to the purity of the nose, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of the nose, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. [F.62.b] The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of the body, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.804 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of sights, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of sounds, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of great [F.63.a] compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of odors, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of tastes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.805 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of great compassion, [F.63.b] and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of [F.64.a] all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.806 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of great compassion, and [F.64.b] the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

omniscience [F.65.a] is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of great compassion, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of great compassion, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.808 “The purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity [F.65.b] of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of feelings, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of [F.66.a] all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.809 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of the ears, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of the nose, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the body, [F.66.b] so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of the body, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.810 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of sights, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of sounds, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of odors, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to [F.67.a] the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of tastes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.811 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, [F.67.b] this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity [F.68.a] of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.812 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity [F.68.b] of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the distinct qualities of the buddhas, this purity [F.69.b] of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. [B6]

26.814 “The purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of feelings, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, [F.70.a] and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.815 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of the ears, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of the nose, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of the tongue, [F.70.b] and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of the body, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.816 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of sights, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of sounds, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of odors, [F.71.a] so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of odors, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of tastes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.817 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. [F.71.b] The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to [F.72.a] the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.818 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, [F.72.b] and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of [F.73.b] all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of having entered the stream, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.820 “The purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of feelings, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions [F.74.a] is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.821 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of the ears, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, [F.74.b] this purity of the nose, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of the body, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.822 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of sights, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to [F.75.a] the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of sounds, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of odors, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of tastes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience [F.75.b] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.823 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience [F.76.a] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.824 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience [F.76.b] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, [F.77.a] cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity [F.77.b] of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of once-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of once-returner, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

- 26.826 “The purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to [F.78.a] the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of feelings, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.827 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience [F.78.b] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of the ears, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of the nose, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of the body, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of the mental faculty, [F.79.a] and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.828 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of sights, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of sounds, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of odors, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of tastes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tangibles, [F.79.b] so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.829 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. [F.80.a] The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.830 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of [F.80.b] the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of [F.81.a] the fruit of non-returner, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the fruit of non-returner, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the fruit of non-returner, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.832 “The purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity [F.82.a] of feelings, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of feelings, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.833 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity [F.82.b] of arhatship, this purity of the ears, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of the nose, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of the body, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.834 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of sights, and [F.83.a] this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of sounds, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of odors, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of tastes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience [F.83.b] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.835 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience [F.84.a] is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.836 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity [F.84.b] of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no [F.85.b] different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of arhatship, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of arhatship, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. [B7]

26.838 “The purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of feelings, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, [F.86.a] so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.839 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of the ears, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of the nose, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity [F.86.b] of the tongue, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of the body, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.840 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of sights, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of sounds, and purity of all-aspect omniscience is not two, cannot be divided into two, is no different, and is not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of odors, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience [F.87.a] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of tastes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.841 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of auditory consciousness, and [F.87.b] this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.842 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, [F.88.a] and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and [F.88.b] this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of individual enlightenment, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of individual enlightenment, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

individual enlightenment, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.844 “The purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not [F.89.b] two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of feelings, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.845 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, [F.90.a] this purity of the eyes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of the ears, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of the nose, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of the body, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, [F.90.b] so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.846 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of sights, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of sounds, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of odors, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of tastes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity [F.91.a] of tangibles, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.847 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of [F.91.b] all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.848 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact [F.92.a] is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience [F.92.b] is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.850 “The purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is [F.93.b] owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.851 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity [F.94.a] of the ears is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the ears, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the nose, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the body, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity [F.94.b] of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.852 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sights, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sounds, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of odors, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tastes, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, [F.95.a] this purity of tangibles, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.853 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, [F.95.b] cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.854 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity [F.96.a] of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity [F.96.b] of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience [F.97.a] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of all-aspect omniscience is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of all-aspect omniscience are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. [B8]

26.856 “Moreover, Subhūti, the purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom [F.97.b] is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.857 “The purity [F.98.a] of the eyes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the ears, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the nose, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the body, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom [F.98.b] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.858 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sights, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sounds, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of odors, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tastes, [F.99.a] and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.859 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness [F.99.b] is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.860 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom [F.100.a] is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this [F.100.b] purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.861 “The purity of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom [F.101.a] is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of wisdom is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of wisdom are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.862 “Moreover, Subhūti, the purity of physical forms [F.101.b] is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of consciousness, [F.102.a] and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.863 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the ears, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the nose, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to [F.102.b] the purity of the body, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the body, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.864 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sights, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sounds, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of odors, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity [F.103.a] of tastes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tastes, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.865 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity [F.103.b] of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of [F.104.a] mental consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.866 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration [F.104.b] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

perfection of meditative concentration [F.105.b] is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of meditative concentration are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.868 “Moreover, Subhūti, the purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of formative predispositions, [F.106.a] and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.869 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the ears, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the nose, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity [F.106.b] of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the body, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.870 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sights, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sounds, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not [F.107.a] two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of odors, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tastes, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.871 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, [F.107.b] so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity [F.108.a] of tactile consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.872 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, [F.108.b] and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

sensory contact, [F.109.a] and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity [F.109.b] of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of perseverance is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of perseverance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. [B9]

26.874 “Moreover, Subhūti, the purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of [F.110.a] all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.875 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, [F.110.b] are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the ears, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the nose, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the body, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.876 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sights, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance [F.111.a] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sounds, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of odors, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tastes, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance [F.111.b] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.877 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity [F.112.a] of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.878 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of [F.112.b] all-aspect omniscience, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, [F.113.b] this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of tolerance is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of tolerance are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.880 “Moreover, Subhūti, the purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. [F.114.a] The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.881 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the ears, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the nose, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, [F.114.b] cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the body, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.882 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sights, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sounds, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline [F.115.a] are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of odors, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tastes, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.883 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visual consciousness, [F.115.b] and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. [F.116.a] The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.884 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of linguallly compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of linguallly compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of linguallly compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the [F.116.b] perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

by corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline [F.117.b] is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of ethical discipline are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.886 “Moreover, Subhūti, the purity of physical forms is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of physical forms, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of physical forms, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of feelings, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of perceptions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of perceptions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of perceptions, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of formative predispositions is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of formative predispositions, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of formative predispositions, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of consciousness is owing to [F.118.a] the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.887 “The purity of the eyes is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of the eyes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the eyes, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the ears is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of the ears, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the ears, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the nose is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of the nose, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the nose, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the tongue is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of the tongue, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the tongue, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the body is owing to [F.118.b] the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of the body, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the body, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of the mental faculty is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of the mental faculty, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of the mental faculty, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.888 “The purity of sights is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of sights, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sights, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of sounds is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of sounds, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of sounds, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of odors is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of odors, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of odors, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tastes is owing to [F.119.a] the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of tastes, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tastes, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tangibles is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of tangibles, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tangibles, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental phenomena is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of mental phenomena, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental phenomena, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.889 “The purity of visual consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of visual consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visual consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of auditory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of auditory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of auditory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided [F.119.b] into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of olfactory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of olfactory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of olfactory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of gustatory consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of gustatory consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of gustatory consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of tactile consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of tactile consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of tactile consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mental consciousness is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of mental consciousness, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mental consciousness, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.890 “The purity of visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity [F.120.a] is owing to the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, [F.120.b] and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.891 “The purity of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by [F.121.a] aurally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct. The purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is owing to the purity of all-aspect omniscience, and the purity of the perfection of generosity is owing to the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, so this purity of all-aspect omniscience, this purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact, and this purity of the perfection of generosity are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.892 “Moreover, Subhūti, the purity of unconditioned phenomena is owing to the purity of conditioned phenomena, so this purity of unconditioned phenomena and this purity of conditioned phenomena are not two, [F.121.b] cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.893 “Moreover, Subhūti, the purity of the future and the present is owing to the purity of the past, so this purity of the past, and this purity of the future and the present, are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.894 “The purity of the past and the present is owing to the purity of the future, so this purity of the future, and this purity of the past and the present, are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.

26.895 “The purity of the past and the future is owing to the purity of the present, so this purity of the present, and this purity of the past and the future, are not two, cannot be divided into two, are no different, and are not distinct.”

CHAPTER 27

27.1 Then the venerable Śāradvatīputra said to the Blessed One, “Blessed Lord, this purity is profound.”

“That is because of absolute purity,” said the Blessed One.

27.2 “Because of the purity of what is it profound?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

27.3 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is profound because of the purity of physical forms, purity is profound because of the purity of feelings, purity is profound because of the purity of perceptions, purity is profound because of the purity of formative predispositions, and purity is profound because of the purity of consciousness. Śāradvatīputra, purity is profound because of the purity of the eyes, purity is profound because of the purity of the ears, purity is profound because of [F.122.a] the purity of the nose, purity is profound because of the purity of the tongue, purity is profound because of the purity of the body, and purity is profound because of the purity of the mental faculty. Śāradvatīputra, purity is profound because of the purity of sights, purity is profound because of the purity of sounds, purity is profound because of the purity of odors, purity is profound because of the purity of tastes, purity is profound because of the purity of tangibles, and purity is profound because of the purity of mental phenomena. Śāradvatīputra, purity is profound because of the purity of visual consciousness, purity is profound because of the purity of auditory consciousness, purity is profound because of the purity of olfactory consciousness, purity is profound because of the purity of gustatory consciousness, purity is profound because of the purity of tactile consciousness, and purity is profound because of the purity of mental consciousness. Śāradvatīputra, purity is profound because of the purity of visually compounded sensory contact, purity is profound because of the purity of aurally compounded sensory contact, purity is profound because of the purity of nasally compounded sensory contact, purity is profound because of the purity of lingually compounded sensory contact, purity is profound because of the purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact, and purity is profound because of the purity of mentally compounded sensory contact. Śāradvatīputra, purity is profound because of the purity of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact, purity is profound because of the purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact, purity is profound because of the purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact, [F.122.b] purity is profound because of the purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact, purity is profound because of the purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact, and purity is profound because of the purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact. Śāradvatīputra, purity is profound because of the purity of the earth element, purity is profound because of the purity of the water element, purity is profound because of the purity of the fire element, purity is profound because of the purity of the wind element, purity is profound because of the purity of the space element, and purity is profound because of the purity of the consciousness element. Śāradvatīputra, purity is profound because of the purity of ignorance, purity is profound because of the purity of formative predispositions, purity is profound because of the purity of consciousness, purity is profound because of the purity of name and form, purity is profound because of the purity of the six sense fields, purity is profound because of the purity of sensory contact, purity is profound because of the purity of sensation, purity is profound because of the purity of craving, purity is profound because of the purity of grasping, purity is profound because of the purity of the rebirth process, purity is profound because of the purity of birth, and purity is profound because of the purity of aging and death. Purity is profound because of the purity of the perfection of generosity, purity is profound because of the purity of the perfection of ethical discipline, purity is profound because of the purity of the perfection of tolerance, purity is profound because of [F.123.a] the purity of the perfection of perseverance, purity is profound because of the purity of the perfection of meditative concentration, and purity is profound because of the purity of the perfection of wisdom; purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of internal phenomena, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of external phenomena, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of external and internal phenomena, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of emptiness, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of great extent, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of ultimate reality, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of conditioned phenomena, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of the unlimited, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of nonexclusion, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of inherent nature, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of all phenomena, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of nonentities, purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of essential nature, and purity is profound because of the purity of the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities; purity is profound because of the purity of the applications of mindfulness, purity is profound because of the purity of the correct exertions, [F.123.b] purity is profound because of the purity of the supports for miraculous ability, purity is profound because of the purity of the faculties, purity is profound because of the purity of the powers, purity is profound because of the purity of the branches of enlightenment, and purity is profound because of the purity of the noble eightfold path; and purity is profound because of the purity of the truths of the noble ones, purity is profound because of the purity of the meditative concentrations, purity is profound because of the purity of the immeasurable attitudes, purity is profound because of the purity of the formless absorptions, purity is profound because of the purity of the eight liberations, purity is profound because of the purity of the nine serial steps of meditative absorption, purity is profound because of the purity of emptiness, purity is profound because of the purity of signlessness, purity is profound because of the purity of wishlessness, purity is profound because of the purity of the extrasensory powers, purity is profound because of the purity of the meditative stabilities, purity is profound because of the purity of the dhāraṇī gateways, purity is profound because of the purity of the ten powers of the tathāgatas, purity is profound because of the purity of the four fearlessnesses, purity is profound because of the purity of the four kinds of exact knowledge, purity is profound because of the purity of the eighteen distinct qualities of the buddhas, purity is profound because of the purity of enlightenment, purity is profound because of the purity of the buddhas, purity is profound because of the purity of knowledge of all the dharmas, [F.124.a] purity is profound because of the purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and purity is profound because of the purity of all-aspect omniscience.”

“Because of absolute purity,” said the Blessed One.

27.5 “Blessed Lord, on account of the purity of what is purity illuminating?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

27.6 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is illuminating because of the purity of physical forms, purity is illuminating because of the purity of feelings, purity is illuminating because of the purity of perceptions, purity is illuminating because of the purity of formative predispositions, and purity is illuminating because of the purity of consciousness. 27.19 “Blessed Lord, purity does not arise as the realm of desire,” said Śāradvatīputra.

“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

27.20 “Blessed Lord, why does purity not arise as the realm of desire?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, [F.138.b] “because the realm of desire cannot, in its own essential nature, be apprehended, purity does not arise.”

27.21 “Blessed Lord, purity does not arise as the realm of form,” said Śāradvatīputra.

“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

27.22 “Blessed Lord, why does purity not arise as the realm of form?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “because the realm of form cannot, in its own essential nature, be apprehended, purity does not arise.”

27.23 “Blessed Lord, purity does not arise as the realm of formlessness,” said Śāradvatīputra.

“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

27.24 “Blessed Lord, why does purity not arise as the realm of formlessness?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “because the realm of formlessness cannot, in its own essential nature, be apprehended, purity does not arise.”

27.25 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant,” said Śāradvatīputra.

“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

27.26 “Blessed Lord, in what way is purity not cognizant?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “there is no cognition in purity because there is no mind concerned with phenomena.”
- 27.27 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of physical forms,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.28 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of physical forms?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of physical forms because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.29 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of feelings,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.30 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of feelings?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of feelings because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
 [F.139.a]
- 27.31 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of perceptions,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.32 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of perceptions?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of perceptions because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.33 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of formative predispositions,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.34 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of formative predispositions?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of formative predispositions because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.35 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of consciousness,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.36 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of consciousness?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of consciousness because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.37 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the eyes,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

- 27.38 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the eyes?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the eyes because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.39 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the ears,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.40 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the ears?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the ears because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.41 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the nose,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.42 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the nose?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” [F.139.b] replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the nose because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.43 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the tongue,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.44 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the tongue?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the tongue because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.45 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the body,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.46 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the body?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the body because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.47 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the mental faculty,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.48 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the mental faculty?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
 “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the mental faculty because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.49 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of sights,” said Śāradvatīputra.
 [F.140.a]
 “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.50 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of sights?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of sights because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.51 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of sounds,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.52 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of sounds?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of sounds because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.53 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of odors,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.54 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of odors?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of odors because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.55 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of tastes,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.56 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of tastes?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of tastes because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.57 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of tangibles,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.58 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of tangibles?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied [F.140.b] the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of tangibles because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.59 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of mental phenomena,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.60 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of mental phenomena?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of mental phenomena because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.61 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of visual consciousness,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.62 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of visual consciousness?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of visual consciousness because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.63 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of auditory consciousness,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.64 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of auditory consciousness?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of auditory consciousness because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.65 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of olfactory consciousness,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.66 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of olfactory consciousness?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity [F.141.a] is not cognizant of olfactory consciousness because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.67 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of gustatory consciousness,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.68 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of gustatory consciousness?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of gustatory consciousness because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.69 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of tactile consciousness,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.70 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of tactile consciousness?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of tactile consciousness because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.71 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of mental consciousness,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.72 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of mental consciousness?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of mental consciousness because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.73 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of visually compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.74 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of visually compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” [F.141.b] replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of visually compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.75 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of aurally compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.76 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of aurally compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of aurally compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.77 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of nasally compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.78 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of nasally compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of nasally compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.79 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of lingually compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.80 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of lingually compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of lingually compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.81 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of corporeally compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.82 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of corporeally compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

- “Śāradvatīputra,” [F.142.a] replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of corporeally compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.83 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of mentally compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
- “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.84 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of mentally compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of mentally compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.85 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
- “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.86 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.87 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
- “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.88 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.89 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
- “Because of absolute purity, [F.142.b] Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.90 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.91 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
- “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.92 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.93 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
- “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.94 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.95 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact,” said Śāradvatīputra.
- “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.96 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is [F.143.a] not cognizant of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.97 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the earth element,” said Śāradvatīputra.
- “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.98 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the earth element?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the earth element because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.99 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the water element,” said Śāradvatīputra.
- “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.100 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the water element?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the water element because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”
- 27.101 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the fire element,” said Śāradvatīputra.
- “Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.102 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the fire element?” asked Śāradvatīputra.
- “Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the fire element because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”

27.103 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the wind element,” said Śāradvatīputra.

“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

27.104 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the wind element?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the wind element [F.143.b] because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”

27.105 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the space element,” said Śāradvatīputra.

“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

27.106 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the space element?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the space element because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”

27.107 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of the consciousness element,” said Śāradvatīputra.

“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

27.108 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of the consciousness element?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of the consciousness element because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.”

27.109 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of ignorance,” said Śāradvatīputra.

“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

27.110 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of ignorance?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

27.111 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of formative predispositions,” said Śāradvatīputra.

“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

27.112 “Blessed Lord, why is purity not cognizant of formative predispositions?” asked Śāradvatīputra.

“Śāradvatīputra,” replied the Blessed One, “purity is not cognizant of formative predispositions because of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics.” [F.144.a]

27.113 “Blessed Lord, purity is not cognizant of consciousness,” said Śāradvatīputra.

“Because of absolute purity, Śāradvatīputra,” said the Blessed One.

- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.488 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of visual consciousness because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.489 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of auditory consciousness is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.490 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of auditory consciousness because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.491 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of olfactory consciousness is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.492 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of olfactory consciousness because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.493 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of gustatory consciousness is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.494 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of gustatory consciousness because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” [F.169.b] replied the Blessed One.

27.495 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of tactile consciousness is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.496 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of tactile consciousness because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.497 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of mental consciousness is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.498 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of mental consciousness because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.499 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of visually compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.500 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity [F.170.a] of the unboundedness of visually compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.501 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of aurally compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.502 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of aurally compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.503 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of nasally compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.504 "Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of nasally compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?" asked Subhūti.

"That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end," replied the Blessed One.

27.505 "Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of lingually compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self," said Subhūti.

"Because of absolute purity, Subhūti," said the Blessed One.

27.506 "Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of lingually compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?" asked Subhūti.

"That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end," replied the Blessed One.

27.507 "Blessed Lord, the unboundedness [F.170.b] of corporeally compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self," said Subhūti.

"Because of absolute purity, Subhūti," said the Blessed One.

27.508 "Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of corporeally compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?" asked Subhūti.

"That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end," replied the Blessed One.

27.509 "Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of mentally compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self," said Subhūti.

"Because of absolute purity, Subhūti," said the Blessed One.

27.510 "Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of mentally compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?" asked Subhūti.

"That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end," replied the Blessed One.

27.511 "Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self," said Subhūti.

"Because of absolute purity, Subhūti," said the Blessed One.

27.512 "Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?" asked Subhūti.

"That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end," replied the Blessed One.

27.513 "Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self," said Subhūti.

"Because of absolute purity, Subhūti," said the Blessed One.

27.514 "Blessed Lord, why is the purity [F.171.a] of the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?" asked Subhūti.

"That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end," replied the Blessed One.

27.515 "Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self," said Subhūti.

"Because of absolute purity, Subhūti," said the Blessed One.

27.516 "Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?" asked Subhūti.

"That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end," replied the Blessed One.

27.517 "Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self," said Subhūti.

"Because of absolute purity, Subhūti," said the Blessed One.

27.518 "Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?" asked Subhūti.

"That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end," replied the Blessed One.

27.519 "Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self," said Subhūti.

"Because of absolute purity, Subhūti," said the Blessed One.

27.520 "Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?" asked Subhūti.

"That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end," [F.171.b] replied the Blessed One.

27.521 "Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self," said Subhūti.

"Because of absolute purity, Subhūti," said the Blessed One.

27.522 "Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?" asked Subhūti.

- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.523 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the earth element is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.524 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the earth element because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.525 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the water element is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.526 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the water element because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.527 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the fire element is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.528 “Blessed Lord, [F.172.a] why is the purity of the unboundedness of the fire element because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.529 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the wind element is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.530 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the wind element because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.531 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the space element is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.532 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the space element because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.533 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the consciousness element is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.534 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the consciousness element because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.535 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of ignorance [F.172.b] is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.536 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of ignorance because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.537 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of formative predispositions is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.538 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of formative predispositions because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.539 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of consciousness is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.540 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of consciousness because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.541 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of name and form is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.542 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of name and form because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited [F.173.a] and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.543 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the six sense fields is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.544 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the six sense fields because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

- 27.545 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of sensory contact is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.546 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of sensory contact because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.547 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of sensation is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.548 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of sensation because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.549 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of craving is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.550 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness [F.173.b] of craving because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.551 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of grasping is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.552 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of grasping because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.553 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the rebirth process is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.554 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the rebirth process because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.555 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of birth is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.556 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of birth because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.557 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of aging and death is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, [F.174.a] Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.558 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of aging and death because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.559 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the perfection of generosity is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.560 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the perfection of generosity because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.561 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the perfection of ethical discipline is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.562 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the perfection of ethical discipline because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.563 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the perfection of tolerance is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.564 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the perfection of tolerance because of [F.174.b] the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.565 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the perfection of perseverance is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.566 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the perfection of perseverance because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.567 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the perfection of meditative concentration is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.568 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the perfection of meditative concentration because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.569 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the perfection of wisdom is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.570 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the perfection of wisdom because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.571 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of [F.175.a] the emptiness of internal phenomena is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.572 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of internal phenomena because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.573 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of external phenomena is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.574 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of external phenomena because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.575 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of external and internal phenomena is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.576 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of external and internal phenomena because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.577 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of emptiness is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.578 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of emptiness because of [F.175.b] the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.579 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of great extent is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.580 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of great extent because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.581 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of ultimate reality is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.582 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of ultimate reality because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.583 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of conditioned phenomena [F.176.a] is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.584 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of conditioned phenomena because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.585 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.586 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.587 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of the unlimited is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.588 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of the unlimited because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.589 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.590 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.591 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of nonexclusion is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.592 “Blessed Lord, [F.176.b] why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of nonexclusion because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.593 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of inherent nature is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.594 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of inherent nature because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.595 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of all phenomena is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.596 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of all phenomena because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.597 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.598 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied [F.177.a] the Blessed One.
- 27.599 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.600 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.601 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of nonentities is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.602 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of nonentities because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.603 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of essential nature is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.604 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of essential nature because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.605 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, [F.177.b] Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.606 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.607 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the applications of mindfulness is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.608 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the applications of mindfulness because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.609 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the correct exertions is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.610 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the correct exertions because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.611 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the supports for miraculous ability is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.612 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the supports for miraculous ability because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness [F.178.a] of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

27.613 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the faculties is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.

“Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.

27.614 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the faculties because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

“That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.

- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.645 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the kinds of exact knowledge is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.646 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the kinds of exact knowledge because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited [F.180.b] and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.647 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the distinct qualities of the buddhas is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.648 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the distinct qualities of the buddhas because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.649 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of knowledge of all the dharma is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.650 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of knowledge of all the dharma because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.651 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of the knowledge of the aspects of the path is because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.652 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of the knowledge of the aspects of the path because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.

- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.653 “Blessed Lord, the unboundedness of all-aspect omniscience is [F.181.a] because of the unboundedness of the self,” said Subhūti.
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.654 “Blessed Lord, why is the purity of the unboundedness of all-aspect omniscience because of the unboundedness of the self?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the emptiness of the unlimited and the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end,” replied the Blessed One. [B14]
- 27.655 “Blessed Lord, as for such a realization as that, it is the perfection of wisdom of the bodhisattva great beings.”
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.656 “Blessed Lord, why is such a realization as that the perfection of wisdom of the bodhisattva great beings?” asked Subhūti.
- “That is because of the knowledge of the aspects of the path,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.657 “Blessed Lord, when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom, if they do not dwell on the near shore, the far shore, or in the middle between the two, it is the perfection of wisdom of the bodhisattva great beings,” said Subhūti.⁸³³
- “Because of absolute purity, Subhūti,” said the Blessed One.
- 27.658 “Blessed Lord, why, when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom, do they not dwell on the near shore, the far shore, or in the middle between the two, and are absolute purity?” asked Subhūti.
- “Subhūti, [F.181.b] that is because of the sameness of the three times,” replied the Blessed One.
- 27.659 “Blessed Lord,” said Subhūti, “the sons or daughters of good families who follow the vehicle of the bodhisattvas without skillful means perceive this perfection of wisdom by way of apprehending things. They undervalue the perfection of wisdom and abandon the perfection of wisdom.”
- “Subhūti, it is so,” said the Blessed One. “Excellent, excellent, Subhūti! That, Subhūti, is indeed attachment to names and attachment to mental images. If you ask why, it is because all phenomena are without mental images and are without names.”
- 27.660 “Blessed Lord, how are they attached to names and attached to mental images?” asked Subhūti.
- “Subhūti,” said the Blessed One, “here, if sons or daughters of good families who follow the vehicle of the bodhisattvas grasp the perfection of wisdom as a name or grasp it as a mental image, then, in grasping the perfection of wisdom as a name or as a mental image, they will be attached to the perfection of wisdom. They will undervalue the perfection of wisdom and will abandon the perfection of wisdom. Subhūti, if sons or daughters of good families who follow the vehicle of the bodhisattvas grasp the perfection of wisdom as a mental image, and if, having grasped the perfection of wisdom as a mental image, they give rise to conceits on account of the perfection of wisdom, they are giving rise to conceit on account of the perfection of wisdom and are attached to the perfection of wisdom. They will undervalue the perfection of wisdom and will abandon the perfection of wisdom.”

27.661 “Blessed Lord, how wonderful it is that this perfection of wisdom [F.182.a] has been eloquently explained and excellently revealed in that manner to bodhisattva great beings, and that they are still attached and unattached to it,” said Subhūti.

27.662 Then the venerable Śāradvatīputra asked the venerable Subhūti, “Venerable Subhūti, what is the attachment of bodhisattva great beings and what is their nonattachment?”

27.663 “Venerable Śāradvatīputra,” replied Subhūti, “here if the sons or daughters of good families who follow the vehicle of the bodhisattvas without skillful means perceive that ‘physical forms are empty,’ they are attached. And if they practice all-aspect omniscience, they are attached.

27.666 “Venerable Śāradvatīputra, in regard to what you also asked, ‘What is the nonattachment of bodhisattva great beings who practice the perfection of wisdom?’ Venerable Śāradvatīputra, here bodhisattva great beings with skillful means who practice the perfection of wisdom do not perceive that ‘physical forms are physical forms.’ They do not perceive [F.185.b] that ‘feelings are feelings.’ They do not perceive that ‘perceptions are perceptions.’ They do not perceive that ‘formative predispositions are formative predispositions.’ And they do not perceive that ‘consciousness is consciousness.’ They do not perceive that ‘past phenomena are past phenomena.’ They do not perceive that ‘future phenomena are future phenomena.’ And they do not perceive that ‘present phenomena are present phenomena.’

27.667 “Venerable Śāradvatīputra, bodhisattva great beings with skillful means who practice the perfection of wisdom do not think, ‘I am giving a gift. I am giving a gift to them. I am giving this sort of gift’; or ‘I am maintaining ethical discipline. I am maintaining this sort of ethical discipline'; or 'I am cultivating tolerance. I am cultivating this sort of tolerance'; or 'I am undertaking perseverance. I am undertaking this sort of perseverance'; or 'I am absorbed in meditative concentration. I am absorbed in this sort of meditative concentration'; or 'I am cultivating wisdom. I am cultivating this sort of wisdom'; or 'I am making some merit. I am making this sort of merit. I am making this much merit'; or 'I should enter a bodhisattva's full maturity'; or 'I should purify a buddhafield'; or 'I should bring beings to maturity'; or 'I should attain all-aspect omniscience.' Venerable Śāradvatīputra, for bodhisattva great beings with skillful means [F.186.a] who practice the perfection of wisdom, all such conceptual thoughts are nonexistent and do not come about owing to the emptiness of internal phenomena, the emptiness of external phenomena, the emptiness of external and internal phenomena, the emptiness of emptiness, the emptiness of great extent, the emptiness of ultimate reality, the emptiness of conditioned phenomena, the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena, the emptiness of the unlimited, the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end, the emptiness of nonexclusion, the emptiness of inherent existence, the emptiness of all phenomena, the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics, the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of nonentities, the emptiness of essential nature, and the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities. Venerable Śāradvatīputra, these are the nonattachments of bodhisattva great beings with skillful means who practice the perfection of wisdom."

27.668 Then Śakra, mighty lord of the gods, asked the venerable Subhūti, "Venerable monk Subhūti, in what way do sons or daughters of good families who follow the vehicle of the bodhisattvas become attached?"

27.669 Śakra, mighty lord of the gods, having asked that, the venerable Subhūti replied to him, "Kauśika, when sons or daughters of good families who follow the vehicle of the bodhisattvas perceive the mind [of enlightenment], perceive the perfection of generosity, perceive the perfection of ethical discipline, perceive the perfection of tolerance, perceive the perfection of perseverance, perceive the perfection of meditative concentration, and perceive the perfection of wisdom; perceive the emptiness of internal phenomena, perceive the emptiness of external phenomena, [F.186.b] perceive the emptiness of external and internal phenomena, perceive the emptiness of emptiness, perceive the emptiness of great extent, perceive the emptiness of ultimate reality, perceive the emptiness of conditioned phenomena, perceive the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena, perceive the emptiness of the unlimited, perceive the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end, perceive the emptiness of nonexclusion, perceive the emptiness of inherent nature, perceive the emptiness of all phenomena, perceive the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics, perceive the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended, perceive the emptiness of nonentities, perceive the emptiness of essential nature, and perceive the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities; perceive the applications of mindfulness, perceive the correct exertions, perceive the supports for miraculous ability, perceive the faculties, perceive the powers, perceive the branches of enlightenment, and perceive the noble eightfold path; perceive the truths of the noble ones, perceive the meditative concentrations, perceive the immeasurable attitudes, perceive the formless absorptions, perceive the liberations, perceive the serial steps of meditative absorption, perceive the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation, perceive the extrasensory powers, perceive the meditative stabilities, perceive the dhāraṇī gateways, perceive the powers of the tathāgatas, [F.187.a] perceive the fearlessnesses, perceive the kinds of exact knowledge, perceive great loving kindness, perceive great compassion, and perceive the eighteen distinct qualities of the buddhas; and when they have a perception of the lord buddhas, and, having perceived the roots of virtue generated on account of those buddhas, gather those roots of virtue and compress them all together and dedicate them, making a dedication to unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment, and perceive that too—then, Kauśika, these perceptions are the attachment of sons or daughters of good families who follow the vehicle of the bodhisattvas. When those with attachment have become attached, they cannot practice the perfection of wisdom, which is without attachment. If you ask why, Kauśika, it is because they are incapable of dedicating the inherent nature of physical forms, and they are incapable of dedicating the inherent nature of feelings, perceptions, formative predispositions, and consciousness.

27.670 “If you ask why, Kauśika, it is because the inherent nature of physical forms cannot be dedicated,⁸³⁴ the inherent nature of feelings cannot be dedicated, the inherent nature of perceptions cannot be dedicated, the inherent nature of formative predispositions cannot be dedicated, and the inherent nature of consciousness cannot be dedicated; the inherent nature of the eyes cannot be dedicated, the inherent nature of the ears cannot be dedicated, the inherent nature of the nose cannot be dedicated, the inherent nature of the tongue cannot be dedicated, the inherent nature of the body cannot be dedicated, and the inherent nature of the mental faculty cannot be dedicated; the inherent nature of sights cannot be dedicated, the inherent nature of sounds cannot be dedicated, the inherent nature of odors cannot be dedicated, the inherent nature of tastes cannot be dedicated, the inherent nature of tangibles cannot be dedicated, and the intrinsic nature [F.187.b] of

Furthermore, when they instruct others with, encourage them with, fill them with enthusiasm for, and cause them delight with that instruction, that encouragement, that filling with enthusiasm, and that causing delight, they will not degenerate, and they will [F.192.a] encourage others with the encouragement permitted by the buddhas. In that manner, those sons or daughters of good families will renounce all the limits of attachment.” [B15]

27.672 Then the Blessed One said to the venerable Subhūti, “Excellent, Subhūti! It is excellent, Subhūti, that you are teaching those sorts of possible attachments, excellent. Therefore, Subhūti, I will also explain possible attachments even more subtle than those to you. I will teach them, so listen and pay attention very carefully.”

27.673 Saying, “Blessed Lord, I will do so,” the venerable Subhūti then listened to the Blessed One. The Blessed One said to him, “Subhūti, when sons or daughters of good families who have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment pay attention to the tathāgatas, arhats, perfectly complete buddhas as a mental image, to the extent that there is a mental image, to that extent there is attachment.

27.674 “When they pay attention to all the roots of virtue of past, present, and future tathāgatas, arhats, perfectly complete buddhas who are free from all attachments—whatever they are, as many as there are—from the first setting of the mind up to the establishment of the good Dharma,⁸³⁵ as a mental image, and, having paid attention, dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment, Subhūti, to the extent they pay attention to a mental image, to that extent there is attachment. When they have taken all the roots of virtue of the śrāvakas of those tathāgatas, and of other [F.192.b] beings apart from them—whatever they are, as many as there are—as a mental image and dedicate them to unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment, Subhūti, to the extent they pay attention to a mental image, to that extent there is attachment. If you ask why, it is because it is not right to pay attention to those tathāgatas to as a mental image, and it is also not right to pay attention to those roots of virtue of the tathāgatas as a mental image.”

27.675 Then Subhūti said, “Blessed Lord, the perfection of wisdom is profound.”

“Subhūti, that is because all phenomena are, in their inherent nature, void,” replied the Blessed One.

27.676 “Blessed Lord, I pay homage to the perfection of wisdom,” said Subhūti.

“Subhūti,” said the Blessed One, “because the perfection of wisdom is unfabricated and unconditioned, it cannot be fully awakened to by anyone at all.”

27.677 “Blessed Lord, all phenomena are not fully awakened to.”

“Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “this is because the inherent nature of phenomena is not two. The inherent nature of phenomena is just one. Subhūti, that which is the singular inherent nature of phenomena is not the inherent nature of phenomena. Subhūti, that which is not the inherent nature is unfabricated. That which is unfabricated is unconditioned. Subhūti, so it is that when bodhisattva great beings know the singular inherent nature of phenomena that is not the inherent nature—unfabricated and unconditioned—they abandon all possible attachments.”

27.678 “Blessed Lord, the perfection of wisdom is hard to realize,” said Subhūti.

“Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “this is because the perfection of wisdom has not been seen, has not been heard, has not been realized, has not been cognized, and has not been attained in manifest buddhahood by anyone at all.”

27.679 “Blessed Lord, the perfection of wisdom is inconceivable,” said Subhūti.

“Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “this is because it is [F.193.a] not known by the mind, and it is not known by physical forms, is not known by feelings, is not known by perceptions, is not known by formative predispositions, and is not known by consciousness. CHAPTER 28

28.1 Then the venerable Subhūti said to the Blessed One, “Blessed Lord, [F.194.b] the perfection of wisdom is inactive.”

28.2 “Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “that is because an agent cannot be apprehended. Similarly, Subhūti, it is because physical forms cannot be apprehended, feelings cannot be apprehended, perceptions cannot be apprehended, formative predispositions cannot be apprehended, and consciousness cannot be apprehended. The eyes cannot be apprehended, the ears cannot be apprehended, the nose cannot be apprehended, the tongue cannot be apprehended, the body cannot be apprehended, and the mental faculty cannot be apprehended. Sights cannot be apprehended, sounds cannot be apprehended, odors cannot be apprehended, tastes cannot be apprehended, tangibles cannot be apprehended, and mental phenomena cannot be apprehended. Visual consciousness cannot be apprehended, auditory consciousness cannot be apprehended, olfactory consciousness cannot be apprehended, gustatory consciousness cannot be apprehended, tactile consciousness cannot be apprehended, and mental consciousness cannot be apprehended. Visually compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended, aurally compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended, nasally compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended, lingually compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended, corporeally compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended, and mentally compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended. Feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended, feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended, feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended, feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended, feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended, and feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact cannot be apprehended. The earth element cannot be apprehended, [F.195.a] the water element cannot be apprehended, the fire element cannot be apprehended, the wind element cannot be apprehended, the space element cannot be apprehended, and the consciousness element cannot be apprehended. Ignorance cannot be apprehended, formative predispositions cannot be apprehended, consciousness cannot be apprehended, name and form cannot be apprehended, the six sense fields cannot be apprehended, sensory contact cannot be apprehended, sensation cannot be apprehended, craving cannot be apprehended, grasping cannot be apprehended, the rebirth process cannot be apprehended, birth cannot be apprehended, and aging and death cannot be apprehended. The perfection of generosity cannot be apprehended, the perfection of ethical discipline cannot be apprehended, the perfection of tolerance cannot be apprehended, the perfection of perseverance cannot be apprehended, the perfection of meditative concentration cannot be apprehended, and the perfection of wisdom cannot be apprehended. The emptiness of internal phenomena cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of external phenomena cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of external and internal phenomena cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of emptiness cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of great extent cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of ultimate reality cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of conditioned phenomena cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of the unlimited cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of nonexclusion cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of inherent nature cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of all phenomena cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of nonentities cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of essential nature cannot be apprehended, [F.195.b] and the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities cannot be apprehended. The applications of mindfulness cannot be apprehended, the correct exertions cannot be apprehended, the supports for miraculous ability cannot be apprehended, the faculties cannot be apprehended, the powers cannot be apprehended, the branches of enlightenment cannot be apprehended, and the noble eightfold path cannot be apprehended. The truths of the noble ones cannot be apprehended, the meditative concentrations cannot be apprehended, the immeasurable attitudes cannot be apprehended, the formless absorptions cannot be apprehended, the eight liberations cannot be apprehended, the nine serial steps of meditative absorption cannot be apprehended, the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation cannot be apprehended, the extrasensory powers cannot be apprehended, the meditative stabilities cannot be apprehended, the dhāraṇī gateways cannot be apprehended, the powers of the tathāgatas cannot be apprehended, the fearlessnesses cannot be apprehended, the kinds of exact knowledge cannot be apprehended, great loving kindness cannot be apprehended, great compassion cannot be apprehended, and the distinct qualities of the buddhas cannot be apprehended. The fruit of having entered the stream cannot be apprehended, the fruit of once-returner cannot be apprehended, the fruit of non-returner cannot be apprehended, arhatship cannot be apprehended, individual enlightenment cannot be apprehended, the knowledge of aspects of the path cannot be apprehended, and all-aspect omniscience cannot be apprehended.”

28.3 “Blessed Lord, how then should bodhisattva great beings practicing the perfection of wisdom here practice?” asked Subhūti.

28.4 “Subhūti,” replied the Lord, “here when bodhisattva great beings [F.196.a] practice the perfection of wisdom, if they do not engage with physical forms, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If they do not practice with the notion that physical forms are ‘permanent’ or ‘impermanent,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that physical forms are ‘happiness’ or ‘suffering,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that physical forms are ‘a self’ or ‘nonself,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; and if they do not practice with the notion that physical forms are ‘pleasant’ or ‘unpleasant,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If you ask why, it is because physical forms that are permanent or impermanent, happiness or suffering, a self or nonself, or pleasant or unpleasant like that do not exist.

28.5 “If they do not engage with feelings, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If they do not practice with the notion that feelings are ‘permanent’ or ‘impermanent,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that feelings are ‘happiness’ or ‘suffering,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that feelings are ‘a self’ or ‘nonself,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; and if they do not practice with the notion that feelings are ‘pleasant’ or ‘unpleasant,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If you ask why, it is because feelings that are permanent or impermanent, happiness or suffering, a self or nonself, or pleasant or unpleasant like that do not exist.

- 28.6 “If they do not engage with perceptions, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If they do not practice with the notion that perceptions are ‘permanent’ or ‘impermanent,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that perceptions are ‘happiness’ or ‘suffering,’ [F.196.b] they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that perceptions are ‘a self’ or ‘nonself,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; and if they do not practice with the notion that perceptions are ‘pleasant’ or ‘unpleasant,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If you ask why, it is because perceptions that are permanent or impermanent, happiness or suffering, a self or nonself, or pleasant or unpleasant like that do not exist.
- 28.7 “If they do not engage with formative predispositions, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If they do not practice with the notion that formative predispositions are ‘permanent’ or ‘impermanent,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that formative predispositions are ‘happiness’ or ‘suffering,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that formative predispositions are ‘a self’ or ‘nonself,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; and if they do not practice with the notion that formative predispositions are ‘pleasant’ or ‘unpleasant,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If you ask why, it is because formative predispositions that are permanent or impermanent, happiness or suffering, a self or nonself, or pleasant or unpleasant like that do not exist.
- 28.8 “If they do not engage with consciousness, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If they do not practice with the notion that consciousness is ‘permanent’ or ‘impermanent,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that consciousness is ‘happiness’ or ‘suffering,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that consciousness is ‘a self’ or ‘nonself,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; and if they do not practice with the notion that consciousness is ‘pleasant’ or ‘unpleasant,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If you ask [F.197.a] why, it is because consciousness that is permanent or impermanent, happiness or suffering, a self or nonself, or pleasant or unpleasant like that does not exist.
- 28.9 “If they do not engage with the eyes, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If they do not practice with the notion that the eyes are ‘permanent’ or ‘impermanent,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that the eyes are ‘happiness’ or ‘suffering,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that the eyes are ‘a self’ or ‘nonself,’ they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; and if they do not practice with the notion that the eyes are 'pleasant' or 'unpleasant,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If you ask why, it is because eyes that are permanent or impermanent, happiness or suffering, a self or nonself, or pleasant or unpleasant like that do not exist.

28.10 "If they do not engage with the ears, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If they do not practice with the notion that the ears are 'permanent' or 'impermanent,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that the ears are 'happiness' or 'suffering,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that the ears are 'a self' or 'nonself,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; and if they do not practice with the notion that the ears are 'pleasant' or 'unpleasant,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If you ask why, it is because ears that are permanent or impermanent, happiness or suffering, a self or nonself, or pleasant or unpleasant like that do not exist.

28.11 "If they do not engage with the nose, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If they do not practice with the notion that the nose is 'permanent' or 'impermanent,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; [F.197.b] if they do not practice with the notion that the nose is 'happiness' or 'suffering,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that the nose is 'a self' or 'nonself,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; and if they do not practice with the notion that the nose is 'pleasant' or 'unpleasant,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If you ask why, it is because the nose that is permanent or impermanent, happiness or suffering, a self or nonself, or pleasant or unpleasant like that does not exist.

28.12 "If they do not engage with the tongue, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If they do not practice with the notion that the tongue is 'permanent' or 'impermanent,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that the tongue is 'happiness' or 'suffering,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that the tongue is 'a self' or 'nonself,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; and if they do not practice with the notion that the tongue is 'pleasant' or 'unpleasant,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If you ask why, it is because the tongue that is permanent or impermanent, happiness or suffering, a self or nonself, or pleasant or unpleasant like that does not exist.

28.13 "If they do not engage with the body, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If they do not practice with the notion that the body is 'permanent' or 'impermanent,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that the body is 'happiness' or 'suffering,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; if they do not practice with the notion that the body is 'a self' or 'nonself,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom; and if they do not practice with the notion that the body is 'pleasant' or 'unpleasant,' they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. If you ask why, it is because the body that is permanent or impermanent, happiness [F.198.a] or suffering, a self or nonself, or pleasant or unpleasant like that does not exist.

28.14 "If they do not engage with the mental faculty, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. - 28.154 "Blessed Lord, it is most wonderful that this profound Dharma is neither diminished when it is explained, nor is it diminished when it is not explained. It is neither enhanced when it is explained, nor is it enhanced when it is not explained!"
- 28.155 "It is so, [F.240.a] Subhūti, it is so!" replied the Blessed One. "This profound Dharma is neither diminished when it is explained, nor is it diminished when it is not explained. It is neither enhanced when it is explained, nor is it enhanced when it is not explained. Subhūti, this is just as if the tathāgatas, arhats, perfectly complete buddhas were to speak in praise or speak disparagingly⁸³⁶ of space for the duration of their entire lives. Space is neither enhanced when it spoken of in praise, nor is it be diminished when it is spoken about disparagingly. Subhūti, this is just like illusory persons who are neither enhanced when spoken of in praise, nor diminished when spoken about disparagingly. They do not become attached when spoken of in praise, and do not become annoyed when spoken about disparagingly. Similarly, Subhūti, with that reality of phenomena as it pertains to phenomena, it is such when it is explained, and it is such even when it is not explained."
- 28.156 "Blessed Lord," said Subhūti, "when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom and teach the perfection of wisdom and are neither disheartened nor distracted, persevere in this perfection of wisdom, and do not turn back from unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment, they do that which is difficult. If you ask why, Blessed Lord, it is because this cultivation of the perfection of wisdom by bodhisattva great beings is like the cultivation of space. In space, physical forms are not discerned, feelings are not discerned, perceptions are not discerned, formative predispositions are not discerned, [F.240.b] and consciousness is not discerned. In space, the eyes are not discerned, the ears are not discerned, the nose is not discerned, the tongue is not discerned, the body is not discerned, and the mental faculty is not discerned. In space, the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation are not discerned, the extrasensory powers are not discerned, the meditative stabilities are not discerned, and the dhāraṇī gateways are not discerned. In space, the ten powers of the tathāgatas are not discerned, the four fearlessnesses are not discerned, the four kinds of exact knowledge are not discerned, great loving kindness is not discerned, great compassion is not discerned, and the eighteen distinct qualities of the buddhas are not discerned. In space, the fruit of having entered the stream is not discerned, the fruit of once-returner is not discerned, the fruit of non-returner is not discerned, arhatship is not discerned, individual enlightenment is not discerned, and unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment is not discerned. [B18]

28.157 “Blessed Lord, those bodhisattva great beings who have donned this armor are worthy of homage. Blessed Lord, those who have donned this armor believe resolutely in striving, believe resolutely in struggling, and believe resolutely in making an effort for the sake of space. Blessed Lord, those who don this armor for the sake of beings want to bring space to maturity and want to liberate it.

28.158 “Blessed Lord, those bodhisattva great beings who don this armor for the sake of phenomena [F.242.a] that are like space have donned the mighty armor. Blessed Lord, those bodhisattva great beings who have donned this armor for the sake of beings want to buttress space with the sky.⁸³⁷ Blessed Lord, those bodhisattva great beings who have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment for the sake of beings have acquired the mighty perseverance. Blessed Lord, those bodhisattva great beings who have set out for unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment for the welfare of beings have donned the mighty armor. Blessed Lord, those bodhisattva great beings who want to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment for the sake of phenomena that are like space, those heroes, have donned the mighty armor that is inconceivable and unequalled.

28.159 “If you ask why, Blessed Lord, it is because, if this great billionfold world system were completely filled with many tathāgatas, like a thicket of naḍa reeds, or a thicket of rushes,⁸³⁸ or a grove of sugarcane, or a thicket of bamboo, or a paddy field of rice, or a field of sesame, and were those tathāgatas for an eon or for even more than an eon to explain the Dharma, and were each of those tathāgatas to bring immeasurable, countless beings to final nirvāṇa, still, a reduction in or filling of the world of beings would not be discerned. If you ask why, it is because beings are nonexistent and because beings are void. Similarly, if the fields [F.242.b] in each of the world systems of the ten directions, numerous as the grains of sand of the river Gaṅgā, were completely filled with many tathāgatas like a thicket of naḍa reeds, or a thicket of rushes, or a grove of sugarcane, or a thicket of bamboo, or a paddy field of rice, or a field of sesame, and were those tathāgatas for an eon or for even more than an eon to explain the Dharma, and were each of those tathāgatas to bring immeasurable, countless beings to final nirvāṇa, still, a reduction in or filling of the world of beings would not be discerned. If you ask why, it is because beings are nonexistent and because beings are void. Blessed Lord, through this round of teaching I say that those who want to fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment for the sake of beings want to bring space to maturity and want to liberate it.”

28.160 Then a certain monk thought, “I pay homage to the blessed lady, the perfection of wisdom, in whom, although no attribute at all arises or ceases, the aggregate of ethical discipline still exists, the aggregate of meditative stability still exists, the aggregate of wisdom still exists, the aggregate of liberation still exists, and the aggregate of knowledge and seeing of liberation still exists; the fruit of having entering the stream still exists, the fruit of once-returner still exists, the fruit of non-returner still exists, arhatship still exists, individual enlightenment still exists, and unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment still exists; those who have entered the stream still exist, once-returners still exist, non-returners still exist, arhats still exist, pratyekabuddhas [F.243.a] still exist, and the tathāgatas, arhats, perfectly complete buddhas still exist; and the precious jewel of the Buddha still exists, the precious jewel of the Dharma still exists, and the precious jewel of the Saṅgha still exists, and the turnings of the wheel of the Dharma still exist.”

28.161 Then, Śakra, mighty king of the gods, asked the venerable Subhūti, “Venerable monk Subhūti, if a bodhisattva great being is one of those who are persevering at this profound perfection of wisdom, at what are they persevering?”

“Kauśika,” replied Subhūti, “those who think that they should train in this perfection of wisdom persevere at empty space.”

28.162 Śakra, mighty king of the gods, then said to the Blessed One, “Blessed Lord, I request that you tell me what sort of guarding, protecting, and defending of those sons or daughters of good families who take up, uphold, recite, master, and focus their attention correctly on this profound perfection of wisdom I should do.”

28.163 Then the venerable Subhūti asked Śakra, mighty king of the gods, “Kauśika, do you observe any sort of attribute that should be guarded, protected, and defended?”

“Venerable monk Subhūti, I do not observe any sort of attribute that should be guarded, protected, and defended,” he replied.

28.164 “Kauśika,” Subhūti continued, “if sons or daughters of good families dwell [F.243.b] in this perfection of wisdom, as it has been taught, that itself will be their guardian, protection, and defense. If they are separated from this perfection of wisdom, as it has been taught, humans or nonhumans looking for an opportunity to inflict harm will find an opportunity to do so. You should know that those sons or daughters of good families who do not dwell in this perfection of wisdom, as it has been taught, are separated from the perfection of wisdom.

28.165 “Kauśika, those who think they should guard, protect, and defend bodhisattva great beings who practice the perfection of wisdom think they should guard, protect, and defend space. They will not succeed as they intend and will tire themselves out.

28.166 “Kauśika, do you think that you can guard, protect, and defend a magical display, a mirage, a dream, an echo, an optical aberration, or a phantom?”

“No, you cannot, venerable monk Subhūti,” he replied.

28.167 “Similarly, Kauśika,” said Subhūti, “those who think they should guard, protect, and defend bodhisattva great beings who practice the perfection of wisdom will not succeed as they intend and will tire themselves out.

28.168 “Kauśika, do you think you can guard, protect, and defend the tathāgatas or the phantom emanations of the tathāgatas?”

“No, you cannot, venerable monk Subhūti,” Śakra replied.

28.169 “Similarly, Kauśika,” said Subhūti, “those who think they should guard, protect, and defend [F.244.a] bodhisattva great beings who practice the perfection of wisdom will not succeed as they intend and will tire themselves out.

28.170 “Kauśika, do you think you can guard, protect, and defend the realm of phenomena, the very limit of reality, the real nature, or the realm of the inconceivable?”

“No, you cannot, venerable monk Subhūti,” Śakra replied.

28.171 “Similarly, Kauśika,” said Subhūti, “those who think they should guard, protect, and defend bodhisattva great beings who practice the perfection of wisdom will not succeed as they intend and will tire themselves out.”

28.172 Then Śakra, mighty king of the gods, asked the venerable Subhūti, “Venerable monk Subhūti, bodhisattva great beings who practice the perfection of wisdom comprehend phenomena that are like a dream, phenomena that are like an illusion, a mirage, an echo, an optical aberration, a castle in the sky, and a magical display, and yet, comprehending in that manner, to what extent do bodhisattva great beings not give rise to the conceit of a dream, not give rise to conceit on account of a dream, not give rise to the conceit that a dream is ‘mine,’ and not give rise to conceit about a dream; do they not give rise to the conceit of an illusion, not give rise to conceit on account of an illusion, not give rise to the conceit that an illusion is ‘mine,’ and not give rise to conceit about an illusion; do they not give rise to the conceit of a mirage, not give rise to conceit on account of a mirage, not give rise to the conceit that a mirage is ‘mine,’ and not give rise to conceit about a mirage; do they not give rise to the conceit of an echo, not give rise to conceit on account of an echo, not give rise to the conceit that [F.244.b] an echo is ‘mine,’ and not give rise to conceit about an echo; do they not give rise to the conceit of an optical aberration, not give rise to conceit on account of an optical aberration, not give rise to the conceit that an optical aberration is ‘mine,’ and not give rise to conceit about an optical aberration; do they not give rise to the conceit of a castle in the sky, not give rise to conceit on account of a castle in the sky, not give rise to the conceit that a castle in the sky is ‘mine,’ and not give rise to conceit about a castle in the sky; and do they not give rise to the conceit of a magical display, not give rise to conceit on account of a magical display, not give rise to the conceit that a magical display is ‘mine,’ and not give rise to conceit about a magical display?”

28.173 “Kauśika,” replied Subhūti, “when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom, if they do not give rise to the conceit of physical forms, do not give rise to conceit on account of physical forms, do not give rise to the conceit that physical forms are ‘mine,’ and do not give rise to conceit about physical forms, they do not give rise to the conceit of a dream, do not give rise to conceit on account of a dream, do not give rise to the conceit that a dream is ‘mine,’ and do not give rise to conceit about a dream. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of sights is the utter purity of sights; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of sounds is the utter purity of sounds; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of odors is the utter purity of odors; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of tastes is the utter purity of tastes; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of tangibles [F.329.a] is the utter purity of tangibles; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of mental phenomena is the utter purity of mental phenomena. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of visual consciousness is the utter purity of visual consciousness; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of auditory consciousness is the utter purity of auditory consciousness; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of olfactory consciousness is the utter purity of olfactory consciousness; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of gustatory consciousness is the utter purity of gustatory consciousness; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of tactile consciousness is the utter purity of tactile consciousness; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of mental consciousness is the utter purity of mental consciousness. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of visually compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of visually compounded sensory contact; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of aurally compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of aurally compounded sensory contact; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification [F.329.b] of nasally compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of nasally compounded sensory contact; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of lingually compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of lingually compounded sensory contact; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of corporeally compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of corporeally compounded sensory contact; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of mentally compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of mentally compounded sensory contact. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of feelings conditioned by visually compounded sensory contact; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of feelings conditioned by aurally compounded sensory contact; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of feelings conditioned by nasally compounded sensory contact; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of feelings conditioned by lingually compounded sensory contact; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of feelings conditioned by corporeally compounded sensory contact; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, [F.330.a] and nonpurification of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact is the utter purity of feelings conditioned by mentally compounded sensory contact. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the earth element is the utter purity of the earth element; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the water element is the utter purity of the water element; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the fire element is the utter purity of the fire element; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the wind element is the utter purity of the wind element; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the space element is the utter purity of the space element; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the consciousness element is the utter purity of the consciousness element. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of ignorance is the utter purity of ignorance; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of formative predispositions is the utter purity of formative predispositions; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of consciousness is the utter purity of consciousness; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, [F.330.b] and nonpurification of name and form is the utter purity of name and form; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the six sense fields is the utter purity of the six sense fields; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of sensory contact is the utter purity of sensory contact; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of sensation is the utter purity of sensation; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of craving is the utter purity of craving; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of grasping is the utter purity of grasping; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the rebirth process is the utter purity of the rebirth process; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of birth is the utter purity of birth; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of aging and death is the utter purity of aging and death. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the perfection of generosity is the utter purity of the perfection of generosity; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the perfection of ethical discipline is the utter purity of the perfection of ethical discipline; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, [F.331.a] and nonpurification of the perfection of tolerance is the utter purity of the perfection of tolerance; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the perfection of perseverance is the utter purity of the perfection of perseverance; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the perfection of meditative concentration is the utter purity of the perfection of meditative concentration; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the perfection of wisdom is the utter purity of the perfection of wisdom. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of internal phenomena is the utter purity of the emptiness of internal phenomena; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of external phenomena is the utter purity of the emptiness of external phenomena; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of external and internal phenomena is the utter purity of the emptiness of external and internal phenomena; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of emptiness is the utter purity of the emptiness of emptiness; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of great extent is the utter purity of the emptiness of great extent; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of ultimate reality is the utter purity of the emptiness of ultimate reality; [F.331.b] the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of conditioned phenomena is the utter purity of the emptiness of conditioned phenomena; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena is the utter purity of the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of the unlimited is the utter purity of the emptiness of the unlimited; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end is the utter purity of the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of nonexclusion is the utter purity of the emptiness of nonexclusion; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of inherent nature is the utter purity of the emptiness of inherent nature; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of all phenomena is the utter purity of the emptiness of all phenomena; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics is the utter purity of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended is the utter purity of the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended; the nonarising, [F.332.a] nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of nonentities is the utter purity of the emptiness of nonentities; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of essential nature is the utter purity of the emptiness of essential nature; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities is the utter purity of the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the applications of mindfulness is the utter purity of the applications of mindfulness; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the correct exertions is the utter purity of the correct exertions; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the supports for miraculous ability is the utter purity of the supports for miraculous ability; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the faculties is the utter purity of the faculties; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the powers is the utter purity of the powers; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the branches of enlightenment is the utter purity of the branches of enlightenment; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the noble eightfold path is [F.332.b] the utter purity of the noble eightfold path. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the truths of the noble ones is the utter purity of the truths of the noble ones; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the meditative concentrations is the utter purity of the meditative concentrations; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the immeasurable attitudes is the utter purity of the immeasurable attitudes; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the formless absorptions is the utter purity of the formless absorptions; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the liberations is the utter purity of the liberations; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the serial steps of meditative absorption is the utter purity of the serial steps of meditative absorption. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation is the utter purity of the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the extrasensory powers is the utter purity of the extrasensory powers; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification [F.333.a] of the meditative stabilities is the utter purity of the meditative stabilities; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the dhāraṇī gateways is the utter purity of the dhāraṇī gateways. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the powers of the tathāgatas is the utter purity of the powers of the tathāgatas; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the fearlessnesses is the utter purity of the fearlessnesses; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the kinds of exact knowledge is the utter purity of the kinds of exact knowledge; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of great compassion is the utter purity of great compassion; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the eighteen distinct qualities of the buddhas is the utter purity of the eighteen distinct qualities of the buddhas. The nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the fruit of having entered the stream is the utter purity of the fruit of having entered the stream; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the fruit of once-returner is the utter purity of the fruit of once-returner; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification [F.333.b] of the fruit of non-returner is the utter purity of the fruit of non-returner; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of arhatship is the utter purity of arhatship; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of individual enlightenment is the utter purity of individual enlightenment; the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of the knowledge of the aspects of the path is the utter purity of the knowledge of the aspects of the path; and the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of all-aspect omniscience is the utter purity of all-aspect omniscience.

28.389 “Moreover, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because of the utter purity of space.”

28.390 “Blessed Lord, how is the perfection of wisdom utter purity because of the utter purity of space?” asked Subhūti.

“Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “space is utter purity because of nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification. Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because space is unsullied.”

28.391 “Blessed Lord, how is the perfection of wisdom utter purity because space is unsullied?” asked Subhūti.

“Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because space cannot be grasped. Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because space is without [F.334.a] conventional designations.”⁸³⁹

28.392 “Blessed Lord, how is the perfection of wisdom utter purity because space is without conventional designations?” asked Subhūti.

“Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because, just like the two sounds when there is an echo in space, space is without conventional designations. Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because space cannot be expressed.”

28.393 “Blessed Lord, how is the perfection of wisdom utter purity because space cannot be expressed?” asked Subhūti.

“Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “just as in space nothing at all can be expressed, similarly, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because space cannot be expressed. Moreover, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because space cannot be apprehended.”

28.394 “Blessed Lord, how is the perfection of wisdom utter purity because space cannot be apprehended?” asked Subhūti.

Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “just as in space nothing at all can be apprehended, similarly, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because space cannot be apprehended. Moreover, Subhūti, the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because of the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, and nonpurification of all phenomena.”

28.395 “Blessed Lord, how is the perfection of wisdom utter purity because of the nonarising, nonceasing, nondefilement, [F.334.b] and nonpurification of all phenomena?” asked Subhūti.

“Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “the perfection of wisdom is utter purity because all phenomena are absolutely pure.”

28.396 Subhūti then said, “Blessed Lord, if any sons or daughters of good families take up, uphold, recite, and focus their attention correctly on this perfection of wisdom, then, Blessed Lord, they will not suffer from diseases of the eyes, nor will they suffer from diseases of the ears, diseases of the nose, diseases of the tongue, or diseases of the body, nor will their limbs be missing, nor will their bodies become ugly, nor will their bodies become decrepit from old age, nor will those sons or daughters of good families die a terrible death. Many hundreds of thousands of gods will follow behind them, that is to say, the gods of the Cāturmahārājika realm; the gods of the Trayastriṃśa, Yāma, Tuṣita, Nirmāṇarati, Paranirmitavaśavartin, Brahmakāyika, Brahmapurohita, Brahmapārśadya, Ābha, Parīttābha, Apramāṇābha, Ābhāsvara, Śubha, Parīttāśubha, Apramāṇāśubha, Śubhakṛtsna, Vṛha, Parīttavṛha, Apramāṇavṛha, and Vṛhatphala realms; and the gods of the Avṛha, Atapa, Sudṛśa, Sudarśana, and Akaniṣṭha realms will follow behind them. On the eighth, the fourteenth, and the fifteenth,⁸⁴⁰ great hosts of the gods will congregate in the places where those sons or daughters of good families who teach the Dharma reveal this perfection of wisdom. And when those sons or daughters of good families reveal this perfection of wisdom, they will greatly increase their merit. [F.335.a] Indeed, very many immeasurable, countless, inconceivable, incomparable, unappraisable, and unbounded stocks of merit of those sons or daughters of good families will really increase.”

28.397 “So it is, Subhūti, so it is!” said the Blessed One. “Those sons or daughters of good families who reveal this perfection of wisdom before the assembly of gods on the eighth, the fourteenth, and the fifteenth are sons or daughters of good families who will greatly increase their merit. Indeed, the very many immeasurable, countless, inconceivable, incomparable, unappraisable, and unbounded stocks of merit of those sons or daughters of good families will really increase. If you ask why, Subhūti, it is because this perfection of wisdom is a great jewel. Subhūti, this great jewel, the perfection of wisdom, is the one that liberates beings from the hells, and liberates them from the animal realm, the world of Yama, and the impoverished states of human beings and gods. It causes great and lofty royal families to appear, causes great and lofty priestly families to appear, and causes great and lofty householder families to appear; causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Cāturmahārājika realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Trayastriṃśa realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Yāma realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Tuṣita realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Nirmāṇarati realm to appear, and causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Paranirmitavaśavartin realm to appear; causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Brahmakāyika realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Brahmapurohita realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere [F.335.b] of the gods of the Brahmapārśadya realm to appear, and causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Mahābrahmā realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Ābha realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Parittābha realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Apramāṇābha realm to appear, and causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Ābhāsvara realm to appear; causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Śubha realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Parittaśubha realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Apramāṇaśubha realm to appear, and causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Śubhakṛtsna realm to appear; causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Vṛha realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Parīttavṛha realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Apramāṇavṛha realm to appear, and causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Vṛhatphala realm to appear; causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Avṛha realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Atapa realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Sudṛśa realm to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Sudarśana realm to appear, and causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the Akaniṣṭha realm to appear; causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the sphere of infinite space to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the sphere of infinite consciousness to appear, causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the sphere of nothing-at-all to appear, and causes rebirth in the sphere of the gods of the sphere of neither perception nor nonperception to appear; and causes the fruit of having entered the stream to appear, causes the fruit of once-returner to appear, causes the fruit of non-returner to appear, causes arhatship to appear, causes individual enlightenment to appear, and causes perfect, complete enlightenment to appear.

28.398 “If you ask why, it is because the path of the ten virtuous actions is revealed extensively by this perfection of wisdom. Having trained in them, great and lofty royal families exist, great and lofty priestly families exist, [F.336.a] and great and lofty householder families exist; the gods of the Cāurmahārājika realm exist, the gods of the Trayastriṃśa realm exist, the gods of the Yāma realm exist, the gods of the Tuṣita realm exist, the gods of the Nirmāṇarati realm exist, and the gods of the Paranirmitavaśavartin realm exist; the gods of the Brahmakāyika realm exist, the gods of the Brahmapurohita realm exist, the gods of the Brahmapārśadya realm exist, and the gods of the Mahābrahmā realm exist; the gods of the Ābha realm exist, the gods of the Parīttābha realm exist, the gods of the Apramāṇābha realm exist, and the gods of the Ābhāsvara realm exist; the gods of the Śubha realm exist, the gods of the Parīttāśubha realm exist, the gods of the Apramāṇāśubha realm exist, and the gods of the Śubhakṛtsna realm exist; the gods of the Vṛha realm exist, the gods of the Parīttavṛha realm exist, the gods of the Apramāṇavṛha realm exist, and the gods of the Vṛhatphala realm exist; the gods of the Avṛha realm exist, the gods of the Atapa realm exist, the gods of the Sudṛśa realm exist, the gods of the Sudarśana realm exist, and the gods of the Akaniṣṭha realm exist; the gods of the sphere of infinite space exist, the gods of the sphere of infinite consciousness exist, the gods of the sphere of nothing-at-all exist, and the gods of the sphere of neither perception nor nonperception exist; and the fruit of having entered the stream exists, the fruit of once-returner exists, the fruit of non-returner exists, arhatship exists, individual enlightenment exists, and unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment exists.

28.399 “If this perfection of wisdom exists, the four meditative concentrations exist, the four immeasurable attitudes exist, and the four formless absorptions exist; [F.336.b] the applications of mindfulness exist, the correct exertions exist, the supports for miraculous ability exist, the faculties exist, the powers exist, the branches of enlightenment exist, and the noble eightfold path exists; the perfection of generosity exists, the perfection of ethical discipline exists, the perfection of tolerance exists, the perfection of perseverance exists, the perfection of meditative concentration exists, and the perfection of wisdom exists; the emptiness of internal phenomena exists, the emptiness of external phenomena exists, the emptiness of external and internal phenomena exists, the emptiness of emptiness exists, the emptiness of great extent exists, the emptiness of ultimate reality exists, the emptiness of conditioned phenomena exists, the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena exists, the emptiness of the unlimited exists, the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end exists, the emptiness of nonexclusion exists, the emptiness of inherent nature exists, the emptiness of all phenomena exists, the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics exists, the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended exists, the emptiness of nonentities exists, the emptiness of essential nature exists, and the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities exists; the four truths of the noble ones exist, the four meditative concentrations exist, the four immeasurable attitudes exist, the four formless absorptions exist, the eight liberations exist, the nine serial steps of meditative absorption exist, the three gateways to liberation exist, the extrasensory powers exist, the meditative stabilities exist, the dhāraṇī gateways exist, the ten powers of the tathāgatas exist, the four fearlessnesses exist, [F.337.a] the four kinds of exact knowledge exist, great loving kindness exists, great compassion exists, and the eighteen distinct qualities of the buddhas exist; and knowledge of all the dharmas exists, the knowledge of the aspects of the path exists, and all-aspect omniscience exists.

28.400 “Moreover, all these phenomena are revealed extensively by this perfection of wisdom in this manner. When they have trained in it, great and lofty royal families exist, great and lofty priestly families exist, and great and lofty householder families exist; the gods of the Cāturmahārājika realm exist, the gods of the Trayastriṃśa realm exist, the gods of the Yāma realm exist, the gods of the Tuṣita realm exist, the gods of the Nirmāṇarati realm exist, and the gods of the Paranirmitavaśavartin realm exist; the gods of the Brahmakāyika realm exist, the gods of the Brahmapurohita realm exist, the gods of the Brahmapārṣadya realm exist, and the gods of the Mahābrahmā realm exist; the gods of the Ābha realm exist, the gods of the Parīttābha realm exist, the gods of the Apramāṇābha realm exist, and the gods of the Ābhāsvara realm exist; the gods of the Śubha realm exist, the gods of the Parīttāśubha realm exist, the gods of the Apramāṇāśubha realm exist, and the gods of the Śubhakṛtsna realm exist; the gods of the Vṛha realm exist, the gods of the Parīttavṛha realm exist, the gods of the Apramāṇavṛha realm exist, and the gods of the Vṛhatphala realm exist; the gods of the Avṛha realm exist, the gods of the Atapa realm exist, the gods of the Sudṛśa realm exist, the gods of the Sudarśana realm exist, and the gods of the Akaniṣṭha realm exist; the gods of the sphere of infinite space exist, the gods of the sphere of infinite consciousness exist, the gods of the sphere of nothing-at-all exist, [F.337.b] and the gods of the sphere of neither perception nor nonperception exist; and those who have entered the stream exist, once-returners exist, non-returners exist, arhats exist, pratyekabuddhas exist, bodhisattvas exist, and the tathāgatas, arhats, perfectly complete buddhas exist. Therefore, it is called the great jewel perfection.

28.401 “In that great jewel perfection there is no phenomenon at all that arises or ceases, or is defiled or purified, or is taken up or rejected. If you ask why, it is because there are no such phenomena that could arise or cease, or be defiled or purified, or be taken up or rejected. Subhūti, in this great jewel perfection, virtuous or nonvirtuous, mundane or supramundane, contaminated or uncontaminated, or conditioned or unconditioned phenomena cannot be apprehended at all. For this reason, also, Subhūti, this great jewel perfection cannot be apprehended.

28.402 “Subhūti, this great jewel perfection is not sullied by any phenomenon at all. If you ask why, it is because such a phenomenon by which it might be sullied cannot be apprehended. Therefore, Subhūti, this perfection is a perfection that is unsullied.

28.403 “Subhūti, if, when bodhisattva great beings are practicing the perfection of wisdom, they do not perceive in that manner, do not conceptualize in that manner, do not apprehend in that manner, and do not elaborate in that manner, they are practicing the perfection of wisdom. They are cultivating the perfection of wisdom. They please the lord buddhas. [F.338.a] Bringing the lord buddhas directly to mind, they proceed from buddhafield to buddhafield to serve, respect, honor, and worship the lord buddhas. They proceed from buddhafield to buddhafield bringing beings to maturity and refining a buddhafield.

28.404 “As for this perfection of wisdom, Subhūti, it does not teach, reveal, disclose, cause to be taken up, make emerge, make arise, make cease, make defiled, make pure, make decline, make increase, or make past, future, or present any phenomenon at all.

28.405 “Subhūti, such a perfection of wisdom as this does not cause you to transcend the realm of desire and does not cause you to stay in it, does not cause you to transcend the realm of form and does not cause you to stay in it, and does not cause you to transcend the realm of formlessness and does not cause you to stay in it. [B23]

28.406 “It neither brings about nor prevents the perfection of generosity, neither brings about nor prevents the perfection of ethical discipline, neither brings about nor prevents the perfection of tolerance, neither brings about nor prevents the perfection of perseverance, neither brings about nor prevents the perfection of meditative concentration, and neither brings about nor prevents the perfection of wisdom. It neither brings about nor prevents [F.338.b] the emptiness of internal phenomena, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of external phenomena, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of external and internal phenomena, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of emptiness, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of great extent, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of ultimate reality, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of conditioned phenomena, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of the unlimited, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of nonexclusion, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of inherent nature, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of all phenomena, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of nonentities, neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of essential nature, and neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities.

28.407 “It neither brings about nor prevents the applications of mindfulness, neither brings about nor prevents the correct exertions, neither brings about nor prevents the supports for miraculous ability, neither brings about nor prevents the faculties, neither brings about nor prevents the powers, neither brings about nor prevents the branches of enlightenment, and neither brings about nor prevents the noble eightfold path. It neither brings about nor prevents the truths of the noble ones, neither brings about nor prevents the meditative concentrations, neither brings about nor prevents the immeasurable attitudes, neither brings about [F.339.a] nor prevents the formless absorptions, neither brings about nor prevents the liberations, and neither brings about nor prevents the serial steps of meditative absorption. It neither brings about nor prevents the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation, neither brings about nor prevents the extrasensory powers, neither brings about nor prevents the meditative stabilities, and neither brings about nor prevents the dhāraṇī gateways. It neither brings about nor prevents the powers of the tathāgatas, neither brings about nor prevents the fearlessnesses, neither brings about nor prevents the kinds of exact knowledge, neither brings about nor prevents great loving kindness, neither brings about nor prevents great compassion, and neither brings about nor prevents the distinct qualities of the buddhas. It neither brings about nor prevents the fruit of having entered the stream, neither brings about nor prevents the fruit of once-returner, neither brings about nor prevents the fruit of non-returner, neither brings about nor prevents arhatship, neither brings about nor prevents individual enlightenment, neither brings about nor prevents the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and neither brings about nor prevents all-aspect omniscience.

28.408 “This perfection of wisdom neither prevents the conditioned element, nor brings about the unconditioned element.

28.409 “If you ask why, it is because, whether the tathāgatas appear or whether the tathāgatas do not appear, the reality of phenomena as it pertains to phenomena, the realm of phenomena, the abiding nature of phenomena, the maturity of phenomena remains just as it is. It is [F.339.b] the full awakening attained by the tathāgatas and comprehended by them. Having fully awakened, having completely comprehended it; they also describe, teach, explain, analyze, and elucidate it.”

28.410 Then many thousands of gods, positioning themselves⁸⁴¹ in the sky above, cheered long and loud. They scattered divine flowers—blue lotuses, day lotuses, red lotuses, white lotuses, mandārava flowers, and big mandārava flowers—and they exclaimed, “Ah! Through the teaching of this perfection of wisdom many thousands of gods have gained acceptance that phenomena are nonarising. We are seeing the wheel of the Dharma being turned for the second time in Jambudvīpa!”

28.411 Then the Blessed One addressed the elder Subhūti: “Subhūti, owing to the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities, this is not the first, nor is it the second turning of the wheel of the Dharma. This perfection of wisdom has not been established for any Dharma to be turned or not turned.”

28.412 “Blessed Lord, what is the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities, owing to which this perfection of wisdom is not established as any Dharma to be turned or not turned?” asked Subhūti.

28.413 “Subhūti,” replied the Blessed One, “the perfection of wisdom is empty of the perfection of wisdom, the perfection of meditative concentration is empty of the perfection of meditative concentration, the perfection of perseverance is empty of the perfection of perseverance, the perfection of tolerance is empty of the perfection of tolerance, [F.340.a] the perfection of ethical discipline is empty of the perfection of ethical discipline, and perfection of generosity is empty of the perfection of generosity.

28.414 “The emptiness of internal phenomena is empty of the emptiness of internal phenomena, the emptiness of external phenomena is empty of the emptiness of external phenomena, the emptiness of external and internal phenomena empty of the emptiness of external and internal phenomena, the emptiness of emptiness is empty of the emptiness of emptiness, the emptiness of great extent is empty of the emptiness of great extent, the emptiness of ultimate reality is empty of the emptiness of ultimate reality, the emptiness of conditioned phenomena is empty of the emptiness of conditioned phenomena, the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena is empty of the emptiness of unconditioned phenomena, the emptiness of the unlimited is empty of the emptiness of the unlimited, the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end is empty of the emptiness of that which has neither beginning nor end, the emptiness of nonexclusion is empty of the emptiness of nonexclusion, the emptiness of inherent nature is empty of the emptiness of inherent nature, the emptiness of all phenomena is empty of the emptiness of all phenomena, the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics is empty of the emptiness of intrinsic defining characteristics, the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended is empty of the emptiness of that which cannot be apprehended, the emptiness of nonentities is empty of the emptiness of nonentities, the emptiness of essential nature is empty of the emptiness of essential nature, and the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities is empty of the emptiness of an essential nature of nonentities.

28.415 “The applications of mindfulness are empty of the applications of mindfulness, the correct exertions are empty of the correct exertions, the supports for miraculous ability are empty of the supports for miraculous ability, the faculties are empty of the faculties, the powers are empty of the powers, the branches of enlightenment are empty of the branches of enlightenment, and the noble eightfold [F.340.b] path is empty of the noble eightfold path.

28.416 “The truths of the noble ones are empty of the truths of the noble ones, the meditative concentrations are empty of the meditative concentrations, the immeasurable attitudes are empty of the immeasurable attitudes, the formless absorptions are empty of the formless absorptions, the liberations are empty of the liberations, the serial steps of meditative absorption are empty of the serial steps of meditative absorption, the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation are empty of the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation, the extrasensory powers are empty of the extrasensory powers, the meditative stabilities are empty of the meditative stabilities, and the dhāraṇī gateways are empty of the dhāraṇī gateways. The powers of the tathāgatas are empty of the powers of the tathāgatas, the fearlessnesses are empty of the fearlessnesses, the kinds of exact knowledge are empty of the kinds of exact knowledge, great loving kindness is empty of great loving kindness, great compassion is empty of great compassion, and the distinct qualities of the buddhas are empty of the distinct qualities of the buddhas. The fruit of having entered the stream is empty of the fruit of having entered the stream, the fruit of once-returner is empty of the fruit of once-returner, the fruit of non-returner is empty of the fruit of non-returner, arhatship is empty of arhatship, individual enlightenment is empty of individual enlightenment, the knowledge of the aspects of the path is empty of the knowledge of the aspects of the path, and all-aspect omniscience is empty of all-aspect omniscience.” [F.341.a] 28.417 “Blessed Lord, this perfection of wisdom of the bodhisattva great beings is great, because the perfection of wisdom is empty of its own essential nature. It is all phenomena empty of all phenomena. Even though bodhisattva great beings dwell in the perfection of wisdom and will fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment, they do not fully awaken to any Dharma at all. Even though they turn the wheel of the Dharma, they do not cause any Dharma to turn, not to turn, or to further turn. They neither see nor do not see any Dharma. If you ask why, it is because the sort of Dharma that is turned, is not turned, or further turns cannot be apprehended; it is because all Dharmas have not been brought into being at all. If you ask why, it is because emptiness does not cause turning or cause not turning. Signlessness does not cause turning or cause not turning. And wishlessness does not cause turning or cause not turning.

28.418 “The teaching, explanation, proclamation, establishment, exposition, analysis, interpretation, discussion, elucidation, and revelation of the perfection of wisdom in this manner is the utterly purified teaching of the perfection of wisdom. Nobody has explained this teaching of the perfection of wisdom, nor has anybody grasped it. That which nobody has explained [F.341.b] and nobody has grasped has not been actualized by anybody; and where nobody has directly actualized it, there nobody has passed into final nirvāṇa. Nor is there anyone at all who is worthy of offerings on account of this exposition of the Dharma.”

28.419 This completes the twenty-eighth chapter from "The Perfection of Wisdom in One Hundred Thousand Lines."

NOTES

- n.1 Evidence mentioned in the traditional histories for the same teaching to have been recorded in sūtras of different length is that the interlocutors are the same, and that all versions contain the same prophecy made about Gaṅgadevī, related in chapter 43 of the present text. See Butön, folios 73.b–74.a.
- n.2 The six “mother” Prajñāpāramitā sūtras (yum drug), so called because they include all eight implicit topics of the Abhisamayālaṅkāra, are the five long sūtras (in one hundred thousand, twenty-five thousand, eighteen thousand, ten thousand, and eight thousand lines, Toh 8–12), along with the Verse Summary (Ratnaguṇasaṅcayagāthā, Toh 13), which is said to have been taught subsequently in the Magadha dialect.
- n.3 Butön, folio 99.b; translation in Stein and Zangpo, p. 229.
- n.4 See The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines (Toh 9) introduction (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html#UT22084-026-001-introduction-1>), and The Perfection of Wisdom in Eighteen Thousand Lines (Toh 10) introduction (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh10.html#UT22084-029-001-introduction-1>).
- n.5 See the 84000 Knowledge Base page on the Degé Kangyur’s Perfection of Wisdom section (<https://read.84000.co/knowledgebase/perfection-wisdom-kangyur.html>).
- n.6 See Falk 2011; Falk and Karashima (2012 and 2013); and Salomon 2018, pp. 335–58.
- n.7 This hypothesis, favored by most modern scholars as well as by traditional Nepalese exegetes, is also supported by the fact that one of the seven Chinese translations of the Eight Thousand, the Dao xing jing (道行經), or Dao xing banruo jing (道行般若經; Taishō 224), was the earliest ever of the Prajñāpāramitā texts to be translated (by Lokakṣema and others in 179 CE)—a century before the first “long” group of sūtras was brought to China from Khotan. Nevertheless, traditional scholarship in both China and Tibet favored the idea that the Eight Thousand was an abridgement or extract of the long sūtras. See Zacchetti 2015, p. 177.

- n.8 See von Hinüber 2014 and Zacchetti 2015, p. 187. Critical editions of parts of the manuscript have been published by Conze (1962 and 1974), Zacchetti (2005), and Choong (2006).
- n.9 See Conze 1978, pp. 34–35 and 40, and Conze 1974.
- n.10 See Zacchetti 2005, pp. 19–22.
- n.11 See Suzuki and Nagashima 2015.
- n.12 Since the longer texts are prose works, “line” (śloka) in this context is simply a unit of measure of thirty-two syllables, rather than implying a verse couplet as in some other contexts.
- n.13 According to Zacchetti (2015, p. 176), the mentions come in a list of Prajñāpāramitā scriptures at the beginning of the Jin’gang xian lun (金剛仙論, Taishō 1512 (<https://cbetaonline.dila.edu.tw/en/T1512>)).
- n.14 This point was emphasized by Zacchetti (2005, pp. 42–50), and is further discussed in Zacchetti 2015, pp. 185–87.
- n.15 Da banruoboreboluomiduo jing (大般若波羅蜜多經, Taishō 220 (<https://cbetaonline.dila.edu.tw/en/T0220>)).
- n.16 For a more detailed account of the successive Chinese translations of The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines, see the introduction to The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines (Toh 9), i.11–i.21.
- n.17 More so than the Sanskrit of the Twenty-Five Thousand matches the Tibetan of the Kangyur version, for the case of the Twenty-Five Thousand is complicated by the existence of two different versions in Tibetan, one in the Kangyur (Toh 9) and the other in the Tengyur (Toh 3790); the Sanskrit matches the “eight-chapter” Tengyur version most closely. For more detail, see the introduction to The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines (Toh 9), i.35–i.39.
- n.18 See Martin 2012. The blog posts of Dan Martin (Yerushalmi) on the topic of these early, imperial period translations have been most helpful in our explorations of it. Note that the word bla, which has many possible connotations, could also be understood as meaning “early” or “primary.” In Ngawang Zangpo 2010, bla ’bum is rendered “Master Copy.”

- n.19 Although given the clan name Nyang (nyang) in Butön’s History, in the Padma Kathang (pad+ma bka’ thang, a fourteenth-century treasure text revealed by Orgyen Lingpa), and in a number of later works, other early texts say he was of the Lang (rlangs or sometimes glang) family. Alaksha Tendar mentions both clan names (folio 5.b). Khampa Gocha was among the earliest ordained Tibetan monks (but not one of the “seven men who were tested”). He is also sometimes referred to as Lang Khampa Lotsāwa, and may (according to Amyé Shab) be the same person as Lang Sugata Gocha (rlangs su ga ta go cha) or Lang Déwarshepa Gocha Sungpa (rlangs bde bar gshegs pa go cha bsrungs pa); see van der Kuijp 2013, pp. 178–79.
- n.20 Butön, folio 146.a. See also Nishioka, p. 68, # 105.
- n.21 A draft translation of the relevant passage is provided by Martin 2012.
- n.22 Rongtönpa, folios 3.a–3.b; Minling Terchen, folio 198.a; Alaksha Tendar, folios 5.b–6.b; Kongtrul, p. 227.
- n.23 Degé dkar chag, chapter 2, folios 88.b–89.a; chapter 3, 2.2.12; chapter 4, folios 117.a–117.b.
- n.24 Narthang dkar chag rgyas pa, folio 24.a et seq., or Pedurma vol. 106, pp. 113–18 (the latter being considerably easier to read). See bibliography entry under Olkha Lelung Lobsang Trinlé.
- n.25 The Narthang catalog agrees on folio 24.a, but the summarized list of six manuscripts on folio 25.a (see below) suggests that the first translation was made in the reign of Tridé Tsuktsen, Tri Songdetsen’s father.
- n.26 The Tibetan word dum bu, literally “piece” or “portion” is used in these descriptions, and although it may denote volumes, the meaning may be some other physical division into parts.
- n.27 According to most accounts, although Rongtönpa’s (folio 3.a) could be read as referring rather to the queen’s blood being used. The Tibetan mtshal (meaning “vermilion,” or just “red”) added to khrag (“blood”) most likely serves simply as an honorific, or denotes red ink made with blood, or might possibly even imply that vermilion was added to blood to make red ink.
- n.28 See the introduction to The Aparimitāyurjñāna Sūtra (2) (Toh 675), i.8.

- n.29 See van Schaik 2002.
- n.30 The translations of these often-cryptic names are tentative. They are made on the assumption that each starts with a king's name or moniker.
- n.31 The Tibetan bye in this name could also be understood to mean "sand" or "million."
- n.32 Presumed to be Namdé Ösung (gnam sde 'od srungs), a son of Langdarma; for details see Dungkar's dictionary, p. 1217.
- n.33 Narthang catalog, folio 25.a. The mention of here of a "Darma" sponsoring the production of a Hundred Thousand, if it refers to Langdarma, is one among other pieces of historical evidence suggesting that Langdarma may not have been as hostile to Buddhism as the widespread traditional account relates.
- n.34 Rongtönpa, folios 3.b.5–4.a.2.
- n.35 We have so far been unable to identify this person further, or the period in which he lived; his revised version seems to be anterior to Ngok's revision, but the chronology needs further investigation.
- n.36 Rongtönpa had already said earlier (folio 3.a) that there were many copies of even the first, shortest translation to be found in Central Tibet. Indeed, Martin 2012 reports on the finding in Drepung by the contemporary Tibetan scholar Kawa Sherab Sangpo of one such "red manuscript" four-volume set.
- n.37 Narthang catalog, folio 25.a.7.
- n.38 Rongtönpa, folios 4.a.6–4.b.6.
- n.39 Degé Kangyur dkar chag, F.117.a. The absorptions mentioned in the dkar chag are (1) shes rab sgron ma, (2) snang ba gsal ba, and (3) zla ba'i sgron me.
- n.40 Rongtönpa, folio 5.a.4.
- n.41 Rongtönpa, folios 3.b–4.a. One clue that the seventeen versions he mentions belong to the imperial period and precede Ngok's revision is that the tenth was produced by Lhalung Pelkyi Dorje (lha lung dpal gyi rdo rje), presumably the same as the well-known ninth-century figure said to have assassinated Langdarma (see Treasury of Lives (<https://treasuryoflives.org/biographies/view/Lhalung-Pelgyi-Dorje/9618>)).
- n.42 Narthang catalog, folio 25.a.7. From the sequence of the passage concerned it would seem that this version must have appeared before the time of the thirteenth-century Chomden Rikpai Raltri (bcom ldan rig pa'i ral gri, 1227–1305). The best known Yarlung Jowo is Shākya Rinchen Dé, fifteenth-century author notably of a history, but not known for his work on the editing or production of Kangyurs. He is therefore probably not the person referred to here, nor is it likely to be the famous Yarlung Lotsāwa Drakpa Gyaltsen (1242–1346). Another Yarlungpa is mentioned as a Narthang scholar who may have been responsible for an early Tengyur or its catalog. See Schaeffer and van der Kuijp 2009, p. 36, and Almogi 2021, pp. 177–78.

- n.43 Rongtönpa, folio 5.b.
- n.44 Neither of the two copies of the Hemis Kangyur, the fifth of the Kangyurs that add the extra chapters, is complete enough at the end of the final volume to show whether or not there was a colophon.
- n.45 'di ni bsaṃ yas dang lha sa'i rig zing mtshams mi 'da' la sogs pa la gtugs nas/ zhus dag lan bcu drug byas pa'i rgyan gong gi 'bum nag mtshams mi 'da' la phyi mo byas nas/ dag par gtugs pa'i 'bum sdig ma 'dres zhes bya ba'i gser 'bum bcu gnyis dum/ lo tsa ba chen po thams cad mkhyen pa bu ston rin chen grub kyi thugs dam la phyi mo bgyis nas/ mkhas chen rin chen rgyal mtshan pas bzhengs pa la ma phyi bgyis pa'o. In Tibetan literature overall, such a large number of figures with the name Rinchen Gyaltsen are recorded that it would be difficult to identify this one with certainty. However, if the moniker “great scholar” is taken as a specific one, there was a fifteenth-century scholar at Sangphu referred to as mkhas dbang rin chen rgyal mtshan.
- n.46 On the differences between the Kangyur and Tengyur versions of the Twenty-Five Thousand, see the introduction to The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines, i.35–i.39.
- n.47 See the introduction to The Perfection of Wisdom in Twenty-Five Thousand Lines, i.111–i.113.
- n.48 In the Twenty-Five Thousand, ch. 26 has the title “The Hells,” and ch. 27 “The Purity of All the Dharmas.”
- n.49 The reservation here is that, at a fine-grain level, the Abhisamayālaṃkāra only fits the order of the Twenty-Five Thousand fully in the version of the sūtra in the Tengyur (Toh 3790) and not in the Kangyur version (Toh 9); see n.46.

- n.55 Dolpopa explicitly emphasized the importance, in his opinion, of the Bṛhaṭṭīkā commentarial tradition over that of the Abhisamayālaṅkāra.
- n.56 See Sparham (2022b), 2.17 and n.247.
- n.57 That is to say, in most Kangyurs; the Narthang, Lhasa, Namgyal, and Shey Kangyurs do, however, include the final four chapters (see above, i.39).
- n.58 bka' yang dag pas, here and in the Twenty-Five Thousand, is one Tibetan rendering in the canonical texts of the Skt. saṃyagāññā, the other being the more widespread yang dag pa'i shes pas (“by perfect understanding”), as in the equivalent phrase in the Eighteen Thousand, 1.2 and as recommended in Mahāvīyutpatti 1087. See also The Jewel Cloud (Toh 231), 1.2 and n.21. Vetter, p. 67, n. 53, says it “deviates from the translation” of it as a verb (kun shes pa, “fully understand”).
- n.59 Bṭ1: “It means thus, in the order explained above, those who possess the inspired eloquence that was unimpeded are simply in possession of the good quality of being extremely skillful at the ‘inexhaustible’ many types of means for teaching the doctrine to beings.” Vetter, p. 29, n. 66, says “one would rather expect a kṣaya belonging to pratisaṃvid,” suggesting as an alternative translation “had comprehended the teaching, the inexhaustible mode of the detailed and thorough knowledges.”
- n.60 Edgerton s.v. kuhana: “hypocrisy, specifically display of behavior designed to stimulate laymen to give gifts.”

- n.61 “Realized and integrated” renders rtogs pa khong du chud pa. Cp. Kimura, 1–1:1, gambhīradharmakṣāntipāraṅgatair; Ghoṣa, Gilgit gaṃbhīradharmakṣānti-paramagatiṃ gatair, “gone to the furthest state that is a forbearance for the profound ultimate attribute.”
- n.62 By contrast, Bṭ1 renders this compound “they had overcome karma and afflicted mental states so they had overcome the hostile forces” and says it “means they had eliminated the enemy—karma and afflicted mental states.”
- n.63 Bṭ1: “ ‘Difficult for all śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas to understand’ teaches that śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas cannot understand the knowledge, aspiration, and range of practice of those bodhisattvas.” So too Vetter, p. 70.
- n.64 The correct reading is uncertain. Kimura, 1–1:1 anantakalpakoṭīniḥsaraṇakuśalair; Gilgit 1v2–3 (Zacchetti, p. 366; Vetter, p. 72), anantakalpa(ko)[ṭī]nirdeśajñāna-nirḥsaraṇakuśalair; Ghoṣa p. 4 anantakalpakoṭīnirdeśajñātibhiḥ saraṇyākuśalair? Edg s.v. niḥsaraṇa, citing Mvy 853, which cites this same passage (like Kimura) only with niḥsaraṇa (as in Bṭ3, 20a4 (1.110), nges par ’byung ba), suggests ye shes kyi (not ye shes kyis) might go with ’byung ba; cp. yid ’byung ba (nirvid) (“disgust,” “renunciation”) in the sense of a mental emancipation from something otherwise believed to be real and a problem. Bṭ1, p. 650, also has kyi ’byung (“of”) and, like Bṭ3, says the ’byung ba here rendered “emancipation” means just that the bodhisattvas “have finished with and gone beyond” eons of teaching and working for beings, so, because of their practice of perseverance, at this level are effortless.
- n.65 This and the next are in an inverted order in D, which has not been followed here.
- n.66 Here and in the Twenty-Five Thousand, D reads shes pa phra ba, whereas the Ten Thousand has phra ba mkhyen pa. The Long Explanation (Toh 3808 1.123) here lists various aspects of this “subtle knowledge” or “knowledge that engages in subtlety” (which it renders as ye shes phra ba) with regard to conduct and so forth.
- n.67 Gilgit (Zacchetti, p. 367) and Ghoṣa, p. 5, pratītyanirdeśakuśalair; Vetter: “skilled in teaching dependent on the audience.” The brten pa rtogs pa is a don ’gyur. Emend Urga bden pa to brten pa. Bṭ1 glosses bden pa (emend to brten pa) rtogs pa with gzhan gyis rtogs par bya ba’i phyir bstan pa.
- n.68 Gilgit, Ghoṣa omit. Bṭ1 glosses it with “...stopping those actions and afflicted mental states of self and others through skillful means.”

- n.69 Bṭ1: "They do not ultimately view such scriptural doctrine as an existing thing, but conventionally, on account of their skill in the 'ways of the doctrine,' the various forms of teaching the levels and perfections and dharmas on the side of awakening and so on, they are fearless and are not scared, whatever the audience, when they differentiate and teach those doctrines."
- n.70 This renders Gilgit yathātmyāvatāraṇākuśalaiḥ. Bṭ1 says this "teaches the skill in entry into the range of the knowledge of the tathāgatas. The range of the knowledge of the tathāgatas, furthermore, is twofold: the correct comprehension of the ultimate nature of things and the correct comprehension of the conventional nature of things. As for the correct comprehension of the ultimate nature, ultimately all phenomena are simply just the true nature, beyond causal signs and ideas. As for the correct comprehension of the conventional nature, it is the unsurpassed conduct of the blessed buddhas—bringing beings to maturity, purifying a buddhafiield, and so on. That is the meaning of being skilled in bringing about correct comprehension of the range of the tathāgatas."
- n.71 Ghoṣa, p. 6, sarvabuddhotpādopasaṃkramaṇakuśalair; Bṭ1, p. 660: "This is teaching that having traveled to whichever world system in which the buddhas appear, they are skilled in worshiping and serving them."
- n.72 Ghoṣa, p. 6, aparimitabuddhādhyeṣaṇakuśalair; Bṭ1, p. 660: "This means that having gone into the presence of all those blessed lord buddhas, as many as there are, maintaining themselves in innumerable, immeasurable world systems, they request them to turn the wheel of the Dharma, and request those thinking to enter into final nirvāṇa to stay for a long time."
- n.73 Bṭ1, p. 661: "This teaches that they possess the result from having completed the meditative stabilities that are the cause of the extrasensory powers. It means they are skilled, through the power of having earlier meditated on many types of meditative stabilities, at reveling in the various types of miraculous powers and working in various ways for the welfare of beings."
- n.74 Ghoṣa, p. 6, and Kimura, 1–1:1, Sārvavāha. This is also the form found in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.75 This name is not attested, except perhaps in Gilgit, 1v11, where the illegible letter that Zacchetti, p. 367, n. 6, renders as pā (following Ghoṣa's bhadrapāla) may in fact be ba.
- n.76 Here and in the following the names have been rendered as ending in -mati in accord with the Tib blo gros, not as expected with the Skt possessive ending -matin.

- n.77 mtshu dam pas rnam par gnon pa in place of rab kyi rtsal gyis rnam par gnon pa.
- n.78 Ghoṣa, p. 6; Kimura, 1–1:2, has Anupamacintin.
- n.79 Gilgit, 2r3, Vyūharāja (rnam par bkod pa'i rgyal po).
- n.80 dgongs pa is honorific for dran pa; cf. Bṭ1, p. 662, dran pa mngon du gzhas pa bstan pa'i phyir.
- n.81 'phrul gyi spyan is the pre-reform translation of divyacakṣus (“divine eye”).
- n.82 For all the parts of the body mentioned in this paragraph, the Tib reads 'od zer bye ba khrag khrig brgya stong drug cu drug cu. The translation does not repeat drug cu (“sixty”) because it signifies that sets of that number of rays of light are emitted from each one of the paired parts of his body or individual members in the list. Ghoṣa omits ṣaṣṭiṣaṣṭi each time.
- n.83 On the specific number hundred thousand ten million billion see the enumeration spelled out in detail, beginning from one and going up to an anabhilāpyānabhilāpya, below (2.164).
- n.84 In both the Skt and Tib, in each of the six sets of three words the same verb is used with the same prefixes indicating greater intensity.
- n.85 This reading (also in the Twenty-Five Thousand and the Tengyur version of the Twenty-Five Thousand) appears to render mṛduka and snigdha not literally, but in accord with what they are attempting to convey; cf. Mppś (English translation), pp. 376–77, “the Buddha first shows his miraculous power to the beings of the trisāhasramahāsāhasralokadhātu; then, when their minds are softened (mṛduka, snigdha), he preaches the Dharma to them. This is why he shakes the earth in six ways.” Bṭ1, p. 667: “Even when it shakes in six ways, beings do not become alarmed, scared, and so on, and the mountains, ground, vegetation, and so on become easily traversable, verdant, and delightful.” On nyams su bde ba cf. Negi s.v. nyams bde ba.
- n.86 log par ltung / lhung ba, vinipāta.
- n.87 This D reading, absent from K, N, and so on, is supported by both Ghoṣa and Gilgit and in large part by the Eighteen Thousand.
- n.88 This renders Ghoṣa, p. 21, prakṛtyātmabhāvaḥ (prakṛtyā ātmabhāvaḥ), literally “his own body, in its basic nature.” Cf. Kimura, 1–1:6, ātmabhāvaṃ prakṛtam, “an ordinary body” (Zacchetti, pp. 266–67, n. 202, citing Lamotte, vol. 1, p. 517, “corps ordinaire”).

- n.89 This renders Ghoṣa, p. 21, śuddhāvāsakāyikādevanikāyā ābhāsvārā brahmakāyikāḥ; cp. Kimura, 1–1:6, śubhakṛtsnā ābhāsvārā brahmakāyikā. Here and in the Twenty-Five Thousand the name kun snang dang ba (ābhāsvara) refers to the third of the three divisions of the gods of the second meditative concentration in the form realm. The rendering ‘od gsal ba (ābhāsvara) is more frequent; dang ba is perhaps gdangs for svara. That the order is unusual here is corroborated by the detailed explanation in Mppś (English translation), pp. 409–12.
- n.90 Nakamura (2014, p. 516) renders these “strewing [flowers] near [to Buddha], strewing [flowers] in front [of Buddha] and strewing [flowers] all around [Buddha].” The Tib says, literally, “strew down on, strew over, and strew right over.”
- n.91 Again, in each of the three words the same verb is used with prefixes indicating greater intensity. Ghoṣa, p. 22, lambante sma pralambante sma abhipralambante sma.
- n.92 This is the spelling, not br̥ha(t) in Ghoṣa (the only place these divisions are attested to our knowledge).
- n.93 A literal rendering is “in the form of a youth” (kumārabhūta). Bṛ1, pp. 674–74: They are “bodhisattvas seated in the presence of the Blessed One Śākyamuni, among whom some naturally have few attachments and from first producing the thought are celibate and have completed the ten levels, and some are bodhisattvas who have attained a standing on the eighth level and above free from effort and conceptualization. They are like young princes, and they are suitable to be given the empowerment as the regent (rgyal tshab) of a blessed lord buddha, a Dharma king, because they are standing at the level of a successor of a Dharma king.”
- n.94 der nyams par gyur ta re renders Ghoṣa, p. 30, ma tatra kṣanethāḥ.
- n.95 “Since” renders upādāya, rendered phyir in Tib, in the sense that the perfection comes after what is preceded by it (phyi ru).
- n.96 “False imagination” renders yongs su rtog pa. Kimura, 1–1:28, vikṣiptacittān; Ghoṣa, p. 56, avikṣepāśaṅkaraṇatām (“no disturbance and nothing that makes you anxious”); Gilgit (Zacchetti), p. 376, dhyānamadānāsṡādanatām, and the Twenty-Five Thousand and the Eighteen Thousand, which share the same reading, all differ.

- n.97 Emend skye ba, “birth,” to C skyo ba (Ghoṣa, Kimura, Gilgit udvega), “disillusionment.”
- n.98 Kimura, 1–1:29, aśuci (“uncleanliness”).
- n.99 This renders advaya (in all editions of the Hundred Thousand) in place of Ghoṣa, Kimura, and Gilgit anvaya; Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 28a7 (2.5), rjes su 'gro ba; Eighteen Thousand, ka 12a5 (2.4), and Bṭ1, p. 703, rjes su rtogs pa.
- n.100 Ghoṣa yathāruta; Gilgit yathāva(t); Bṭ1, p. 705, and Bṭ3 4.55: “have an understanding and knowledge of all the languages and speech of hell beings, animals, ghosts, gods, humans, and Brahmā deities.”
- n.101 Cf. the entry on vitakka by Bhikkhu Anālayo in Encyclopedia of Buddhism, edited by G.P. Malalasekera et al, vol. 8 (2009), pp. 14–15 s.v. vitakka and jhāna. The “initial application of mind” (Tib rnam par rtog pa; Skt vitarka) and “sustained application of mind” (Tib rnam par dpyod pa; Skt vicāra) are necessary before reaching the stillness of the second meditative concentration. These are not gross conceptual states that give rise to lust or hatred. The author makes a rather nice association of the two terms with the way the mind works when somebody is going to say something. It may be fully articulated within the mind before it is said, or it may not be. In both cases there is a deep mental effort, as it were, not a gross level of thinking, necessary to get out what you want to say, and in that sense there is a level of effort in the first concentration absent on the higher levels.
- n.102 This renders PSP, 1–1:30, anājñātāmājñāsyāmīndriya, “the faculty of coming to understand what one has not yet understood” (cf. Abhidharmakośa 2.4), but both Ghoṣa and Gilgit have ājñāsyāmīndriya, “the ‘I will come to know’ faculty.”
- n.103 The translators read ājñātāvīndriya.
- n.104 Ghoṣa, p. 67, and Gilgit sarvāṅkāraṇavaropetaṃ sarvavajñajñānam abhisamboddhukāmena. Cp. Kimura, 1–1:30 (le'u brgyad ma, 27b7), which has been edited to perfectly fit with the Abhisamayālaṅkāra: sarvajñatām jñānena darśanena cāvalokyātikramitukāmena bodhisattvena mahāsattvena prajñāpāramitā bhāvayitavyā, mārgajñatām paripūrayitukāmena sarvāṅkārajñatām anuprāptukāmena.
- n.105 Bṭ1, p. 722: “This teaches the result of the bodhisattvas’ knowledge of all aspects of the path, because bodhisattvas perfect the knowledge of all aspects of the path, and having understood the thoughts and behavior of beings, establish what is beneficial for beings.”

- n.106 The explanation at Bṭ3 4.80 and Bṭ1, p. 722, reads the compound sarva-vāsanānusaṃdhikleśaprahāṇa as a dvandva to mean “abandon all propensities, connections, and afflicted mental states”: “It teaches the result of the knowledge, furnished with the best of all aspects, of a knower of all aspects. Propensities left by action, propensities left by afflicted mental states, and propensities left by life [Bṭ3 “birth”] are the three sorts of propensities; connections to action, connections to afflicted mental states, and connections to life are the three sorts of connections, because the connections on account of dependent origination are three. The meaning is that they ‘want to abandon’ all ‘propensities,’ all ‘connections,’ and all ‘afflicted mental states.’” See The Precious Discourse on the Blessed One’s Extensive Wisdom That Leads to Infinite Certainty (Toh 99), 3.162, and Mppś (English translation) vol. 5, p. 2029, n. 399.
- n.107 This scripture sometimes says “five” and sometimes “six” extrasensory powers (abhijñā). Bṭ1 says the sixth is “knowledge of the extinction of contaminants/inflows.”
- n.108 Bṭ1, p. 725: “It says this because bodhisattvas are focused on the welfare of all beings. So, because they have to work for their welfare, they correctly understand what thoughts they are thinking and what conduct they have faith in and so on.”
- n.109 This differs slightly from both the Twenty-Five Thousand 2.9, and the Eighteen Thousand 2.7. Cf. PSP, 1–1:32, and le’u brgyad ma, ga 28b7 ff.
- n.110 Only D Hundred Thousand has this reading, supported by Z, p. 377, sthātukāmena; the Twenty-Five Thousand, Eighteen Thousand, and le’u brgyad ma have spyod.
- n.111 This renders spos.
- n.112 Domits.
- n.113 Ghoṣa, Gilgit, and PSP omit.
- n.114 At Twenty-Five Thousand 2.19 the same Tib is rendered into English as “all worlds within the whole infinity of the realm of phenomena and the very reaches of the realm of space.”
- n.115 This renders snying po byang chub. The bodhimaṇḍapa is the “choice ring” (like the cream, which is the essence of the milk, that makes a rim on a bucket) within which enlightenment occurs.

- n.116 sems bskyed pa gcig gis. In other instances in the text, sems bskyed pa (cittotpāda) has been interpreted as an abbreviated form of the technical term byang chub kyi sems bskyed pa (bodhicittotpāda), and thus sems bskyed pa has been rendered “setting of the mind on enlightenment,” but in the present context this term seems more likely to mean simply “just by having the thought.”
- n.117 Bṭ1, p. 732: “Who want to understand the ultimate and conventional aspect and defining characteristic of all conditioned and unconditioned phenomena.” The Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 32a3 (2.26), adds de bzhin nyid.
- n.118 Bṭ1, p. 732: “It is true that there is no difference in the real nature but it is still divided threefold on account of a differentiation of its basis and the entry into it. The entry into it is threefold because of the entry into by the bodhisattvas’ knowledge of all aspects of paths, the blessed lord buddhas’ all-aspect omniscience, and the śrāvakas’ and pratyekabuddhas’ knowledge of all the dharmas. Among them, the thoroughly established nature of inner and outer phenomena such as forms and sounds and so on is called ‘the real nature of all phenomena’; the unmistaken real nature, the one and only real nature, suchness, the unchanging real nature, and the genuine, definitive real nature are the real nature of all phenomena, and are simply synonyms for the unmistaken realization by the bodhisattvas’ knowledge of all aspects of paths. So, it is teaching that they want to comprehend by entering into it with the bodhisattvas’ knowledge of all aspects of paths.”
- n.119 Alternatively, the dharmadhātu is the “dharma constituent” under which rubric all phenomena are subsumed. Bṭ1, p. 733: “The essential nature of the dharmakāya (‘body of qualities/ultimate attributes’) is the basis of all the dharmas (‘qualities’), the powers, the fearlessnesses, and so on, of a buddha, hence it is called the ‘realm of phenomena/dharma constituent.’ So it is saying that those who want to comprehend such a realm of phenomena /dharma constituent by entering into it as knowers of a tathāgata’s all-aspect omniscience should train in the perfection of wisdom.”
- n.120 Bṭ1, p. 733: “The nirvāṇa without any remaining aggregates of the śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas is called the suchness at the very limit of reality. So it means that those who want to comprehend such a suchness at the very limit of reality by entering into it with a śrāvaka’s or pratyekabuddha’s knowledge of all the dharmas should train in the perfection of wisdom. It is teaching that they want to attain the qualities of an eighth-level bodhisattva.”
- n.121 This renders asaṃkhyeya and aprameya, two fabulously high numbers.

- n.122 Ghoṣa oṣadhi.
- n.123 This renders the Tib literally, but it makes better sense to take the earlier words in the Skt compounds (which both end in saṃcaya, “collection”)—the trees and so on, and the rocks and so on—as incorporated in the last words (“forests” and “land”).
- n.124 “Such that” renders the zhes (iti*) at the end; the Twenty-Five Thousand supplies ‘dod pas, “wanting” or “wishing that.”
- n.125 The translators read eva in place of Ghoṣa, p. 90, evam. “Based on” renders gnas pas (niśrāya).
- n.126 The translators perhaps read a form of saṃbhū in place of Ghoṣa, p. 91, samāpad.
- n.127 Alternatively, sarvadvadharṃmaprajñānatānupalambhayogena means “by way of not apprehending a wisdom that knows all phenomena.”
- n.128 Bṭ1, p. 736: “The attributes (guṇa, yon tan) are twofold: ultimate attributes and conventional attributes. The ultimate attribute is the intrinsically pure nature of the dharma body. The conventional attributes are the powers, fearlessnesses, eighteen distinct qualities, and so on.
- n.129 Bṭ1, p. 736: “ ‘Conditioned phenomena’ (saṃskṛta) are made (kṛta) from the coming together and assembly (saṃ-) of causes and conditions. There are contaminated and uncontaminated ones. Of them, the contaminated are phenomena included in the three realms. The uncontaminated are in essence the path of the noble ones. The correct knowledge of those phenomena in their ultimate and conventional modes insofar as it has got to the limit of, has comprehended, them, is ‘perfection’ that has ‘gone beyond.’ ”
- n.130 Bṭ1, p. 736: “The contaminated are form and so on, those in regard to which afflicted mental states arise. The uncontaminated are the levels, the perfections, the nirvāṇas and so on, which is to say, those in regard to which afflicted mental states do not emerge.”
- n.131 Bṭ1, p. 737: “Virtuous phenomena are nonattachment, nonconfusion, nonhatred and so on. Nonvirtuous phenomena are attachment, confusion, hatred and so on.”
- n.132 Bṭ1, p. 737: “Ordinary phenomena are from the end of the level of practice on account of belief on down. Extraordinary phenomena are from the first level on up to the buddha level.”

- n.133 Bṭ1, p. 737: “The material phenomena appear and are to be seen and are obstructing. Immaterial phenomena (without form) do not appear and are not to be seen and are not obstructing.”
- n.134 Bṭ1, p. 737: “Determinate phenomena—phenomena that can be prophesied/are objects of moral inquiry (vyākṛta)—are what are suitable to be prophesied, such as, ‘With a thought without attachment, without hatred, and without confusion, the practices of generosity, discipline, and so on cause obtaining a high status and many enjoyments.’ and so on. Indeterminate phenomena—phenomena that are cannot be prophesied /are not objects of moral inquiry—are the results of the practice of art and music and so on, in regard to which there is no certainty at all about whether they will bring happiness or suffering.”
- n.135 Bṭ1, p. 737: “The phenomena that are certain (niyata) are the certainties of being in a śrāvaka, a pratyekabuddha, or a bodhisattva lineage. Phenomena that are not certain are those that come about relative to spiritual friends and bad friends.”
- n.136 Bṭ1, pp. 737–38: “The phenomena to do with escaping (‘byung ba, Ghoṣa, Gilgit nairyāṇika) are those with the nature of escaping from the three realms: the śrāvaka results of stream enterer and so on; the levels of bodhisattvas, the first level and so on; the thirty-seven dharmas on the side of awakening [note that Āryavimuktisena (Pensa, p. 20) only lists this]; and the perfections and so on that serve to cause the attainment of nirvāṇa. Those to do with no escaping are the opposite of these, the phenomena that serve to cause saṃsāra.” “To do with escaping” or “causes emergence” is the definition of the truth of the path, the fourth of the four truths of the noble ones.
- n.137 Bṭ1, p. 738: “The phenomena that aid getting worse (‘grib pa’i tshul can; Ghoṣa, Gilgit hānabhāgīya) are afflictive obscurations and obscurations to knowledge. Phenomena [that aid getting] better (khyad par gyi tshul can, viśeṣabhāgīya) are those that serve to counteract those two obscurations.”
- n.138 “Attributes,” used here in place of “phenomena,” renders the same word (chos, dharma).
- n.139 Bṭ1, p. 738: “The phenomena of ordinary beings are the experiences (spyod pa) of the mistaken view of the impermanent as permanent, suffering as happiness, the unclean as clean, and the selfless as a self. The phenomena of the noble ones are the opposite of those: the views of impermanence, suffering, uncleanliness, and selflessness.”

- n.140 Bṭ1, p. 738: “The phenomena of those in training are the phenomena from stream enterer to non-returner, and of those not in training—the phenomenon that is the result of a worthy one.”
- n.141 Bṭ1, p. 738: “The phenomena of śrāvakas are the entry in, and so on, by way of the four truths of the noble ones, and the phenomena of pratyekabuddhas are the entry in, and so on, by way of the realization of dependent origination.”
- n.142 Bṭ1, p. 738: “The phenomena of bodhisattvas are a bodhisattva’s practices from the level of practice on account of belief up to the tenth level. The phenomena of buddhas are in the form of the result of those included in the buddha level: the five transcendental knowledges, the powers, the fearlessnesses, and so on.”
- n.143 Bṭ1, p. 739: “ ‘Want to go beyond all phenomena’ summarizes all the phenomena spoken of before, which is to say, the correct realization of the ultimate and conventional characteristic marks of all the phenomena spoken of before.”
- n.144 “The very limit of nonarising” renders ma skye ba’i mthar phyin pa; Ghoṣa, Gilgit anutpattikoṭim anuprāptukāmena. Bṭ1: “These are explaining that bodhisattvas at the tenth level, in order to attain the good quality of realizing the ultimate characteristic mark of all the phenomena spoken of earlier, have to practice the perfection of wisdom, which is to say, the ultimate characteristic mark is called ‘suchness,’ ‘the very limit of nonarising,’ and ‘the very limit of reality.’ It means they want to go to the very limit of those.”
- n.145 Bṭ1, p. 739: “Because of their transcendental knowledge, force, and miraculous power, the bodhisattvas abiding on the tenth level are distinguished as superior to śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas, so being the main, the supreme, the best ones they ‘have precedence.’ So, those who want to attain such a quality should train in the perfection of wisdom. That is the meaning.”
- n.146 Bṭ1, pp. 739–40: “Through their force of the empowerment and miraculous powers attained by bodhisattvas on the tenth level, even in one moment, minute, and second, they have the capacity to offer unsurpassed, inconceivable service.”
- n.147 nang gi ’khor du ’gyur pa, = adhyātmaparivāra? Ghoṣa atyantaparivāra, Gilgit abhyantaparivāra. Bṭ1, p. 740: “Bodhisattvas on the tenth level, because they are obstructed by a single birth on the buddha level and because they are simply a cut of the sheerest cloth (dar las chod pa tsam) away from the transcendental knowledge of a knower of all, are close by in the circle of a buddha, so they are ‘in the intimate retinue.’ ”

- n.148 Bṭ1, p. 740: “Because bodhisattvas on the tenth level have become like buddhas, they are the place worshiped and respected by those among the gods who have the greatest force and magical power—Indra, Brahmā, and so on. So it means wanting to have a retinue of many like those.
- n.149 Gilgit (Zacchetti, p. 383): dane ’navagr̥hītcittena.
- n.150 Bṭ1, p. 741: “The bodhisattvas at the tenth level are unobstructed when it comes to explaining the doctrine and applying themselves to the welfare of beings. What they apply themselves to is achieved so it is not in vain. Their establishing beings in the five bases of meritorious action is not in vain.”
- n.151 Tib sngon gyi sbyor ba dang ldan pa is a literal rendering of pūrvavayogasahagatā (caryā), “together with, connected with the past” (= “formerly”).
- n.152 Gilgit, p. 383, ṛddhividhivikurvitam; Ghoṣa, p. 99, ṛddhivikurvītum.
- n.153 “Retain” renders yang dag par gzung, sandhāraya (“to bear [in mind] perfectly”).
- n.154 Tib dbyang kyis bsnyad pa; literally “the melodious narrations.”
- n.155 This renders Tib ched du brjod pa literally. Skt udāna also means those statements made by all the buddhas (about impermanence, attachment, the path, and so on) that cause pleasure to rise up in the hearer.
- n.156 Ghoṣa sattvebhyo ’kṣuṇṇadharmmaṃ deśayeyam (“a doctrine that has not been stomped down on”); Gilgit omits. Tib kṣud (“to tread down on”). Bṭ1, p. 745: “Having taught that those who want to obtain the qualities and greatness of bodhisattvas on the tenth level should then persevere at the perfection of wisdom, to teach that those who want to obtain the qualities and greatness of buddhas should persevere at the perfection of wisdom, it says ‘who want to train in the tathāgatas’ way of carrying themselves’ and so on...An ‘elephant’ is nāga in Sanskrit and nāga also refers to the best, the most excellent, the chief [MW s.v. nāga, “the best or most excellent of any kind”], and also refers to an elephant, a snake, and a buddha. In this context, the manner or method of the seeing of the blessed lord buddhas is to ‘look down as an elephant looks.’ [The following is also at Bṭ3 4.175] They do not look up at what is above, look down at what is below, look to the sides at what is to the right or left, twist their neck to look at what is behind, concentrate to look at what is far off, or look without concentrating at what is close by. This says that however they are carrying themselves and however they are looking, they 'look down as an elephant looks' because they look at all beings and all dharmas in all world systems."

- n.157 The meditative stability "that has stretched out like a lion" or "yawned like a lion" is described in detail in 8.443.
- n.158 Bṭ1, p. 746: This "teaches the result of bringing to maturity. Having trampled with an overwhelming presence, through the force of that they have established [beings] in the good doctrine; they have brought them to maturity."
- n.159 Here and below, the reference to "thousand-spoked wheels" on the soles of the feet is a reference to the image or motif of a thousand-spoked wheel on the soles of the Buddha's feet.
- n.160 Add brjod du med pa'am; Ghoṣa anabhilāpya.
- n.161 These are the names in Ghoṣa. Edgerton s.v. vr̥hatphala treats vr̥ha(t) as an alternative for br̥hat ("big").
- n.162 Delete shing ("tree") that is not supported by either Gilgit bodhimaṇḍam upasamkkrameyam or Ghoṣa, p. 113, bodhimaṇḍam upasaṃkramyayām, and makes better sense of the following paragraph where both have bodhivṛkṣatale ("on the ground of the Bodhi tree"). Kimura 1-1:49 keeps bodhimaṇḍadrumamūlam ("foot of the tree at the seat of enlightenment") for both and changes the verb from "approach" to "spread out the mat at."
- n.163 These are the names in Ghoṣa. Edgerton s.v. vr̥hatphala treats vr̥ha(t) as an alternative for br̥hat ("big").
- n.164 This is problematic. "Is without an entourage of queens" is supported by Gilgit 16v5 bodhisattvasyāmaithunasam̐yoga-prasthānatāyai and made explicit by Haribhadra at PSP, 1-1:52, maithunadharmaparivarjanena ("given up his entourage of queens"), and most tellingly the following lhag bcas (te) that strongly suggests the reason for the gods being overjoyed. Alternatively, keeping in mind the dbul bar bya'o rendered "we will give" [the begging bowls] just above, it may have the sense of "we will have presented them an entourage of queens," supported by Ghoṣa, p. 116, bodhisattvasya maithuna-sam̐yogaprasthānatāyai. Here the la don (de la) and the absence of a byed sgra (-s) ending on the word preceding dbul might support this alternative translation, based on the thought that, of the twelve deeds, the gods are overjoyed at the marriage deed of Śākyamuni as the prince Siddhārtha prior to the great renunciation. Cf. Bṭ1, pp. 749-50: " 'Still, in order to establish beings in awakening these [bodhisattvas] practice celibacy. They do not engage in any sexual acts,’ and so on, teaches the pure aspiration and pure behavior of bodhisattvas practicing like that. As for ‘Blessed One, do bodhisattva great beings definitely have a father, a mother, a wife, sons, and daughters?’ and so on, having given the above description of the good qualities of the bodhisattvas, following on from the sons and daughters of good families having made the commitment to be the mother and father and so on of those bodhisattvas, and the Four Great Kings making the commitment to supply the entourage of queens, in response to Śāradvatīputra’s inquiry about whether bodhisattvas definitely have to have girls and so on, the Blessed One explains that actual bodhisattvas do not enjoy the five sorts of sense objects out of attachment, but abiding in conventional truth, without attachment, and with skillful means, through the four ways of gathering a retinue they gather beings together and use the five sorts of sense objects in order to establish them in the doctrine.”

- n.165 “Enjoyment” renders rnam par spyod pa. Ghosā, p. 117, and Gilgit, p. 387, vihārapratilabhda.
- n.166 K and N, supported by Ghosā and Gilgit, only have these first two alternatives, probably supported by Bṭ1, p. 750: “teaches that...‘they practice,’ and ‘they do not practice’ cannot ultimately be apprehended.” The translation here follows D that is Eighteen Thousand.
- n.167 Alternatively, “physical forms are not empty of emptiness, and emptiness is not other than form.”
- n.168 The Skt versions have darśana (“the seeing”); Tib mtshong ba could also mean that. “Not really exist” renders yod pa ma yin pa (asat).
- n.169 Here sgyu ma (“illusion”) is rendering kṛtrimam, more usually bcos ma (“fabricated,” “artificial”).
- n.170 Z, p. 206, n. 45: “Because naming is artificial in the cases of (of: with regard to) each single dharma; they [i.e. the states described in the preceding paragraph], having been imagined, are designated with an accidental appellation that is falsely imagined, and on the basis of [this] appellation they are clung to.”
- n.171 This renders mngon par zhen. Although this is the expected translation, here and in the Twenty-Five Thousand the translators usually render forms of abhiniviś with mngon par ’chags. An alternative translation: “From convention they are settled down on as real.”

- n.172 An alternative translation: “They do not falsely project them, and they are not settled down on as real.”
- n.173 Gilgit, 18r9–10; Ghoṣa omits.
- n.174 The translators render svabhāva by ngo bo here to differentiate it from prakṛti; just below where the distinction is not necessary, they use rang bzhin for svabhāva. Ghoṣa, p. 129, anutpādaprakṛtikāḥ svabhāvaśūnyāḥ.
- n.175 The translators render the gerundives in -tava by bzla’o and here, the future first person singular -syāmi, with bzla bar bya’o.
- n.176 The Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 47a (2.95), has byang chub (“path of enlightenment”). Bṭ1 (p. 755) glosses “bodhisattva” as “enlightenment.”
- n.177 “Practice” renders chos (dharma).
- n.178 This is also the reading in the Stok Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 61b2; the Eighteen Thousand, supported by Ghoṣa, p. 132; and Z, p. 391. Kimura and the D Twenty-Five Thousand differ.
- n.179 “There are” renders yod pas, likely a rendering of āgamyā (“thanks to”).
- n.180 In the translation of the Twenty-Five Thousand, “discerned” takes yod pa to be the Tib translation of Gilgit, Kimura, and Ghoṣa’s prajñāyante.
- n.181 Z suggests “metaphorically” as a translation for paryāyeṇa (rnam grangs kyis). In the Twenty-Five Thousand this is rendered “in a manner.”
- n.182 LSPW uses “endeavor” and “join” for yuj and its derivatives; brtson does mean “to endeavor, make an effort,” but as Z notes, Kumārajīva’s Chinese translation of this includes the meaning “compliant with,” that is, fitting, or logically established.
- n.183 “Flowing along together” renders lhan cig kun tu rgyu (saha samavasaratīti).
- n.184 “Does not obstruct” renders thogs par byed pa (rūpayati) (more usually gzugs su yod pa/rung ba), the Abhidharma definition of form; each of the following is the definition of the respective aggregate.
- n.185 “Without conjunction or disjunction” (’du ba dang ’bral ba) (=there is nothing together and there is nothing apart) renders ayogāvīyoga (a secondary formation from yuj cognate with English “yoke,” and from which English gets the loan word “yoga”). The passive past participle yukta of the same root (yuj) has been rendered “engaged.” The sense of yuj is of different things coming or being together. The Tib renders yoga/viyoga here with the nonvoluntary/intransitive forms of coming/being together and separating/being separate. In the immediately following sections yojayati (“they cause X to engage with Y” or “they associate X with Y”) is a causal formed from the same root. The Tib renders it with the voluntary/transitive form of ’du (bsdud) and the voluntary/transitive ’byed (“to make separate”).

n.186 “Yogic practice” renders rnal ’byor (yoga).

n.187 Bṭ1, pp. 761–62: “From ‘Śāradvatīputra, bodhisattva great beings who practice accordingly are said to engage with the perfection of wisdom, but, even though they practice the perfection of wisdom in that manner, they do not observe that they are either “engaged” or “not engaged” with physical forms’ up to ‘In this way, Śāradvatīputra, because all phenomena are without conjunction or disjunction, bodhisattva great beings are said to engage with the perfection of wisdom’ is an explanation presenting in a different form their entering into the defining mark of engagement on account of having abandoned the notion that they are engaging or not engaging, because they themselves have no notion that they are those who are doing something and because they do not have the wrong view of a self. From ‘Moreover, Śāradvatīputra, when bodhisattva great beings practice the perfection of wisdom, they neither cause emptiness to engage with nor to disengage from emptiness,’ up to ‘They neither cause wishlessness to engage with nor to disengage from wishlessness, nor the yogic practice of wishlessness’ is the three gateways to liberation. It teaches the defining mark of engaging as the abandonment of the notion of causing engagement or causing disengagement. Were there to be some attribute ‘emptiness’ that is an existent thing it might be possible to cause engagement and cause disengagement with something other than that emptiness, but because some attribute ‘emptiness’ that is an existent thing is not established at all they do not cause emptiness to engage with emptiness, nor disengage from it. Take ‘nor the yogic practice of emptiness with the emptiness meditative stability. It is saying that the meditative stability that is an existent thing also does not exist, so they do not cause the meditative stability to engage with it or disengage from it. Construe signlessness and wishlessness in the same way. ‘If you ask why, it is because there is neither conjunction nor disjunction in emptiness,’ and so on, teach the reason why the three gateways to liberation are not existent things.” Cf. Bṭ3 4.293.

n.188 “Enter into” (’jug) and the immediately following “understanding” (khong du chud) both render forms of the same verb avatṛ (Z, p. 394; PSP 1–1.66).

- n.189 This means the emptiness of the defining marks particular to specific dharmas. This emptiness comes after “the emptiness of all phenomena” in the list of emptinesses. Bṭ1, p. 762: “It teaches that they neither engage with nor disengage from the five aggregates and so on, because their own intrinsic defining characteristics are not established.”
- n.190 “Associate with” (sbyor) and the earlier “cause to engage” (bsdud) render the same word yojayati, a causal form of yuj. Each of the phenomena, starting with physical forms, is a basis for designating a “bodhisattva.” The negation is of the bodhisattva, at any level, and when enlightened, causing the engagement of any of the phenomena, that are the basis on which they are labeled a person, with its definition, for instance, or with a particular time period and so on.
- n.191 Z, p. 394 (22v11), [try]adhvasamatāśūnyatām upādāya. Ghoṣa, p. 168, “because of the sameness of the [three] times” (adhvasamānatā upādāya); PSP, 1–1:67, “because of the emptiness of time” (adhvaśūnyatām upādāya).
- n.192 PSP, 1–1:67, evaṃ yujyamānaḥ; Gilgit, Ghoṣa evaṃ yukta (Eighteen Thousand, ka 31b3 (3.36), brston), “engage.”
- n.193 Ghoṣa, p. 168, and Z, p. 395 sarvajñatā; the Twenty-Five Thousand’s rnam pa thams cad mkhyen pa is Kimura, 1–1:67, sarvākārājñatā.
- n.194 Here, and in all the following, the eva (Tib nyid: “the very,” “the actual”) has not been rendered separately in English.
- n.195 Ghoṣa, p. 175, adhyātmaśūnyatām eva. It is not possible to write stong pa nyid nyid in Tib.
- n.196 This is the reading in all versions, including the S Hundred Thousand, ka 180a7. It is also the reading in the following mtshan ma med pa section. In the smon pa med pa section that follows that, however, it reverts to listing all the fruits, starting from the fruit of having entered the stream, and leaves out “omniscience” (sarvajñatā).
- n.197 “Stable” and “unstable,” or “secure” and “insecure,” render sāra and durbala. The Eighteen Thousand, 33a7 (3.41), has snying po can and nyam chung ba, “strong” or “weak.”
- n.198 Gilgit, 24v8, but with nopaiti; the Eighteen Thousand, 33b2 (3.42), has khas mi len (“does not assert”) (since the plural “bodhisattva great beings” is used, this is “do not assert”) in place of mi dmigs pa (“does not apprehend”). Ghoṣa omits.

- n.199 Gilgit, 25r4–5, and the Eighteen Thousand, 3.43 put “the emptiness of nonarising” after “the emptiness of all phenomena” in the list of emptinesses. (In the Eighteen Thousand these are actually rendered “the emptiness of all dharmas” followed by “the emptiness of the unproduced.”) They both, together with Ghoṣa, p. 250, omit “the emptiness of nonceasing.” Kimura, 1–1:72, tacks on the emptinesses of bhāva, abhāva, svabhāva, and parabhāva in place of these two emptinesses. The order in the list, from “the perfection of generosity” down to “the very limit of reality,” is problematic.
- n.200 “Different sorts of miraculous ability,” the different kinds of them, or performances of them, renders rdzu 'phrul gyi rnam pa; Ghoṣa, p. 252, and Kimura, 1–1:72, ṛddhividhi.
- n.201 This renders Ghoṣa, p. 252, sarvākāraṇi sarvābhijñā upalapsyate, not as “all extrasensory powers” but as “extrasensory powers that know all.”
- n.202 “Have been born” renders skyes par gyur pa (upapanna).
- n.203 The reading here, Gilgit, 25v4–5, pradakṣiṇībhavanti (mtshun par 'grub po), is discussed by Z, p. 232, n. 142; Bṭ1, p. 772, glosses “without being falsely imagined” as “establish without hesitation or doubt.”
- n.204 Dutt, p. 55, and Ghoṣa, p. 256, doṣa; Z, p. 398, roga (“sickness”).
- n.205 Bṭ1, p. 774, says “conjoin” and “separate,” and “come together” and “not come together” are synonyms.
- n.206 Here the “phenomenon” (dharma) is a property—specifically, something’s emptiness—and the “phenomena” in “realm of phenomena” means the totality of all those properties taken together. Everything (confusingly called sarvadharmāḥ, “all phenomena,” by which is meant sarvadharmiṇaḥ, “all things that have a property”) has the property of, or is qualified by, its emptiness.
- n.207 This borrows from Z’s translation, p. 359, n. 178.
- n.208 The Twenty-Five Thousand, 2.155, renders this, “This is because they do not observe anything at all by which anything could be comprehended, and also because they do not engage with the notion that the realm of phenomena is empty, and nor do they engage with the notion that it is not empty.” Taking the thing that has a phenomenon = property (dharma), or the thing that has a property/phenomenon (dharmin) as the realm of phenomena, and taking empty and not empty as the possible properties qualifying it, in the absence of the thing being qualified (or because the thing being qualified and the qualification are ultimately the same) they could not “associate” or join the two together.

- n.209 It is not clear whether the emphasis is on the fact that beings, as the object of empathy, are unproduced, or that bodhisattvas as practitioners of the perfection of wisdom are unproduced, an ambiguity retained in LSPW and Z’s translation “through the fact of the nonproduction of a being.” The Twenty-Five Thousand, 2.160, has “based on [the truth that] beings are nonarising.”
- n.210 Gilgit, 27r9, and Kimura 1–1:79. Ghoṣa, p. 266, has “perfection of wisdom” in place of “emptiness.”
- n.211 This renders bsnyen bkur byed par ’gyur (ārāgayati).
- n.212 This last statement from PSP, 1–1: 80, tasyāpi pañutarāṇīndriyāṇi bhavanti, is only found in D. All the other editions of the Hundred Thousand, as well as D Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 2.163, omit. Gilgit, 27v7, and Ghoṣa, p. 266, omit.
- n.213 PSP, 1–1: 80, avipramuṣita; LSPW, “of which he never loses sight”; Ghoṣa, p. 267, avipranaṣṭa.
- n.214 This is a slightly abbreviated version of the passage associated with the (candidate for) stream enterer at PSP, 1–1: 81: santi śāradvatīputra bodhisattvā mahāsattvāḥ prajñāpāramitāyāṃ caranto ghaṇāmānā vyāyacchantāḥ sattva-paripākāyopāyakausālyabalena srotaāpattiphalaṃ sāṅgāt kurvanti, na ca tena manyante (where ghaṇāmānā vyāyacchantāḥ? is rendered at le’u brgyad ma, ga 69a1–2, as sbyor ba la brtson par byed pa la, “persevering at the practice”). This is omitted from Gilgit, Ghoṣa, the other editions of the Kangyur, and from the Twenty-Five Thousand, 2.165, and the Eighteen Thousand, 3.59.
- n.215 tshe’i tshul bzhin du gnas, literally “remaining in the mode of a life”; the Eighteen Thousand, 3.66, has “for as long as they live.”
- n.216 Gilgit, 29r1. Cp. Ghoṣa, p. 271, probably a mistake.
- n.217 Kimura, 1–1:82, tataś cyut[v?]ā; Ghoṣa, p. 271, and Gilgit, 29r5, omit.
- n.218 Tib rnam par mnan pa means “to press down on,” but Gilgit, 29b4–5, viṣkadya viṣkandya; Ghoṣa, p. 273, viṣkadya; Kimura, 1–1, avaskandakena. The Eighteen Thousand, ka 40b2 (3.75), thod rgal du means “leaping above.”
- n.219 PSP, 1–1: 84, cakravartino bhūtvā; Twenty-Five Thousand 2.187 omits.
- n.220 PSP, 1–1: 84, maṇimuktāsuvārṇarūpyappravāḍa.

n.222 le'u brgyad ma, ga 72a1–5, and PSP 1–1: 84–85: yāvad daśakuśalakarmapatheṣu sattvān pratiṣṭhāpya brahmakāyikeṣu yāvad akaniṣṭheṣu deveṣūpapadyamānā nānā-buddhakṣetreṣv anuttarāṃ samyaksaṃbodhim abhisambudhyante. ity akaniṣṭhaparamaḥ. santi śāradvatīputra bodhisattvā mahāsattvā ye catvāri dhyānāni niṣpādyā dhyānebhyaḥ parihīṇāḥ prathamam dhyānam āsādyā (the translators read āsvādyā, ro myongs) brahmakāyikeṣu deveṣūpapadyante, te punar dhyānāni niṣpādyākaniṣṭheṣūpapadya nānābuddhakṣetreṣv anuttarāṃ samyaksaṃbodhim abhisambudhyante. iti plutaḥ. santi śāradvatīputra bodhisattvā mahāsattvā ye brahmalokāc cyutvā śuddhāvāseṣūpapadyante, te śuddhāvāsānām ekaṃ vā dve vā sthāne vīlaṅghyākaniṣṭheṣu deveṣūpapadya nānābuddhakṣetreṣv anuttarāṃ samyaksaṃbodhim abhisambudhyante. Haribhadra connects this with the first two of the three akaniṣṭhaparama (“those intent on Akaniṣṭha”), namely, the pluta (“floaters”) and ardhapluta (“floaters over half”). This is omitted from Gilgit, Ghoṣa, the other editions of the Kangyur, and the Twenty-Five Thousand and Eighteen Thousand.

n.223 This line takes up again from the le'u brgyad ma, ga 72b5, and PSP, 1–1: 85 eka-jātipratibaddhāś ca bodhisattvā mahāsattvās tatra tatra buddhakṣetreṣūpapadya nānā-buddhakṣetreṣv anuttarāṃ samyaksaṃbodhim abhisambudhyante, which Haribhadra connects with the sarvasthānacyuta (“those who die in every place”), the third of the three divisions of the akaniṣṭhaparama (“those intent on Akaniṣṭha”). The reader is supposed to connect this last sentence with all ten directions. It is omitted from Gilgit, Ghoṣa, the other editions of the Hundred Thousand in the Kangyur, and from the Twenty-Five Thousand and Eighteen Thousand, as are the following two paragraphs also found at PSP, 1-1: 86, and the le'u brgyad ma, ga 72b6–7.

n.224 D has omitted the snyoms par 'jug pa (PSP, 1-1: 86, dhyānārūpyasamāpattīr) as has le'u brgyad ma, ga 72b6, where this is rendered gzugs med par sgrub par byed pa.

n.225 Cf. Ghoṣa, p. 280, and Gilgit, 30v9, durgativinipātaṃ prapatanti; PSP, 1-1: 86, apāyadurgativinipāteṣu; and le'u brgyad ma, ga 73a7, ngan song ngan 'gro log par ltung ba rnam su.

n.226 Alternatively, “Śāradvatīputra, there are bodhisattva great beings standing in the six perfections who illuminate the darkness of beings with wrong views with the illumination of the buddhadharmas, and they never separate themselves from the illumination of the buddhadharmas up until they fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete awakening.”

- n.227 This is PSP, 1-1: 87–88. Haribhadra, having connected the immediately preceding passage with “candidates for arhatship” (arhattvapratipannaka), connects this with pratyekabuddhas. Again, it is omitted from Gilgit, Ghoṣa, the other editions of the Kangyur, and the Twenty-Five Thousand 2.197 and Eighteen Thousand 3.96.
- n.228 Ghoṣa, p. 281, and Gilgit, 31r5, ayaṃ śāradvatīputra bodhisattvānāṃ mahāsattvānāṃ [sam]udayo buddhadharmmeṣu. PSP, 1–1: 87, omits.
- n.229 “Basic” means an immorality not contingent on a prior commitment to a code of conduct.
- n.230 Ghoṣa, p. 286, ātmabhāva; alternatively, “become possessed of the sort of personality.”
- n.231 According to traditional Indian cosmology, our human world of Patient Endurance (sahāloka dhātu, mi mjed 'jig rten gyi khams) is said to comprise four continents (caturdvīpa, gling bzhi), namely Pūrvavideha (lus 'phags) in the east, Jambudvīpa in the south, Aparagodānīya (ba glang spyod) in the west, and Uttarakuru (sgra mi snyan) in the north. A single world system (cakravāla) extends from the realms of the hells, anguished spirits, and animals, through the human abodes, and through the celestial domains of the six god realms belonging to the realm of desire, the seventeen god realms of the realm of form, and the four activity fields of the realm of formlessness. In association with the four meditative concentrations, this single world system multiplies incrementally: the thousandfold world system (sāhasraloka dhātu, stong 'gi 'jig rten gyi khams) comprises one thousand such parallel worlds, the millionfold world system (dvisāhasramadhyamaloka dhātu, stong gnyis pa 'jig rten gyi khams 'bring po) one thousand of those, and the great billionfold world (trisāhasra-mahāsāhasraloka dhātu, stong sum gyi stong chen po'i 'jig rten gyi khams) one thousand of those yet again. For an analysis of the divergent traditions associated with this cosmology, see Kloetzli 1983, pp. 23–90.
- n.232 “All within range” has been added to the English translation here and below to make the meaning easier to understand.
- n.233 “Know” is supplied from Kimura 1–1:94–5; Ghoṣa, p. 297, jānāti / yat kañcit samudayadharmmaṃ sarvaṃ taṃ nirodhadharmmeti veditvā.
- n.234 This is the forbearance (kṣānti, bzod pa) for the truth that phenomena are nonarising, the realization that whatever the attainment, it has no intrinsic nature. An alternative translation is “receptiveness.”

- n.235 This is the vow, while sitting under the Bodhi tree at the site of awakening, not to arise from meditation until perfectly and completely awakened.
- n.236 Gilgit, 34r12, and Dutt āsannasthāyin. Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 75a3 (2.230); Eighteen Thousand, ka 48b5, (3.123); and le'u brgyad ma, ga 81a7, nye bar gnas. Ghoṣa, p. 300, āsattvasthāyin; Edg, s.v. āsattvasthāyin, “abiding until the coming into existence” of the buddhas.
- n.237 Here, “in their final rebirth” renders srid pa tha ma pa (caramabhavika). A srid pa (bhava) is “an existence”; elsewhere rendered “process of rebirth” or just “existence.”
- n.238 Ghoṣa, p. 301, janayitrī (“genetrix”).
- n.239 Edg, s.v. pratyanubhavati (2) says “uncertain whether mg. is experiences, enjoys ... or gets”; cf. Daśabhūmikasūtra (Rahder, pp. 34–36).
- n.240 The reading here has “broad” (yangs pa) without the Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 77a4-5, (2.236) “narrow” (dog pa'i sems la dog dog pa'i sems).
- n.241 Gilgit, 35v2, has “collected” and “distracted” (saṃkṣipta and vikṣipta), and “circumscribed” and “expanded” (parīṭṭa and vipulā), followed by “has gotten bigger” (mahadgata) and “immeasurable” (apramāṇa), apparently as opposites. The Twenty-Five Thousand 2.236 renders “has gotten bigger” (che bar gyur pa) by “evolving.” Kimura, 1–1:99, does not have apramāṇa.
- n.242 This renders rnam pa dang bcas (sākāra) gtan tshigs dang bcas (Kimura, 1–1:100, sāḍṛśa; Gilgit, 35v11, sodeśa; Ghoṣa, p. 304, soddeśa) ngan rtags dang bcas (sadoṣa?). The Twenty-Five Thousand 2.237 accepts the variant reading found in KPD, vol. 26, n. 2 (Yongle and Peking), don rtags (sanirdeśaṃ), and renders it “indications.”
- n.243 Bṭ1, p. 807: “Take ‘unlimited’ (ananta) with having forsaken the two limits (extremes) of superimposition and overnegation. They do not superimpose that there is ultimately an existent thing, and do not conventionally overnegate as nonexistence. ‘Because their minds are unattached (anavagṛhītacittatām upādāya)’ means they do not have a wrong view of, or settle down on, all three—the giver, the recipient, and the material gift— as existent things. Put it together as this: when they give without superimposing and overnegating, and when the three circles [i.e., the giver, the recipient, and the material gift] are purified, they cleanse the path to the knowledge of all aspects.”
- n.244 Emend (or read) the Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 80b5 (2.245), dben to (or as) dpen.

- n.245 Ghoṣa, p. 308, and Gilgit, 37r11–12, yathāprāvṛtaiś cīvarair bhagavantam abhicchādayanti sma; Kimura, 1–1:103, yathāvṛtaiś cīvarair abhicchādayām āsur. Tib renders abhicchādaya with yon du gsol ba, in the sense of making a payment for a received teaching. The sense of the Skt abhicchāday (“to cover”) is to cover or shower someone with gifts. All the Skt versions have nuns (bhikṣuṇī, dge slong ma) rather than monks, which makes good sense.
- n.246 The Skt editions all have Mahāketu, not Mahāśrī; dpal is not attested as rendering ketu (the expected rendering is the Eighteen Thousand, ka 53b3 (3.-147), me tog) in any of the reference works consulted. It is presumably an old translation, but has been translated literally.
- n.247 In the Daśabhūmika, myi sgul ba (Acala?) is the rendering not of Akṣobhya but of Avicālya.
- n.248 This is a literal translation. The Twenty-Five Thousand (2.248) renders this, “Let us generate the merits through which we will be reborn in those buddhafiels.”
- n.249 Emend D thug to K thub; Gilgit, 38r6, anavamardanīya; Ghoṣa, p. 311, anavamṛdya; Lokesh Candra, Sanskrit Tibetan Dictionary, International Academy of Indian Culture, 2007, s.v. anavamṛdya.
- n.250 Tib de’i slad du is an honorific form of de’i phyir that means both “because of/on account of that/those” and “to that end” (Twenty-Five Thousand 2.255 (ka 82b4)) depending on context. Gilgit, 38r6, and Kimura, 1–1:105, tair; Eighteen Thousand, ka 54b (4.2), de dag gis, Large Sutra, p. 93; Ghoṣa, p. 311, tena.
- n.251 Twenty-Five Thousand 2.265 omits.
- n.252 Bṭ1, p. 812: “For the happiness of perfect separation” means, at the time of nirvāṇa, excellently separated from both afflictive obstruction and obstruction to knowing; Edgerton, s.v. visaṃyoga.
- n.253 Twenty-Five Thousand 2.272 renders these “coral flowers, large coral flowers, crocuses, and mangosteen leaves.”
- n.254 In place of dpung pa’i rus pa, Eighteen Thousand 6.16 has lag pa, “arm.”
- n.255 It is “outer” in the sense of the environment seen from the perspective of a perceiving subject.
- n.256 Emend kyis to kyi.

- n.257 Ghoṣa, p. 334, tadyathāpi nāma subhūte atītānāṃ buddhānāṃ bhagavatāṃ yāvad eva nāma mātram tiṣṭhati; Kimura, 1–1:114, omits.
- n.258 The “phenomena” are the aggregates, sense fields, and sensory elements listed in the previous paragraphs. To not “mentally construct” or “conceptualize” any phenomenon means without projecting onto any of them an intrinsic nature or absolute truth. The earlier list of phenomena is now expanded to include all the dharmas, including those associated with bodhisattvas and buddhas.
- n.259 Ghoṣa, p. 372, samyakprahāṇabhāvanāyai supports reading phyir as a dative of purpose but it accidentally omits smṛtyupasthāna.
- n.260 Ghoṣa, p. 381, tathā hi te sarvavadharmā na saṃvidyante / yañ cābhiniṣeta / yena vābhiniṣeta / yatra vābhiniṣeta. Bṭ1, p. 823: “This means that the name that might be attached, the attachment on account of which it might be attached, and the thing that it might be attached to—they all do not ultimately exist.”
- n.261 Again, this rendering of skyon med pa incorporates the creative etymology of nyāma from ni plus āma (“raw”). If derived from niyāma it is “the secure state of a bodhisattva.”
- n.262 See 3.4, when Subhūti asks his opening questions.
- n.263 Bṭ1, p. 825, glosses “in physical forms” (gzugs la, rūpe) and “in a bodhisattva” with “basis and based on” (gzhi dang gnas).
- n.264 gzugs med pa zhig; PSP, 1-1: 132, arūpo, Ghoṣa, p. 382, ārūpi.
- n.265 In the Tibetan corresponding to this paragraph, both for this text and for the Twenty-Five Thousand (3.180), the many instances of Sanskrit dhātu have been translated as the Tibetan dbyings rather than *kham*s, which would be much more usual in the context of the basic constituents of a sentient being including the sensory elements, etc. We have nevertheless interpreted chos kyi dbyings (dharmadhātu) in this passage as referring to the sensory element of mental phenomena rather than to the “realm of phenomena” in its wider sense; see the glossary definition for “realm of phenomena.” It is not clear why the Tibetan translators preferred the term dbyings here.
- n.266 Ghoṣa, p. 471, and Kimura, 1–1:146, prajñāpayitum is rendered gdags (“to designate”) but can be rendered literally by “make known”; a prajñāpti (gdags pa) is a “designation,” “representation,” or “concept.”

- n.267 byang chub kyi sems, Gilgit, 472, bodhicitta, in place of the Twenty-Five Thousand's (3.181) byang chub sems dpa'i sems ("the mind of bodhisattvas"). Kimura, 1–1:147, omits.
- n.268 Here the Twenty-Five Thousand (4.2) adds na ba, "ill health."
- n.269 "Shoulder ornament" renders dpung rgyan (keyūma), "upper arm bracelet," which is a royal insignia of victory.
- n.270 skyon chen po. le'u brgyad ma has rtse mo'i skyon; the Eighteen Thousand has skyon gyi spyi gtsug. Edg, s.v. mūdhāma, comments on Ghōṣa's reading skyon med pa, nyāma. Note that when nyāma is understood as niyāma it means "secure," "fixed," "definite."
- n.271 Here "immaturity," skyon chen po (mūdhāma), is contrasted with the "maturity," skyon med pa (nyāma, niyāma), that comes below.
- n.272 "Maturity" renders skyon med pa.
- n.273 Alternatively, dharmatrṣṇā may mean "craving for the dharmas" listed below.
- n.274 "Impediment" renders gcod pa; Gilgit, 52v12, nīcaraṇa?
- n.275 All the Tib editions of the Hundred Thousand omit sams; Ghōṣa, Kimura, and Gilgit all have citta, as does the Twenty-Five Thousand ("mindsets of the śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas").
- n.276 The absence of thams cad shes pa here, not just from D but from all the other versions (including gser bri ma, kha 79a) is noteworthy. Below (kha 9b (5.389)) thams cad shes pa is included in the list.
- n.277 Alternatively, "a direct eyewitness to the attributes who witnesses with the body," as in the Vṛtti of Ārya Vimuktisena (Pensa edition, p. 44): "Non-returners who have attained the cessation absorption are called those who witness with the body because they witness a nirvāṇa-like dharma with their body. Why do they witness with their body? Because it is produced based on the body, since they are without thought (cittābhāva)."
- n.278 "Without afflicted mental states" renders araṇa; raṇa generally means "conflict," so a more literal translation of araṇa would be "without conflict." The translation reflects the Tibetan, which is nyon mongs pa med pa.
- n.279 "Even" renders kyang (api). "Those" is only added because of the requirements of English syntax, but this reading is corroborated by Gilgit, 53r10: śrāvakahūmav api śīkṣitukāmenāyusmansubhūte iyam eva prajñāpāramitā prayatnataḥ, etc. However, Kimura, 1–1:155, śrāvakabhūmāv api āyusman subhūte śikṣitukāmena bodhisattvena mahāsattvena iyaṃ eva prajñāpāramitā; Ghoṣa, p. 503, śrāvakabhūmāv api śikṣitukāmenāyusman subhūte bodhisattvena mahāsattvena; and the Eighteen Thousand (7.30) explicitly say “bodhisattva great beings,” a reading with substantively different implications.

- n.280 This is the same as Eighteen Thousand 8.1; Twenty-Five Thousand 5.1 omits.
- n.281 This renders Gilgit, 53v3, and Ghoṣa, p. 504, na sthitaṃ na viṣṭhitaṃ nādhīṣṭhitaṃ, literally “do not stand, do not not stand, and do not stand above.” Kimura, 1-1:156, differs. Bṭ1, p. 851, explains the three words as follows: “ ‘Blessed Lord, even those names are unstable, intangible, and powerless’ and so on. Even those names bodhisattva and perfection of wisdom are not real bases fit to be spoken, so it is teaching the elimination of the two extremes of ‘stable’ and ‘unstable.’ Were a real basis to exist, there are two alternatives: it would, as a conditioned phenomenon like a physical form and so on, be stable in a place or region, or, as an unconditioned phenomenon like space and so on, not be stable in a place or region. Hence, it is teaching that, insofar as those names are without real bases, they are not stable, and hence they are also not not stable. ‘Intangible’ means they are not even unstable. ‘Powerless’ means they are not, having eliminated both the extremes of stable and unstable, powerful [=super-stable (adhīṣṭhita)], stable, as a real basis that is not stable and is not not stable. Thus, having briefly taught the elimination of the overreification and overnegation from the perspective of both a bodhisattva and a perfection of wisdom that have or do not have a real basis, and the practice separated from grasping at the two extremes of the name bodhisattva and the name perfection of wisdom being stable and not stable,” etc.
- n.282 The order of terms beginning with “realm of phenomena” is the order found at Ghoṣa, p. 544, and Kimura, 1–1:159 (dharmadhātu, tathāgata / tathatā, bhūtakotī, dharmmasthititā, dharmmaniyāmatā). Twenty-Five Thousand 5.12 follows the order at Kimura, 1–2:56, but with dharmadhātu given twice in the same list.
- n.283 The reading in Ghoṣa is kiṃ na tad ity ucyate (“Why is it not called that?”), and na should probably be emended to ca.
- n.284 Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 130a (5.13), has btags par bstan (“teach to be a designation”) in place of brtags par bstan.
- n.285 Here “reason” renders don gyi dbang. It intends the nexus between a basis of designation (in this case all the phenomena beginning with physical forms) and a thing designated (in this case the bodhisattva, or, more exactly, the term bodhisattva), each avoiding overreification and overnegation, respectively.

- n.286 Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 135a (5.22), adds the meditative stabilities and the extrasensory powers here; Ghoṣa, p. 565, omits.
- n.287 N, K; D omits.
- n.288 Bṭ1, p. 878: “There, in ‘they should not dwell in syllables,’ they should not dwell by viewing the syllables, the seed syllables a and so on, as existent things. ‘They should not dwell in syllable accomplishments.’ Syllable accomplishment is the production of the knowledge that causes the realization of the meaning, anutpāda (‘nonproduction’), after resorting to the seed syllable a, and so on, used as a dhāraṇī. This teaches that they should not stand there either. That dhāraṇī knowledge is a product of such explanations as ‘a is the door to all dharmas because they are unproduced from the very beginning.’ That statement of the seed syllable, furthermore, becomes a condition for full awakening when certain bodhisattva great beings with sharp faculties resort to and have meditated on the single meaning of nonproduction. It becomes a condition for full awakening when those with middling faculties resort to two syllables and have become familiar with two statements. And it becomes a condition for full awakening when many statements become a condition for full awakening when those with dull faculties resort to them and have become familiar with them. Hence it says ‘they should not dwell in singular expressions, dual expressions, or plural expressions.’ ”
- n.289 “The notion that physical forms are impermanent” renders Ghoṣa, p. 568, rūpam anityam iti.
- n.290 The inclusion of thams cad shes pa nyid in the list here is noteworthy. Ghoṣa, p. 601, omits.
- n.291 The list omits thams cad shes pa nyid (“knowledge of all the dharmas”; lit. “omniscience”).
- n.292 “Investigate” renders Ghoṣa, p. 613, vyupaparīkṣa. The Tibetan is brtag (the future tense form of rtog pa). For an alternate rendering, see Twenty-Five Thousand 5.50: “determine that all phenomena are the emptiness ... determine that there is no mental wandering.”
- n.293 D tshad ma mchis par nges pa. Ghoṣa, p. 613, niyata (nges pa). The “immeasurable” here is enlightenment.

- n.294 Ghoṣa, p. 615, and Kimura, 1–1:172, sarvavajñāñāne.
- n.295 The list omits thams cad shes pa nyid.
- n.296 LSPW, p. 135; Twenty-Five Thousand 5.56; le'u brgyad ma, ga 145b1; PSP, 1-1: 173; and Ghoṣa, p. 633, apārapāragatām.
- n.297 Ghoṣa, p. 681, satatasamitam (khör zug rtag par); cf. Jäschke s.v. khör mo yug.
- n.298 Bṭ1, p. 904: “Because of philosophical error they have a philosophical view of, and are intent on [or believe in], a physical form that is an existing thing. Because of perceptual error, they grasp the mental image of good or bad and so on. Because of mental error they are attached to [or settle down on] and possess the functioning reality (dnogs po) of physical form. ‘They engage in the conditioning of physical forms.’ This means that when they thus, because of such philosophical error, perceptual error, and mental error, see a physical form that is an existing thing and practice like that, they make a physical form a conditioned thing that will arise and cease and so on and do not practice the perfection of wisdom.” Bṭ3 4.612, explaining the three in the different order found at Eighteen Thousand, ka 88a (9.6), says: “ ‘Possess’ (gnas, adhisthā), ‘form a notion’ (kun tu shes, saṃjñā), and ‘believe’ (mos, adhimuc) in form. They ‘possess’ because of mental (citta) error, ‘form a notion’ (‘du shes, saṃjñā) because of perceptual error, and ‘believe’ (lta ba, dṛṣṭi) because of philosophical error.” See also Bṭ3, n.591.
- n.299 “Actualize” renders mngon du bya ba. Ghoṣa, p. 764, sākṣāt karttuṃ (“directly witness”).
- n.300 This renders the Tib based on Gilgit, 59v10–11, and Ghoṣa, p. 765, where there are just the separate statements (rūpaṃ) na carati and (rūpaṃ) asya nimitte na carati. Alternatively, the lhag bcas in mi spyod de and the cing in mi spyod cing may suggest “they do not engage with physical forms, which is to say (de), they do not engage with mental images of physical forms; (cing) they do not engage with the notion that physical forms are permanent,” and so on, making clear that permanence and so on are the nimittas.
- n.301 The eighteen sensory elements (dhātu) begin here because the set of twelve sense fields (āyatana), which come after the five aggregates (skandha), are complete.
- n.302 The presence of thams cad shes pa nyid (sarvavajñatā) here is noteworthy.
- n.303 The translators evidently read upalabh in place of upe or understood upe as upalabh. The Mvy does not attest dmigs as a translation of upe in any of its forms.

- n.304 This renders de; Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 152a (6.14), cing. Cf. Gilgit, 60r11–12, anupādattā; Ghoṣa, p. 825, and Kimura, 1–1:182, (tena) anupāttah.
- n.305 Twenty-Five Thousand 6.16 has ngo bo nyid med pa (“are without intrinsic nature”).
- n.306 Alternatively, “assured of the crest of the victory banner.”
- n.307 This meditative stability named excellently well established and the following meditative stabilities named well-engaging king of meditative stabilities, diffusion of light rays, without mistakes, because of the diffusion of light rays not making mistakes, and power of effort (rab tu bde bar gnas pa, ting nge 'dzin gyi rgyal po bde bar 'jug pa, 'od zer rab tu 'gyed pa, 'khrul pa med pa, 'od zer rab tu 'gyed pas 'khrul pa med par byed pa, and brtson pa'i stobs) are probably the result of a cascade of copying errors. They are missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand; from Gilgit, 60v4–5, Ghoṣa, p. 826, and Kimura, 1–1:183; and are not found in the Mvy. In the later list (8.109) they are missing from Ghoṣa, p. 1267, and are omitted from the Choné Kangyur.
- n.308 Eighteen Thousand 7.8, rājamudra. Missing from the Twenty-Five Thousand's list, and from Gilgit, 60v6, Ghoṣa, p. 826, and Kimura, 1–1:183.
- n.309 Eighteen Thousand 7.8, trimaṇḍalapariśuddha. Missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand, and from Gilgit, 60v6, Ghoṣa, p. 826, and Kimura, 1–1:183.
- n.310 This and the next are missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand. They may simply be intended or accidental alternative renderings of simha-vijṛmbhita, which can mean a lion's yawn and a lion's stretch. Mvy gives forms of prasṛ like prasāraṇa (“spreading,” “stretching out,” “extending”) for forms of rkyong, and gives glal as rendering forms of (vi)jṛmbh.
- n.311 Myv attests both snrel zhi and snrel gzhi. Mvy snrel zhi snyoms par 'jug pa renders vyāstakrantakasamāpatti. dag yig gsar bsgrigs, Zi ling: Mtsho sngon mi rigs dpe bskrun khang, 2003, glosses this as “crowning” (thod rgal ba'i don), equating vyatyasta with vyāstakrantaka = vyākrantaka or vyutkrānta.
- n.312 This is missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand, and from Gilgit 60v7–8, Ghoṣa p. 826, and Kimura 1-1:183.
- n.313 This is missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.314 Skt MSS have śuddhāvāsa (pure abode) or śuddhābhāsa (pure illumination); however, Kimura gives śuddhasāra in a later list, and this is the reading adopted here.

- n.315 This is missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.316 This renders D jig pa, C 'jigs pa ("fearless"), also in the Twenty-Five Thousand, perhaps reading vibhaya in place of Gilgit, 60v10, and Ghoṣa vivarṇa; Kimura vivṛta.
- n.317 This is missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.318 This is missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand. Gilgit, Ghoṣa, and Kimura omit.
- n.319 This renders chos kyis 'phags pa (dharmodgata); cf. the Twenty-Five Thousand's chos kyī 'phags pa, g.1081.
- n.320 This and the following two meditative stabilities are missing the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand, and from Gilgit, Ghoṣa, and Kimura.
- n.321 This, rnam par nges pa (viniścaya*), and the following meditative stability are missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.322 Alternatively, where objective supports have been cut off. Gilgit, 60v14, āraṃbanaccheda; Ghoṣa, p. 831, and Kimura, 1–1:184, āvaraṇa ("obscuration").
- n.323 This meditative stability named entering into names and signs and the following named free from activity are missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.324 nges par gnas pa, Kimura (consistently with tathatā) sthitaniścita. Cf. the Twenty-Five Thousand and Eighteen Thousand, ka 152ab (15.105), sems med par gnas pa, and Ghoṣa, p. 832, sthitaniścitta, (abiding without mentation).
- n.325 This renders gnas su bya ba med pa, niradhiṣṭhāna ("without anything to serve as a foundation").
- n.326 This is missing from list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.327 This compound is rendered slightly differently in the Twenty-Five Thousand (g.212).
- n.328 This and the next six meditative stabilities are missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand. The name of the bodhisattva Ratnagarbha is rendered rin chen snying po ("Jewel Heart").
- n.329 This renders mngon par dmigs pa med pa; alternatively, "without a manifest objective support."

- n.330 This is missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.331 This is missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.332 This and the next four are missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.333 This differs slightly from the name in the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand (g.- 1114).
- n.334 This and the next two are missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.335 This assumes kun tu rtog pa is derived not from saṃklp but from saṃvikṣ.
- n.336 This is missing from the list in the Twenty-Five Thousand.
- n.337 I.e., of all phenomena.
- n.338 “Fixated” renders chags par bya ba, Ghoṣa p. 842 abhiniviṣṭāḥ.
- n.339 Skt vid means both “exist” and “know”; saṃvid has the same two meanings, perhaps intensified (“completely exist” or “completely know”). In Skt, therefore, the sentence means, at one and the same time: “As they are not known, so are they known. Thus, not being known, one says ‘ignorance,’ ” and, “As they do not exist, so do they exist. Thus, not existing, one says ‘not existing.’ ”
- n.340 Ghoṣa, p. 863, adds “great loving kindness” here.
- n.341 Gn1, p. 916: “when ordinary foolish people mistakenly see the nonexistent as existent they imagine and become fixated on all sorts of various things.”
- n.342 Ghoṣa, p. 877, niryāti (“are not emancipated in” or “do not go forth to”); Kimura, 1–1:190, niryāsyati. The Tib ’byung ba has been rendered both by “go forth [to]” and by “emancipated [in],” depending on the context.
- n.343 Ghoṣa, p. 905, saṃjñāsamajñāprajñaptivyavahārah. Āryavimuktisena (Pensa 69, translated Sparham vol. 1, p. 75) says, “A saṃjñā (=notion, name) is the word for the causal sign (nimitta) of something; a samajñā (=symbol, denomination, literally ‘same knowledge’) is the word for the knowledge ‘me’ that goes in tandem with (saṃeta) the something (as in ‘I see the form with my eye,’ etc.). A prajñapti (=designation) is the representation (vijñāpana) within which there is settling on known and knowledge as object and subject. A vyavahāra (term, conventional expression) is [the Bodhisattva as mere] different (vividha) activity (vyavahāra) connected with things received or not received from others.”

- n.344 “Denomination” renders nāmaprajñapti (ming du gdags pa); cp. dharmaprajñapti (“designation for something”). The idea is that a name, as much as the named, is also just designated.
- n.345 “Are in their essential nature no essence” renders dngos po ma mchis pa'i rang bzhin (abhāvasvabhāvaḥ). In the list of emptinesses this abhāvasvabhāvaḥ is consistently rendered dngos po med pa'i ngo bo nyid (“essential nature of nonentities”).
- n.346 “Find agreeable” renders mos pa (rocana); Conze has “find pleasure in.”
- n.347 Cp. Ghoṣa, p. 923, tasyā yā teṣāṃ sarvākārajñatāpratisaṃyuktānāṃ manasikārāṇāṃ anutsarjanatā anikṣiptadhuratā iyaṃ bodhisattvasya mahāsattvasya vīryapāramitā.
- n.348 “Deny any opportunity for ... to impede” (bgegs su 'gyur ba ... skabs [alternatively] go mi 'byed pa, na ... tad; avakāśaṃ dadati ... ye paripanthakārāḥ).
- n.349 This renders the past passive participle in active voice. Literally it says they have “been fully taken hold of” (yongs su zin pa, parigṛhīta), which in this context means that the bodhisattvas have been guided or mentored by a learned compassionate guru teaching the two truths, and by skillful means and great compassion (saṃparigraha). Cf. Abhisamayālaṃkāra 1.37.
- n.350 Here the first “unconditioned” renders asaṃskṛta and the second anabhisamskāra (“not an enactment”). Ghoṣa, p. 994, asaṃskṛta-śūnyatānabhisamskāreti.
- n.351 Gilgit, 66r11, smṛtyupasthānabhāvatāyai dharmāṃ deśayati; Ghoṣa, p. 1001, accidentally omits this statement here but attaches it to the end of the rest of the correct exertions and so on; Kimura, 1–2:11, omits.
- n.352 Ghoṣa, p. 1036, as expected, has mahāmaitrī (“great loving kindness”) here, but both D and S omit it.
- n.353 The Hundred Thousand and the Twenty-Five Thousand both render Kimura, 1–2:12, apagatasarvākārajñatāpratisaṃyuktair manasikāraiḥ prajñāpāramitāṃ bhāvayati upalabhate, tayā ca prajñāpāramitayā manyate, literally “bereft of attentions connected with all-aspect omniscience they contemplate the perfection of wisdom and apprehend it, and on account of that perfection of wisdom give rise to conceit.”
- n.354 Ghoṣa prajñāpāramitāyāṃ carann anupāyakuśalo veditavyaḥ.
- n.355 ngo bo dmigs pa.

- n.356 This renders Ghoṣa, p. 1185, virecayati vichandayati; cp. Kimura, 1–2:14, just vivecayati.
- n.357 rang bzor byas pa (“made up by [the forgers] themselves”); Ghoṣa, p. 1185, kuvitarkā (“from bad ideas”); Kimura and Gilgit, 67a5, kavikṛtāny (“composed by poets”).
- n.358 Kimura, 1–2:14; Ghoṣa, p. 1186; and Gilgit, 67.9, upadiś, ācakṣ. Although here, and at Twenty-Five Thousand, ka 175b (7.57), bdud (māra) is qualified by the plural marker dag, only in the Twenty-Five Thousand are those doing the revealing and explaining qualified by the plural marker ’di dag ni. The reading here (except for the first plural marker) follows the Skt that has the evil associate not teaching others that such fake buddhas are indeed fake, not the fake buddhas not revealing themselves to be fake.
- n.359 The Choné and Yungdrung versions of the Hundred Thousand omit these five aggregates, as do all other versions, including S. Twenty-Five Thousand 7.61 starts with mig, “eyes.”
- n.360 Here ’dems is an incompleting voluntary form of gdam; Ghoṣa, p. 1190, avadaty anusāsti.
- n.361 “Basis” (gnas) and “word” (tshig) both render pada. “Actual entity denoted by / that is a word” renders padārtha. “Is without a basis / footing / place” renders padam na vidyate. Cf. Kimura, 1–2:17, padam na vidyate nopalabhyate (“a basis does not exist and cannot be apprehended”). The Sanskrit terms padārtha and its negative or opposite apadārtha are crucial to an understanding of the text. The Sanskrit pada, starting from its basic meaning of a footstep or track, also means a mark, standpoint, token, portion, sign, a matter, or a word; artha (or ārtha) has an even wider range of meanings including aim, purpose, cause, motive, use, object, and meaning. The Tibetan translators of this text and of the Hundred Thousand have rendered the two compounds as tshig gi don and tshig gi don med pa, of which the literal translations in English might be “the meaning of the word” and “the absence of meaning of the word.” However, don here must be understood as referring not to “meaning” in the sense of a definition of some kind, but rather to the actual thing denoted by the word. Note that the Tibetan of the Eighteen Thousand (11.2 et seq.) renders the two compounds gzhi’i don and gzhi med pa’i don, i.e., using a different interpretation of pada and a different analysis of the second compound.
- n.362 The Twenty-Five Thousand omits these six elements, as does Ghoṣa, p. 1195, and Bṭ1, na p. 946.

- n.363 Here “without any basis” renders padam na vidyate, “because ... are nonexistent” renders avidyamānatvāt, and “there is no actual entity denoted by the word” renders padārtho na vidyate.
- n.364 This is the twentieth of the twenty “sub-eons” making up the third (eon of destruction) of the four subdivisions of a “great eon” (mahākalpa). The other three major divisions of a great eon are the eon of arising, of duration, and (after the eon of destruction), of voidness.
- n.365 “False” renders asadbhūtātā (a-sadbhūta-tā = yang dag pa ma yin pa), rendered into Tib here as myed pa yang dag pa nyid (= asad-bhūta-tā), literally “the fact that they are really nonexistent.”
- n.366 “Bases [of meritorious deeds] from having carried out one’s assigned duty” tentatively renders nyams su blang ba dang ldan pa’i [bsod nams kyi las kyi] ngos po, based on Ghoṣa, p. 1258, vaiyāvṛttasahagatam; cf. Edgerton vaiyāpatya. Although Gilgit, 70r2, and PSP, 1-2: 24, upāyakauśalam is supported by Eighteen Thousand 11.36 and le’u brgyad ma, ga 181b5, thabs mkhas pa (“skillful in what is connected with one’s assigned duties”), Ghoṣa’s auśadhika (“[bases of meritorious deeds] to do with medicines”) is a good reading.
- n.367 “Verbal abuse” renders zhe gcod pa (elsewhere tshig tsub pa) (paruṣa/pāruṣya). Shouting at the person so much it upsets them.
- n.368 “Perverse pride” renders log pa’i nga rgyal (mithyāmāna). bod rgya tshig mdzod chen mo, s.v. log pa’i nga rgyal, “being full of oneself because of seeing what is bad in oneself as good.”
- n.369 “Indeterminate” renders lung du ma bstan pa, “not taught in the scripture [as virtuous or nonvirtuous].”
- n.370 This translation is based on the catasrah arūpyasamāpattaya[h] (Gilgit 70r8). Tib gzugs myed pa bzhir skyes pa (“born in the four formless states”) appears to be a mistaken reading of samāpatti as meaning utpatti.
- n.371 Earlier (2.13) the translators rendered these terms slightly differently.
- n.372 Earlier (2.12) the translators again have rendered these terms slightly differently.
- n.373 “With certainty” renders nges pa (niyata) in the sense of destined to progress to and attain their respective goals. Bṛ1, p. 959: “Thus it says ‘beings with certainty’ of the great number of beings, each ascertained as being in different lineages.” “Lead ... to consummation” renders phul byed par ’gyur bas (agratām kariṣyati); cf. LSPW, pp. 168–69, “cause to achieve ... the highest.” Edgerton s.v. kṛ says “Sometimes the Caus. of $\sqrt{kṛ}$ is used for the simple verb or without a causal signification.” This would then mean “is the culmination.” The first way of rendering this means the Blessed One thinks bodhisattvas are called great beings because they bring all the beings destined to different goals to the culmination or highest state (phul, agratā). The second means he thinks they are called great beings because they are the foremost or the culmination of all those progressing to different goals. Cf. Abhisamayālaṅkāra 1.42 that glosses this part of the Sūtra with samuddheśa (“the motivating aims”) and says the first of the aims is sarvasattvāgratācitta (“[setting] the mind on the consummation of all beings”).

- n.374 “Equanimity” (sems mnyam pa nyid, samacittatā) here means a mind that sees all beings in the same way.
- n.375 “Unadulterated” (ma ’dres pa, avyavakīrṇa) means not influenced by the thoughts of personal freedom that śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas have.
- n.376 Gilgit, 71r14, ekanaya.
- n.377 “On top of that” renders gong du. Ghoṣa mahāsattvenāttaryavaṃ [uttaram evaṃ?] cittam.
- n.378 “Led to consummation” renders phul du ’gyur pa as meaning phul byed du ’gyur pa based on Ghoṣa, p. 1266, sarvasattvānām agryatām kārayiṣyati. Literally, the Tib suggests it is the mind of the bodhisattva that is in the consummate state, rather than being in that state because of leading all beings to it.
- n.379 “Practice and engage in having an appreciation” renders mos pa’i rnal ’byor la brtson pa (ārāmatāyogānuyukta); alternatively, (Eighteen Thousand, ka 118b (11.-67)) “be preoccupied with delight (kun tu dga’ ba’i) in.” Āryavimuktisena (AAV, cf. Sparham 2006–11 vol. 3, p. 69) says, “It uses both the word yoga and anuyoga (“yoga that follows”) to indicate [those who] practice (yoga), and then again engage in (anuyoga) the truth of suffering and origin, and the truth of cessation and path, respectively, in a temporal sequence.”
- n.380 On the meditative stabilities at this point, omitted from Ghoṣa, p. 1267, see n.-307.
- n.381 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit.
- n.382 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit.

- n.383 Alternatively, “that has followed the stream” (śroto’nugata).
- n.384 This renders seng ge rnam par bsgying pa. Emend Ghoṣa, p. 1267, simhavikrīḍita to simhavijṛmbhita.
- n.385 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit this and the following one.
- n.386 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit.
- n.387 Alternatively, nyon mongs pa, raṇa means “conflict.”
- n.388 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit.
- n.389 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit.
- n.390 Ghoṣa again has vivarṇa.
- n.391 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit.
- n.392 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit.
- n.393 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit this and the following two meditative stabilities.
- n.394 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit this and the following meditative stability.
- n.395 Again, Ghoṣa, p. 1268, reads āvaraṇa (“obscuration”) in place of ālambana.
- n.396 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit this and the following meditative stability.
- n.397 Ghoṣa, p. 1268, sthitaniścitta.
- n.398 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit this sthitaniścita*.
- n.399 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit.
- n.400 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit.
- n.401 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit this and the next six meditative stabilities.
- n.402 K, N, and C omit. Ghoṣa, p. 1269, sarvāṅkāraavaropeta.
- n.403 Following this in the earlier list 6.163 (kha 184b) but missing here is flash of lightning that does not cause pain.
- n.404 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit.
- n.405 This and the preceding one are the meditative stabilities at Ghoṣa, p. 835, araṇa-samavasaraṇa, and araṇa-saraṇa-sarvva-samavasaraṇa. Here the list at Ghoṣa, p. 1269, has only araṇasarvasamarasaraṇe!

- n.406 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit this and the next four meditative stabilities.
- n.407 D adds another meditative stability called dispelling the defects of speech here. Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit it.
- n.408 Ghoṣa, K, N, and C omit this and the next two meditative stabilities.
- n.409 The sentence found here in Twenty-Five Thousand 8.64 is, “So if one were to ask why, it is because that mind is not mind and there is indeed no attachment to that which is not mind” (de ci’i phyir zhe na / ‘di ltar sems ni sems ma mchis pa ste/ sems ma mchis pa de la yangs chags pa med do). This is cited below (8.144).
- n.410 Here “physical forms would therefore be without attachment” (gzugs kyang chags pa myed do, rūpam asaktam) means that physical forms are not things that anybody could get attached to.
- n.411 K, N. D omits “great loving kindness.”
- n.412 In both the Eight Thousand (W83) and Twenty-Five Thousand (PSP, 1-2: 33) Subhūti says the line cited here: acittatvāt tatrāpi citte asakta iti; Lhasa Kangyur brgyad stong 17a7, sems med pa’i phyir sems de la ma chags shing [yongs su ma zin]. The earlier line in the Twenty-Five Thousand (ka 192a6 (8.64)) differs slightly: de ci’i phyir zhe na/ ‘di ltar sems ni sems ma mchis pa ste/ sems ma mchis pa de la yangs chags pa med do (“So if you ask why, it is because that mind is not mind and there is indeed no attachment to that which is not mind”). Either this line has dropped out earlier from the Eighteen Thousand and the Hundred Thousand, or this is a cross-reference to another scripture.
- n.413 “Nonexistent physical forms” renders gzugs myed pa, construing the compound arūpam as a tatpuruṣa (in Whitney’s nomenclature, a “descriptive compound”). The negative prefix a- is descriptive of rūpam, hence “a nonexistent form” is a type of form. Bṭ1 says: “It teaches that there the nonexistent mind is called nonexistent mind because of the nonexistence, in the mind of the realm of phenomena, the intrinsic defining characteristic of which is a thoroughly established phenomenon, of imaginary mind. In ‘but nonexistent physical forms also would be without attachment to physical forms,’ the nonexistent physical forms are called nonexistent physical forms because the physical forms of the realm of phenomena, the intrinsic defining characteristics of which are thoroughly established phenomena, are not imaginary existent physical forms. Hence, nonexistent physical forms, the intrinsic nature of which are thoroughly established phenomena, are ‘without attachment to’ imaginary ‘physical forms.’ If the compound were to be construed as a bahuvrihi ('possessive compound') it would mean '[physical form, ultimately, the emptiness of it] in which there is no physical form.' "

- n.414 "Mounted upon" renders yang dag par gnas pa. Both the Hundred Thousand, the Twenty-Five Thousand, and the Eighteen Thousand render Kimura, 1–2:44, and Ghoṣa, p. 1329 samārūḍha as yang dag par gnas; also, earlier, Kimura 1–2:33, Ghoṣa, p. 1298, and Gilgit, 74r9, samārūḍha. The Hundred Thousand and the Twenty-Five Thousand also appear to render this word occasionally by gnas alone; le'u brgyad ma, ga 200a1, zhugs, and ga 200a2, 'dzeg pa; Abhisamayālaṅkāra, 1.45d, adhirohini; and mngon rtogs rgyan, ka 4a6, 'dzens.
- n.415 Ghoṣa, p. 1303, adhivāsanatā; Gilgit, 73v9, omits. Kimura, 1–2:35, has vyupaparīkṣaṇā, as does Ghoṣa, p. 1325, below, rendered at 8.233 (F.109.a) just by rtog pa. Āryavimuktisena (AAV, Sparham 2006–11 vol. 1, p. 95): "They have perfection of patience armor when they endure, find pleasure in, and thoroughly investigate the dharmas of the knowledge of all aspects (they endure it at the initial occurrence, find pleasure from the second instant, etc., and thoroughly investigate by investigating from various angles)."
- n.416 "Overwhelm" renders zil gyis gnon (abhibhū); alternatively, "eclipse" or "tower over."
- n.417 Ghoṣa, p. 1311, udānam udānayanti / nāmadheyaṇ ca kīrttayanti śabdāṃ udīrayanti / ghoṣam anuśrāvayanti.
- n.418 Cf. 8.83.
- n.419 This is the same as 8.83.
- n.420 Ghoṣa, p. 1315, ākāśākāraliṅganimittaiḥ.
- n.421 Ghoṣa, p. 1324, brjod, ākhyā ("describe"); 'chad, deśaya ("explain"); ston, prakāśaya ("teach"); 'grel, visarjaya ("interpret"); rnam par 'byed, uttānīkr ("analyze"); gsal bar byed, vivañc ("elucidate").
- n.422 Ghoṣa, p. 1325, has sarvvajñatā ("omniscience") in place of "meditative concentrations," and pariṇāmayati ("dedicate [the merits] to") in place of "descend to."
- n.423 "Definitively discern" renders rab tu rtog (pratyavekṣ); alternatively,
"understand analytically," "contemplate."
- n.424 Bṭ1, p. 1014: "the mind is 'undistracted' by grasping at signs with respect to all phenomena, and absorbed."

- n.425 In both Skt and Tib the subject of the verb “engage” (pravṛt, ’jug) is “understanding”; thus, literally, this says “understanding does not engage with.”
- n.426 “Undivided” renders ma ’dres pa (avyavakīrṇa); literally “not mixed with anything else.”
- n.427 Here the translators render bhāvanāvibhāvanā by bsgom par rnam par bsgom pa. LSPW, p. 184, “a development in the sense of annihilation,” renders le’u brgyad ma, ga 200b1, bsgom pa rnam par gzhiḡ pa’i don du; the Eighteen Thousand renders it variously as “investigation” or “disintegration” of meditation.
- n.428 Cf. 1.10.
- n.429 K, N, D omits the eighteen emptinesses.
- n.430 This is related to the earlier list that was introduced by de ni (Ghoṣa, p. 1401, yad)—all the phenomena that are ultimately unfettered and unliberated (the portal of the Dharma)—the objects in which the bodhisattvas “dwell.”
- n.431 Ghoṣa, p. 1405, niyojayiṣyati; Kimura, 1–2:58, parinirvāpayiṣyaty.
- n.432 Below, 10.1, this question “because of just what” (ci tsam gyis na) is introduced simply by “how” (ji ltar na).
- n.433 “Go forth” renders ’byung (niryā). It also means “to emerge from,” “to be emancipated from,” “escape,” and, later in this text, “the absence of a vehicle.”
- n.434 “Nature” here renders prakṛti, rendered “inherent nature” when one in the list of emptinesses.
- n.435 This translates D without emendation. Bṭ1, pp. 1034–35, says “ ‘the emptiness of that emptiness that is the emptiness of phenomena.’ That emptiness that is the emptiness when you say ‘phenomena are empty’ is also nonexistent as an inherent nature of emptiness, so, it, empty of an inherent nature, is called ‘the emptiness of emptiness.’ ” K, N have de in place of D des. Cf. Gilgit, 83v7–8, tatra katamā śūnyatā śūnyatayā sarvadharmāṇāṃ śūnyatā / tayā śūnyatayā śūnyā śūnyatā iyaṃ ucyate śūnyatāśūnyatā, “Here, what is the emptiness of the emptiness on account of the emptiness of all phenomena? The emptiness empty of that emptiness. This is called ‘the emptiness of emptiness.’ ”
- n.436 This definition of a physical form (rūpa) relates the word to a causal form of the verb rup; MW “to suffer violent pain.”

- n.437 “Poisonous” renders gdug pa; Ghoṣa, p. 1410, āśīviṣa (“snake poison”).
- n.438 “Gateway to arising” renders skye ba’i sgo (=āpattidvāra?); cf. Ghoṣa, p. 1410, āpaddvāra (“gateway to misfortune”).
- n.439 “Not growing fainthearted” renders thub pa myed pa (anavasadya).
- n.440 “Becoming completely collected” renders yang dag par ’dus pa (saṃgraha).
- n.441 “Emergence” renders ’byung ba. Ghoṣa’s nairyāṇika is the definition of the truth of the path that “causes emergence” in the sense that it causes emancipation. It is not likely that ’byung ba here means actual emancipation.
- n.442 “A liberation” renders rnam par grol ba (vimokṣa), of which there are eight. It is defined as “liberating” (rnam par ’grel pa, vimocanā).
- n.443 The translators read niścita (“ascertained”) in place of Ghoṣa nicita.
- n.444 “Direct perception” renders mngon sum (pratyakṣa); alternatively, in reference to the object of knowledge, pratyakṣa means “directly appearing,” “obvious.”
- n.445 “Union” renders ’dus pa (sāmyogika); Eighteen Thousand, ka 146a (15.29), ’dus pa las byung ba’i chos (“a phenomenon that has arisen from a union”) is a better translation.
- n.446 These four render bhāva (“entity”), abhāva (“nonentity”), svabhāva (“essential entity” or, more literally, “entity from itself”), and parabhāva (“entity on account of something else”), respectively.
- n.447 It is noteworthy here that the Tibetan translators render Ghoṣa, p. 1411, svabhāva ucyate prakṛtir aviparītaṃ as rang bzhin zhes bya ba ni ngo bo nyid ma nor ba, using rang bzhin to render svabhāva and ngo bo nyid to render prakṛti, the opposite of the usual usage of these two Tibetan terms in this text.
- n.448 “Ranges over” renders spyod. The translators perhaps read anucarati in place of Ghoṣa, p. 1415; Kimura, 1–2:65; and Gilgit, 85r4, anubhavati (“experiences”).
- n.449 Ghoṣa, p. 1415; Kimura, 1–2:66; Gilgit, 85r8; and the Eighteen Thousand, ka 148b, omit this meditative stability; the Twenty-Five Thousand, 226a (8.248), has “all phenomena are sealed with the unchanging seal.”
- n.450 Ghoṣa, p. 1416, yatra samādhau niyatvā na bhidyate (“having become certain with respect to this meditative stability they are not split apart”); Eighteen Thousand 15.45 “meditative stabilities are not broken apart.” Cf. Kimura, 1–2:66,

“are not split apart by any meditative stability.” Bṭ1, pp. 1044–45, “because it is not destroyed by the sides opposing...”

- n.451 Ghoṣa, Kimura rājasupratīṣṭhānena (“like a king who has been well consecrated”).
- n.452 There is no explanation of this in Bṭ1.
- n.453 “Well-founded” renders ’dzugs; in the earlier lists ’jug and ’jugs.
- n.454 There is no explanation of this and the following two meditative stabilities in Bṭ1.
- n.455 Gilgit, 85v3, mudram[=ām] ādhārayati. Bṭ1, p. 1047: “ ‘If, among them, you ask what is the meditative stability named sealed with the seal, abiding in that meditative stability they are sealed with the seal of all meditative stabilities.’ When they are absorbed in that meditative stability they realize that the import of all the meditative stabilities is that all phenomena are, from the beginning, unarisen, and because it does not deviate from that meaning as it has been realized, like affixing a seal it is called ‘sealed with the seal.’ ”
- n.456 There is no explanation of this in the Twenty-Five Thousand or Bṭ1, and Ghoṣa, p. 1417; Kimura, 1–2:67; and Gilgit, 85v5, omit it.
- n.457 Bṭ1, p. 1048: “ ‘If, among them, you ask what is the meditative stability named permeation of space, abiding in that meditative stability space is permeated extensively with all the meditative stabilities.’ It is called ‘permeation of space’ because, when they are absorbed in this meditative stability, space is permeated with the forces and various miraculous displays of all the meditative stabilities, or, because the force of this meditative stability, like space, expands and permeates all meditative stabilities.”
- n.458 Ghoṣa, p. 1417; Gilgit, 85v6; and Kimura, 1–2:67, omits. Bṭ1, p. 1048: “ ‘If, among them, you ask what is the meditative stability named vajra maṇḍala, abiding in that meditative stability they apprehend the maṇḍalas of all meditative stabilities.’ It is called ‘vajra maṇḍala’ because, when they are absorbed in this meditative stability, there is the achievement of the collection of meditative stabilities, which, like a vajra, cannot be pierced by hindrances like Māra and so on. Take ‘maṇḍala’ here in this context as a collection or many gathered together.”
- n.459 The other lists, and Bṭ1, omit this meditative stability. Ghoṣa, p. 1417, and Gilgit, 85v6, have raṇajaha here; Kimura, 1–2:67, differs.

- n.460 “Slip in” renders ’dzul. There is no explanation of this meditative stability in Bṭ1.
- n.461 There is no explanation of this meditative stability in Bṭ1.
- n.462 Jäschke, s.v. lham me (snang), lhan ne (snang), and lhang nge (snang), all as different forms of the same word meaning “clear and distinct.”
- n.463 Ghoṣa, p. 1418, and Gilgit, 85v9, yatra samādhau sthitasya na cittam na cetasikā dharmmā pravarttante.
- n.464 There is no explanation of this meditative stability in Bṭ1.
- n.465 There is no explanation of this and the next meditative stability in Bṭ1.
- n.466 There is no explanation of this and the next meditative stability in Bṭ1.
- n.467 Ghoṣa, p. 1420, samantāloko nāma; Bṭ1 kun tu lta ba (“total seeing,” “observing everything”).
- n.468 There is no explanation of this and the next two meditative stabilities in Bṭ1.
- n.469 There is no explanation of this and the next meditative stability in Bṭ1.
- n.470 Kimura, 1–2:71; there is no explanation of this and the next meditative stability in Bṭ1.
- n.471 This reading is corroborated by the explanation at Bṭ1, pp. 1061–62, and Gilgit, 86v11, cāraṇi na samanupaśyati.
- n.472 There is no explanation of this meditative stability in Bṭ1.
- n.473 There is no explanation of this meditative stability in Bṭ1.
- n.474 “Stretch” renders rgyud (Bṭ1, p. 1064, rgyu?), apparently for pariccheda.
- n.475 There is no explanation of this meditative stability in Bṭ1.
- n.476 There is no explanation of this and the next seven meditative stabilities in Bṭ1.
- n.477 The S Hundred Thousand, nga 137a4–5, Kimura, Ghoṣa, Gilgit, the Twenty-Five Thousand, the Eighteen Thousand, and Bṭ1 all have this and following meditative stability in a different order.
- n.478 There is no explanation of this in Bṭ1.
- n.479 Here the Skt dhāraṇīmati also means “possessing dhāraṇīs.”

- n.480 Bṭ1, p. 1069: “Take ‘contradiction’ as obstruction on the side opposing meditative stability; take ‘refutation’ as hindrance that blocks meditative stability.”
- n.481 S Hundred Thousand, nga 137a4–5, gdung ba med pa’i glog gi ’od (“nonafflictive lightning light”). Bṭ1, p. 1071, gives an explanation. Kimura, 1–2:74; Ghoṣa, p. 1425; and Gilgit, 87v10, all omit, and have mahāvvyūha for the next entry, rgyan chen po.
- n.482 There is no explanation of this in Bṭ1.
- n.483 Bṭ1, p. 1073: “They do not even apprehend the foundation of all meditative stabilities—the transcendental knowledge that is the transformation of the basis-of-all consciousness (kun gzhi rnam par shes pa) devoid and purified of the object that is grasped and the subject that grasps.”
- n.484 There is no explanation of this and the next four meditative stabilities in Bṭ1.
- n.485 Again, D includes a second meditative stability here, dispelling defects of speech, with exactly the same explanation. There is no explanation of it in Bṭ1.
- n.486 There is no explanation of this and the next two meditative stabilities in Bṭ1.
- n.487 This renders Gilgit, 88r13, saṃghāṭīcīvarapātradharaṇe. The Sanskrit saṃghāṭīcīvara is rendered sbyar ma, more usually rnam sbyar (as at Eighteen Thousand ka 156a, (16.5)). The idea is that when they go out to beg with a begging bowl, they also wear uttarāsaṅga. The modern Tibetan chos gos (“religious garb”) that renders cīvara (“the robes”) usually refers exclusively to the outer robe (uttarāsaṅga).
- n.488 The klama in Ghoṣa, p. 1429, śayitanidrāklamaprativinodite is rendered mya myo (perhaps rmya, “to feel dull,” “to lose energy”).
- n.489 A more literal translation is “... mindful when breathing in, they are mindful, fully aware ‘I am breathing in.’ ”
- n.490 “Epidermal skin, inner skin, flesh” renders bags pa (= pags pa), glog pa (= slog pa), and sha. Ghoṣa, p. 1439 tvak carma māṃsā. The differences likely derive from observations of the outer covering of a body made while skinning an animal.
- n.491 “Viscera” renders nang grol. Eighteen Thousand ka 157a1 (16.9) glang pa (Mvy audarīyaka, “pertaining to the abdomen”); Ghoṣa, p. 1431, udarayantram (?) suggests the abdominal walls. Kimura, 1–2:77, udaram (“stomach”).

- n.492 “Filthy excretions” renders dri ma (malā), explained by Monier-Williams, s.v. malā, as “any bodily excretion or secretion.”
- n.493 rab rib snang ba, perhaps reading timirabhāsa in place of Ghōṣa, p. 1434, tirobhūtāni (“indistinct”), and Kimura, 1–2:80, tirovārṣikāṇi, which might be rendered “in which the years have disappeared.”
- n.494 Cf. Ghōṣa, p. 1434, pūtīni cūrṇakajātāni pṛthivyāṃ pāṃśunā samasamībhūtāni. Tib zogs (ma) renders pūti; samasamībhūtāni, “have become the same and equal to.”
- n.495 “Scrutiny” renders dpyod pa (mīmāṃsā), which refers to the investigation of a topic.
- n.496 “Analysis of phenomena” renders dharmapṛavicaya (chos rnam par ’byed pa), which is another word for “wisdom” (prajñā).
- n.497 “Understood analytically” renders pratyavekṣ, here rendered just by rtog; Edgerton s.v. pratyavekṣaṇā, “intellectual mastery.”
- n.498 Bṭ1, p. 1090: “Having thus understood analytically that all phenomena are empty of their own defining characteristics and signless, they are not attached to and do not wish for anything at all. They cultivate a single-pointed stability of mind without ‘conditioning’ afflictive states of mind—karma that becomes the cause for birth in the three realms in order to obtain the pleasures of the three realms in future lives when reborn in the three realms. This is ‘called the meditative stability of wishlessness.’ ”
- n.499 In the enumeration of the eleven knowledges in the second chapter (2.10-2-11), the eighth knowledge is “knowledge of nonduality.”
- n.500 “Continuum of suffering existence” renders the Tib srid pa’i rgyud.
- n.501 Ghōṣa, p. 1441, yat pratipakṣajñānaṃ; Kimura, 1–2:82, yat pratipatparijayajñānaṃ; Gilgit, 90v6–7, yat pratipajñānaṃ paricayajñānaṃ. LC gives yongs su byang ba as well as ’dris pa as translations of parijaya (“mastery”).
- n.502 “Transcendental knowledge” renders the Tib ye shes.
- n.503 Cf. ka 40.a and ga 62.a. The Tib translation here of ājñāta as yongs su shes pas pas rtogs pa is apparently based on ājñāta, “fully comprehended/er,” and vid, “knower, realizer,” in place of the possessive -vin.
- n.504 Bṭ1, p. 1093: “Take ‘have not appeared’ (anavabhāsa) as the nonapprehending and absence of appearing of imaginary phenomena—object grasped and subject grasping and so on—when entering into the first level from the level of practice on account of belief (adhimukticaryābhūmi)."

- n.505 "Those with physical forms observe physical forms" renders the Tib gzugs can gyis gzugs rnams mthong ba. Alternatively, and more interpretively, this might be rendered "those with [perceptions of] physical forms observe physical forms."
- n.506 Bṭ1, p. 1101: "The knowledge of whatever good and bad actions that beings did in the past, whatever ones they are doing in the present, and whatever ones they will do in the future by way of body, speech, and mind, as well as the nonerroneous knowledge of whatever maturations will come about from them, is called 'the power of knowing the maturations of actions.' 'The undertakings of actions' refers to what is experienced as pleasant in the present and as suffering in the future, or what is experienced as unpleasant at the present time but will be experienced as pleasant in the future. 'The aspect of location' refers to the places where the actions of beings were done and the objects [on which the actions were carried out], and the places where the maturations will come about and the objects [that will be experienced]. This is 'as it pertains to place.' (This is not a quote in the text.) 'The aspect of cause' refers to the cause of doing the action—a mind with associated virtuous roots or a mind with associated nonvirtuous roots. This is 'as it pertains to cause.' (Again, not sure why this is in quotation marks.)"
- n.507 In most lists of the ten powers, the polysemous term dhātu (*kham*s) is interpreted to mean the constituents or constitution of individual beings rather than the realms of saṃsāra. Bṭ1, p. 1102: "Because they dwell in and are based on the transient world, a being is called 'a world.' Take 'constituent' as the disposition or the basic nature of a being. The śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas do not know the inconceivably many and various types of dispositions or basic natures of beings. Tathāgatas, having decisively known without error the dispositions and latent tendencies of each separate individual, teach doctrines in accordance with those. Theirs is called 'the power of the knowledge of the various constituents.' "
- n.508 According to Bṭ1, p. 1102, "inclination" (mos pa, adhimukti) means their belief or faith.
- n.509 "Acumen" renders dbang po (indriya).
- n.510 Bṭ1, pp. 1102–3: "Beings in a lineage destined for perfection, destined to be wrong, or not necessarily destined enter into a path and attain the results in accord with each of those separate lineages, hence 'path wherever it leads.'"

Among them, those ‘destined for perfection’ are in a lineage that enters into the ārya path, those ‘destined to be wrong’ are in a lineage that enters into worldly views, and those ‘not necessarily destined’ are not limited to one; they are suitable to be led anywhere.”

- n.511 “Ten million” renders the Skt koṭi (bye ba).
- n.512 “Billion” renders the Skt niyuta (khraḡ khriḡ).
- n.513 Here “holy life” renders the Tib tshangs par spyod pa. In other contexts, this is rendered “practiced celibacy.”
- n.514 tshangs pa’i ’khor lo ... rab tu bskor bar bya’o (brāhmaṇ cakram pravartayāmi in the Sanskrit). The wheel is Brahmā’s emblem and the term “wheel of Brahmā” may therefore simply refer to the wheel of the Buddha’s teachings. Alternatively, Bṭ3 4.1003; glosses this as “turning the wheel like Brahmā” (tshangs pa bzhin du ’khor lo bskor), while the same phrase in the Ratnagotravibhāga is expanded by Dolpopa to “turning the wheel of Dharma in the realm of Brahmā” (tshangs pa’i gnas su chos kyi ’khor lo skor ba).
- n.515 Bṭ1, p. 1109: “This is the knowledge without error of the teachings of the tathāgatas included in scriptural doctrine—the discourses, the sayings in prose and verse, and so on.”
- n.516 Bṭ1, p. 1113: “Because the two—the ‘liberation’ and the ‘knowledge and seeing of liberation’—are not differentiated in their nature as liberation, they are counted as one.”
- n.517 Bṭ1, p. 1114: “They are ‘preceded by transcendental knowledge’ because they have arisen from the cause of a knowledge employed earlier. ‘Informed by transcendental knowledge’ means not separated from transcendental knowledge, doing while having the knowledge.”
- n.518 “Letters” renders yi ge (akṣara). Below, the letter or consonant cluster follows the order of the forty-two “signs” for sounds used in the Gandhara region. In Skt each is followed by -kāra, rendered into Tib as appropriate with forms of zhes bya ba, roughly equivalent to quotation marks in English. In the following this is rendered by italics.
- n.519 That is, determined to be ultimately nonarising.
- n.520 This construes sa as retroflex ṣa, the corresponding letter in the Arapacana alphabet.
- n.521 In Tib this Skt va is also written as ba.

- n.522 This is twenty-sixth in the alphabet in Stephen Baums and Andrew Glass, A Dictionary of Gāndhārī (<https://gandhari.org/dictionary/sta>).
- n.523 The twenty-first is śpa in A Dictionary of Gāndhārī.
- n.524 Bṭ1, p. 1122, has stotra; Ghoṣa, p. 1451, has stave.
- n.525 This is based on Bṭ1, p. 1122. Gilgit, 92r10, martya ("death"). On the sound conveyed by this sign see Gudrun Melzer, "An Arapacana Acrostic Poem in Gandhari: Bajaur Collection Kharoṣṭhī Fragment 5" (http://130.223.29.184/editions/melzer_bc5_202007.pdf). July 2020: 32. From Buddhist Manuscripts from Gandhara (<https://www.en.gandhara.indologie.uni-muenchen.de/workshop/index.html>), Institut für Indologie und Tibetologie, Ludwig-Maximilians Universität, München.
- n.526 This ha is added as a forty-third sign of the Arapacana alphabet.
- n.527 Ghoṣa, p. 1451; Bṭ1, p. 1123 bhaṅga suggests the emendation of 'jigs ("fear") to 'jig ("destruction").
- n.528 An older sign is spa.
- n.529 This represents ṭha.
- n.530 The corresponding letter in the Arapacana alphabet is za. The translators of the Twenty-Five Thousand (n.299) says ysara is a word in the Prakrit Saka language rendered into Skt as jarā ("aging"); cf. Eighteen Thousand ka 167a (16.99), dza. Bṭ1, p. 1125, has ys or yas (the Skt root yas means to exert oneself energetically), and says, "In an Indian language 'unhappiness' is yskara. By way of the compounding of the letter ya with sa one realizes that ultimately all phenomena are not real bases, so unhappiness also cannot be apprehended. Hence the letter ys is the gateway to the realization that all unhappy phenomena are not apprehended."
- n.531 This is the word at Bṭ1, p. 1122.
- n.532 This is the word at Bṭ1, p. 1122. Monier-Williams, s.v. ḍhakkana, "shutting of a door." Tib g.yog(s) has the sense of putting something on, like a covering of clothes, or a specific burden or task you are saddled with. Bṭ1, p. 1126: "They do apprehend that they, covered by afflictive obscurations and governed by afflictive states of mind, die and are reborn until saṃsāra reaches its end."
- n.533 The list has been formatted in accord with the explanation at Bṭ1, p. 1128.

- n.534 Earlier, 8.377, this question is introduced by “because of just what” (ci tsam gyis na): “Blessed Lord, because of just what should bodhisattva great beings be known to have entered perfectly into the Great Vehicle?”
- n.535 “Sincere resolve” renders lhag pa'i bsam pa, adhyāśaya (“higher aspiration”).
- n.536 The translators read bhūtatā. Ghoṣa, p. 1454, adbhūtatānupalabhitām, “miraculous demonstrations of the doctrine,” fits the context better.
- n.537 This means remaining in a forest retreat.
- n.538 “Property” renders rdzas, which also means “substantial phenomena.” Kimura, 1–2:95, Gilgit, 95r7 sarvāsti; Ghoṣa, p. 1463 sarvvasva. Edgerton, s.v. asti, 2 “property.”
- n.539 There are not eighteen listed, only seventeen. As it makes clear below (10.62), the way they are avoided is not quite the same, and all are not, except in the Kimura edition and the Abhisamayālaṅkāra, the objects of “avoid” in the same way.
- n.540 Bṭ1, p. 1140: “From the feeling of contempt for another being haughtiness arises, so they should avoid haughtiness because, ultimately, such things as those for which one might feel contempt cannot be apprehended.”
- n.541 Ghoṣa, p. 1456; Gilgit, 93r13 rāgadveṣamohādhivāsanatā; “tolerance” is Conze’s word for adhivāsanatā. The Hundred Thousand has nyam rangs su mi 'dor ba, and Bṭ1, p. 1141, has nyams rangs su mi 'dor ba; the Twenty-Five Thousand has nyam rang su gzhaḡ pa yongs su spang, “reject the presentation of it as delightful” (?).
- n.542 “Mind that has craving” renders sred pa'i sems (paritarsanacitta). Edgerton, s.v. paritarsana, notes that if the word is related not to trṣ but to tras it could mean “anxiety.”
- n.543 “Penetrating understanding of the principle of reality” renders yang dag pa'i tshul rab tu rtog pa (bhūtanayaprativedha). Bṭ1, p. 1145, glosses this as “the realization, according to a single principle, that all phenomena are, ultimately, in their intrinsic nature not real bases.”
- n.544 Cf. below, 10.102. Kimura, 1–2:90, sarvatrāpratihatājñānacittatā; Ghoṣa, p. 1457, apratihatājñānatā. “Transcendental knowledge” has been read from the Skt. The Tib simply reads thogs pa myed pa (“unimpeded”).
- n.545 There are in fact twenty-one items enumerated here.
- n.546 Omitted in Dutt 1934, p. 218.

- n.547 This completes the explanation of the refinements of the second level.
- n.548 This completes the explanation of the refinements of the third level.
- n.549 Bṭ1, pp. 1137–38: “not engaging in the conditioning of (anabhisamskāra), not mentally constructing, any phenomenon that becomes a cause of saṃsāra.”
- n.550 “Entity” renders ngos po (vastu); alternatively, “real basis.” This completes the explanation of the refinements of the fourth level.
- n.551 Bṭ1, p. 1139, mentions royal, brahmin, and business families, and two sets of bodhisattvas who have been given alms and served there. It is unclear whether the caste of the families, or of the bodhisattva monks, explains why one set has been treated better or worse, or whether it is simply a matter of bodhisattvas becoming possessive about a family that gives them alms. Regardless, the families gain merit from giving alms and respecting the monk teachers, so the bodhisattvas should not be envious of other monk teachers and, on account of that envy, not visit those families.
- n.552 All versions, including Stok Palace and the Hundred Thousand nga 172a6, support this reading.
- n.553 This is absent from Ghoṣa. Kimura, 1–2:96, tatra kathaṃ subhūte bodhisattvena mahāsattvena vicikitsā parivarjayitavyā? tathā hi saṃdehāpagatāt sarvadharmān samanupaśyati, evaṃ hi subhūte bodhisattvena mahāsattvena vicikitsā parivarjayitavyā. Bṭ1, p. 1141: “They do not harbor two minds (yiḍ gnyis mi za) about reality and unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment.”
- n.554 Kimura, 1–2:96, adds parivarjayitavyā but this is not supported by any of the Kangyur editions of the Hundred Thousand, or by Bṭ1.
- n.555 This completes the explanation of the refinements of the fifth level, the number of which is uncertain. In Bṭ1 the eighteen are avoiding the paths of the ten nonvirtuous actions (10), avoiding pride in being superior (11), haughtiness (12), distorted views (13), doubt about reality and that there is a buddha (14 and 15) and not rejecting patience for desire, hatred, and delusion (16–18).
- n.556 This is omitted from Kimura, Ghoṣa, and le’u brgyad ma. Cf. Gilgit, 95v10–12, ṣaṣṭhyāṃ bhūmau varttamānena ṣaḍ dharmmā parivarjayitavyāḥ katame ṣa[ḍ] yad uta ṣaṭ pāramitāḥ paripūrayitavyāḥ ṣaṭsu pāramitāsu sthitvā buddhā bhagavantaḥ śrāvakāḥ pratyekabuddhāś ca pañcavidhasyajñeyāvarṇa[=arṇava]sya pāraṃgatā gacchanti gamiṣyante ca / katamasya pañcavidhasya yadutātītasyānāgatastā-pratyupannasyānavaktavyasyāsaṃskṛtasya evaṃ bodhisattvena mahāsattvena ṣaṭpāramitāḥ paripūrayitavyāḥ (“Six attributes should be avoided by those proceeding on the sixth level. Which six? The six perfections that should be perfected. While abiding in these six perfections, the blessed lord buddhas, the śrāvakas, and the pratyekabuddhas have gone, are going, and will go to the other shore of the five oceans of objects of knowledge. Of which five? Of the past, the future, the present, the inexpressible, and the unconditioned. Thus, bodhisattva great beings should perfect the six perfections.”) It is noteworthy that the six perfections are not those of bodhisattvas, and it suggests that, like the other attributes, they are to be avoided as attributes that can be apprehended. Those following the Abhisamayālaṅkāra, in accord with its central principle, stress that even though they cannot, ultimately, be apprehended they are attributes to be cultivated for the sake of others.

- n.557 “Should not be in a greedy state of mind” renders kha za yag gi sems su myi bya; Ghōṣa, p. 1466, na saktacittena bhavitavyaṃ, explaining Ghōṣa, p. 1456, na yācanakaṃ vikṣepaḥ karttavyaḥ (“do not get upset at a beggar” or “do not cast out a beggar”). The Tib taken literally (“a mind to do with good food”) may be a reference to a well-known verse from the Suḥṛllekha that says a practitioner should consider food like medicine (kha zas sman dang 'dra ba), and not eat it just for personal benefit, but only to keep the body alive to be of use to others. Gilgit, 95v14, has an alternative reading, prathamacittotpādam upādāya dānaṃ dātavyam/ na citta[m] cittena bhavitavyaṃ, “do not make [bodhi]citta (“the mind [set on enlightenment]”) a citta (“a [mere] thought”),” that is to say, do not make the mind into just an empty promise. In this case (kha) za yag may be a mistaken rendering of Eighteen Thousand ka 175b gsog, “hollow, in vain.” Bṭ1 says it means “empty” or “futile.”
- n.558 This completes the explanation of the refinements of the sixth level.
- n.559 This completes the explanation of the twenty things that bodhisattvas should not do on the seventh level.
- n.560 “Sign” renders the Skt nimitta; alternatively, “mental image.”
- n.561 “Absence of habitual ideas about duality” renders gnyis la yongs su rgyu ba myed pa, Kimura, 1–2:99, advayasamudācāra. the Twenty-Five Thousand renders this “they do not edge toward duality.” MDPL renders asamudācāra “habitual absence.”
- n.562 That is, linking up to rebirth. Bṭ1, p. 1145: “The absence of linking up with a rebirth in saṃsāra on account of the force of the propensities left by afflictive mental states.” Bṭ1, p. 1177, explaining Hundred Thousand 11.32 (“bodhisattva great beings would not realize that all the propensities for afflicted mental states that cause linking up are nonentities and acquire all-aspect omniscience”), says “the propensities for cognitive obstruction and obstruction from afflictive mental states are themselves the causes for the arising of later afflicted mental states, hence they are called ‘propensities for afflictive mental states.’ ”

- n.563 This follows the reading at Kimura, 1–2:100. Both the Twenty-Five Thousand and Eighteen Thousand follow the reading in Ghoṣa and Gilgit. This completes the explanation of the seventh level.
- n.564 A maturation result lasts as long as the person lives.
- n.565 This completes the explanation of the eighth level.
- n.566 That is, assured of their attainments.
- n.567 This completes the explanation of the ninth level.
- n.568 The translators read kṛtavin as kṛtavid.
- n.569 The question is at 8.377: “go forth” renders the Tib ’byung (from niryā). It also means “to emerge from” or “to be emancipated from,” and in niryāṇa can also be construed as “the absence of a vehicle.”
- n.570 The translators read pravrajya (rab tu byung ba) in place of Kimura, Ghoṣa prahāṇa; the Eighteen Thousand has “abandonment.”
- n.571 This is the reading at Ghoṣa, pp. 1487–88, and Gilgit, 98v14–15. Kimura, 1–2:108 has “attain emancipation” in place of “to arise” (perhaps “to take rebirth”?) in each instance. Bṭ 1, pp. 1160–61, associates this section with the different persons, arhats and so on, and the next section on the result with the resultant things they attain.
- n.572 Cp. Gilgit, 99v2, acālyann asthānaṃ, “not moving, not resting.” Bṭ 1 says that the very teaching that there is no emancipation from the three realms and no rest in all-aspect omniscience teaches that there is, conventionally. As in the Abhisamayālaṅkāra, Bṭ 1 associates “having moved” with the ability of an opposing force to disturb an attainment.
- n.573 This is myi gnas pa gnas pa’i tshul dang / myi bskyod pa’i tshul gyis; Kimura, 1–2:110, asthitam asthānayogena acālyayogena; Gilgit, 110r11, asthitasthānayogena acālyayogena; Ghoṣa, p. 1508, asthitasthānayogena.
- n.574 Gilgit, 100r 13–14, atyantayātmā nopalabhyate; Ghoṣa, p. 1508, incorrectly, ’tyantatathātmā nopalabhyate; Kimura, 1–2:111, omits. “Beyond limits” and “utterly” both render atyanta; alternatively, an anta is “an extreme” and atyanta might be rendered “extremely.”

- n.575 Ghoṣa, p. 1512, kasyānupalabdhyā sarvvaṃ nopalabhyate /dharmmadhātvanupalabdhyā nopalabhyate dharmmadhātus tat kasya hetor na hi subhūte dharmmadhātvanupalabdhir upalabhyate nopalabhyate. Skt anupalabdhi/anupalambha can be either a noun or a bahuvrihi adjective. Tib dmigs pa could be construed as either “what has an apprehending” or “an apprehending.” Here it has been rendered as a noun, and below in “the realm of phenomena that is not apprehended” as an adjective (seems to be a verb?), literally “the realm of phenomena of which there is no apprehending.”
- n.576 “Great Vehicle” is derived from mahā-yā and “attains emancipation” or, more literally, “goes forth” from nir-yā.
- n.577 “Space” renders ākāśa and “accommodation” avakāśa.
- n.578 “Discerned” renders mchis, an honorific, attaching to the one being spoken to. Kimura, Ghoṣa, and Gilgit all have dr̥ś; Ten Thousand, 13.13, mi mngon lags. However, below (ga F.295.b, 11.107), the nonhonorific form put in the mouth of the Blessed One is myed, “are nonexistent.”
- n.579 This is the same as the earlier list at 8.109.
- n.580 Degé again has the meditative stability called dispelling the defects of speech.
- n.581 Gilgit, 103r5–6, sacet subhūte kāmādhātus tathā bhaviṣyad avitathā ananyathā aviparīto bhūtaṃ satyaṃ yathāvan nityo dhruvaḥ śāśvata aviparīṇāmadharmābhāvo bhaviṣyat. Ghoṣa, p. 1534, and Kimura, 1–2:115, both have tathatā and so on. The last part translates Kimura’s ‘viparīṇāmadharmī bhāvo. Ghoṣa has viparīṇāmadharmā abhāvaḥ. Bṭ3, 4.1175–4.1182, in a detailed explanation, connects these with the three natures (trisvabhāva, ngo bo nyid gsum). Bṭ1 does not explain each word.
- n.582 “Constructed, fashioned, and fabricated” render rnam par brtags pa ([vi]kalpita), rnam par bskyed pa (viṭhapita; Edgerton, s.v. viṭhapayati has viṭhāpita), and yongs su bsgrubs pa (sandarbhita).
- n.583 This is the reading in all the editions recorded in the Comparative Edition (dpe bsdur ma), vol. 16, p. 601.
- n.584 The translators render different forms of the same Skt root sphur, earlier (Hundred Thousand ka F.4.b, 1.6) by khyab par byas, “permeated,” and here by rgyas par 'gengs, literally “fill up widely.”

- n.585 “Not apprehended” renders dmigs su myed do, a rare translation of na prajñāyate (the reading in Gilgit, Ghōṣa, and Kimura), “does not appear,” “does not make itself known.”
- n.586 “Determinate” (vyākṛta); alternatively, “phenomena that can be prophesied/are objects of moral inquiry.”
- n.587 These last four go with the four truths for the noble ones, the two results (suffering and nirvāṇa) and the two causes (the origin and the path).
- n.588 Bṭ1, p. 1186, says to take “the maturation” with the result, and that which is “subject to maturation” as what will become the desired result.
- n.589 Alternatively, “it is not wished for, and is not not wished for.”
- n.590 Bṭ1, p. 1188: “According to the mistaken imagination of the world, a being, space, and the Great Vehicle are real bases, so the place where one is (gcig gi go) precludes any other and thus they do not accommodate a great deal.” “The place where one is” means their identity as it is mistakenly conceived of by ordinary folk.
- n.591 “Unfathomable” renders dpag tu myed pa, apramāṇatā (“beyond measure”).
- n.592 Here myed do (“are nonexistent”) in place of dmigs su myed do (“are not apprehended”).
- n.593 Cf. ga F.249.b, 11.3.
- n.594 “Inherent nature” renders prakṛti (rang bzhin).
- n.595 Degé omits great loving kindness and great compassion.
- n.596 This is the reading in Degé, probably a block carver’s mistake for ldan and mi ldan (saṃyukta and viyukta), “conjoined nor disjoined.”
- n.597 “An actual bodhisattva even through the entirety [of all the attributes]” renders byang chub sems dpa’ nyid kyang ril gyis (bodhisattvam eva tāvat sakalam).
- n.598 In the parallel passage in the Twenty-Five Thousand, “look for it though one might” is Gyurme Dorje’s felicitous rendering of lta yang, a common, idiomatic use of lta, used here to render the extreme conveyed by the superlative katama. Because of the repetition, it is conveyed just by “could there possibly be.”

- n.599 This means a bodhisattva understood as the sum of all the phenomena, beginning with physical forms and ending with the eighteen distinct qualities of the buddhas.
- n.600 “Are in their essential nature nonentities” renders dn̄gos po ma mchis pa’i rang bzhin (abhāvasvabhāva). Below this is rendered dn̄gos po med pa’i ngo bo nyid.
- n.601 Both LSPW and the Twenty-Five Thousand render Kimura, 1–2:142, anantāparyantatayā as a dvandva, in the sense “because it is limitless and beyond all limits.”
- n.602 Here dn̄gos po med pa’i ngo bo nyid; earlier (ga F.338.b), dn̄gos po ma mchis pa’i rang bzhin suggests that rang bzhin is sometimes used as an honorific (to the recipient).
- n.603 ŚsP II-1:104, nāsti sāṃyogikaḥ svabhāvaḥ.
- n.604 “Not eternal,” rtag pa ma yin pa, renders akūṭastha; Eighteen Thousand, ka 222.a, and le’u brgyad ma, ga 298.b.1, ther zug.
- n.605 Earlier the question is phrased, “What physical forms that have come into being could there possibly be?”
- n.606 “Have not come into being” renders anabhinirvṛtta (mngon par ma grub pa), and “have not been brought about by conditions” renders anabhisamskṛta (mngon par ’du ma byas pa).
- n.607 “Without activity” renders ŚsP II-1:164 nirīhakāt; Kimura, 1-2:154, nirīhān (?).
- n.608 The Twenty-Five Thousand adds from “the real nature” up to “the very limit of reality” here, but ŚsP II-1:195 and all of the editions of the Hundred Thousand referenced in the Comparative Edition (dpe bsdur ma) omit them.
- n.609 “Without decline,” “without diminishing” renders nyam pa ma mchis pa; ŚsP II-1:196, and Gilgit, 118r1, asaṃmoṣa. The translators derive the word not from mṛṣ, “to forget” (bsnyel), but from muṣ, “to steal.”
- n.610 “Perfection” renders pāramitā; “far removed,” āram itā; “gone to the other side,” pāram itā. Gilgit, 118r8, āram itaiṣāyusman śāriputra yad ucyate prajñāpāramiteti.
- n.611 ŚsP II-2:65, pañcavidhā bodhiḥ. Bṭ1, p. 1233, says that this “is saying that insofar as the four—the fruit of having entered the stream and so on—and individual enlightenment, ‘the fivefold enlightenment,’ and unsurpassed enlightenment would have an essential nature that is not different, bodhisattvas, even without having meditated on, and without having achieved, all those five enlightenments in practice would have already attained them.”

- n.612 Bṭ1: “Take ‘the inferior’ with (“as/to be”?) the realm of desire because it is worse than and lesser than the form and formless realms that are above.”
- n.613 “Realization” (khong du chud pa yod pa) renders ŚsP II-2:66, samaya; cf. Kimura 1–2:164, abhisamaya, “clear realization.”
- n.614 Here len pa suggests that the translators read a form of anupādā, not ŚsP II-2:66 and Kimura, 1-2:164, anutpādaya.
- n.615 Here the Tib renders ŚsP II-2:66, yathā tathāgatena dharmacakraṃ pravartitaṃ na hy anutpannena dharmeṇa prāptiḥ prāpyate (with a vā between the last two words?).
- n.616 Here the Tib renders Kimura, 1–2:164, but reverses the order: kiṃ punar āyusman subhūte anutpannena dharmeṇa utpannā prāptiḥ prāpyate, atha utpannena dharmeṇa anutpannā prāptiḥ prāpyate. The prāpti (“attainment”) is that on account of which something is attained (prāpyate).
- n.617 Bṭ1, p. 1238: “We hold that both an attainment and a clear realization exist merely designated as worldly conventions onto the mere elimination of afflictive and cognitive obstructions, but not by way of the two—an entity obtaining a nonentity, and a nonentity obtaining an entity.”
- n.618 “Failure to arise,” myi skye ba, renders anutpatti.
- n.619 This renders Tib skyes pa as rendering a past passive participle (anutpanna), but the three Skt versions all have anutpāda, “are nonarising.”
- n.620 “Have no fixed abode” is Edgerton’s suggestion for aniśrita, which he says means “unattached, free, independent, emancipated.” The śrāvakas rely on just four (three if a nun) necessities (niśraya): a ragged robe, a begging bowl, simple medicinal herbs, and a crude bed beneath a tree or the like. They have no permanent dwelling place. The idea seems to be that since Subhūti does not get stuck on anything, he is living the śrāvaka life perfectly.
- n.621 Bṭ1, p. 1249, explains “they should refine” by saying, “It means they should, in that manner, realize they are refined.”
- n.622 ŚsP II-2:87, sukhitā bhavanto anupādāya ca parinirvānto iti.
- n.623 Kimura, 1–2:169, tribhiḥ saṅgailiḥ sakto.

- n.624 Cf. Eighteen Thousand ka 239.a.
- n.625 Twenty-Five Thousand ka 376b, byang chub kyi lam 'di, “this path to enlightenment,” namely, all the practices from the perfection of generosity up to the eighteen distinct qualities of the buddhas. The idea is that they become the path to enlightenment when informed by the perfection of wisdom. “Power” renders mtshu, Mvy skyes bu'i mtshu (puruṣakāra). The translators appear to have translated the result, the activities that result in complete enlightenment, as indivisible from its cause, the perfection of wisdom that must inform them.
- n.626 “The one that fully incorporates and perfectly incorporates” (yongs su sdud cing yang dag pa sdud pa) renders ŚsP II-2:93, parigrāhaka, saṃgrāhaka. A grāhaka is, literally, “one that seizes hold of,” that is to say, the one that informs all the virtuous activities to transform them into a path to enlightenment. Bṭ1, p. 1253, glosses “generator” (skyed pa, jānayitr) with “the cause that effects the completion of all the virtuous attributes incorporated in the three vehicles,” and glosses “the one that fully incorporates and perfectly incorporates” with “fully informs and fully pervades all the virtuous attributes incorporated in the three vehicles.”
- n.627 “Practice this practice” (rnam par spyod pa dis rnam par spyod, viharati ... anena vihāreṇa).
- n.628 Here Bṭ1, p. 1255, says that “attention” means “conceptualization,” the apprehending of an entity that is not empty of its own essential nature.
- n.629 “The attention will not cause fully awakening” renders yid la byed pa mngon par rdzogs par 'tshang myi rgya, manasikārānabhisambodhanatā. Bṭ1, p. 1256, says that “because that attention is also, ultimately, nonexistent, becoming fully enlightened through that attention is also, ultimately, nonexistent.”
- n.630 Alternatively, shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa'i le'u (prajñāpāramitāparivata) is the name of the chapter (“The Perfection of Wisdom Chapter”).
- n.631 Cf. ka 6.b.
- n.632 The Tibetan here reads dga' ldan (Skt. Tuṣita), the name of the realm, but the parallel in Toh 9 reads rab dga' ldan (Skt. Samtuṣita), the name of the god who presides over the realm. Here, we have elected to follow the reading in Toh 9.
- n.633 ŚsP II-2:115, gnas gtsang ma'i lha'i bu, śuddhāvāsakāyikā devaputrās.

- n.634 Dhas not been emended because all of the editions listed in the Comparative Edition omit the Vṛhatphala gods. ŚsP II-2:115, bṛhatphalā devāḥ.
- n.635 “Specific instruction for coming to an authoritative conclusion about this exposition” renders gtan la bab par bstan pa.
- n.636 This renders yang dag pa skyon med pa literally. The Tib translators, for consistency, rendered nyāma/niyāma/niyama/niyata with skyon (“fault”) and med pa (“nonexistent”), in place of nges pa (“restricted to,” “fixed in,” “for whom it is definite”), which would otherwise render the Sanskrit in question. The Skt samyaktva (ŚsP II-2:115, “the perfect state”), which is rendered by the Tib yang dag pa, indicates that here the intended meaning is “restricted to nirvāṇa,” which refers to the attainment of liberation by arhats and pratyekabuddhas.
- n.637 de dag gi dge ba’i phyogs la bdag ni bar chad myi byed do (ŚsP II-2:116, na... antarāyaṇi karomi); Bṭ1, F.248.a2: “It means they should not just be left there.”
- n.638 “Bad” renders sdig pa (agha).
- n.639 “Disturbed” renders myi brtan pa (acala).
- n.640 “Brittle” renders ’jig pa, prabhaṅgula (“destructible”).
- n.641 “Contagious disease” renders ’go ba’i nad (upasarga). The Skt has been incorrectly rendered (in the Tibetan) as “headache.”
- n.642 “Injury” renders gnod pa (vyābādha).
- n.643 Bṭ1, p. 1267, has just “mind” in place of “the mind that dedicates.”
- n.644 It is again noteworthy that the Hundred Thousand omits the cessation of the twelve links while the Twenty-Five Thousand and Eighteen Thousand include it at this point.
- n.645 Tib rang byang chub. Perhaps this should be emended to rang sangs rgyas (“pratyekabuddhas”).
- n.646 Bṭ1, p. 1276, differentiates this from the following one with the gloss, “Take it as the persons who first attain the result of having entered the stream.”
- n.647 That is, who go from human family to divine family up to three sets of times.
- n.648 That is, before they pass into nirvāṇa.

- n.649 samaśīrṣapudgala. Bṭ1, p. 1277: “those persons who are recipients of the fruit of having entered the stream, the extinction of whose life, karma, and afflictive mental states ‘align’—that is, occur simultaneously—and who unimpededly pass into the final nirvāṇa in the expanse of nirvāṇa where no remainder of the aggregates is left behind.”
- n.650 āyuhkṣaye kleśakṣaye. Bṭ1, p. 1277: “those persons who are recipients of the fruit of having entered the stream, the extinction of whose life or afflictive mental states occurs earlier or later.”
- n.651 Bṭ1, p. 1277, differentiates this from the earlier one with the gloss, “Take this as the persons who are recipients of the result of having entered the stream who are candidates for actualizing the result of once-returner and are close to attaining the result of once-returner.”
- n.652 Bṭ1, p. 1277: “Take this as the persons who are recipients of the result of having entered the stream who do not make the karma for descent into the three lower realms, and for whom even the maturation of the karma for descent to the lower realms that they have made earlier does not occur because they have meditated on the counteracting force.”
- n.653 “Mental questioning” renders sems kyi rnam par rtog pa (cetaḥparivīṭarka).
- n.654 Bṭ1, p. 1287, glosses yakṣa with mi’i tshig dang skad ma yin pa (“nonhuman words and language”).
- n.655 “Explains, speaks about, teaches, details, elucidates, and gives conclusive instructions about” renders ’chad pa, rjod pa, ston pa, rnam par ’byed pa, gsal bar byed pa, gtan la phab par ston pa; ŚsP II-2:186, bhāṣate pravayāharati deśayati vibhajaty uttānīkaroti upadiśati.
- n.656 “Things that are made up” renders skye ma (Kimura 2–3:12, nirmitopama, “like things that are conjured up”). Cf. dag yig gsar bsgrigs, s.v. ma, 9 ming la la’i mthar sbyar na dngos po de’i dbyibs dang khyad chos ston. Alternatively, emend skye ma to sgyu ma (ŚsP II-2:186, māyopama).
- n.657 “Sublime” renders bzang ba (praṇīta).
- n.658 “Extremely noble” renders shin tu ’phags pa.
- n.659 “Being assisted by a spiritual mentor” renders dge ba’i bshes gnyen kyis yongs su zin pa (kalyāṇamītraparigṛhīta).
- n.660 “Mentor” renders yongs su bzung ba, samparigraha. This is both great compassion and the mentor who gives instructions about it.

- n.661 ŚsP II-3:36, avikṣiptāsamāhitayogena.
- n.662 On the Skt yan nu aham with an optative construction, rendered na de la...gtor bar bya, see Edg, s.v. yan nu.
- n.663 “Ground,” rendering gzhi, is not found in the Skt.
- n.664 Here “reality of phenomena” renders chos rnam kyī chos nyid (dharmadharmatā), literally, following the conventions used in this translation, “the reality of phenomena (dharmatā) as it pertains to phenomena (dharma).” The phenomena (dharma) are everything beginning with physical forms. These are the conventional bases for their ultimate attribute (dharmatā), the emptiness of essential nature.
- n.665 In the following sections, “without any dividing into two” and so on render advaidhīkāraṇena (rendered variously in Tib), and “do not train in order to enhance or diminish” and “accept or negate” render ṽṛddhaye na hānaye śikṣate and parigrahāya śikṣate nāntardhānāya; alternatively, “increase or decrease” and “get hold of or get rid of.”
- n.666 This translation is based on Kimura 2–3:28, kuto bodhisattvena mahāsattvena prajñāpāramitā gavesitavyeti, as it is repeated below at 16.134. The corresponding section in the Twenty-Five Thousand at 16.38, “Where should one search for the bodhisattva great beings’ perfection of wisdom?” is supported by ŚsP II-2–3:124, bodhisattvānām, and Abhisamayālaṅkāra 2.11. Below, however, Twenty-Five Thousand 16.49 follows Kimura 2–3:28.
- n.667 The discourse here involving the “real nature” (de bzhin nyid, tathatā) and “reality of phenomena” or “reality” (chos nyid, dharmatā), together with the tathāgatas and the perfection of wisdom, conveys the following idea. The dharmatā of each phenomenon (chos, dharma), although the same from one perspective, differs in that it is being identified, by virtue of the very name, as the ultimate reality of that particular phenomenon. The tathatā, on the other hand, which is realized, or which is the defining real nature (tathatā) of the tathāgatas, is, by virtue of the very name, the ultimate reality of all taken together, or of all being understood (even in the conventional sense) together. The perfection of wisdom has been taken in a causal (or origin) sense and the tathāgata as a result. The perfection of wisdom, in the discourse of Subhūti, has been shown to be absolutely every phenomenon. The tathāgata is the knower of all, or, perhaps, the real nature of things when it is free of all obstruction.

- n.668 Here “reality of physical forms” renders gzugs kyi chos nyid (rūpadharmatā); alternatively, “the reality of phenomena as it pertains to physical forms.”
- n.669 “Such is” renders ’di ltar (in place of the usual ’di lta ste); cf. Edg, s.v. yad uta, which does not record this possible meaning.
- n.670 “Inestimable” renders dpag tu med pa. Kimura 2–3:30, aparimāṇa, omitted in ŚsP II-3:178.
- n.671 “Limitless” renders mtha’ yas pa (ananta); alternatively, “infinite.”
- n.672 The Twenty-Five Thousand has rgya che ba (mahattā/mahatgata) as “extensive,” tshad med (apramāṇa) as “immeasurable,” and mtha’ yas (ananta) as “infinite.” The Hundred Thousand has rgya che ba (mahattā/mahatgata) as “great in extent”; tshad myed (apramāṇa) as “immeasurable”; dpag tu myed (aparimāṇa) as “unbounded”; dpag (parimāṇa) as “boundary”; mtha’ yas (ananta) as “infinite”; and mtha’ (anta) as “limit.” Note that in other contexts in the present translation, dpag tu myed is also rendered “inestimable.”
- n.673 See the previous note. This section is in ŚsP, but there is no gloss in Bṭ1, pp. 1328–29.
- n.674 ŚsP II-3:214. Kimura 2–3:33 omits “all-aspect omniscience” and has “the objective referent of the sphere of phenomena” as the first reason.
- n.675 ŚsP II-3:214. Kimura 2–3:33 adds “objective referent” (dharmadhātvaṁbhaṇṇānantatayā), i.e., “the objective referent of the realm of phenomena is infinite.”
- n.676 Alternatively, de bzhin nyid dang dmigs pa may mean “that which is the real nature and the objective referent”; cf. Bṭ1, p. 1330.
- n.677 This is the end of chapter 24 and the beginning of chapter 25 in the Eighteen Thousand.
- n.678 “Pronouncement” renders ched du brjod pa (udāna). Bṭ1, p. 1333: “‘Made the pronouncement,’ having felt great pleasure, were astounded, which is to say, nobody at all made them say it. Through the power of joy and pleasure they gave expression to the statement.”
- n.679 “Attended upon” renders zham ’bring byed (zhabs ’bring ba). Negi, s.v. zham ring, gives Skt upasthā. ŚsP II-3:219, antika (“in the presence of”).
- n.680 “In the capital city Padmāvati” renders rgyal po’I khab padma yod pa’i nang; ŚsP II-3:219, padmāvatyāṁ (Kimura 2–3:35 dīpavatyāṁ) rājadhānyāṁ. Monier-

Williams, s.v. padmāvati, says “name of the city of Ujjayanī in the Kṛta-yuga.” Cf. the many tellings of the tale of Sumedha and Dīpaṃkāra set in Rammavatī (in the Pali rendering). Dīpaṃkāra’s wife before going forth to homelessness was Padumā. In that story Sumedha lays down his long hair, or his body, so Dīpaṃkāra and his followers can cross a muddy patch of road. In the Dīvyāvadāna (translated with the title “Dīpaṃkāra Buddha and the Wise Brahmins Sumati and Mati” in Rotman 2008, pp. 246–54), the Buddha recounts his second meeting with Dharmaruci (incarnated as Mati), when they were both brahmin companions, during the time when the Buddha was Sumati, at the time of the Buddha Dīpaṃkāra. The gift of hair is the same but embedded within a complex web of miraculous giving. See also The Prophecy of Dīpaṃkāra (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh188.html>) (Dīpaṃkaravyākaraṇa Toh 188).

- n.681 “Perfect in wisdom and conduct” renders mkhyen pa dang rkang par ldan pa (vidyācaraṇasampanna).
- n.682 “Favorably sustains” renders mtshun par yongs su ’dzin pa (anuparigrahikā).
- n.683 This ends the second chapter in the Eight Thousand (“Śakra Chapter”).
- n.684 “Find an opportunity to inflict harm on” renders glags rnyed (avatāraṃ labh).
- n.685 That is, through perfect avoidance of those misfortunes. “Through perfect avoidance” renders yang dag par spang bas; ŚsP II-3:227, samyakparihāreṇa. The Tib translators understood parihṛ here as “to quit” or “to shun” (the weapons and poison and so on that cause death according to Bṛ1, p. 1331) in place of its other meaning, “to guard” or “to protect.” Note that the Twenty-Five Thousand (kha F.55.a, 16.83 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh9.html#UT22084-026-001-2568>)) has yang dag pa’i rim gros here, rendering Kimura 2–3:37, samyakparicaryayā (“with genuine acts of service”). Cf. Eighteen Thousand ka F.272.b, yongs su spyad pa.
- n.686 tshangs ris; perhaps this should be emended to tshangs chen.
- n.687 “Sorrow due to famine” renders mu ge’i zhugs ngam (durbhikṣakāntāra).
- n.688 Gilgit 137v5–6, mām sa (ŚsP II-3:232, mānsa!) kauśika satkartavyaṃ...pūjayitavyaṃ manyeta yo bodhisattvaṃ. Kimura 2–3:39, imām prajñāpāramitām.
- n.689 “Discipline” renders ’dul (vinī).
- n.690 “Rival tīrthikas, tīrthika practitioners” renders mu stegs can gzhan dang / mu stegs spyod pa. Edg, s.v. caraka and tīrthika, says the recurring compound is the one found at ŚsP II-4-4, anyatīrthika-caraka-parivrājako; Gilgit 138r11-12, anyatīrthika-parivrājako māro; Kimura 2-3:42, ānyatīrthikaḥ kulaputro vā kuladuhitā. Edg, s.v. tīrthika, wonders if the term mu stegs can gzhan, anyatīrthika (“rival tīrthikas”) suggests there were Buddhist tīrthikas, and s.v. caraka says the caraka are a separate sect and should perhaps go with the following parivrājaka (“wandering mendicants”) as a compound.

- n.691 ŚsP II-4-4, kalaha-bhaṇḍana-vidraha-vivādān āpadyante. Here, “got into altercations and gratuitous insults,” ’khrug pa (kalahān), shags pa (bhaṇḍanān) come after ’thab pa (vidrahān), rtsod pa (vivādān). Edg gives “quarrel” for bhaṇḍana.
- n.692 These render krodha-vyāpāda-vihīṃsā.
- n.693 “Encouraged to take up” renders yang dag par bskul ba (samādāpita).
- n.694 “Attributes and advantages” renders yon tan dang legs pa (guṇānuśaṃsa).
- n.695 “All forms of wrong view” renders lta ba’i rnam pa thams cad (sarvadṛṣṭigata); Edg, s.v. dṛṣṭigata, says it is basically the same as dṛṣṭi.
- n.696 “In consecutive order and in reverse order” renders lugs dang mthun pa dang lugs dang myi mthun pa (anulomapratilomaṃ). Alternatively, “in a regular order and in an irregular order.”
- n.697 “Possess attributes that do not decline” renders yongs su myi nyam pa’i chos can. Cf. ŚsP II, asampramoṣadharma.
- n.698 The translation “in the absence of which excellent form” is based on Gilgit 140v3, na ca rūpasamṣadvīnā sattvān paripācayīṣyāmi.
- n.699 “The poor, the destitute, the supplicants, and beggars” renders phongs pa dang / nyam thag pa dang / ’dron po dang / slong ba; Kimura 2-3:52, kṛpaṇa-vanīkārthikayācanakebhyaḥ.
- n.700 “Attached to their ego,” alternatively “attached to acting on the basis of a self,” renders bdag tu bgyi ba la mngon par chags pa (ahaṃkārabhiniveśa).
- n.701 “Chant by heart” renders kha ton byed (svādhyāya). It means to repeat it to oneself aloud in order to commit it fully to memory, and having done so, to keep it in mind.
- n.702 “Without being humiliated or injured” renders ma smas ma nyams (akṣataś cānupahataś ca).

- n.703 Both the Twenty-Five Thousand and the Eighteen Thousand have “all-aspect omniscience,” which is what one expects, but none of the editions of the Hundred Thousand support the emendation, nor does ŚsP II-4:23, or even Kimura 2–3:54, sarvajñatācittena.
- n.704 This renders khon med pa dang gcugs med pa. Jäschke, s.v. gcugs pa, records khon gcugs (“conceive a hatred”).
- n.705 Here “placed” renders stsald (an honorific of the recipient), which renders the Skt pratiṣṭhāpayet; this is rendered below by bcug and blugs (based on putting the remains into a caitya and pouring the ashes and pieces of bone into a casket). “Cherished” renders mchod (again an honorific of the recipient), which renders the Skt pariharet, rendered below by gces pa.
- n.706 “Within a container” renders snod du stsal te. ŚsP II-4:27, samudgate kṛtvā, perhaps suggests the relics are in a container that is taken out of the caitya to be carried in a procession; Kimura and Gilgit omit.
- n.707 “Their physical body” renders nga’i sku (ātmabhāvaśarīra).
- n.708 atyantadharmapūjā? Cf. ŚsP II-4:28, parinivṛtasyāpi ca kauśika śarīrāṇy evaṃ śarīrapūjā bhaviṣyati, na tv anyathadharmapūjāḥ (?). The idea is that the worship of the “doctrine,” the perfection of wisdom, the speech of the tathāgatas, is a better object of worship than the physical remains, because the body is only the basis for the physical being and mind.
- n.709 “Within a container” renders snod du stsal te. ŚsP II-4:27, samudgate kṛtvā, perhaps suggests the relics are in a container that is taken out of the caitya to be carried in a procession; Kimura and Gilgit omit.
- n.710 “Unbroken devotion” renders mos pa mi phyed pa (abhedyaprasāda); alternatively, prasāda (here mos pa) is rendered by “serene confidence.”
- n.711 “Acts of service undertaken on behalf of senior family members” renders rigs kyi gtso bo la rim gro byed pa, ŚsP II-4:33, kule jyeṣṭhāpacāyakā (?). Earlier, 8.77 (ga F.60.b) renders kulajyeṣṭhānupālītā (?) with rigs kyi nang na rgan pa la rim gro byed pa.
- n.712 “Dwell with the perception of sense pleasures as a basic transgression” renders ’dod pa la kha na ma tho bar ’du shes shing / rnam par spyod pa, kāmadīnavasasaṃjñīno viharati* (?).
- n.713 Probably “commit to writing” has been left out by mistake.

- n.714 “Happens” here renders yod. Below it is rendered “exist.” The translators probably read prabhāvyate (“is necessarily there”). They have perhaps rendered prajñāyate by gdags su yod (“exist as a designation”).
- n.715 ŚsP II-4:54, saṃgrāmayiṣyāmas (“we will do battle with them”).
- n.716 “Medicinal plants” renders rtsi (oṣadhi). The logic behind connecting them with the shining of the full moon is probably because of an etymology of oṣadhi from the verbal root uṣ (“to burn”) as in uṣas (“the dawn”). In Tib rtsi also means the calculation to do with the movements of the heavenly bodies (astrology).
- n.717 Here smye sha can (“having skin with black moles”), ŚsP puṣkasa; according to Edg, s.v. pulkasa, “the name of a despised mixed tribe.”
- n.718 Kimura 2–3:74, parigṛhītā; Gilgit 148r3, anuparigṛhītā; ŚsP II 4–46, udgṛhītā (“taken up”).
- n.719 “Engaging correctly” renders yang dag par brtson (saṃyukta).
- n.720 “Endowed with luminosity” renders snag ba dang ldan pa, probably a translation of (dig) ālokajātā (“where light has been born”). Conze has “born of light.”
- n.721 “Consummates” renders yongs su sgrub pa, saṃvartayitā* (“the one that causes to be fully accomplished”). It appears to be a gloss of, rather than an alternative rendering of, the earlier kun tu ’dren pa (pariṇāyaka). It is not attested in the Skt editions.
- n.722 “Have done the practice for the purpose of becoming a tathāgata” renders de bzhin gshegs pa’i don du zhugs pa, ŚsP II-4:81, tathāgatapratipannās; Kimura 2–3:80, tathāgatapratimās (“are similar to a tathāgata”). Gilgit 149v13 is damaged.
- n.723 “Reinforce that inspired eloquence” renders spobs pa nye bar bsgrub pa (pratibhānam upasaṃhartavyaṃ).
- n.724 “Treasury” renders gter (nidhi).
- n.725 “Greatly valued” renders dgos par bya ba (prayas?*), “a desideratum”; cf. Twenty-Five Thousand kha F.95.b, dgongs par bya ba.
- n.726 “Maintain scrupulous conduct” renders gtsang sbra’i spyod pa dang ldan pa, caukṣasamācāra (“habitually clean”), explained by Haribhadra (cf. MDPL, s.v. caukṣasamācāra) as “extremely purified because of not doing any wrong.”

- n.727 “With great conviction” renders mos pa rgya chen po (udārādhimuktika).
- n.728 “Radiance” renders gsal ba; cf. Mvy, s.v. gsal ba, which gives paṭu as one meaning “(physically) adept”; ŚsP II-4:88, kathanīyata (“worth speaking of”).
- n.729 “Discussing together” renders yang dag par (emend ‘gro to bgro) bgro bar byed pa (saṃgāyamāna). Cf. MDPL, s.v. saṃgāyamāna, which glosses this as “ascertaining the meaning of the book.”
- n.730 “Will have undertaken something” renders zhugs pa yin, ŚsP II-4:94, pratipanno bhaviṣyati.
- n.731 “Not have confidence” renders myi rton pa, apratyaya; Edg, s.v. apratyaya, “discontent, ill-will.”
- n.732 “Not think highly” renders btsun par myi bgyid pa, abahumānatā.
- n.733 “Brought into being” renders bsgrubs pa, paribhāvita.
- n.734 “Brought into being” renders yongs su bsgrub pa, paribhāvitatva.
- n.735 “One that brings it about” renders yongs su sgrub pa, āhārika.
- n.736 “The mental consciousness included in phenomena” (chos kyi khongs su gtogs pa’i yid, dharmāntargatena mānasena), means, of the twelve sense fields (*āyatana*s), it is not mental consciousness, but is a special consciousness included in mental phenomena.
- n.737 “Panic” renders bag tsha ba (stambhita).
- n.738 “Does not need to worry about” renders dogs pa ma mchis par bgyi (na pratikāṅkṣita); cf. Edg, s.v. pratikāṅkṣati, records (once) the meaning of Pali paṭikaṅkhin as “expecting (dangers).”
- n.739 “Precious Jewels” here renders dkon mchog (bhāga). Earlier the same word, bhāga, was rendered by cha (“part” or “choice”).
- n.740 “That is logically what happens” renders gsa’.
- n.741 This is summarizing the earlier exchange (21.1–21.24) between Ānanda and the Blessed One.
- n.742 “Present” renders nye bar gnas (pratyupasthita).
- n.743 “Robe” renders gos, ŚsP II-4:107, cīvara; Kimura 2–3:94, vastra.
- n.744 “Purple” renders leb rgan, māñjiṣṭha (“madder”).

- n.745 “Longing” renders mos pa (spṛha).
- n.746 “The unchanging nature of reality” renders chos myi ’gyur ba nyid (dharmaniyāmatā). Usually, in both the Degé version of the Hundred Thousand and the Twenty-Five Thousand, this is dharmanyāmatā rendered as chos kyi skyon med pa nyid (“the maturity of phenomena”).
- n.747 “Without subtraction and without addition” renders dbri ba dang bsnan pa ma mchis pa, anāyūhāniyūha, from the verbal root wah (“nothing has been brought in and nothing has been taken out”).
- n.748 This “thoroughly cultivated” renders yongs su bsgoms pa, which renders the same paribhāvita that was earlier rendered yongs su bsgrub pa (“brought into being”).
- n.749 “Believe in my heart” renders the archaism glo ba mches pa (pratyaya).
- n.750 Alternatively, Conze, translating the corresponding passage in the Eight Thousand, renders dharmatayā as “in accordance with dharma.”
- n.751 “Gone far off” and “gone to the other side” render ring du song (āram itā) and pha rol tu phyin (pāram itā); “over here” and “over there” render tshur rol (apāra) and pha rol (pāra).
- n.752 “There as the plain” and “there as the valley” are literal renderings of thang du ’dug pa and gshong du ’dug pa, which in turn render sthala (“prominent,” “conspicuous”) and nimna (“sunk down,” “inconspicuous”).
- n.753 “Surveying” renders rnam par lta ba (vilokita*); cf. Kimura 2–3: 99, vibhāvaya, and ŚsP II-4:119, vivikta.
- n.754 “Height and width” renders chu zheng (ārohapariṇāha). Perhaps chu is a collapsed or abbreviated form of [che] chu[ng].
- n.755 Cf. ŚsP II-4:122, aprameyaguṇasamanvāgatā bhagavan prajñāpāramitā apramāṇa-guṇasamanvāgatā (“endowed with good qualities that cannot be measured (as objects) and endowed with good qualities that are not instruments of measurement (as subjects)”).
- n.756 “Boundless” renders mu myed pa (aparyanta).
- n.757 “Pearl relics” renders ring bsrel; ŚsP II-4:122, Kimura 2–3:101, dhātu.
- n.758 Here “learned,” rendering mkhas pa, appears to render anyatarānyataranīya (“worthy to be one from the other”), which is possibly to say the recipient of an intellectual heritage.

- n.759 “Like Brahmā in conduct” renders tshangs pa mtshungs par spyod pa (sabrahmacārin), either living a life of celibacy or living a life of pure conduct.
- n.760 “Even somebody like me” renders nga nyid kyang (aham eva tāvat).
- n.761 “Maturity of the perfect nature” renders yang dag pa’i skyon med pa nyid (samyaktvanyāma/niyāma). MDPL, s.v. samyaktvanyāma, glosses this with “certainty that he will win salvation by the methods appropriate to the Disciples.”
- n.762 The subject, “the single being,” is omitted here and in all the comparisons until the phrase “the single being who is placed into unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment” is given in the pratyekabuddha comparison below. “They would have done it” renders zhugs; cf. ŚsP II-4:126, pratipanno bhavati (the single person “has practiced”); Kimura 2–3:103, pratyupasthito bhavati (“has been established”).
- n.763 “From this round of teaching” renders rnam grangs des (anena paryāyeṇa).
- n.764 ŚsP II-4:141, Kimura 2–3:107.
- n.765 The idea is that the topics (“the letter”) should be taught, but so should their ultimate nature (“the meaning”). The Stok version of the Hundred Thousand (ja F.323.b.2) has the same reading.
- n.766 “Reflection” renders gzugs brnyan, perhaps reading pratibimba in place of prativarṇika, “counterfeit.”
- n.767 “Will imagine” renders rtog par ’gyur in the sense of a wish that something is there when it is not; cf. ŚsP II-4:185, gaveṣiṣyante, Kimura 2–3:110, gaveṣiṣyanti (“seek for”).
- n.768 “While cultivating” renders bsgoms dang, based on ŚsP II-4:214, bhāvayan, and Kimura 2–3:112, bhāvayamānaḥ.
- n.769 “Derive their existence” renders yod par ’gyur (prabhāvyante, from the root prabhū).
- n.770 “Swiftly” here has the negative connotation of not wanting to remain a bodhisattva for the sake of others.
- n.771 Kimura 2–3:120, amī bhūtkañṭhitāḥ (=bhū? utkāṇṭhitāḥ) saṃsārād. Bṭ1, pp. 25–26: “As for the other bodhisattvas, they have become certain, their minds are on unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment, so even if this perfection of wisdom is not taught to them they will not turn back. Some among those bodhisattvas want to quickly fully awaken to unsurpassed, perfect, complete enlightenment and be liberated from saṃsāra. They do not want to practice a bodhisattva's great compassion. If they teach this perfection of wisdom to them in detail and cause them to enter into the practice, their merit increases even more than the former." Conze, Large Sutra 1975, p. 267 is unsure about the meaning and gives a different interpretation.

- n.772 "Basic necessities: robes, alms, bedding, and medications used to treat ill health" renders gos dang/ bsod snyoms dang/ mal cha dang/ nad kyi rkyen sman dang yo byad (cīvarapīṇḍpātraśayanāsanaglānapratyayabhaiṣajya-pariṣkāra). These are the basic necessities of an ordained person. The word is also used for "everyday necessities" in general. Cf. Edg, s.v. pariṣkāra.
- n.773 "Source" renders 'byung ba, prabhava.
- n.774 The idea is that the meritorious action is a foundation, somewhat like building up a store of goodwill. The bodhisattvas' good deeds (the object in which one should rejoice) are supreme because whatever they do, they do for the sake of others, while ordinary good deeds, and even the meditation and so on of śrāvakas, is for a personal benefit.
- n.775 "Sign" and "mental image" both render mtshan ma (nimitta).
- n.776 "Transformed" renders rnam par gyur (vipariṇata); pariṇāma by itself is consistently rendered bsngo ("dedicate").
- n.777 "More belief" renders mos pa mang ba (adhimuktibahula).
- n.778 "Gather together, compress into one, and take the measure" renders mngon par bsod te/ gcig tu brjul nas/ tshad bzung; Kimura 2–3:128, abhisamkṣīpya piṇḍayitvā tulayitvā.
- n.779 "Focus their thoughts, as is their habit" renders sems shing bsams (samanvāhṛ).
- n.780 "Not within the scope of mental images" renders mtshan ma'i yul ma yin.
- n.781 "Bodies of theirs" renders bdag gi lus de dag; Kimura 2–3:131, ātmabhāva[h].
- n.782 Emend gsod pa to bsod pa; Kimura 2–3:132, praṇīta.
- n.783 "Transforms" renders 'gyur; Kimura 2–3:132, pariṇāma ("dedication, transformation").
- n.784 Bṭ1: "One's own rejoicing and dedication and causing others to enter into rejoicing and dedication in that manner; the uncontaminated roots of virtue of those lord buddhas' śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas."

- n.785 "Their natural condition" renders ngang tshul gang yin pa (yajjātika).
- n.786 "Humbled" renders 'jum; Kimura 2–3:140, avaman. bod rgya tshig mdzod chen mo, s.v. 'jum pa, gives kheng ba btong ba as an old usage.
- n.787 "Belief" renders mos pa; alternatively, "resolve."
- n.788 "Feeling an enthusiasm for" renders don du nyams su len; Kimura 2–3:142, autsukyam āpad.
- n.789 "Rendering visual distortion nonexistent" renders rab rib ma mchis par dgyid pa; Kimura 2–3:142, vitimirakarī.
- n.790 "Supreme" renders mchog tu bgyid pa (agrakārī); alternatively, "renders [them] supreme." Bṛ1 comments, "It means that it is the foremost cause that brings about the attainment of enlightenment."
- n.791 Emend ba'i to ba (Kimura 2–3:142, sarvavāsanānusaṃdhiklēśa); alternative translations such as "propensities for afflictive mental states that cause linking up" do not fit the context. Cf. the footnote to Hundred Thousand ka F.41.a–42.a, n.106.
- n.792 "Protector" renders mgon dgyid pa (nāthakarī).
- n.793 "Works as the ten powers" renders bstob bcu bgyid pa (daśabalakarī).
- n.794 The canonical explanation (see, for example, The Sūtra of the Wheel of Dharma, Toh 337, 1.3–1.14 and n.21) is that the three times are when the Buddha (1) proclaims what the four truths are; (2) teaches that they must be comprehended, eliminated, realized, and cultivated; and (3) states that he himself has comprehended, eliminated, realized, and cultivated them. At the end of each truth The Sūtra of the Wheel of Dharma says, "I reflected thoroughly, the vision arose, and the insight, knowledge, understanding, and realization arose." In explaining the twelve ways or aspects, Haribhadra (Wogihara 382, translated in Sparham, vol. 2, p. 264) explains this same canonical passage as follows: "Paying proper attention to phenomena not heard about before, a wisdom eye without outflows that directly perceives reality has dawned, knowledge free from doubt, an understanding of the way things are, and an intellectual awareness that is purified have dawned." For each of the three times there are these four aspects: the Buddha directly perceives reality with an uncontaminated wisdom eye (= "the vision"), knows with an understanding free from doubt (= "the insight"), understands the way things are (bhūtārtha) (= “the knowledge”), and has a purified intellectual awareness (buddhi) (= “realization”).

- n.795 “Emerge from” renders ’byung (prabhū, Kimura 2–3:143, prabhāvyante); “derive its dignity from” (Conze), “a category of” (Sparham).
- n.796 “Clearly achieve” renders mngon par sgrub (abhinirhṛ). Other possible renderings include “consummate,” “bring into being,” and “find within oneself and produce.” Kimura 2–3:147, lines 23–28. This passage and the paragraphs that immediately follow appear to suggest that the very act of perception is incompatible with the practice of the perfection of wisdom, even if the perception is accurate. The Ten Thousand inverts the interpretation here.
- n.797 “In vain” renders gsog (tucchā).
- n.798 “Have conviction” renders yid ches pa, Mvy pratyayita. Kimura 2–3:146, reading pratyarpitā, understands: “Because they have caused the perfection of wisdom to be attained, they do not cause physical forms to be attained.”
- n.799 Literally, the Tib says, “Because they have conviction in the perfection of wisdom, in which phenomena do they not have conviction?”
- n.800 “Not enhance or diminish” renders che bar myi bgyid chung bar myi bgyid (na mahatḥ nālpīḥ) (literally, “neither makes bigger nor makes smaller”).
- n.801 “Not gather together or scatter apart” renders ’du bar myi bgyid yangs bar myi bgyid. Eight Thousand (vaidya 88) has na saṃkṣip na vikṣip.
- n.802 “Does not make measurable or make immeasurable” renders tshad mchis par myi bgyid tshad ma mchis par myi bgyid.
- n.803 “Not expand or compress” renders rgya chen por myi bgyid rgya chung ngur myi bgyid, Kimura 2–3:147, na parittīḥ na vipulīḥ.
- n.804 “Not strengthen or weaken” renders mthu dang ldan par myi bgyid mthu ma mchis par myi bgyid (na balīḥ na durbalīḥ).
- n.805 “As reality and as method” renders don dang tshul gyis, Kimura 2–3:149, arthataś ca nayataś ca.
- n.806 “Incomparable” renders mtshungs par myed pa, Mvy apratīṣama; cf. Eighteen Thousand, kha F.59.a (35.2 (<https://read.84000.co/translation/toh10.html#UT22084-029-001-3034>)), “imponderable,” perhaps rendering apratīṣamdhī.

- n.807 “Actual perfection of wisdom” renders shes rab kyi pha rol tu phyin pa nyid.
- n.808 “Insentient” renders sems myed pa (usually bem po), jaḍa (“material,” “inanimate”).
- n.809 “Make an effort at” renders brtson par bgyid (yogam āpad).
- n.810 “There is a distinction that must be explained” renders rnam par phyed zhing bshad dgos pa. Edg, s.v. vibhajya-vyākaraṇa, an explanation “distinguishing aspects beyond what the question itself immediately raised.”
- n.811 The Tibetan reads “roast” (bsreg bar ’gyur ro), whereas Kimura 2–3, p. 151, reads prakṣepsyante (“they will be cast into”).
- n.812 “Somehow or other” renders brgya la (kathaṃcit). Kimura 2–3:151, kadācit karhicit.
- n.813 “Reject” renders phyir spang ba.
- n.814 “Having ruined” renders nyams par byas; Kimura 2–3:151, upahatya.
- n.815 “Misled” renders tshul ma yin pa (anaya).
- n.816 “Calamity” renders ’jigs pa; Kimura 2–3:152, vyasana.
- n.817 “Measure of the body” renders lus kyi tshad; Kimura 2–3:152, ātmabhāvasya pramāṇa. It means the amount of suffering and the length of time it is experienced.
- n.818 That is, in the hells, in the animal realms, or in the world of Yama.
- n.819 “Carried out fully” renders tshang par byas pa.
- n.820 “So long” renders ’di srid du (iyacciram).
- n.821 “Terrible form of life” renders ngan song, apāya (“when things have gone badly”).
- n.822 “Mundane right view” renders ’jig rten gyi yang dag pa’i lta ba (laukikī samyagdrṣṭiḥ).
- n.823 “In how many ways” renders rnam pa du zhig gis, katamair ākāraiḥ.
- n.824 “Act out of hatred” renders zhe sdang gi spyod pa can (dveṣacarita); cp. Kimura 2–3:152, doṣacaritāś (“conduct themselves badly”).

- n.825 “The past limit that has the essential nature of a nonentity,” or, alternatively, “the past limit, which has the essential nature of a nonentity,” renders sngon gyi mtha’ dngos po myed pa’i rang bzhin, a literal rendering of (Kimura 2–3:154) pūrvānto ’bhāvasvabhāvo. It does not make sense in English to say “the past limit, the essential nature of a nonentity, is physical forms.” “The essential nature of a nonentity” renders dngos po myed pa’i rang bzhin (abhāvasvabhāva). If you take the negative prefix a at the start of the compound as qualifying the following (a dvandva compound), it means “the absence of the essential nature of an entity.” As a bahuvrihi compound (abhāvasvabhāvo yasmin), the sentence would then mean, “The past limit in which there is the absence of the essential nature of an entity is physical forms.”
- n.826 Here “utter purity” renders yongs su dag pa (parisuddhi). In the previous sections “purity” rendered rnam par dag pa (visuddhi). Among the many senses of the prefixes vi- and pari- are “individualization” and “all-encircling,” respectively.
- n.827 Note the change here from “emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness” to “the emptiness, signlessness, and wishlessness gateways to liberation.”
- n.828 Here, and in the following, the absence of the different stages of śrāvaka attainment is noteworthy.
- n.829 Again, it is noteworthy that all of the attainments, starting from the fruit of having entered the stream, are spelled out here in place of just knowledge of all the dharmas.
- n.830 Again, “utter purity” here renders yongs su dag pa (parisuddhi), as distinct from “purity” (rnam par dag pa, visuddhi).
- n.831 That is, linking up with a new set of aggregates in rebirth.
- n.832 “Abiding nature of the reality of phenomena” renders chos kyi dbyings kyi gnas nyid (dharmadhātusthititā).
- n.833 According to the Abhisamayālaṃkāra this begins the third section of the Sūtra, explaining the difference between the understanding of the foundational teachings by a śrāvaka and by a bodhisattva.
- n.834 “Dedicated” renders yongs su bsngo ba (pariṇāmayitum); alternatively, “transformed.”
- n.835 “Up to the establishment of the good Dharma” renders dam pa’i chos gnas pa’i bar; alternatively, “for as long as the good Dharma remains.”

- n.836 “Speak in praise” renders legs par brjod (varṇaṃ bhāṣ); “speak disparagingly” renders ma legs par brjod (avarṇaṃ bhāṣ).
- n.837 “Want to buttress space with the sky” renders nam mkha’ bar nang la gdegs par ’tshal ba; Kimura 2–3:174, ākāśaṃ te antarikṣaṃ utkseptukāmāḥ.
- n.838 “Rush” renders od ma, Mvy piṇḍaveṇu (“lump bamboo”).
- n.839 “Without conventional designations” renders tha snyad med pa; Kimura 2–3:180, avyāhāratā.
- n.840 These are the eighth, fourteenth, and fifteenth days of the month in the lunar calendar.
- n.841 “Positioning themselves” renders ’god pa (ṣṭhā).

g.14 absorption

snyoms par 'jug pa · mnyam par bzhag pa

སྒྲིམས་པར་འཇུག་པ། · མཉམ་པར་བཞག་པ།

samāpatti · samāhita

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Sanskrit literally means “attainment,” and is used to refer specifically to meditative attainment and to particular meditative states. The Tibetan translators interpreted it as sama-āpatti, which suggests the idea of “equal” or “level”; however, they also parsed it as sam-āpatti, in which case it would have the sense of “concentration” or “absorption,” much like samādhi, but with the added sense of “attainment.”

In this text:

Also rendered here as “meditative absorption.”

g.15 acceptance that phenomena are nonarising myi skye ba'i chos la bzod pa · skye ba myed pa'i chos la bzod pa

མྱི་སྐྱེ་བའི་ཆོས་ལ་བཟོད་པ། · སྐྱེ་བ་མྱེད་པའི་ཆོས་ལ་བཟོད་པ།

anutapattikadharmakṣānti

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The bodhisattvas’ realization that all phenomena are unproduced and empty. It sustains them on the difficult path of benefiting all beings so that they do not succumb to the goal of personal liberation. Different sources link this realization to the first or eighth bodhisattva level (bhūmi).

g.16 accounts

g.21 afflicted mental state

nyon mongs pa

ཉོན་མོངས་པ།

kleśa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The essentially pure nature of mind is obscured and afflicted by various psychological defilements, which destroy the mind’s peace and composure and lead to unwholesome deeds of body, speech, and mind, acting as causes for continued existence in saṃsāra. Included among them are the primary afflictions of desire (rāga), anger (dveṣa), and ignorance (avidyā). It is said that there are eighty-four thousand of these negative mental qualities, for which the eighty-four thousand categories of the Buddha’s teachings serve as the antidote.

Kleśa is also commonly translated as “negative emotions,” “disturbing emotions,” and so on. The Pāli kilesa, Middle Indic kileśa, and Buddhist Hybrid Sanskrit kleśa all primarily mean “stain” or “defilement.” The translation “affliction” is a secondary development that derives from the more general (non-Buddhist) classical understanding of √kliś (“to harm,” “to afflict”). Both meanings are noted by Buddhist commentators.

sarvākārajñatā

This key term in the Prajñāpāramitā literature refers to the omniscience of a buddha, and is not to be confused with the “knowledge of the aspects of the path” of bodhisattvas, or with the knowledge of all the dharmas (thams cad shes pa, lit. “omniscience”) of śrāvakas. The “all-aspect” (sarvākāra) part of the term refers to the different aspects that it comprises, and is explained in two ways in The Long Explanation (Toh 3808, 4.78–4.80). One way identifies the “aspects” as being qualities such as nonarising and unproduced, unceasing, primordially at peace, naturally in nirvāṇa, without intrinsic nature, emptiness, signlessness, wishlessness, etc. The other way identifies them as being the collections of the wholesome, unwholesome, and neutral, and the collection of those destined for error and those of uncertain destiny. All-aspect omniscience is also the first of the eight progressive stages of clear realization.

ānanda

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A major śrāvaka disciple and personal attendant of the Buddha Śākyamuni during the last twenty-five years of his life. He was a cousin of the Buddha (according to the Mahāvastu, he was a son of Śuklodana, one of the brothers of King Śuddhodana, which means he was a brother of Devadatta; other sources say he was a son of Amṛtodana, another brother of King Śuddhodana, which means he would have been a brother of Aniruddha).

Ānanda, having always been in the Buddha's presence, is said to have memorized all the teachings he heard and is celebrated for having recited all the Buddha's teachings by memory at the first council of the Buddhist saṅgha, thus preserving the teachings after the Buddha's parinirvāṇa. The phrase "Thus did I hear at one time," found at the beginning of the sūtras, usually stands for his recitation of the teachings. He became a patriarch after the passing of Mahākāśyapa.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A type of nonhuman being whose precise status is subject to different views, but is included as one of the six classes of beings in the sixfold classification of realms of rebirth. In the Buddhist context, asuras are powerful beings said to be dominated by envy, ambition, and hostility. They are also known in the pre-Buddhist and pre-Vedic mythologies of India and Iran, and feature prominently in Vedic and post-Vedic Brahmanical mythology, as well as in the Buddhist tradition. In these traditions, asuras are often described as being engaged in interminable conflict with the devas (gods).

g.90 Bimbisāra

bim bi sa ra

བིམ་བི་ས་ར།

bimbisāra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The king of Magadha and a great patron of the Buddha. His birth coincided with the Buddha’s, and his father, King Mahāpadma, named him “Essence of Gold” after mistakenly attributing the brilliant light that marked the Buddha’s birth to the birth of his son by Queen Bimbī (“Goldie”). Accounts of Bimbisāra’s youth and life can be found in The Chapter on Going Forth (Toh 1-1, Pravrajyāvastu).

King Śreṇya Bimbisāra first met with the Buddha early on, when the latter was the wandering mendicant known as Gautama. Impressed by his conduct, Bimbisāra offered to take Gautama into his court, but Gautama refused, and Bimbisāra wished him success in his quest for awakening and asked him to visit his palace after he had achieved his goal. One account of this episode can be found in the sixteenth chapter of The Play in Full (Toh 95, Lalitavistara). There are other accounts where the two meet earlier on in childhood; several episodes can be found, for example, in The Hundred Deeds (Toh 340, Karmaśataka). Later, after the Buddha’s awakening, Bimbisāra became one of his most famous patrons and donated to the saṅgha the Bamboo Grove, Veṇuvana, at the outskirts of the capital of Magadha, Rājagṛha, where he built residences for the monks. Bimbisāra was imprisoned and killed by his own son, the prince Ajātaśatru, who, influenced by Devadatta, sought to usurp his father's throne.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Buddhist literature, this is an epithet applied to buddhas, most often to Śākyamuni. The Sanskrit term generally means “possessing fortune,” but in specifically Buddhist contexts it implies that a buddha is in possession of six auspicious qualities (bhaga) associated with complete awakening. The Tibetan term—where bcom is said to refer to “subduing” the four māras, ldan to “possessing” the great qualities of buddhahood, and 'das to “going beyond” saṃsāra and nirvāṇa—possibly reflects the commentarial tradition where the Sanskrit bhagavat is interpreted, in addition, as “one who destroys the four māras.” This is achieved either by reading bhagavat as bhagnavat (“one who broke”), or by tracing the word bhaga to the root √bhañj (“to break”).

In this text:

In this text, we have opted to translate the epithet bhagavat (bcom ldan 'das) as “the Blessed One” when it stands alone in narrative contexts, and as “Lord” when found in dialogue, as in the vocative expressions “Blessed Lord” (bhadantabhadgavan, btsun pa bcom ldan 'das) and “Lord Buddha” (bhagavanbuddha, sangs rgyas bcom ldan 'das).

g.97 bodhisattva great being

བྱང་ཆུབ་སེམས་དཔའ་སེམས་དཔའ་ཆེན་པོ། bodhisattvamahāsattva

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The term can be understood to mean “great courageous one” or “great hero,” or (from the Sanskrit) simply “great being,” and is almost always found as an epithet of “bodhisattva.” The qualification “great” in this term, according to the majority of canonical definitions, focuses on the generic greatness common to all bodhisattvas, i.e., the greatness implicit in the bodhisattva vow itself in terms of outlook, aspiration, number of beings to be benefited, potential or eventual accomplishments, and so forth. In this sense the mahā- is closer in its connotations to the mahā- in “Mahāyāna” than to the mahā- in “mahāsiddha.” While individual bodhisattvas described as mahāsattva may in many cases also be “great” in terms of their level of realization, this is largely coincidental, and in the canonical texts the epithet is not restricted to bodhisattvas at any particular point in their career. Indeed, in a few cases even bodhisattvas whose path has taken a wrong direction are still described as bodhisattva mahāsattva.

Later commentarial writings do nevertheless define the term—variably—in terms of bodhisattvas having attained a particular level (bhūmi) or realization. The most common qualifying criteria mentioned are attaining the path of seeing, attaining irreversibility (according to its various definitions), or attaining the seventh bhūmi.

g.101 Brahmā

ཚེས་པ།

brahmā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A high-ranking deity presiding over a divine world; he is also considered to be the lord of the Sahā world (our universe). Though not considered a creator god in Buddhism, Brahmā occupies an important place as one of two gods (the other being Indra/Śakra) said to have first exhorted the Buddha Śākyamuni to teach the Dharma. The particular heavens found in the form realm over which Brahmā rules are often some of the most sought-after realms of higher rebirth in Buddhist literature. Since there are many universes or world systems, there are also multiple Brahmās presiding over them. His most frequent epithets are “Lord of the Sahā World” (sahāṃpati) and Great Brahmā (mahābrahman).

The expression “by way of apprehending” implies that ordinary persons perceive phenomena as inherently existing, whereas bodhisattvas are said to act and teach “without apprehending anything.” On the latter term, see its respective glossary entry. See also “apprehend.”

mchod rten

མཚན་རྟེན།

caitya ^{AD}

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Tibetan translates both stūpa and caitya with the same word, mchod rten, meaning “basis” or “recipient” of “offerings” or “veneration.” Pali: cetiya.

A caitya, although often synonymous with stūpa, can also refer to any site, sanctuary or shrine that is made for veneration, and may or may not contain relics.

A stūpa, literally “heap” or “mound,” is a mounded or circular structure usually containing relics of the Buddha or the masters of the past. It is considered to be a sacred object representing the awakened mind of a buddha, but the symbolism of the stūpa is complex, and its design varies throughout the Buddhist world. Stūpas continue to be erected today as objects of veneration and merit making.

རྒྱལ་ཆེན་བཞིའི་རིས། · རྒྱལ་པོ་ཆེན་པོ་བཞིའི་རིས།

cāturmahārājika

Lit. “Abode of the Four Great Kings.” For consistency rgyal chen bzhi'i ris is rendered Cāturmahārājika (“[gods] belonging to the group of the Four Great Kings”), even though there are a number of Skt. forms (Edg says the forms are cāturmahārājakāyika and less often Cāturmahārājika, and Cāturmahārājika and less often caturmahārājika) and slight differences are encountered in the Tib. translation. “Gods” is sometimes rendered explicitly and is sometimes implicit in the Tib.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the heavens of Buddhist cosmology, lowest among the six heavens of the desire realm (kāmadhātu, *’dod kham*s). Dwelling place of the Four Great Kings (caturmahārāja, rgyal chen bzhi), traditionally located on a terrace of Sumeru, just below the Heaven of the Thirty-Three. Each cardinal direction is ruled by one of the Four Great Kings and inhabited by a different class of nonhuman beings as their subjects: in the east, Dhṛtarāṣṭra rules the gandharvas; in the south, Virūḍhaka rules the kumbhāṇḍas; in the west, Virūpākṣa rules the nāgas; and in the north, Vaiśravaṇa rules the yakṣas.

zag pa

ཟག་པ།

āsrava

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Literally, “to flow” or “to ooze.” Mental defilements or contaminations that “flow out” toward the objects of cyclic existence, binding us to them.

Vasubandhu offers two alternative explanations of this term: “They cause beings to remain (āsayanti) within saṃsāra” and “They flow from the Summit of Existence down to the Avīci hell, out of the six wounds that are the sense fields” (Abhidharmakośabhāṣya 5.40; Pradhan 1967, p. 308). The Summit of Existence (bhavāgra, srid pa'i rtse mo) is the highest point within saṃsāra, while the hell called Avīci (mnar med) is the lowest; the six sense fields (āyatana, skye mched) here refer to the five sense faculties plus the mind, i.e., the six internal sense fields.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the three poisons (dug gsum) along with aversion, or hatred, and attachment, or desire, which perpetuate the sufferings of cyclic existence. It is the obfuscating mental state which obstructs an individual from generating knowledge or insight, and it is said to be the dominant characteristic of the animal world in general. Commonly rendered as confusion, delusion, and ignorance, or bewilderment.

- g.174 dependent origination

རྟེན་ཅིང་འབྲེལ་པར་འབྱུང་བ།

The principle of dependent origination asserts that nothing exists independently of other factors, the reason for this being that things and events come into existence only by dependence on the aggregation of causes and conditions. In general, the processes of cyclic existence, through which the external world and the beings within it revolve in a continuous cycle of suffering, propelled by the propensities of past actions and their interaction with afflicted mental states, originate dependent on the sequential unfolding of twelve links, commencing from ignorance and ending with birth, aging, and death. It is only through deliberate reversal of these twelve links that one can succeed in bringing the whole cycle to an end. See also “twelve links of dependent origination.”

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

brgyad pa'i sa · brgyad pa

བརྒྱད་པའི་ས། · བརྒྱད་པ།

aṣṭamakabhūmi · aṣṭamaka

Name of the third of the ten levels traversed by all practitioners, from the state of an ordinary person up to buddhahood, distinct from the ten bodhisattva levels. See “ten levels.”

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A person who is “eight steps” away in the arc of their development from becoming an arhat (Tib. dgaṃ bcom pa). Specifically, this term refers to one who is on the cusp of becoming a stream enterer (Skt. srotaāpanna; Tib. rgyun du zhugs pa), and it is the first and lowest stage in a list of eight stages or classes of a noble person (Skt. āryapudgala). The person at this lowest stage in the sequence is still on the path of seeing (Skt. darśanamārga; Tib. mtshong lam) and then enters the path of cultivation (Skt. bhāvanāmārga; Tib. sgom lam) upon attaining the next stage, that of a stream enterer (stage seven). From there they progress through the remaining stages of the śrāvaka path, becoming in turn a once-returner (stages six and five), a non-returner (stages four and three), and an arhat (stages two and one). This same “eighth stage” also appears in a set of ten stages (Skt. daśabhūmi; Tib. sa bcu) found in Mahāyāna sources, where it is the third out of the ten. Not to be confused with the ten stages of the bodhisattva’s path, these ten stages mark the progress of one who sequentially follows the paths of a śrāvaka, pratyekabuddha, and then bodhisattva on their way to complete buddhahood. In this set of ten stages a person “on the eighth stage” is similarly one who is on the cusp of becoming a stream enterer.

śūnyatā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Emptiness denotes the ultimate nature of reality, the total absence of inherent existence and self-identity with respect to all phenomena.

According to this view, all things and events are devoid of any independent, intrinsic reality that constitutes their essence. Nothing can be said to exist independent of the complex network of factors that gives rise to its origination, nor are phenomena independent of the cognitive processes and mental constructs that make up the conventional framework within which their identity and existence are posited. When all levels of conceptualization dissolve and when all forms of dichotomizing tendencies are quelled through deliberate meditative deconstruction of conceptual elaborations, the ultimate nature of reality will finally become manifest. It is the first of the three gateways to liberation.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A cosmic period of time, sometimes equivalent to the time when a world system appears, exists, and disappears. According to the traditional Abhidharma understanding of cyclical time, a great eon (mahākalpa) is divided into eighty lesser eons. In the course of one great eon, the universe takes form and later disappears. During the first twenty of the lesser eons, the universe is in the process of creation and expansion; during the next twenty it remains; during the third twenty, it is in the process of destruction; and during the last quarter of the cycle, it remains in a state of empty stasis. A fortunate, or good, eon (bhadrakalpa) refers to any eon in which more than one buddha appears.

The six extrasensory powers (miraculous ability, clairaudience, knowing beings' minds, recollecting past lives, clairvoyance, and knowing the contaminants have ceased) are described fully in 2.601-2.613. The five extrasensory powers are the first five of these, the sixth being the only one attainable only by arhats.

g.308 final nirvāṇa

ཡོངས་སུ་མྱ་ངན་ལས་བརྒྱལ་བ།

parinirvāṇa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

This refers to what occurs at the end of an arhat’s or a buddha’s life. When nirvāṇa is attained at awakening, whether as an arhat or buddha, all suffering, afflicted mental states (kleśa), and causal processes (karman) that lead to rebirth and suffering in cyclic existence have ceased, but due to previously accumulated karma, the aggregates of that life remain and must still exhaust themselves. It is only at the end of life that these cease, and since no new aggregates arise, the arhat or buddha is said to attain parinirvāṇa, meaning “complete” or “final” nirvāṇa. This is synonymous with the attainment of nirvāṇa without remainder (anupadhiśeṣanirvāṇa).

According to the Mahāyāna view of a single vehicle (ekayāna), the arhat’s parinirvāṇa at death, despite being so called, is not final. The arhat must still enter the bodhisattva path and reach buddhahood (see Unraveling the Intent, Toh 106, 7.14.) On the other hand, the parinirvāṇa of a buddha, ultimately speaking, should be understood as a display manifested for the benefit of beings; see The Teaching on the Extraordinary Transformation That Is the Miracle of Attaining the Buddha’s Powers (Toh 186), 1.32.

The term parinirvāṇa is also associated specifically with the passing away of the Buddha Śākyamuni, in Kuśinagara, in northern India.

pañcopādānaskandha

A collective name for the five contaminated aggregates (sāsravaskandha, zag bcas kyi phung po): (1) physical forms, (2) feelings, (3) perceptions, (4) formative predispositions, and (5) consciousness. These “appropriated” aggregates (upādānaskandha, nye bar len pa'i phung po) emerge through the primary cause of past actions and afflicted mental states, and become the primary cause for subsequent actions and afflicted mental states. They are the bases upon which a nonexistent self is mistakenly projected. That is, they are the basis of “appropriation” (upādāna) insofar as all grasping arises on the basis of the aggregates.

g.311 five aggregates

gling bzhi

གླིང་བཞི།

caturdvīpa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

According to traditional Buddhist cosmology, our universe consists of a central mountain, known as Mount Meru or Sumeru, surrounded by four island continents (dvīpa), one in each of the four cardinal directions. The Abhidharmakośa explains that each of these island continents has a specific shape and is flanked by two smaller subcontinents of similar shape. To the south of Mount Meru is Jambudvīpa, corresponding either to the Indian subcontinent itself or to the known world. It is triangular in shape, and at its center is the place where the buddhas attain awakening. The humans who inhabit Jambudvīpa have a lifespan of one hundred years. To the east is Videha, a semicircular continent inhabited by humans who have a lifespan of two hundred fifty years and are twice as tall as the humans who inhabit Jambudvīpa. To the north is Uttarakuru, a square continent whose inhabitants have a lifespan of a thousand years. To the west is Godānīya, circular in shape, where the lifespan is five hundred years.

yang dag par spong ba bzhi

ཡང་དག་པར་སྟོང་བ་བཞི།

catuḥprahāṇa

The four correct exertions are (1) preventing negative states of mind from arising, (2) removing those that have already arisen, (3) giving rise to positive states that have not yet arisen, and (4) maintaining those that have already arisen. While the translation of this term here follows the Sanskrit, a literal translation from Tibetan would be “four correct abandonings,” a rendering often seen. It is possible that the Tibetan translators may originally have confused the meaning in Buddhist Hybrid Sanskrit (BHS) of the term prahāṇa (“exertion”) with its meaning in classical Sanskrit (“elimination”). The classical Sanskrit equivalent of BHS prahāṇa is pradhāna.

mi 'jigs pa bzhi

མི་འཇིགས་པ་བཞི།

caturvaiśāradya

The four fearlessnesses are proclaimed by the tathāgatas as: (1) “I claim to have attained perfectly complete buddhahood”; (2) “I claim I am one whose contaminants have ceased”; (3) “I claim to have explained those phenomena that cause obstacles”; (4) “I claim to have shown the path that leads to realizing the emancipation of the noble and that will genuinely bring an end to suffering for those who make use of it.” The listing of the four fearlessnesses is translated and analyzed in Konow 1941: pp. 39–40, with reconstructed Sanskrit on pp. 106–7. A full explanation of the fearlessnesses can be found in the passage at 2.388–2.425 in The Teaching on the Great Compassion of the Tathāgata (Tathāgatamahākaruṇānirdeśa, Toh 147), in which the four fearlessnesses are described as the eleventh to fourteenth of thirty-two actions of a tathāgata. See also Mahāvvyutpatti 130–34 and the corresponding explanation in the Draḥor Bamponyipa (sgra sbyor bam po gnyis pa); Dayal 1932: pp. 20–21; and Sparham 2012 (IV): pp. 80–81. The four are generally known by other names, as in the Mahāvīyūtpatti: the first is the “fearlessness in the knowledge of all phenomena” (sarvadharmābhisambodhivaiśāradya, chos thams cad mkhyen pa la mi 'jigs pa), which the Buddha achieves for his own benefit; the second is the “fearlessness in the knowledge of the cessation of all contaminants” (sarvāśravakṣayañānavaiśāradya, zag pa zad pa thams cad mkhyen pa la mi 'jigs pa), which the Buddha achieves for his own benefit; the third is the “fearlessness to declare that phenomena that obstruct the path will not engender any further negative outcomes” (anantarāyikadharmānanyathātvaviniścitaavyākaraṇavaiśāradya, bar du gcod pa'i chos rnams gzhan du mi 'gyur bar nges pa'i lung bstan pa la mi 'jigs pa), which the Buddha achieves for others' benefit; and the fourth is the “fearlessness that the path of renunciation through which all excellent attributes are to be obtained has been thus realized” (sarvasampadadhigamāya nairāṇikapratipattathātvavaiśāradya, phun sum tshogs pa thams cad thob par 'gyur bar nges par 'byung ba'i lam de bzhin du gyur ba la mi 'jigs pa), which the Buddha achieves for others' benefit.

The four truths of the noble ones comprise (1) the truth of suffering, (2) the truth of the origin of suffering, (3) the truth of the cessation of suffering, and (4) the truth of the path. (Strictly speaking, these should be translated “the truth of the noble ones concerning suffering,” and so on, but for brevity the widespread short form has been used.)

g.352 four ways to gather a retinue

bsdud ba'i dngos po bzhi

བསྐྱུ་བའི་དངོས་པོ་བཞི།

caturṣaṃgrahavastu

These are (1) generosity (sbyin pa, dāna), (2) pleasant speech (snyan par smra ba, priyavāditā), (3) beneficial activity (don du spyod pa, arthacaryā), and (4) harmonious activity (don 'thun par spyod pa, samānārthatā). The last of these is interpreted in Asaṅga's works to mean “doing oneself what one preaches to others,” but the original meaning in this context according to some sources including the Mahāvastu may have been consonance, or empathy, in the sense of sharing the joys and sorrows of others (see Edgerton p. 569).

g.353 free from activity

dri za

དྲི་ཟ།

gandharva

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A class of generally benevolent nonhuman beings who inhabit the skies, sometimes said to inhabit fantastic cities in the clouds, and more specifically to dwell on the eastern slopes of Mount Meru, where they are ruled by the Great King Dhṛtarāṣṭra. They are most renowned as celestial musicians who serve the gods. In the Abhidharma, the term is also used to refer to the mental body assumed by sentient beings during the intermediate state between death and rebirth. Gandharvas are said to live on fragrances (gandha) in the desire realm, hence the Tibetan translation dri za, meaning “scent eater.”

g.360 Gaṅgā

gang gA

གང་གཱ་རྒྱུང་།

gaṅgā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Gaṅgā, or Ganges in English, is considered to be the most sacred river of India, particularly within the Hindu tradition. It starts in the Himalayas, flows through the northern plains of India, bathing the holy city of Vārāṇasī, and meets the sea at the Bay of Bengal, in Bangladesh. In the sūtras, however, this river is mostly mentioned not for its sacredness but for its abundant sands—noticeable still today on its many sandy banks and at its delta—which serve as a common metaphor for infinitely large numbers.

According to Buddhist cosmology, as explained in the Abhidharmakośa, it is one of the four rivers that flow from Lake Anavatapta and cross the southern continent of Jambudvīpa—the known human world or more specifically the Indian subcontinent.

ནམ་མཁའ་འྲིང་།

garuḍa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Indian mythology, the garuḍa is an eagle-like bird that is regarded as the king of all birds, normally depicted with a sharp, owl-like beak, often holding a snake, and with large and powerful wings. They are traditionally enemies of the nāgas. In the Vedas, they are said to have brought nectar from the heavens to earth. Garuḍa can also be used as a proper name for a king of such creatures.

A meditative stability.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In the most general sense the devas—the term is cognate with the English divine—are a class of celestial beings who frequently appear in Buddhist texts, often at the head of the assemblies of nonhuman beings who attend and celebrate the teachings of the Buddha Śākyamuni and other buddhas and bodhisattvas. In Buddhist cosmology the devas occupy the highest of the five or six “destinies” (gati) of saṃsāra among which beings take rebirth. The devas reside in the devalokas, “heavens” that traditionally number between twenty-six and twenty-eight and are divided between the desire realm (kāmadhātu), form realm (rūpadhātu), and formless realm (ārūpyadhātu). A being attains rebirth among the devas either through meritorious deeds (in the desire realm) or the attainment of subtle meditative states (in the form and formless realms). While rebirth among the devas is considered favorable, it is ultimately a transitory state from which beings will fall when the conditions that lead to rebirth there are exhausted. Thus, rebirth in the god realms is regarded as a diversion from the spiritual path.

g.370 Godānīya

ba lang spyod

བ་ལང་སྤྱོད།

godānīya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the four main continents that surround Sumeru, the central mountain in classical Buddhist cosmology. It is the western continent, characterized as “rich in the resources of cattle,” thus its Tibetan name “using cattle.” It is circular in shape, measuring about 7,500 yojanas in circumference, and is flanked by two subsidiary continents. Humans who live there are very tall, about 24 feet (7.3 meters) on average, and live for 500 years. It is known by the names Godānīya, Aparāntaka, Aparagodānīya, or Aparagoyāna.

rab tu byung ba

རབ་ཏུ་བྱུང་བ། pravalṛt^{AO} · pravrajyā^{AO}

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Sanskrit pravrajyā literally means “going forth,” with the sense of leaving the life of a householder and embracing the life of a renunciant. When the term is applied more technically, it refers to the act of becoming a male novice (śrāmaṇera; dge tshul) or female novice (śrāmaṇerikā; dge tshul ma), this being a first stage leading to full ordination.

ལེན་པ།

upādāna

Ninth of the twelve links of dependent origination.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

This term, although commonly translated as “appropriation,” also means “grasping” or “clinging,” but it has a particular meaning as the ninth of the twelve links of dependent origination, situated between craving (trṣṇā, sred pa) and becoming or existence (bhava, srid pa). In some texts, four types of appropriation (upādāna) are listed: that of desire (rāga), view (dṛṣṭi), rules and observances as paramount (śīlavrataparāmarśa), and belief in a self (ātmavāda).

g.373 great and lofty householder family

g.382 Great Vehicle

theg pa chen po

ཐེག་པ་ཆེན་པོ།

mahāyāna

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

When the Buddhist teachings are classified according to their power to lead beings to an awakened state, a distinction is made between the teachings of the Lesser Vehicle (Hīnayāna), which emphasizes the individual’s own freedom from cyclic existence as the primary motivation and goal, and those of the Great Vehicle (Mahāyāna), which emphasizes altruism and has the liberation of all sentient beings as the principal objective. As the term “Great Vehicle” implies, the path followed by bodhisattvas is analogous to a large carriage that can transport a vast number of people to liberation, as compared to a smaller vehicle for the individual practitioner.

g.424 Jambudvīpa

འཛམ་བུ་གླིང་།

jambudvīpa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The name of the southern continent in Buddhist cosmology, which can signify either the known human world, or more specifically the Indian subcontinent, literally “the jambu island/continent.” Jambu is the name used for a range of plum-like fruits from trees belonging to the genus Syzygium, particularly Syzygium jambos and Syzygium cumini, and it has commonly been rendered “rose apple,” although “black plum” may be a less misleading term. Among various explanations given for the continent being so named, one (in the Abhidharmakośa) is that a jambu tree grows in its northern mountains beside Lake Anavatapta, mythically considered the source of the four great rivers of India, and that the continent is therefore named from the tree or the fruit. Jambudvīpa has the Vajrāsana at its center and is the only continent upon which buddhas attain awakening.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Meaning “action” in its most basic sense, karma is an important concept in Buddhist philosophy as the cumulative force of previous physical, verbal, and mental acts, which determines present experience and will determine future existences.

In this text:

Also translated here as “past action.”

g.433 Kauśika

kau shi ka

ཀོ་ཤི་ཀ།

kauśika

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

“One who belongs to the Kuśika lineage.” An epithet of the god Śakra, also known as Indra, the king of the gods in the Trāyastriṃśa heaven. In the Ṛgveda, Indra is addressed by the epithet Kauśika, with the implication that he is associated with the descendants of the Kuśika lineage (gotra) as their aiding deity. In later epic and Purāṇic texts, we find the story that Indra took birth as Gādhi Kauśika, the son of Kuśika and one of the Vedic poet-seers, after the Puru king Kuśika had performed austerities for one thousand years to obtain a son equal to Indra who could not be killed by others. In the Pāli Kusajātaka (Jāt V 141–45), the Buddha, in one of his former bodhisattva lives as a Trāyastriṃśa god, takes birth as the future king Kusa upon the request of Indra, who wishes to help the childless king of the Mallas, Okkaka, and his chief queen Sīlavatī. This story is also referred to by Nāgasena in the Milindapañha.

g.444 knowledge of all the dharmas

thams cad shes pa · thams cad shes pa nyid

ཐམས་ཅད་ཤེས་པ། · ཐམས་ཅད་ཤེས་པ་ཉིད།

sarvajñatā

Literally “knowledge of all” or “all-knowing,” but here rendered “knowledge of all the dharmas” rather than “omniscience.” In the Prajñāpāramitā literature, this is a technical term that refers to the full extent of knowledge realized by arhats and pratyekabuddhas, comprising particularly their understanding of the absence of a self in the aggregates, sense fields, and sensory elements.

The term might intertextually refer to a discourse found in the Saṃyutta Nikāya/Saṃyuktāgama (SN 35:23/SĀ 319) in which the Buddha describes “the all” as the twelve sense fields. It is the third of the eight main topics or “clear realizations” of The Ornament of Clear Realization.

mārgākārajñatā

A key term in the Prajñāpāramitā texts denoting the form of omniscience ('knowing all') that bodhisattvas progressively attain, the knowledge of all paths, including knowledge not only of their own path but also of the paths of śrāvakas and pratyekabuddhas. However, note that although this term is used with this meaning (and can be glossed as the second of the eight topics elucidated in the Abhisamayālaṅkāra), in the original formulation of the eight topics in the Abhisamayālaṅkāra the term used is simply mārgājñāta (lam shes pa nyid), "knowledge of the paths."

g.507 Maitreya

བྱམས་པ།

maitreya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The bodhisattva Maitreya is an important figure in many Buddhist traditions, where he is unanimously regarded as the buddha of the future era. He is said to currently reside in the heaven of Tuṣita, as Śākyamuni's regent, where he awaits the proper time to take his final rebirth and become the fifth buddha in the Fortunate Eon, reestablishing the Dharma in this world after the teachings of the current buddha have disappeared. Within the Mahāyāna sūtras, Maitreya is elevated to the same status as other central bodhisattvas such as Mañjuśrī and Avalokiteśvara, and his name appears frequently in sūtras, either as the Buddha's interlocutor or as a teacher of the Dharma.

Maitreya literally means "Loving One." He is also known as Ajita, meaning "Invincible."

For more information on Maitreya, see, for example, the introduction to Maitreya's Setting Out (Toh 198).

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the five trees of Indra's paradise, its heavenly flowers often rain down in salutation of the buddhas and bodhisattvas and are said to be very bright and aromatic, gladdening the hearts of those who see them. In our world, it is a tree native to India, Erythrina indica or Erythrina variegata, commonly known as the Indian coral tree, mandarava tree, flame tree, and tiger's claw. In the early spring, before its leaves grow, the tree is fully covered in large flowers, which are rich in nectar and attract many birds. Although the most widespread coral tree has red crimson flowers, the color of the blossoms is not usually mentioned in the sūtras themselves, and it may refer to some other kinds, like the rarer Erythrina indica alba, which boasts white flowers.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Mañjuśrī is one of the “eight close sons of the Buddha” and a bodhisattva who embodies wisdom. He is a major figure in the Mahāyāna sūtras, appearing often as an interlocutor of the Buddha. In his most well-known iconographic form, he is portrayed bearing the sword of wisdom in his right hand and a volume of the Prajñāpāramitāsūtra in his left. To his name, Mañjuśrī, meaning “Gentle and Glorious One,” is often added the epithet Kumārabhūta, “having a youthful form.” He is also called Mañjughoṣa, Mañjusvara, and Pañcaśikha.

In this text:

māra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Māra, literally “death” or “maker of death,” is the name of the deva who tried to prevent the Buddha from achieving awakening, the name given to the class of beings he leads, and also an impersonal term for the destructive forces that keep beings imprisoned in saṃsāra:

(1) As a deva, Māra is said to be the principal deity in the Heaven of Making Use of Others’ Emanations (paranirmitavaśavartin), the highest paradise in the desire realm. He famously attempted to prevent the Buddha’s awakening under the Bodhi tree—see The Play in Full (Toh 95), 21.1—and later sought many times to thwart the Buddha’s activity. In the sūtras, he often also creates obstacles to the progress of śrāvakas and bodhisattvas. (2) The devas ruled over by Māra are collectively called mārakāyika or mārakāyikadevatā, the “deities of Māra’s family or class.” In general, these māras too do not wish any being to escape from saṃsāra, but can also change their ways and even end up developing faith in the Buddha, as exemplified by Sārvavāha; see The Play in Full (Toh 95), 21.14 and 21.43. (3) The term māra can also be understood as personifying four defects that prevent awakening, called (i) the divine māra (devaputramāra), which is the distraction of pleasures; (ii) the māra of Death (mṛtyumāra), which is having one’s life interrupted; (iii) the māra of the aggregates (skandhamāra), which is identifying with the five aggregates; and (iv) the māra of the afflictions (kleśamāra), which is being under the sway of the negative emotions of desire, hatred, and ignorance.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Sanskrit literally means “attainment,” and is used to refer specifically to meditative attainment and to particular meditative states. The Tibetan translators interpreted it as sama-āpatti, which suggests the idea of “equal” or “level”; however, they also parsed it as sam-āpatti, in which case it would have the sense of “concentration” or “absorption,” much like samādhi, but with the added sense of “attainment.”

In this text:

Also rendered here as “absorption.”

samādhi

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In a general sense, samādhi can describe a number of different meditative states. In the Mahāyāna literature, in particular in the Prajñāpāramitā sūtras, we find extensive lists of different samādhis, numbering over one hundred.

In a more restricted sense, and when understood as a mental state, samādhi is defined as the one-pointedness of the mind (cittaikāgratā), the ability to remain on the same object over long periods of time. The Draḥor Bamponyipa (sgra sbyor bam po gnyis pa) commentary on the Mahāvīyutpatti explains the term samādhi as referring to the instrument through which mind and mental states “get collected,” i.e., it is by the force of samādhi that the continuum of mind and mental states becomes collected on a single point of reference without getting distracted.

In this text:

Also included as sixth of the seven branches of enlightenment.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Buddhism more generally, merit refers to the wholesome karmic potential accumulated by someone as a result of positive and altruistic thoughts, words, and actions, which will ripen in the current or future lifetimes as the experience of happiness and well-being. According to the Mahāyāna, it is important to dedicate the merit of one's wholesome actions to the awakening of oneself and to the ultimate and temporary benefit of all sentient beings. Doing so ensures that others also experience the results of the positive actions generated and that the merit is not wasted by ripening in temporary happiness for oneself alone.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A person's particular preceptor within the monastic tradition. They must have at least ten years of standing in the saṅgha, and their role is to confer ordination, to tend to the student, and to provide all the necessary requisites, therefore guiding that person for the taking of full vows and the maintenance of conduct and practice. This office was decreed by the Buddha so that aspirants would not have to receive ordination from the Buddha in person, and the Buddha identified two types: those who grant entry into the renunciate order and those who grant full ordination. The Tibetan translation mkhan po has also come to mean “a learned scholar,” the equivalent of a paṇḍita, but that is not the intended meaning in Indic Buddhist literature.

bhikṣu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The term bhikṣu, often translated as “monk,” refers to the highest among the eight types of prātimokṣa vows that make one part of the Buddhist assembly. The Sanskrit term literally means “beggar” or “mendicant,” referring to the fact that Buddhist monks and nuns—like other ascetics of the time—subsisted on alms (bhikṣā) begged from the laity.

In the Tibetan tradition, which follows the Mūlasarvāstivāda Vinaya, a monk follows 253 rules as part of his moral discipline. A nun (bhikṣuṇī; dge slong ma) follows 364 rules. A novice monk (śrāmaṇera; dge tshul) or nun (śrāmaṇerikā; dge tshul ma) follows thirty-six rules of moral discipline (although in other vinaya traditions novices typically follow only ten).

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

According to ancient Buddhist cosmology, this is the great mountain forming the axis of the universe. At its summit is Sudarśana, home of Śakra and his thirty-two gods, and on its flanks live the asuras. The mount has four sides facing the cardinal directions, each of which is made of a different precious stone. Surrounding it are several mountain ranges and the great ocean where the four principal island continents lie: in the south, Jambudvīpa (our world); in the west, Godānīya; in the north, Uttarakuru; and in the east, Pūrvavideha. Above it are the abodes of the desire realm gods. It is variously referred to as Meru, Mount Meru, Sumeru, and Mount Sumeru.

g.568 nature of reality

ཆོས་ཉིད།

dharmatā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The real nature, true quality, or condition of things. Throughout Buddhist discourse this term is used in two distinct ways. In one, it designates the relative nature that is either the essential characteristic of a specific phenomenon, such as the heat of fire and the moisture of water, or the defining feature of a specific term or category. The other very important and widespread way it is used is to designate the ultimate nature of all phenomena, which cannot be conveyed in conceptual, dualistic terms and is often synonymous with emptiness or the absence of intrinsic existence.

In this text:

Also rendered here as “reality of phenomena.”

mya ngan las 'das pa

ཐུ་རྩོམ་ལས་འདས་པ།

nirvāṇa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Sanskrit, the term nirvāṇa literally means “extinguishment” and the Tibetan mya ngan las ’das pa literally means “gone beyond sorrow.” As a general term, it refers to the cessation of all suffering, afflicted mental states (kleśa), and causal processes (karman) that lead to rebirth and suffering in cyclic existence, as well as to the state in which all such rebirth and suffering has permanently ceased.

More specifically, three main types of nirvāṇa are identified. (1) The first type of nirvāṇa, called nirvāṇa with remainder (sopadhiśeṣanirvāṇa), is the state in which arhats or buddhas have attained awakening but are still dependent on the conditioned aggregates until their lifespan is exhausted. (2) At the end of life, given that there are no more causes for rebirth, these aggregates cease and no new aggregates arise. What occurs then is called nirvāṇa without remainder (anupadhiśeṣanirvāṇa), which refers to the unconditioned element (dhātu) of nirvāṇa in which there is no remainder of the aggregates. (3) The Mahāyāna teachings distinguish the final nirvāṇa of buddhas from that of arhats, the nirvāṇa of arhats not being considered ultimate. The buddhas attain what is called nonabiding nirvāṇa (apratiṣṭhitanirvāṇa), which transcends the extremes of saṃsāra and nirvāṇa, i.e., existence and peace. This is the nirvāṇa that is the goal of the Mahāyāna path.

'phags pa

འཕགས་པ།

ārya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Sanskrit ārya has the general meaning of a noble person, one of a higher class or caste. In Buddhist literature, depending on the context, it often means specifically one who has gained the realization of the path and is superior for that reason. In particular, it applies to stream enterers, once-returners, non-returners, and worthy ones (arhats) and is also used as an epithet of bodhisattvas. In the five-path system, it refers to someone who has achieved at least the path of seeing (darśanamārga).

bhikṣuṇī

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The term bhikṣuṇī, often translated as “nun,” refers to the highest among the eight types of prātimokṣa vows that make one part of the Buddhist assembly.

The Sanskrit term bhikṣu (to which the female grammatical ending ṇī is added) literally means “beggar” or “mendicant,” referring to the fact that Buddhist nuns and monks—like other ascetics of the time—subsisted on alms (bhikṣā) begged from the laity. In the Tibetan tradition, which follows the Mūlasarvāstivāda Vinaya, a bhikṣuṇī follows 364 rules and a bhikṣu follows 253 rules as part of their moral discipline.

For the first few years of the Buddha’s teachings in India, there was no ordination for women. It started at the persistent request and display of determination of Mahāprajāpatī, the Buddha’s stepmother and aunt, together with five hundred former wives of men of Kapilavastu, who had themselves become monks. Mahāprajāpatī is thus considered to be the founder of the nun’s order.

g.624 Patient Endurance

mi mjed

མི་མཇེད།

sahā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The name for our world system, the universe of a thousand million worlds, or trichiliocosm, in which the four-continent world is located. Each trichiliocosm is ruled by a god Brahmā; thus, in this context, he bears the title of Sahāṃpati, Lord of Sahā. The world system of Sahā, or Sahālokaadhātu, is also described as the buddhafiield of the Buddha Śākyamuni where he teaches the Dharma to beings.

The name Sahā possibly derives from the Sanskrit √sah, “to bear, endure, or withstand.” It is often interpreted as alluding to the inhabitants of this world being able to endure the suffering they encounter. The Tibetan translation, mi mjed, follows along the same lines. It literally means “not painful,” in the sense that beings here are able to bear the suffering they experience.

རང་སངས་རྒྱས།

pratyekabuddha

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Literally, “buddha for oneself” or “solitary realizer.” Someone who, in his or her last life, attains awakening entirely through their own contemplation, without relying on a teacher. Unlike the awakening of a fully realized buddha (samyaksambuddha), the accomplishment of a pratyekabuddha is not regarded as final or ultimate. They attain realization of the nature of dependent origination, the selflessness of the person, and a partial realization of the selflessness of phenomena, by observing the suchness of all that arises through interdependence. This is the result of progress in previous lives but, unlike a buddha, they do not have the necessary merit, compassion or motivation to teach others. They are named as “rhinoceros-like” (khadḡgaviṣāṇakalpa) for their preference for staying in solitude or as “congregators” (vargacārin) when their preference is to stay among peers.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The ancient capital of Magadha prior to its relocation to Pāṭaliputra during the Mauryan dynasty, Rājagṛha is one of the most important locations in Buddhist history. The literature tells us that the Buddha and his saṅgha spent a considerable amount of time in residence in and around Rājagṛha—in nearby places, such as the Vulture Peak Mountain (Gṛdhrakūṭapārvata), a major site of the Mahāyāna sūtras, and the Bamboo Grove (Veṇuvana)—enjoying the patronage of King Bimbisāra and then of his son King Ajātaśatru. Rājagṛha is also remembered as the location where the first Buddhist monastic council was held after the Buddha Śākyamuni passed into parinirvāṇa. Now known as Rajgir and located in the modern Indian state of Bihar.

g.704 reality of phenomena

chos nyid

ཆོས་ཉིད།

dharmatā

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The real nature, true quality, or condition of things. Throughout Buddhist discourse this term is used in two distinct ways. In one, it designates the relative nature that is either the essential characteristic of a specific phenomenon, such as the heat of fire and the moisture of water, or the defining feature of a specific term or category. The other very important and widespread way it is used is to designate the ultimate nature of all phenomena, which cannot be conveyed in conceptual, dualistic terms and is often synonymous with emptiness or the absence of intrinsic existence.

In this text:

Also rendered here as “nature of reality.”

g.706 realm of desire

*’dod pa’i kham*s

འདོད་པའི་ཁམས།

kāmadhātu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

In Buddhist cosmology, this is our own realm, the lowest and most coarse of the three realms of saṃsāra. It is called this because beings here are characterized by their strong longing for and attachment to the pleasures of the senses. The desire realm includes hell beings, hungry ghosts, animals, humans, asuras, and the lowest six heavens of the gods—from the Heaven of the Four Great Kings (cāturmahārājika) up to the Heaven of Making Use of Others’ Emanations (paranirmitavaśavartin). Located above the desire realm is the form realm (rūpadhātu) and the formless realm (ārūpyadhātu).

g.707 realm of form

*gzugs kyi kham*s

གཟུགས་ཀྱི་ཁམས།

rūpadhātu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the three realms of saṃsāra in Buddhist cosmology, it is characterized by subtle materiality. Here beings, though subtly embodied, are not driven primarily by the urge for sense gratification. It consists of seventeen heavens structured according to the four concentrations of the form realm (rūpāvacaradhyāna), the highest five of which are collectively called “pure abodes” (śuddhāvāsa). The form realm is located above the desire realm (kāmadhātu) and below the formless realm (ārūpyadhātu).

gzugs med pa'i kham

གཟུགས་མེད་པའི་ཁམས།

ārūpyadhātu

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The highest and subtlest of the three realms of saṃsāra in Buddhist cosmology. Here beings are no longer bound by materiality and enjoy a purely mental state of absorption. It is divided in four levels according to each of the four formless concentrations (ārūpyāvacaradhyāna), namely, the Sphere of Infinite Space (ākāśānantyāyatana), the Sphere of Infinite Consciousness (viññānānantyāyatana), the Sphere of Nothingness (akiñcanyāyatana), and the Sphere of Neither Perception nor Non-perception (naivasaṃjñānāsaṃjñāyatana). The formless realm is located above the other two realms of saṃsāra, the form realm (rūpadhātu) and the desire realm (kāmadhātu).

Seventh of the twelve links of dependent origination. Also translated here as “feelings.”

skye mched

སྐྱེ་མཆེད།

āyatana

The subjective and objective poles of sense perception. The fifth of the twelve links of dependent origination.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

These can be listed as twelve or as six sense sources (sometimes also called sense fields, bases of cognition, or simply āyatanas).

In the context of epistemology, it is one way of describing experience and the world in terms of twelve sense sources, which can be divided into inner and outer sense sources, namely: (1–2) eye and form, (3–4) ear and sound, (5–

6) nose and odor, (7–8) tongue and taste, (9–10) body and touch, (11–12) mind and mental phenomena.

In the context of the twelve links of dependent origination, only six sense sources are mentioned, and they are the inner sense sources (identical to the six faculties) of eye, ear, nose, tongue, body, and mind.

These are (1) the branch of enlightenment that is correct mindfulness, (2) the branch of enlightenment that is correct analysis of phenomena, (3) the branch of enlightenment that is correct perseverance, (4) the branch of enlightenment that is correct delight, (5) the branch of enlightenment that is correct pliability, (6) the branch of enlightenment that is correct meditative stability, and (7) the branch of enlightenment that is correct equanimity.

stong pa nyid bdun po

སྔོང་པ་ཉིད་བདུན་པོ།

As found in Ghoṣa, p. 138; Bṭ1, p. 758; and Bṭ3, 4.259, they are the emptinesses of seven separate groups—aggregates, sensory elements, sense fields, truths of the noble ones, dependent origination, all conditioned phenomena, and all unconditioned dharmas. (Alternatively, the last two are all phenomena, and then all conditioned and unconditioned phenomena; Toh 3808 renders these “all compounded phenomena, and all uncompounded dharmas.”) Zacchetti, 21r3, says “ten emptinesses,” but a flaw in the material of the MS may have distracted the scribe at this point.

g.778 seven precious materials

rin po che sna bdun

རིན་པོ་ཆེ་སྟུ་བདུན།

saptaratna

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The set of seven precious materials or substances includes a range of precious metals and gems, but their exact list varies. The set often consists of gold, silver, beryl, crystal, red pearls, emeralds, and white coral, but may also contain lapis lazuli, ruby, sapphire, chrysoberyl, diamonds, etc. The term is frequently used in the sūtras to exemplify preciousness, wealth, and beauty, and can describe treasures, offering materials, or the features of architectural structures such as stūpas, palaces, thrones, etc. The set is also used to describe the beauty and prosperity of buddha realms and the realms of the gods.

In other contexts, the term saptaratna can also refer to the seven precious possessions of a cakravartin or to a set of seven precious moral qualities.

g.779 seven riches

mtshan ma

མཚན་མ།

nimitta

A sign or feature of an object which serves as the basis for its being generically named and thus conceptually categorized. A sign is usually imagined rather than being a real attribute of the object, and perception that operates by identifying distinguishing signs is therefore what defines coarse conceptuality. In some contexts nimitta can be translated as “mental image.”

g.783 signlessness

mtshan ma med pa · mtshan ma myed pa

མཚན་མ་མེད་པ། · མཚན་མ་མྱེད་པ།

animitta

The ultimate absence of marks and signs in perceived objects. One of the three gateways to liberation; the other two are emptiness and wishlessness.

g.784 signlessness as a gateway to liberation

ཕ་རོལ་ཏུ་ཕྱིན་པ་རྒྱལ།

ṣaṭpāramitā

The practice of the six perfections, comprising generosity, ethical discipline, tolerance, perseverance, meditative concentration, and wisdom, is the foundation of the entire bodhisattva path. These six are known as “perfections” when they are motivated by an altruistic intention to attain full enlightenment for the sake of all beings.

g.793 six principles of being liked

ལྟ་བའི་རྣམ་པ་རྒྱལ་ཅུ་ཙ་གཉིས།

dvāṣaṣṭidṛṣṭīkṛtāni

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The sixty-two false views, as enumerated in the Brahmajālasūtra (tshangs pa'i dra ba'i mdo, Toh 352), comprise eighteen speculations concerning the past, based on theories of eternalism, partial eternalism, extensionism, endless equivocation, and fortuitous origination, as well as forty-four speculations concerning the future, based on percipient immortality, non-percipient immortality, neither percipient nor non-percipient immortality, annihilationism, and the immediate attainment of nirvāṇa in the present life.

ཐབས།

upāya

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The concept of skillful or expedient means is central to the understanding of the Buddha’s enlightened deeds and the many scriptures that are revealed contingent on the needs, interests, and mental dispositions of specific types of individuals. It is, therefore, equated with compassion and the form body of the buddhas, the rūpakāya.

According to the Great Vehicle, training in skillful means collectively denotes the first five of the six perfections when integrated with wisdom, the sixth perfection. It is therefore paired with wisdom (prajñā), forming the two indispensable aspects of the path. It is also the seventh of the ten perfections. (Provisional 84000 definition. New definition forthcoming.)

sāhasralokadhātu

A universe comprising one thousand world systems each with its four continents etc., according to traditional Indian cosmology. The Tibetan term byur bu that forms part of the term used in this text, and also means “brimful,” may be a rendering of Skt. cūlakabaddha with the sense of this first-order world system being “bound,” i.e., relatively compact or limited when compared to the second- and third-order universes.

A spiritual teacher who can contribute to an individual's progress on the spiritual path to enlightenment and act wholeheartedly for the welfare of students.

ཉན་ཐོས།

śrāvaka

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Sanskrit term śrāvaka, and the Tibetan nyan thos, both derived from the verb “to hear,” are usually defined as “those who hear the teaching from the Buddha and make it heard to others.” Primarily this refers to those disciples of the Buddha who aspire to attain the state of an arhat seeking their own liberation and nirvāṇa. They are the practitioners of the first turning of the wheel of the Dharma on the four noble truths, who realize the suffering inherent in saṃsāra and focus on understanding that there is no independent self. By conquering afflicted mental states (kleśa), they liberate themselves, attaining first the stage of stream enterers at the path of seeing, followed by the stage of once-returners who will be reborn only one more time, and then the stage of non-returners who will no longer be reborn into the desire realm. The final goal is to become an arhat. These four stages are also known as the “four results of spiritual practice.”

g.809 Śreṇika

phreng ba can

ཕྱེང་བ་ཅན།

śreṇika

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A mendicant whose encounter with the Buddha and acceptance of him as the tathāgata features in the Prajñāpāramitā sūtras as evidence that the Buddha’s omniscience is not something to be understood through signs or characteristics. Also known as Śreṇika Vatsagotra.

The three different renderings of his name in Tibetan—sde can, phreng ba can, and bzo sbyangs (which may correspond to Skt. Seniṣka, Prakniṣka, and Śaniṣka)—are taken as markers for three different Tibetan translations of the Aṣṭasāhasrikāprajñāpāramitā, as mentioned in the catalog of the Phukdrak (phug brag) Kangyur and the Thamphü (tham phud) of the Fifth Dalai Lama, Ngawang Lozang Gyatso.

g.810 śrīvatsa

dpal gyi be’u

དཔལ་གྱི་བེ་ལུ།

śrīvatsa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Literally “the favorite of the glorious one,” or (as translated into Tibetan) “the calf of the glorious one.” This is an auspicious mark that in Indian Buddhism was said to be formed from a curl of hair on the breast and was depicted in a shape that resembles the fleur-de-lis. In Tibet it is usually represented as an eternal knot. It is also one of the principal attributes of Viṣṇu. Together with the svastika and nandyāvarta, it forms the eightieth minor sign or mark of a buddha and other great beings (mahāpuruṣa).

mchod rten

མཆོད་རྟེན།

stūpa

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

The Tibetan translates both stūpa and caitya with the same word, mchod rten, meaning “basis” or “recipient” of “offerings” or “veneration.” Pali: cetiya.

A caitya, although often synonymous with stūpa, can also refer to any site, sanctuary or shrine that is made for veneration, and may or may not contain relics.

A stūpa, literally “heap” or “mound,” is a mounded or circular structure usually containing relics of the Buddha or the masters of the past. It is considered to be a sacred object representing the awakened mind of a buddha, but the symbolism of the stūpa is complex, and its design varies throughout the Buddhist world. Stūpas continue to be erected today as objects of veneration and merit making.

g.854 tathāgata

de bzhin gshegs pa

དེ་བཞིན་གཤེགས་པ།

tathāgata

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A frequently used synonym for buddha. According to different explanations, it can be read as tathā-gata, literally meaning “one who has thus gone,” or as tathā-āgata, “one who has thus come.” Gata, though literally meaning “gone,” is a past passive participle used to describe a state or condition of existence. Tatha(tā), often rendered as “suchness” or “thusness,” is the quality or condition of things as they really are, which cannot be conveyed in conceptual, dualistic terms. Therefore, this epithet is interpreted in different ways, but in general it implies one who has departed in the wake of the buddhas of the past, or one who has manifested the supreme awakening dependent on the reality that does not abide in the two extremes of existence and quiescence. It is also often used as a specific epithet of the Buddha Śākyamuni.

g.855 ten directions

sa bcu

There are two sets of ten levels mentioned in the Prajñāpāramitā literature. One is the same as that found in many other scriptures such as the Ten Bhūmis (Toh 44-31) of the Buddhāvataṃsaka. These are (1) Perfect Joy (pramuditā), (2) Stainless (vimalā), (3) Shining (prabhākarī), (4) Brilliance (arciṣmatī), (5) Difficult to Conquer (sudurjayā), (6) Manifested (abhimukhī), (7) Gone Far (dūraṃgamā), (8) Unwavering (acalā), (9) Perfect Understanding (sādhumatī), and (10) Cloud of Dharma (dharmameghā).

The other set of ten levels comprise (1) the level of bright insight or level of ordinary people, (2) the level of the spiritual family, (3) the eighth level, (4) the level of insight, (5) the level of attenuated refinement, (6) the level of no attachment, (7) the level of spiritual achievement (of śrāvakas / arhats), (8) the level of the pratyekabuddhas, (9) the level of the bodhisattvas, and (10) the actual level of the buddhas. (See also Twenty-Five Thousand, n.316).

mu stegs can

མུ་སྟེགས་ཅན།

tīrthika

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Those of other religious or philosophical orders, contemporary with the early Buddhist order, including Jains, Jāṭilas, Ājīvikas, and Cārvākas. Tīrthika (“ford”) literally translates as “one belonging to or associated with (possessive suffix -ika) stairs for landing or for descent into a river,” or “a bathing place,” or “a place of pilgrimage on the banks of sacred streams” (Monier-Williams). The term may have originally referred to temple priests at river crossings or fords where travelers propitiated a deity before crossing. The Sanskrit term seems to have undergone metonymic transfer in referring to those able to ford the turbulent river of saṃsāra (as in the Jain tīrthaṅkaras, “ford makers”), and it came to be used in Buddhist sources to refer to teachers of rival religious traditions. The Sanskrit term is closely rendered by the Tibetan mu stegs pa: “those on the steps (stegs pa) at the edge (mu).”

g.889 tolerance

བཟོད་པ།

kṣānti

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A term meaning acceptance, forbearance, or patience. As the third of the six perfections, patience is classified into three kinds: the capacity to tolerate abuse from sentient beings, to tolerate the hardships of the path to buddhahood, and to tolerate the profound nature of reality. As a term referring to a bodhisattva’s realization, dharmakṣānti (chos la bzod pa) can refer to the ways one becomes “receptive” to the nature of Dharma, and it can be an abbreviation of anutpattikadharmakṣānti, “forbearance for the unborn nature, or nonproduction, of dharmas.”

jñāna ^{AD}

Although the Sanskrit term jñāna can refer to knowledge in a general sense, it is often used in Buddhist texts to refer to the mode of awareness of a realized being. In contrast to ordinary knowledge, which mistakenly perceives phenomena as real entities having real properties, transcendental knowledge perceives the emptiness of phenomena, their lack of intrinsic essence. It is often translated as “pristine awareness,” “primordial wisdom,” “primordial awareness,” “gnosis,” or the like.

Also rendered here simply as “knowledge.”

g.901 Tuṣita

dga' ldan

དགའ་ལྡན།

tuṣita

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

Tuṣita (or sometimes Saṃtuṣita), literally “Joyous” or “Contented,” is one of the six heavens of the desire realm (kāmadhātu). In standard classifications, such as the one in the Abhidharmakośa, it is ranked as the fourth of the six counting from below. This god realm is where all future buddhas are said to dwell before taking on their final rebirth prior to awakening. There, the Buddha Śākyamuni lived his preceding life as the bodhisattva Śvetaketu. When departing to take birth in this world, he appointed the bodhisattva Maitreya, who will be the next buddha of this eon, as his Dharma regent in Tuṣita. For an account of the Buddha’s previous life in Tuṣita, see The Play in Full (Toh 95), 2.12, and for an account of Maitreya’s birth in Tuṣita and a description of this realm, see The Sūtra on Maitreya’s Birth in the Heaven of Joy, (Toh 199).

Unconditioned phenomena are defined in 5.173 as those which are nonarising, nondwelling, and nonperishing, while the Ten Thousand (2.82) adds nontransformation with respect to all things, the cessation of desire, the cessation of hatred, the cessation of delusion, the abiding of phenomena in the real nature, reality, the realm of phenomena, maturity with respect to all things, the real nature, the unmistaken real nature, the one and only real nature, and the finality of existence. Although the Prajñāpāramitā analysis ultimately places all phenomena in this category, that analysis derives its force by contrasting with the way in which the various Abhidharma traditions classify the unconditioned, principally including nirvāṇa and in some cases space and certain kinds of cessation. See also n.129.

vajra

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

This term generally indicates indestructibility and stability. In the sūtras, vajra most often refers to the hardest possible physical substance, said to have divine origins. In some scriptures, it is also the name of the all-powerful weapon of Indra, which in turn is crafted from vajra material. In the tantras, the vajra is sometimes a scepter-like ritual implement, but the term can also take on other esoteric meanings.

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

One of the standard epithets of the buddhas. A recurrent explanation offers three different meanings for su- that are meant to show the special qualities of “accomplishment of one’s own purpose” (svārthasampad) for a complete buddha. Thus, the Sugata is “well” gone, as in the expression su-rūpa (“having a good form”); he is gone “in a way that he shall not come back,” as in the expression su-naṣṭa-jvara (“a fever that has utterly gone”); and he has gone “without any remainder” as in the expression su-pūrṇa-ghaṭa (“a pot that is completely full”). According to Buddhaghoṣa, the term means that the way the Buddha went (Skt. gata) is good (Skt. su) and where he went (Skt. gata) is good (Skt. su).

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

An ideal monarch or emperor who, as the result of the merit accumulated in previous lifetimes, rules over a vast realm in accordance with the Dharma. Such a monarch is called a cakravartin because he bears a wheel (cakra) that rolls (vartate) across the earth, bringing all lands and kingdoms under his power. The cakravartin conquers his territory without causing harm, and his activity causes beings to enter the path of wholesome actions. According to Vasubandhu’s Abhidharmakośa, just as with the buddhas, only one cakravartin appears in a world system at any given time. They are likewise endowed with the thirty-two major marks of a great being (mahāpuruṣalakṣaṇa), but a cakravartin’s marks are outshined by those of a buddha. They possess seven precious objects: the wheel, the elephant, the horse, the wish-fulfilling gem, the queen, the general, and the minister. An illustrative passage about the cakravartin and his possessions can be found in The Play in Full (Toh 95), 3.3–3.13.

Vasubandhu lists four types of cakravartins: (1) the cakravartin with a golden wheel (suvarṇacakravartin) rules over four continents and is invited by lesser kings to be their ruler; (2) the cakravartin with a silver wheel (rūpyacakravartin) rules over three continents and his opponents submit to him as he approaches; (3) the cakravartin with a copper wheel (tāmracakravartin) rules over two continents and his opponents submit themselves after preparing for battle; and (4) the cakravartin with an iron wheel (ayaścakravartin) rules over one continent and his opponents submit themselves after brandishing weapons.

In the context of the perfections, wisdom is the sixth of the six perfections. The translation of prajñā (shes rab) by “wisdom” here defers to the precedent established by Edward Conze in his writings. It has a certain poetic resonance which more accurate renderings—“discernment,” “discriminative awareness,” or “intelligence”—unfortunately lack. It should be remembered that in Abhidharma, prajñā is classed as one of the five object-determining mental states (pañcaviṣayaniyata, yul nges lnga), alongside “will,” “resolve,” “mindfulness,” and “meditative stability.” Following Asaṅga’s Abhidharma-samuccaya, Jamgon Kongtrul (The Treasury of Knowledge, Book 6, Pt. 2, p. 498), defines prajñā as “the discriminative awareness that analyzes specific and general characteristics.” See also “perfection of wisdom.”

Definition from the 84000 Glossary of Terms:

A class of nonhuman beings who inhabit forests, mountainous areas, and other natural spaces, or serve as guardians of villages and towns, and may be propitiated for health, wealth, protection, and other boons, or controlled through magic. According to tradition, their homeland is in the north, where they live under the rule of the Great King Vaiśravaṇa.

Several members of this class have been deified as gods of wealth (these include the just-mentioned Vaiśravaṇa) or as bodhisattva generals of yakṣa armies, and have entered the Buddhist pantheon in a variety of forms, including, in tantric Buddhism, those of wrathful deities.
