%22%5D\)

“Lord, when a form absolutely does not exist and cannot be apprehended, how could bodhisattva be the word for form?”

6.67 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816736#UT22084-029-001-722/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-722%22%5D\)

“Subhūti! ... when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom like that they should train in the perfection of wisdom without apprehending a word for form,”

“should train in the perfection of wisdom without apprehending a word for wishlessness,”

“Excellent, excellent, Subhūti!” said the Lord. “Bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that, Subhūti, should train in the perfection of wisdom without apprehending a word for form,” without apprehending the words for... consciousness is... a pleasurable state, a suffering state, self, selflessness, calmness, noncalmness, emptiness, nonemptiness, the state of having a sign, signlessness, the state of being wished for, or wishlessness,”

6.68 8 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816738#UT22084-029-001-723/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-723%22%5D\)

“I do not see that—namely, the phenomenon with the name bodhisattva,”

“The Lord, Subhūti, does not see the dharma-constituent,”

“Again, Subhūti, you say...”

“I do not see that—namely, the phenomenon bodhisattva,”

“Subhūti, the dharma does not see the dharma-constituent; the dharma-constituent does not see the dharma,”

“Subhūti, the form constituent does not see the dharma-constituent,”

“And why? You cannot make the uncompounded known without the compounded, and you cannot make the compounded known without the uncompounded.”

“Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that do not see any dharma at all, but they do not tremble, feel frightened, or become terrified at not seeing; their minds are not cowed by any dharma, do not tense up, and do not experience regret.”

6.69 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816772#UT22084-029-001-724/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-724%22%5D\)

“one who sees.”

“one who feels.”

“one who does.”

“one who knows.”

“do not see form”

“greed, hatred, and confusion;”

“a self, a being, and a living being,”

“the desire realm, form realm, and formless realm;”

“śrāvakas and śrāvakadharmas... pratyekabuddhas and pratyekabuddhadharmas... bodhisattvas and bodhisattva dharmas ... buddhas and buddhadharmas... and awakening.”

6.73 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816807#UT22084-029-001-728/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-728%22%5D\)

“Mind and mental factor dharmas”

“thinking mind and thinking mind dharmas”

6.74 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816354#UT22084-029-001-729/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-729%22%5D\)

“just that is the advice about the perfection of wisdom of bodhisattvas, just that is the instruction,”

“Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice the perfection of wisdom like that, without apprehending all dharmas,”

“That is the advice about the perfection of wisdom of bodhisattvas, just that is the instruction”

7.1 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816355#UT22084-029-001-731/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-731%22%5D\)

“Lord, bodhisattva great beings who want to comprehend form should train in the perfection of wisdom,”

“Lord, bodhisattva great beings who want to comprehend form should train in the perfection of wisdom,”

“Lord, bodhisattva great beings who want to comprehend form,”

7.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816812#UT22084-029-001-733/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-733%22%5D\)

“Who want to eliminate greed, hatred, and confusion”

7.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816813#UT22084-029-001-737/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-737%22%5D\)

“complete the ten wholesome actions... the perfections,”

7.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816814#UT22084-029-001-739/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-739%22%5D\)

“the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha.”

7.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816815#UT22084-029-001-740/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-740%22%5D\)

“obtain the dhāraṇi gateways and meditative stabilizations.”

7.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816816#UT22084-029-001-747/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-747%22%5D\)

“fulfill all the intentions of beings”

7.10 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816817#UT22084-029-001-748/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-748%22%5D\)

“complete all the wholesome roots.”

“The big flaw”—

7.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816819#UT22084-029-001-754/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-754%22%5D\)

“A conforming love for dharmas”—

7.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816820#UT22084-029-001-756/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-756%22%5D\)

“Form a persistent negative attachment to the notion” —

7.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816821#UT22084-029-001-763/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-763%22%5D\)

“flawlessness”

7.19 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816822#UT22084-029-001-765/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-765%22%5D\)

“Do not see in inner emptiness outer emptiness” —

“And... in outer emptiness inner emptiness” —

7.20 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816824#UT22084-029-001-768/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-768%22%5D\)

“Train so that they know form but do not falsely project anything because of it” —

“the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha,”

7.21 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816826#UT22084-029-001-770/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-770%22%5D\)

“do not falsely project anything even because of the thought of awakening.”

“Because that thought is no thought”—

“the basic nature of thought is clear light,”

7.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816829#UT22084-029-001-774/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-774%22%5D\)

“A thought that is not conjoined with greed nor disjoined from greed”

7.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816830#UT22084-029-001-776/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-776%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, the thought of which you say ‘it is no thought,’ does that thought exist?”

7.24 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816831#UT22084-029-001-778/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-778%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, can you apprehend existence or nonexistence there, in that state of no thought?”

“No, Venerable Subhūti.”

7.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816833#UT22084-029-001-780/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-780%22%5D\)

“Is then... this argumentative investigation of yours... appropriate?”

7.26 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816834#UT22084-029-001-781/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-781%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, what is the state of no thought?”

“Venerable Śāriputra, the state of no thought is a state without distortion and without conceptualization,”

7.27 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816836#UT22084-029-001-784/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-784%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, just as thought is without distortion and without conceptualization, so too is form without distortion and without conceptualization?”

7.28 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816837#UT22084-029-001-785/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-785%22%5D\)

“unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening are without distortion and without conceptualization as well.”

7.29 10 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.
Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816838#UT22084-029-001-786/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-786%22%5D\)

“The Lord’s son, close to his bosom”—
“born from his mouth,”
“born from his Dharma,” “magically produced from his Dharma,”
“his Dharma heir,”
“not heir to material possessions,”
“a direct eyewitness to the dharmas,”
“who witnesses with your body,”
“foremost of those who are at the conflict-free stage.”
“excellent!”

7.30 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.
Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816356#UT22084-029-001-787/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-787%22%5D\)

“because in this perfection of wisdom is detailed instruction for the three vehicles in which bodhisattva great beings should train on the level of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattvas, and buddhas,” “because in this perfection of wisdom there is detailed instruction for the three vehicles in which bodhisattva great beings should train on the level of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattvas, and buddhas.”

“in this perfection of wisdom is detailed instruction for the three vehicles,”

8.1 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816357#UT22084-029-001-790/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-790%22%5D\)

“Lord, given that I do not find, do not apprehend, and do not see a bodhisattva or the perfection of wisdom,”

“Lord, given that I do not find, do not apprehend, and do not see a bodhisattva or the perfection of wisdom, to which bodhisattva will I give advice and instruction in what perfection of wisdom?”

“Lord, given that I do not find, do not apprehend, and do not see any real basis...—Lord, while not finding, not apprehending, and not seeing any real basis, which dharma will advise and instruct which dharma?”

“this really is something I might be uneasy about.”

“Because, Lord, given that I do not find, do not apprehend, and do not see all dharmas, this really is something I might be uneasy about, how I might make just the name bodhisattva and just the name perfection of wisdom wax and wane.”

8.2 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816854#UT22084-029-001-791/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-791%22%5D\)

“Lord, furthermore, that name does not stand alone and does not meet up with anything. And why? It is because that name does not exist.”

“Lord, given that I do not apprehend and do not see the waxing and waning of form,”

8.8 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816856#UT22084-029-001-800/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-800%22%5D\)

“suchness, unmistakable suchness,”

like a dream

an illusion

a mirage

a city of the gandharvas

an echo

an apparition

a reflection in the mirror

a magical creation

8.11 10 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816861#UT22084-029-001-804/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-804%22%5D\)

a reflection of the moon in water

“Lord, whatever this designation bodhisattva that is a conventional term for the true nature of dharmas is, it cannot be said to be aggregates, or constituents, or sense fields,”

“wholesome or unwholesome or neutral, basic immorality or not basic immorality,”

“dream, illusion, mirage, city of the gandharvas, echo, apparition, a reflection in the mirror, and magical creation,”

“space, earth, water, fire, and wind,”

“suchness, unmistakable suchness, unaltered suchness, true nature of dharmas, dharma-constituent, establishment of dharmas, certification of dharmas, and very limit of reality,”

“morality, meditative stabilization, wisdom, liberation, and knowledge and seeing of liberation,”

“stream enterer, once-returned, non-returned, worthy one, and pratyekabuddha”;

“stream enterer dharmas,”

“bodhisattva, bodhisattva dharmas... and buddha, and buddhadharmas.”

8.12 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816849#UT22084-029-001-805/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-805%22%5D\)

“those bodhisattva great beings stand on the irreversible level by way of not taking their stand on it and will go forth to the knowledge of all aspects and will be near the knowledge of all aspects,”

“You should know that bodhisattva great beings stand on the irreversible level by way of not taking their stand on it and will go forth to the knowledge of all aspects.”

“[they] stand on the irreversible level by way of not taking their stand on it and will go forth to the knowledge of all aspects.”

8.13 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816877#UT22084-029-001-807/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-807%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Lord, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should not stand in form,”

“should not stand in form,”

“[they] should not stand in form; they should not stand in feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness,”

“they should not stand in form,”

“feeling”

8.14 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816884#UT22084-029-001-808/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-808%22%5D\)

“Lord, it is because form is empty of form... that emptiness of form is not form, and emptiness is not other than form. Form itself is emptiness, and emptiness itself is form.”

“empty”

“that emptiness of form is not form.”

“and emptiness is not other than form.”

“form itself is emptiness, and”

“emptiness itself is form.”

“form itself is emptiness, and emptiness itself is form,”

8.22 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816879#UT22084-029-001-816/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-816%22%5D\)

“Because of this one of many explanations, Lord, when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom they should not stand in syllables.”

“Should not stand in syllables”

“Should not stand in syllable accomplishment”—

“should not stand... in a single explanation, in two explanations, or in a number of different explanations.”

8.23 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816880#UT22084-029-001-818/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-818%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Lord, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should not stand in ‘form is impermanent,’ ”

“form that is impermanent is empty of the intrinsic nature of form that is impermanent.”

8.28 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816901#UT22084-029-001-824/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-824%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Lord, when bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom without skill in means stand in form with a mind that has descended into grasping at ‘I’ and grasping at ‘mine,’ they practice an enactment of form, and they do not practice the perfection of wisdom,”

8.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816881#UT22084-029-001-828/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-828%22%5D\)

“and therefore do not fulfill the perfection of wisdom and go forth to the knowledge of all aspects.”

8.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816902#UT22084-029-001-829/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-829%22%5D\)

“practicing an enactment [they] do not cultivate the perfection of wisdom,”

8.31 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816903#UT22084-029-001-830/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-830%22%5D\)

“It is because, Lord, form is not fully grasped,”

“form is not fully grasped, and...,”

“form is not fully grasped,”

“Because a form not fully grasped is not form, because of the emptiness of a basic nature.”

8.32 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816914#UT22084-029-001-831/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-831%22%5D\)

“Lord, this meditative concentration sphere of bodhisattva great beings is called sarvadharmāparigṛhīta; it is vast, prized, infinite, fixed, cannot be stolen, and is not shared in common with śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas”

8.33 8 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816905#UT22084-029-001-833/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-833%22%5D\)

“that knowledge of all aspects is not fully grasped, because of inner emptiness,”

“because of the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature.”

“And why? Because it cannot be expressed as a causal sign,”

“Abiding in that sphere of meditative stabilizations”

“And that knowledge of all aspects is not fully grasped, because of inner emptiness,”

“emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature,”

“it cannot be expressed as a causal sign.”

“Because a causal sign is an affliction”—

8.34 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816920#UT22084-029-001-834/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-834%22%5D\)

“What is a causal sign? Form is a causal sign,”

8.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816921#UT22084-029-001-835/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-835%22%5D\)

“If the perfection of wisdom were something that could be taken up through a causal sign, then the religious mendicant Śreṇika,”

8.36 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816908#UT22084-029-001-837/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-837%22%5D\)

“having thus comprehended he did not fully grasp form, did not fully grasp feeling,”

“And why? Because he did not apprehend a grasper of all dharmas that are empty of their own mark,”

“The religious mendicant Śreṇika also believed in this knowledge of a knower of all aspects.”

“Partial knowledge”—

“Having thus comprehended [he] did not fully grasp form. Similarly, he did not fully grasp feeling, perception, volitional factors, or consciousness,”

“because he did not apprehend a grasper of all dharmas that are empty of their own mark.”

“Because he did not see that knowledge as being an inner attainment and clear realization of knowledge, and he did not see it as being an outer one. He did not see that knowledge as being an inner and outer attainment and clear realization, and he did not see that attainment and clear realization of knowledge as being some other either.”

8.37 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816928#UT22084-029-001-838/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-838%22%5D\)

“because he did not apprehend and did not see that with which he might know, or that which the knowledge might know.”

“he did not see that knowledge inside form,”

8.38 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816925#UT22084-029-001-839/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-839%22%5D\)

“he has not fully grasped even the very limit of reality.”

“The religious mendicant Śreṇika believed in this one of many explanations,”

“because he did not pay attention to any causal signs.”

“Lord, this—... the state in which the bodhisattva great beings have gone beyond the others; it is the perfection of wisdom.”

“that he does not fully grasp form,”

8.39 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816909#UT22084-029-001-841/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-841%22%5D\)

“did not fully grasp the very limit of reality.”

“Lord, because all dharmas are not fully grasped, it is the bodhisattva great being’s perfection of wisdom.”

“In the interim they do not pass into complete nirvāṇa.”

“those prayers are nonprayers, those powers are nonpowers, those fearlessnesses are nonfearlessnesses, those detailed and thorough knowledges are nondetailed and nonthorough knowledges, up to those eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha are nonbuddhadharmas,”

8.40 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816936#UT22084-029-001-843/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-843%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Lord, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom should make an investigation like this,”

“What is it... of what is it... why is it... and what is it for?”

“if, when they investigate and ponder like that,”

“when they investigate and ponder”

“like that”—

“if... they see that the dharma that does not exist and that they do not find is the perfection of wisdom they still do not see it.”

“because, Lord, all dharmas do not exist and are not found.”

8.43 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816939#UT22084-029-001-846/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-846%22%5D\)

“thus, practicing the perfection of wisdom... are not separated from the knowledge of all aspects,”

“you should know”

“are not cowed... and do not tremble,”

“you should know”

“are not separated from the knowledge of all aspects.”

8.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816952#UT22084-029-001-847/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-847%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, why should you know that they are not separated from the knowledge of all aspects?”

8.45 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816940#UT22084-029-001-849/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-849%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, form is separated from the intrinsic nature of form,”

“the very limit of reality is separated from the intrinsic nature of the very limit of reality,”

“Venerable Śāriputra, because of this one of many explanations, form does not have the intrinsic nature of form,”

8.48 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816942#UT22084-029-001-852/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-852%22%5D\)

“furthermore, Venerable Śāriputra, form does not have the defining mark of form,”

“Furthermore, Venerable Śāriputra, form does not have the defining mark of form,”

8.50 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816958#UT22084-029-001-854/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-854%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, do bodhisattva great beings training in this training go forth to the knowledge of all aspects?”

8.51 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816943#UT22084-029-001-855/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-855%22%5D\)

“bodhisattva great beings who are training in this training go forth to the knowledge of all aspects,”

“all dharmas have not been produced and have not gone forth,”

“who are training in this... go forth to the knowledge of all aspects,”

“because all dharmas have not been produced and have not gone forth.”

“has not been produced”

“has not gone forth”

8.53 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816961#UT22084-029-001-857/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-857%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra... form is empty of form. You cannot get at its production and going forth.”

8.54 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816945#UT22084-029-001-858/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-858%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, a bodhisattva great being thus practicing the perfection of wisdom is near unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening,”

“Venerable Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings thus practicing the perfection of wisdom are near unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening”

9.1 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816964#UT22084-029-001-863/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-863%22%5D\)

“Lord, if bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom without skillful means practice form,”

“if... without skillful means [bodhisattva great beings] practice form they practice a causal sign; they do not practice the perfection of wisdom,”

9.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816967#UT22084-029-001-868/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-868%22%5D\)

“You should know that this is the bodhisattva great beings’ lack of skillful means.”

9.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816968#UT22084-029-001-870/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-870%22%5D\)

“possess, form a notion of, and believe in form,”

9.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816969#UT22084-029-001-874/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-874%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, you should know that bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom like that are without skillful means.”

9.12 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816970#UT22084-029-001-876/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-876%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra... when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom they do not practice form,”

“Venerable Śāriputra, when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom like that you should know that they have skillful means.”

9.15 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816972#UT22084-029-001-879/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-879%22%5D\)

“If, while practicing the perfection of wisdom they apprehend any dharma, they are not practicing the perfection of wisdom,”

“they apprehend... they do not apprehend... they apprehend when they apprehend and do not apprehend when they do not apprehend... and they neither apprehend nor not apprehend”

9.17 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816965#UT22084-029-001-882/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-882%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra... they... bodhisattva great beings... are close to the knowledge of all aspects.”

“[those] bodhisattva great beings... are close to the knowledge of all aspects.”

“ ‘I am practicing,’ ... ‘I am not practicing,’ ... ‘I am practicing when I am practicing and not practicing when I am not practicing,’ and... ‘I am neither practicing nor not practicing’ ”

“The perfection of wisdom is without an intrinsic nature and cannot be found”—

9.18 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816977#UT22084-029-001-884/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-884%22%5D\)

“furthermore... that knowledge of all aspects is not two and cannot be divided into two,”

“because all dharmas are things that are not real, that knowledge of all aspects is not two and cannot be divided into two,”

“Furthermore, because all dharmas are things that are not real, that knowledge of all aspects is not two and cannot be divided into two,”

9.25 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816988#UT22084-029-001-903/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-903%22%5D)

“those... do not even see those meditative stabilizations, because they do not falsely project on account of those meditative stabilizations, ‘I have been absorbed,’ ”

“Those bodhisattva great beings do not conceive of those.”

9.27 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816990#UT22084-029-001-905/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-905%22%5D)

“The perfection of wisdom is not one thing, the meditative stabilization another, and the bodhisattva yet another. Bodhisattvas themselves are the meditative stabilization, and the meditative stabilization itself is the bodhisattva.”

9.28 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816991#UT22084-029-001-906/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-906%22%5D)

“because all dharmas are the same.”

“Is it possible to teach the meditative stabilization?”—

“No indeed, Venerable Śāriputra.”

9.29 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816994#UT22084-029-001-908/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-908%22%5D\)

“Do they form a notion of those meditative stabilizations?”

“They do not form such notions.”

9.30 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816996#UT22084-029-001-910/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-910%22%5D\)

“How do they not form such notions?”

“They do not mentally construct them.”

9.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816998#UT22084-029-001-912/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-912%22%5D\)

“because all phenomena do not exist.”

9.33 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816999#UT22084-029-001-918/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-918%22%5D\)

“taught to be the foremost of śrāvakas at the conflict-free stage”

“excellent!”

9.35 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816980#UT22084-029-001-921/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-921%22%5D)

“Śāriputra, when bodhisattva great beings train like that in the perfection of wisdom,”

“they train in the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, by way of not apprehending anything,”

“Śāriputra... training like that... up to they train in the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha, by way of not apprehending anything,”

9.38 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817002#UT22084-029-001-924/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-924%22%5D)

“Śāriputra, because of the state of absolute purity they do not apprehend a self,”

“aggregates, constituents, sense fields,”

“they do not apprehend a stream enterer,”

“a buddha.”

“because of the state of absolute purity”

9.39 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817007#UT22084-029-001-926/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-926%22%5D)

“Lord, what is purity?”

“Śāriputra, not being produced, not stopping, not being defilement, not being purification, not appearing, not being apprehended, and not occasioning anything is called the purity of all dharmas.”

9.41 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817009#UT22084-029-001-929/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-929%22%5D\)

“Do not train in any dharma”—

“those dharmas do not exist in the way foolish, ordinary people take them to be.”

9.42 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817011#UT22084-029-001-930/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-930%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, as they do not exist, so do they exist.”

“Thus, they do not exist, so one says ignorance.”

9.43 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817013#UT22084-029-001-934/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-934%22%5D\)

“Lord why are the nonexistent called ignorance?”

“Śāriputra, form does not exist,”

9.44 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817015#UT22084-029-001-937/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-937%22%5D\)

“Those foolish people [who] settle down on them because of ignorance and craving... are attached to the two extremes.”

“permanence and annihilation.”

“They do not know, and they do not see”—

9.45 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817018#UT22084-029-001-938/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-938%22%5D\)

“they are, therefore, counted as fools. They will not definitely emerge.”

9.49 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817019#UT22084-029-001-943/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-943%22%5D\)

“they are, therefore, counted as fools,”

9.52 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817020#UT22084-029-001-946/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-946%22%5D\)

“Why... do they... not train... and not go forth?”

9.53 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817021#UT22084-029-001-947/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-947%22%5D\)

“without skillful means they mentally construct and settle down on”

“the knowledge of all aspects.”

9.59 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816982#UT22084-029-001-953/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-953%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, they go forth to the knowledge of all aspects by way of not apprehending emptiness.”

10.1 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816983#UT22084-029-001-956/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-956%22%5D\)

“Lord, suppose someone were to ask, ‘Does this illusory being, having trained in the perfection of wisdom, go forth to the knowledge of all aspects or reach the knowledge of all aspects?’ ”

“Lord, suppose someone were to ask,”

10.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817024#UT22084-029-001-957/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-957%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, what do you think about this: Is illusion one thing and form another?”

10.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817025#UT22084-029-001-970/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-970%22%5D\)

“Illusion is not one thing, Lord, and the knowledge of all aspects another; the knowledge of all aspects is itself illusion, Lord, and illusion is itself the knowledge of all aspects.”

10.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817026#UT22084-029-001-976/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-976%22%5D\)

“production... stopping... defilement and purification”

10.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817027#UT22084-029-001-986/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-986%22%5D\)

“train... like that, by way of not apprehending anything, they go forth to the knowledge of all aspects and reach the knowledge of all aspects.”

10.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816984#UT22084-029-001-994/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-994%22%5D\)

“Because, Lord, form is like an illusion, and feeling ... perception... volitional factors... and consciousness is like an illusion, and what that consciousness is, the six faculties are. They are the five aggregates.”

10.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817028#UT22084-029-001-996/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-996%22%5D\)

“Lord, if bodhisattva great beings who have newly set out in the vehicle were to hear this exposition would they not tremble, feel frightened, and become terrified?”

10.25 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816985#UT22084-029-001-998/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-998%22%5D\)

“Subhūti... if they are bodhisattva great beings who have newly set out in the vehicle, and are those without skillful means who have not been taken in hand by a spiritual friend,”

“those without skillful means who have not been taken in hand by a spiritual friend, they will tremble, feel frightened, and become terrified, but those with skillful means will not tremble and become terrified.”

10.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817030#UT22084-029-001-999/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-999%22%5D\)

“Lord, what skillful means do bodhisattva great beings who have newly set out in the vehicle have not to tremble, feel frightened, and become terrified when they hear this exposition?”

10.27 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817031#UT22084-029-001-1000/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1000%22%5D)

“[they] analytically understand about form its impermanent aspect, but do not apprehend it,”

“Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom with attention connected with the knowledge of all aspects,”

10.30 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817032#UT22084-029-001-1003/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1003%22%5D)

“you should know that this is the skillful means of bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom,”

“Subhūti, you should know that this is the skillful means of bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom,”

10.40 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817035#UT22084-029-001-1013/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1013%22%5D)

“Form is not empty because of the emptiness of form”—

“form is itself emptiness, emptiness is itself form.”

10.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817037#UT22084-029-001-1017/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1017%22%5D)

“Subhūti, the spiritual friends of bodhisattva great beings,”

10.48 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817038#UT22084-029-001-1022/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1022%22%5D\)

“they, Subhūti, are the spiritual friends of bodhisattva great beings. If they have taken them in hand they do not tremble, feel frightened, or become terrified when they hear this exposition,”

10.58 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817039#UT22084-029-001-1035/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1035%22%5D\)

“How should you know you have been taken in hand by spiritual friends?”

10.68 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816358#UT22084-029-001-1047/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1047%22%5D\)

“someone who does not teach and explain to them that such things as those are works of Māra, Subhūti, they should know is a bad friend of a bodhisattva great being, and knowing that, should shun them,”

“someone... Subhūti, they should know is a bad friend of a bodhisattva great being.”

“Subhūti, they should know [that] is a bad friend of a bodhisattva great being, and knowing that, should shun them,”

11.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816359#UT22084-029-001-1049/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1049%22%5D\)

“Lord, you say ‘bodhisattva great being.’ What is the meaning of the term?”

11.2 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817042#UT22084-029-001-1051/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1051%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the meaning of the word bodhisattva is an absence of a basis in reality,”

“Subhūti, it is because bodhi and sattva are not produced. Awakening and a being do not have an arising or an existence. They cannot be apprehended.”

“Subhūti, awakening has no basis in reality and a being has no basis in reality.”

“Therefore, a bodhisattva’s basis in reality is an absence of a basis in reality.”

11.3 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817046#UT22084-029-001-1052/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1052%22%5D\)

“To illustrate, Subhūti, the track of a bird in space does not exist and cannot be apprehended,”

“To illustrate, Subhūti, the track of a bird in space does not exist and cannot be apprehended,”

“To illustrate, Subhūti, in a dream a basis does not exist and cannot be apprehended,”

11.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817049#UT22084-029-001-1054/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1054%22%5D\)

“To illustrate further, Subhūti, in suchness a basis does not exist and cannot be apprehended,”

11.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817050#UT22084-029-001-1055/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1055%22%5D\)

“To illustrate further, Subhūti, in an illusory person a basis of form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness does not exist and cannot be apprehended,”

11.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817051#UT22084-029-001-1061/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1061%22%5D\)

“To illustrate, Subhūti, a basis of the form, feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness of a tathāgata, worthy one, perfect complete buddha does not exist and cannot be apprehended.”

11.16 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817052#UT22084-029-001-1066/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1066%22%5D\)

“To illustrate further, Subhūti, in the uncompounded element a basis of the compounded element does not exist,”

“in the compounded element a basis of the uncompounded element does not exist,”

11.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817054#UT22084-029-001-1067/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1067%22%5D)

“To illustrate, Subhūti, in the absence of production... the absence of stopping, the absence of occasioning anything, the absence of appearing, the absence of being apprehended, the absence of defilement, and the absence of purification a basis in reality does not exist,”

11.20 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817055#UT22084-029-001-1070/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1070%22%5D)

“To illustrate further, Subhūti, in form a basis in reality for the absence of production, the absence of stopping, the absence of occasioning anything, the absence of appearing, the absence of being apprehended, the absence of defilement, and the absence of purification does not exist,”

11.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817056#UT22084-029-001-1072/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1072%22%5D)

“To illustrate further, Subhūti, in the state of the absolute purity of form a basis for a causal sign does not exist,”

11.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817057#UT22084-029-001-1075/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1075%22%5D\)

“To illustrate further, Subhūti, just as in the state of the absolute purity of the self and so on a basis for a causal sign does not exist,”

11.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817058#UT22084-029-001-1081/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1081%22%5D\)

“To illustrate further, Subhūti, in the radiance of the sun and moon a basis does not exist,”

11.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817059#UT22084-029-001-1082/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1082%22%5D\)

“To illustrate further, the light of the sun, moon, planets, stars, jewels, and lightning”;

11.32 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817060#UT22084-029-001-1083/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1083%22%5D\)

“the light of a tathāgata”

11.33 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817061#UT22084-029-001-1084/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1084%22%5D\)

“because, Subhūti, all those phenomena—that which is awakening, that which is the bodhisattva, that which is the basis in reality of a bodhisattva—are not conjoined, are not disjoined,”

“cannot be analyzed”

“cannot be pointed out”

“do not obstruct”

“have only one mark—that is, no mark,”

“Should train in nonattachment and in the nonexistence”—

11.50 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817067#UT22084-029-001-1115/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1115%22%5D\)

“By not constructing any phenomena and not entertaining any ideas about them”—

“They should know all phenomena in a nondual way”

11.51 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817069#UT22084-029-001-1117/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1117%22%5D\)

“Lord, you say ‘bodhisattva great beings.’ Why do you say ‘bodhisattva great beings’?”

11.52 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817070#UT22084-029-001-1118/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1118%22%5D\)

“they will become the foremost of a great mass of beings, a great collection of groups of beings.”

“Great mass of beings”—

“Many groups of beings”—

11.54 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817078#UT22084-029-001-1122/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1122%22%5D\)

“the Gotra level”

“pratyekabuddhas.”

11.56 8 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817081#UT22084-029-001-1124/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1124%22%5D\)

“vajra-like”

“give away all my personal possessions.”

“the same attitude of mind.”

“lead beings to nirvāṇa by means of the three vehicles.”

“I must understand that... all phenomena are not produced and do not stop.”

“the unmixed thought of the knowledge of all aspects.”

“the all-pervasive, thoroughly established realization of dharmas,”

“I must awaken to finding and producing within myself all dharmas, from the aggregates, up to the perfections, in accord with one principle,”

11.58 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817091#UT22084-029-001-1129/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1129%22%5D\)

“I must, even for the sake of one being,”

11.59 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817092#UT22084-029-001-1131/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1131%22%5D\)

“a prodigious thought,”

“greedy... hateful... confused... violent... [or] śrāvaka or pratyekabuddha thought.”

“That, Subhūti, is the bodhisattva great beings’ prodigious thought on account of which they become the foremost of all beings, but without falsely projecting anything.”

11.60 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817095#UT22084-029-001-1132/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1132%22%5D\)

“that their attention connected with the knowledge of all aspects does not falsely project anything”

11.61 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817096#UT22084-029-001-1133/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1133%22%5D\)

“should think to be of benefit and bring happiness.”

11.63 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817097#UT22084-029-001-1135/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1135%22%5D\)

“a delight in Dharma... should stand in emptiness... and should abide in meditative stabilization.”

“the unbroken unity of all dharmas”

12.3 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817071#UT22084-029-001-1151/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1151%22%5D\)

“the view of a self”

“view of annihilation”

“the view of aggregates”

“the view of complete nirvāṇa.”

“Eliminate the view of a self,”

“Eliminate the view of aggregates,”

12.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817101#UT22084-029-001-1153/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1153%22%5D\)

“Apprehend form, and by way of apprehending it produce a view about it”—

12.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817075#UT22084-029-001-1156/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1156%22%5D\)

“unattached even to that thought”

12.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817103#UT22084-029-001-1159/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1159%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, what is the thought that is equal to the unequalled, a thought not shared in common with any śrāvakas or pratyekabuddhas?”

12.9 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817104#UT22084-029-001-1160/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1160%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, here after the production of the first thought of awakening,”

“They do not see either the production or stopping of any dharma at all”—

“no production, no stopping, no decrease, no increase, no coming, no going, no defilement, and no purification.”

“the thought equal to the unequaled, a thought not shared in common.”

12.10 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817108#UT22084-029-001-1161/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1161%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, you said,”

“Venerable Subhūti, would not form, then, also be unattached?”

12.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817110#UT22084-029-001-1163/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1163%22%5D\)

“That thought... is without outflows and does not belong”—

12.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817102#UT22084-029-001-1169/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1169%22%5D\)

“That thought is no thought and because it is no thought it is unattached even to that.”

12.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817111#UT22084-029-001-1174/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1174%22%5D\)

“No-form also is unattached to form.”

13.2 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817076#UT22084-029-001-1179/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1179%22%5D\)

“are armed with great armor... have set out in a great vehicle, and... have mounted on a great vehicle.”

“are armed with great armor”

“have set out in a Great Vehicle”

“have mounted on a Great Vehicle”

13.4 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817115#UT22084-029-001-1182/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1182%22%5D\)

“do not practice for awakening for a partial number of beings,”

“Not... for a partial number of beings”

13.6 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817117#UT22084-029-001-1185/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1185%22%5D\)

“furthermore, Venerable Śāriputra, bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom give a gift,”

“is the perfection of giving armor.”

“made... into something shared in common by all beings”

“to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening”

13.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817123#UT22084-029-001-1188/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1188%22%5D\)

“with attention not connected with śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas... it is perfection of morality armor”

13.8 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817124#UT22084-029-001-1189/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1189%22%5D\)

“forbearance for”

“phenomena,”

“the perfection of patience armor.”

13.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817127#UT22084-029-001-1190/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1190%22%5D\)

“the perfection of perseverance armor.”

13.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817128#UT22084-029-001-1191/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1191%22%5D\)

“the perfection of concentration armor.”

13.11 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817129#UT22084-029-001-1192/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1192%22%5D\)

“Have only that as their focus”

“perfection of wisdom armor.”

13.34 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816485#UT22084-029-001-1218/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1218%22%5D\)

“but still do not actualize the very limit of reality.”

13.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817118#UT22084-029-001-1219/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1219%22%5D\)

“cry out cries of delight and proclaim the name.”

13.36 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817133#UT22084-029-001-1220/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1220%22%5D\)

“Venerable Pūrṇa, to what extent have bodhisattva great beings set out in a great vehicle, and what is the bodhisattva great beings’ Great Vehicle?”

13.42 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817135#UT22084-029-001-1227/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1227%22%5D\)

“pay attention to the attributes, tokens, and signs”

“That, Venerable Śāriputra, is the bodhisattva great beings’ Great Vehicle, and in that way bodhisattva great beings have set out in the Great Vehicle.”

13.50 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817137#UT22084-029-001-1236/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1236%22%5D\)

“That, Venerable Śāriputra, is the bodhisattva great beings’ Great Vehicle that is the six perfections, and in that way bodhisattva great beings have set out in the Great Vehicle.”

13.51 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817138#UT22084-029-001-1238/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1238%22%5D\)

“the distinct attributes of a buddha”

“That, Venerable Śāriputra, is the bodhisattva great beings’ Great Vehicle, and in that way bodhisattva great beings have set out in the Great Vehicle.”

13.64 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817134#UT22084-029-001-1253/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1253%22%5D\)

“in that way... [they] have set out in the Great Vehicle.”

“That, Venerable Śāriputra, is the bodhisattva great beings’ Great Vehicle, and in that way bodhisattva great beings have set out in the Great Vehicle.”

13.65 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817141#UT22084-029-001-1254/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1254%22%5D\)

“Venerable Pūrṇa, to what extent does a bodhisattva great being stand in the Great Vehicle?”

13.66 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817142#UT22084-029-001-1256/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1256%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, here when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom they mount up on the perfection of giving,”

“stand in the perfection of giving.”

13.67 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817144#UT22084-029-001-1258/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1258%22%5D\)

“meditate on... emptiness... because of the investigation of the meditation.”

14.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817145#UT22084-029-001-1267/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1267%22%5D\)

“Lord, to what extent are bodhisattva great beings armed with great armor?”

14.34 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817146#UT22084-029-001-1314/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1314%22%5D\)

“The way I understand what you, Lord, have said...”

“Oh! Those bodhisattva great beings should be understood to be armed with no armor,”

“because all dharmas, given the illusory nature of dharmas, are empty of their own mark.”

“form is empty of form”

“great armor is empty of great armor. I understand that bodhisattva great beings are armed with no armor, Lord, through this one of many explanations.”

“armed with no armor.”

14.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817151#UT22084-029-001-1316/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1316%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the knowledge of all aspects is not made, is not unmade, and does not occasion anything”?

14.37 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817153#UT22084-029-001-1319/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1319%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, given that you cannot apprehend a maker, the knowledge of all aspects is not made, not unmade, and does not occasion anything ... Because they absolutely do not exist and absolutely cannot be apprehended.”

14.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817154#UT22084-029-001-1320/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1320%22%5D\)

“suchness,”

14.40 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817155#UT22084-029-001-1323/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1323%22%5D\)

“Lord, the way I understand what you have said, Lord,”

“form is not bound and is not freed”?

“not bound and are not freed”

14.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817159#UT22084-029-001-1327/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1327%22%5D)

“dream-like”

14.46 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817158#UT22084-029-001-1329/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1329%22%5D)

“Venerable Pūrṇa, because form does not exist, form is not bound and is not freed,”

“Because [they are] isolated, calm, empty”

15.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817161#UT22084-029-001-1339/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1339%22%5D)

“Lord, what is the Great Vehicle of bodhisattva great beings?”

15.11 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817162#UT22084-029-001-1359/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1359%22%5D)

“eyes are empty of eyes because they are neither unmoved nor destroyed.”

“Because that is their basic nature”—

15.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817164#UT22084-029-001-1363/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1363%22%5D)

“emptiness of inner and outer,”

15.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817165#UT22084-029-001-1366/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1366%22%5D)

“the emptiness of that emptiness that is the emptiness of all dharmas is the emptiness of emptiness.”

15.16 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817166#UT22084-029-001-1368/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1368%22%5D)

“The eastern direction is empty of the eastern direction”;

“great emptiness,”

15.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817168#UT22084-029-001-1370/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1370%22%5D)

“Nirvāṇa is also empty of nirvāṇa because it is neither unmoved nor destroyed.”

15.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817169#UT22084-029-001-1372/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1372%22%5D\)

“The compounded”

15.19 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817170#UT22084-029-001-1374/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1374%22%5D\)

“What has no production, no stopping, no destruction, no lasting, and no changing into something else”—

“uncompounded,”

“the emptiness of the uncompounded.”

15.21 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817173#UT22084-029-001-1378/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1378%22%5D\)

“that of which a beginning and an end are not found has no middle,”

“no beginning and end,”

“the emptiness of no beginning and no end.”

15.22 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817176#UT22084-029-001-1380/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1380%22%5D\)

“The emptiness of nonrepudiation”—

“nonrepudiation is empty of nonrepudiation”

15.23 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817178#UT22084-029-001-1382/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1382%22%5D\)

“The emptiness of a basic nature”—

“the basic nature of... the compounded or uncompounded,”

“is not made by śrāvakas... pratyekabuddhas... or tathāgatas,”

“a basic nature is empty of a basic nature.”

15.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817182#UT22084-029-001-1384/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1384%22%5D\)

“All dharmas are empty of all dharmas”

15.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817183#UT22084-029-001-1386/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1386%22%5D\)

“The emptiness of its own mark”—

15.26 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817184#UT22084-029-001-1389/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1389%22%5D\)

“The emptiness of not apprehending”—

“dharmas”

“cannot be apprehended.”

“not apprehending is empty of not apprehending”

15.29 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817188#UT22084-029-001-1396/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1396%22%5D\)

“The emptiness of the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature”—

“Subhūti, the intrinsic nature of a phenomenon that has arisen from a union does not exist.”

“Subhūti, the intrinsic nature of a phenomenon that has arisen from a union does not exist, because phenomena have originated dependently.”

15.30 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817191#UT22084-029-001-1398/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1398%22%5D\)

“an existent thing is empty of an existent thing, a nonexistent thing is empty of a nonexistent thing”—

“An existent thing”

“an existent thing is empty of an existent thing.”

“nonexistent thing”

“a nonexistent thing is empty of a nonexistent thing.”

15.33 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817196#UT22084-029-001-1402/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1402%22%5D\)

“Intrinsic nature”

“has not been made by knowledge,”

“has not been made by seeing,”

“basic nature... called the emptiness of an intrinsic nature.”

15.34 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817200#UT22084-029-001-1403/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1403%22%5D\)

“Whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise”—

“suchness,”

“true nature of dharmas”

“remains,”

“the emptiness of a nature from something else”

15.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817205#UT22084-029-001-1405/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1405%22%5D\)

“the meditative stabilization sūraṅgama”

16.1 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817206#UT22084-029-001-1545/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1545%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Subhūti, the Great Vehicle of bodhisattva great beings is this: the four applications of mindfulness.”

“body... feeling... mind... and dharmas”—

16.2 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817208#UT22084-029-001-1546/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1546%22%5D\)

“Dwell while viewing in a body the inner body”—

“viewing in a body the outer body.”

“viewing in a body the inner and outer body.”

16.3 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817211#UT22084-029-001-1547/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1547%22%5D\)

“inner feelings, inner mind, and inner dharmas.”

“outer feelings, outer mind, and outer dharmas.”

“inner and outer feelings, inner and outer mind, and inner and outer dharmas.”

“without indulging in speculations to do with the body.”

“By way of not apprehending anything”

“Enthusiastic, introspective, mindful, having cleared away ordinary covetousness and depression”—

16.4 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817218#UT22084-029-001-1548/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1548%22%5D\)

“dwell, while viewing in a body the inner body, aware, when practicing, ‘I am practicing,’ ”

“practicing... standing... sitting... and lying down.”

“Aware, when practicing, ‘I am practicing,’ ”

16.5 26 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817220#UT22084-029-001-1549/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1549%22%5D\)

“going out or coming back, clearly conscious of what they are doing”

“gone, stood, sat down, slept”

“When they have looked around or peered, they are clearly conscious of what they are doing,”

“going out”

“coming back”

“have looked around,”

“peered”

“They have pulled in,”
“stretched out,”
“under robe,”
“outer robe.”
“a begging bowl.”
“have eaten”
“drunk” “chewed” “savored”
“overcome by drowsiness”
“warded off”
“gone” “stood”
“sat down”
“slept” “awoken”
“spoken”
“remained silent,”
“withdrawn for meditation”

16.6 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817247#UT22084-029-001-1551/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1551%22%5D\)

“are mindful when breathing in, aware of the fact ‘I am breathing in’;
are mindful when breathing out, aware of the fact ‘I am breathing out.’

“When breathing in long, [they] are aware of the fact ‘I am breathing in long.’”

16.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817249#UT22084-029-001-1552/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1552%22%5D)

“a skillful potter or potter’s apprentice”

16.10 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817250#UT22084-029-001-1557/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1557%22%5D)

“dead for one day... bloated”;

“dead for two days... black and blue”;

“dead for three days, or dead for four days... putrid”;

“or dead for five days... cleaned out by worms,”

“has such a quality”;

“is of such a nature”;

“does not go beyond having that as its natural state.”

16.11 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817257#UT22084-029-001-1559/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1559%22%5D)

“being eaten”

“chewed up”

16.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817259#UT22084-029-001-1562/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1562%22%5D\)

“daubed with flesh and blood, and hardly connected by sinews”

16.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817260#UT22084-029-001-1564/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1564%22%5D\)

“the bones no longer held in the frame of a skeleton, detached from each other, scattered about like conch shells”

16.16 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817261#UT22084-029-001-1565/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1565%22%5D\)

“in one the bones of the feet, in another the bones of the lower leg”

“scattered”

16.20 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817263#UT22084-029-001-1570/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1570%22%5D\)

“the four right abandonments.”

“generate the desire..., making an effort at it, making a vigorous attempt, tightening up the mind and perfectly settling it down.”

16.21 17 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817265#UT22084-029-001-1574/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1574%22%5D\)

“the four legs of miraculous power.”

“yearning... perseverance, concentrated mind, and examination.”

“yearning... meditative stabilization.”

“perseverance... meditative stabilization.”

“concentrated mind... meditative stabilization.”

“endowed with an examination... meditative stabilization.”

“volitional effort to eliminate”

“develop”

“limb of”

“miraculous power endowed with”

“Based on isolation”—

“detachment”

“cessation”

“renunciation”

“based on detachment”

“based on cessation”

“transformed by renunciation”

16.22 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817282#UT22084-029-001-1577/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1577%22%5D\)

“faith faculty,”

“perseverance faculty,”

“mindfulness faculty,”

16.23 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817285#UT22084-029-001-1579/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1579%22%5D\)

“faith power.”

“perseverance”

16.24 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817287#UT22084-029-001-1581/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1581%22%5D\)

“the seven”

“limbs of awakening”

“examination of dharmas, perseverance, and joy,” “pliability, meditative stabilization, and equanimity”

“mindfulness”

16.25 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817292#UT22084-029-001-1583/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1583%22%5D\)

“right view, right idea, and right effort”

“right speech, right conduct, and right livelihood”

“right mindfulness and right meditative stabilization,”

“the eightfold noble path.”

16.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817296#UT22084-029-001-1585/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1585%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Subhūti, the Great Vehicle of bodhisattva great beings is this: the three meditative stabilizations that are the three gateways to liberation. What are the three? They are the emptiness meditative stabilization, the signless meditative stabilization, and the wishless meditative stabilization.”

16.27 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817297#UT22084-029-001-1586/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1586%22%5D\)

“that which is the stability of mind when it understands analytically that all dharmas are empty of their own marks is the emptiness gateway to liberation. It is called the emptiness meditative stabilization.”

16.28 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817298#UT22084-029-001-1587/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1587%22%5D\)

“that which is the stability of mind when it understands analytically that all dharmas are without a causal sign is the signlessness gateway to liberation. It is called the signlessness meditative stabilization.”

16.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817299#UT22084-029-001-1588/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1588%22%5D\)

“that which is the stability of mind when it understands analytically that all dharmas do not occasion anything is the wishlessness gateway to liberation. It is called the wishlessness meditative stabilization.”

16.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817300#UT22084-029-001-1590/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1590%22%5D\)

“eleven knowledges”

16.32 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817301#UT22084-029-001-1591/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1591%22%5D\)

“is knowledge of suffering.”

“is called knowledge of suffering.”

“knowledge that suffering is not produced.”

16.33 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817304#UT22084-029-001-1592/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1592%22%5D\)

“Knowledge of the abandonment of origination”

16.34 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817305#UT22084-029-001-1593/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1593%22%5D\)

“The knowledge of the cessation of suffering”

16.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817306#UT22084-029-001-1594/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1594%22%5D\)

“The knowledge of the eightfold noble path”

16.36 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817307#UT22084-029-001-1595/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1595%22%5D\)

“The knowledge that greed, hatred, and confusion have been extinguished”

16.37 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817308#UT22084-029-001-1596/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1596%22%5D\)

“The knowledge that a form of life in suffering existence is not produced”

“knowledge of nonproduction”

16.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817310#UT22084-029-001-1597/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1597%22%5D\)

“Knowledge of the dharma”

16.39 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817311#UT22084-029-001-1599/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1599%22%5D\)

“subsequent realization knowledge”

16.40 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817312#UT22084-029-001-1600/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1600%22%5D\)

“conventional knowledge”

16.41 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817313#UT22084-029-001-1601/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1601%22%5D\)

“Knowledge of mastery”—

“knowledge of the path and knowledge of extinction.”

16.42 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817315#UT22084-029-001-1602/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1602%22%5D\)

“what is knowledge in accord with sound? It is a tathāgata’s knowledge of all sounds.”

16.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817316#UT22084-029-001-1604/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1604%22%5D\)

“The three faculties”—

16.44 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817317#UT22084-029-001-1605/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1605%22%5D\)

“The faculty of coming to understand what one does not understand”

“Without appearances that tame the arrogance”—

16.45 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817318#UT22084-029-001-1606/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1606%22%5D\)

“the faculty of understanding”

16.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817319#UT22084-029-001-1607/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1607%22%5D\)

“the faculty of having understood”

16.47 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817321#UT22084-029-001-1609/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1609%22%5D\)

“the meditative stabilization with applied thought and with sustained thought”

“without applied thought with only sustained thought”

“without either applied or sustained thought”

16.52 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817324#UT22084-029-001-1616/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1616%22%5D\)

“the four immeasurables”

“a mind endowed with love”

“vast”

“inclusive”;

“infinite.”

“nondual.”

“without enmity”;

“unrivaled”;

“not harmful,”

16.54 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817333#UT22084-029-001-1620/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1620%22%5D\)

“the four concentrations,”

16.55 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817334#UT22084-029-001-1622/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1622%22%5D\)

“detached from sense objects,”

“Detached from wrong unwholesome dharmas”

“applied thought and sustained thought”

“Born of detachment”—

“joy and happiness”

16.56 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817339#UT22084-029-001-1623/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1623%22%5D)

“relieved of applied thought and sustained thought, with an inner serene confidence.”

“and a mind that has become a single continuum.”

“without applied thought and without sustained thought”

16.57 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817342#UT22084-029-001-1624/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1624%22%5D)

“because they are free from attachment to joy they abide in equanimity, and with equanimity and recollection and introspection experience happiness with their body.”

“with recollection and introspection.”

“experience pleasure with their body... about which the noble beings say, ‘They have equanimity and recollection and dwell in pleasure.’ ”

16.58 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817345#UT22084-029-001-1625/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1625%22%5D)

“they have forsaken pleasure.”

“have earlier forsaken suffering”

“set to rest mental happiness”

“mental unhappiness”

“that is neither happiness nor suffering.”

“Extremely pure equanimity and recollection”

16.60 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817351#UT22084-029-001-1628/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1628%22%5D\)

“totally transcending perceptions of form”

“setting to rest perceptions of obstruction.”

“not paying attention to perceptions of difference.”

“in endless space they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the station of endless space.”

16.61 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817355#UT22084-029-001-1629/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1629%22%5D\)

“Totally transcending the station of endless space, in endless consciousness”—

16.62 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817356#UT22084-029-001-1630/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1630%22%5D\)

“Totally transcending the station of endless consciousness”—

“in nothing-at-all they perfectly accomplish and dwell in the station of nothing-at-all.”

16.63 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817358#UT22084-029-001-1631/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1631%22%5D\)

“Totally transcending the station of nothing-at-all”—

“neither perception,”

“nor nonperception.”

16.65 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817361#UT22084-029-001-1634/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1634%22%5D\)

“with form they see forms”

“with the perception of form inside, they see forms outside”

16.66 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817363#UT22084-029-001-1636/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1636%22%5D\)

“They have admiration for the pleasant”

16.71 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817364#UT22084-029-001-1643/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1643%22%5D\)

“The nine serial absorptions”

16.82 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817365#UT22084-029-001-1655/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1655%22%5D\)

“Accurately knowing the possible as possible, and accurately knowing the impossible as impossible.”

16.83 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817366#UT22084-029-001-1656/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1656%22%5D\)

“The power of knowing the maturation of action.”

“know from the perspective of place and cause the maturations of actions and the undertaking of actions.”

16.84 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817368#UT22084-029-001-1658/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1658%22%5D\)

“The world with its various constituents and multiplicity of constituents”—

16.85 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817369#UT22084-029-001-13384/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-13384%22%5D\)

“Accurately knowing the various beliefs and the many beliefs of other beings and other persons.”

16.86 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817370#UT22084-029-001-1661/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1661%22%5D\)

“Accurately knowing the stages of faculties and perseverance of other beings and other persons.”

“Accurately knowing the path wherever it goes.”

16.87 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817372#UT22084-029-001-1663/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1663%22%5D\)

“Accurately knowing the defilement and purification of all concentrations, deliverances, meditative stabilizations, and absorptions.”

“The emergence”

16.88 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817374#UT22084-029-001-1664/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1664%22%5D\)

“recollecting and knowing... previous lives”;

“the divine eye,”

16.89 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817376#UT22084-029-001-1665/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1665%22%5D\)

“an end to outflows,”

16.90 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817377#UT22084-029-001-1667/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1667%22%5D\)

“The four fearlessnesses”—

16.91 12 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817378#UT22084-029-001-1668/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1668%22%5D\)

“Those leading a secluded religious life, and brahmins,”

“the gods, [and] Māra”

“Brahmā”

“I see no cause”—

“argue”

“I, who have found happiness”

“the status of the dominant bull,”

“Found fearlessness”

“roar”

“the lion,”

“Found a ground for self-confidence”

“Brahmā-like, turn the wheel”

16.95 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817390#UT22084-029-001-1673/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1673%22%5D\)

“The detailed and thorough knowledge of dharmas, detailed and thorough knowledge of meanings”—

“Creative explanations”—

“detailed and thorough knowledge of confidence giving readiness to speak.”

16.96 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817405#UT22084-029-001-1675/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1675%22%5D\)

“the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha.”

16.97 12 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817393#UT22084-029-001-1676/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1676%22%5D\)

“do not go wrong.”

“[They] do not shout out.”

“[They] are not robbed of mindfulness.”

“[They] do not have uncollected thoughts.”

“[They] do not discriminate differences.”

“[They] are not inconsiderately dispassionate.”

“[They] are not deficient in yearning, are not deficient in perseverance, are not deficient in recollection, are not deficient in meditative stabilization, are not deficient in wisdom, are not deficient in liberation, and are not deficient in the insight into knowledge of liberation.”

“All physical actions are preceded by knowledge and informed by knowledge.”

“mental actions”

“see past time with knowledge free from attachment and free from obstruction.”

“the future,”

“the present”

16.98 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816230#UT22084-029-001-1679/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1679%22%5D\)

What are the dhāraṇī doors? The sameness of all letters and syllables, the sameness of all spoken words, the syllable-doors, the syllable-entrances. What then are the syllable-doors, the syllable-entrances? The syllable a is the door to all dharmas being unproduced from the very beginning (ādy-anutpannatvād); ra is a door to the insight that all dharmas are without dirt (rajas),

“the sameness of the way the letters work.”

“letters as gateways.”

“entrance through letters,”

16.99 44 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816895#UT22084-029-001-1680/%5Bdata-

“a is the door to all dharmas because they are unproduced from the very beginning.”

“The letter a is the gateway to all dharmas because they are unproduced from the very beginning (ādy-anutpannatvād).”

“without dirt (rajas)”

“ra,”

“Unproduced,”

“Because they are ultimately without distinctions”—

“Because of the way death and rebirth are unfindable”

“Because of the way names are unfindable”—

“They transcend the ordinary world”

“Because the vine of existence and the causes and conditions have been destroyed”—

“Because tamed and staying tamed have a certain limit”—

“Because they are free from bonds”—

“Because disorder has gone”—

“Because attachment is unfindable”—

“Because the sound of speech paths has been cut”—

“Because they do not wander from suchness”—

“Because in fact they are not produced”—

“Because they have nothing to be pretentious about”—

“Because an agent is unfindable”—

“They do not pass beyond sameness”

“Because taking something as ‘mine’ is unfindable”—

“Because going is unfindable”—

“Because a standing place is unfindable”—

“Because birth is unfindable”—

“Because breath is unfindable”—

“Because a dharma is unfindable”—

“Because a state the same as the sky is unfindable”—

“Because extinction is unfindable”—

“Because knowledge is unfindable”—

“Because a cause is unfindable”—

Because destruction is unfindable”—

“Because a beautiful skin color is unfindable”—

“Because mindfulness is unfindable”—

“Because calling out is unfindable”—

“Because eagerness is unfindable”—

“Because density in dharmas is unfindable”—

“Because establishment is unfindable”—

“Because conflict is unfindable”—

“Because a result is unfindable”—

“Because aggregates are unfindable”—

“Because old age is unfindable”—

“Because conduct is unfindable”—

“Because harm is unfindable”—

“Because grasping at something as ‘I’ is unfindable”—

16.100 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817453#UT22084-029-001-1687/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1687%22%5D\)

“By which anything might be conventionally designated, or by which anything might be expressed, expounded”—

“by which anything might be... realized, or seen—

16.102 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817455#UT22084-029-001-1689/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1689%22%5D\)

“Will not become perplexed whatever the sound”—

“Will succeed though the sameness of dharmas”—

“Skill in understanding sounds”

16.104 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817458#UT22084-029-001-1694/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1694%22%5D\)

“Mindfulness”

“Intelligence”

“Awareness”

17.1 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817461#UT22084-029-001-1698/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1698%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, in regard to what you have asked—‘How have bodhisattva great beings come to set out in the Great Vehicle?’ ”

“By all dharmas not changing place”—

“But even though they do not falsely project the level of those dharmas... they still do the purification for a level”

17.2 13 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817466#UT22084-029-001-1701/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1701%22%5D\)

“the purification of the basis for the benefit”

“aspiration.”

“beneficial.”

“the same state of mind.”

“giving up things.”

“spiritual friends”

“serve”

“seek the doctrine.”

“renunciation.”

“long for the body of a buddha”

“an exposition of dharmas.”

“truth statements.”

“the ten purifications.”

17.3

11 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(?commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817479#UT22084-029-001-1705/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1705%22%5D\)

“the second level,”

“pay attention to... morality,”

“a feeling of appreciation and gratitude”

“patience”

“great delight”

“not ignoring any being”

“compassion”

“faith in gurus”

“reverence,”

“the perfections”

“the eight attentions.”

17.4

1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(?commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817490#UT22084-029-001-1706/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1706%22%5D\)

“In raising up and transforming wholesome roots for the purification of a buddhafield”

17.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817464#UT22084-029-001-1721/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1721%22%5D\)

“Lord, what is done in purification of the surpassing aspiration of bodhisattva great beings occupying the first level?”

17.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817491#UT22084-029-001-1747/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1747%22%5D\)

“Not giving up dwelling in the forest”—

17.41 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817494#UT22084-029-001-1750/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1750%22%5D\)

“the qualities of the ascetic”—

17.42 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817495#UT22084-029-001-1751/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1751%22%5D\)

“where all training is without movement”

17.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817496#UT22084-029-001-1754/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1754%22%5D\)

“Not causing all the dharmas to come into being”—

17.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817497#UT22084-029-001-1756/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1756%22%5D\)

“Their minds not connecting with the foundations of consciousness”

17.77 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817498#UT22084-029-001-1791/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1791%22%5D\)

“By resorting to a view of the Buddha they do not see the Buddha.”

17.81 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817499#UT22084-029-001-1795/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1795%22%5D\)

“ ‘All dharmas are empty,’ because they are empty of their own particular characteristics, not empty of emptiness.”

17.82 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817500#UT22084-029-001-1796/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1796%22%5D\)

“Because the empty is an emptiness of its own particular characteristic, therefore emptiness does not oppose emptiness”—

17.83 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817501#UT22084-029-001-1797/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1797%22%5D\)

“Because the empty is the emptiness of emptiness and they do not cause emptiness to be realized in emptiness”—

17.86 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817502#UT22084-029-001-1800/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1800%22%5D\)

“Purification of the three spheres”

17.88 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817503#UT22084-029-001-1802/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1802%22%5D\)

“Because of the purity of the field of beings”—

17.89 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817504#UT22084-029-001-1803/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1803%22%5D\)

“Not adding to and not taking away”—

“sameness”

17.90 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817506#UT22084-029-001-1804/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1804%22%5D\)

“The absence of a realization of all dharmas”—

“realization of the way things are perfect... is the absence of a realization.”

17.93 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817508#UT22084-029-001-1807/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1807%22%5D\)

“The absence of habitual ideas about dual phenomena is the exposition of the one way things are.”

17.95 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817509#UT22084-029-001-1809/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1809%22%5D\)

“The views of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas”—

17.99 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817510#UT22084-029-001-1813/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1813%22%5D\)

“All six faculties do not radiate out.”

17.100 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817511#UT22084-029-001-1814/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1814%22%5D\)

“What is not a level of attachment on account of unobstructed knowledge?”

17.107 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817512#UT22084-029-001-1821/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1821%22%5D\)

“It is attending on the Dharma”—

17.110 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817513#UT22084-029-001-1824/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1824%22%5D\)

“Purifying the”

“minds”—

“buddhfield”

17.112 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817516#UT22084-029-001-1826/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1826%22%5D\)

“Matured meditative stabilization”—

“absorbed in meditation.”

17.117 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817518#UT22084-029-001-1832/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1832%22%5D)

“A river of confidence”

17.118 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817519#UT22084-029-001-1833/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1833%22%5D)

“Taking birth miraculously”—

17.128 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817520#UT22084-029-001-1843/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1843%22%5D)

“Śuklavipaśyanā level”

“Gotra level”

“Aṣṭamaka level”

“Darśana level”

“Tanū level”

“Vitarāga level”

“Kṛtāvin level”

18.1 13 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.
Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817527#UT22084-029-001-1848/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1848%22%5D\)

“it will go forth from the three realms and will stand wherever there is knowledge of all aspects.”

“Furthermore, by way of nonduality”—

“are not conjoined and not disjoined,”

“formless”

“cannot be pointed out,”

“do not obstruct”—

“have only one mark—that is, no mark.”

“Because, Subhūti, a dharma without a mark is not going forth, nor will it go forth, nor has it gone forth.”

“Subhūti, someone who would assert that dharmas without marks go forth might as well assert of suchness that it goes forth,”

“Subhūti, the intrinsic nature of suchness does not go forth from the three realms.”

“Suchness is empty of the intrinsic nature of suchness.”

“the inconceivable element,”

“The abandonment element, the detachment element, and the cessation element”—

18.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.
Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817540#UT22084-029-001-1862/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1862%22%5D\)

“name... causal sign... conventional term... communication... or a designation”—

18.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817541#UT22084-029-001-1863/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1863%22%5D\)

“nonproduction... nonstopping... nondefilement... nonpurification... and not occasioning anything”—

18.15 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817542#UT22084-029-001-1866/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1866%22%5D\)

“that vehicle will not stand anywhere.”

“Because no dharma stands”—

“And yet, Subhūti, that vehicle will stand by way of not standing”

“suchness does not stand or not stand.”

18.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817546#UT22084-029-001-1888/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1888%22%5D\)

“That vehicle, standing by way of not standing and by way of not moving, will not stand anywhere.”

18.36 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817547#UT22084-029-001-1889/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1889%22%5D\)

“Who will go forth in”

“the Great Vehicle.”

“One who goes forth”

“by which one goes forth”

“from where one goes forth”

18.37 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817552#UT22084-029-001-1891/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1891%22%5D\)

“You cannot apprehend a self because it is extremely pure”

18.38 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817553#UT22084-029-001-1894/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1894%22%5D\)

“Lord, what do you not apprehend such that all these dharmas are not apprehended?”

“not apprehending suchness”

“And why”

“because of not apprehending”

“suchness”

“not apprehended.”

“not apprehended.”

“the Śuklavipaśyanā level”

“Gotra level”

19.1 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817562#UT22084-029-001-1901/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1901%22%5D\)

“Lord, you say this—‘Great Vehicle,’ ”

“It surpasses the world with its gods, humans, and asuras and goes forth; that is why it is called a great vehicle.”

“it surpasses the world with its gods, humans, and asuras and goes forth; ... that vehicle is equal to space... to illustrate, Lord, just as space has room for infinite, countless beings beyond measure, ... you cannot apprehend coming or going ... [and] you cannot apprehend a prior limit or a later limit,”

19.2 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817564#UT22084-029-001-1903/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1903%22%5D\)

“That Great Vehicle is equal to space”

“To illustrate, just as space”

“has room”—

“beings”

“Great Vehicle,”

19.3 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817569#UT22084-029-001-1905/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1905%22%5D\)

“To illustrate,”

“space”

“coming,”

“going,”

“remaining,”

“the Great Vehicle.”

19.4 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817575#UT22084-029-001-1906/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1906%22%5D\)

“To illustrate,”

“the Great Vehicle.”

19.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817578#UT22084-029-001-1911/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1911%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Subhūti, where you have said, ‘This vehicle surpasses the world with its gods, humans, and asuras and goes forth,’ ”

19.10 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817579#UT22084-029-001-1912/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1912%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, if the desire realm were to be factual, unmistaken,”

“Subhūti, if the desire realm were to be factual, unmistaken, unaltered, not an error, reality, the real,”

“true, as things are,”

“permanent, stable, eternal, qualified by not changing,”

“Subhūti, it is because the desire realm is all a construction, a creation, a narrative,”

“Not existent, and nonexistent”

“the world with its gods, humans, and asuras”

19.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817581#UT22084-029-001-1919/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1919%22%5D\)

“were to be existent, not nonexistent.”

19.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817587#UT22084-029-001-1940/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1940%22%5D\)

“voice with sixty special qualities”

19.41 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817589#UT22084-029-001-1944/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1944%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, you said, ‘The Great Vehicle is equal to space,’ ”

19.45 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817590#UT22084-029-001-1950/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1950%22%5D\)

“decrease [and] increase”

“reduced”

19.47 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817592#UT22084-029-001-1952/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1952%22%5D\)

“produced,”

“stopping,”

“lasting,”

“nonlasting,”

“last and then change into something else,”

19.50 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817597#UT22084-029-001-1955/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1955%22%5D\)

“[It is] not something that should be understood”—

“[It is] not something that should not be understood,”

“not something that should be thoroughly understood,”

19.51 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817600#UT22084-029-001-1956/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1956%22%5D\)

“A maturation”

“subject to maturation”

19.62 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817602#UT22084-029-001-1967/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1967%22%5D\)

“[It is] not found,”

“not apprehended,”

19.63 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817604#UT22084-029-001-1969/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1969%22%5D\)

“not discourse,”

“not not discourse,”

19.64 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817606#UT22084-029-001-1970/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1970%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, where you said, ‘To illustrate, Lord, just as space has room for infinite, countless beings beyond measure,’ ”

“You should know, Subhūti, that because a being is not existent, space is not existent, and you should know that because space is not existent the Great Vehicle is not existent.”

19.68 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817617#UT22084-029-001-1976/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1976%22%5D\)

“the dharma-constituent,”

19.69 10 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817608#UT22084-029-001-1978/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1978%22%5D\)

“Suchness is nonexistent because beings are nonexistent.”

“all dharmas are nonexistent,”

“like space,”

“has room.”

“infinite”

“because a being is not existent, space is not existent... because space is not existent the Great Vehicle is not existent.”

“infinite,”

“countless,”

“beyond measure.”

“suchness.”

19.70 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817619#UT22084-029-001-1979/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1979%22%5D\)

“self, a living being,”

“the very limit of reality.”

19.71 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817621#UT22084-029-001-1980/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1980%22%5D\)

“the inconceivable element,”

19.72 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817622#UT22084-029-001-1981/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1981%22%5D\)

“form”

“consciousnesses”;

“feelings”;

19.74 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817628#UT22084-029-001-1984/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1984%22%5D\)

“perfections”;

19.75 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817629#UT22084-029-001-1985/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1985%22%5D\)

“the emptinesses”;

19.76 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817632#UT22084-029-001-1986/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1986%22%5D\)

“the ten powers,”

“the distinct attributes of a buddha”;

19.77 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817634#UT22084-029-001-1987/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1987%22%5D\)

“the Gotra level,”

“the Kṛtāvin level”;

19.78 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817636#UT22084-029-001-1988/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1988%22%5D\)

“stream enterer”

“worthy one”;

19.79 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817638#UT22084-029-001-1989/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1989%22%5D\)

“pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattvas, and buddhas”;

19.80 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817639#UT22084-029-001-1991/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1991%22%5D\)

“vehicles”;

19.81 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817640#UT22084-029-001-1992/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1992%22%5D\)

“nirvāṇa.”

19.82 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817641#UT22084-029-001-1993/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1993%22%5D\)

“In this vehicle you cannot apprehend ‘coming or going,’ and there is not even ‘remaining,’

“Subhūti, all dharmas are unmoving. They do not go anywhere, they do not come from anywhere, and they do not remain anywhere,”

19.83 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817643#UT22084-029-001-1995/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1995%22%5D\)

“Basic nature... suchness... intrinsic nature” —

19.85 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817644#UT22084-029-001-1997/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-1997%22%5D\)

“mark,”

19.97 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817645#UT22084-029-001-2009/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2009%22%5D\)

“You cannot apprehend that vehicle’s prior limit, cannot apprehend its later limit, and cannot apprehend its middle either. This is a vehicle equally of the three time periods. That is why ‘Great Vehicle’ is said,”

19.98 8 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817646#UT22084-029-001-2011/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2011%22%5D)

“the past time period is empty of the past time period,”

“the equality of the three time periods is also empty of the equality of the three time periods.”

“the Great Vehicle is also empty of the Great Vehicle.”

“the bodhisattva is also empty of the bodhisattva.”

“Subhūti, in emptiness there is no one, or two, or three,”

“ten.”

“Therefore, this is a vehicle... equally of the three time periods,” “Therefore, this is the vehicle of the bodhisattva great beings equally of the three time periods.”

19.99 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817654#UT22084-029-001-2012/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2012%22%5D)

“In this Great Vehicle you cannot apprehend same or not the same,”

“Same, or not the same,”

“you cannot apprehend greed or free from greed,”

19.100 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817657#UT22084-029-001-2013/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2013%22%5D)

“a past form, Subhūti, is empty of a past form,”

19.101 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817658#UT22084-029-001-2014/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2014%22%5D\)

“Given that you cannot apprehend even emptiness because it is empty of emptiness, how could you ever apprehend a past form in emptiness?”

19.104 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817659#UT22084-029-001-2017/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2017%22%5D\)

“you cannot apprehend”

“the perfection of giving”

“in the equality”

“given that you cannot apprehend even equality in the equality...?”

“how could you ever apprehend the past, future, and present perfection of giving in the equality?”

19.112 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817664#UT22084-029-001-2027/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2027%22%5D\)

“Therefore, it is the Great Vehicle of the bodhisattva great beings.”

20.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817665#UT22084-029-001-2032/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2032%22%5D\)

“Lord, tasked with the perfection of wisdom... this elder Subhūti thinks he has to give instruction in the Great Vehicle.”

20.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817666#UT22084-029-001-2034/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2034%22%5D\)

“Let it not be the case, Lord, that I am giving instruction in the Great Vehicle, having violated the perfection of wisdom”

20.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817679#UT22084-029-001-2035/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2035%22%5D\)

“you are giving instruction in the Great Vehicle in harmony with the perfection of wisdom”

20.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817667#UT22084-029-001-2040/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2040%22%5D\)

“by giving instruction in the Great Vehicle you have given instruction in the perfection of wisdom, and by giving instruction in the perfection of wisdom you have given instruction in the Great Vehicle.”

20.8 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817668#UT22084-029-001-2041/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2041%22%5D\)

“Lord, one does not apprehend a bodhisattva at the prior limit,”

“Lord, one has to know the limitlessness of a bodhisattva through the limitlessness of form,”

“Lord, even such an idea as ‘form is a bodhisattva’ does not exist and is not found,”

“advice and instruction,”

20.11 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817672#UT22084-029-001-2045/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2045%22%5D\)

“So, Lord, I, who thus do not find a bodhisattva great being as anyone at all in any way at all,”

“You say this, Lord, that is, ‘bodhisattva.’ It is just a word.”

“To illustrate, Lord, you say ‘self’ again and again, but it has absolutely not come into being.”

“Lord, given that all phenomena thus have no intrinsic nature, what is that form that has come into being?”

“Lord, what has come into being is not form,”

“Lord, you cannot apprehend those bodhisattva great beings who would practice for awakening other than those who have not come into being, so does what has not come into being give advice and instruction in a perfection of wisdom that has not come into being?”

“one should know that when the mind of a bodhisattva given such instruction is not cowed... then that bodhisattva great being is practicing the perfection of wisdom,”

20.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817680#UT22084-029-001-2048/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2048%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, because beings are nonexistent one does apprehend a bodhisattva at the prior limit... at the later limit... or in the middle”

20.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817682#UT22084-029-001-2050/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2050%22%5D\)

“because form is nonexistent one cannot find a bodhisattva at the prior limit,”

20.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817683#UT22084-029-001-2052/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2052%22%5D\)

“are not two, nor are they divided”

20.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817681#UT22084-029-001-2053/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2053%22%5D\)

“one does not come close to a bodhisattva”

20.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817684#UT22084-029-001-2063/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2063%22%5D)

“Venerable Śāriputra, because suchness is nonexistent one does not come close to a bodhisattva at the prior limit,”

20.32 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817685#UT22084-029-001-2069/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2069%22%5D)

Why, Venerable Śāriputra, should one know the limitlessness of a bodhisattva through the limitlessness of form...?”

20.37 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817686#UT22084-029-001-2075/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2075%22%5D)

“Venerable Śāriputra, form is empty of form,”

20.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817687#UT22084-029-001-2076/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2076%22%5D)

“in emptiness form does not exist,”

20.44 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817688#UT22084-029-001-2082/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2082%22%5D\)

“form is not found in form, form is not found in feeling,”

“as anyone at all in any way at all.”

20.55 8 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817690#UT22084-029-001-2093/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2093%22%5D\)

“this—that is, ‘bodhisattva’—is a name plucked out of thin air.”

“Because the words for all dharmas do not come from anywhere in the ten directions and do not go anywhere”

“so too the word for a bodhisattva does not come from anywhere and does not go anywhere.”

“because these—that is, ‘form,’ ‘feeling,’ ‘perception,’ ‘volitional factors,’ and ‘consciousness’—are simply just designated by names,”

“that name”—

“is not form,”

“because a name is empty of the intrinsic nature of a name. That which is empty is not the name,”

“so, one says ‘this, that is, “bodhisattva,” is just a word.’ ”

20.56 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817698#UT22084-029-001-2094/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2094%22%5D)

“in that perfection of giving also there are no words and in those words there is no perfection of giving.”

“both those words and that perfection of giving do not exist and cannot be found.”

20.61 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817700#UT22084-029-001-2099/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2099%22%5D)

“Venerable Śāriputra, given that a self absolutely does not exist and is not found, how could it have ever come into being?”

20.73 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817701#UT22084-029-001-2111/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2111%22%5D)

“An intrinsic nature arisen from a union does not exist.”

“given that all dharmas thus are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, ... an intrinsic nature... does not exist.”

20.76 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816478#UT22084-029-001-2116/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2116%22%5D)

“all dharmas are in their intrinsic nature nonexistent things,”

“all dharmas are in their intrinsic nature nonexistent things”

20.77 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817703#UT22084-029-001-2117/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2117%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Venerable Śāriputra, all dharmas are impermanent but not because anything disappears.”

“not because anything disappears.”

20.79 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817705#UT22084-029-001-2120/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2120%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, it is because something impermanent is a nonexistent thing and has come to an end,”

“Similarly, all dharmas are suffering.”

“suffering is a nonexistent thing and has come to an end.”

“selfless,”

“Something selfless is a nonexistent thing and has come to an end”

20.80 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816466#UT22084-029-001-2122/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2122%22%5D\)

“all dharmas have no intrinsic nature.”

20.81 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817710#UT22084-029-001-2123/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2123%22%5D\)

“All dharmas are neither unmoved nor destroyed.”

20.84 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817711#UT22084-029-001-2128/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2128%22%5D\)

“form has not occasioned anything,”

“because someone to enact them does not exist.”

20.85 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817713#UT22084-029-001-2129/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2129%22%5D\)

“have not come into being.”

20.86 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817714#UT22084-029-001-2131/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2131%22%5D\)

“Form is empty of a basic nature, and what is empty of a basic nature does not arise and does not pass away, and in what does not arise and does not pass away there is no transformation,”

“What is empty of a basic nature does not arise and does not pass away.”

20.87 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817716#UT22084-029-001-2132/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2132%22%5D\)

“what has not come into being is not form,”

“what has not come into being is not consciousness,”

20.88 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817718#UT22084-029-001-2133/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2133%22%5D\)

“what has not come into being is the perfection of wisdom, and the perfection of wisdom is what has not come into being,”

“Does what has not come into being give advice and instruction in a perfection of wisdom that has not come into being?”

20.89 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817720#UT22084-029-001-2134/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2134%22%5D\)

“do not see ‘what has not come into being as one thing and a bodhisattva as another,’ ”

“What has not come into being and form are not two”

20.91 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817722#UT22084-029-001-2138/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2138%22%5D\)

“all dharmas”

“an illusion, a mirage,”

“they do not feel cowed by or tremble”

20.92 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817725#UT22084-029-001-2139/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2139%22%5D\)

“they do not then grasp, do not accept, do not base themselves on, and do not settle down on form, and neither do they label anything ‘this is form.’ ”

“When bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom investigate those dharmas like that they do not then grasp, do not accept, do not base themselves on, and do not settle down on form, and neither do they label anything ‘this is form’ ”;

20.96 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817726#UT22084-029-001-2143/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2143%22%5D\)

“And why? Lord, it is because form is not produced, and the nonproduction of form is not form. Therefore form and nonproduction are not two nor are they divided. And why? Lord, it is because that nonproduction is not one nor is it many.”

“form is not produced, and the nonproduction of form is not form,”

20.100 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817727#UT22084-029-001-2147/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2147%22%5D\)

“Lord, suchness is not produced, and the nonproduction of suchness is not suchness. Therefore, suchness and nonproduction are not two nor are they divided.”

20.102 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817728#UT22084-029-001-2149/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2149%22%5D\)

“Lord, it is because form is impermanent, so a decrease in form is not form. ... Therefore, form and a decrease are not two nor are they divided. And why? Lord, it is because a decrease is not one nor is it many.”

“a decrease in form is not form”;

20.106 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817730#UT22084-029-001-2153/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2153%22%5D\)

“Lord, anything called form is counted as not two,”

“feeling,”

“anything called form is counted as not two.”

21.1 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817732#UT22084-029-001-2155/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2155%22%5D)

“then venerable Śāriputra inquired of venerable Subhūti”

“What is a bodhisattva? What is the perfection of wisdom? What is it to investigate?”

“To investigate”

21.2 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817738#UT22084-029-001-2156/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2156%22%5D)

“they are called bodhisattvas because awakening is itself their state of being,”

“And with that awakening they know the aspects of dharmas but they do not settle down on those dharmas.”

21.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817740#UT22084-029-001-2159/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2159%22%5D)

“Whatever the attributes, tokens, and signs on account of which”—

21.5 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817741#UT22084-029-001-2162/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2162%22%5D)

“Venerable Śāriputra, that which is called perfection of wisdom has gone far off.”

“is called wisdom gone to the other side.”

21.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817744#UT22084-029-001-2170/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2170%22%5D)

“Venerable Subhūti, why do you say, ‘...the nonproduction of form is not form...’ ”

21.13 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817745#UT22084-029-001-2171/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2171%22%5D)

“Venerable Śāriputra, form is empty of form”

“The emptiness of form is not form, and is not production.”

“Venerable Śāriputra, because of this one of many explanations, the nonproduction of form is not form”

21.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817748#UT22084-029-001-2176/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2176%22%5D)

“Venerable Subhūti, why do you say, ‘It is because a decrease in form is not form,’ ”

21.19 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817749#UT22084-029-001-2177/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2177%22%5D\)

“not conjoined and not disjointed”—

“have no mark.”

21.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817751#UT22084-029-001-2180/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2180%22%5D\)

“nonproduction is not one thing and form another; nonproduction itself is form, and form itself is nonproduction.”

21.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817752#UT22084-029-001-2181/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2181%22%5D\)

“not two.”

21.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817753#UT22084-029-001-2183/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2183%22%5D\)

“they then view the nonproduction of form,”

21.27 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817754#UT22084-029-001-2185/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2185%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, if form is a nonproduction, up to the buddhadharmas are a nonproduction, then, Venerable Subhūti, will śrāvakas not have already gained śrāvaka awakening,”

“the five awakenings”

“undertake the difficult practices”

“turning the wheel of the Dharma”

21.28 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817758#UT22084-029-001-2188/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2188%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, I do not accept that an unproduced dharma has an attainment, or a clear realization. I do not accept that which is unproduced becomes a stream enterer. I do not accept that which is unproduced has the result of stream enterer.”

21.29 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817759#UT22084-029-001-2190/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2190%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, I do not accept that bodhisattvas are undertaking difficult practices.”

“the idea of difficulty”

“bodhisattva great beings do not appropriate and do not apprehend any dharma as anything in any way at all,”

21.30 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817762#UT22084-029-001-2192/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2192%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, in the absence of production I do not accept that there is the state of a tathāgata,”

“I do not accept that an unproduced dharma attains an unproduced attainment.”

21.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817764#UT22084-029-001-2194/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2194%22%5D\)

“Well then, Venerable Subhūti, does an unproduced dharma attain a produced attainment, or does a produced dharma attain an unproduced attainment?”

21.32 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817765#UT22084-029-001-2195/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2195%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, I do not accept that a produced dharma attains an unproduced attainment,”

21.34 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817766#UT22084-029-001-2197/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2197%22%5D\)

“There is an attainment and there is a clear realization, but not in a dual way.”

“attainment and clear realization are labeled by ordinary convention,”

“stream enterer, tathāgata,”

21.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817769#UT22084-029-001-2198/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2198%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, is the unproduced similar to the attainment and clear realization that, as ordinary convention, is formless, cannot be pointed out, does not block, and has only one mark—that is, no mark?”

21.36 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817770#UT22084-029-001-2199/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2199%22%5D\)

“Exactly so, Venerable Śāriputra”

“Venerable Śāriputra, because of this one of many explanations neither is production produced nor is nonproduction produced.”

21.37 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817772#UT22084-029-001-2200/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2200%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, you are confident in your readiness to say again and again that ‘dharmas are unproduced’? You are also confident in your readiness to say there is no production of unproduced dharmas?”

21.38 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817773#UT22084-029-001-2201/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2201%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, I have no ready confidence to say again and again that dharmas are unproduced. I have no ready confidence to say there is no production of unproduced dharmas.”

“And why? Because, Venerable Śāriputra, an unproduced dharma, nonproduction, ready confidence, saying something, and a state of production—all those dharmas are not conjoined and not disjoined, are formless, cannot be pointed out, do not obstruct, and have only one mark—that is, no mark.”

21.39 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817775#UT22084-029-001-2202/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2202%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, is there is no production of saying, is there also no production of ready confidence, and is there also no production of a dharma? Are those dharmas that are the point of departure for a ready confidence to say something also not produced?”

21.40 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817776#UT22084-029-001-2203/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2203%22%5D\)

“exactly so,”

“There is no production of saying, there is also no production of ready confidence, and there is also no production of a dharma. Those dharmas that are the point of departure for a ready confidence to say something are not produced,”

“there is no production of form,”

21.42 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817779#UT22084-029-001-2205/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2205%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, just as attainment and clear realization exist as ordinary conventions, similarly,”

“Venerable Śāriputra, it is because ultimately there is no maturation of karma, there is no production, there is no cessation, there is no defilement, and there is no purification.”

21.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817781#UT22084-029-001-2206/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2206%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, is an unproduced dharma produced or is a produced dharma produced?”

21.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42821201#UT22084-029-001-2207/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2207%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, I do not accept that an unproduced dharma is produced, nor do I accept that a produced dharma is produced.”

21.45 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817783#UT22084-029-001-2208/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2208%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, what unproduced dharma do you not accept is produced?”

21.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817784#UT22084-029-001-2210/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2210%22%5D\)

“What produced dharma do you not accept is produced?”

21.49 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817785#UT22084-029-001-2212/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2212%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, is a dharma that has not been produced, produced; or is a dharma that has been produced, produced?”

21.50 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817786#UT22084-029-001-2214/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2214%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, the unproduced is not produced, and the produced is not produced either,”

“Venerable Śāriputra, it is because both produced and unproduced dharmas are not conjoined and not disjoined because there is no production,”

“there is no production of form,”

“there is no production of the knowledge of all aspects.”

21.51 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817790#UT22084-029-001-2215/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2215%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, because of this one of many explanations, there is no production of saying, there is also no production of ready confidence, and there is also no production of a dharma; those dharmas that are the point of departure for a ready confidence to say something are not produced.”

21.53 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817791#UT22084-029-001-2219/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2219%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, form is empty of a basic nature”

21.55 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817792#UT22084-029-001-2223/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2223%22%5D\)

“It has no fixed position inside, it has no fixed position outside, and it cannot be apprehended without both.”

21.62 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817793#UT22084-029-001-2230/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2230%22%5D\)

“purify the awakening path”

“there is an ordinary... and there is an extraordinary”

21.66 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817795#UT22084-029-001-2235/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2235%22%5D\)

“It does not move from, does not transcend, and does not pass beyond the ordinary world,”

21.78 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817796#UT22084-029-001-2251/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2251%22%5D\)

“as which the world (as subject) exists,”

“on account of them the world is established”—

“the world is the same as them”—

“on account of them there is something given to the world”—

“on account of them they do not escape the world”—

“they are for the coming into being of the world”—

“they come into being in the world”—

21.79 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817804#UT22084-029-001-2255/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2255%22%5D\)

“On account of them the world goes free”—

“they eliminate the world”—

“on account of them a world causes an escape”—

“those that are not the world”—

“the world from which they will escape”—

“those who free from the world”—

“those who free in the world”—

21.86 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817811#UT22084-029-001-2264/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2264%22%5D\)

“Excellent, excellent, Venerable Śāriputra. I will object to Venerable Śāriputra in that Venerable Śāriputra has got at just what is meant by expressing the statement as an absolute.”

21.87 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817812#UT22084-029-001-2266/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2266%22%5D\)

“You should know that the nonexistence of attention is because of the nonexistence of a being; you should know that the emptiness of attention is because of the emptiness of a being; you should know that the isolation of attention is because of the isolation of a being; you should know that the absence of an intrinsic nature in attention is because of the absence of an intrinsic nature in a being; and you should know that there is no full awakening of attention because there is no full awakening of a being.”

21.91 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817813#UT22084-029-001-2270/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2270%22%5D\)

“I say bodhisattva great beings are not separated from staying in this state or from this attention.”

22.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817814#UT22084-029-001-2277/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2277%22%5D\)

“all the Four Mahārājas stationed in the great billion world systems together with many hundreds of thousands of one hundred million billion gods were assembled in that very retinue,”

22.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817815#UT22084-029-001-2280/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2280%22%5D\)

“How should bodhisattva great beings stand in the perfection of wisdom? What is the bodhisattva great beings’ perfection of wisdom? And how should bodhisattva great beings train in the perfection of wisdom?”

22.4 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(?commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817816#UT22084-029-001-2284/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2284%22%5D\)

“Those who have entered into flawlessness are incapable of producing the thought of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”

“And yet if they also produce the thought of unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening I still rejoice in them also.”

22.5 18 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(?commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817819#UT22084-029-001-2286/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2286%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, what is the bodhisattva great beings’ perfection of wisdom?”

“Kauśika, here bodhisattva great beings with a thought of awakening connected with the knowledge of all aspects should pay attention to form as impermanent, and they should pay attention to it as suffering, selfless, empty, a disease, a boil,”

“impermanent”

“suffering”

“selfless”

“empty”

“disease”

“boil”

“thorn”

“misfortune”

“dependent”

“headed to destruction”

“by their nature”

“shaky”

“brittle”

“a hazard”

“persecution”

“a headache”

22.8 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817834#UT22084-029-001-2289/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2289%22%5D\)

“they should pay attention to cessations as selfless, calm,”

“isolated”

“emptiness”

“signlessness”

“wishlessness”

“nonenactment”

22.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817821#UT22084-029-001-2292/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2292%22%5D\)

“perfections,”

22.11 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817823#UT22084-029-001-2293/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2293%22%5D\)

“putting one part of the picture together with the other parts,”

“Putting one part of the picture together with the other parts,”

“analyze”

“complete”

“This not settling down on... any one part, even while thus making an examination of all the parts of the picture”

“extending”

“The bodhisattva great beings’ thought of the wholesome roots is not touched by the thought of awakening.”

“the thought of the wholesome roots does not exist... in the thought of awakening,”

“the thought of the wholesome roots does not exist in the thought of the wholesome roots, the thought of awakening does not exist in the thought of awakening,”

22.13 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817848#UT22084-029-001-2298/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2298%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, the thought of the wholesome roots is no thought,”

“inconceivable”

“no thought.”

“Kauśika, this is the bodhisattva great beings’ perfection of wisdom”

22.15 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817853#UT22084-029-001-2300/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2300%22%5D\)

“I have to feel a sense of appreciation, Lord, and not feel no sense of appreciation”

“advised and instructed”

“taught.”

“made to take them up.”

“made... excited.”

“motivated.”

“caused... to enter into... and established”

22.16 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817860#UT22084-029-001-2301/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2301%22%5D\)

“they should not stand,”

“should stand in the perfection of wisdom.”

22.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817862#UT22084-029-001-2302/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2302%22%5D\)

“Form is empty of form,”

22.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817864#UT22084-029-001-2311/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2311%22%5D\)

“not two,”

22.28 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817863#UT22084-029-001-2313/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2313%22%5D\)

“By way of apprehending something”

“they should not stand in form by way of apprehending something,”

22.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817866#UT22084-029-001-2316/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2316%22%5D\)

“they should not stand in buddhahood by way of apprehending something,”

22.32 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817867#UT22084-029-001-2317/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2317%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, they thus should not dwell on the idea of form by way of apprehending something, up to... they thus should not dwell on the idea of buddhahood by way of apprehending something”

22.33 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817868#UT22084-029-001-2319/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2319%22%5D\)

“they should not dwell on the idea that form is permanent... they should not dwell on the idea that form is impermanent,”

22.37 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817869#UT22084-029-001-2323/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2323%22%5D\)

“they should not dwell on the idea that the tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha is worthy of gifts by way of apprehending something.”

22.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817870#UT22084-029-001-2324/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2324%22%5D\)

“should not stand on the first level... up to the tenth level,”

22.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817871#UT22084-029-001-2330/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2330%22%5D\)

“should not dwell on the idea ‘I will establish infinite, countless beings beyond measure in unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening’ by way of apprehending something.”

22.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817872#UT22084-029-001-2331/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2331%22%5D\)

“ ‘I will make the five eyes perfect,’ ”

22.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817873#UT22084-029-001-2334/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2334%22%5D\)

“they should not dwell on the idea ‘I will make the eighty minor signs perfect on the body.’ ”

22.50 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817874#UT22084-029-001-2342/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2342%22%5D\)

“I will, standing on the four legs of miraculous power, become completely absorbed in meditative stabilization,”

22.56 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817875#UT22084-029-001-2348/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2348%22%5D\)

“Then it occurred to [him] to think, ‘Well then, however could bodhisattva great beings stand in the perfection of wisdom?’ ”

22.58 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817876#UT22084-029-001-2351/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2351%22%5D\)

“the tathāgatas have totally nonabiding minds.”

22.61 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817877#UT22084-029-001-2355/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2355%22%5D\)

“O gods, is what is said incomprehensible?”

“Incomprehensible, Ārya Subhūti!”

22.62 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817879#UT22084-029-001-2357/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2357%22%5D\)

“not even one syllable is said here,”

“A magically created buddha”

22.63 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817880#UT22084-029-001-2359/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2359%22%5D\)

“magical creation... a dream... an echo... and a magical illusion,”

22.71 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817882#UT22084-029-001-2370/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2370%22%5D\)

“O gods, form is not deep and is not subtle.”

“it is because the intrinsic nature of form is not deep and is not subtle,”

22.73 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817884#UT22084-029-001-2372/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2372%22%5D\)

“Well then, in this Dharma teaching has nothing been designated form?”

22.74 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817885#UT22084-029-001-2373/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2373%22%5D\)

“Exactly so, gods, exactly so,”

22.75 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817886#UT22084-029-001-2374/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2374%22%5D\)

“cannot, without having resorted to this forbearance,”

23.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817887#UT22084-029-001-2377/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2377%22%5D\)

“[Then it occurred to those gods to] think, ‘What would the elder Subhūti accept those listening to the Dharma to be like?’ ”

23.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817888#UT22084-029-001-2378/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2378%22%5D\)

“Gods, I would accept those listening to the Dharma to be like illusory beings,”

23.12 10 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817889#UT22084-029-001-2388/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2388%22%5D\)

“Venerable monk Subhūti, who will be the recipients of this perfection of wisdom so deep, so hard to behold,”

“hard to understand”

“peaceful”

“sublime”

“subtle”

“private”

“not an object of speculative thought”

“brilliant”

“absolutely noble”

“an object to be known by the learned and wise”

23.13 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817899#UT22084-029-001-2390/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2390%22%5D\)

“will be the recipients”—

“persons who have seen the truths, or worthy ones with outflows dried up,”

23.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817901#UT22084-029-001-2392/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2392%22%5D\)

“they will not construct the idea that form is empty,”

23.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817902#UT22084-029-001-2399/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2399%22%5D\)

“so too no being at all will be the recipient of it.”

23.22 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817903#UT22084-029-001-2400/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2400%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, is it not the case that in this perfection of wisdom the three vehicles... are taught in detail?”

“the ten levels... the assistance,”

“the bodhisattva path”

“the clairvoyances,”

“confident readiness,”

23.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817908#UT22084-029-001-2402/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2402%22%5D\)

“Exactly so, Venerable Śāriputra, exactly so,”

23.25 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817909#UT22084-029-001-2404/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2404%22%5D\)

“because of inner emptiness,”

“because of the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature,”

24.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817911#UT22084-029-001-2407/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2407%22%5D\)

“these flowers have been magically created,”

24.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817912#UT22084-029-001-2409/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2409%22%5D\)

“Kauśika... these flowers have not come about”

24.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817913#UT22084-029-001-2411/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2411%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, form also has not come about, and what has not come about is not form.”

24.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817914#UT22084-029-001-2420/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2420%22%5D\)

“Does not contradict designation and gives instruction in the true nature of dharmas”

24.20 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817915#UT22084-029-001-2426/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2426%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, bodhisattva great beings, having thus understood how all dharmas are mere designations, should train in the perfection of wisdom.”

24.21 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817916#UT22084-029-001-2427/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2427%22%5D\)

“Do not train in form,”

“because they do not see the form in which they train,”

24.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817918#UT22084-029-001-2431/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2431%22%5D\)

“Śatakratu... inquired... why do bodhisattva great beings not see form,”

24.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817919#UT22084-029-001-2432/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2432%22%5D\)

“form is empty of form.”

24.27 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817920#UT22084-029-001-2433/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2433%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, it is because the emptiness of form does not train in the emptiness of form,”

24.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817922#UT22084-029-001-2435/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2435%22%5D\)

“Those who train in the emptiness of form without making a division into two, up to train in the knowledge of all aspects without making a division into two... train in countless, infinite buddhadharmas.”

24.33 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817923#UT22084-029-001-2440/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2440%22%5D\)

“do not train in order to increase or decrease form,”

24.34 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817924#UT22084-029-001-2441/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2441%22%5D\)

“[do] not train in order to get hold of or get rid of form”

24.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817925#UT22084-029-001-2443/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2443%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, why do bodhisattva great beings not train in order to get hold of or get rid of form?”

24.36 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817926#UT22084-029-001-2444/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2444%22%5D\)

“form does not get hold of form,”

“based on... emptiness.”

24.40 8 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817928#UT22084-029-001-2449/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2449%22%5D\)

“Does not see the production... of form,”

“stopping.”

“acceptance”

“rejection”

“purification”

“defilement”

“increase,”

“decrease.”

24.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817936#UT22084-029-001-2452/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2452%22%5D\)

“Venerable monk... where should you look for the perfection of wisdom?”

24.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817937#UT22084-029-001-2453/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2453%22%5D\)

“In Subhūti’s chapter”—

24.45 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817938#UT22084-029-001-2454/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2454%22%5D\)

“Is it through your noble might, is it through your sustaining power...?”

24.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817939#UT22084-029-001-2457/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2457%22%5D\)

“the Tathāgata’s sustaining power,”

24.48 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817940#UT22084-029-001-2458/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2458%22%5D\)

“Venerable monk Subhūti, given that all dharmas are without anything that sustains them, why do you say ‘this is the Tathāgata’s sustaining power, it is the Tathāgata’s might?’”

24.49 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817941#UT22084-029-001-2459/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2459%22%5D\)

“the tathāgata cannot be apprehended in the true nature of dharmas that is without anything that sustains it,”

“nor can the tathāgata be apprehended elsewhere than the true nature of dharmas that is without anything that sustains it.”

“the true nature of dharmas that is without anything that sustains it cannot be apprehended in the tathāgata.”

“nor can the true nature of dharmas that is without anything that sustains it be apprehended elsewhere than the tathāgata.”

24.50 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817945#UT22084-029-001-2461/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2461%22%5D\)

“suchness”

“true dharmic nature”

“suchness”

“form,”

24.51 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817949#UT22084-029-001-2463/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2463%22%5D\)

“the knowledge of all aspects”

24.52 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817950#UT22084-029-001-2464/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2464%22%5D\)

“The true dharmic nature of the tathāgata is not conjoined with or disjoined from the true dharmic nature of form. ... It is not conjoined with or disjoined from something other than the true dharmic nature of form.”

24.54 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817951#UT22084-029-001-2466/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2466%22%5D\)

“thus, Kauśika, not being conjoined with and not being disjoined from all dharmas—this is its might, this is its sustaining power,”

24.55 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817952#UT22084-029-001-2468/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2468%22%5D\)

“They also should not look for it in form”—

“and they should not look for it elsewhere than form.”

“all dharmas... are not conjoined, are not disjoined... and have... no mark.”

24.58 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817955#UT22084-029-001-2471/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2471%22%5D\)

“Form is not the perfection of wisdom”

“and there is no perfection of wisdom other than form”

24.61 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817957#UT22084-029-001-2474/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2474%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, it is because all these dharmas do not exist and cannot be apprehended.”

24.63 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817958#UT22084-029-001-2476/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2476%22%5D\)

“The perfection of wisdom... is great... the perfection of wisdom... is immeasurable... the perfection of wisdom... is infinite... [and] the perfection of wisdom... is limitless.”

24.65 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817959#UT22084-029-001-2478/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2478%22%5D\)

“you cannot apprehend a prior limit of form”

“you cannot apprehend a later limit”

“you cannot apprehend a middle”

24.67 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817962#UT22084-029-001-2480/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2480%22%5D\)

“You cannot apprehend a measure of form”—

24.69 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817963#UT22084-029-001-2482/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2482%22%5D\)

“infinite”

24.71 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817964#UT22084-029-001-2484/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2484%22%5D\)

“limitless”

24.87 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817965#UT22084-029-001-2501/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2501%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, where there has been no explanation of anything as a being there will also be no limitlessness of a being.”

“Kauśika, if a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha remaining for as many eons as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River were to say the word being again and again,”

24.89 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817967#UT22084-029-001-2503/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2503%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, from this one of many explanations you should know this perfection of wisdom is unlimited because beings are unlimited.”

25.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817968#UT22084-029-001-2507/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2507%22%5D\)

“Without apprehending any dharma... still they make known the presentation of the three vehicles”—

25.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817969#UT22084-029-001-2508/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2508%22%5D\)

“But without apprehending the tathāgata as other than the perfection of giving”—

25.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817970#UT22084-029-001-2509/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2509%22%5D\)

“you... should therefore call them... just tathāgatas.”

25.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817971#UT22084-029-001-2510/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2510%22%5D\)

“the tathāgata... Dīpaṅkara,”

25.6 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817972#UT22084-029-001-2511/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2511%22%5D\)

“Then those gods said to the Lord”—

“It is amazing, Lord, this perfection of wisdom of the bodhisattva great beings, through not appropriating and rejecting form,”

“is favorable to getting hold of the knowledge of all aspects.”

25.7 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817975#UT22084-029-001-2512/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2512%22%5D\)

Then the Lord, knowing the four retinues of monks, nuns,

“Emptiness becomes a good sustainable position”

“emptiness finds no way to infiltrate emptiness.”

“with which they might infiltrate”

“where infiltration might take place.”

“into which infiltration might take place”

25.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817981#UT22084-029-001-2523/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2523%22%5D\)

“Guarding, protection, and safekeeping”—

25.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817982#UT22084-029-001-2524/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2524%22%5D\)

“to illustrate, ... if this... were filled with śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas like a thicket of sugarcane,”

26.1 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817983#UT22084-029-001-2527/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2527%22%5D\)

“a perfect family”

“magically produce themselves”

26.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817985#UT22084-029-001-2529/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2529%22%5D\)

“have taken possession of... all the buddhadharmas”;

26.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817986#UT22084-029-001-2541/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2541%22%5D\)

“wholesome dharmas”;

26.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817987#UT22084-029-001-2542/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2542%22%5D\)

“polite speech”

26.37 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817988#UT22084-029-001-2567/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2567%22%5D\)

“training perfectly”

26.39 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817989#UT22084-029-001-2569/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2569%22%5D\)

“Has been made available in order to tame... and in order to lessen their conceit”—

26.41 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817990#UT22084-029-001-2571/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2571%22%5D\)

“bodhisattvas... practicing the ordinary”

“without skillful means”

26.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817992#UT22084-029-001-2577/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2577%22%5D\)

“without apprehending”

27.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817993#UT22084-029-001-2599/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2599%22%5D\)

“having borne respectfully in mind this perfection of wisdom written out in book form”

27.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817994#UT22084-029-001-2615/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2615%22%5D\)

“a stūpa be made of the seven precious things”;

27.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817995#UT22084-029-001-2619/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2619%22%5D\)

“Jambudvīpa,”

27.33 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817996#UT22084-029-001-2632/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2632%22%5D\)

“millionfold world system,”

27.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817997#UT22084-029-001-2635/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2635%22%5D\)

“billionfold world system”

27.37 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817998#UT22084-029-001-2637/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2637%22%5D\)

“each single being of the beings in as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River in each of the ten directions”

28.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817999#UT22084-029-001-2649/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2649%22%5D\)

“engage... in battle”

28.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818000#UT22084-029-001-2651/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2651%22%5D\)

“a great knowledge-mantra... an unsurpassable knowledge-mantra... a knowledge-mantra equal to the unequalled,”

28.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818001#UT22084-029-001-2654/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2654%22%5D\)

“the disk of the moon”

28.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818002#UT22084-029-001-2658/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2658%22%5D\)

“these good qualities in this very life... poisoning will not cause the time of their death... or fire, weapons, or water... up to sickness”;

28.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818003#UT22084-029-001-2661/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2661%22%5D\)

“a royal family.”

28.18 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818004#UT22084-029-001-2663/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2663%22%5D\)

“born in the hells, the animal world,”

“have incomplete faculties... missing limbs... [or] be born in”

“a body adorned with the marks”

“pass on... to buddhafiends... [and] bring beings to maturity and purify a buddhafiend,”

29.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818008#UT22084-029-001-2666/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2666%22%5D\)

“religious mendicants... a hundred of them... went back,”

29.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818009#UT22084-029-001-2677/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2677%22%5D\)

“Māra... turned back”;

29.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818010#UT22084-029-001-2680/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2680%22%5D\)

“guard and protect”;

29.15 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818011#UT22084-029-001-2682/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2682%22%5D\)

“Issues forth from... the knowledge of all aspects”

“the perfection of wisdom”

“the knowledge of all aspects is not one thing and the perfection of wisdom another”

“The knowledge of all aspects issues forth from the perfection of wisdom”

“the perfection of wisdom issues forth from the knowledge of all aspects”

“The knowledge of all aspects is not one thing and the perfection of wisdom another”

30.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818017#UT22084-029-001-2689/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2689%22%5D\)

“all the buddhadharmas are preceded by the perfection of wisdom,”

30.5 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818018#UT22084-029-001-2693/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2693%22%5D\)

“Ānanda, ... have been dedicated to the knowledge of all aspects in a nondual way,”

“gets the name ‘perfection of giving.’ ”

30.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818020#UT22084-029-001-2695/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2695%22%5D\)

“Ānanda, by way of the nonduality of form, in a nonappropriating way, in a nonapprehending way”—

30.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818023#UT22084-029-001-2700/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2700%22%5D\)

“an immeasurable... morality”

30.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818024#UT22084-029-001-2701/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2701%22%5D\)

“morality... of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas”

30.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818025#UT22084-029-001-2704/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2704%22%5D\)

“guard, protect, and keep safe”;

30.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818026#UT22084-029-001-2719/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2719%22%5D\)

“the gods have come”;

30.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818027#UT22084-029-001-2728/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2728%22%5D\)

bodies being infused with energy;

31.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818028#UT22084-029-001-2734/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2734%22%5D\)

“Śatakratu, head of the gods”

31.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818029#UT22084-029-001-2735/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2735%22%5D\)

“filled this Jambudvīpa right to the top with the physical remains of the tathāgatas,”

31.3 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818030#UT22084-029-001-2736/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2736%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, the perfection of wisdom cannot be apprehended”

“cannot be pointed out”

“does not obstruct”

“has only one mark—that is, no mark”

“It is not a place to be seized or not seized”

“to be increased or reduced”

“to be taken away from or added to”

31.4 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818037#UT22084-029-001-2737/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2737%22%5D\)

“A dual perfection of wisdom is not available”

“Similarly, a perfection of giving, a perfection of morality,”

“are not two,”

31.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818040#UT22084-029-001-2738/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2738%22%5D\)

“Kauśika... is simply to accept suchness as two,”

31.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818041#UT22084-029-001-2740/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2740%22%5D\)

“in the Sudharmā assembly of gods”

31.11 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818042#UT22084-029-001-2744/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2744%22%5D\)

“The perfection of wisdom has no causal sign”

“has no token, is inexpressible,”

“cannot be talked about”

“is inconceivable”

31.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818046#UT22084-029-001-2746/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2746%22%5D\)

“this billionfold world system filled right to the top with the physical remains of tathāgatas,”

31.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818047#UT22084-029-001-2747/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2747%22%5D\)

“the tathāgata and the perfection of wisdom are not two”;

31.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818048#UT22084-029-001-2750/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2750%22%5D\)

“is equivalent”;

31.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818049#UT22084-029-001-2751/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2751%22%5D\)

“is equivalent.”

31.19 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818050#UT22084-029-001-2753/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2753%22%5D\)

“a person fearful of rich creditors”;

31.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818051#UT22084-029-001-2756/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2756%22%5D\)

“complete nirvāṇa”;

31.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818052#UT22084-029-001-2759/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2759%22%5D\)

“the large jewel”;

31.32 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818053#UT22084-029-001-2770/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2770%22%5D\)

“as many... world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River filled right to the top with the physical remains of tathāgatas,”

31.42 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818057#UT22084-029-001-2782/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2782%22%5D\)

“Gives detailed instruction for the three vehicles, and instruction by way of no causal sign, by way of no production, by way of no stopping,”

31.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818058#UT22084-029-001-2783/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2783%22%5D\)

“is not over there or over here, or has stayed up or sunk down,”

31.45 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818059#UT22084-029-001-2785/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2785%22%5D\)

“Replied Śatakratu, “This—that is, the perfection of wisdom—is a great perfection.”

31.55 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818060#UT22084-029-001-2795/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2795%22%5D\)

“Shatters the vajra-like body and imbues the physical remains of the tathāgata with a special power”—

31.57 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818061#UT22084-029-001-2797/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2797%22%5D\)

“Who goes to others and explicates”

31.58 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818062#UT22084-029-001-2798/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2798%22%5D\)

“ ‘What should I rely on and stay by, whom should I respect, revere, honor, and worship?’ ”

31.60 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818063#UT22084-029-001-2801/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2801%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, those sons of a good family or daughters of a good family who have entered into the Śrāvaka Vehicle or who have entered into the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle,”

32.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818064#UT22084-029-001-2803/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2803%22%5D\)

“from establishing one being in the result of stream enterer, but not so much from establishing the beings in Jambudvīpa in the ten wholesome actions.”

32.4 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818065#UT22084-029-001-2807/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2807%22%5D\)

“written out this perfection of wisdom in book form and bestowed it”

“in this perfection of wisdom are taught the dharmas without outflows,”

32.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818066#UT22084-029-001-2811/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2811%22%5D\)

“establishing all the beings in Jambudvīpa in the state of a worthy one and a pratyekabuddha’s awakening,”

32.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818068#UT22084-029-001-2813/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2813%22%5D\)

“written out this perfection of wisdom in book form and bestowed it”

32.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

[Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818069#UT22084-029-001-2822/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2822%22%5D\)](#)

“There, properly paying attention is this: taking up... this perfection of wisdom with an understanding that operates without duality.”

32.18 17 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

[Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818070#UT22084-029-001-2823/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2823%22%5D\)](#)

“There the meaning of the perfection of wisdom is this:”

“not viewing the perfection of wisdom as two and not viewing it as not two.”

“not viewing the perfection of wisdom as a causal sign or as not a causal sign,”

“as brought in or as sent out,”

“as taken away or as added on,”

“as defilement or as purification,”

“as a production or as a cessation,”

“as grasped or as rejected,”

“as stationed or as not stationed,”

“as true or as mistaken,”

“as right or as wrong,”

“as tiny or as not tiny,”

“as a part or as not a part,”

“as a dharma or as not a dharma,”

“as suchness or as not suchness,”

“as the very limit of reality or as not the very limit of reality,”

“this is the meaning of nondual,”

32.20 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818087#UT22084-029-001-2826/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2826%22%5D\)

“in both the meaning and the letter”

32.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818088#UT22084-029-001-2827/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2827%22%5D\)

“with all the requirements for happiness, all the buddhas in the ten directions”;

32.22 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818089#UT22084-029-001-2828/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2828%22%5D\)

“without apprehending anything”

“for infinite, incalculable eons by way of apprehending something”;

32.28 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818091#UT22084-029-001-2837/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2837%22%5D\)

“counterfeit perfection of wisdom.”

32.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818092#UT22084-029-001-2853/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2853%22%5D\)

“immeasurable merit”;

32.56 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818093#UT22084-029-001-2869/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2869%22%5D\)

“in the result of once-returner,”

32.60 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818094#UT22084-029-001-2875/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2875%22%5D\)

“a pratyekabuddha’s awakening,”

32.66 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818095#UT22084-029-001-2884/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2884%22%5D\)

“unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening”

32.68 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818096#UT22084-029-001-2886/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2886%22%5D\)

“in the irreversible state”;

“to one”

33.1 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818098#UT22084-029-001-2894/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2894%22%5D\)

“Then the bodhisattva Maitreya said to the... venerable monk Subhūti,”

“in comparison to the bases of meritorious action arisen from”

“the highest.”

“Because all the bases of meritorious action arisen from giving,”

“of those... in the Śrāvaka Vehicle and those... in the Pratyekabuddha Vehicle are made”

“for personal disciplining... a bodhisattva’s... is for disciplining all beings.”

33.4 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818104#UT22084-029-001-2897/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2897%22%5D\)

“entities and objective supports,”

“the eighteen distinct attributes of a buddha”—

“And if, just like it is with the entities and how it is with the objective supports too, awakening is like that; if thought is like that,”

33.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818107#UT22084-029-001-2899/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2899%22%5D\)

“Venerable monk Subhūti, if those bodhisattva great beings again and again practice the six perfections,”

33.6 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818108#UT22084-029-001-2900/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2900%22%5D\)

“Venerable monk Subhūti, you should not give an exposition of this doctrine... like this in the presence of bodhisattvas who have newly set out in the vehicle,”

“smidgeon of faith,”

“The explanation... has to be given in the presence of bodhisattvas irreversible...”—

“they will be, venerable monk Subhūti, those whose bases of meritorious action arisen from rejoicing will be dedicated in that way to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening,”

33.7 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818112#UT22084-029-001-2902/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2902%22%5D\)

“The thought that does the rejoicing and dedication”

“is a thought that is extinguished, stopped, nonexistent, and has run out”

“And those entities and those objective supports, those wholesome roots, and those bases of meritorious action arisen from rejoicing are extinguished, stopped, nonexistent, and have run out,”

“Does thought dedicate thought? If thought were to dedicate thought, there would be no coming together of two thoughts”

“The intrinsic nature of thought cannot be dedicated”

33.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818117#UT22084-029-001-2904/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2904%22%5D\)

“When bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom thus know the perfection of wisdom is a nonexistent thing,”

33.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818118#UT22084-029-001-2905/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2905%22%5D\)

“The bodhisattva Maitreya then asked the elder Subhūti, “Venerable monk Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings who have newly set out in the vehicle,”

33.10 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818119#UT22084-029-001-2906/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2906%22%5D\)

“when bodhisattvas... who have newly set out in the vehicle,”

“by way of not apprehending anything.”

33.11 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818121#UT22084-029-001-2907/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2907%22%5D\)

“And, having heard about those works of Māra from them, no decrease happens and no increase happens,”

“Grasp the bodhisattva lineage”—

33.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818123#UT22084-029-001-2909/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2909%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Maitreya, bodhisattva great beings who have newly set out in the vehicle should compress together the merit accumulations and the wholesome roots planted by the lord buddhas whose path has come to an end, whose thought constructions and cravings for existence have been cut off,”

33.16 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818124#UT22084-029-001-2914/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2914%22%5D\)

“it is a conforming dedication,”

“are extinguished”—

33.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818126#UT22084-029-001-2916/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2916%22%5D\)

“past, future, and present”

33.20 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818130#UT22084-029-001-2920/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2920%22%5D\)

“are aware that the piling up of”

33.27 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818133#UT22084-029-001-2928/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2928%22%5D\)

“bodhisattvas who are skilled.”

33.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818134#UT22084-029-001-2930/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2930%22%5D\)

“should reflect deeply as follows: ... those buddhas, those wholesome roots, those accumulations, and those... thoughts”

33.37 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818135#UT22084-029-001-2941/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2941%22%5D\)

“has not been poisoned.”

33.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818136#UT22084-029-001-2942/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2942%22%5D\)

“has been poisoned.”

33.39 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818137#UT22084-029-001-2944/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2944%22%5D\)

“I too must dedicate... in this truly dharmic way,”

33.41 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818139#UT22084-029-001-2946/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2946%22%5D\)

“if all the beings that are in the billionfold world system were to obtain the ten wholesome actions... the concentrations, ... the immeasurables, ... the absorptions, and... the clairvoyances.”

33.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818140#UT22084-029-001-2950/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2950%22%5D\)

“were to become stream enterers,”

33.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818138#UT22084-029-001-2952/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2952%22%5D\)

“this dedication... without attachment creates even more merit than”

33.45 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818141#UT22084-029-001-2953/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2953%22%5D\)

“worthy ones and pratyekabuddhas,”

33.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818142#UT22084-029-001-2956/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2956%22%5D\)

“with all the requirements for happiness... for as many eons as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River.”

33.48 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818143#UT22084-029-001-2957/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2957%22%5D\)

“Lord, if that basis of meritorious action had a physical form it would not fit in even as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River”

33.52 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818144#UT22084-029-001-2961/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2961%22%5D\)

“a perception that apprehends something,”

33.57 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818145#UT22084-029-001-2966/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2966%22%5D\)

“all the beings in a billionfold world system”

33.59 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818146#UT22084-029-001-2968/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2968%22%5D\)

“without grasping, without rejecting, without falsely projecting, without acquiring, and without apprehending,”

“there is no production, cessation, defilement, purification,”

“I also rejoice,”

33.60 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818149#UT22084-029-001-2969/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2969%22%5D\)

“liberation,”

“are not bound, are not freed”;

“are not defiled”

“are not purified”

“are not produced”

“do not appear,”

“do not stop... have not changed places, and have not been destroyed”—

33.62 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818157#UT22084-029-001-2972/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2972%22%5D\)

“practicing the perfections... by way of not apprehending anything”

34.1 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818158#UT22084-029-001-2975/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2975%22%5D\)

“Turning the wheel of the Dharma that has twelve aspects three times”—

“Lord, how does one stand in the perfection of wisdom?”

34.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818160#UT22084-029-001-2978/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2978%22%5D\)

“The perfection of wisdom is itself the Teacher and the Teacher is himself the perfection of wisdom.”

34.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818161#UT22084-029-001-2979/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2979%22%5D\)

“What occasioned this inquiry by the venerable monk Śāriputra? What was the catalyst?”

34.4 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818162#UT22084-029-001-2980/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2980%22%5D\)

“assisted by the perfection of wisdom”

“Dedicate”

“to the knowledge of all aspects”

34.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818165#UT22084-029-001-2983/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2983%22%5D\)

“When the five perfections are assisted by the perfection of giving, they do not get the name perfection.”

34.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818166#UT22084-029-001-2985/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2985%22%5D\)

“It is not so, Kauśika, it is not so”

34.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818167#UT22084-029-001-2986/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2986%22%5D\)

“Lord, how should [they]... find and produce within themselves the perfection of wisdom?”

34.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818168#UT22084-029-001-2988/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2988%22%5D\)

“So they do not find and produce within themselves form”

34.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818169#UT22084-029-001-2989/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2989%22%5D\)

“Lord, how do they find and produce within themselves the perfection of wisdom so that they do not find and produce within themselves form?”

34.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818170#UT22084-029-001-2990/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2990%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, they should find and produce within themselves the perfection of wisdom as the nonenactment, the nonproduction, the noncessation, the nonappearance, the nondestruction, and the nonapprehension of form.”

34.14 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818171#UT22084-029-001-2992/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2992%22%5D\)

“does not cause any dharma to be gained.”

“It is counted as the perfection of wisdom.”

34.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818173#UT22084-029-001-2996/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2996%22%5D\)

“The perfection of wisdom... does not cause even the knowledge of all aspects to be gained. It does not apprehend it.”

34.19 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818174#UT22084-029-001-2998/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2998%22%5D\)

“Kauśika... it is because the perfection of wisdom does not cause it to be gained as a name, as a causal sign, or as something to be enacted.”

34.20 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818175#UT22084-029-001-2999/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-2999%22%5D\)

“Well then, Lord, how does this perfection of wisdom cause it to be gained?”

34.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818176#UT22084-029-001-3000/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3000%22%5D\)

“The perfection of wisdom causes it to be gained without apprehending, without asserting, without being stationed on, without forsaking, without settling down on, without grasping, and without rejecting anything at all, but it does not cause any dharma to be gained.”

34.22 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818177#UT22084-029-001-3001/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3001%22%5D\)

“It is amazing, Lord, ... this perfection of wisdom...”

“nonproduction”

34.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818179#UT22084-029-001-3002/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3002%22%5D\)

“have such ideas as ‘the perfection of wisdom causes all dharmas to be gained’ or ‘the perfection of wisdom does not cause all dharmas to be gained,’ ... the perfection of wisdom is forsaken,”

34.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818180#UT22084-029-001-3006/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3006%22%5D\)

“I do not have confidence in form.”

34.28 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818181#UT22084-029-001-3009/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3009%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom gives me confidence because form cannot be apprehended,”

34.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818182#UT22084-029-001-3012/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3012%22%5D\)

“Does not make form bigger nor does not make it smaller”—

34.36 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818183#UT22084-029-001-3018/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3018%22%5D\)

“Those bodhisattva great beings with such notions, Lord, are not practicing the the perfection of wisdom.”

“Lord... because... they are not in harmony with the perfection of wisdom as cause”

34.38 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818185#UT22084-029-001-3020/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3020%22%5D\)

“because beings are not produced.”

“because form is not produced, up to... because a buddha is not produced,”

34.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818188#UT22084-029-001-3028/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3028%22%5D\)

“There is no full awakening”

34.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818189#UT22084-029-001-3029/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3029%22%5D\)

“Because beings are not endowed with the powers,”

35.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818190#UT22084-029-001-3036/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3036%22%5D\)

“Because dharmas are in an inanimate material state”

35.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818191#UT22084-029-001-3063/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3063%22%5D\)

“hard... to believe in this perfection of wisdom.”

35.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818192#UT22084-029-001-3065/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3065%22%5D\)

“Just how deep, Lord, is this perfection of wisdom in which it is so hard for them to believe?”

35.26 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818193#UT22084-029-001-3066/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3066%22%5D\)

“is not bound and it is not freed,”

“Subhūti... form is not bound and it is not freed.”

“because the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature in form is form.”

35.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818199#UT22084-029-001-3072/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3072%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the prior limit of form is not bound and is not freed.”

35.32 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818201#UT22084-029-001-3073/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3073%22%5D\)

“The later limit”

“Because the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature in the prior limit is form”

35.33 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818200#UT22084-029-001-3074/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3074%22%5D\)

“present”

35.36 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818194#UT22084-029-001-3077/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3077%22%5D\)

“purity,”

“that purity of form is the purity of the result.”

35.37 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818204#UT22084-029-001-3079/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3079%22%5D\)

“That purity of form is the purity of the result. That purity of the result is the purity of the perfection of wisdom. That purity of the perfection of wisdom is the purity of form.”

“not two, not divided, not separate, and not broken apart.”

35.40 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818211#UT22084-029-001-3082/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3082%22%5D\)

“because of the purity of greed there is the purity of form; because of the purity of form there is the purity of greed. Thus, this purity of greed and the purity of form is not two,”

“is not two.”

35.41 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818213#UT22084-029-001-3083/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3083%22%5D\)

“hatred, and confusion.”

35.42 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818214#UT22084-029-001-3084/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3084%22%5D\)

“Because of the purity of ignorance there is the purity of volitional factors; because of the purity of volitional factors there is the purity of ignorance. Thus, this purity of ignorance and the purity of volitional factors is not two,”

35.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818215#UT22084-029-001-3085/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3085%22%5D\)

“Because of the purity of the perfection of giving there is the purity of the perfection of morality; because of the purity of the perfection of morality there is the purity of the perfection of giving. Thus, this purity of the perfection of giving and the purity of the perfection of morality is not two,”

35.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818217#UT22084-029-001-3086/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3086%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Subhūti, that purity of the perfection of wisdom is the purity of form. That purity of form is the purity of the knowledge of all aspects. Thus, this purity of the perfection of wisdom, purity of form, and purity of the knowledge of all aspects is not two, not divided, not separate, and not broken apart.”

35.45 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818220#UT22084-029-001-3087/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3087%22%5D\)

“the purity of the knowledge of all aspects,”

“the purity of the knowledge of all aspects is not two”;

35.46 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818222#UT22084-029-001-3088/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3088%22%5D\)

“the purity of the compounded”

“the uncompounded,”

36.1 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818224#UT22084-029-001-3091/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3091%22%5D\)

“Lord, this purity is deep,”

“Śāriputra, it is deep because it is extremely pure”

36.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818226#UT22084-029-001-3095/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3095%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, purity is light because it is extremely pure,”

36.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818227#UT22084-029-001-3097/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3097%22%5D\)

“purity is light because form is extremely pure.”

36.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818228#UT22084-029-001-3099/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3099%22%5D\)

“Lord, purity does not link up.”

36.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818229#UT22084-029-001-3101/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3101%22%5D\)

“Śāriputra, form does not link up because it does not change places, so it is pure”

36.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818230#UT22084-029-001-3103/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3103%22%5D\)

“Lord, purity is without defilement”

36.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818231#UT22084-029-001-3107/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3107%22%5D\)

“Lord, there is no obtaining and no clear realization of purity.”

36.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818232#UT22084-029-001-3111/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3111%22%5D\)

“Lord, purity does not come into being.”

36.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818233#UT22084-029-001-3115/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3115%22%5D\)

“Lord, purity does not arise in the desire realm... the form realm... [or] the formless realm.”

36.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818234#UT22084-029-001-3117/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3117%22%5D\)

“because you cannot apprehend the desire realm’s intrinsic nature.”

36.20 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818235#UT22084-029-001-3127/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3127%22%5D\)

“Lord, purity does not know”

36.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818236#UT22084-029-001-3129/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3129%22%5D\)

“Because dharmas are inanimate material”—

36.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818237#UT22084-029-001-3131/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3131%22%5D\)

“Lord, purity does not know form.”

36.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818238#UT22084-029-001-13423/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-13423%22%5D\)

“Because it is empty of its own mark”

36.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818239#UT22084-029-001-3143/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3143%22%5D\)

“Lord, the perfection of wisdom does not help nor does it hinder the knowledge of all aspects,”

36.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818240#UT22084-029-001-13424/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-13424%22%5D\)

“extremely pure.”

36.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818241#UT22084-029-001-3145/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3145%22%5D\)

“because of the establishment of the dharma-constituent.”

36.32 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818242#UT22084-029-001-3147/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3147%22%5D\)

“Lord, the purity that is the perfection of wisdom does not assist any dharma,”

36.34 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818243#UT22084-029-001-3151/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3151%22%5D\)

“Lord, form is pure because self is pure”

“because it is extremely pure, Subhūti.”

36.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818245#UT22084-029-001-3173/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3173%22%5D\)

“Because knowledge is not found and is not discarded, Subhūti.”

36.48 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818246#UT22084-029-001-3175/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3175%22%5D\)

“Nonduality and purity”—

36.50 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818195#UT22084-029-001-3179/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3179%22%5D\)

“the unlimited,”

“because form is unlimited.”

36.51 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818248#UT22084-029-001-3181/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3181%22%5D\)

“because of the emptiness of what transcends limits and the emptiness of no beginning and no end, Subhūti.”

36.56 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818249#UT22084-029-001-3189/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3189%22%5D\)

“Lord, why is such a realization as that the perfection of wisdom of bodhisattva great beings?”

“Because it is the knowledge of path aspects, Subhūti.”

36.57 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818251#UT22084-029-001-3191/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3191%22%5D\)

“Lord, you cannot apprehend the perfection of wisdom of bodhisattva great beings on this side, on the farther side, or on neither.”

“Because it is extremely pure,” said the Lord.

36.58 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818253#UT22084-029-001-3193/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3193%22%5D\)

“Because of the sameness of the three time periods, Subhūti”—

36.60 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818254#UT22084-029-001-3196/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3196%22%5D\)

“they are attached to a name and attached to a causal sign,”

“Subhūti, even though all dharmas are without causal signs and without names”

36.63 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818196#UT22084-029-001-3199/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3199%22%5D\)

“those who are attached and not attached.”

“Lord, such an excellent exposition and excellent definitive teaching of this perfection of wisdom... to bodhisattva great beings is amazing”—

36.65 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818257#UT22084-029-001-3201/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3201%22%5D\)

“When... they perceive that form is ‘empty,’ they are attached”

36.68 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818258#UT22084-029-001-3204/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3204%22%5D\)

“Not perceive form as ‘form’ ”—

“Not perceive... dharmas as... ‘dharmas’ ”—

36.70 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818260#UT22084-029-001-3206/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3206%22%5D\)

“Kauśika, it is because the basic nature of form cannot be dedicated”

36.72 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818261#UT22084-029-001-3209/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3209%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, I will teach you other sorts of attachment even more subtle than those”

36.76 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818262#UT22084-029-001-3213/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3213%22%5D\)

“Lord, the perfection of wisdom is deep.”

“Subhūti, it is because all dharmas are isolated in their basic nature.”

36.77 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818264#UT22084-029-001-3215/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3215%22%5D\)

“The perfection of wisdom... is unmade and does not cause anything to come into being.”

36.78 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818265#UT22084-029-001-3217/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3217%22%5D\)

“The basic nature of a dharma is not two; it is simply one.”

“is not a basic nature.”

“is unmade.”

“has not caused anything to come into being”

36.79 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818269#UT22084-029-001-3219/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3219%22%5D\)

“Nobody has seen, heard, thought about, been conscious of, or fully awakened to the perfection of wisdom,”

36.80 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818270#UT22084-029-001-3221/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3221%22%5D\)

“The perfection of wisdom is inconceivable”

“it is not known through form”

37.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818272#UT22084-029-001-3225/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3225%22%5D\)

“is the nonapprehender of all dharmas.”

37.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818273#UT22084-029-001-3226/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3226%22%5D\)

“How do [they]... practice the perfection of wisdom?”

37.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818274#UT22084-029-001-3227/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3227%22%5D\)

“if they do not practice form,”

37.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818275#UT22084-029-001-3230/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3230%22%5D\)

“ ‘form is completed’ or ‘not completed,’ ”

37.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818276#UT22084-029-001-3234/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3234%22%5D\)

“ ‘Form is not attached’ ”

37.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818277#UT22084-029-001-3237/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3237%22%5D\)

“they do not perceive ‘form is not attached.’ ”

37.34 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818278#UT22084-029-001-3263/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3263%22%5D\)

“They do not falsely project form”

“do not falsely project form as ‘mine’ ”

“do not falsely project anything onto form”

“do not falsely project a causal sign of form”

37.36 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818282#UT22084-029-001-3265/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3265%22%5D\)

“the thousand buddhas”

37.39 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818283#UT22084-029-001-3269/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3269%22%5D\)

“Maitreya”

37.44 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818284#UT22084-029-001-3274/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3274%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is pure because form is pure.”

“form is pure,”

37.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818285#UT22084-029-001-3277/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3277%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, form... is unproduced and unceasing, without defilement and without purification.”

37.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818287#UT22084-029-001-3279/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3279%22%5D\)

“Because space is pure”—

37.49 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818288#UT22084-029-001-3281/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3281%22%5D\)

“pure... untainted... cannot be grasped... does not say anything... does not converse about anything... cannot be apprehended”—

37.52 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818289#UT22084-029-001-3285/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3285%22%5D\)

“Because space does not say anything”—

37.54 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818290#UT22084-029-001-3287/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3287%22%5D\)

“just like the two sounds of an echo, as an analogy,”

37.55 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818291#UT22084-029-001-3288/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3288%22%5D\)

“Because space does not converse about anything”

37.60 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818292#UT22084-029-001-3294/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3294%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, ... because form is extremely pure, cannot be apprehended, is unproduced and unceasing, and without defilement and without purification” —

37.61 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818293#UT22084-029-001-3295/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3295%22%5D\)

“pure”

37.63 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818294#UT22084-029-001-3297/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3297%22%5D\)

“will not contract diseases of the eye,”

37.68 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818295#UT22084-029-001-3303/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3303%22%5D\)

“In the perfection of wisdom there is no dharma that is produced or ceases, is defiled or purified, or is appropriated or rejected at all”

37.70 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818297#UT22084-029-001-3305/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3305%22%5D\)

“a great jewel”

37.71 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818296#UT22084-029-001-3306/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3306%22%5D\)

“Thus, do not form a notion, and thus do not conceive”—

37.72 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818298#UT22084-029-001-3307/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3307%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, this perfection of wisdom does not establish any dharma, or teach it.”

37.75 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818299#UT22084-029-001-3311/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3311%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise”

37.76 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818300#UT22084-029-001-3312/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3312%22%5D\)

“the wheel of Dharma.”

37.77 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818301#UT22084-029-001-3313/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3313%22%5D\)

“Subhūti... it is not a second turning of the wheel of Dharma and it is not a first turning either.”

37.78 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818302#UT22084-029-001-3314/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3314%22%5D\)

“has not been made available in order to turn or not turn any Dharma”

“Given the emptiness that is the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature”

37.80 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818304#UT22084-029-001-3317/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3317%22%5D\)

“The perfection of wisdom is a great perfection,”

“all dharmas are empty of the intrinsic nature of all dharmas.”

“but still, bodhisattva great beings abiding in this perfection of wisdom fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening without fully awakening to any dharma at all.”

“will turn the wheel of the Dharma but will not turn or not turn any Dharma.”

“will not see any Dharma at all, and will not not see any Dharma at all either.”

“because a Dharma that will be turned or will not be turned cannot be apprehended.”

“emptiness does not turn it, nor does it not turn it. The signless and the wishless also do not turn it, nor do they not turn it.”

37.81 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818311#UT22084-029-001-3318/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3318%22%5D\)

“therefore, this teaching of the perfection of wisdom, this illumination,”

“is the teaching of the perfection of wisdom that is perfectly pure.”

“nobody teaches that teaching of the perfection of wisdom.”

“and nobody receives it.”

“nobody has directly realized it.”

“nobody has entered into nirvāṇa either. And in this Dharma teaching there is also nobody who becomes worthy of offerings.”

38.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818317#UT22084-029-001-3322/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3322%22%5D\)

“Because space is a nonexistent thing, Subhūti”—

38.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818318#UT22084-029-001-3324/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3324%22%5D\)

“Because all dharmas are equally nonapprehendable, Subhūti”—

38.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818319#UT22084-029-001-3330/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3330%22%5D\)

“Because of not having a name and body”—

38.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818320#UT22084-029-001-3332/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3332%22%5D\)

“Because the movement of breath in and out is unfindable”—

38.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818321#UT22084-029-001-3334/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3334%22%5D\)

“Because applied and sustained thought is unfindable”—

38.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818322#UT22084-029-001-3336/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3336%22%5D\)

“Because the feeling, perception, volitional factors, and consciousness aggregates are unfindable.”

38.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818323#UT22084-029-001-3339/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3339%22%5D\)

“Because all phenomena do not go away.”

38.10 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818324#UT22084-029-001-3341/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3341%22%5D\)

“Because all dharmas cannot be seized.”

“is not stolen.”

38.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818326#UT22084-029-001-3343/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3343%22%5D\)

“Because all dharmas have come to an end in extreme purity.”

38.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818327#UT22084-029-001-3346/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3346%22%5D\)

“Because all dharmas do not arise and do not stop.”

38.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818328#UT22084-029-001-3352/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3352%22%5D\)

“Because death and rebirth are unfindable.”

38.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818329#UT22084-029-001-3354/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3354%22%5D)

“Because all dharmas are indestructible in their nature.”

38.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818330#UT22084-029-001-3356/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3356%22%5D)

“Because a dream that has been seen cannot be apprehended.”

38.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818331#UT22084-029-001-3371/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3371%22%5D)

“This is a perfection without purification... because the presence of defilement cannot be apprehended.”

38.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818332#UT22084-029-001-3373/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3373%22%5D)

“This is a perfection that does not stand... because all phenomena cannot be apprehended.”

38.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818333#UT22084-029-001-3383/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3383%22%5D\)

“Because it is a full awakening to all dharmas as unmistakable suchness.”

38.33 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818334#UT22084-029-001-3389/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3389%22%5D\)

“Because the causal sign of greed cannot be apprehended.”

38.34 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818335#UT22084-029-001-3391/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3391%22%5D\)

“Because hate is not real.”

38.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818336#UT22084-029-001-3400/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3400%22%5D\)

“This perfection of wisdom is a perfection that is not a means of measurement... because all phenomena do not fully arise.”

38.40 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818337#UT22084-029-001-3404/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3404%22%5D\)

“Because all phenomena are distinct.”

38.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818338#UT22084-029-001-3410/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3410%22%5D\)

“Because the measure of all phenomena cannot be apprehended.”

38.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818339#UT22084-029-001-3412/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3412%22%5D\)

“Because all phenomena are without attachment like space.”

38.45 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818340#UT22084-029-001-3414/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3414%22%5D\)

“This... is an impermanent perfection

38.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818342#UT22084-029-001-3416/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3416%22%5D\)

“Because all phenomena are not suitable to be clung to.”

38.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818344#UT22084-029-001-3418/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3418%22%5D\)

“This... is a selfless perfection... because all phenomena are not settled down on.”

38.48 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818343#UT22084-029-001-3420/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3420%22%5D\)

“This... is a perfection of the empty... because an intrinsic nature of all phenomena cannot be apprehended.”

38.49 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818345#UT22084-029-001-3422/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3422%22%5D\)

“Because all phenomena have no causal sign.”

“without a defining mark.”

38.53 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818347#UT22084-029-001-3430/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3430%22%5D\)

“Because the emptiness of emptiness cannot be apprehended.”

38.54 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818348#UT22084-029-001-3432/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3432%22%5D\)

“The great emptiness cannot be apprehended.”

38.61 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818349#UT22084-029-001-3446/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3446%22%5D\)

“This... is a perfection that is the emptiness of a basic nature... because compounded and un-compounded dharmas cannot be apprehended.”

38.82 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818350#UT22084-029-001-3486/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3486%22%5D\)

“This... is a perfection that is giving... because miserliness cannot be apprehended.”

38.88 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818351#UT22084-029-001-3499/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3499%22%5D\)

“This... is a perfection that is the ten powers... because all the aspects of all dharmas cannot be apprehended.”

38.89 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818352#UT22084-029-001-3501/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3501%22%5D\)

“Because the knowledge of path aspects is not cowed.”

“a perfection that is fearlessness.”

38.90 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818354#UT22084-029-001-3503/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3503%22%5D\)

“Because knowledge is totally unattached and unimpeded.”

“a perfection that is detailed and thorough knowledge.”

38.92 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818356#UT22084-029-001-3507/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3507%22%5D\)

“Because it has gone beyond all śrāvaka and pratyekabuddha attributes.”

“a perfection that is the... attributes of a buddha.”

38.94 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818359#UT22084-029-001-3512/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3512%22%5D\)

“This... is a perfection that is self-originated... because it is in control of all dharmas.”

39.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818360#UT22084-029-001-3527/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3527%22%5D\)

“When practicing the perfection of wisdom [they] do not stand in form, and when they do not stand in form they practice the yoga of form.”

39.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818361#UT22084-029-001-3530/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3530%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Kauśika, they do not practice the yoga of a bodhisattva’s form, and thus not practicing the yoga of form like that, they practice the yoga of form.”

39.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818362#UT22084-029-001-3532/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3532%22%5D\)

“Do not apprehend form as past,”

39.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818364#UT22084-029-001-3581/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3581%22%5D\)

“the meditation on the perfection of wisdom... is completed”—

39.49 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818366#UT22084-029-001-3584/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3584%22%5D)

“the meditation on the perfection of wisdom... is completed.”

39.52 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818367#UT22084-029-001-3589/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3589%22%5D)

“do not mentally construct and do not conceive of form, do not mentally construct and do not conceive of a causal sign of form, and do not mentally construct and do not conceive of an intrinsic nature of form.”

39.55 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818368#UT22084-029-001-3592/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3592%22%5D)

“Lord, the perfection of wisdom is an aggregate of the purity of all dharmas”

39.57 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818369#UT22084-029-001-3594/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3594%22%5D)

“Lord, that... would not give rise to many hindrances would be amazing.”

39.77 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818370#UT22084-029-001-3617/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3617%22%5D\)

“During the last of the ‘five hundreds’ ”—

40.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818371#UT22084-029-001-3645/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3645%22%5D\)

“When it takes a really long time to have the confidence to speak”

40.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818372#UT22084-029-001-3648/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3648%22%5D\)

“when the confidence to speak happens too fast,”

40.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818373#UT22084-029-001-3651/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3651%22%5D\)

“yawning”

40.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818374#UT22084-029-001-3652/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3652%22%5D\)

“laughing”—

40.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818377#UT22084-029-001-3661/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3661%22%5D\)

“While if they yawn while... taking it up”—

40.20 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818376#UT22084-029-001-3665/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3665%22%5D\)

“Attached to each other as friends”—

40.28 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818378#UT22084-029-001-3674/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3674%22%5D\)

“As many thoughts as they have to leave, they appropriate that many eons of practice.”

“Those... would reject the root of the tree of the knowledge of all aspects.”

“the branches, petals, and leaves”

40.31 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818381#UT22084-029-001-3677/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3677%22%5D\)

“a dog might spurn”

“food”

“food from a servant”

40.33 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818384#UT22084-029-001-3679/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3679%22%5D\)

“somebody finds an elephant,”

‘the track’

40.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818386#UT22084-029-001-3682/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3682%22%5D\)

“the hoofprint left by a bull,”

40.37 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818387#UT22084-029-001-3685/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3685%22%5D\)

“contractor who wants to build a Vaijayanta palace”

“celestial mansion circle,”

40.44 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818389#UT22084-029-001-3697/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3697%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom does not give confidence to speak”

“is inconceivable”

“is without production and without cessation”

“is without defilement and without purification”

“is without distraction”

“is not something that can be spoken out loud”

“is not part of a conversation”

“is not something that can be talked about”

“cannot be apprehended”

40.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818398#UT22084-029-001-3701/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3701%22%5D\)

“form the notion ‘this deep perfection of wisdom is not an existent thing,’ Subhūti, they should know that this too is the work of Māra.”

40.48 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818399#UT22084-029-001-3702/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3702%22%5D\)

“The perfection of wisdom is without letters,”

42.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818401#UT22084-029-001-3775/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3775%22%5D\)

“Reveals this world”—

42.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818400#UT22084-029-001-3776/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3776%22%5D\)

“Subhūti... this deep perfection of wisdom gives birth to a tathāgata’s ten powers,”

42.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818402#UT22084-029-001-3777/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3777%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the Tathāgata has said that the five aggregates are the world... the perfection of wisdom does not reveal those five aggregates as being destroyed, nor does it reveal them as being really destroyed.”

42.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818403#UT22084-029-001-3783/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3783%22%5D\)

“If even this very perfection of wisdom does not exist and is not apprehended in this deep perfection of wisdom, how could form ever exist or be apprehended?”

42.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818404#UT22084-029-001-3784/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3784%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the tathāgatas know those collected thoughts and distracted thoughts of those beings for what they are through the true nature of dharmas.”

42.14 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818405#UT22084-029-001-3787/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3787%22%5D\)

“How do they know those collected thoughts and distracted thoughts?”

“inexhaustible... free from greed... cessation,”

“an abandonment,”

“isolated”

42.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818410#UT22084-029-001-3788/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3788%22%5D\)

“know a greedy thought... for what it is, a greedy thought,”

42.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818409#UT22084-029-001-3790/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3790%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, a mind that is greedy is not a mind as it really is,”

42.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818412#UT22084-029-001-3791/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3791%22%5D)

“free from hatred... and free from a confusion.”

42.19 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818413#UT22084-029-001-3792/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3792%22%5D)

“An inclusive thought... as an inclusive thought”

“Subhūti, here the tathāgatas know that a thought of those... beings is not inclusive, ... that a thought is not constricted,”

“increases,”

“is reduced”;

“pervades,”

“does not pervade.”

“know, thanks to this deep perfection of wisdom,”

“an inclusive thought as an inclusive thought,”

“for what it is,”

42.20 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818422#UT22084-029-001-3793/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3793%22%5D\)

“that has become great.”

“Subhūti, here the tathāgatas view a thought of other beings or other persons as not coming, as not going, as not lasting, as not arising, and as not stopping,”

42.21 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818424#UT22084-029-001-3794/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3794%22%5D\)

“Immeasurable thought”

“view that thought of... beings... as not there, as not interrupted, as not fixed, and as not not fixed,”

“know an immeasurable thought... for what it is.”

42.22 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818427#UT22084-029-001-3796/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3796%22%5D\)

“[They] view that thought... as without a mark and separated from an intrinsic nature.”

“a thought... that does not show itself.”

42.23 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818429#UT22084-029-001-3797/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3797%22%5D\)

“Those thoughts... are not even visible to the five eyes”—

“an invisible thought.”

42.24 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42822944#UT22084-029-001-3798/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3798%22%5D\)

“Thoughts that are clear, dull, abridged, and expanded”—

“for what they are.”

“Based on form”

42.25 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818434#UT22084-029-001-3800/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3800%22%5D\)

“Refers to form”

“Connect this in the same way also with”

“feeling”

42.29 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818438#UT22084-029-001-3804/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3804%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Subhūti, thanks to this deep perfection of wisdom the tathāgatas know form. How do they know form? They know it just as they know suchness—without distortion, without conceptualization,”

“without a causal sign,”

“without effort,”

“without thought construction,”

“and without apprehending anything,”

42.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818443#UT22084-029-001-3805/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3805%22%5D\)

“therefore, Subhūti, the suchness of thoughts... that are clear, dull, abridged, and expanded is the suchness of the aggregates, constituents, sense fields, dependent origination,”

43.2 12 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818444#UT22084-029-001-3811/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3811%22%5D\)

“Gods, this perfection of wisdom is deep because it is marked by emptiness.”

“marked by signlessness.”

“marked by wishlessness.”

“marked by the absence of production and stopping”

“marked by the absence of defilement and the absence of purification.”

“marked by the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature.”

“marked by the absence of a foundation.”

“marked by the absence of annihilation and of going on and on forever.”

“marked by the absence of unity and the absence of difference”

“marked by the absence of coming and absence of going”

“marked by space.”

“the Tathāgata uses the conventional label as an ordinary conventional term, but not as an ultimate one”

43.3 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818456#UT22084-029-001-3814/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3814%22%5D\)

“Gods, the world with its gods and humans cannot alter those marks”

“Gods, a mark does not make a mark into something else”

“A mark does not know a mark.”

“A mark does not know the absence of a mark.”

“The absence of a mark does not know a mark.”

“And the absence of a mark does not know the absence of a mark.”

“Therefore that mark, and that absence of a mark, and also both, do not have... the intrinsic nature of that which might cause knowing.”

“Who might know”

“To whom it might be made known”

43.4 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818465#UT22084-029-001-3815/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3815%22%5D\)

“Gods, those marks are not occasioned by form,”

“Because all marks have no mark”—

43.7 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818467#UT22084-029-001-3818/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3818%22%5D)

“Whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise,”

“The element of marks simply remains as it really is, the element of no marks. A tathāgata has perfectly and fully awakened to that.”

“Therefore a tathāgata is called a ‘tathāgata.’ ”

43.9 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818470#UT22084-029-001-3820/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3820%22%5D)

“The Tathāgata has given an exposition of all marks by giving an exposition of the perfection of wisdom”

“Having fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening... [he] has differentiated all the marks”

43.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818472#UT22084-029-001-3821/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3821%22%5D)

“The mark of form is something that can show itself,”

43.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818473#UT22084-029-001-3828/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3828%22%5D\)

“have appreciation and a feeling of gratitude”

43.14 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818474#UT22084-029-001-3830/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3830%22%5D\)

“Fully awakened to all dharmas as not done and not changed”—

“Because there is no body”—

“the Tathāgata’s cognizance of what has not been done, and acknowledgment of what has not been done.”

“Furthermore, Subhūti, thanks to the perfection of wisdom, on account of the force of ultimately not originating, the unmade transcendental knowledge has engaged with all dharmas.”

43.16 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818478#UT22084-029-001-3834/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3834%22%5D\)

“Lord, when all dharmas are not producers and are not seers”

“the perfection of wisdom gives birth”;

“reveals the world.”

43.17 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818481#UT22084-029-001-3835/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3835%22%5D\)

“Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!”

“because all dharmas are empty, ring hollow, are in vain... are not producers and are not revealers,”

43.19 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818483#UT22084-029-001-3837/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3837%22%5D\)

“It reveals it, moreover, because form is not seen.”

43.21 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818484#UT22084-029-001-3839/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3839%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, when a consciousness with form as objective support does not arise”—

“it reveals”

43.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818486#UT22084-029-001-3845/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3845%22%5D\)

“Reveals... [that the world] is inconceivable”—

43.37 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818487#UT22084-029-001-3858/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3858%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, form is inconceivable, incomparable, immeasurable, uncountable, and equal to the unequaled because it does not appear.”

“all mental and mental factor dharmas are not apprehended”

44.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818489#UT22084-029-001-3872/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3872%22%5D\)

“it is made available to serve a great purpose,”

44.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818490#UT22084-029-001-3873/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3873%22%5D\)

“This deep perfection of wisdom is made available so that you do not hold on to and do not settle down on form.”

44.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818491#UT22084-029-001-3879/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3879%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, I too...”

44.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818492#UT22084-029-001-3884/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3884%22%5D\)

“That knowledge and abandonment of faith-followers, dharma-followers, up to worthy ones, and pratyekabuddhas, is the forbearance of bodhisattvas who have gained forbearance for the nonproduction of all dharmas”

44.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818493#UT22084-029-001-3888/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3888%22%5D\)

“Before they had gone very far disappeared”—

44.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818494#UT22084-029-001-3889/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3889%22%5D\)

“Where did they die, Lord, the bodhisattva great beings who have taken birth here and believe in this deep perfection of wisdom the moment they hear it?”

44.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818495#UT22084-029-001-3890/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3890%22%5D\)

“have died a human and taken birth as a human”

44.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818496#UT22084-029-001-3892/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3892%22%5D\)

“having died in other buddhafiels, take birth”

44.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818497#UT22084-029-001-3893/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3893%22%5D\)

“have died among the Tuṣita gods and taken birth here”

44.19 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818498#UT22084-029-001-3894/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3894%22%5D\)

“heard or asked about it in the past [and] have taken birth here,”

44.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818499#UT22084-029-001-3897/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3897%22%5D\)

“get robbed”

44.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818500#UT22084-029-001-3898/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3898%22%5D\)

“the Śrāvaka and the Pratyekabuddha”

45.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818501#UT22084-029-001-3900/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3900%22%5D\)

“the boat on the ocean,”

45.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818502#UT22084-029-001-3902/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3902%22%5D\)

“the pot,”

45.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818503#UT22084-029-001-3904/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3904%22%5D\)

“the ship”

45.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818504#UT22084-029-001-3906/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3906%22%5D\)

“the very old man”

45.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816389#UT22084-029-001-3914/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3914%22%5D\)

“They do not falsely project ‘I am moral, this is morality, this is immorality.’ ”

45.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818506#UT22084-029-001-3917/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3917%22%5D\)

“It is because the perfection of giving has gone to the near shore.”

45.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818505#UT22084-029-001-3918/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3918%22%5D\)

“reach unsurpassed, complete awakening.”

45.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818507#UT22084-029-001-3920/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3920%22%5D\)

“knows the near shore and knows the farther shore.”

46.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818508#UT22084-029-001-3925/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3925%22%5D\)

“Lord, how should bodhisattva great beings beginning the work train in the perfection of wisdom?”

46.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818509#UT22084-029-001-3926/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3926%22%5D\)

“should attend on spiritual friends.”

46.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818510#UT22084-029-001-3929/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3929%22%5D\)

“You should not hold as an absolute,”

46.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818511#UT22084-029-001-3932/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3932%22%5D\)

“you should not produce a longing for form”

46.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818512#UT22084-029-001-3933/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3933%22%5D\)

“Lord, those bodhisattvas who want unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, even while all phenomena are empty of their own marks, are doers of the difficult.”

46.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818513#UT22084-029-001-3934/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3934%22%5D\)

“ ‘May I for the world’s benefit and happiness... become the protector... refuge... resting place... final ally... island... leader and... support. May I become the benefit and happiness of the world: its protector, refuge, resting place, final ally, island, leader, and support,”

46.12 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818514#UT22084-029-001-3941/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3941%22%5D\)

“Lord, how are all phenomena not mingled?”

“The nonconnection... the nonproduction... the noncessation,”

46.13 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818516#UT22084-029-001-3944/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3944%22%5D\)

“The farther shore of form is not form.”

“Subhūti, as form really is, so too are all dharmas.”

46.14 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818518#UT22084-029-001-3947/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3947%22%5D\)

“Will not bodhisattva great beings have indeed fully awakened to the knowledge of all aspects?”

“Lord, on the farther shore of form there is no thought construction whatsoever.”

46.17 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818520#UT22084-029-001-3950/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3950%22%5D\)

“Form is delimited by a past and a future.”

“Subhūti, that delimitation of all phenomena by a past and a future... is calm, it is sublime.”

46.21 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818522#UT22084-029-001-3955/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3955%22%5D\)

“Form has space as its way of being.”

“The emptiness of form does not go and does not come”

46.22 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818524#UT22084-029-001-3956/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3956%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, all phenomena have emptiness as their way of being”

“Because they do not pass beyond that way of being”

46.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818526#UT22084-029-001-3963/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3963%22%5D)

“have the unborn and unreal as their way of being”—

46.30 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818527#UT22084-029-001-3964/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3964%22%5D)

“Subhūti, all phenomena have the limitless”—

“boundless.”

46.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818529#UT22084-029-001-3965/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3965%22%5D)

“have the absence of being taken away from and the absence of being added to as their way of being.”

46.32 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818530#UT22084-029-001-3966/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3966%22%5D)

“have not going and not coming as their way of being.”

“have not bringing in and not sending out as their way of being.”

“have not joining, not not joining, not mingling, and not not mingling as their way of being.”

47.2 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818533#UT22084-029-001-3983/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3983%22%5D\)

“In their intrinsic nature they are isolated from the elimination of greed,”

“the tokens of greed”

47.10 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818535#UT22084-029-001-3991/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3991%22%5D\)

“that armor is not spliced with form.”

“absolutely do not exist,”

47.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818537#UT22084-029-001-3995/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3995%22%5D\)

“Lord, bodhisattva great beings have not buckled on armor for the sake of only a partial number of beings.”

47.15 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818538#UT22084-029-001-3997/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-3997%22%5D\)

“It is not something that somebody has to meditate on,”

“It is not something that has to be meditated on somewhere,”

“It is not something that has to be meditated on somehow,”

47.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818541#UT22084-029-001-4000/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4000%22%5D\)

“the disintegration of meditation”

47.20 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818542#UT22084-029-001-4003/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4003%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, you should look closely at a bodhisattva great being in this deep perfection of wisdom irreversible from progress toward awakening.”

“Is the bodhisattva great being not attached to this deep perfection of wisdom?”

“the perfection of giving,”

“the knowledge of all aspects.”

“what others have said”

47.21 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818549#UT22084-029-001-4004/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4004%22%5D\)

“not separated from”

“do not tremble,”

“delight in”

“take it up, and bear it in mind.”

47.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818553#UT22084-029-001-4007/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4007%22%5D\)

“Should think carefully about this deep perfection of wisdom”—

47.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818554#UT22084-029-001-4009/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4009%22%5D\)

“with a mindstream inclined to emptiness, tending to emptiness, and heading to emptiness.”

47.27 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818555#UT22084-029-001-4010/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4010%22%5D\)

“emptiness, signlessness, wishlessness, the unproduced, the unceasing, the absence of defilement, the absence of purification,”

47.28 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818556#UT22084-029-001-4011/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4011%22%5D\)

The elder Subhūti inquired, “Lord, do they also think about form?”

47.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818557#UT22084-029-001-4012/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4012%22%5D)

the Lord said, “Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings do not think about form,”

47.30 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818558#UT22084-029-001-4013/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4013%22%5D)

“form, feeling,”

“the knowledge of all aspects,”

“Nobody has made the knowledge of all aspects, nobody has made it change. It has not come from anywhere, and is not going anywhere,”

“number,”

48.1 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818562#UT22084-029-001-4016/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4016%22%5D)

“the gods,”

“Lord... this deep perfection of wisdom,”

48.4 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818564#UT22084-029-001-4020/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4020%22%5D\)

“Here where the habitual idea of two does not exist is the deep state of dharmas.”

“Because space is deep,”

48.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818566#UT22084-029-001-4022/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4022%22%5D\)

“This doctrine is not taught so form will be taken up or will not be taken up.”

48.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818567#UT22084-029-001-4026/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4026%22%5D\)

“This doctrine is not obstructed by form,”

48.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818570#UT22084-029-001-4031/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4031%22%5D\)

“takes after the Lord.”

48.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818571#UT22084-029-001-4032/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4032%22%5D\)

“Just that suchness of the Tathāgata is the suchness of all dharmas, and that suchness of all dharmas is the suchness of Subhūti.”

48.17 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818572#UT22084-029-001-4033/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4033%22%5D\)

“The suchness of the Tathāgata is established”

“Is unchanging and undifferentiated”—

“Is not obstructed by anything”—

“there is nothing of which that suchness is not the suchness.”

“And it is never not suchness”—

“is not two”

“and cannot be divided into two”

48.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818579#UT22084-029-001-4034/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4034%22%5D\)

“Just as the suchness of the Tathāgata is not broken apart, is not different, and cannot be apprehended, so too the suchness of all dharmas is not broken apart, is not different, and cannot be apprehended. Similarly, the suchness of the elder Subhūti is not broken apart, is not different, and cannot be apprehended either.”

48.19 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818580#UT22084-029-001-4035/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4035%22%5D\)

“The suchness of the Tathāgata is not other than the suchness of all phenomena, and what is not other than the suchness of all phenomena is never not suchness. It is always suchness. The suchness of the elder Subhūti is like that. Therefore, since it is not something else, even though the elder Subhūti takes after the Tathāgata he does not take after him in anything.”

“Just as the suchness of the Tathāgata is not past, is not future, and is not present,”

“Therefore, [he]... ‘takes after the Tathāgata.’ ”

48.20 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818583#UT22084-029-001-4036/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4036%22%5D\)

“Gods, here you should know the suchness of the Tathāgata that is the same, through the suchness of the past that is the same.”

48.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818585#UT22084-029-001-4039/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4039%22%5D\)

“Gods, thanks to this perfect suchness the Tathāgata... gets to be called Tathāgata.”

48.24 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818587#UT22084-029-001-4040/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4040%22%5D\)

“Shook in six ways” —

“quaked... shook... stirred... resounded... roared... and was disturbed.”

48.26 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818589#UT22084-029-001-4042/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4042%22%5D\)

“Does not take after form, does not take after anything other than form” —

“the suchness of form,”

“other than the suchness of form,”

48.27 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818592#UT22084-029-001-4043/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4043%22%5D\)

“Lord, suchness, unmistakable suchness, unaltered suchness are deep,”

“true nature of dharmas, dharma-constituent, and establishment of dharmas” —

“the certification of dharmas, the very limit of reality, and the inconceivable element” —

“In them you cannot apprehend form, you cannot apprehend the suchness of form.”

48.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818596#UT22084-029-001-4047/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4047%22%5D\)

Sixty bodhisattvas lacking in what is necessary stopped taking hold of anything and their minds were freed from contamination.

48.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818597#UT22084-029-001-4049/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4049%22%5D\)

“did not enter into secure state,”

48.33 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818598#UT22084-029-001-4051/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4051%22%5D\)

“emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness... separated from skillful means... become śrāvakas,”

48.41 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818599#UT22084-029-001-4062/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4062%22%5D\)

“Lord,” said the elder Śāriputra, “the way I understand the meaning of what you, Lord, have said,”

“Starting from the production of the first thought”

48.45 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818601#UT22084-029-001-4066/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4066%22%5D\)

“Gods! Even though I have fully awakened to all dharmas in all their aspects, still I did not apprehend any dharma that might fully awaken, or through which I might fully awaken, or any dharma I might awaken to.”

“And why? Gods, it is because all dharmas are absolutely pure.”

48.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818603#UT22084-029-001-4067/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4067%22%5D\)

“Lord... full awakening to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening is not hard.”

48.47 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818604#UT22084-029-001-4068/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4068%22%5D\)

“must be hard”

“If bodhisattva great beings do not believe that dharmas are like space, but still,”

“it would not be hard.”

48.48 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818607#UT22084-029-001-4070/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4070%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, what do you think, does form turn back from unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”

48.62 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818608#UT22084-029-001-4097/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4097%22%5D\)

“according to the way things are in the elder Subhūti’s teaching,”

48.65 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818609#UT22084-029-001-4101/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4101%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, do you accept in suchness there are three bodhisattvas?”

48.67 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818610#UT22084-029-001-4105/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4105%22%5D\)

“one... or two... or three”

48.73 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818611#UT22084-029-001-4115/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4115%22%5D\)

“Lord, how should bodhisattva great beings who want to go forth to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening stand?”

48.74 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818612#UT22084-029-001-4116/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4116%22%5D\)

“I must produce a balanced thought toward all beings,”

“I must focus on all beings with the thought they are kinsmen, and blood relatives.”

48.75 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818614#UT22084-029-001-4118/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4118%22%5D\)

“I must also stop killing,”

48.94 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816483#UT22084-029-001-4137/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4137%22%5D\)

“ ‘I should not actualize the very limit of reality,’ ”

48.98 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818615#UT22084-029-001-4141/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4141%22%5D\)

“the good doctrine lasts, welcoming it.”

48.99 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818616#UT22084-029-001-4142/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4142%22%5D\)

“Form will be without obscuration”

“Even in the past... did not seize form.”

“and why?”

“Because even that form that has not been seized, Subhūti, is not form.”

49.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818620#UT22084-029-001-4148/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4148%22%5D\)

“in regard to those suchnesses, they have no doubt at all that they are not each separate and both.”

49.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818621#UT22084-029-001-4150/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4150%22%5D\)

“All dharmas are without attributes, without tokens, and without signs”

49.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818622#UT22084-029-001-4151/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4151%22%5D\)

“Lord, if all dharmas are without attributes,”

49.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818623#UT22084-029-001-4152/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4152%22%5D\)

“Subhūti... bodhisattva great beings who have turned away from form,”

49.7 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818624#UT22084-029-001-4153/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4153%22%5D\)

“Know what needs to be known”—

“see what needs to be seen”—

“They do not hold that a spectacle or an auspicious sign makes for cleanliness.”

51.7 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818904#UT22084-029-001-4249/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4249%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, form is deep,”

“why is form deep?”

“Subhūti... just as the suchness of form is deep, so too is form deep,”

51.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818907#UT22084-029-001-4250/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4250%22%5D\)

“Lord, what is the suchness of form like?”

51.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818908#UT22084-029-001-4251/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4251%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, there is no form in the suchness of form, and there is no suchness of form other than form. The suchness of form is like that.”

51.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818909#UT22084-029-001-4252/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4252%22%5D\)

“Made to turn back from form, and nirvāṇa has been pointed out”—

51.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818910#UT22084-029-001-4259/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4259%22%5D\)

“fill up as many world systems as there are sand particles in the Gaṅgā River with the wholesome roots appropriated in a single day ... it still would not approach what remains of those wholesome roots even by one hundredth part”

51.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818911#UT22084-029-001-4267/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4267%22%5D\)

“If... separated from the perfection of wisdom [that bodhisattva] were to... cultivate wisdom”

51.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818912#UT22084-029-001-4269/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4269%22%5D\)

“this perfection of wisdom is the mother of the bodhisattvas”

51.32 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818913#UT22084-029-001-4283/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4283%22%5D\)

“Lord, the Lord has said, ‘Whatever merit has been accumulated, it is all imaginary,’ so how will a son of a good family or daughter of a good family make a lot of merit?”

“What has been accumulated does not exist,”

“they will not be able to enter into the right view and the secure state of a bodhisattva,”

51.33 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818916#UT22084-029-001-4284/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4284%22%5D\)

“What [they]... have accumulated appears as just empty, appears as just in vain,”

“just ringing hollow?”

“are inseparable from the perfection of wisdom... to that extent they make infinite, incalculable merit.”

51.34 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818919#UT22084-029-001-4285/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4285%22%5D\)

“What are the specific features...?”

51.35 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818920#UT22084-029-001-4286/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4286%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the incalculable is that which has no enumeration.”

“the infinite”

“the immeasurable”

“A calculable element or an incalculable element”

51.39 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818925#UT22084-029-001-4290/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4290%22%5D\)

“Form is also empty so it is infinite, incalculable, and immeasurable.”

51.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818926#UT22084-029-001-4294/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4294%22%5D\)

“an exposition in harmony with what causes a tathāgata’s teaching.”

51.44 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818927#UT22084-029-001-4296/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4296%22%5D\)

“Lord, all phenomena are simply inexpressible?”

51.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818928#UT22084-029-001-4298/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4298%22%5D\)

“Lord, does an inexpressible reality know increase or decrease?”

51.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42822514#UT22084-029-001-4300/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4300%22%5D\)

“the knowledge of all aspects come with the good fortune of fully awakening to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”

51.48 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818930#UT22084-029-001-4301/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4301%22%5D\)

“they will make a dedication just like unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening,”

51.49 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818931#UT22084-029-001-4302/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4302%22%5D\)

“Lord, what is unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening?”

51.52 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818932#UT22084-029-001-4305/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4305%22%5D\)

“[They] should practice the perfection of wisdom like that, by way of no increase or decrease”

51.53 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818933#UT22084-029-001-4306/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4306%22%5D\)

“Lord, do bodhisattva great beings fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening because of the first production of the thought, or do they fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening because of a later production of the thought?”

51.54 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818934#UT22084-029-001-4308/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4308%22%5D\)

“the illustration of an oil lamp”

51.59 10 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.
Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818935#UT22084-029-001-4314/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4314%22%5D\)

“The Śuklavipaśyanā level

“the Gotra level”

“the Aṣṭamaka level”

“the Darśana level”

“the Tanū level”

“the Vītarāga level”

“the Kṛtāvin level”

“the Pratyekabuddha level”

“the Bodhisattva level”

“the Buddha level”

51.61 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.
Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818945#UT22084-029-001-4316/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4316%22%5D\)

“Will that thought which has stopped be produced again?”

“What has stopped will not be produced. What has been produced is subject to stopping. What is subject to stopping will not stop. It will remain just as suchness does. It will not be unmoved.”

51.67 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818947#UT22084-029-001-4328/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4328%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, what do you think, is that thought also suchness?”

“It is not, Lord,”

51.68 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818949#UT22084-029-001-4330/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4330%22%5D\)

“Is that thought other than suchness?”

“It is not, Lord,”

51.69 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818951#UT22084-029-001-4332/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4332%22%5D\)

“Is thought in suchness?”

51.70 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818952#UT22084-029-001-4334/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4334%22%5D\)

“is suchness in thought?”

“They are not, Lord,”

51.71 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818954#UT22084-029-001-4336/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4336%22%5D\)

“Does suchness see suchness?”

“It does not, Lord,”

51.73 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818956#UT22084-029-001-4340/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4340%22%5D\)

“Lord, someone practicing like that is not practicing anything at all”

51.75 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818957#UT22084-029-001-4344/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4344%22%5D\)

“They practice in the ultimate where there are no habitual dualistic ideas.”

51.77 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818958#UT22084-029-001-4347/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4347%22%5D\)

“Has the perception of a causal sign disintegrated because of them?”

“They do not, Lord,”

51.80 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818960#UT22084-029-001-4354/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4354%22%5D\)

“[They] bring beings to maturity with those... meditative stabilizations,”

52.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818961#UT22084-029-001-4357/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4357%22%5D\)

“When [they]... have become absorbed in the three meditative stabilizations on emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness in a dream, do they improve on account of the perfection of wisdom?”

52.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818962#UT22084-029-001-4358/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4358%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, if they improve on account of having meditated during the day, they improve in a dream like that as well?”

52.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818963#UT22084-029-001-4359/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4359%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings have made some karma in a dream is there an accumulation or diminution in their karma?”

52.4 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818964#UT22084-029-001-4361/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4361%22%5D\)

“The Lord has said that all phenomena are like a dream, so there is no accumulation or diminution there,”

“you cannot apprehend any phenomenon in a dream that is accumulated or diminished.”

52.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818966#UT22084-029-001-4362/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4362%22%5D\)

“If it is thought about in a certain way, on waking there is an accumulation or reduction in one’s karma.”

52.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818967#UT22084-029-001-4363/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4363%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, what would you say about the karma of someone who committed a murder during the day, and someone who dreamed about committing the murder and on waking thought, ‘I killed him. It is excellent that I killed him’?”

52.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818968#UT22084-029-001-4364/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4364%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, karma does not happen without an objective support; intention does not happen without an objective support.”

52.8 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818969#UT22084-029-001-4365/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4365%22%5D\)

“exactly so!”

“The intellect engages with the seen, the heard, the thought—something one has been aware of; the intellect does not engage with the unseen, the unheard, the unthought—a thing of which one has not been conscious. There, one intellectual act gets hold of defilement. Another intellectual act gets hold of purification.”

52.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818971#UT22084-029-001-4366/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4366%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, the Lord has said ‘all karma is isolated and all intention is isolated.’ ”

52.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818972#UT22084-029-001-4368/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4368%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, ordinary beings, having made a causal sign, pile up karmas.”

52.11 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818973#UT22084-029-001-4370/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4370%22%5D\)

“Venerable Subhūti, if bodhisattva great beings in a dream give gifts,”

“cultivate wisdom,”

52.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818975#UT22084-029-001-4371/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4371%22%5D\)

“Venerable Śāriputra, you should ask this of Maitreya the bodhisattva, the great being,”

52.14 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818976#UT22084-029-001-4373/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4373%22%5D\)

“Venerable monk Śāriputra, what do you think, will this—the designation ‘Maitreya the bodhisattva great being’—respond with the answer; or will form respond with the answer,”

“all dharmas are not two and cannot be divided into two,”

52.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818978#UT22084-029-001-4374/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4374%22%5D\)

“Son of a good family, have you had direct witness of those dharmas in the way you have explained them to be?”

52.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818979#UT22084-029-001-4375/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4375%22%5D\)

“I do not directly witness those dharmas in the way I have explained them to be.”

52.18 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818980#UT22084-029-001-4377/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4377%22%5D\)

“Do you see that dharma on account of which you come to be known as a worthy one?”

“Lord, I do not.”

52.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818982#UT22084-029-001-4381/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4381%22%5D\)

“Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings complete the perfection of wisdom?”

54.2 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818983#UT22084-029-001-4433/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4433%22%5D\)

“should understand analytically ‘...empty.’ ”

“one way or the other, when they understand this analytically, such an analytical understanding should be without mental distraction.”

“without mental distraction they do not see the phenomenon that is the phenomenon to be actualized, and,”

“not seeing that phenomenon they do not actualize it,”

“they see [they]... are not joined and are not disjoined.”

54.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818988#UT22084-029-001-4434/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4434%22%5D\)

“How do bodhisattva great beings stand in emptiness but not actualize emptiness?”

54.4 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816397#UT22084-029-001-4435/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4435%22%5D\)

“they remain with the dharmas on the side of awakening, understanding that it is thus the time for mastery, and it is not the time for actualization.”

“Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings contemplate emptiness furnished with the best of all aspects, they do not contemplate that they should actualize it; rather, they contemplate that they should master it. They contemplate that it is not the time it should be actualized, but rather it is the time it should be mastered. When not in actual meditative equipoise, bodhisattva great beings attach their minds to an objective support and without letting the dharmas on the side of awakening lessen, in the meantime do not actualize the extinction of outflows,”

“Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings contemplate emptiness furnished with the best of all aspects, they do not contemplate that they should actualize it.”

“they contemplate that it is not the time it should be actualized, but rather it is the time it should be mastered.”

“When not in actual meditative equipoise... [they] attach their minds to an objective support”

54.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818992#UT22084-029-001-4437/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4437%22%5D\)

“it is the time for the perfection of giving,”

54.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818993#UT22084-029-001-4447/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4447%22%5D\)

“Lord, it is amazing! Sugata, it is amazing!”

54.13 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818994#UT22084-029-001-4449/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4449%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, it is because the bodhisattva great beings do not forsake all beings,”

“I will not forsake these ignorant beings, these beings who are deceived because they perceive doctrines that are not good as good.”

54.19 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818996#UT22084-029-001-4457/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4457%22%5D\)

“Śatakratu, Brahmā, a world protector,”

54.22 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42818997#UT22084-029-001-4461/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4461%22%5D\)

emptiness... signlessness... wishlessness... not occasioning anything, nonproduction, and the absence of an existent thing,”

“are not like irreversible bodhisattvas who... have stepped onto the irreversible level.”

“having achieved mastery”

“passing beyond the Tanū level,”

54.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819001#UT22084-029-001-4462/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4462%22%5D\)

“Would there then, Lord, be ways in which [they] would be irreversible from awakening?”

54.25 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819002#UT22084-029-001-4464/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4464%22%5D\)

“Levels that they have cleansed or levels that they are cleansing do not appear”

“bodhisattvas who practice for awakening are many,”

“Whether they are levels that have been cleansed or whether they are levels that have not been cleansed”

54.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819003#UT22084-029-001-4466/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4466%22%5D\)

“Those bodhisattva great beings... are few”

55.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817492#UT22084-029-001-4497/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4497%22%5D\)

“Subhūti ... these bodhisattva great beings who are dwelling isolated from attention connected with śrāvakas ... and pratyekabuddhas ... Subhūti, I have endorsed that as the bodhisattva great beings’ isolation ... If bodhisattva great beings live day and night in this isolation they truly live in isolation.”

55.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42817493#UT22084-029-001-4498/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4498%22%5D\)

“If they live in jungle, upland forest, and frontier retreats, they live...”

55.34 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819006#UT22084-029-001-4515/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4515%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is like space, unimpeded.”

“Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is without a mark. The perfection of wisdom’s mark does not exist at all”

55.36 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819008#UT22084-029-001-4517/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4517%22%5D\)

“Subhūti... all phenomena are isolated from an intrinsic nature, all phenomena are empty of an intrinsic nature.”

55.37 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819009#UT22084-029-001-4518/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4518%22%5D\)

“Lord, if all phenomena are isolated from all phenomena, and if all phenomena are empty of all phenomena, Lord, how could there be the defilement and purification of beings?”

55.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819010#UT22084-029-001-4519/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4519%22%5D\)

“What do you think, Subhūti, do beings go on grasping at ‘I’ and grasping at ‘mine’ for a long time?”

55.44 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819011#UT22084-029-001-4527/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4527%22%5D\)

“do not practice”

“in form”

55.52 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819013#UT22084-029-001-4538/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4538%22%5D\)

“a precious jewel”

55.53 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819014#UT22084-029-001-4539/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4539%22%5D\)

“Lord, given that all attention is separated from an intrinsic nature, that all attention is empty of an intrinsic nature”

“never separated from attention to the knowledge of all aspects,”

“knowledge of all aspects, or attention, or bodhisattva.”

55.54 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819017#UT22084-029-001-4540/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4540%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, if bodhisattva great beings know this,”

“The perfection of wisdom is empty of an intrinsic nature”—

“It has no increase and it has no decline.”

55.55 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819020#UT22084-029-001-4541/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4541%22%5D\)

“Lord, given that the perfection of wisdom is separated from an intrinsic nature and empty of an intrinsic nature”

55.56 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819021#UT22084-029-001-4542/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4542%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is not one and it is not two either.”

55.57 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819022#UT22084-029-001-4543/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4543%22%5D\)

“Lord, is it the emptiness of the perfection of wisdom, its state of ringing hollow, being in vain, being a fraud, and being pointless, that practices the perfection of wisdom?”

55.70 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819023#UT22084-029-001-4568/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4568%22%5D\)

“production or stopping”

55.72 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819024#UT22084-029-001-4571/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4571%22%5D\)

“Lord, is the bodhisattvas’ unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening prophesied because there will be a production of all the dharmas?”

55.73 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819025#UT22084-029-001-4573/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4573%22%5D\)

“the nonproduction of all the dharmas?”

55.75 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819026#UT22084-029-001-4576/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4576%22%5D\)

“What do you think, Subhūti, do you see that dharma, the dharma of which unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening is being prophesied?”

56.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819027#UT22084-029-001-4581/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4581%22%5D\)

“Lord, this perfection of wisdom is deep,”

58.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819028#UT22084-029-001-4656/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4656%22%5D\)

“One way or the other they should turn it over... in such a way that there is no notion of duality and no notion of nonduality.”

58.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819029#UT22084-029-001-4659/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4659%22%5D\)

“And one way or the other they should turn it over in such a way that awakening will not be in that thought, nor in another thought either.”

58.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819030#UT22084-029-001-4662/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4662%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, what do you think, do you see that thought that is like an illusion?”

58.14 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819031#UT22084-029-001-4667/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4667%22%5D\)

“The dharma that is extremely isolated will not be existent or nonexistent.”

“Lord, it is because all those dharmas that are defiled or purified do not exist and are not apprehended.”

“And a dharma that is extremely isolated is not something you cultivate and not something you analyze.”

“There is not any dharma that is bringing anything about.”

“Given that it is extremely isolated, how will there be a realization of the isolated by the isolated?”

58.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819036#UT22084-029-001-4669/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4669%22%5D\)

“exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!”

58.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819037#UT22084-029-001-4674/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4674%22%5D\)

“The way I understand the meaning of what you, Lord, have said, is that bodhisattva great beings are not those who do what is difficult”

58.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819038#UT22084-029-001-4675/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4675%22%5D\)

“Lord this course of action where nothing is apprehended is the course of action of bodhisattvas.”

58.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819039#UT22084-029-001-4688/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4688%22%5D\)

“How has this division of cyclic existence into the five forms of life... come about, and how do the categorizations of stream enterer,”

58.31 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819040#UT22084-029-001-4689/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4689%22%5D\)

“the desire-to-do”

“in the hells, animal world, and world of Yama, and as a human and god”

59.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819042#UT22084-029-001-4696/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4696%22%5D\)

“Ah! Those bodhisattva great beings who are practicing this perfection of wisdom make a practice of something really worthwhile.”

59.2 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819043#UT22084-029-001-4697/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4697%22%5D\)

“make a practice of something that is not worthwhile!”

“do not apprehend even something not worthwhile, so however could they apprehend something really worthwhile?”

59.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819045#UT22084-029-001-4698/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4698%22%5D\)

“It is right to bow down to those bodhisattva great beings... who do not actualize these dharmas as being the same”—

59.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819046#UT22084-029-001-4699/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4699%22%5D\)

“Because space is isolated”—

59.20 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819047#UT22084-029-001-4716/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4716%22%5D\)

“Lord, given that no phenomenon is apprehended when they have stood in suchness and practiced for suchness, how will they stand in the knowledge of all aspects?”

59.21 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819049#UT22084-029-001-4718/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4718%22%5D\)

“Lord, given that no phenomenon called ‘a tathāgata’s magical creation’ is apprehended at all,”

“Given that even suchness is not apprehended, what need is there to say more about someone who will stand in suchness.”

“exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!”

59.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819052#UT22084-029-001-4719/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4719%22%5D\)

“And why? Subhūti, it is because whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise,”

60.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819053#UT22084-029-001-4767/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4767%22%5D\)

“Ānanda, this deep perfection of wisdom is the entrance into all letters, and the entrance into all for which there are no letters. Ānanda, this deep perfection of wisdom is the gateway to all the dhāraṇīs—the dhāraṇī gateways in which bodhisattva great beings should train.”

61.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819054#UT22084-029-001-4777/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4777%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, because form is inexhaustible they will accomplish the perfection of wisdom,”

61.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819055#UT22084-029-001-4778/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4778%22%5D\)

“Through form and space being inexhaustible, Subhūti” —

62.40 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816857#UT22084-029-001-4855/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4855%22%5D\)

“Whether the tathāgatas arise or whether they do not arise this true nature of dharmas simply remains.”

62.43 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819056#UT22084-029-001-4858/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4858%22%5D\)

“[They] do not apprehend inner emptiness as ‘inner emptiness’ ”

“[They] do not apprehend ‘form is empty’ or ‘is not empty,’ ”

63.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819058#UT22084-029-001-4909/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4909%22%5D\)

“Lord, if the perfections are not different why is the perfection of wisdom said to be the highest... when it comes to the five perfections?”

63.27 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819059#UT22084-029-001-4910/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4910%22%5D)

“Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!”

63.28 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819060#UT22084-029-001-4911/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4911%22%5D)

“Sumeru”

63.29 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819061#UT22084-029-001-4912/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4912%22%5D)

“Lord, given that there is no specific feature or variation in any phenomenon for someone who has entered into reality”

“the most excellent.”

63.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819063#UT22084-029-001-4913/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4913%22%5D)

“Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!”

63.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819064#UT22084-029-001-4914/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4914%22%5D\)

“best.”

63.32 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819065#UT22084-029-001-4915/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4915%22%5D\)

“precious lady”

63.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819066#UT22084-029-001-4918/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4918%22%5D\)

“The perfection of wisdom does not take hold of or release any dharma.”

63.38 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819067#UT22084-029-001-4922/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4922%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, those who do not pay attention to form... do not take hold of form.”

63.40 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819068#UT22084-029-001-4925/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4925%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, when bodhisattva great beings do not pay attention to form, up to do not pay attention to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening, then those bodhisattva great beings’ wholesome roots flourish.”

63.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819069#UT22084-029-001-4934/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4934%22%5D\)

“Those bodhisattva great beings fall back from the perfection of wisdom.”

63.51 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819070#UT22084-029-001-4940/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4940%22%5D\)

“All phenomena... have not been taken hold of.”

63.52 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819071#UT22084-029-001-4942/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4942%22%5D\)

“the perfection of wisdom is not separated from the perfection of wisdom”

“how, then, is the perfection of wisdom to be accomplished?”

63.53 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819073#UT22084-029-001-4943/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4943%22%5D\)

“[They] do not settle down on form, nor do they settle down on ‘this is form, this is its form,’ ”

63.54 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819074#UT22084-029-001-4944/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4944%22%5D\)

“wheel-turning emperor”

63.55 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819075#UT22084-029-001-4945/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4945%22%5D\)

“driver”

63.60 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819076#UT22084-029-001-4954/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4954%22%5D\)

“Lord, if the perfection of wisdom does not produce and does not stop any phenomenon,”

63.61 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819077#UT22084-029-001-4955/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4955%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, having turned the knowledge of all aspects into an objective support,”

63.64 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819078#UT22084-029-001-4958/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4958%22%5D\)

“Form is not conjoined and not disjoined.”

63.65 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819079#UT22084-029-001-4960/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4960%22%5D\)

“[They] should not work with the idea ‘I will stand in form,’ ”

“Form is not situated anywhere.”

63.70 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819081#UT22084-029-001-4967/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4967%22%5D\)

“the door of all,”

63.72 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819082#UT22084-029-001-4971/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4971%22%5D\)

“the master archer”

63.75 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819083#UT22084-029-001-4974/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4974%22%5D\)

“the buddhas... watch over... but they do not apprehend giving, do not apprehend morality, patience... at all.”

63.82 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819084#UT22084-029-001-4981/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4981%22%5D\)

“When they know the suchness... they will come to know all dharmas in brief and in detail.”

63.85 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819085#UT22084-029-001-4985/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4985%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the very limit of reality is the limitless.”

63.88 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819086#UT22084-029-001-4990/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-4990%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, all dharmas should be known as not conjoined and not disjoined.”

63.97 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819087#UT22084-029-001-5003/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5003%22%5D\)

“Skilled in singular words”

“skilled in feminine words”

“skilled in the path that has been cut”

“skilled in the path that has not been cut”

63.101 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819091#UT22084-029-001-5017/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5017%22%5D\)

“Subhūti... they should practice the perfection of wisdom through the calmness of form.”

63.102 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819092#UT22084-029-001-5018/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5018%22%5D\)

“They should accomplish the perfection of wisdom by accomplishing a space-like emptiness.”

63.103 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819093#UT22084-029-001-5019/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5019%22%5D\)

“They should meditate on the perfection of wisdom by meditating on a space-like emptiness.”

63.106 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819094#UT22084-029-001-5022/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5022%22%5D\)

“With an unbroken, unseparated stream of connected thoughts one after the other”

63.107 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819095#UT22084-029-001-5023/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5023%22%5D\)

“should meditate... in such a way that mind and mental factor dharmas are not set in motion at all”

63.108 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819096#UT22084-029-001-5024/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5024%22%5D\)

“who have meditated reach the knowledge of all aspects?”

“no.”

63.109 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819098#UT22084-029-001-5026/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5026%22%5D\)

“Will they without having meditated?”

“no.”

63.110 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819100#UT22084-029-001-5028/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5028%22%5D\)

“Will they, having meditated when they meditated, and without having meditated when they did not meditate?”

63.111 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819101#UT22084-029-001-5030/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5030%22%5D\)

“Will they without having meditated and without having not meditated?”

63.112 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819102#UT22084-029-001-5032/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5032%22%5D\)

“Just as suchness will, Subhūti”—

63.115 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819103#UT22084-029-001-5038/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5038%22%5D\)

“just as the self element,”

63.119 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819104#UT22084-029-001-5045/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5045%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom cannot be labeled”

63.121 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819105#UT22084-029-001-5047/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5047%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, what do you think, can a being that is a label be apprehended?”

63.124 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819106#UT22084-029-001-5051/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5051%22%5D\)

“Without taking anything away and without adding anything”—

63.125 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819107#UT22084-029-001-5052/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5052%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, they should train in those as not produced and not stopping.”

63.126 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819108#UT22084-029-001-5054/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5054%22%5D)

“Without meditating on and without investigating”

63.128 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819109#UT22084-029-001-5058/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5058%22%5D)

“Form as empty of form”—

63.129 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819110#UT22084-029-001-5060/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5060%22%5D)

“Not practicing is the bodhisattvas’ practice of the perfection of wisdom”—

63.131 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819111#UT22084-029-001-5064/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5064%22%5D)

“If not practicing is the practice of the perfection of wisdom, how then will bodhisattva great beings who are beginning the work practice the perfection of wisdom?”

63.132 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819112#UT22084-029-001-5065/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5065%22%5D\)

“bodhisattva great beings beginning the work,”

“starting from the first production of the thought... train in all phenomena as providing no basis for apprehension”

63.137 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819114#UT22084-029-001-5074/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5074%22%5D\)

“Lord... does the findable provide a basis for not apprehending?”

63.138 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819115#UT22084-029-001-5076/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5076%22%5D\)

“neither does the findable provide a basis for not apprehending.”

“The sameness of the findable and the unfindable is the unfindable.”

63.139 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819117#UT22084-029-001-5078/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5078%22%5D\)

“How... will... [they] complete level after level, and how... will they reach the knowledge of all aspects?”

63.140 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819118#UT22084-029-001-5079/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5079%22%5D\)

“Subhūti... a perfection of wisdom cannot be apprehended,”

63.141 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819119#UT22084-029-001-5080/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5080%22%5D\)

“How will [they]... make an investigation into... all these dharmas that are without an intrinsic nature?”

“ ‘this is form, this is feeling,’ ”

63.142 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819121#UT22084-029-001-5081/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5081%22%5D\)

“Subhūti... bodhisattvas... who do it in such a way that they apprehend form... do not make an investigation into dharmas,”

63.143 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819122#UT22084-029-001-5082/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5082%22%5D\)

“Lord, if [they]... do not apprehend form,”

63.144 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819123#UT22084-029-001-5083/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5083%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings do not practice the perfection of wisdom for the sake of form,”

63.146 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819124#UT22084-029-001-5085/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5085%22%5D\)

“unmade, unchanging”

63.147 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819125#UT22084-029-001-5086/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5086%22%5D\)

“How is there an arrangement of three vehicles?”

63.148 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819126#UT22084-029-001-5087/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5087%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, no arrangement at all can be apprehended in dharmas that are unmade and unchanging”

63.150 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819127#UT22084-029-001-5089/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5089%22%5D\)

“As an ordinary convention, but not ultimately, I keep these beings... away from seizing on the unreal.”

63.151 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819128#UT22084-029-001-5090/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5090%22%5D\)

“But Lord, the tathāgatas stood in the ultimate and fully awakened to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”

“no, Subhūti,”

63.152 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819130#UT22084-029-001-5092/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5092%22%5D\)

“Well then, the tathāgatas stood in a succession of miraculous powers and fully awakened”

63.154 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819131#UT22084-029-001-5095/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5095%22%5D\)

“but do not stand in the compounded element or the un-compounded element,”

63.158 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819133#UT22084-029-001-5100/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5100%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, there is no distinction... between a tathāgata and a tathāgata’s magical creation,”

“the magical creation does the work,”

63.163 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819135#UT22084-029-001-5106/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5106%22%5D\)

“the true nature of dharmas on account of which the magical creation...”

63.167 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819136#UT22084-029-001-5110/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5110%22%5D\)

“But has the Lord not complicated the true dharmic nature of all dharmas”

63.168 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819137#UT22084-029-001-5111/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5111%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, I have taught... dharmas with words and signs.”

63.170 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819138#UT22084-029-001-5113/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5113%22%5D\)

“There is no settling down to do with names and signs.”

“Subhūti, were a name to settle down on a name, or were a sign to settle down on a sign”—

“emptiness would settle down on emptiness,”

“signlessness”

“Subhūti, all dharmas are thus simply mere names.”

63.175 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819143#UT22084-029-001-5122/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5122%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, all-knowledge belongs to śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas, the knowledge of path aspects... to bodhisattva great beings, and the knowledge of all aspects... to tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas.”

63.180 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819148#UT22084-029-001-5128/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5128%22%5D\)

“Do bodhisattvas actualize the very limit of reality having stood on a path... or having stood on what is not a bad path?”

63.190 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819144#UT22084-029-001-5146/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5146%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, that one aspect on account of which... [it] is called ‘knowledge of all aspects’ is thus the calm aspect.”

63.192 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819145#UT22084-029-001-5148/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5148%22%5D\)

“An abandonment of all residual impression connections” —

63.193 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819146#UT22084-029-001-5149/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5149%22%5D\)

“Before reaching the knowledge of all aspects is there an uncompounded abandonment of afflictions?”

63.196 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819147#UT22084-029-001-5154/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5154%22%5D\)

“they still do odd things with their bodies and voices. These are not even bad in ordinary persons,”

63.197 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819149#UT22084-029-001-5155/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5155%22%5D\)

“Lord, if the path is not an existent thing and nirvāṇa is not an existent thing, why is it taught that ‘this is a stream enterer; this is a once-returner,’ ”

63.198 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819150#UT22084-029-001-5156/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5156%22%5D)

“Subhūti... all of these are categories of the un compounded.”

63.199 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819151#UT22084-029-001-5157/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5157%22%5D)

“Lord, does something un compounded make the categories ‘this is a stream enterer’,”

63.200 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819152#UT22084-029-001-5158/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5158%22%5D)

“Subhūti, the un compounded does not make categories,”

“Having taken ordinary convention as the authority, they are simply spoken about, even though ultimately there cannot be categories.”

63.201 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42822344#UT22084-029-001-5159/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5159%22%5D)

“Lord, how will there be a later limit of saṃsāra?”

“those for whom an end is demarcated.”

63.202 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819156#UT22084-029-001-5161/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5161%22%5D\)

“Lord, if in all dharmas empty of their own marks a prior limit is not apprehended, what need is there to say more about a later limit?”

63.203 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819157#UT22084-029-001-5162/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5162%22%5D\)

“Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!”

63.205 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819158#UT22084-029-001-5166/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5166%22%5D\)

“Subhūti... this perfection of wisdom is, of all dharmas, perfect; therefore, it is called perfection of wisdom.”

63.206 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819159#UT22084-029-001-5168/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5168%22%5D\)

“with this... all śrāvakas, pratyekabuddhas, bodhisattva great beings, and tathāgatas, worthy ones, perfectly complete buddhas have reached the other side.”

63.207 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819160#UT22084-029-001-5169/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5169%22%5D\)

“Also, Subhūti, with this perfection of wisdom the tathāgata has fully awakened to the fact that all dharmas are not ultimately different; therefore, it is called perfection of wisdom.”

63.208 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819161#UT22084-029-001-5170/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5170%22%5D\)

“gone into this perfection of wisdom is suchness, and gone into it also is unmistaken suchness.”

63.209 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819162#UT22084-029-001-5171/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5171%22%5D\)

“Neither conjoined with nor disjoined from,”

63.210 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819163#UT22084-029-001-5172/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5172%22%5D\)

“This perfection of wisdom causes the practice of all dharmas, this perfection of wisdom bestows all confidences”

“Because all those who do the stopping, those who will stop, and the way the stopping happens cannot be apprehended in the perfection of wisdom.”

63.211 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819165#UT22084-029-001-5174/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5174%22%5D\)

“Furthermore, Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings should practice the reality of the perfection of wisdom—namely, they should practice the reality of impermanence, the reality of suffering, and the reality of selfless.”

“the good of the knowledge of suffering, the good of the knowledge of origination,”

“the good of the knowledge of mastery, and the good of the knowledge in accord with sound,”

“According to the reality and the mode”—

63.213 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819169#UT22084-029-001-5179/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5179%22%5D\)

“When... practicing this deep perfection of wisdom’s reality... they should not practice with the idea ‘greed is good for me’ or ‘is bad for me,’ ”

63.214 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819170#UT22084-029-001-5180/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5180%22%5D\)

“They should not practice with the idea ‘form is good for me’ or ‘form is bad for me.’ ”

63.215 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819171#UT22084-029-001-5181/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5181%22%5D\)

“Whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise”

“the establishment of dharmas,”

“remains”

63.217 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819172#UT22084-029-001-5183/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5183%22%5D\)

“the perfection of wisdom does not do anything good or bad to anything,”

“The perfection of wisdom does not cause any compounded or un-compounded dharma at all”

63.218 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819176#UT22084-029-001-5184/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5184%22%5D\)

“But Lord, the un-compounded is good for all noble... is it not?”

63.219 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819177#UT22084-029-001-5185/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5185%22%5D\)

“is not there to be good or bad for anything”

63.220 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819178#UT22084-029-001-5186/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5186%22%5D\)

“the suchness of space.”

63.221 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819179#UT22084-029-001-5187/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5187%22%5D\)

“Lord, having trained in the uncompounded perfection of wisdom, do bodhisattva great beings not reach the knowledge of all aspects?”

63.222 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819180#UT22084-029-001-5188/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5188%22%5D\)

“but not in a dualistic way.”

63.224 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819181#UT22084-029-001-5191/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5191%22%5D\)

“Lord, does a nondual dharma reach a nondual dharma?”

63.227 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819182#UT22084-029-001-5198/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5198%22%5D\)

“Because neither a dual dharma nor a nondual dharma can be apprehended, the knowledge of all aspects is thus reached by way of not apprehending anything at all.”

64.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819183#UT22084-029-001-5202/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5202%22%5D\)

“Deep, Lord, is the perfection of wisdom,”

64.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819184#UT22084-029-001-5209/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5209%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, it is because that suchness, on account of which tathāgatas are labeled, is just the suchness... on account of which the suchness of all beings and the suchness of the tathāgatas is labeled.”

64.9 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819185#UT22084-029-001-5211/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5211%22%5D\)

“standing in this suchness, bodhisattva great beings,”

“are called tathāgatas.”

“the perfection of wisdom.”

64.19 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819188#UT22084-029-001-5222/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5222%22%5D\)

“Candidates for bodhisattva”

64.23 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819189#UT22084-029-001-5227/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5227%22%5D\)

“Subhūti... the knowledge of all aspects is a nonexistent thing that is without a defining mark,”

“without a causal sign”

“without effort”

“unproduced”

“and not appearing”

“Subhūti, the objective support of the knowledge of all aspects is a nonexistent thing”

“The dominant factor is mindfulness.”

64.26 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819196#UT22084-029-001-5230/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5230%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, something that has arisen from a union has no intrinsic nature...”

“And anything arisen from a union with no intrinsic nature is a nonexistent thing.”

“Are the intrinsic nature of a nonexistent thing” —

64.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819199#UT22084-029-001-5240/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5240%22%5D\)

“Lord, are phenomena separated from the phenomena themselves?”

64.32 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819200#UT22084-029-001-5242/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5242%22%5D\)

“It is not appropriate that an existent thing knows an existent thing.”

“It is not appropriate that a nonexistent thing knows a nonexistent thing,”

“it is not appropriate that an existent thing knows a nonexistent thing,”

“it is not appropriate that a nonexistent thing knows an existent thing,”

64.34 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819204#UT22084-029-001-5244/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5244%22%5D\)

“Lord, is ordinary convention one thing and the ultimate another?”

“Just that suchness of ordinary convention is the suchness of the ultimate”

65.6 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819206#UT22084-029-001-5254/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5254%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, true reality is called buddha”

“Also, they are those who have fully awakened to the true Dharma, therefore they are called buddha,”

“there are those who have fully awakened to the true Dharma... have a penetrating realization of true reality, ... [and] have fully awakened to all dharmas as they really are, therefore they are called buddha.”

65.7 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819209#UT22084-029-001-5256/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5256%22%5D\)

“Lord, what is the word awakening for?”

“Subhūti, awakening is a word for emptiness.”

“Also, Subhūti, awakening is a word for mere designation.”

“true reality means awakening.”

“that awakening is a realization that all dharmas are a mere designation and causal sign,”

“that... is the awakening of the lord buddhas, therefore it is called awakening.”

“the lord buddhas have fully awakened to it, therefore it is called awakening.”

65.9 9 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819216#UT22084-029-001-5260/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5260%22%5D\)

“is not to accumulate or to diminish... any dharma.”

“it is not available in the manner of an objective support that has to be accumulated,”

“or that has to be diminished,”

“or that has to be decreased,”

“or that has to be increased,”

“or that has to be produced,”

“or that has to be stopped,”

“or that has to be defiled,”

“or that has to be purified,”

65.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819227#UT22084-029-001-5261/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5261%22%5D\)

“How will... [they] fully grasp the perfection of giving?”

65.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819228#UT22084-029-001-5262/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5262%22%5D\)

“[They] do not practice the perfection of giving in a dualistic way”

65.12 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819225#UT22084-029-001-5263/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5263%22%5D\)

“Practice the perfection of giving in a dualistic way”

“Lord, if they do not practice the perfection of giving in a dualistic way”

65.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819230#UT22084-029-001-5264/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5264%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, those who practice dualistically do not grow and flourish on wholesome roots”

66.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819226#UT22084-029-001-5272/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5272%22%5D\)

“even bodhisattva great beings who have attended on the lord buddhas, have planted wholesome roots, and have been looked after by spiritual friends will not be able to gain the knowledge of all aspects,”

69.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819231#UT22084-029-001-5289/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5289%22%5D\)

“do not move from their intrinsic nature”

69.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819232#UT22084-029-001-5299/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5299%22%5D\)

“can a nonexistent thing fully awaken to a nonexistent thing,”

69.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819233#UT22084-029-001-5306/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5306%22%5D\)

“Seeing sameness like this, not like an existent thing and not like a nonexistent thing either, is clear realization.”

69.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819234#UT22084-029-001-5312/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5312%22%5D\)

“the perfection of wisdom without thought construction.”

69.22 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819235#UT22084-029-001-5317/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5317%22%5D\)

“To illustrate, Subhūti, worthy ones... having trained on all the paths”—

“do indeed enter into the flawlessness that is a perfect state,”

“will not reach the result of worthy one in a single instant of the path”

“Through the wisdom of the unique single instant”—

“the vajropama meditative stabilization.”

69.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819240#UT22084-029-001-5320/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5320%22%5D\)

“Having beheld all eight levels, pass beyond them with knowledge and seeing,”

69.27 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819241#UT22084-029-001-5324/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5324%22%5D\)

“On that bodhisattva great beings should accomplish vocalizations, conventional terms, and sounds,”

69.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819242#UT22084-029-001-5327/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5327%22%5D\)

“Do not bring about and do not take away any dharma at all”—

69.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819243#UT22084-029-001-5328/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5328%22%5D\)

“exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!”

69.32 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819244#UT22084-029-001-5329/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5329%22%5D\)

“Noble Dharma and Vinaya”

69.34 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819245#UT22084-029-001-5331/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5331%22%5D\)

“noble Dharma and Vinaya”

“perfection of wisdom.”

69.42 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819247#UT22084-029-001-5341/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5341%22%5D\)

“The disintegration of meditation on all dharmas is meditation”

69.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819248#UT22084-029-001-5346/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5346%22%5D)

“[They] do not meditate on ‘form is an existent thing’ ”

69.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819249#UT22084-029-001-5347/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5347%22%5D)

“Someone attached to the two extremes, thinking ‘this is me,’ in reference to an existent thing” —

69.50 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819250#UT22084-029-001-5350/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5350%22%5D)

“Subhūti, the perception of form is a duality.”

“To the extent there is an existent thing, to that extent there are volitional factors.”

70.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819253#UT22084-029-001-5363/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5363%22%5D)

“[they] gain control over the range of all phenomena,”

70.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819254#UT22084-029-001-5364/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5364%22%5D\)

“Here, earlier when I was practicing the bodhisattva’s practice of the six perfections,”

70.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819255#UT22084-029-001-5367/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5367%22%5D\)

“Lord, how has a tathāgata, worthy one, perfectly complete buddha,”

70.12 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819256#UT22084-029-001-5368/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5368%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, were an intrinsic nature of sense objects or of wrong unwholesome dharmas,”

“are not existent things, or nonexistent things, or intrinsically existent things, or dependently existent things”

70.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819258#UT22084-029-001-5370/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5370%22%5D\)

“How... will there be serial action, serial training, and serial practice?”

70.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819259#UT22084-029-001-5372/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5372%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings from the very outset have heard from the lord buddhas... that an intrinsic nature... is nonexistent,”

70.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819261#UT22084-029-001-5376/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5376%22%5D\)

“Having [transcended the śrāvaka level and pratyekabuddha level], they enter,”

70.19 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819260#UT22084-029-001-5377/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5377%22%5D\)

“Starting from the first production of the thought,”

70.45 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819262#UT22084-029-001-5406/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5406%22%5D\)

“Do you think you can apprehend a ‘there-is’ or a ‘there-is-not’ in all the phenomena that are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature”

71.4 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819263#UT22084-029-001-5415/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5415%22%5D\)

“Just the absence of an apprehended object is attainment, just the attainment of the absence of an apprehended object is clear realization.”

“unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”

71.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819265#UT22084-029-001-5416/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5416%22%5D\)

“How will there be the clairvoyances arisen from maturation?”

71.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819266#UT22084-029-001-5424/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5424%22%5D\)

“Lord, when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, how do they complete the six perfections in a single thought?”

71.12 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819267#UT22084-029-001-5425/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5425%22%5D\)

“when they give gifts it is informed by the perfection of wisdom,”

“Nothing other than”

71.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819269#UT22084-029-001-5427/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5427%22%5D\)

“not having a dualistic notion”

71.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819270#UT22084-029-001-5430/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5430%22%5D\)

“When they give gifts with a thought free from causal signs, without outflows, the perfection of maturation is completed.”

71.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819271#UT22084-029-001-5436/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5436%22%5D\)

“This gift you have given is worthless”

73.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819272#UT22084-029-001-5522/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5522%22%5D\)

“Lord, how, when all dharmas are like a dream, have nonexistence for their intrinsic nature, and are empty of their own marks,”

73.61 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819273#UT22084-029-001-5604/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5604%22%5D\)

“What is conflict-free meditative stabilization?”

73.62 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819274#UT22084-029-001-5605/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5605%22%5D\)

“There, what is knowledge from prayer?”

73.64 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819275#UT22084-029-001-5607/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5607%22%5D\)

“There, what are the four total purities?”

“thoroughly purified basis.”

“thoroughly purified objective support.”

“thoroughly purified mind.”

“thoroughly purified knowledge.”

73.65 10 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819280#UT22084-029-001-5608/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5608%22%5D\)

“Control over lifespan”

“control over mind”

“control over necessities”

“control over action”

“control over birth”

“control over belief”

“control over prayer”

“control over magical powers”

“control over knowledge”

“control over the doctrine”

73.80 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819290#UT22084-029-001-5630/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5630%22%5D\)

“What are the three things the tathāgatas do not have to guard against?”

73.81 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819291#UT22084-029-001-5631/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5631%22%5D\)

“[The] three applications of mindfulness”

73.84 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819292#UT22084-029-001-5634/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5634%22%5D\)

“A natural state not robbed of mindfulness”—

73.89 34 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.
Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819293#UT22084-029-001-5641/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5641%22%5D\)

“What are the thirty-two major marks of a great person?”

“They have wheel marks on the surfaces of their hands and feet.”

“Feet that are well placed”—

“Hands and feet with connecting webbing”—

“Delicate and soft feet and hands”—

“Stands out prominently in seven ways,”

“They have long toes and fingers.”

“stretched-out heels”

“a big... body”

“and a straight body,”

“Lower legs from the feet up that are not knobby”—

“Body hair that points upward”—

“Calves like the añeya antelope”—

“Tubular and long arms”—

“[Their] private parts are hidden in a sheath.”

“A color like gold”—

“Extremely fine skin”—

“Each strand of body hair grows curling to the right”—

“An ūṛṇā marks their face.”

“[Their] upper body is like a lion’s.”

“[Their] shoulders are well rounded without an indentation at the throat.”

“The part between the collarbones is filled in”—

“They know tastes as tasty.”

“A build like an Indian fig tree”—

“[They] have an uṣṇīṣa on the top of their head”—

“A long thin tongue”:

“The voice of Brahmā”—

“They have lion-like jaws”

“Very white teeth,”

“Even teeth,”

“Teeth without gaps”—

“Forty teeth,”

“Dark blue eyes”—

“[Their] eyelashes are like those of a cow,”

73.90

13 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819298#UT22084-029-001-5645/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5645%22%5D\)

“Wheels with a thousand spokes, with rims and hubs”—

“complete in every respect.”

“the backs of their hands and upper parts of their feet, shoulders, neck, and head”—

“[It] is not crooked”

“At seven hasta they are elevated in height.”

“dirt particles”

“stick to it.”

“The call of the kalaviṅka bird”—

“extremely white,”

“are not too long or too short,”

“no spaces between their teeth,”

“the upper and lower eyelashes”

“not entangled, so... [their] eyelashes are like those of a cow.”

73.91 26 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines. Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819296#UT22084-029-001-5653/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5653%22%5D\)

“welcomed and accompanied gurus.”

“listened to the doctrine, strung garlands, visited temples and caityas, and given the gift of servants.”

“It is a sign presaging an extremely large circle of servants.”

“their commitment is firm.”

“It is a sign presaging that they cannot be swayed.”

“their assiduous practice of the four ways of gathering a retinue.”

“by giving”

“consistency between words and deeds,”

“The speedy gathering of a retinue”—

“perfectly prepared hard and soft food and drink.”

“because they have freed convicts condemned to death, have sustained life by giving food and drink and so on, and assiduously practiced abstaining from killing”—

“abstaining from killing”

“the wholesome dharmas they have undertaken,”

“having shown respect, they have made vocations and branches of knowledge available”

“It is a sign presaging a speedy grasp of things.”

“[they] reconciled friends and relatives and did not separate”

“they have avoided society, and accorded an appropriate status to parents and so on, served them, given them gifts, not displeased them,”

“[they] did not speak unkindly,”

“did not belittle others,”

“eloquent and not jarring, and their speech is the same as the roar of a lion,”

“first”—

“at doing”

“parks, assembly halls,”

“they have a build like a fig tree,”

“an uṣṇīṣa on the top of their head,”

“these are signs that presage holding the highest office.”

73.92 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819294#UT22084-029-001-5660/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5660%22%5D\)

“great person”

73.93 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819367#UT22084-029-001-5663/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5663%22%5D\)

“Eighty minor signs” —

“Lord buddhas have nails with a color like copper”

“are isolated from all conditioned things”

73.95 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819370#UT22084-029-001-5715/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5715%22%5D\)

“Bodhisattva great beings gather beings with those six perfections, by kind words.”

73.96 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819371#UT22084-029-001-5716/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5716%22%5D\)

“They have gathered beings... with those same six perfections by... beneficial actions.”

73.97 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819372#UT22084-029-001-5718/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5718%22%5D\)

“Become skilled at one syllable accomplishment.”

“Know through one syllable that all have a decline.”

“Meditate on forty-five syllables being included in one syllable.”

“Meditate on one syllable being included in forty-five syllables.”

“All dharmas, Subhūti, being the appearance of that for which there are no letters, are magical creations.”

73.98 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819377#UT22084-029-001-5722/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5722%22%5D\)

“how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom arisen from maturation,”

“a being... and a dharma... cannot be apprehended,”

73.99 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819379#UT22084-029-001-5723/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5723%22%5D\)

“be connecting them with error?”

73.100 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819380#UT22084-029-001-5725/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5725%22%5D\)

the Lord said, “Exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!”

“Having thus seen that all those dharmas are empty, teach the doctrine to beings,”

“They see that all dharmas are without obscurations”

73.102 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819383#UT22084-029-001-5728/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5728%22%5D\)

“By way of their not being bound and not being freed”—

“Form’s state of not being bound and not being freed is not form.”

“Are absolutely pure”—

73.104 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819386#UT22084-029-001-5730/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5730%22%5D\)

“Something nonexistent is not located in something nonexistent,”

“Something’s own existence is not located in something nonexistent,”

“And something else’s existence is not located in something nonexistent or in something’s own existence,”

“The lord buddhas, the bodhisattvas, pratyekabuddhas, worthy ones, and all the noble beings understand just that true dharmic nature of dharmas”

“Without going beyond that true dharmic nature of dharmas”—

“Subhūti, the dharma-constituent does not go beyond anything, and suchness and the very limit of reality do not go beyond anything either.”

“Because they have no intrinsic nature that goes beyond anything”

73.105 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819393#UT22084-029-001-5733/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5733%22%5D\)

“Lord, if, in the dharma-constituent, there is no going beyond, and in suchness and at the very limit of reality there is no going beyond,”

73.106 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819394#UT22084-029-001-5734/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5734%22%5D\)

“No, Subhūti,” the Lord replied,

73.107 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819395#UT22084-029-001-5735/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5735%22%5D\)

“Lord, if form is not one thing and the dharma-constituent is not another,”

“a detailed presentation of the results”

73.108 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819397#UT22084-029-001-5736/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5736%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, ... based on conventional truth,”

“an exposition of a detailed presentation of”

“are undifferentiated”—

“not something that can be talked about,”

“name and form are not produced and do not stop, are not defiled and not purified.”

“They are an emptiness of what transcends limits and an emptiness of no beginning and no end.”

73.109 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819404#UT22084-029-001-5737/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5737%22%5D\)

Subhūti said, “Lord, if the detailed presentation of results is based on conventional truth,”

“simple, ordinary folk,”

“in the result of stream enterer,”

73.110 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819398#UT22084-029-001-5738/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5738%22%5D\)

“simple... folk,”

Then the Lord said, “Subhūti, were simple, ordinary folk to know the conventional truth or the ultimate truth,”

73.111 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819408#UT22084-029-001-5739/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5739%22%5D\)

“Lord, when they have become habituated to the path”

“does the result appear and do they attain the result?”

73.112 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819410#UT22084-029-001-5740/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5740%22%5D\)

“No, Subhūti. The result does not appear, and they do not attain the result from having become habituated to the path.”

“Nor, Subhūti, do they attain the result from having not become habituated to the path.”

“A result to be attained with the path does not exist, it will not be attained with what is not the path, and it does not exist on the path either”

“In the dharma-constituent they do not make a presentation of the results by way of apportioning them.”

73.113 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42821713#UT22084-029-001-5742/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5742%22%5D\)

“Lord, if the compounded element and un-compounded element have not been apportioned,”

73.114 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819415#UT22084-029-001-5744/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5744%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, ... is the result of stream enterer... compounded or... un-compounded?”

74.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819416#UT22084-029-001-5753/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5753%22%5D\)

“Lord, how have... they realized well what marks dharmas as dharmas”

74.3 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819417#UT22084-029-001-5755/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5755%22%5D\)

“Lord, how do they meditate on the path of a magical creation?”

“Subhūti, it is based on meditating on a path,”

74.4 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819419#UT22084-029-001-5757/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5757%22%5D\)

“Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings realize all dharmas that are nonexistent things”

“Is there any existent thing apprehended in a tathāgata’s magical creation, thanks to which it is defiled and is purified?”

74.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819421#UT22084-029-001-5763/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5763%22%5D\)

“Lord, ... if the five forms of life in saṃsāra from which beings will be liberated do not exist, how is there going to be a bodhisattva’s personal heroic power?”

74.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819422#UT22084-029-001-5764/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5764%22%5D\)

Then the Lord said, “What do you think, Subhūti,”

74.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819423#UT22084-029-001-5768/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5768%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, if, just on their own, beings knew that all dharmas are like a dream, up to are like a magical creation,”

74.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819424#UT22084-029-001-5771/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5771%22%5D\)

“The basic nature of all dharmas is name because they point somewhere.”

74.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819425#UT22084-029-001-5782/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5782%22%5D\)

“is signlessness one thing and śrāvaka dharmas another?”

74.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819426#UT22084-029-001-5810/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5810%22%5D\)

“Does that not complicate the dharma-constituent?”

74.47 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819427#UT22084-029-001-5811/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5811%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, the dharma-constituent would be complicated if there were to be any other dharma not included in the dharma-constituent,”

74.52 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819430#UT22084-029-001-5818/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5818%22%5D\)

“Are aware of all dharmas as they really are, the dharma-constituent,”

74.55 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819431#UT22084-029-001-5825/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5825%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, if the dharma-constituent were not exactly the same later as it was before, and if it were not like that in between as well,”

75.2 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819432#UT22084-029-001-5828/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5828%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, having taken the very limit of reality as the measure”

“establish beings at the very limit of reality”

75.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819433#UT22084-029-001-5830/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5830%22%5D\)

“Lord, if just the very limit of reality is also the limit of beings”

75.4 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819435#UT22084-029-001-5831/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5831%22%5D\)

“With skillful means they establish the limit of beings at the very limit of reality without complicating the very limit of reality.”

“are not two.”

75.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819437#UT22084-029-001-5832/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5832%22%5D\)

“What are the skillful means?”

75.6 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819438#UT22084-029-001-5833/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5833%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, here, starting from the first production of the thought, bodhisattva great beings,”

75.18 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819439#UT22084-029-001-5849/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5849%22%5D\)

“Lord, if all phenomena are empty of a basic nature, and if in the emptiness of a basic nature a being is not apprehended, nor are a dharma and a path apprehended,”

“how will bodhisattva great beings,”

“stand in the knowledge of all aspects?”

75.19 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819442#UT22084-029-001-5850/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5850%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, were all phenomena not empty of a basic nature,”

75.20 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819443#UT22084-029-001-5851/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5851%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, if inner emptiness were not empty of a basic nature,”

“The emptiness of a basic nature would have been destroyed.”

“that ‘all dharmas are empty of a basic nature’ ”

75.21 10 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819446#UT22084-029-001-5852/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5852%22%5D\)

“the emptiness of a basic nature does not perish, is not immovable, and is not nonrecurring”

“it does occupy a location,”

“does not stand in a place,”

“does not come from anywhere and does not go anywhere,”

“All dharmas are not established”

“They do not see any dharma at all as obstructing”

“They see all dharmas as not obstructing”

“do not apprehend... a self,”

“the emptiness of a basic nature.”

“In that”—

75.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819457#UT22084-029-001-5854/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5854%22%5D)

“a tathāgata’s... magically created monk or nun”

75.23 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819458#UT22084-029-001-5856/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5856%22%5D)

“Just that error is itself not error.”

“Because of having thought construction as cause”—

“They, furthermore, are not exactly like the ultimate there”

“the applications of mindfulness,”

75.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819462#UT22084-029-001-5858/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5858%22%5D)

“That emptiness of a basic nature, furthermore, is the emptiness of a basic nature at the prior limit,”

75.25 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819463#UT22084-029-001-5859/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5859%22%5D\)

“Thus, it is amazing how they practice all dharmas that are the emptiness of a basic nature without complicating the emptiness of a basic nature.”

“form is not one thing and the emptiness of a basic nature another.”

75.26 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819465#UT22084-029-001-5860/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5860%22%5D\)

“Fully awoken to form itself as the knower of all aspects”—

75.27 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819466#UT22084-029-001-5861/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5861%22%5D\)

“On the contrary, the world together with the gods, together with Māra, together with Brahmā”—

“do not know”

“on account of not knowing,”

“settle down on”

“appropriate form,”

“are not liberated from”

75.28 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819472#UT22084-029-001-5862/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5862%22%5D\)

“...the emptiness of a basic nature ... [they] do not complicate form with ‘it is empty, or it is not empty.’ ”

75.31 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819473#UT22084-029-001-5865/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5865%22%5D\)

“It is because the ‘this is form,’ and ‘this is emptiness’... that might make that sort of complication have no intrinsic existence”—

75.33 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819474#UT22084-029-001-5867/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5867%22%5D\)

“Bodhisattva great beings do not practice awakening and form within having made a division.”

“They do not practice form having made a division in awakening.”

75.34 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819477#UT22084-029-001-5868/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5868%22%5D\)

“A practice of taking anything up”—

75.42 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819478#UT22084-029-001-5877/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5877%22%5D\)

“Stand in the basic nature of form”—

75.43 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819479#UT22084-029-001-5878/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5878%22%5D\)

“Moreover, ... simply based on... labeled by way of ordinary convention”

76.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819480#UT22084-029-001-5888/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5888%22%5D\)

“without apprehending giving, ... a benefactor,”

76.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819481#UT22084-029-001-5889/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5889%22%5D\)

“Lord, how, when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, do they make an effort at the awakening path?”

76.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819482#UT22084-029-001-5890/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5890%22%5D\)

“[They] do not disengage from form,”

76.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819483#UT22084-029-001-5891/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5891%22%5D\)

“How will the perfection of wisdom... be accomplished”

76.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819484#UT22084-029-001-5895/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5895%22%5D\)

“Has there been or will there be a real basis of form in the way a foolish ordinary person has settled down on it?”

76.19 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819485#UT22084-029-001-5905/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5905%22%5D\)

“If something that really existed was there before”—

“there would be the fault.”

76.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819487#UT22084-029-001-5911/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5911%22%5D\)

“Lord, what is the bodhisattva great beings’ path?”

77.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819488#UT22084-029-001-5961/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5961%22%5D\)

“Lord, if all dharmas are unproduced, well then, Lord, how will bodhisattva great beings produce a path to awakening?”

77.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819489#UT22084-029-001-5962/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5962%22%5D\)

“All dharmas have not been produced. How so? All dharmas have not been produced for those who do not occasion anything,”

77.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819490#UT22084-029-001-5963/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5963%22%5D\)

“Lord, whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise,”

77.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819491#UT22084-029-001-5964/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5964%22%5D\)

Having said that, the Lord said, “Exactly so, Subhūti,”

77.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819492#UT22084-029-001-5965/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5965%22%5D\)

“Lord, do they reach awakening on that path that has been produced?”

77.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819493#UT22084-029-001-5973/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5973%22%5D\)

“Just awakening is the path, and just the path is awakening.”

77.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819494#UT22084-029-001-5975/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5975%22%5D\)

“Lord, if just awakening is the path, and just the path is awakening,”

77.23 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819495#UT22084-029-001-5976/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5976%22%5D\)

Having asked that, the Lord, asked him in return, “Subhūti, what do you think, does a buddha reach awakening?”

77.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819497#UT22084-029-001-5978/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5978%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings, having completed the six perfections,”

77.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819498#UT22084-029-001-5979/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-5979%22%5D\)

“purify a buddhafield”

78.1 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819499#UT22084-029-001-6002/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6002%22%5D\)

“Lord, are bodhisattva great beings ‘destined’ or rather ‘not necessarily destined’?”

78.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819500#UT22084-029-001-6004/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6004%22%5D\)

“the śrāvaka group or the pratyekabuddha group”

78.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819501#UT22084-029-001-6013/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6013%22%5D\)

“He intentionally, with skillful means, appropriated whatever sort of body would be of benefit to beings.”

78.16 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819502#UT22084-029-001-6018/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6018%22%5D\)

“Through a noble action without outflows, do they... take birth in terrible forms of life or...”—

78.27 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819503#UT22084-029-001-6035/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6035%22%5D\)

“But they have no contact with them at all”—

78.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819504#UT22084-029-001-6038/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6038%22%5D\)

“How could all dharmas be included in the perfection of wisdom?”

78.30 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819505#UT22084-029-001-6039/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6039%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, ... all dharmas are empty of all dharmas, are they not?”

78.33 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819506#UT22084-029-001-6045/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6045%22%5D\)

“Lord, how do [they]... standing in the emptiness of all dharmas find and produce within themselves the perfection of clairvoyance”

78.34 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819507#UT22084-029-001-6046/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6046%22%5D\)

the Lord said, “Subhūti, here bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom see all those world systems,”

78.51 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819508#UT22084-029-001-6063/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6063%22%5D\)

“branches of... awakening,”

79.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819509#UT22084-029-001-6085/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6085%22%5D\)

“Lord, will beings pass into complete nirvāṇa on account of knowing suffering or will they pass into complete nirvāṇa on account of suffering?”

79.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819510#UT22084-029-001-6086/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6086%22%5D\)

“the sameness”

79.20 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819511#UT22084-029-001-6092/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6092%22%5D\)

“Those dharmas included in the truths or not included in the truths”—

“Subhūti, such a dharma as that, which bodhisattva great beings see, does not exist.”

“Those bodhisattvas standing at the Gotra level do not fall onto a peak”

79.21 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819514#UT22084-029-001-6096/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6096%22%5D\)

“Even though they comprehend suffering, they do not produce any thought with suffering as its objective support”

79.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819515#UT22084-029-001-6102/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6102%22%5D\)

“Awakening is a nonexistent thing.”

80.2 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819516#UT22084-029-001-6107/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6107%22%5D\)

“unlettered, foolish, ordinary people,”

“That which is not real is just not real”

80.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819518#UT22084-029-001-6110/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6110%22%5D\)

“The path is a nonexistent thing, the result of stream enterer is a nonexistent thing,”

80.7 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819519#UT22084-029-001-6115/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6115%22%5D\)

“Lord, is there some real basis called suchness and unmistaken suchness, that was or is,”

80.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819520#UT22084-029-001-6117/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6117%22%5D\)

“like a dream”

81.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819522#UT22084-029-001-6154/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6154%22%5D\)

“Brahmā’s melodious voice”

81.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819521#UT22084-029-001-6155/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6155%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, ... what do you think, those dharmas... are like an illusion, like a dream, ... are they not?”

81.8 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819523#UT22084-029-001-6159/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6159%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, it is because all these dharmas have been brought into being and are the outcome of intentions”

81.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819524#UT22084-029-001-6161/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6161%22%5D\)

“But still, Subhūti, all those dharmas establish the path and bring about the path, even though they do not cause a result to be obtained”

81.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819525#UT22084-029-001-6162/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6162%22%5D\)

“The perfection of giving cannot be grasped.”

81.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819529#UT22084-029-001-6167/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6167%22%5D\)

“Is the dharma a tathāgata has fully awakened to...”

81.17 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819526#UT22084-029-001-6171/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6171%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, there is no clear realization dualistically and there is no clear realization nondualistically either.”

“clear realization.”

81.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819530#UT22084-029-001-6172/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6172%22%5D\)

“Lord, given that dharmas are the nonexistence of an intrinsic nature, what is this ‘sameness of dharmas’?”

81.19 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819528#UT22084-029-001-6173/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6173%22%5D\)

“Is inexpressible”

“Subhūti, here just that is the sameness of dharmas.”

81.20 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819532#UT22084-029-001-6175/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6175%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, that sameness of dharmas is not within the range of... even tathāgatas.”

81.29 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819533#UT22084-029-001-6187/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6187%22%5D\)

“Makes a presentation of dharmas without moving from the sameness of dharmas”—

81.36 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819534#UT22084-029-001-6197/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6197%22%5D\)

“Lord, is that true nature of dharmas a compounded phenomenon or is it an un-compounded phenomenon?”

81.37 10 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.
Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819535#UT22084-029-001-6198/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6198%22%5D\)

The Lord said, “Subhūti, it is not a compounded phenomenon and it is not an uncompounded phenomenon either.”

“An uncompounded phenomenon other than a compounded phenomenon cannot be apprehended, and a compounded phenomenon other than an uncompounded phenomenon cannot be apprehended either.”

“are not conjoined”;

“are not disjoined”;

“are formless”;

“cannot be pointed out”;

“do not obstruct”;

“have only one mark—that is, no mark.”

“A tathāgata employs this language according to ordinary convention.”

“in the ultimate there is no physical volitional factor, no verbal volitional factor, and no mental volitional factor,”

82.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.
Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819545#UT22084-029-001-6202/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6202%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, emptiness is not anything at all, there is nothing at all.”

82.3 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819547#UT22084-029-001-6204/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6204%22%5D\)

“Lord, why is it empty?”

“Whatever the perception of it, it is empty of that.”

“magically creates other magical creations”

“is there any real thing there that is not empty?”

82.5 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819552#UT22084-029-001-6209/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6209%22%5D\)

“Subhūti, what do you think, is it concealed...”

“ ‘this is a magical creation; this is an emptiness’ ”

82.9 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819554#UT22084-029-001-6213/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6213%22%5D\)

“some are magically created by śrāvakas,”

“some are magically created by afflictive emotions”

“and some are magically created by actions”

82.10 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819557#UT22084-029-001-6215/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6215%22%5D\)

“Be it a production or cessation”

82.12 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819558#UT22084-029-001-6219/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6219%22%5D\)

“It is nirvāṇa—that which has the quality of not coaxing you into believing it is true.”

82.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819559#UT22084-029-001-6221/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6221%22%5D\)

“According to what you have said, Lord, that ‘not moving from emptiness and not stained by duality either...’ ”

82.14 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819560#UT22084-029-001-6222/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6222%22%5D\)

“exactly so, Subhūti, exactly so!”

82.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819561#UT22084-029-001-6223/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6223%22%5D\)

“Lord, ... a person who is beginning the work... how should they be advised?”

82.16 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819562#UT22084-029-001-6224/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6224%22%5D\)

“a thing that really existed before”

“becomes a thing that does not exist later”

“there is no existent thing”

“nor a nonexistent thing”

“there is not something’s own existence”—

“nor any existence from something else”—

“so how will there ever be”

83.1 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819569#UT22084-029-001-6227/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6227%22%5D\)

Maitreya asked... “Lord, how do bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom who want to train in a bodhisattva’s training train in form?”

“the buddhadharmas.”

83.2 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819571#UT22084-029-001-6229/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6229%22%5D\)

“[they] should train in ‘form is a mere name,’... up to ‘buddhadharmas are a mere name’ ”—

83.3 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819572#UT22084-029-001-6230/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6230%22%5D\)

“Lord, when this—namely, the designationform—is apprehended together with a basis,”

83.4 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819573#UT22084-029-001-6231/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6231%22%5D\)

“This—namely, form—is a name plucked out of thin air... for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon.”

83.5 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819574#UT22084-029-001-6233/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6233%22%5D\)

“Lord, is it not the case that in the absence of the name form, there is no being aware of, realizing, or knowing the name form through a basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon?”

83.6 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819575#UT22084-029-001-6234/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6234%22%5D\)

“So then, Maitreya, I will ask you a question,”

“Maitreya, what do you think—without resorting to, without standing on, without having to stand on the designation form for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, do you think this—namely, ‘this is form’—about this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon?”

83.9 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819577#UT22084-029-001-6240/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6240%22%5D\)

“Maitreya, what do you think, do a variety of kinds of words, conventional terms, conventional labels, and designations designate, or conventionally refer to, or label, or apply to this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon?”

83.11 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819578#UT22084-029-001-6243/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6243%22%5D\)

“Maitreya, what do you think—here, does someone designate... to just that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon a name for a basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon different from it?”

83.13 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819579#UT22084-029-001-6246/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6246%22%5D\)

Having said that, the noble Maitreya asked him, “In that case, Lord, would it not then be just that basis that is the causal sign of a compounded phenomenon that is apprehended as the form entity?”

83.15 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819580#UT22084-029-001-6251/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6251%22%5D\)

“Maitreya, what do you think, ... the form entity, or is it simply merely designated?”

83.17 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819581#UT22084-029-001-6254/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6254%22%5D\)

Having said that, the noble Maitreya asked him, “Lord, ... if form is simply just a designation, name, conventional term, label, and conventional designation,”

83.18 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819582#UT22084-029-001-6255/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6255%22%5D\)

Having asked that, the Lord asked him in return, “Maitreya, what do you think, is that form that is simply just a designation, name, conventional term, label, and conventional designation produced or stopped, or defiled or purified?”

83.22 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819583#UT22084-029-001-6261/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6261%22%5D)

“Lord, does form just not exist at all? Is it without any mark at all?”

83.23 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819584#UT22084-029-001-6262/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6262%22%5D)

“Maitreya, I do not say ‘form just does not exist at all without any mark at all.’ ”

83.24 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819585#UT22084-029-001-6263/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6263%22%5D)

“How then, Lord, does form exist?”

83.25 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819586#UT22084-029-001-6264/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6264%22%5D)

“Maitreya, form exists as an ordinary term and convention,”

83.26 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (?
commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819587#UT22084-029-001-6265/%5Bdata-
quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6265%22%5D)

“Lord, the way I understand what you have said,”

“inexpressible,”

“Lord, if that inexpressible element ultimately exists, then how can it be a basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon designated by the name form plucked out of thin air?”

“And if ultimately it does not exist, then how could it be an inexpressible element?”

83.27 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819591#UT22084-029-001-6268/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6268%22%5D\)

“So then, Maitreya, I will ask you a question,”

“Maitreya, what do you think—when abiding in the correct practice of wisdom connected with the inexpressible element,”

“Lord, I do not apprehend it.”

83.28 6 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819594#UT22084-029-001-6270/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6270%22%5D\)

Then the Lord said, “From this one of many explanations, Maitreya”—

“You should know that this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon is not the inexpressible element, and the inexpressible element is not other than this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon.”

“Maitreya, this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon... if they are taken to be the inexpressible element, well then, all foolish ordinary people would be in nirvāṇa.”

“Maitreya, if the inexpressible element is taken to be other than this basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, well then, given that even the causal sign would not be apprehended,”

“A realization of the inexpressible,”

“element,”

83.30 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819600#UT22084-029-001-6272/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6272%22%5D\)

“Lord, if, when bodhisattvas are abiding in the correct practice of wisdom connected with the inexpressible element,”

“not apprehended”

“not apprehended”

83.31 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819603#UT22084-029-001-6273/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6273%22%5D\)

Then the Lord said, “Maitreya, that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon has no independence or existence at all.”

“Maitreya, when you conceive of that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon,”

“it is, Lord,”

83.32 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819606#UT22084-029-001-6276/%5Bdata-

quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6276%22%5D\)

“If that is so, Maitreya, ... [it] is simply just conceptualization,”

“When they are thus abiding in the nonconceptual element free from conceptualizations, what existence does it... have?”

“What existence can be apprehended?”

83.33 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819609#UT22084-029-001-6277/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6277%22%5D\)

“Lord, how many designations for the separate aspects of form should a bodhisattva practicing the perfection of wisdom, involved in skillfully making a differentiation of a dharma, know?”

83.34 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819610#UT22084-029-001-6278/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6278%22%5D\)

“Maitreya, ... should know three... modes of form,”

“imaginary form, ... conceptualized form, and ... the true dharmic nature of form,”

“imaginary buddhadharmas, ... conceptualized buddhadharmas, and... the true dharmic nature of buddhadharmas,”

83.35 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819613#UT22084-029-001-6279/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6279%22%5D\)

“What is imaginary form?”

83.36 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819614#UT22084-029-001-6280/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6280%22%5D\)

the Lord said, “Maitreya, based on the designation, name, label, and conventional designation form for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, this imagining that it is the intrinsic nature of form is imaginary form,”

“based on the designation, name, label, and conventional designation form for this or that basis that is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon,”

83.37 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819616#UT22084-029-001-6281/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6281%22%5D\)

“that basis which is a causal sign of a compounded phenomenon, an expression dependent on conceptualization established in the true dharmic nature of mere conceptualization,”

“feeling”

83.38 7 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819618#UT22084-029-001-6283/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6283%22%5D\)

“whether the tathāgatas arise or whether the tathāgatas do not arise,”

“this eternally eternal, constantly constant absence of imaginary form as the intrinsic nature of conceptualized form,”

“The nonexistence of an intrinsic nature,”

“the nonexistence of a self in dharmas”—

“suchness”—

“the very limit of reality”—

“feeling”

83.40 5 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819625#UT22084-029-001-6286/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6286%22%5D\)

“Maitreya, view the form that is imaginary as not a material reality,”

“View conceptualized form as a material reality based on the material reality of a conceptualization.”

“But not because it is there under its own power”—

“The true dharmic nature of form... as neither a nonmaterial reality nor a material reality and in the category of the ultimate”—

“buddhadharmas”

83.41 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819630#UT22084-029-001-6287/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6287%22%5D\)

“this that the Lord has said”

“namely, ‘anything called form is counted as not two,’ ”

83.42 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819632#UT22084-029-001-6289/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6289%22%5D\)

“Maitreya, what do you think, is the absence of material reality in imaginary form, or is it not?”

83.43 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819634#UT22084-029-001-6291/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6291%22%5D\)

“Is then form?”

“just the mere designation, name, label, and conventional designation form for it?”

83.45 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819636#UT22084-029-001-6294/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6294%22%5D\)

“Maitreya, what do you think, is conceptualized form, the material reality... not form?”

83.46 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819637#UT22084-029-001-6297/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6297%22%5D\)

“is that imaginary form of just that conceptualized form—that which is not its intrinsic nature, not its defining mark—form?”

83.48 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819638#UT22084-029-001-6300/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6300%22%5D\)

“Is that true dharmic nature of form, form in the category of selflessness, form?”

83.49 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819639#UT22084-029-001-6302/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6302%22%5D\)

“Is that true dharmic nature of form that is just that true dharmic nature of form, not form?”

83.50 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819640#UT22084-029-001-6304/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6304%22%5D\)

“counted as nondual”

“are nondual.”

83.52 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819642#UT22084-029-001-6307/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6307%22%5D\)

“[they] neither comprehend nor do not comprehend form, and just that is their comprehension.”

“abandon... actualize... and cultivate.”

83.54 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819644#UT22084-029-001-6309/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6309%22%5D)

“Maitreya, the nirvāṇa of bodhisattvas is deep, extremely deep.”

83.55 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819645#UT22084-029-001-6310/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6310%22%5D)

“why is [it]... deep?”

“It is because the nirvāṇa of bodhisattvas is neither nirvāṇa nor not nirvāṇa; that is why it is called ‘deep, extremely deep.’ ”

83.57 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819648#UT22084-029-001-6313/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6313%22%5D)

The Lord said, “Maitreya, taking the welfare of others as the point of departure, it is not nirvāṇa because they do not totally reject saṃsāra; taking their own welfare as the point of departure, it is not not nirvāṇa because they do not totally reject nirvāṇa.”

83.58 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary (? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819647#UT22084-029-001-6314/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6314%22%5D)

“Lord, if, taking the welfare of others as the point of departure, bodhisattvas do not totally reject saṃsāra... how do they not totally reject nirvāṇa?”

“Lord, if, taking the welfare of others as the point of departure, bodhisattvas do not totally reject saṃsāra, by not totally rejecting saṃsāra how do they not totally reject nirvāṇa?”

83.59 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819650#UT22084-029-001-6315/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6315%22%5D\)

“[they] do not even conceive of saṃsāra as actually saṃsāra,”

83.60 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819651#UT22084-029-001-6317/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6317%22%5D\)

“Well then, Lord, will it not be the case that just as bodhisattvas standing in the realm without thought construction... have not totally rejected a life in saṃsāra they will similarly not have appropriated it, and just as they have not totally rejected nirvāṇa they will similarly not have appropriated that, either? And Lord, if there is no appropriation, how can there be no rejection?”

83.61 3 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42816484#UT22084-029-001-6318/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6318%22%5D\)

“or ‘do not appropriate’ a life in saṃsāra,”

“Maitreya, I do not say they ‘appropriate’ or ‘do not appropriate’ a life in saṃsāra.”

“emptiness, the realm that gives no basis for apprehending anything”

83.62 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819654#UT22084-029-001-6320/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6320%22%5D\)

“Lord, how in the absence of conceptualization should the collection of marks be viewed?”

83.63 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819655#UT22084-029-001-6321/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6321%22%5D\)

“The nonduality... of an existent thing and a nonexistent thing”

“Nonelaboration”

83.64 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819657#UT22084-029-001-6322/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6322%22%5D\)

“Lord, are all śrāvakas absolutely with certainty located in nirvāṇa?”

83.65 4 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819658#UT22084-029-001-6323/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6323%22%5D\)

“Many families and dispositions of beings can be found.”

“Strive for a superior qualification, who gain just the superior qualification”—

“Inferior”—

“Understand that it is lacking, are not satisfied just by that”

83.66 2 references to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819662#UT22084-029-001-6324/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6324%22%5D\)

“...does not take rebirth, so how do they reach it?”

“The Lord has not said... is their rebirth.”

83.67 1 reference to this passage can be found in the commentary Toh 3808, The Long Explanation of the Noble Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand, Twenty-Five Thousand, and Eighteen Thousand Lines.

Reload this text to be read alongside this commentary \(? commentary=UT23703-093-001-42819664#UT22084-029-001-6326/%5Bdata-quote-location%3D%22UT22084-029-001-6326%22%5D\)

“Maitreya, I do not say that their rebirth is dictated by karma and afflictive emotion; I say that theirs is an inconceivable rebirth, magically created and dedicated.”